Probabilities

Fresh or strong west to northwest winds; partly cloudy and quite cold tonight and Tuesday with light snowfalls or flurries. Wednesday — Decidedly cold.

The Ontario Intelligencer

★ ★ BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO MONDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1940

Temperatures

	Max.	Min.
Today....	23	6b
One year ago	46	40.2

Snowfall since Saturday—11 ins.
Weather—Partly cloudy.

FOUR NAZI DIVISIONS ENROUTE TO RUMANIA

SOUTH ENGLAND BEARS BRUNT OF NIGHT RAIDS

Subs, Air Raiders Believed Active in Atlantic

Eight Nazi Planes Shot Down as RAF Intercepts Raiders

Casualties Not Heavy Although Many Buildings Demolished By High Explosives

London, Dec. 2 (CP)—Southampton again was singled out by German air raiders last night as the "main objective" of their aerial onslaughts on Britain.

An official communique, announcing that Southampton, once the main port of call for trans-Atlantic liners, was the principal target of raiders for the second successive night, said "a number of fires were caused, but they were all under control by daybreak."

Casualties were expected to be lighter than in the violent onslaught on Southampton Saturday night, when the port, 80 miles southwest of London, had its worst attack of the war.

Enemy aircraft were reported in the vicinity of Liverpool this afternoon.

The Press Association reported that at least two German raiders were shot down today in air battles above the Channel.

The fighting raged over the Channel and along the southeastern coast after British fighters intercepted squadrons of Messerschmitt 109's.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

ITALY FEELS FOOD PINCH

Rome, Dec. 2 (AP).— Spaghetti, flour and rice were added to Italy's list of rationed food products, effective today.

Consumers will be permitted to buy a total of two kilograms (about 4½ pounds) of these products per month.

Restaurants were forbidden to serve spaghetti or rice Tuesdays and Saturdays. Other days these dishes may be served only at one meal.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Dec. 2. — (CP)— The weather has become colder over Ontario over the week end with snow in many districts. It has been decidedly cold over the Prairie Provinces with light snowfalls in Alberta.

PLACE:	8 a.m.	High Yest'dy	Low During Night
Victoria	46	46	46
Vancouver	46	46	44
Calgary..	zero	13	1b
Edmonton.. . .	2	1b	4b
Winnipeg.. . ..	14b	2	16b
S.S. Marie . ..	7	19	.7
Toronto.	20	24	13
Ottawa	3b	12	5b
Quebec.. . . .	4b	24	6b
Halifax.	20	47	20
Detroit..	22	27	20
New York	21	51	21

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

How air is cooled! Everyone knows that the sun was highest on June 21, and that even after that date the temperature of the air rose; also that the sun will be lowest about December 21, after which it will continue to grow colder. How does the air lose its heat? This occurs when the agencies that warm it are not as powerful as those that cool it. The air cools by radiating its warmth to space and to the colder earth, by conduction to the cold earth and by mixing. That is, colder air coming from the north either mixes with it or replaces it.

WILHELMSHAVEN NAVAL STATION BOMBED BY RAF

Gas Works at Asbjerg, Denmark, Bombed, Explosions and Fire Follow

GREEKS FEARED TRAP

Submarine Base and Naval Docks at Lorient and Power Station at Brest Raided

London, Dec. 2 (CP)—British bombers raided the German navy's shipbuilding yards at the naval base of Wilhelmshaven last night, the Air Ministry announced today.

Germany's shipyards, especially those in which submarines are believed to be under construction, have been the targets for several British raids recently. The Ministry's announcement said:

"Last night our bombers made attacks on the naval shipbuilding yards at Wilhelmshaven, all our aircraft returned safely."

The submarine base and naval docks at Lorient and the power station, jetty and drydocks at Brest were attacked, as well as a military camp at Kristiansand, Norway where bombs fell among the barracks buildings and warehouses on the quayside.

"Another aircraft of the coastal command made a successful attack on the gas works at Asbjerg, in Denmark," a communique said. "An explosion followed the bombing and flames covered the whole area."

The Air Ministry news service said a large number of submarines were under construction at the Marinewerft yard, Wilhelmshaven plant which it describes as having six drydocks.

Although visibility was not good, the R.A.F. fliers observed "a large fire . . . well within the limits of the shipbuilding yards where a showers of incendiaries fell."

The service said they reported also seeing five bursts on factory buildings between Kanal Hafen and Tirpitz Hafen "when high explosive bombs went down."

COLLAPSES IN PULPIT

Cornwall, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP)—Rev. R. W. Paton, pastor of Knox United Church here, collapsed in the pulpit while delivering his morning sermon Sunday and died an hour later.

Ordained to the ministry in 1928, Dr. Paton held several other pastorates before coming here last August 2 from Kingston, Ontario, presbytery.

A native of Flesherton, Dr. Paton is survived by his widow and an infant son, Allan Muir Paton. Miss Mary Paton of Toronto, is a sister.

BRITISH ARMIES MAY CARRY FIGHT TO AXIS IN EAST

Experts Believe Hitler Will Have to Go to Aid of Italy Within Next Week

EXTREME CAUTION SEEN

Any Move by the Axis in Grecian Sector Will Bring Counter Move by Britain

By EDWARD KENNEDY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Cairo, Dec. 2 (AP)—Increased British operations in the Grecian war sector were predicted today by observers in Egypt who expressed the belief Britain's armies would carry the fight to the Axis in Southeastern Europe.

These observers said they believed Hitler would have to go to Mussolini's aid within the next week or two if Italian reinforcements pouring into Albania failed to turn the tide battle with the Greeks and regain prestige the Italians lost when their attempted invasion of Greece backfired.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

EXPLOSION KILLS FOUR WORKMEN

Ton of Dynamite Blows Up in Mixing Plant in Tacoma, Washington

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 2—(AP)—Four men were killed today by the mysterious explosion of a ton of dynamite in the mixing plant of the Columbia Powder Company, 15 miles south of here.

J. A. Denn, plant manager, said parts of the bodies of four men had been found. The blast blew the mixing plant to bits and identification of the bodies will be extremely difficult, the manager added.

He said it was possible other men were in the plant.

Company officials refused to discuss the blast but Under-Sheriff Clyde Knowles said the coroner had been sent to the blast scene after the company revealed that four men were working in the building.

The blast destroyed but one building, the mixing plant, which was isolated from offices and storage structures.

The explosion occurred shortly after the men went to work.

Identity of the men in the building was not disclosed.

"The company is withholding their names pending arrival of the coroner and a more complete identification by company officials," Knowles said.

EXCAVATORS FIND BODIES

Madrid, Dec. 2 — (AP) — Two bodies which may be those of the great Spanish painter, Diego Rodriquez de Silva Y Velazquez, and his wife, were found Saturday by excavators in the Plaza de Ramales, Madrid, where the ancient church of San Juan once stood. Velazques' remains were buried in a vault of the church in 1660 and the body of his wife placed beside him eight days later. The French destroyed the church in 1811.

Autopsy on Man of 2010 B. C. Shows Early Embalming More Perfect

New York, Dec. 2 (AP) — An autopsy on a man almost 4,000 years old has been completed.

He was Wah, an Egyptian nobleman of the 11th dynasty who was wrapped up in 2010 B.C.

The autopsy, performed by Dr. Harry L. Shapiro, curator of anthropology of the American Museum of Natural History, disclosed Wah was five feet two inches tall and about 30 years old when he died.

The brain, heart, stomach and other organs were intact, indicating that greater pains and more time was taken in preparing mummies in the days of Wah than in later times," said Dr. Shapiro.

Wah's only compensation for being disturbed was a new outfit. They took away his cloth wrap-around and gave him a new cellophane jacket.

Distress Signals From 5 Ships Report Torpedo, Air Attacks

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Undersea and aircraft raiders were believed to have attacked a convoy of British vessels about 400 miles west of Ireland last night and early today. Apparently 10 vessels were attacked.

Repeated distress signals picked up here by MacKay radio indicated the raiders were following the vessels in an eastward zig-zag chase which lasted for more than five hours.

Full details were lacking, but radio listeners heard distress calls from at least five vessels early today in addition to five other previously reported, all from the same general vicinity.

The chase was indicated as covering a course of about 250 miles which led to the belief in marine circles that the attacking vessels included a German auxiliary cruiser.

Several of the stricken vessels reported submarine attacks and others said they were being bombed by aircraft. There was no indication of the number of raiders.

Marine circles said submarines cannot cover 250 miles in five hours—the indicated length of the attack—and concluded the raiders were numerous

The calls for help did not say in which direction the convoy was bound. There were some indications, from the positions messaged by the ships, that they were attempting to reach the Irish coast.

The positions given by the vessels covered a rough rectangle running eastward from the position of the first attack, a rectangle about 240 nautical miles long and perhaps 120 miles wide.

The first news of the attack was picked up from the S. S. Glanely, 5,497-ton British steamship about 4:15 a.m. EDT. She was among at least three British vessels which first reported trouble.

One Yugoslav ship, the 1,973-ton Cetvrti, reported she was attacked by aircraft.

The 12,247-ton Victor Ross, owned by the British Mexican Petroleum Company, radioed that a submarine had torpedoed her about 400 miles west of Dublin. The 4,958-ton British steamship Loch Ranza reported she was torpedoed and was sinking about 400 miles west of northern Ireland. She reported she had the shipwrecked crew of another vessel aboard.

The 276-ton British trawler Kilgerran Castle radioed she was being bombed by aircraft 35 miles southwest of Kinsalehead, Ireland.

An unidentified vessel possibly one which previously reported herself in distress, signalled she was in trouble about 450 miles west of the north Irish coast.

SOME CRAFTSMEN IN CASF MAY GO BACK TO INDUSTRY

Men in Canada and Newfoundland Will Help Production at Least Until Spring

INDUSTRIES DEFINED

Ottawa, Dec. 2—CP)—The Department of National Defence has cleared the way for temporary return to certain designated industries of some skilled craftsmen now serving with the Canadian Active Service Force in Canada and Newfoundland.

The Defence Department issued a statement last night saying the move was aimed at increasing war production during the winter.

A memorandum has been sent to all district officers commanding, to the general officers commanding the Atlantic and Pacific commands and to other officers concerned, the statement said. In part, the memorandum said:

"It has been decided to allow key men from essential industries in Canada, who are serving in the C.A.S.F., to be granted leave (without pay) during the forthcoming winter to return, temporarily, to those industries in order to help increase production in relation to the war effort."

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Britain Negotiates For 360 Vessels to Cost $750,000,000

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Wall Street Journal said today representatives of the British government in the United States are negotiating plans for a program of building about 360 merchant ships in United States shipyards at cost of about $750,000,000.

The program the newspaper said, may rival the "Bridge of Ships" built by the United States Shipping Board during the first Great War. Trade interests were quoted as saying the plan would involve the construction of four to seven new yards, probably located on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts as far removed as possible from the present shipyards in order to prevent labor shortages.

CASF IN ENGLAND MAY BE THROWN INTO NEAR EAST

Final Decision May be Made After Conference of Canadian Officers With Minister of Defence

IDEA ONCE OPPOSED

By SAM ROBERTSON,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 2—(CP Cable)—The Canadians may be thrown into Britain's increasingly important campaign in the near east.

They are rated among the hardest striking formations in the Allies' growing army and many strategists believe power should be concentrated in the Mediterranean sector in an effort to beat Mussolini to his knees.

Nothing has been decided one way or the other but it is learned that a final decision regarding the disposition of the Canadians may be expected as a result of the visit of Hon. J. L. Ralston, Canadian Minister of National Defence and Maj.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, chief of the Canadian General Staff, to the United Kingdom.

The minister and the chief of staff will have opportunity for all-embracing conversations with Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Corps Commander, the Commanders of the 1st and 2nd Canadian Divisions and British military and government leaders.

Idea Once Opposed

It is understood that for a time high Canadian officers opposed the idea of moving the Canucks to the Mediterranean from the British home front. They were said to have reasoned the war would be won or lost when Germany's grey hordes attempted to invade the United Kingdom or when Britain's offensive thrust was aimed from the British Isles at the heart of Germany.

It is now reliably reported that these views were altered by the recent change in the Mediterranean picture wrought by the Royal Navy's pummelling of the Italian fleet and the surprising successes of the Greeks against Mussolini's army.

Some Canadian officers are worried over the prospect of the troops becoming restive if forced to sit through another winter of inactivity. Most of the 1st Division has been here almost a year.

1st Division on Coastal Defence.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

5,000 ITALIANS REPORTED TAKEN BY GREEK ARMY

Capture of Italians Came After Fascist Leader Sent Message He Was Ready to Surrender

RAF BOMBS BARRACKS

Italian Columns Abandoned Their Positions Leaving Large Quantities of Equipment

By MAX HARRELSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Athens, Dec. 2 (AP)—Capture of 5,000 Italians, the largest mass of prisoners yet taken by the Greek army, was announced today from the northern front.

Their surrender, dispatches said, was the signal for a general retreat of other Italian forces in the area, leaving a huge gap in the Fascist centre.

Fresh Italian troops sent up to bolster sagging defence lines earlier had been reported being smashed back with the regiments they came to reinforce and the Greeks claimed "important" new advances all along the Albanian battlefront.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

CATHOLIC CHURCH IS DESTROYED

Immaculate Conception Church at Bridgeport, N.S., Burns at Loss of $175,000

Bridgeport, N.S., Dec. 2—(CP)—Immaculate Conception Church here, one of the largest and oldest Roman Catholic Churches in Nova Scotia, was completely destroyed last night in a $175,000 fire of unknown origin.

Two hours after smoke was first seen issuing from the church, the roof collapsed and a large crucifix crowning the building toppled to the ground. The spectacular fire was visible for miles.

Father Charles S. MacDonald, pastor, personally carried the Blessed Sacrament to safety. He and parishioners, entering through the rear of the blazing church, salvaged valuable vestments, chalices and altar equipment.

SHOWING IMPROVEMENT

Kitchener, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP). — Condition of Archie Lockhart, suffering from a rare type of streptococcus infection, continued to improve today following two blood transfusions from Ernest Van Sickle of Brantford, who recovered from the disease years ago.

Thinks French Fleet May Hold Key To Attitude of French North Africa

London, Dec. 2 (CP).—The French fleet, which the British navy battered into temporary eclipse at Oran July 4, may now hold the key to the Mediterranean problem of whether Gen. Maxime Weygand may one day swing French North Africa back to the allied cause.

He is chief of French military and political affairs in Africa.

"Weygand might revolt," explained a spokesman at headquarters of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French forces here, "but French warships could bombard Algiers, Oran, Tunis and Moroccan ports, forcing him to submission. So the real power lies with Admiral Darlan (Jean Darlan, French navy minister). We need to be sure the French fleet would not act for Vichy."

Pro-British Sentiment Grows.

Reports reaching London tell of growing pro-British sentiment in those parts of the French Empire which have not capitulated to the Free French forces and close attention is being paid to Weygand's tours of Algeria and Morocco, where he has been addressing officers, reviewing troops and receiving Arab chieftains in audience.

Gen. Weygand himself has said nothing to encourage British hopes that he may come out as a rebel, and officialdom handles the question with kid gloves, for obvious reasons. The only official utterance came from the war office, which has repeatedly denied that Anthony Eden, secretary for war, met Weygand on his recent visit to Egypt.

Gen. Weygand is regarded by some observers here as a man who made a mistake at the time of the French armistice with Germany and now does not know quite how to climb around it.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

German Motorized Column Parades With King Michael

Iron Guardists Pledge Selves to Fight for Return of Transylvania to Rumania

On the Hungarian - Rumanian frontier, Dec. 2 (AP).—Four fresh German divisions were moving through Hungary en route to Rumania today as reports trickling across the border told of increasing anarchy throughout the country.

Unconfirmed reports from Bucharest said these additional German troops would attempt to restore order there and in other large Rumanian cities where Iron Guard extremists have taken revenge on officials of the ousted regime of former King Carol.

The German divisions, moving by rail through Slovakia and Hungary, will bolster Nazi detachments already controlling Rumania's oil fields and pipelines.

(Four divisions mean approximately 60,000 men. German strength in Rumania previously has been estimated as high as 500,000.)

Split Into Three Factions.

Over the frontier came a picture of Rumania's embattled Iron Guard split now into three factions and the Rumanian army apparently wavering over what course to take.

One section of the green-shirted Guardsmen was said to be supporting the Guard leader, vice-premier Horia Sima, who has besought discipline.

A second was reported behind Ion Codreanu, father of Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, slain founder of the Guard, whose death during the Carol regime it has been avenging with a blood purge.

A third section, and by far the biggest, reportedly was out of control.

A parade in Bucharest of a German motorized division was interpreted in Hungary as a warning that German troops are prepared to restore order unless the Rumanians do it themselves.

Nearly 200,000 Guardists.

This last section was reported to be looting and satisfying personal vengeance under the protection of hastily donned green shirts.

Wearers of the green shirt, who numbered 6,000 two months ago now number more than 200,000 with a greater part of the sudden increase made by indiscriminate recruiting and self-appointment of members, including most of the underworld of Bucharest and other large cities and inmates of hastily emptied prisons.

Confusion as to who was following whom, with the army unable to decide whom to support or how to distinguish between green shirts, made it probable, reports said, that

(Continued on Page Eleven)

For Election Results Phone 99

Continuing its annual practice of providing election returns as rapidly as they are officially tabulated at the City Hall, The Ontario Intelligencer will supply the results of today's municipal election to the public. Besides the customary bulletin board service outside of the building, information regarding the progress of the various candidates will be available by telephone. Call 98 or 99 for this service. As there are five different ballots to count this year, the results of the election in Belleville will not be announced until much later than usual, City Clerk W. Holmes stated at noon. Therefore no results will be available through this office before 8.00 p.m. this evening.

Roosevelt Leaves On Trip to South

Washington, Dec. 2.—(AP) — President Roosevelt left Washington by train today on a trip which was expected to take him first to Miami or some other Florida port and from there into the Caribbean Sea for an inspection cruise, of United States defence facilities.

Stephen Early, White House Secretary said the president planned to be away from the capital until the week beginning December 16 "unless some emergency demands his return earlier".

Coming Events

DANCING EVERY WEDNESDAY and Saturday night to Dan Fairman's Swing Band at Aajmaa Club, 224 Front, over Lattimer's. D2-3

COME TO THE MILESTONE TEA at Tabernacle Church, Tuesday, December 3rd. from 3 - 5 .30, auspices Women's Association. Good program. Admission 25c. Automobiles park on street. D2

CARD PARTY, TUESDAY, DEC. 3rd., 8.30, St. George's Sunday School, Station Street. Good prizes.. D3

RALLY OF TEMPERANCE FORCES, Bridge Street Church, Wednesday, December 4. Banquet 7 p.m. Guest speaker, Dr. C. W. DeMille, Toronto. Admission .30. D3

EUCHRE AT THE IMPERIAL Club Rooms tonight, 8:30 p.m. Four prizes for ladies and four for gents. Everybody welcome o21-eMtf

ANNUAL SALE AND BAZAAR, under auspices of Mrs. Lyall's group, of St. Thomas' Church, in Parish Hall, Wednesday, December 4. Afternoon Tea 25c. N28D2-3

TUESDAY NIGHT, CARD PARTY, Conservative Club Rooms Usual prizes, monthly aggregate. Admission 25c. Thursday afternoon for ladies. s30-emtf

THE YEAR AROUND GIFT . . .
A MAGAZINE SUBSCRIPTION
Here's an easy way to simplify your Christmas shopping problems. Just drop in and send them a year's subscription to their favorite Magazine.
183 FRONT ST. THE JAMES TEXTS PHONE 892

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

20 SHOPPING DAYS TILL
Christmas

FRACTURES HIP

Mrs. Ellen Bacon, 4 Hillside St., was admitted to Belleville General Hospital over the week-end suffering with a fractured hip sustained when she fell near a West Bridge Street service station. Her condition today was said by hospital authorities to be favorable.

GUARDS WOULD APPRECIATE GIFT OF A USED RADIO

The Ontario Intelligencer is in receipt of a letter from Private Stanley Young, stationed at Petawawa Internment Camp, in which he "wonders if someone would care to send the guards a second-hand radio."

"We haven't any radio here," writes Pte. Young, "and it is a very lonely place. We would appreciate it very much if someone from Belleville would send their boys doing guard duty here such an instrument."

FRESH FRUITS SHOULD NOT BE INCLUDED IN GIFTS OVERSEAS

To conform with the requirements of the British Ministry of Agriculture and a regulation under the Destructive Insect and Pest Act of Canada, persons in Canada contemplating sending gift packages to the fighting forces overseas or to civilians in the British Isles, are again reminded that apples should not be included in mixed packages.

Due to the perishable nature of the fruit and the unusual shipping conditions as a result of the war, both the Department of Agriculture and the Post Office Department say that it is not advisable to include any fresh fruit in such packages on account of possible damage to the package itself and also to other mail with which it may come in contact. Moreover due to the fact that mail sent to the British Isles is longer in transit while the war is on than in normal times, it is not likely the fruit will be delivered in edible condition.

In the case of gift packages including apples only, certification under the Act referred to is required before the parcel can be sent. Inquiries regarding certification should be made to the nearest Dominion Fruit Inspector.

SHORT CIRCUIT CAUSE OF DAMAGE

A short circuit in a radio at the home of Mr. M. J. O'Callaghan, 34 Dunbar Street caused the Belleville Fire Department their only run over the week-end. Aside from burned wires, no appreciable damage resulted, however.

CUSTOMS RETURNS SHOW INCREASE

Customs returns at the Belleville Customs Office for the month of November, 1940, were $241,934.83 as compared with $227,223.99 for the same period in 1939, thus showing an increase of $14,710.84 over November, 1939.

It Pays to Buy at The Rexall Store.
PURETEST
Extract of Malt
with COD LIVER OIL
A pleasant tasting Vitamin food medicine, rich in natural A B D G Vitamins, so necessary for the health of children and adults.
1-lb. jar 59c
2-lb. jar 98c
McKEOWN'S
DRUG STORE
271 Front St. Phone 135

26 YEARS IN BUSINESS
CAMPBELL AUTO BODY and PAINT SHOP
BODY and FENDER REPAIRS
327 Coleman St. Phone 777

PALMIST
HAND WRITING ANALYSIS. and PALM READING and CARDS.
HANDWRITING BY MAIL
PROF. CYBELLE
211 Coleman Street.
N5-1m

Joint Meeting At Bridge Street Church is Held

Last Friday evening Bridge St. United Church parlors was the setting for a joint meeting of the "Beavers" Tuxis Square and Miss Lockhart's Senior Girls' Class when they were hosts to a group of young men and women from Thomasburg.

The guests were welcomed by Douglas Lattimer, Pretor of the Tuxis Class and the Thomasburg group were introduced by their leader, Mr. A. A. Richardson.

The regular Tuxis program followed with the Opening Ceremony and prayer after which Mr. D. W. Moore, Mentor, gave a short talk on "The Christian Gentleman" using the 15th Chapter of 1st Corinthians as an introduction to the subject.

Dr. Semple gave a short inspirational address which received enthusiastic applause.

Candidates for Boys' Parliament made their final appeal to the electors. Robert Mitchell of Holloway United Church and Frank Foley of Bridge Street United Church both promised loyal representation if elected. The candidates were introduced by Mr. Moore who also outlined to the group, the purpose of Boys' Parliament.

Group games in charge of Leslie Pickering; Frank Foley; Herb Correll; Mary Lou Lazier and Margaret Morrison were enjoyed by all.

A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. D. W. Moore and Miss Lockhart. A feature of the lunch hour was a competitive speech by Leslie Pickering and Frank Foley, which ended in a draw. Community singing rounded out a perfect evening.

A Car For This Winter Good Next Summer Too
Drive to work or play during the cold wet days that are coming. You can't afford to be without the comfortable luxury of a car. The fine used cars we are offerings are priced right, and reconditioned to last.
'38 CHEVROLET COACH.
'39 CHEVROLET SEDAN
'39 PONTIAC SEDAN
'38 FORD COACH
'36 FORD COACH
'36 STUDEBAKER SEDAN
'31 ESSEX COACH
'29 ESSEX COACH
'36 PLYMOUTH COUPE
'36 PONTIAC SEDAN
'36 HUPMOBILE SEDAN
J. B. BOYCE
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE
SALES — SERVICE
SUNOCO SERVICE STATION
Front St. Phone 794
N29-30-D2

CAPITOL 2-GREAT HITS-2
A GAY, TUNEFUL COMEDY WITH A GRAND ARRAY OF SCREEN AND RADIO STARS.

MELODY AND MOONLIGHT
A REPUBLIC PICTURE
JOHNNY DOWNS
BARBARA ALLEN
JERRY COLONNA
THE KIDOODLERS

SPECIAL ADDED HIT

THUNDERING CAVALCADE OF AMERICAN AVIATION!
"MEN WITH WINGS"
A Paramount Picture with
FRED MacMURRAY · RAY MILLAND
LOUISE CAMPBELL
in TECHNICOLOR

NOTE:—"MEN WITH WINGS" Once Only at 8.25 P.M.
THE IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFT!
THEATRE TICKETS In Gift Envelopes Now on Sale

Frank Foley Elected Member of Boys' Parliament

Frank Foley, of Bridge Street United Church was the successful candidate in the elections for the twentieth Older Boys' Parliament and will represent Belleville when Boys' Parliament meets in Hamilton Dec. 26th, to 31st. Frank represented Belleville two years ago and it is the wish of his friends that this year he may qualify for a cabinet position. His past experience will help in this connection.

Robert Mitchell of Holloway United Church ran a close second in the contest and when results were made known he was the first to congratulate the successful candidate.

A recommendation has been sent to the Premier of Boys' Parliament naming a member of the Holloway United Church Trail Rangers as Trail Ranger representative to the twentieth parliament.

Standard Leadership Training School Held in Foxboro

A standard leadership training school under the auspices of the townships of Sidney and Thurlow O. R. E. C. got under way in Foxboro United Church on Thursday evening, Nov. 28 and continued again on Friday evening. In spite of adverse road and weather conditions about thirty attended the first night. The school began with four courses, Children's Work, under the leadership of Mrs. G. T. McKenzie of Plainfield; Young People's Interests led by Rev. L. W. Scott of Sidney; St. Luke's Gospel, Rev. G. T. McKenzie, Plainfield, teacher and a Bible course, "The God of History in the World Today" led by Rev. E. M. Cook, of Foxboro.

The dean of the school is Mr. S. C. Gay, Superintendent of Foxboro United Church S.S. and President of South Hastings County S.S. Association.

Besides study there is recreation and worship. The school is to continue on Dec. 2, 3, and 5, with a social hour the last evening. The school is the main thing that the associations attempt to help Sunday School teachers in their work and advantage is being taken of it by members from Centenary, Sidney, Bethany, Plainfield and Foxboro.

O. S. D. Students Make Tour Over Newspaper Plant

Evincing exceptional interest in the mysteries and intricacies of the publication of a daily newspaper from the "bare news" until it rolls off the presses, a class of the Ontario School for the Deaf, under the supervision of Mr. C. L. Ellis, a member of the school faculty, was conducted on a tour of the many departments of The Ontario Intelligencer today.

From the business offices to the whirring chatter of the teleprinter machine as it reeled off the latest news; from there to the editorial rooms where the news is edited and reporters bring the local news to a hungry public; thence to the composing rooms where expert linotype operators convert the "paper" news into leaden slugs, and from there to the press-room where the finished product rolls off daily in thousands, the students were taken by a member of the staff.

The boys and girls showed a keen interest in the various departments and operations and appreciation of the class was expressed by Mr. Ellis for the courtesy shown the students.

Many Car Accidents Occur As Result of Saturday's Storm

Motorized traffic slowly returned to normal today following the worst November snow storm and blizzard witnessed in Eastern Ontario in years when on the heels of a full week-end storm, highways were blocked and traffic halted in all directions out of Belleville. Motor car and truck drivers abandoned travel, while buses were many hours late in schedule as the storm blew snow to a depth of over three feet in many places across the highways.

Several minor motor accidents occurred in Belleville as the result of the storm, but no serious personal injuries were reported. Mrs. Walter Stelmack of Toronto, now residing in Cherry Valley, sustained a nasty cut over her right eye when the motor car her husband was driving was in a head-on collision at the north entrance to the bay bridge Sunday. The Stelmack car was in collision with a northbound vehicle driven by Stanley Kerr, 115 Chatham St. As the result of crashing headon the radiators and fenders of both cars were damaged, while Mrs. Stelmack sustained the head laceration as the result of flying glass when car window broke. Motorcycle Patrolman Charles Siple investigated and found only a single traffic lane through the snow.

City Accidents

Saturday afternoon a motor car driven by Bert Reid, Frankford, skidded on North Front Street and collided with a northbound vehicle driven by Garnet Dafoe, 14 Burton Street. Property damage amounting to some $75 resulted to Mr. Dafoe's car. Mr. Reid told police he was about to make a turn into Harriet St., when his car skidded in the deep snow.

Late Sunday afternoon a motor car driven by Victor Buchanan, 25 Grier Street, collided with another automobile driven by Miss Marjorie Smith of 10 Geddes Street, at the east entrance to the upper bridge. Detective Isard investigated and reported that it was evident Buchanan had not observed the stop street sign, as he was proceeding south on Station St.

Drives Into Excavation

Shortly before 11.00 p.m. Saturday night William Elliott, 27 Cannifton Road, narrowly escaped injury when the automobile he was driving skidded into a Bell Telephone excavation at the intersection of Pinnacle Street and Victoria Ave. It was snowing hard at the time and visibility was very poor. Both headlights, and the fenders of the vehicle were damaged and Mr. Elliott narrowly escaped serious injuries. Assistance was needed to release the vehicle, that was wedged into the narrow street excavation. Ample barricades and lights were in place, P. C. Thomson stated.

Mayer's Horse Injured

A horse attached to a bread wagon owned by the Purity Bakery and driven by Russell Rump, 60 1-2 Catherine Street., ran away early Saturday evening after the wagon had been struck by a motor car driven by Roy Woods, Bull St.

Little property damage resulted, but the horse became frightened as the motor car skidded in the deep heavy snow and struck the wagon. The horse ran across a nearby field, but subsequently was caught in a fence corner, where the animal sustained a flesh wound. Dr. Wellbanks, local veterinary, was called to attend the injured animal. Constables Arnott and Evans investigated.

Cars Are Marooned

On the Cannifton Road north of Belleville early Sunday morning several cars were seen marooned in the deep snow, forcing the occupants to leave their vehicles and walk into the city seeking garage assistance. Motor cars were literally snowed under after being left out on city streets all night Saturday.

Garage men and tow truck operators were forced to work all night Saturday night and the better part of Sunday in efforts to release stranded and marooned motor vehicles. Progress on adjacent side roads was impossible, but department snow ploughs had the main trunk highways passable on Sunday.

Belleville Chapter No. 55, O. E. S. Honors Mrs. Thelma Liddle

On Friday evening last, a banquet and reception was held by Belleville Chapter No. 55, O.E.S., in honour of Mrs. Thelma Liddle, a Past Matron of the Chapter, and who has now brought distinction to the Chapter and the District through being Grand Electa of the Grand Chapter of Ontario.

The very sumptuous banquet was served in the Sunday School auditorium of the Tabernacle Church, with the catering being done by the Comrade Club. During the programme following the banquet, Mr. Thomas Law, Associate Patron of the Chapter, acted as Chairman, in the absence of the Worthy Patron, Mr. Clifford Baragar, who was speaking at another gathering. Mr. James Bankier, Belleville's well known lyric tenor, rendered several numbers, with Mrs. M. P. Duff as accompanist. Readings were given by Miss Anne Hogle. Community singing was led by Mr. Monty Barlow, with Mrs. Evelyn Warham providing the piano music.

The toast to the Grand Chapter was proposed by Mrs. Essie Nayler, Past D.D.G.M. and was responded to by Mrs. Blanche Geddes, Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of Ontario, who gave a very interesting and instructive address. The toast to the Guest of Honour was proposed by Mrs. Maud Elliott, Worthy Matron of the Chapter, with a very suitable response being made by Mrs. Liddle, and who was quite visibly affected by the evidence of the regard in which she is held by her associates. The toast to the Distinguished Visitors was proposed by Mr. R. D. Adams, Past Patron, and was duly responded to by the present District Deputy Grand Matron, Mrs. Bella Wonnacott, and by Past D.D.G.M., Mrs. Ruby Fleming who is now Grand Trustee.

At the conclusion of the banquet and programme, the guests all repaired to the Chapter Rooms in the Oddfellows' Temple, where Mrs. Liddle, followed by the other Grand Officers, was escorted through a Guard of Honour formed by the Officers and Past Patrons of the Chapter. Leading the procession was little Anne Briens, who scattered flowers in front of them as she walked. Mrs. Liddle was then presented with a silver tea service by the Chapter, the presentation being made by Mrs. Lillian Law, Past Matron, after which all the other guests present, expressed their good wishes and each personally welcomed the Grand Matron and other Grand Officers.

At this time, Mr. Harry Sager, Past Patron, on behalf of Mr. Charles Brown, who was Patron with Mrs. Liddle, and who was unable to be present on account of weather conditions, presented her with a gorgeous bouquet of chrysanthemums. A pair of silver candle sticks was also presented on behalf of Mrs. Mabel Darrah, who is confined to hospital, while Mrs. Law personally presented her with a hand painted picture.

For the balance of the evening dancing was enjoyed with everyone joining in to complete a very special event.

RUPTURE
NOW IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY to investigate the merits of the ARMSTRONG PATENTED APPLIANCE, over 2000 testimonials and references similar to the following:

173 Duoro St.,
Stratford, Ont.
July 30, 1940
J. H. Armstrong,
Specialist, Kitchener.
Your appliance cured me in fifteen months. As I was badly ruptured for over six years, it is a great relief. Have not worn it for past eighteen months. Have several people who want to see you.
Yours truly,
Roy Henry (age 49.)

Benton St., Kitchener,
Aug. 2, 1940
J. H. Armstrong,
Specialist, City.
Your appliance cured me of that rupture which bothered me for over FORTY-ONE YEARS. Anyone doubting this may come and see for themselves. I consider your appliance the 'Acme of Perfection.'
Gratefully yours,
(Sgd.) Phil. Young (age 57)
Mgr. Young's Real Estate.
No leg-straps—no pressure on crest of hips or spine—no buckling tight around body.
J. H. ARMSTRONG, Specialist, will be at the QUEENS HOTEL, Belleville, TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, Dec. 3rd. and 4th., 9 A.M. to 10 P.M. — Come early for private demonstration and consultation. There is no charge whatever.

PROMPT DELIVERY — 8 A.M. to 9.30 P.M.
CALL 131
In Sickness and Health You Will Always Find
GEEN'S I. D. A. DRUG STORE
Give You Efficient and Friendly Drug Store Service

WANTED
Experienced Operators and Girls who will learn quickly, to operate sewing machines on war work production.
Apply
MONDAY, DECEMBER 2nd.— to 6 p.m.; 7 to 9 p.m.
DEACON SHIRT CO.
311 FRONT ST. - - BELLEVILLE.
N30-D2

AIR CONDITIONED McCARTHY THE SHOW PLACE OF BELLEVILLE
NOW PLAYING
Evenings Only
7.10 — 9.10 P.M.
GOLDEN BOY
Starring
BARBARA STANWYCK
WILLIAM HOLDEN
ADOLPHE MENJOU
—Extra—
FOX NEWS EVENTS
Technicolor Cartoon
COMING!
THURSDAY
FRIDAY
SATURDAY
KIT CARSON featuring
JON HALL
Star of "South of Pago Pago" and "The Hurricane."

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM McINTOSH

Mrs. William McIntosh passed away at 399 Front Street, on Saturday, Nov. 30th. She was in failing health for some time.

The late Mrs. McIntosh was born in Scotland and prior to her marriage she was Miss Jemima Isabella Blakley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blakley. For forty-six years she resided in Belleville and in the regard of many friends she held a high place. In religion she was a member of the Tabernacle United Church.

Surviving her are her husband: Mr. William McIntosh, three daughters, Miss Jessie McIntosh, Oshawa, Mrs. Clinton McBride, Belleville and Mrs. Fred Helson, Cornwall, two sons, Mr. James McIntosh, Belleville and Mr. John McIntosh, Oshawa.

The funeral took place this Monday afternoon from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street.

FREDERICK A. SPAFFORD,
(Sidney Township).

Frederick Arthur Spafford died suddenly at the residence of his son, Mr. Stanley W. Spafford, in the 2nd concession of Sidney Township, on Saturday night, Nov. 30th.

The late Mr. Spafford had reached an advanced age, being in his 90th year. He was born in Brighton Township, Northumberland County, being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Spafford and for the past seventy-five years he resided in Sidney Township. He was a man of fine character and was well known in the district and in the esteem of many friends and acquaintances he held a high place. Being an early settler he was conversant with the old times and could relate many interesting stories of former days. In religion Mr. Spafford was a faithful member of Aikins United Church and when age and health permitted he took an active part in church work, being for many years the superintendent of the Sunday School.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Finkle, Trenton and Mrs. Roy Finkle, Stirling, one son, Mr. Stanley W. Spafford, Sidney Township, fifteen grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

ROBERT A. CAMPBELL,
(Arkona Ontario.)

Robert Anson Campbell, residence Arkona, Ontario, died in the hospital at Strathroy Ontario, on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 30th, after an illness of one week's duration.

The late Mr. Campbell, who was in his 61st year, was born in the 7th Concession of Tyendinaga Township, being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Campbell. At one time he resided at Chisholm's Mills and for the past nineteen years he made his home at Arkona in Western Ontario. In religion he was a member of the United Church and fraternally he was a member of Thomasburg Lodge, I. O.O.F. Friends in this district will regret to learn of his death.

Surviving him are one sister, Mrs. Milton Fargey of Roslin, and one brother, Mr. Clarence Campbell, Belleville.

The funeral will take place from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street. The announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

MRS. T. W. BLATHERWICK

Mrs. T. W. Blatherwick passed away after a brief illness at the family residence, 8 Queen Alexandra Avenue, on Saturday evening, Nov. 30th.

The late Mrs. Blatherwick, who was in her 37th year, was born in Tyendinaga Township, and prior to her marriage she was Miss Frances Mabel McLaren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McLaren. For some years she resided at Melrose and during the past eleven years she made her home in Belleville. Since coming to this city Mrs. Blatherwick made many friends to whom her death has brought sincere feelings of regret. In religion she was a member of Bridge Street United Church and she took an active part in the work of the Women's Missionary Society. Mrs. Blatherwick was much interested in the work of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Club and was a valued member of that organization.

Surviving to mourn her loss and to whom the sympathy of many friends will be extended are her husband, Mr. T. W. Blatherwick; two daughters, Ruth Joan, aged 12 years and Marcia Ann, age 7 years; one son Thomas Bruce, age 10 years; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McLaren; two brothers, Mr. Grant McLaren, Melrose, and Mr. Malcolm McLaren, R.C.E. at Petawawa.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

ALFRED CLARKE
(Aurora)

Alfred Clarke died suddenly on Saturday, Nov. 30th., at Aurora, Ontario. He was known in Stirling, Ontario, and was the husband of Mary R. (Maidie) Mitchell, and father of Vera M. and Joseph G.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday, Dec. 3rd., and interment will be made in King Cemetery.

MRS. (REV.) S. A. YORKE
(Wooler)

Wooler, (Special) —Wooler residents and members of the Holiness Movement Church were grieved to learn of the passing of Mrs. (Rev.) S. A. Yorke at her home, the Holiness Movement parsonage at Wooler early Sunday afternoon, December 1st. The late Mrs. (Rev.) Yorke was in her 74th year and had been ill for a period of eight months before her passing. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wallace and had resided in Ottawa and Saskatchewan before coming to Wooler with her husband only four months ago.

The late Mrs. Yorke, although only a short time in this vicinity, had endeared herself to many and was held in high regard by all those with whom she had made acquaintance. She was a member of the Holiness Movement Church and when health permitted was an active worker, although since coming to Wooler she had been failing in health.

Surviving to mourn her loss, beside her husband, are one daughter, Miss Frances Yorke, Wooler, four sisters, Mrs. C. W. Topping, Elgin, Ontario; Miss Alice Wallace, Wilton, Ont.; Mrs. A. E. Babcock, Cadillac, Sask.; Mrs. Edwin Close, Holland's Bay; and one brother, Mr. F. A. Wallace, Wilton, Ont., also several nieces and nephews.

The funeral took place from her late residence at Wooler, this Monday morning, December 2nd., where a short service was held at 10.30 o'clock, and thence to Wilton, Ontario, where the funeral service took place in the afternoon at 2.00 o'clock. Rev. J. E. Cooke, General Superintendent of the Holiness Movement Church, Ottawa, conducted the funeral service, assisted by Rev. Black, Rev. H. R. White both of Ottawa, and other ministers of the H. M. Church.

The bearers were all ministers of the Holiness Movement Church. Interment was made in the Wilton Cemetery.

New March Composition Featured at Concert

Despite the fact that the weather was anything but conducive to a capacity audience, a large crowd enjoyed the all-request program given by the Belleville Municipal Band at the McCarthy Theatre Sunday night. The proceeds were devoted to the Charities Fund of the Band.

Played for the first time in Belleville and since its debut over the airwaves by the Toronto Symphony Band two weeks ago, the march "The Argyll Light Infantry" composed by Mr. Reg. Hinchey of this city, who is rapidly climbing to the front in Canadian musical circles as an outstanding composer, received a splendid ovation from the audience. The march is dedicated to the officers and men of the Argyll Light Infantry Regiment (Tank) here.

Another number that was well received was the overture "Orpheus", while Squires' popular songs got a good ovation. A trombone solo by Bandsman Reg. Wardle "The Trumpeter", the colorful intermezzo "In a Monastery Garden"; a military tattoo, other selections and the always popular "There'll Always Be An England", another Hinchey arrangement rounded out a highly enjoyable program.

Mr. Harold Barrett, popular Belleville baritone delighted his audience with a number of selections.

The numbers played by the band were requests from a number of the many musical enthusiasts and patrons of the band from the city and district. Lieut. Fred Jobson conducted.

CHRISTMAS RUSH AT POST OFFICE

The annual Christmas rush is starting at the Belleville Post Office with letter-carriers in many cases beginning to carry various assortment of packages and parcels on their daily rounds. Officials of the post office state that a steady increase of mail and parcel post is noticed every day and that it will get heavier from now on until after the Christmas season.

Postal officials point out that in sending Christmas greetings to friends it is recommended that only standard size cards and envelopes be used. Small cards may be lost, or at least delayed, while cards larger than four and one half inches by nine and one half inches may have to be folded and thereby damaged.

The importance of mailing early to avoid the usual Christmas rush is also advocated, as cards mailed only a few days before Christmas may be delayed, thereby causing disappointment.

Building Permits Higher Than Year Ago

Building permits of the city for the first eleven months of the year are well in excess of $15,000 over the total amount of 1939. Permits to the end of November total $154,740 while taxable permits issued for the entire year of 1939 amounted to $139,480. Added to this must be the $111,516 permit of the Belleville General Hospital but this is non-taxable property.

Permits totalling $19,190 were issued during the month just past. These include six new structures and two alterations. Among the new buildings are a dwelling and garage of T. E. Sullivan, William Street, $3,000; George Sweetman, garage, Hillside St., $100; Mr. Truesdale, residence and garage, $5,000; J. J. Trudeau, one-storey building, Dafoe Street, $1,000; J. A. Layton, 1½ storey dwelling, Pine Street, ,000, and Margaret Orr, frame garage, $100. Alterations include a remodelling and rebuilding of the Holway Service Station, corner Bridge and Front, by the McColl-Frontenac Oil Co., $4,000.

CHANGES MADE IN SCHOOL INSPECTORATE

Owing to the removal of Mr. J. D. Deyell, B.A., B.Paed., who will be a master at Ottawa Normal School until midsummer, 1941, changes have been made necessary in the school inspectorates of Hastings County.

Inspector J. R. Pickering will supervise the Belleville schools and Frankford as well as those in Bangor, Cashel, Carlow, Dungannon, Faraday, Herschel, Limerick, Mayo, McLure, Monteagle, Tudor, Wicklow, Wollaston townships and the village of Bancroft.

Schools in Thurlow, Sidney, the town of Deseronto, and the county of Lennox, will be inspected by Mr. K. O. Birkin, M.A., B.Paed., with headquarters at Napanee.

The inspectorate of Centre Hastings will be administered by Mr. A. W. McGuire, B.A., as well as the township of Marmora, the town of Trenton and the villages of Marmora and Deloro.

10 GREAT STARS
GARY COOPER
MADELEINE CARROLL
PAULETTE GODDARD
PRESTON FOSTER
ROBERT PRESTON
AKIM TAMIROFF
LYNNE OVERMAN
GEORGE BANCROFT
LON CHANEY, JR.
WALTER HAMPDEN
2 LOVE STORIES
1000 THRILLS
ALL IN
CECIL B. DeMILLE'S
"NORTH WEST MOUNTED POLICE" IN TECHNICOLOR
BELLE WORLD NEWSREEL
Tonight - Tues. - Wed.
BELLE
— HOME OF FINE PICTURES —
Daily 2.30: 7.00: 9.10

Madoc, Stirling Teachers Visit Tweed Consolidated School

Tweed—The staff of Tweed Consolidated School entertained the teachers of Madoc and Stirling Public Schools on Wednesday evening. The teachers met at the Consolidated School where Principal S. H. Connor welcomed them. Following a brief discussion of common problems , a short musical program was given consisting of the following numbers: O Canada; Piano solo, Mr. Claire Morgan; Solo, Mrs. S. H. Connof; Chorus, "Carry On"; Duet, Mrs. M. G. Dales, Mrs. S. H. Connor; Solo, Miss G. Poynter, Stirling Public School staff; Piano solo, Mr. C. Morgan; God Save the King.

The teachers then repaired to the Household Science Room where they played progressive bridge. Mrs. Connor won the prize of a beautiful cup and saucer. Following lunch served by the lady teachers of Tweed staff, Mr. C. A. Wells, Stirling and Mr. Jas. Irwin, Madoc, moved a vote of thanks to the Tweed teachers for their hospitality. The next meeting will be held in Madoc Public School on the last Wednesday in January.

The population of Tweed has been temporarily increased by some fifty Hydro employees who are at present engaged in the preparation of a right-of-way for a new Hydro line south of Thomasburg. The local hotel and boarding houses are taxed to the utmost to provide accommodation for these men who will be here for the next month.

Tweed High School initiation ceremonies took the form of a social evening at the school on Thursday night. All the freshmen and freshettes of Form I and newcomers to the others Forms were called upon to submit to certain forms of initiation into full-fledged membership in the school. They all accepted the treatment in the spirit of fun and everyone had a good time. Lunch was served by the senior students who were assisted by the members of the staff. Dancing followed until eleven-thirty.

Mr. James Corbet, of the Nichols Chemical Co. staff at Sulphide, has been transferred to the company's new plant near Montreal. "Jim" Corbet as he is known among his host of friends, has resided in Sulphide for a number of years and has been active in everything having to do with communal activities. He was an officer of the Young People's Union, a member of the choir and Senior Warden of Tweed Lodge No. 239 A.F. and A.M. as well as Worthy Patron of Tweed Chapter of the Eastern Star. Jim Corbet will be missed in Sulphide and Tweed also. For many years he was a member of Tweed-Sulphide Band and took part in a number of minstrel shows and other like activities. The best wishes of his friends accompany him in his well-deserved promotion. Mrs. Corbet and Gene will leave for Montreal in a short time.

The following young women are enrolled in the Home Economics short course being held in Tweed: Mrs. Gladys Alton, Marion Bateman, Ruth Coulson, Mabel Duggan, Doris Coulter, Doreen Fobert, Mrs. Ann Brown, Olive Kennedy, Madeline Kleinsteuber, Margaret Kinlin, Helen McTaggart, Grace McCaw. Wilma Meraw, Dorothy Porter, Mrs. Jos. LeSage, Helen Jones, Ruby Jones, Rita Ryan, Dorothy Rashotte, Phyllis Sills, Mrs. Irene Benny, Mrs. Helen Cordy.

The following are registered in the Boys' Course: Ernest Reynolds, Stanley Geen, Carman Geen, Bruce Prindle, Michael Rush, Clare Kleinsteuber, Douglas Bolderick, Justin Fleming, Michael Courneyea, Burton Coulter, Norman Coulter, Norman White, John White, Clarence Reeves, Clifford McCamon, Donald Sills.

The following officers were elected by the Young Women's Section:

President—Mrs. Gladys Atlon.
Viće Pres.—Rita Ryan.
Sec. Treas.—Mrs. Jos. LeSage.
Librarian—Helen Jones.
Song Leader—Doris Coulter.

At the meeting of the Community Club at the Huyck Hotel on Wednesday evening it was decided to hold the annual Santa Claus parade. Everyone was not unanimous that the parade should be held this year in view of war conditions, expressing the belief that the money should be donated to the British War Victims' Fund. It was finally decided to hold the parade as usual. Messrs T. E. Moffatt, Robt. Sweatman, T. J. Gainan, S. H. Connor, J. C. Hayes, Felix Rashotte, Wilfred LeSage, I. D. Corcoran, D. H. Morrison and Tracey Quinn were named a committee to have charge of the Santa Claus parade.

Messrs Robt. Sweatman, R. Quinn and T. Beatty were named to organize a juvenile hockey league in Tweed this winter. Mr. H. W. Crosbie was named a delegate to attend the Tourist and Publicity dinner and convention in Toronto.

Some time ago the Community Club sent a little child from the home of a family in straightened circumstances to the Hospital for Sick Children for special treatment. The club is paying all the expenses in connection with the case which is very urgent and general approval of the Club was given to the President and Secretary for their action.

The club members thoroughly enjoyed a series of colored motion pictures presented by Mr. Charles R. Johnston of Madoc. Many scenes were shown of the district around Madoc as well as of other parts of Ontario, the Western Provinces and the United States. A vote of thanks to Mr. Johnston was moved by Dr. M. G. Dales.

During the past few months the pupils of Tweed Consolidated School have invested $429.50 in war savings stamps and certificates. These purchases have been made from their penny bank savings. The children of the school were also the first group of school children to make collections for the British War Victims' Fund and they were responsible for forwarding 158.00 from this district to the Evening Telegram for this purpose.

Brighten Your Home
WITH EDISON MAZDA
Lamps
MADE IN CANADA
CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY LIMITED

JOHN LEWIS COMPANY
265 Front St. Phone 2260
BELLEVILLE

STROUD'S
VARIETY STORE
208 Front Street Phone 301

WHITE'S
HARDWARE COMPANY
230 Front St. Phone 323

Carmel

Carmel—Mr. and Mrs. Alex Fraser were guests of honor at a surprise party held in the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Clapp. A short program was given. Mr. Seldon Homan acted as chairman while the young and old took part. Much merriment ensued when Mr. Ben Clark was a little backward in making a speech. He was appointed song leader for the rest of the evening.

A short address was read by Mr. Earl Dafoe, signed by Frank Whitney, Burrill Howes and Earl Dafoe.

The young couple were presented with a lovely set of dishes and a fancy tea pot. They both made suitable replies thanking one and all for honoring them in this way. Refreshments were served and the rest of the evening was spent in social intercourse.

Miss Iva Horton entertained her Sunday School class on Thursday evening. A very pleasant evening was spent playing games and social intercourse. Mr. and Mrs. Don Spencer and Mrs. Wallace Simmons were others who were entertained there that evening. After many games were played at which Miss Irene Haynes was the winner of the prize presented by their teacher, a lovely lunch was served and every one enjoyed together a very social time before they wended their way to their several homes, everyone thanked Iva for the lovely evening they had spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Pound (nee Miss Howes) who were married on Saturday last are spending their honeymoon in Whitby, Toronto and other points west.

The cutters and sleighs are also on the go after the recent snow.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser called on Miss Emily Morrison on Wednesday.

Mrs. Frank Sullivan spent Sunday evening with Mrs. Raymond Sullivan and family.

Many enjoyed the slides put on by Rev. Mr. Davis in the church Wednesday evening.

A very large crowd gathered at the home of Mr. Frank Whitley to pay honor to their daughter Evelyn who was recently married and presented a miscellaneous shower. Everyone was present from near and far showing the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. E. Dawson are held in the community. After an address was read the happy couple took nearly the rest of the evening to unwrap her gifts for which the young couple thanked their friends in a few well chosen words. After the reading of the address, "For they are jolly good fellows" was sung. Lunch was served and a very social evening was spent.

THE GIFT OF GIFTS FOR MEN WHO ENJOY CIGARS
PUNCH
You just can't go wrong when you give PUNCH CIGARS. The extra flavour and rich aroma make PUNCH delightfully in keeping with Christmas.

TASTEFULLY WRAPPED FOR CHRISTMAS

Perfectos 10¢ Panetelas (Boîte nature boxes)
15¢ Lilies (Glass Jars)

Punch CIGAR

Marmora

Marmora—Under presidency of the Rector, teachers of St. Paul's Sunday School held a meeting in the Rectory on Thursday evening. The main items of business were the promotion of scholars on Advent Sunday and the preliminaries in connection with the annual Christmas party for the children. Prizes for best attendance during the past Sunday School year will be presented that evening.

At a bridge and euchre held in the Separate School on Wednesday evening sponsored by Sacred Heart Church the bridge prize was won by Mrs. L. P. Hughes while Mrs. S. Lawrence and Mr. John Doyle won the euchre prizes. Dancing was enjoyed to music furnished by Eugene Reynolds and Bert Kouri. A delicious lunch was served by the ladies in charge.

Mrs. C. R. Whittemore and son Blair are spending a couple of weeks in Montreal.

Mr. S. B. Wright, Col. A. V. Yates and Mr. R. A. Elliott attended the funeral of the late Hon. M. J. O'Brien at Renfrew on Friday

Born—In Marmora Township on Thursday, November 28th to Mr and Mrs. Richard Maloney, a son.

Mrs. Long (nee Winnie Istead) of Moose Jaw is visiting relatives here.

Mr. Charles Hollingsworth of Odessa visited friends here over Sunday.

Miss Evelyn Biglow of Peterborough visited Miss Winnifred Sabine over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Logan have taken up residence on the farm formerly occupied by Mr. Charles Campion.

Mr. George Vilneff of Marmora Township is spending the winter in Miami, Florida.

Miss Virginia Davidson of Marmora Township is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snell of St. Thomas and Miss Helen McWilliams of Toronto spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. A. Eggleton.

Mr. Kenneth Prentice of New Toronto visited his brother Mr. E. C. Prentice on Sunday.

Miss Agnes Sweeney of Belleville and Miss Norah Mereau, Miss Gladys Gehan and Mr. Jack Miller of Trenton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Gehan on Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Wilber and son Robert and daughter Blanche recently visited Mr. and Mrs. William Kilpatrick in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Huggins of Peterborough and Mr. George Reid of St. Catharines spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Young.

Mr. S. B. Wright was in Toronto for a few days this week.

A successful bazaar and supper was held by St. Andrew's Women's Association in the Church Hall on Friday evening. In addition to aprons and fancy articles being sold a table of home cooking and candy helped to swell the revenue.

Cannifton

Cannifton — Many were in attendance Sunday evening at the church service, and enjoyed the lantern slides which were mainly on missionary work.

Mrs. George Shorey spent Friday night in Toronto.

Mr. Vance is ill at the home of Mrs. M. Cairns.

The Others' S. S. Class held a business meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Twiddy on Wednesday evening. The Devotional part came first, then discussion of items to be put on the program for Christmas, of which a dialogue was decided. Mrs. Charles Wessels and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Brenton were elected for the Christmas Dialogue Committee. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

Hon. President, Rev. W. J. Davis; President, Miss Elsie Smallhorn; Secretary, Mrs. D. Collett; Treasurer, Mrs. G. Brenton; Teacher, Mrs. A. Armstrong; Assistant teachers, Mr. Harry Twiddy, Mrs. Harry Farnham; Sick Committee, Mrs. Charles Wessels, Mrs. Jack Williams; Look Out Committee — Mrs. Harry Farnham, Mrs. Miles Benedict, Mrs. A. Armstrong, Mrs. Harry Pound.

The evening closed with singing "God Save the King" after which sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. Everybody returned home at a late hour.

Mr. Bert Bleekman is suffering with a bad cold.

Rev. W. J. Davis' mother is in the General Hospital. All hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shorey spent Sunday evening with Mrs. Shorey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Collins of Plainfield.

Mr. Harold Pound and Miss Ruby Howes were quietly married on Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Howes of Carmel. Congratulations.

Barbara Stanwyck, William Holden and Adolphe Menjou, starring trio of the smash hit, "Golden Boy," which is now playing evenings only at the McCarthy Theatre. Cooking school classes are now being held each afternoon.

Dramatic Sketches Given at Meeting of Trinity Women's Club

Madoc — The November meeting of Trinity Women's Club was held in the church parlor on Wednesday evening with a fine attendance of members and visitors.

Matters of business were dispensed with by the treasurer, Mrs. Irwin and the secretary Miss Ferguson. Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Robert Bristol for the hospitality extended to the members recently for the purpose of progressing the war work.

Preceded by quiet music with Mrs. L. Ashley as pianist, a period of devout worship was held, having as its theme "The Presence of Jesus" a solo, "The Stranger of Galilee" offered by Miss Poulter, Psalm 27 was read by Mrs. Jack. A paper given by Mrs. Tanner, an earnest prayer by Miss MacDermid and solo by Mrs. Hulin concluded this part of the program.

Two dramatic skits "Who Says Depression", and, "Bargain Day" directed by Miss MacDermid created much enjoyment. The following ladies participated: — Mesdames J. Irwin, Tosh, C. Farrow, F. Stephens, A. Burris, A. Bassett, W. Parks and Miss M. Ferguson and Mesdames R. Caverly, E. Armstrong, E. Burnside, H. Nickle, T.E. Burnside, W. Hulin, F. J. Nickle, Miss Lou Wickens and Miss Anna Smith. At the conclusion of each skit an appropriate poem was read by Mrs. Cecil Tayler. During the lunch hour pleasant hospitality was evident, with the hostesses having been Mrs. J. Gordon, Mrs. A. Bassett, Miss A. Smith and Miss M. Ferguson.

On Tuesday night the Madoc Hydro Commission sponsored a Hydro Cooking School and lecture in the gymnasium of Madoc High School. About 250 ladies attended. The lady in charge was Miss Muir of the Hydro Homemakers Forum, Toronto. At the conclusion, cooking prizes were drawn for and ladies from the township as well as the village were successful in winning many delectable dishes cooked by Hydro. The entire proceeds of the evening are in aid of British Relief Fund.

Mrs. T. F. Blue left on Friday for Niagara Falls, N. Y., to visit her daughter, Mrs. McCracken and Mr. McCracken.

Bazaar Held by W. A. Members a Fine Success

Foxboro — The Bazaar held in the S. S. rooms on Wednesday reflected credit upon W. A. members who worked so faithfully to make the function a success. Credit is due those who so artistically decorated the various booths. The tea room was very pretty in its setting and the tables very inviting, where a dainty lunch was served. The different booths were well patronized, which manifested the interest taken.

Little Barbara Stewart was successful in winning the door prize—a luncheon cloth; Mrs. Chas. Hetherington as the oldest person present won a prettily crocheted bed jacket and little Margaret Ann Finkle the prize as the youngest one present. Mr. Hannah of Belleville very kindly acted as judge on cakes and Mrs. Ford Derry won the honor of having the best decorated cake. Miss Laura Cooke, the best white layer cake and Mrs. Clifford Wilson the best chocolate layer cake.

The Teacher Training School is being conducted and very interesting classes are held. Mr. S. C. Gay is the Dean of the school and Mrs. Rev. McKenzie of Plainfield is in charge of children's work.

Rev. Scott of Sidney has charge of Young People's Work, Rev. McKenzie of Plainfield is teaching the "Book of St. Luke" and Rev. E. M. Cooke a study of the history of the Bible relating to present day conditions.

Many should avail themselves of the opportunity to attend these meetings.

DEFEAT PROPOSAL TO ISSUE BONDS

Flanagan, Ill., Dec. 2—(AP)—The voters have the Flanagan School Board just a little perplexed. They voted to build a new high school and authorized the Board to purchase a site, but defeated a proposal to issue $100,000 in bonds to pay for the school, land and equipment.

KILLED RABBIT WITH ROCK

Bloomsburg, Pa., Dec. 2.—(AP)—When a house dog chased a rabbit across Mrs. Arthur Allegar's yard, she got out the family gun, aimed carefully and pulled the trigger. Nothing happened. So she picked up a rock and let fly. The rabbit fell over—dead.

WHITE'S CHURCH Y.P.U.

The reorganization of White's United Church Y. P. U. was held Thursday, Nov. 28 at the church.

Jack Bonisteel, presiding as president, opened the meeting with a hymn, followed by Lord's Prayer.

The Scripture was read by Helen Ketcheson. The nomination of officers opened with Mr. W. Jeffrey acting as chairman. The election of officers listed as follows, Jack Bonisteel, re-elected as president; Mary Rush re-elected as vice-president; Flossie Bonisteel, secretary treasurer; Grace Jefferey, pianist, with Helen Ketcheson as an assistant; Ward English was elected as convener of Christian Fellowship; Miss Foster, convener of Missionary: Bill Weese, canvener of Citizenship; For Social and Recreation program, Norman Hunt was elected convener.

The President and Secretary - Treasurer for the coming year then took their places.

The meeting was closed with a hymn followed by the Mizpah Benediction.

IVANHOE W. M. S.

Mrs. Joseph Rollins entertained the Ivanhoe W.M.S. for their November meeting. During the morning a beautiful autographed quilt made in the form of an open book was quilted. At noon the hostess served a delicious pot luck dinner. The afternoon meeting in charge of the President Mrs. F. Palmer was opened with the National Anthem. Mrs. Arthur Wood led in prayer. During the business plans were made for the bazaar to be held early in December. Votes of thanks were extended to those who helped in the making and working of the autographed quilt.

The election of officers for year 1941 conducted by Rev. Mr. Delve resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. F. Palmer.

1st Vice President, Mrs. S. Twiddy.

Secretary, Mrs. Charles Mitz.
Treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Wood.
Organist, Mrs. Donald Fleming.
Stewardship Secretary, Mrs. Wickens.

Corresponding Secretary, Miss C. Prest.

Stranger's Secretary, Mrs. Clifford Mitz, Mrs. Harold Reid.

Mite Box Secretary, Miss C. Prest.

Temperance Secretary, Miss P. Twiddy.

Missionary Monthly Secretary — Mrs. Tomlison.

Supply Secretary, Mrs. Fred Reid.

Associate Helpers' Secretary, Mrs. S. Twiddy.

Baby Band Secretary, Mrs. Clifford Mitz.

Assistant, Mrs. Tomlison.

Press Secretary, Miss Phyllis Twiddy.

Assistant, Miss Marjorie Prest.

Mission Band Leadership, Mrs. Stanley Prest, Mrs. George Wood.

Group Leaders, Mrs. Sam Kilpatrick, Mrs. S. Twiddy, Miss C. Prest, Mrs. A. Hagerman.

Watch Tower, Mrs. Lovibond.

Peace Secretary, Mrs. Cooney, Mrs. Joe Rollins.

The Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting. Proceeds of the day were dinner $4.00, collection 57c, thank offering 3.10.

CARMEL Y. P. U.

The regular meeting of the Carmel Y.P.U. was held Wednesday evening, November 27th at Carmel United Church.

The theme was given by Mrs. Percy Reynolds. Hymn number 225 was sung following which Mr. Douglas Ross read the scripture lesson. Mrs. Percy Reynolds gave the call to worship. Miss Luella Homan read a poem. The topic was then given with Miss Mildred Jones taking the part of the reporter and Mrs. Percy Reynolds taking the part of Dr. Tucker. Hymn number 347 was sung. Mr. Jack McCabe led in prayer.

The president, Miss Hazel Hicks, then called on Rev. Mr. Davis who showed lantern slides and gave an interesting talk on the United Church Missionary work at Changtu near the central part of China. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. Mrs. Percy Reynolds took charge of the recreation.

One of two love stories in Cecil B. DeMille's technicolor epic, "Northwest Mounted Police," now at the Belle, is the romance between Robert Preston and Paulette Goddard

She Spent a Fortune on her Hair
—but nobody ever asked her out twice
DOTTIE WAS A WARM-ROOM OFFENDER
SCIENTIFIC FACTS ABOUT 'B.O.'
"IT'S NO FUN FOR ME TO TELL YOU — BUT ESPECIALLY NOW IN THIS WEATHER YOU NEED LIFEBUOY."
"AND WE'RE GOING TO THE DANCE SATURDAY NIGHT, AREN'T WE DOTTIE ?"
YES DEAR
THANKS TO AUNTY AND LIFEBUOY
NEXT TO OTHERS—YOU NEED ME MOST!
LIFEBUOY
DOTTIE always looked attractive . . . She took infinite pains with her hair, for example, but she was careless about bathing—offended her would-be admirers . . . And when "B.O."—offensive body odor—comes in, love flies out the window.

All of us have to perspire to live. In winter, heavy clothes, warm, stuffy rooms speed up the time during which sweat left on the body decomposes—turns stale. When this happens YOU have "B.O."

"B.O." can ruin romance, business and social chances. Check it before it starts with Lifebuoy. For Lifebuoy contains an exclusive deodorizing ingredient, not found in any other leading toilet soap. Used in your daily bath, Lifebuoy stops "B.O."—its purifying lather washes offensive sweat deposits away. And Lifebuoy peps you up—refreshes. Why not take this inexpensive precaution of careful people.

The adult skin has 2 to 3 million sweat glands which act as a cooling system, giving off from 1 to 3 pints of perspiration daily—even when we are sitting still. If perspiration stopped, we would die from hyper-pyrexia (heat stroke).

Because much of the water in perspiration evaporates, we do not see or feel it—especially in winter. Heated rooms, lack of fresh air and heavy clothes quickly decompose this sweat deposit—turn it stale—cause offensive "B.O." (Body Odor).

LIFEBUOY IN YOUR DAILY BATH Stops "B.O."

Spitfires Outclimb And Destroy Fleeing Messerschmitt Plane

London, Dec. 2 —(CP)— A dogfight seven miles above the southeast coast, in which two British Spitfire pilots shot down a German Messerschmitt plane which couldn't climb higher to elude them, was described tonight by the Air Ministry news service.

The pilots, who have teamed together in numerous engagements since the evacuation of Dunkirk, flew to battle together again.

The German pilot bailed out, his machine crashed near Dungeness, and he was taken prisoner.

A Royal Air Force source said the pilots used no special equipment for fighting at terrific heights, except oxygen apparatus, commonly used above 15,000 feet.

Fights at high altitudes are not rare in this war, and this one was said to be no record. The Spitfire's ceiling is a military secret.

The Ministry news service said the plane was the 600th destroyed by squadrons operating from a single Fighter Command station. The two pilots shared a prize made up by the station's personnel for the pilot boosting its plane mark to the 600 total.

The pilots were credited with a half-plane each. One is a 22-year-old flight commander holding the Distinguished Flying Cross, whose personal bag is eleven and one-half Nazis shot down. The other is a 26-year-old pilot officer with the Distinguished Flying Cross and Bar, who worked on a London evening newspaper before the war. He claims nineteen and one-half planes.

Neutrality Must Be Repudiated by Nations Forever Says Lawyer

Ottawa, Dec. 2—(CP)—Neutrality must be repudiated by nations forever before any workable scheme may be established for peace, Warwick Chipman, K.C., Montreal barrister and president of the executive of the League of Nations Society in Canada said Saturday at a meeting of the Ottawa Teachers' Institute.

"The history of the last 20 years has shown that without neutrality we would not have had aggression," he said. "The myth of isolationism is dead and I hope it remains dead."

"Yet there must not be merely a negative renunciation of war without commitments. The Kellogg Pact, denouncing war, showed us the futility of that. The doctrine that we can protect peace without commitments is nothing but cotton wool."

"It was folly to say win the war first and plan afterwards. We are fighting choas and anarchy and we must plan for order and government," Mr. Chipman said.

Speaking of the League of Nations, Mr. Chipman said its defect willingness of its members to be was not of its form but the un-

ITALIANS HELP THE GREEKS

Kansas City, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The little girl selling tags for the Greek War Relief Fund asked Thomas McGee, insurance man, to buy one.

"Are you a Greek?" McGee queried.

"Oh, no sir," she replied earnestly, "I'm an Italian".

Several Italian misses joined Greek lassies in the tag sale.

A new electric door chime is operated by a motor instead of magnetically, sounding eight notes when a front door button is pressed, a high note for a side door and a low note for a back door.

Before you insure... consult
Confederation Life Association

THE
ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

MACEDONIAN AMAZONS

Thousands of years ago the Greeks had a legend of a community of women, who fought under the conduct of their queen and long constituted a formidable state in Asia Minor. Several nations of Amazon warrior Theseus and one of chief being those in Pontus who built Ephesus and other cities. They came into contact with the Greeks and Hercules, the Greek warrior, conquered their queen, Hippolyta. They are said to have attacked Attica in the days of the warrior Thesus and one of Shakespeare's loveliest of plays, "Midsummer Night's Dream," is in part the story of the marriage of Theseus and Hippolyta at Athens. The Amazons came to the assistance of Troy under their queen, Penthesilea, but she was slain by the Greek leader, Achilles, according to tradition.

It is believed that this strange race of warriors was purely legendary. The story may have originated in some battle where women aided the men of an ancient race in one of the struggles when the Greek race was taking root in what is now Hellas or Greece, or on their way to occupy the lands which they have now held for thousands of years. Whatever the source of the story, the legends have given the name Amazon to women, who in time of war, join in battling an enemy.

In the past few days readers of the newspapers have read of Greek women in Macedonia accompanying the men to the Pindus mountains and when the Greeks were smashing the Italians in the narrow defile, they rolled down bolders from the steep sides of the mountain upon the Italian troops in the bottom of the gorge so that at the end of day not an Italian soldier was reported left alive.

The inspiration of the Macedonian women to fight was a natural expression of these freedom-loving people, their sense of liberty being so great that they recked not any danger but took their places on the slopes so that they might play a part in routing the invaders. The same spirit showed itself in the ancient days and probably gave rise to the legend of the Amazons.

In the last war there was a battalion of women in the Russian army, which gave a good account of itself in fighting the Germans.

Joan of Arc, the girl heroine who saved France for the Dauphin hundreds of years ago and led the armies of France from victory to victory after what was almost collapse of the Gallic armies, occupies a name in history. She is not however looked upon as an Amazon for she was truly gifted with a sense of leadership which inspired the soldiers and their leaders and the court. Joan was more of the genius and more the inspired messenger of deliverance than just a warrior. So great is the veneration paid her that she has been numbered with the saints.

In pioneering history there is abundant evidence that the women assisted the men in defending their habitations against inroads.

CIRCUS STREAMLINING

Word has come from Florida that the Big Top of the circus is likely to yield to "a canvas auditorium without poles, suspended from huge portable steel towers 160 feet high" and the familiar menagerie which has been an oval of circus wagons in which the animals are usually seen and the place where circus fans, young and old, have been accustomed for ages to feed the elephants peanuts will become something much different as the animals will be displayed "in an integrated exhibition in surroundings resembling their natural habitats."

People of the district about Belleville known as one of the best circus towns on the continent, will take more than passing interest in this news that one of the great circus organizations, now in winter headquarters in the south, is to be streamlined for Norman Bel Geddes, the noted designer, has been called in to begin a plan of modernization "calculated to produce for the season of 1942 a big show as different from the traditional circus as modern cars are from the Model T."

For those centres where the circus comes in 1941 and 1942 the people are in for sights. For 1941 is said to be the last year to see the old-fashioned circus, while in 1942 something entirely new, the streamlined circus, will make its appearance. The old type of circus will have its powerful appeal and there will be keenest interest in the new design. The change from one to the other will arouse anticipation, advocates of the old circus will be out in full force to see the familiar great circus in its time-honored form and those who like the newest in everything will look forward to the radical changes.

It will be quite a change after all for the circus has had one appeal for ages, that it bore the marks of the original type of circus though it modernized its acts and performances to suit the advance of new inventions, to take in the latest vogue. One of the perpetuals is the clown. He may be streamlined without losing his identity and appeal because the modern world likes to laugh at itself, and the clown really is of all ages and it is still likely he will walk the grassy stage, get himself into the familiar complexities which have delighted audiences for long years.

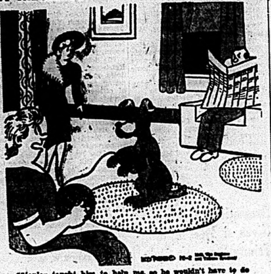
What with movies playing expeditions in the dark continent, showing wild life in its natural haunts, a circus should not run far amiss in streamlining this section of the circus. Will it be something like the menageries in public parks in larger cities?

Some oldtimers who have seen circuses for many years and come from near and far to attend, may seem perfectly at home in the old circus and in the new circus for the latter may be similar to the streamlined modern house, so striking and really so comfortable.

Circuses have been becoming fewer and fewer as amalgamations build up bigger and bigger organizations. They are a vast undertaking of modern business sense exercised to its fullest capacity—they know how to provide for the amusement public. The moving picture knows much about appeal and the circus press-agents know a lot too. Because they know and because the circus provides what they know the public wants, the circus lives, that great travelling organization which is one of the triumphs of business and amusement enterprise. A circus moved first by wagon, then by train. It is doubtful if it will try any other means of transportation for the rails are no doubt yet the cheapest form of transport. If ever leaves travel by rails it will deprive the early morning watchers, boys and girls and their elders, of one of the real chances to get up early and see the mighty world of the hippodrome come to town.

OFF THE RECORD

By ED REED



"Stanley taught him to help me, so he wouldn't have to do it himself!"

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

DEC. 2nd, 1920.

Chief of Police Alex. Kidd is advertising for applications for the position of constable on the Belleville police force.

The subscriptions to the fund for the erection of the High School Memorial Tablet now total the sum of $136.50.

Owing to trade conditions the staff of the Natural Tread Shoe Company here is working only half time.

A citizen was fined $5. and costs in the police court this morning for operating his automobile with the license plates covered with mud which made them unreadable. Two other parties were fined $20. and costs each for driving automobiles showing license plates which did not belong to them.

Mr. J. O. Herity has been appointed Industrial Commissioner for the City of Belleville and Secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

30 YEARS AGO

DEC. 2nd., 1910.

Pro. Hockey Players Sign With Belleville.

"Buck" Irving was in town to day completing arrangements for the opening of the pro. hockey season. The following players have signed to play with Belleville: Cross of Waterloo; Dusome of Galt; McDonald of Kingston; Dougherty of Galt; Manson of Waterloo; Simons of Brockville and Cotey of Oshawa. This is a likely looking bunch and everything points to a successful season.

Messrs. John McIntosh, William McIntosh and T. Bowie took part in an entertainment in Cobourg on St. Andrew's Day.

The Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, visited the D. and D. Institute to day.

40 YEARS AGO

DEC. 2ND, 1900

A pretty home wedding occurred Wednesday evening, Nov. 28th at the residence of Mr. J. A. Falle, Frank Street, when his daughter Miss H. Alberta, was united in marriage to Mr. W. J. Carter of this city. Mr. W. A. Hardin acted as groomsman, while Miss Elsie H. Falle assisted the bride. The Rev. C. W. Watch of Holloway Street Methodist Church performed the ceremony.

Mr. Harry Wemp of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, spent Sunday here with friends.

Mr. Ted Conger of Toronto, an old Belleville boy, spent yesterday here with friends.

A lad was fined $1.50 in the police court this morning for throwing snow balls at a citizen.

50 YEARS AGO

DEC. 2ND, 1890

At the regular meeting of the Young People's Christian Association of Bridge Street Methodist Church, Mr. R. H. Gordon, the President, presided. Addresses were made by the Rev. Robert Wallace and Mr. W. Flint Jones. Mr. A. Wensley rendered a vocal solo.

Mr. Osborne of Natal, South Africa, is spending a few days here.

Mr. W. P. Clarke has received official notice of his appointment as Fishery Overseer for this district.

The ferry steamer was able to navigate today between here and the Prince Edward shore.

An Arctic owl was shot yesterday by Mr. James Bell, Front of Thurlow.

What's the Answer

BY THE ACE CAMERAMAN

(Distributed by the King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

1.—What is the average weight for a new-born baby?

2.—Is this statement true or false? Irving Berlin wrote the song "God Bless America" in 1918.

3.—According to legend, who was the world's richest man?

4.—How many continents are there?

5.—Who is considered the present greatest all-round woman swimming champion?

6.—One of the following was a famous English author of juvenile stories: (a) George Alfred Henty; (b) Shakespeare; (c) Henry Hewlett. Choose the right one.

7.—What is a hydrometer used for?

Answers

1.—Boys, 7.63 pounds; girls, 7.38 pounds.

2.—True.

3.Croesus.

4.—Five.

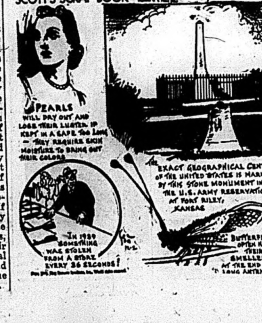
5.—Katherine Rawls Thompson.

6.—George Alfred Henty.

7.—To determine the density of liquids.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT



PEARLS WILL DRY OUT AND LOSE THEIR LUSTER IF KEPT IN A SAFE TOO LONG — THEY REQUIRE SKIN MOISTURE TO BRING OUT THEIR COLORS
THE EXACT GEOGRAPHICAL CENTER OF THE UNITED STATES IS MARKED BY THIS STONE MONUMENT IN THE U. S. ARMY RESERVATION AT FORT RILEY, KANSAS
IN 1939 SOMETHING WAS STOLEN FROM A STORE EVERY 36 SECONDS!
BUTTERFLIES OFTEN HAVE THEIR SMELLERS AT THE END OF LONG ANTENNA

French Canada Speaks

The following is the full text of the radio speech delivered by the Honourable Adelard Godbout, Premier of the Province of Quebec, in the series "Let's Face The Facts", recently. Mr. Godbout, speaking from Quebec City at the invitation of the Director of Public Information, was heard over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

As I was preparing my notes for this broadcast, I was told by the Director of Public Information for Canada that this was to be more than a national hook-up, and that, through the facilities of the British Broadcasting Corporation, and different like companies in the United States, an international audience could be reached, including France, our unhappy, yet beloved Mother.

It then seemed to me that we, French-Canadians and Acadians, should do our utmost to take advantage of this occasion, in order to tell France, as well as Canada, the Empire and the United States, how we stand in this war, hand in hand with our English-speaking fellow-Canadians, united in spirit and deed with Great Britain and our sister-nations composing the Commonwealth. We rise as one and take up arms for the defence of Canada, our country, should she ever be menaced, intent upon doing our bit in order that England be saved, France delivered, liberty, peace and humanity again resplendent over the world and Hitlerism forever crushed.

Furthermore, I reflected upon our privileged situation in Canada and the United States, which is such as to permit French-Canadians and Franco-Americans to act as a living link between the two great North American neighbours. For those of our blood, our very next of kin, who have chosen the United States as their abode and country, millions of French-Canadians and hundreds of thousands of Acadians, who have settled and prospered in the eastern and central United States and as far South as Louisiana, have their word to say when it comes to the moulding of the internal and external policies of the Republic. In time of strife such as this, it is comforting to know how magnificently the United States are taking up the job and task of helping to make America safe for Americans; it gladden our hearts to see our neighbours to the South work in perfect unison with Great Britain in establishing aerial bases for the defence of this Continent, and that is why, as Prime Minister of this French Province of Canada and in the name of the French people throughout Canada, I say to the Franco-Americans: "Freres, votre appui moral et votre appui economique, nous les apprecions hautement. Nous representons, vous et nous, une part insigne de la vie francaise libre. Nos rendons hommage aux institutions democratiques qui reconnaissent aux peuples le droit a une vie spirituelle et culturelle qui leur soit propre. Une pareille richesse accroit d'autant la beaute et la grandeur de la vie nationale de chacun de nos deux pays.

I shall not excuse myself for using both French and English in this broadcast. Their Gracious Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, as King and Queen of Canada, have set an example well worth following and of which we are justly proud. French is all the sweeter on their royal lips. And, not long ago, with what joy have we not heard over the radio our language being spoken at the changing of guards, at Buckingham Palace, where our glorious Vingt-Deux, the very pick of the young manhood of this Province, stood in the limelight!

A little later, our Governor General, His Excellency the Earl of Athlone, even before coming to Canada to take charge of his post, expressed in French his love of and his devotion to our country. Since then, many a time, His Excellency and his charming Consort, Her Royal Highness Princess Alice spoke French to our people, thus endearing themselves more and more to each and everyone of us. Even the Prime Minister of Great Britain, the Right Honourable Winston Churchill addressed the people of France in their own language, in a memorable speech over the radio. And our own Prime Minister, the Right Honourable Mackenzie King, has in more ways than one, shown his sympathy for the martyred people of France.

How could we not be moved, and very deeply so, by those oustanding proofs of ardent sympathy?

The general heading under which the present broadcast is given is an exceedingly well-founded one. Does not "Facing The Facts" mean looking them square in the eye with that keen glance which penetrates men and things, so to speak, to the very soul? If there were a time when it would have been foolhardy, even dangerous to delude oneself, such a time is now, this very moment, which is perhaps the gravest in all history. The war is shaking the world to its depths, and one need not reflect long to realize that we are directly interested in the triumph of order over chaos, of justice over injustice, of honour over knavery, of liberty over enslavement.

Thank God! all Canada understands this; and we, the French-Canadians and French-Acadians, closely united with our English compatriots, proclaim that blood will tell and are proving that claim by our deeds. We have raised ourselves up, and stand shoulder to shoulder for the defence of that Canada which has been founded, dedicated, settled and developed by our fathers, and for which throughout over three centuries we have gladly made tremendous sacrificies. This Canada now in labour, it is we who have rendered her fruitful, we who lighted up in her the spark of civilization. Confident in our strength, and by that much the better resolved, we lift our cry: "Oh sacred fatherland of ours, thou shalt not pass into the hands of the barbarian!"

Then, furbishing our arms, we are preparing ourselves with the same courage as that our noble forbears displayed to fulfill the duty assigned to us.

But such is modern war that though the seat of it be thousands of miles away, across the sea, it is soon discerned that once the enemy pierced the rampart there set up against him it would not be long ere he invaded this land of ours. Moreover, while seeing to the safety of our territory and our homes, we have realized that in the realm of national defence our front line is over there where our adversary is striking his initial blows. With what implacable cruelty has he thrown himself against France, our Mother! With what desperate fury is he now lashing out at Great Britain!

It was with a spontaneous ardour that we sprang to the help of France. Now, thrust back upon the bastion of Britain, where the fight has reached its hottest, we are sustaining the shock, we are unfolding our wings, we are harassing the enemy pending the moment sure to come when we will drive out of England, out of France and into the farthest ends of Germany those whose villainy is beyond the power of my word in any tongue to name. French-Canadians and Acadians, English-Canadians, Irish and Scotch, the same will to victory is animating us all.

There is no more peaceable race, no race more given to feelings of honour, than the French-Canadian or the Acadian, wherever found in Canada. But it is precisely because we love peace, with honour, and because our courage is indomitable that we are accepting our full share of the burden. Let no one be mistaken as to the mettle of our people. To be peaceable in the sense that we are peacable is far from being the egotist. We have the tenacity of the peasant, the cult of self-respect, the enlightened appreciation of our rights and duties, respect for those who respect us. We fear God, and not men. History proclaims our mettle, 1759, 1760, 1812 and 1914-18 are so many periods wherein are inscribed in letters of fire our love for Canada, our courage under trial, our instinct of liberty and defence, our wisdom in council, our temper in the fight.

Think of this! The four thousand pioneers, come from old France to this new one, struggling the forest, the bloodthirsty Indians; caught in the vise between the sea and land troops of the old England and the new; subjected to an allegiance imposed as such by the fortune of war as by the designs of Providence; detached from the mother country, France, so completely that no touch with her was possible in either culture or commerce; ruined from top to bottom and a prey to a thousand divers insurmountable difficulties; this little band of pioneers, I say, has blossomed into the race of French-Canadians and Acadians who have secured, one by one, the political liberties they now enjoy and powerfully contributed to the evolution of that Canadian and British constitutional law which elicits the admiration of law makers and the envy of peoples. Think of this, too! By our labours we have attained an eminent position in Canadian, Imperial, and American life. And finally, starting from the bottom of the ladder, and possessing nothing but our native qualities of courage and endurance, we have come to number a people of about four millions in Canada and some two millions in the United States.

Where other races would have perished, we have survived and thrived. We have spread ourselves out like a fine maple deeply rooted in the soil, all of whose branches and leaves go on aspiring to the light.

The lot to which God called us, to be the makers of land and the producers of men, we accepted whole-heartedly. It takes long for some to realize the size of our task; but then, to produce a lasting good takes time.

It is possible that in the eyes of the critic, whether those abroad or those at home, we have not glittered or shone sufficiently. The risky doctrines of the century have not taken much hold on us. Nevertheless, the mental, moral and material values we hold to are those which guaranteed our existence and on which we may rest our future lot in fullest confidence. When, therefore, Neo-Paganism is employed to demolish elsewhere that of which we recognize the quality and the price, our reaction is soon felt in a manner so evident that one would have to be blind not to observe it.

Being what we are, by right of birth, by education, by culture, and by will, we could not but feel ourselves threatened when religion, the family, literary, tolerance are endangered, for these elements affect not only our personal, national and political being, but also our future.

Under the aegis of British institutions, we are progressing towards our ideal, which is to serve to the utmost Canada, as well as the British Commonwealth of Nations of which we take pride in being an integral part.

Valorous race, loyal race, faithful and constant race, we say to France: "Mother, thou are not dead. You live in our blood and in our minds. And you live in the minds of all those who understand you. We all know that the hordes of Hitler and Mussolini have not been able to tear out your soul and that you await but our victory, the victory of the British nations and their allies, to take again your place amongst the nations bearers of light".

Great-Britain, queen of the seas and the air, to you we say in turn: "Thy valour moves us to the core. Your serenity in the combat, under fire is worthy of thee. Thou art revealing to the world of what precious metal God and the centuries have formed thee. And because thou lovest Canada, Canada loves thee. Because thy king is our king, and thy cause of liberty our cause also; because the defence of Christian civilization rests henceforth upon thee, until the day when our united blows have laid low the genius of evil and given back to peoples the joy of breathing freely again, we hold out to thee the hand of brotherhood that you mayest know more surely, if that were possible, that thou standest not alone to bear the destiny of the world".

And thou, Canada, our land, thou in whom we live our lives, we ask thee to listen to the voice of our hearts, which is firm and strong. It rings through space like a clarion: "It is to thee that we belong. Thou art the fundamental reason and the prime motive of the part we are taking in the struggle. We live to thy greatness, thy glory, thy happiness. Thou art the cause and the effect of our labours. We created thee, and then we worked with others to develop thy riches and to permit thee to grow stronger before the nations. To thee our work; to thee our arms; to thee our hearts! Let those who dream of destroying thee but come! Along with all Canadians, a mari usque ad mare, we form a shield against which nothing can prevail, oh land where flourish French souls and English souls, the French language and the English language, in a splendid dualism where all the law is friendship.

Newest Notes of Science

Science News Service

Brazilian cottonseed cake, under normal conditions exported to Scandinavian countries for use as fertiliser, is being used experimentally in Brazil as a fertilizer.

The ends of pea pods are cut off and then the pods are ripped open so that the peas roll down a tube into a dish with a device invented by a resident of Ardmore, Pa.

Intended to be screwed to a wall or the end of a table a new knife sharpener operated by a hand crank holds a blade in the correct position and removes nicks and flaws.

Northern Ireland exported 4,608,958 linen handkerchiefs, 2,566,964 linen towels and 3,328,570 linen napkins to the United States in the first eight months this year.

A powerdriven machine has been patented by mixing paint in stores as customers wait, enabling merchants to carry small number of cans of base paint and an unlimited supply of pigments.

Airplanes equipped with sleeping accommodations, cruising at a speed of 200 miles an hour at sufficient altitude to avoid atmospheric disturbances, will be used on a new air service between Calcutta and Bombay.

Creating 50-miles-an-hour blasts of wind a huge electric fan has been erected beside the testing track of a Michigan automobile plant to show what happens to cars hit by gales on one side while running at various speeds.

KILLED BY GRAVEL FALL

Saskatoon, Dec. 2. — (CP) — George Morris Etsell, 23, of Coleville, Sask., who came to Saskatoon only a few days ago to seek enlistment in the R.C.A.F. and who took a job Saturday hauling gravel, was killed yesterday when tons of gravel fell on him at the Latrace Gravel pit, north of the city.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

James W. Barton, M.D.

Sleepiness and Wakefulness Are Not Normal Conditions

One of my summer neighbours came to me one evening and invited me to go fishing next morning. I was unable to go and he was much disappointed. I then asked him about Bill Blank who usually accompanied him on his fishing trips.

"Oh, Bill has no time to go fishing any more. He seems to sleep all night and wants to sleep all day".

"What about Jack Blank?"

"Jack says he wakes up about 2 o'clock every morning, can't get to sleep for hours, and dreams so much that he is not rested in the morning and so doesn't feel like going fishing so early in the morning".

Why did Bill want to sleep all the time this infection was discovawake for hours every night?

Bill had a number of infected teeth covered with crowns and bridgework and because they caused no pain did not visit his dentist regularly. He had never had an Xray examination of his teeth. By the time this infection was dissovered it was too late to save his life. He died of heart disease.

Jack's wakefulness was due to his overeating at the evening meal, especially large fat or starch desserts. About 8 hours after a meal our physiologists inform us, the liver is doing its hardest work. It is thus at this time—about 8 hours after the evening meal eaten at six o'clock or thereabout—that is, two o'clock in the morning, that discomfort, though often very slight, is enough to disturb sleep and cause wakefulness. An examination of the gall bladder and a test of the ability of the liver to do its work, showed an abnormal condition.

The only treatment necessary to prevent this wakefulness was to eat the large meal of the day at noon or to avoid rich desserts at the evening meal.

The point then is that while sleep at night is normal and necessary, sleepiness during the day is not normal and should be investigated.

There is always a cause for wakefulness at night and this likewise should be investigated.

BRITAIN GETTING SHIPS EVERY WEEK

Part of Building Program of a Million Tons Started Before War

London, Dec. 2 (CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation last night quoted a German radio report that Germany now has a new flotilla of destroyers, but commented that the British navy also is getting new ships—for fighting purposes, not propaganda.

The British Admiralty said Germany would need the new flotilla to replace nine of her most powerful destroyers last at Narvik, Norway in April, the BBC reported.

Of the British ships, the BBC commented:-

"The British navy is getting some new ships, too. She gets them every week. Some of them are very big ones. They are part of the enormous building program of well over a million tons which was in progress when the war broke out.

"But the British Admiralty doesn't tell the enemy when these new ships go to sea. They are used for fighting—not propaganda."

NEW CLOTHES FOR BOMB VICTIMS

Members of the Women's Voluntary Service are shown in this dramatic picture, fitting new clothes on Londoners who have been bombed out of their homes in recent Nazi air raids. The voluntary service has been equipped with mobile vans in which they carry food and clothing to the bombed areas for work such as shown in this picture.

LOAN BY U.S. TO CHINESE GOV'T BEING OPPOSED

Congress Hostility is Voiced by Senator Alva Adams

TO OUTLINE PROPOSAL

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP). — The first evidence appeared today of congressional hostility to the proposal for granting the Chungking Chinese government a $50,000,000 loan from the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to aid that nation in its stand against Japan.

Senator Alva Adams (Dem., Colorado) told reporters that if the proposal was as represented, he would oppose it on the ground that the stabilization fund was not the proper source to supply the money.

This loan would be in addition to $50,000,000 in credits to be advanced by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's export-import bank. Plans for the $100,000,000 "helping hand" to Chungking were announced during the week-end, giving pointed new emphasis to the administration's policy regarding Japanese activities in China.

Informed legislators said that Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau probably would outline the China loan proposal when he appeared today before a closed session of the Senate Banking Committee to discuss operation of the stabilization fund.

Chinese requests for loans were said to have been based on the contention that Chiang Kai-shek's government could not keep its army of 2,500,000 in the field against the Japanese much longer unless it had financial aid. The understanding of some legislators was that if the loan should be granted, it would be used not only to bolster sagging Chinese currency, but to meet current government expenses.

Senator James Byrnes (Dem., S. Carolina), another member of the banking committee, said he woud not be adverse to giving financial assistance to China, remarking that if the Chinese continued to keep the Japanese occupied in Asia there might be less need for increasing American defence forces in the Pacific.

Gains by Greeks May Be Slower In the Future

London, Dec. 2 (CP)—British military circles advanced the opinion today that Greek gains against Italian forces in Albania henceforth must be at a slower pace. They gave these reasons:

1. The Greeks are operating in a very difficult country which is new to them.
2. Their lines of communication are longer and they have not had time to organize them.
3. The Italians have brought in fresh troops and are making a determined effort to hold their pursuers.

Reviewing the first month of the fighting, these sources said the war which started as an invasion of Greece has become a counter-attack in Albania with no Italians remaining in Greece.

At the same time an official informant asserted that the retreat of the Italians had never become a rout. He said the Italian soldiers had found themselves let down by bad and inefficient plans of their leaders, but "fought as well as they had been allowed to fight."

Military sources called the capture of Koritza the key to Allied success in the north and expressed belief that it ended the land threat to Salonika, except from an Axis thrust through Yugoslaia or Bulgaria.

They declined to say how many British troops were sent to Greece, but indicated the number was not large.

Yugoslav Minister Conferred With Hitler Says Budapest

Budapest, Hungary, Dec. 2 (AP) —Diplomatic sources here reported today that a weekend conference between Hitler and the Yugoslav Foreign Minister, Alksander Cincar-Markovic in Berlin had prepared the way for Yugoslavia to join the Axis military treaty.

The meeting was said to have ironed out details for Yugoslavia to follow Hungary, Rumania and Slovakia, who already have been added to the German-Italian-Japanese 10-year military and economic accord.

(There was no confirmation of the report from other sources. Previous indications were that Yugoslavia has been resisting German pressure to join the pact.)

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25¢

Heavy Snowfall Blocks Streets And Highways Throughout District

Old Man Winter struck with a sudden vehemence over the week-end and residents of the city and district awakened Sunday morning to find themselves buried beneath a white blanket that measured many feet in depth in various places.

The beauty of the scene could not be denied, despite the inconveniences that accompanied it. The former drab appearance of trees and shrubbery was converted overnight into a veritable winter fairy-land. Trees were heavily laden with the white mass while the entire city was mantled in a covering of gleaming white.

However, that was not the point that interested residents so much. Driveways and streets were plugged. Sidewalks were filled to a depth of fourteen inches of snow just as one stepped out of the doorway. And the city rang to a shovel symphony during the early hours of Sunday morning, that was the aftermath of many a Sunday morning "sleeper-in's" deprived diversion.

Many planned drives were cancelled as cars nestled in the warmth of garages, kept there by snowbanks outside. Some, however, dug their cars out, to their regret and promptly found themselves "stuck" before much distance had been negotiated. However, the City Public Works Department came to the rescue and men and trucks worked all day Sunday and Sunday night until this morning clearing main thoroughfares and other streets.

Groceries Delivered Sunday

City deliveries of groceries, other foodstuffs and purchases were held up by the storm that enveloped the city Saturday night. Delivery trucks were stuck and many firms resorted to the time-honored Dobbin and sleigh in order to effect delivery. At that some residents did not receive the weekend grocery basket until late on Sunday in some instances, but the majority took it good-naturedly with more than passing sympathy for the hard-worked deliverymen.

A C.N.R. crew picked at rock-like ice that buried the Pinnacle Street tracks before a locomotive and its train of freight cars could negotiate the run between the C.N.R. and the C.P.R. main lines.

Urgent calls for labor and trucks were received by the local Employment Office early Sunday morning from the R.C.A.F. Trenton, where large banks of snow had effectually tied up the Sunday routine of training. Employment officials worked the major part of the day sending some sixty men and trucks to the aid of the airmen.

Travel Still Heavy

Outside the city roads and by-ways were snowfilled. County Road Superintendent W. L. Langlois stated that the county road system while still open is very heavy, and advised potential travellers to wait at least another day before attempting to start any lengthy trips north of the city.

Highway No. 14 to Marmora is open as is No. 7 from Marmora to Madoc. Difficulty in the greater majority of the county roads is experienced when vehicles attempt to pass or when they meet each other. Most of the roads consist of one-track bumpy trails. County plows are working steadily and a clearing up of the situation is expected by tonight providing more snow does not fall or strong winds spring up.

Adding to the general winter touch, thermometers dropped quickly over night. Five degrees below zero was registered at the City Purification Plant at midnight and this in turn dropped another degree towards morning. Lower temperatures were registered in the city proper.

The weather man does not hold out much respite. Weather forecasts today told a story of cold weather accompanied with snow-flurries.

Trenton and District

Heavy Vote Expected At Trenton Today

Trenton Special)—In spite of the snow and cold weather, Trenton political men predict that a heavy vote will be polled. Approximately 60 cars have been enlisted by the various candidates in order to transport the voters to the polls and home again.

One political aspirant has even obtained the use of a team and cutter to transport voters in the outlying districts to the polls.

A great deal of interest has been shown this year between the candidates for the mayoralty, but the boys who set odds refuse to do so this year as it appears to be an even battle.

Mayor O. "Buster" Alyea seeking office again, went to the expense of putting out a paper of his own last Saturday. In the paper he stressed the need for everyone to exercise his franchise.

Mayor Alyea, who served last year without receiving a cent of remuneration, states that he will do so again.

Ex-Mayor Harry Cory, who is seeking to be returned to office, is working hard to win the election. With a large number of supporters, he is canvassing the town.

Valedictorian Thanks Teachers for Help at School

One of the outstanding addresses at the Trenton High School Commencement, held last week, was the valedictory address by Patricia Gorrill. During the address, Miss Gorrill thanked the teachers in the school for the help that they have given the students in the school.

"There are three exceptional days that are outstanding in the minds of the students during their term at school," said Miss Gorrill. "They are the first day in kindergarden, the first day in High School and then this, the graduation day."

"When we enter public school as little tots, we are very nervous and afraid of the teachers but soon this nervousness disappears and the teachers become friends instead of strict and harsh adults. In High School we think at first that we will never be able to master the subjects but gradually we overcome them and finally finish."

"We are proud of our cadets, and proud of the boys and girls who are now serving with His Majesty's Forces both in Canada and overseas," said Miss Gorrill.

"Schools, teachers and graduation will all have a permanent position in our minds," concluded the pretty graduate.

Princess Juliana Unlikely to Visit In Great Britain

London, Dec. 2 (CP Cable)—An authoritative Netherlands source said today there is no likelihood of Princess Juliana and her daughters coming to Britain for Christmas on a visit to Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Bernard.

He said there has been no confirmation of a report published in the London Star that the trio might leave Canada to rejoin the remainder of the Royal Family.

A gossip column in The Star said "There is a likelihood that Juliana and her daughters may be in England by Christmas, if only on a visit." He recalled that Juliana was married Jan. 7, 1937, and that her elder daughter was born Jan. 31, 1938.

(It has been reported Princess Juliana is to visit Washington this month, which would seem to be a further indication that an Atlantic

P. J. MULQUEEN SERIOUSLY ILL

President of Canadian Olympic Committee Passes 'Fair' Night in Toronto Hospital

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP).—P. J. Mulqueen, president of the Canadian Olympic Committee and one of Canada's best-known sportsmen, is seriously ill in hospital here.

Hospital attendants said he had passed a "fair" night and that his condition remained unchanged through the week-end.

Known affectionately throughout Canada as "P. J.", Mulqueen is believed to have attended more Olympic games than any one in the dominion. He is a former chairman of the Ontario Athletic Commission and vice-chairman of the Toronto Board of Harbor Commissioners. He was an oarsman in his active athletic days.

Mulqueen is 67.

Hey— Kids!

SANTA CLAUS will be in Belleville

THIS SATURDAY 2 P. M.

D2-3t

Britain's Position Reviewed by AP Correspondent

(In a story last Monday, Milo M. Thompson, chief of The Associated Press London Bureau, told how events of recent weeks had encouraged Britons to believe in eventual victory. In today's article, he goes into the darker side of the situation, the obstacles which must be overcome if that victory is to be attained. Thompson helped organize the AP's war coverage before the conflict started. He returned to the United States recently.)

By MILO M. THOMPSON

New York, Dec. 2 (AP). — The question which has greeted me most since I stepped off the Atlantic Clipper, fresh from London, has been: "Can the British survive?"

Much has been written about the morale of the British people and the great strength that comes from the fact that they have lost any fear of bombs and invasion which could lead to hysteria.

Something has been said, too, about the effect of some recent hopeful events which stimulate that morale. Britain is in a better mood for the struggle than she was several months ago.

Suppose we face some of the hard facts, now that the official censorship is letting some of them out, perhaps to support their thesis that Britain will need credits, not just purchasing privileges, if she is to survive.

Victory Will Take Years.

These are the apparent facts:

1. No authoritative spokesman in England can find reason to say, even in closest confidence, that he sees any hope of war being ended short of several years. British authorities pray for a collapse somewhere in enemy ranks, or for an insurrection in occupied territory, but they have no sure evidence either will come.

2. The bombardment of London and other principal cities gradually, slowly, but inexorably, pushes its knife into the nation's vitals. It is no use to pretend that important factories, military establishments or public utilities have not been hit.

Sometimes one of them is damaged beyond repair, so that it becomes easier to build a new plant than try to repair the old. All that is hopeful about it is that, at its present rate, it would take years to crush Britain's war power that way.

3. The survival of British war industries depends upon more than British morale, pugnacity and training of workmen; it depends largely upon planes and ships.

The greatly expanded enemy coast line on the Atlantic and Mediterranean, the loss of the French bases between Malta and Gibraltar, and the crisis in the Eastern Mediterranean have made such demands upon the Royal Navy and, though its original power is not greatly diminished, it is strained to cover the convoys.

No Friends in Europe

You will hear different figures about the number of ships urgently needed. I have heard the figure of 175 destroyers mentioned. Lacking such help, the British vital arteries are likely to be exposed to raiding submarines, torpedo boats and pocket battleships.

4. Britons are weakened by the fact that in this "total war" they must not only supply the funds for war, but do it when their own sources of funds—the fountainheads of their wealth—are under fire.

They must keep their country running, doing its work, making its profits. To keep it running they have to find the money not only for armies and material, but for the replacement of ruined stocks, of wrecked offices, of exporting factories, non-military machinery, even homes of workers. Bankers told me even before the war started that they did not know how it was to be done. They also did not know how they could avoid doing it.

5. Perhaps the culminating weakness in the British position lies in unpopularity of the English. They have had hosts of "friends" when that friendship served the other fellow, but, though I have travelled all over Europe, I know of no people which loves the English for themselves. They have been too long in great power internationally and too nonchalantly complacent about it to be esteemed warmly.

(America, to be sure, is scarcely more popular among the peoples of the Old World. That is a result of being powerful. But America gains some friendliness from the fact that each people claims to have a part in the American amalgam and thus a direct personal interest in this country. England has not even that.)

Government in Dilemma

It is because the future is so uncertain that Britons get a life out of such things as the blow at Taranto, the successes of the Greeks.

Those in America who wish Britain well seek no more avidly in the news from London for indications that the tide is turning than Britons seek in the news from America for indications that succor will come before the creeping paralysis induced by bombardment and the shrinking purse of the nation have reached the strangulation point.

One can see in the facts some reason for the British policy of under-estimating their own successes. A citizenry so eager for assurance that all goes well and so weary from the no longer simple problems of existence might let down if too much encouraged. And the Government also asks itself why it should not lull the enemy with the feeling he is having most of the successes."

Persons in the Government of Britain are in a dilemma about the United States. They do not know what policy to pursue. If they stress their successes, they are afraid Americans will think they are doing very well without aid. If they stress failures, they are afraid Americans will think it is useless on a foredoomed island and better to put all America has into defending home shores.

Now one policy and now the other gains expression.

Donations Received By Red Shield Auxiliary For Month of Dec.

Donations received by Red Shield Auxiliary for month of November: Holloway Street Church, 8 helmets, 3 sweaters, one scarf, 25 pair sox, 7 dozen face masks, 5 triangle bandages. For refugees: 13 small dresses, 13 small slips, 13 pair small panties, one man's sweater, one dress, one cashmere gown, two ladies' skirts, two ladies' blouses, two skirts and pullovers, one lady's woolen suit, one pair man's trousers, two coats.

Miss Huff of Huff's Island: One quilt, material donated by Huff's Island W. I. and made by Miss Huff.

Minerva Chapter O.E.S.: Seven scarves, three pair mitts, seven pair wristlets, four sweaters.

A friend: $4.00.

Mrs. McClaren: Three pair of sox.

Mrs. T. Adams: $3.00.

Gordon Street Girls: $2.00.

Mrs. C. M. Water's Group: $33.30.

A Friend: 12 yards flannelette.

Lonsdale Ladies Aid: 1 quilt, 1 shawl, 8 pair sox, one coat for refugees.

Shannonville Red Cross: $25.

Tabernacle W. A. (Mrs. Burgess' Group): Two quilts.

Plainfield W. I.: $16.60.

Mrs. Aselstine, L.O.B.A.: $5 and box of canned goods for soldiers at Christmas.

Baptist Layman Principal Speaker

Mr. Sid Johnston, prominent Baptist layman of Toronto and leader in young people's work, was guest speaker at the special Sunday evening service in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church held under the auspices of the Young People's Union.

Speaking of the statement made by the Apostle Paul "I am crucified with Jesus Christ". Mr. Johnston pointed out that Paul was no half-way man. When the apostle accepted Jesus Christ he was willing to go all out in His Service, even to persecution, prison, shipwreck and death. So many young people, deplored Mr. Johnston, when they profess faith in Christ, are satisfied to settle back in comfort with nothing more to worry about and proceed to have a good time. "Paul kept no souvenirs of his old life and neither must we if we are to keep the faith and fight a good fight", warned the speaker.

The President of the B.Y.P.U., Mr. Wilfred Hales was in charge of the service and introduced the guest speaker. Miss Helen Thompson read the Scripture lesson and the evening prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. C. T. Olmstead. The anthem was rendered by the young people's choir and Miss Edna Jobson sang a very pleasing solo. The benediction was given by Mr. Johnston.

False Addresses Bring Convictions Under L. C. A.

Charged with supplying the improper address, while purchasing liquor from the Ontario L.C.B., Clifford Reynolds, of Picton, appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., at the Court House today and was convicted on two counts of giving a wrong and fictitious address when purchasing liquor. Reynolds pleaded guilty as charged and was fined $100 and costs on each of two identical charges. In default of the payment of the fines, however, three months jail terms will be imposed, to run consecutively. Magistrate Butler made it plain.

Reynolds' arrest was made late Saturday night in Picton by Provincial Constable Patterson, following a lengthy investigation that blazed a trail of liquor purchases in many centres outside of Picton, which were alleged to have been made by the accused when improper addresses were filed by him.

Electric Razors

REMINGTON RAND
Reduced from 16.00 to

$11.95

See the new Remington, with two cutting heads. You get a perfect shave the very first time, and in three or four minutes, $17.95.

DOLAN
THE DRUGGIST
PHONE 138

STANDARD URGES U.S. TO CONSIDER CREDITS TO U.K.

Victory Depends on 'Battle for America' Lord Beaverbrook's Newspaper Says

HITLER AND BLOCKADE

London, Dec. 2 —(CP)— The Evening Standard, published by Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft Production, urged "the people of the United States" today to consider giving Britain credits and "further help" in the Atlantic.

The paper asked the recruiting of unused resources of the automobile industry for aircraft manufacture and for "specific measures of assistance in the operation of our blockade." Victory, it said, depends on the "Battle for America."

It said the "dominating fact of this war" was that "Hitler's only hope of victory resides in his power to hold America out of the ring when he gets us in a corner and pummels us to pieces with his existing superior resources of metal."

"Hitler knows that," the Evening Standard said, adding that instead of giving up when President Roosevelt was re-elected, "he set to work to turn the President's proud promises to naught by striking at our supply lines on the Atlantic by submarine, raider and long-range bomber."

Hitler's Only Hope

"He still hopes—it is his only hope—to smash our cities and factories to rubble before Britain's blockade squeezes the juice from his war economy, before America has mustered her immense industrial strength for action."

Hitler's "empire" has outposts "even in the American hemisphere," the Standard said, and a "few ships . . . still deal with America and sail into American ports, hoping perhaps to pick up a cargo destined for Germany in the end and, worse still, carrying in their holds golds or materials with which to buy dollars."

The newspaper said Britons "lost one battle for Europe" and, with "invaluable" aid from the Greeks, are "holding our own in the battles for Asia and Africa but victory will depend on one other battle—the battle for America."

SEAMEN RECOVER FROM GRIM ORDEAL

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 2 (CP Cable) Their vessel and 10 shipmates feared lost, 17 seamen from the Canadian freighter Lisieux recovered here today from the effects of a lifeboat ordeal that two others of the ship's company failed to survive.

The seamen, brought here over the week-end after riding through a storm in two lifeboats, revealed how one of the boats had been snatched away by the gale while the 10 men still on the Lisieux waited to board it Tuesday. The marooned men, without another boat, were believed to have perished with the sinking ship.

The stranded group aboard the storm-battered Lisieux included four Canadians, Able Seamen Arthur Ewing and Kelvin Traynor of Vancouver, Oiler Charles Munroe of Jersey Cove, N.S., and Gunner William Lower of Halifax. At least 10 other Canadians were among those picked up Wednesday by two freighters and landed here Saturday and Sunday.

Able Seaman Allen Lyons of Vancouver had the weirdest story—cast adrift alone in a life boat and rescued 24 hours later as he neared collapse. He and the others had suffered intensely from the biting wind, the snow and the flying seas.

Sinking by Bows

None of the men held out any hope that 2,594-ton Lisieux, a former French craft taken over by the Canadian Government, survived the storm that struck her Tuesday morning 400 miles northeast of here. She was sinking by the bows when the survivors saw her last.

Capt. Andre Perrin, a Frenchman, and five French members of the crew—including all the deck officers—were left aboard the Lisieux when the lifeboat with Lyons in it was carried away.

Lyons had gone into the lifeboat to fend it away from the freighter's sides as the other men entered. But before they started to get in, a great wave swept the boat up to the level of the freighter's deck and then carried it away, snapping its mooring rope.

The 38-year-old Lyons fashioned himself a sea anchor to keep the boat riding properly to the wind and sat back to await rescue. He never gave up hope of being saved, he said yesterday.

The War Today

By GUY RHOADES

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Two signs today emphasized Britain's determination to tighten the blockade stranglehold about the Axis' throat and bring the war to the speediest possible end.

The first came Sunday night from Hugh Dalton, Britain's Minister of Economic Warfare, who broadcast an appeal to the United States to tighten its export control "so as to ensure that no vital materials get through to the enemy."

Mr. Dalton expressed appreciation of the things the United States has done already, but suggested: "You could refuse financial facilities to our enemies, you could immobilize all enemy ships in your ports, you could decline to trade with firms in neutral countries whom we have blacklisted as friends of the enemy."

The Minister said Germany having exhausted all the supplies she seized from the countries she has overrun, now is in just as bad or worse condition than six months ago, while Italy's position is worse than Germany's.

The second bit of evidence came today from Buenos Aires where it was said British authorities were watching closely purchases of Argentine produce for shipment to Spain, Russia, Sweden, Finland and France, all countries through which they could be trans-shipped by land to Germany.

British Frustrate Plan.

Business sources in the Argentine capital said British authorities already had frustrated a plan to seIture. 100,000 tons of Argentine cotton to Spain, warning that navicerts — the certificates which guarantee passage of the goods through the British blockade—would not be available.

Three months ago Britain granted navicerts for passage of 50,000 tons of Argentine cotton for Spain, apparently believing this represented the country's normal needs and suspecting that any further amount would be diverted to the enemy.

Other evidence that the blockade is pinching harder and harder have come to light in the recent past. The miserable showing of Italian soldiers and the indication that they are going badly partly because they have no heart in their job constitute good indications that scarcity is being felt in Italy. Spaghetti was added to Italy's list of rationed food today.

The evidence is not quite so apparent in the case of Germany unless it is indicated by the increased enterprise of the German air force and the growing activity of German naval craft which, normally, show little inclination to fight from the surface.

Again there has been the departure of German ships tied up in Tampico, Mexico, all fully loaded. These ships made two attempts to get away, ending the first with a run for cover when they mistook American warships for British ships. One ship was scuttled in the confusion.

All these straws in the wind indicate that the axis partners are beginning to feel anxiety for the future.

German Air Ace Killed Over Britain

Berlin, Dec. 2 (AP)—Bursts from the guns of a British fighter plane ended the career of Maj. Helmuth Wick, 25-year-old German air ace, Nazi quarters said today.

They reported that Wick bailed out and descended to the water off the Isle of Wight and that rescue attempts proved unsuccessful.

Wick's group was said to have been engaged in a fierce dogfight with British Spitfires and Hurricanes at the time.

Wick, promoted to command of the Richthofen Squadron Oct. 25, was decorated by Hitler Oct. 9 with Oak Leaves added to the Iron Cross.

(The Richthofen Squadron was named for Baron Mannfred Von Richthofen, German ace who was credited with shooting down 80 Allies planes before he was shot down himself in 1918 by Capt. Roy Brown of Toronto).

11 INCHES OF SNOW DURING WEEKEND

Approximatey eleven inches of snow has fallen on Belleville and district since last Saturday, according to figures kept by officials of the Belleville Purification Plant. The snow falling over the week-end, in addition to that which fell last week, establishes almost a record for depth of snow at this time of the season and with the exception of the snowfall of late March which demoralized motorized traffic for several days, surpasses in depth any attained last winter.

200 NAZI PLANES USED IN RAIDS

Thousands in Southampton Homeless as Result of the Attacks

Southampton, Dec. 2 (CP)—Some 200 German aircraft, coming over singly and in small waves, pounded this south coast shipping centre last night.

Thousands are homeless as a result of the raid, in which the German bombers continued their mission of frightfuless until early morning.

Damage was considerable and areas of the town are in ruins.

The business section of Southampton was the main target as on Saturday night, but the suburbs also were attacked and many homes were demolished.

Emergency measures were taken to minimize the dislocation of normal services and supplies of food and temporary accommodation were provided for the homeless.

Hundreds of workers arrived at their offices and stores today to find them in ruins.

Casualties were unofficially reported to be fewer than on Saturday. Those taking shelter in one underground refuge felt the heat of the flames when a nearby hall caught fire, but they remained unscathed.

Hundreds of soldiers wrestled with a big demolition job in the centre of the city and some streets were not passable. The biggest problem was the feeding and redistribution of the homeless.

Casualties had not been calculated.

A communal underground shelter received a direct hit from a heavy bomb. Rescue parties were still extricating the bodies of the victims.

Emergency measures have been taken to deal with traffic.

ALL FRESH FRUIT IMPORTS BUT ORANGES BANNED BY U.K.

London, Dec. 2 (CP)—Imports of all fresh fruit except oranges were banned for Great Britain today in order to conserve shipping space.

Lord Woolton, Food Minister, announced the ban in a speech at Manchester, in which he also forecast a shortening of bacon rations. The fruit restritions will not affect canned fruit.

They'll Do It Every Time By Jimmy Hatlo

FRESH VEGETABLES RIGHT OFF THE FARM
CIDER
EXPRESS
THERE! THAT ONE THERE HAD PUMPKINS! TURN AROUND AND GO BACK!
FREIGHT
12-2
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lapp are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. Laura Gale, 76 Queen St., is spending the week-end with friends in Bowmanville and Toronto.

Mrs. Jason S. Tice is critically ill at her home, 43 East Moira St.

Mr. and Mrs. Lance Rumble, Toronto, spent the week-end at the home of J. Thrasher, Donald St.

Miss Margaret Orr of Toronto, spent the week-end in the city.

Members of the Army and Navy in Canada unit No. 201, visited the home of the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Herbert Willerton, 39 Ridley Street, and presented Mrs. Willerton with a token in appreciation for the services rendered so faithfully to the association by her husband.

Mr. H. Wallace Warner was in Ottawa, on Saturday attending the wedding of Mr. M. R. Warner and Miss Phyllis Higman at which he was best man.

Aircraftsman Reginald Heath of the Royal Air Force stationed at Collins' Bay, was the guest of Prof. and Mrs. Wheatley over the week-end.

Flight-Sergeant Edward Smith and Mrs. Smith of Ottawa, spent the week-end with the latter's mother, Mrs. L. Wilkes, Catherine Street.

Under the auspices of the Reliance Aircraft Athletic Club an enjoyable party was held at the Belleville Yacht Club on Saturday night when the staff of the company and their friends were entertained. About one hundred and fifty were present and spent a delightful evening in euchre and dancing. A dainty lunch was served at the close of the evening.

Miss Joy Nichols was in Toronto yesterday where she acted as godmother at the christening of her cousin, Dorothy Isabel Daly, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Daly.

O. E. S. School of Instructions Held For This District

On November 30th., a School of Instruction for officers of the Order of the Eastern Star in this district was held in the Oddfellows' Hall with Mrs. Blanche Geddes, the Worthy Grand Matron of Ontario in charge. The officers of Minerva Chapter No. 138, exemplified the work of the order. Mrs. Geddes complimented the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Cooper, and her staff of officers on the proficient manner in which they had exemplified the work. In spite of the stormy night officers of Bancroft, Havelock and Tweed chapters attended the school.

Mrs. Maud Burkholder, Associate Matron, presented Mrs. Geddes with a gift from the Chapter and expressed their loyalty and esteem. The arrangements for the School were in charge of Mrs. Bella Wonnacott, District Deputy Grand Matron.

Fascinating Recipes Are Demonstrated At Cooking School

Mom's going back to School!

And with her will be several hundred past, present and future cooks. On stage will be the teacher of slick cookery tricks —Mrs. Madeline Day.

For weeks now Mrs. Day has been working in her kitchen, organizing, planning, testing in preparation for this Fall Cooking School at McCarthy Theatre that opened Monday afternoon and will continue Tuesday and Wednesday. Every recipe she uses has been carefully tried out with the needs of the average family's health and budget requirements always pasted up above the mixing bowls.

Mrs. Day, a housewife herself, well knows the problems of the average Canadian housewife, and her Cooking School lectures keep these problems in mind—her Cookery programme is not expensive. She is not concerned with elaborate and expensive dishes. She simply tries to bring you the same foods done up in a little newer or more interesting way. Her program is designed to help women to make their meals more interesting, more nourishing and at the same time, within their budgets. When a woman has to plan and cook 1,095 meals a year, she needs a little inspiration.

IF YOUR NOSE "CLOSES UP" TIGHT AT NIGHT

HINDERS BREATHING—SPOILS SLEEP

3-PURPOSE MEDICINE

Here's mighty good news . . . If your nose "closes up" at night and makes breathing difficult, put 3-purpose Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril.

Va-tro-nol does 3 important things: (1) shrinks swollen membranes; (2) soothes irritation; (3) helps flush nasal passages, clearing clogging mucus, relieving transient congestion. It brings more comfort, makes breathing easier, invites sleep.

...And remember, it helps prevent colds from developing if used in time. VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

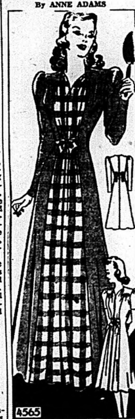
Fashion Flashes

Just about now one begins to tire of dark hats. Which is why the shops are showing and selling turbans of white silk or wool jersey. For afternoon these turbans are trimmed with brilliant clips or gold ornaments. One white wool turban has a big ornament in black and red patent.

Dress up your suit with a new blouse. Rose petal satin makes a smart blouse with a low square yoke outlined by rows of tiny scallops edged with tiny tucks. Same treatment for bow at high neck and short sleeves.

Frock Or Housecoat

By ANNE ADAMS



Pattern 4565

Say "Merry Christmas" to a favorite friend or relative with this stunning Anne Adams housecoat, Pattern 4565. The same easy pattern may be used to make up a becoming dress, too. Both styles may have convenient zippers right down the centre of their double front panels which, by the way, look striking in contrast. The yokes are shaped in graceful curves to match the soft V-neckline. Just one long centre seam goes down the back with darts to fit-in the waistline neatly. Have long or short sleeves; let a front sash tie in a perky bow. From the first slash of the scissors to the final pressing, you'll find this style wonderfully simple to make, especially with the Sewing Instructor to guide you!

Pattern 4565 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 takes 4 1-4 yards 35-inch fabric and 1 5-8 yards contrast.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Send your order to The Ontario Intelligencer Pattern Department, 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

Interlake Tissue

QUALITY WITH ECONOMY..

3 Completely wrapped rolls 25¢

MADE IN CANADA

Just ask for 3 Interlake

WISHFUL THINKING . . .

WON'T HELP YOUR FIGURE. DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT RIGHT NOW!

Corsees BY Flexees

IS THE ANSWER TO THE PRAYER OF A WOMAN WITH SLIM OR AVERAGE FIGURE

5.50 AND UP

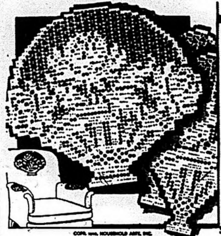
They're exquisitely feminine . . . completely different from run-of-the-mill garments because CORSEES is made with FLEXEES exclusive Lastiques and Flexees superior designing. Soft, boneless, light as a feather and washable as a glove.

The GEORGIA SALON

OUR NEW ADDRESS 226 FRONT STREET

Dress Up Chairs In Filet Crochet

Household Arts by Alice Brooks



COPR. HOUSEHOLD ARTS, INC.

Simple String Crochet Serves For Buffet Set And Scarf Ends

PATTERN 6819

Make your home more attractive—give your chairs a protection that is a decoration too by making this easy filet crochet chair set. It costs next to nothing for it's done in mercerized string. Pattern 6819 contains charts and directions for set; materials needed; illustrations of it and stitches.

To obtain this pattern send twenty cents in coins (20c) (stamps cannot be accepted) to The Ontario Intelligencer Household Arts Dept., 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

The Underweight Child

Giving the underweight child proper attention is a great deal easier than dealing with the overweight boy or girl. You can put him on a higher calorie diet without running into any dangers comparable to those you risk when you cut down his calories. In most cases, the only difficult part of the problem is whet his appetite and get him to eat more.

It may seem odd, but for both the overweight and the underweight you need to prescribe more exercise. In the case of the latter, the purpose is to increase his appetite. When a desire for more food has been created, you don't try to overload his stomach with food—you simply arrange his diet to include foods with plenty of calories. If these are high in Vitamin B-1 all the better, for this has been found to have the effect of creating hunger.

Just as overweight is sometimes due to a glandular irregularity, so, too, underweight is often the result of a systemic disorder that needs attention. That is why it is so necessary for the dieting of children to be undertaken by parents only upon the advice of a physician who has had a chance to make tests and examinations.

In many cases you simply can't tell just by looking at a child whether it is overweight or underweight. The fact that Johnny or Mary is over or under the weight given as normal for children of his or her age in the standard charts, doesn't necessarily have significance. These so-called "normal" weights are simply average weights. Obviously, a child can be a few pounds above or below the average weight and still be normal. Age, height, family tendencies climate, environment are all factors to be considered in normal weight.

A mother usually weighs her infant every day, and takes note of every ounce lost or gained. But when the child gets older, she may not weigh it more than once a year. She neglects an important detail in safeguarding health. It is a good idea for old and young to watch the scales constantly. If Johnny, in his growing years, doesn't gain weight regularly, then of course something is wrong. If he gains weight at a rate that is obviously too fast, the matter needs attention. If an adult past the growing years takes on weight regularly something also is wrong.

Watching your child's weight and health is something that will pay big dividends in heatlh. At Dafoe Nursery, we chart the weight and height of the Quintuplets month by month now. The latest monthly chart may be of interest in this connection:

Child	height inches	weight this month lbs.	change in month lbs. gain
Marie	45½	54	1½
Emilie	45¾	55	1
Cecile	46	55¼	½
Annette	45¾	54½	¾
Yvonne	45¾	53¾	1¼

During the month Marie, Emilie and Yvonne gained 1-4 inch in height, Cecile and Annette remained approximately the same height.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

"Address Christmas Envelopes Plainly"

Many people spend a vast amount of time and care and expense on the planning and buying of their Christmas cards, but when it comes to addressing the envelopes, they are inexcusably careless and untidy.

We should be proud of the appearance of our Christmas-card envelopes as they wing their way into the homes of our relatives and friends. The envelopes should be perfectly groomed, should make a fine first impression.

"Address your Christmas envelopes plainly"—this the annual plea of the Post Office Department. Wise advice this, not only because of the practical result of our careful addressing of our envelopes but also because our care in addressing our envelopes will register good taste and good form.

Let's consider a few details that make for a well-groomed envelope:

First, we should make a resolution to write carefully, legibly, in our very best handwriting.

We may use either the indented form or the block form of address:

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Smith
123 Prospect Street
Home City
New York

or

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Smith
123 Prospect Street
Home City
New York

"Open punctuation" is the form now used on envelopes. This means that you use no punctuation at the ends of the lines of the address.

Be certain that you have the correct address, and that you write it correctly. Be sure you spell the name correctly. No one enjoys having his or her name misspelled.

Concerning Abbreviations

Using abbreviations on envelopes is an unattractive habit. It shows haste and carelessness, and these are qualities we shouldn't show on our envelopes. Even business houses who know what's what do not permit the use of abbreviations on envelopes. It takes only a second to write a word in full—just about as long as it takes you to make the period after the abbreviation!

Another argument against using abbreviations is that they often cause delays and troubles in delivery. This is especially true in the names of States: for example, in distinguishing between the careless writing of Ariz. and Ark.; N.Y. and N.J.; Tenn. and Tex.; Mo. and Mr.; Nebr. and Nev.

If your name is James or Charles or Richard, wouldn't you rather see it spelled in full than abbreviated to Jas. or Chas. or Rich'd?

Write Street and Avenue and Square and Road in full, and begin them with a capital.

Write the name of the city. Never use the word "City" as an address. It is too indefinite, and, if the letter has to be readdressed, it may lead to confusion.

Do not use the sign of "and" (&) when addressing an envelope to Mr. and Mrs.

Permissible abbreviations, of course are Mr. and Mrs. and Jr. (If Jr. is abbreviated, it is written with a capital. If it is not abbreviated, it is written with a small letter, "junior".)

North, South, East, West should be written in full and capitalized, in the names of streets or cities or states: East, Ninth Street, West Haven, South Carolina.

Tips on Table-Manners

Chew your food slowly. Chew your food quietly. Keep your lips closed when you are eating.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

City Life is Strange to Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We used to go "steady" and were very much in love with each other before she came to this city. In the country where she lived, and where I used to live also, she had few boys and girls of her own age as company. But since she came here to live with her married sister, she seems to have lost interest in me.

She doesn't like my show of affection and gets peeved if I kid her as I used to do.

John

Don't lose confidence in yourself so easily. It's more than likely that the change from the country to city life may make this young lady appear a bit more "hight-hat" than she really is. Give her a chance to become acclimated.

In Love With Another Women

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My first marriage didn't turn out well. A year after the divorce I married again, and my wife and I got along splendidly for a few months. Then we began to quarrel and have been at it for five years. But I don't want to divorce her.

If my wife sees me dancing several times with one woman during the course of an evening, I get the mischief when we reach home. I think I now have fallen in love with another girl, who loves me. My wife doesn't know anything about it. Would you advise getting a divorce, so I can marry this other woman? Or should I stay with my wife and continue quarreling?

In Doubt

I'll make a wager that your wife knows about the other lady, and that's probably why she picks so many quarrels with you.

You say you don't care to divorce her, which suggests that she makes you comfortable. Why don't you try to give her less cause for jealousy in the future.

Boy Addicted to Ogling

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My boy friend and I have been going "steady" for over a year and want to get married a soon as we get a little older. We are both 21.

My problem is that whenever we go out he can't seem to take his eyes off other girls, straining his neck in turning around to see them. When I mention it, he denies doing it. Why does he do this? I'm considered attractive. Isn't he satisfied with me? When a boy looks at me, he gets angry and says I encourage it. What do you advise?

B.

Why not wait and see if the boy friend recovers from this embarrassing habit before you sign up with him for life? He's only 21. Gaping and straining his neck to look at every girl he sees may be nothing more than a kid's greedy gazing into the candy-store window. At the same time, many old codgers three times his age never get over this habit of eye-shopping; even when it doesn't go any farther, their wives are so humiliated by it that they won't go out with granddad.

Watch your step before you marry an eye-shopper.

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, December 1

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE opens the door to much gratification, happiness and high culminations of cherished ambitions, with augmented prestige, popularity and worldly as well as spiritual success. It is a time to push with purpose, security and confidence to the most exalted goals of achievement.

Those whose birthday it is may look to a year of definite achievement of long desired hopes and wishes, mainly with the recognition and rewards of industry, solidarity, worthiness and dependability.

A child born on this day may have most diversified and dependable talents for going ahead in life, reaching high place and power through its own merit, soundness and steadfastness in the service of those of prestige.

For Monday, December 2

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for gratifying climaxes of expansion, increase, achievement and exalted personal satisfactions mainly in the private affairs, domestic, romantic, social, cultural and financial. These are all under splendid impetus for promotion, favors, increased popularity with augumented values in possessions. There might be a surprising legacy.

Those whose birthday it is stand on the happy threshold of a prosperous year, with a sudden precipitation of good fortune and beneficences of far-reaching effect on the future life. Change is imminent, incited by growing wealth, gifts, increased values in possessions or perhaps unexpected inheritance or other "windfall."

A child born on this day should have outstanding talents and mentality, inventive of creative genius, pronounced social qualities, benefiting by sudden coups or surprising strokes of good fortune.

One of the best ideas is that of combining of nightgown with its own robe or bed jacket. A smart set is in pale blue crepe with a rose print in yellow green and purple on bright pink and blue sprays. The low-cut gown has satin bow tied shoulder straps, and there's a satin bow at the neckline of the matching quilted coat.

Playtime on southern beaches is going to be pretty colorful judging by the southern fashions. A swell playsuit is in bright red, black and yellow-striped cotton, a jerkin and dirndl skirt worn over a bra and shorts swim suit.

New Richer RINSO Ends Weary Washdays Soaks Clothes Clean

THE NEW RICHER RINSO WITH ITS AMAZING "SUDS-BOOSTER" GIVES ME UP TO 2 OR 3 TIMES AS MUCH SUDS AS THOSE LAZY OLD-FASHIONED BAR AND PACKAGE SOAPS I'VE USED
I'M THRILLED WITH THE WAY THE "TOP-SPEED" RINSO PREVENTS THAT NASTY HARD-WATER SCUM THAT GREYS CLOTHES—DULLS COLOURS
RINSO IS ALL I USE IN MY WASHER NOW. IT GETS MY CLOTHES UP TO 10 SHADES WHITER THAN LESS MODERN SOAPS. AND EVEN MY HUSBAND'S GRIMY OVERALLS COME EXTRA-CLEAN
THAT'S RIGHT! AND RINSO LEAVES WASHABLE COLOURS BRIGHT AND FRESH AS A DAISY! IT'S EASY AS EVER ON MY HANDS, TOO
Rinso
I'M THE ONLY SOAP RECOMMENDED BY THE MAKERS OF 26 FAMOUS WASHERS—NOT JUST 1 OR 2—BUT 26. I'M GRAND FOR TUB WASHING, TOO. I SOAK DIRT LOOSE—QUICKLY AND SAFELY. TRY ME FOR DISHES, ALSO. I COME IN 3 SIZES—SMALL—LARGE—GIANT sensation of the season

Cheek stick by Revlon

A cream rouge is exciting stick form—the new glamour note in make-up—the new companion to the famous Revlon nail enamel and lipstick. Cheek stick is delightfully easy to apply—and lasts from morn till night. Smart women everywhere will want Cheek stick to complete the Revlon symphony. 8 glamour shades from which to choose your Revlon matching make-up.

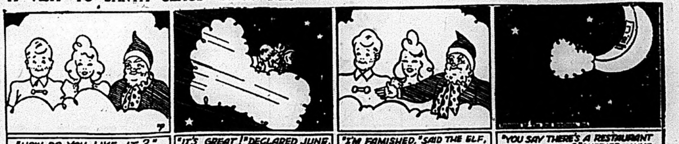
Cheek stick
Lipstick

In two sizes 65c & $1.00 or the new twin package with tissues $1.25

"It's right because it's Revlon"

A VISIT TO SANTA CLAUS—Lunch Time

By GEOFF HAYES



"HOW DO YOU LIKE IT?" SAID THE KIND LITTLE ELF. "THIS IS A SKY SLED I MADE IT MYSELF."
"IT'S GREAT!" DECLARED JUNE. "IT'S SWELL!" EXCLAIMED TED. "WHAT WOULDN'T I GIVE TO OWN SUCH A SLED!"
"I'M FAMISHED," SAID THE ELF, AS HE SWUNG TO THE RIGHT. "LET'S STOP AT THIS RESTAURANT. IT STAYS OPEN ALL NIGHT."
"YOU SAY THERE'S A RESTAURANT WAY UP HERE?" QUERIED JUNE. "WHY, OF COURSE," SAID THE ELF. "IT'S RIGHT HERE ON THE MOON."

BRITAIN MIGHT THREATEN FLANK OF NAZI ATTACK

Greek Success Against Italy May be Decisive Influence on Future of War

QUESTIONS ASKED

Newmarket, England, Dec. 2 (CP) Greek success against Italy opens for Britain "a vista of opportunity which, if we can turn it to full account, may be of decisive influence on the whole future course of the struggle," L. S. Amery, Secretary of State for India, said here Sunday.

He suggested that Italy's attack on Greece might have been a "double-cross" on Germany, Italy's Axis partner, and added:—

"If we can enable Greece to hold her own until we have disposed of the Italians in Egypt we shall have secured our armies a foothold from which we might threaten the flank of any German attack on Turkey.

Mr. Amery asked, "Why did Mussolini attack Greece and what made him choose the moment for an adventure which obviously was as ill prepared as it was criminal?

"Can it be that things are not so harmonious in the gangster garden as we have been told?

"Is it possible that the lesser gangster is impatient at the way he has been kept waiting for his share of loot at the expense of France and thought he might double-cross his fellow and pocket at least one valuable without any obligation for help rendered and, at the same time, secure a bigger voice in the general carving up of the Balkans?"

YOUNG AIRMEN GUESTS OF QUEEN

Received in Royal Drawing Room at Windsor While Inspecting Castle

London, Dec. 2—(CP Cable)—The young Canadian airmen who arrived last week, first fruits of the Empire Air Training Plan, have been guests of the Queen at Windsor Castle, it was disclosed Sunday.

They made a three-hour tour of the castle, after which Her Majesty received them in the royal drawing room where the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose helped pour tea.

One airman said afterwards: "I had seen Her Majesty on the Canadian tour. I never dreamed I'd have tea with her in her own castle. She's just grand."

The group was made up of air observers with the ranks of sergeants or pilot officers. Their number has not been disclosed.

Smug Routine Of Generations Suddenly Shattered

London, Dec. 2 (CP)—The fight against Hitler is the "beginning of a new chapter in the history of these islands," J. B. Priestley, noted English novelist, said last night on the British Broadcasting Corporation's "Britain Speaks" feature.

"The cards are being reshuffled for a new deal," he said, "and some will get a better hand than they ever got before.

"After all these fantastic changes in the social scheme, things can never return to the old way."

Priestley was discussing the Government's evacuation plan for taking people from the bombed areas to safer places in the country, and told of the setting up of a hostel for mothers with very young children in a country district near the Welsh border.

"In the ordinary run of things, some of these mothers would never have set eyes on such a place," he said. "What peace could not do for them, war did."

This was only a part of a "shake-up in the life of England."

"The smug routine of generations has suddenly been shattered," Priestley said. "It is the height of stupidity to think that we can ever return to the old routine."

Dutch Students Show Hostility To the Germans

London, Dec. 2 (CP)—More Dutch Universities may be closed if students there continue to show hostility to the Nazis, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported last night, quoting a broadcast made by the head of the German-controlled Dutch Ministry of Culture.

"You Dutch students are dissatisfied, and what is more, you show it," the BBC quoted the broadcast as saying. "However, this does not help those people whom you favor. Give up this dangerous attitude before it is too late."

The broadcast "offered a bait to Dutch Secondary School children to stop hating the Germans by offering more time for sports and games if politics were not discussed in the schools," the BBC added.

WAR SAVINGS COMMITTEE

An Urgent Message

To Every Employer

It is imperative that $10,000,000 every month be saved from the pay envelopes of wage and salary earners — and invested in War Savings Certificates.

At present, the splendid co-operation of many firms and individuals is resulting in an investment of about $2,500,000 a month in War Savings Certificates. But with the present course of the war this is not enough — heavier demands for more production require the increased objective of $10,000,000 a month.

To secure this amount, EVERY employee in Canada must save, and EVERY employer in Canada must encourage his employees to save. This not only applies to those who are sharing in the $35,000,000 monthly addition to payroll earnings which has resulted from increased business activity during the first year of the war, but to every wage and salary earner in Canada there comes the "Call to Sacrifice".

Some employers are alive to this fact. Many of them are not. Or, if they have the War Savings Plan in operation in their plant or office, their employees are not in it 100%, or are saving in such small amounts as to make it impossible to reach the increased objective of $10,000,000 each month. This condition must be changed immediately, as only an all-out 100% effort from both employers and employees will do the job required.

This 100% participation must be Canada's answer to Germany, where coercion is used to secure money. We must show the enemy, and show him NOW, that we can do voluntarily what he is doing by coercion.

Why The Help of Every Employer Is Needed

FIRST — Because Canada is at war — a war for survival as a nation. To carry on this war requires a tremendous production of the sinews of war.

SECOND — Because we must not allow our productive capacity to be diverted from our war effort by unnecessary spending.

THIRD — Because to the greatest possible extent, employees must be protected against upsetting post-war readjustments.

Remember, War Savings NOW, will provide a vast backlog of purchasing power for ordinary commodities when the inevitable period of post-war readjustment arrives.

To the extent that savings from pay envelopes are mobilized, there will be a curb upon inflation. If employees spend all of their earnings as fast as they get them, there will be rising prices, inflation and the evils that follow.

How Employers Can Help

Experience shows that the easiest and most convenient way for your employees to save is by a War Savings Payroll Plan. We ask you as an employer — whether you have 5 employees or 25,000 — to instal such a Payroll Plan; and to see that it is carried out effectively for the duration of the war.

So that employees will understand the need for saving we shall send you at intervals small bulletins to put in pay envelopes, and shall publish advertisements frequently in the press giving reasons for savings, telling where the money goes, and how savings vitally affect our war effort. Factory posters will be supplied at intervals. Honour Roll Certificates will be awarded for achieving 75% to 100% of participation by permanent employees. The necessity for regular saving will be constantly impressed upon every man, woman and child in the country.

You as an employer have a grave responsibility. The leadership in your organization must come from you. We count upon you to give this leadership. To get the plan working efficiently will, we know, involve more clerical work, but we must ask you to consider that as part of your contribution to the nation's war effort.

Nothing is more vital to the successful prosecution of Canada's war effort than the mobilization of the nation's savings. It is a gigantic task, but it must be done. We must not fail. And in the fulfillment of this task Canada is relying upon you to do your part.

To Every Employee

If we could sit down as man to man and talk about War Savings, we know that you as loyal men and women would strain every nerve to help us do what it is imperative to do to win this war.

Because, in these days you men and women who are the wage and salary earners are really in the "front line". And you are a mighty important part of that "front line" — as producers and savers.

You are striking Hitler as you carry on with your day-by-day work — keeping up vital production for both war and domestic requirements.

In addition, you fire a shot every time you put a dollar into War Savings Certificates. Because some of you don't quite understand the tremendous importance of this, we are talking it over with you — frankly.

Because to defeat our foes — and make no mistake about this — we simply must count upon the pay envelopes of Canada to produce an investment of $10,000,000 a month in War Savings Certificates. At present, loyal employees in many firms are saving about $2,500,000 a month in this manner. But this is not enough, as the course of the war is making heavier and heavier demands for the production of military, naval and air supplies and equipment.

The enemy is coercing his people to raise money. We must show the enemy that we can, and that we will, do more by a united voluntary effort than any people can do by coercion.

We can and we shall get $10,000,000 a month if EVERYONE saves his or her share. There must be no shirking, no putting-off, no "letting George do it". If necessary, you must sacrifice in order to save, for therein lies the path of duty and honour.

Why You Should Save and Lend To Your Country

FIRST, because you are helping to build planes and ships — to furnish guns and ammunition.

SECOND, because you are building a cash reserve for yourself — for your family — for the "after the war" period.

THIRD, because every dollar you spend unnecessarily may take people and machines away from war production and thus help the enemy.

You may ask: "What about the big fellows, what are they doing? What are you getting from them?" Be assured that the government is going after the big money, and getting it. Employers, executives, and wealthy people will tell you that. But, in addition to the big money, you wage and salary earners must lend Canada $10,000,000 every month.

To buy 25c War Savings Stamps is good; they have their place. Sixteen of these buy a War Savings Certificate. But employees must save in dollars. Stamps alone will not bring $10,000,000 a month.

No one need go without actual necessities to save, but we urge you not to buy things which compete for labour and materials with war production.

Save Every Dollar You Can—Lend It To Canada

There's that other vital reason for saving. When this war ends, there will be a period of readjustment. Men who now have good jobs may suddenly find themselves out of work or on short time. Let us hope not. But if you have a substantial sum in War Savings Certificates (accumulated while the war is on), you will be able to "stand the gaff" when industry is changing from a war to a peace time basis. You will be eternally glad THEN that you have saved money NOW.

We have sent to every employer the message you see alongside. When your employer asks you to start saving, or to increase your present savings, co-operate with him.

The following table represents an average basis of saving for a group of employees. These figures are only illustrative, of course, as the amount of saving which is possible will vary according to each individual's family and other economic circumstances.

EARNINGS PER WEEK	SAVINGS PER WEEK	WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES PURCHASED PER YEAR up to $20	up to $1.00	$15 to $65
over $20 to $30	$1.25 to $2.00	$80 to $130
over $30 to $40	$2.25 to $3.50	$145 to $225
over $40	$3.75 to $9.25	$245 to $600*

*Limit for 1941

Men and women, you have a grave responsibility. These are indeed critical times, but Canada has confidence in you. We believe that you, as loyal and courageous citizens, will face the facts. We urge you to save your money and buy War Savings Certificates to see our country through to victory.

W. H. SOMERVILLE and de GASPÉ BEAUBIEN, Joint National Chairmen, War Savings Committee, Ottawa.

WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

- Provide a safe investment — a direct obligation of the Dominion of Canada.
- Are sold in convenient denominations: $5 for $4, $10 for $8, $25 for $20, $50 for $40, $100 for $80.
- Provide a good return — your investment increases by 25% by maturity.
- May be redeemed at option of registered owner, after six months from date of issue at an established scale of values.

War Savings Stamps provide a convenient method for the purchase of War Savings Certificates by instalments

Flying Toronto Leafs Score Pair of Victories Over Amerks And Red Wings in Weekend

Americans Beaten 6-1 on Saturday and Detroit 3-1 on Sunday

GOLDUP STARS

Former Kingston Junior Tallied First Four Goals Scored on Saturday Night

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

To ex-pilot Dick Irvin must go an assist for the groundwork, but credit Coach Clarence (Happy) Day with the actual score for polishing off the play that already has Toronto Maple Leafs gaining plaudits as at least the equal of the "wonder teams" of the Irvin-coached "kid line" days.

The Maple Leafs, always a potent factor in the National Hockey League, never in recent years has been quite the club that swept to a Stanley Cup in 1932. That was when Irvin had the Conacher-Primeau-Jackson trio in its hey-day with men like Red Horner, King Clancy and Day himself roaming the defence.

Constant infusion of new blood by Irving has kept the Leafs near the top since, but Dick switched to Montreal Canadiens before the start of the season with a revamped Toronto lineup still in its "potential" stage. The way that lineup is travelling is a tribute to the Irvin construction ability as well as to his successor and former pupil, Happy Day, for knowing what to do with it.

Leafs Fairly Flying

Specialist in "two-way" hockey—which is also an Irvin trait—Day has the Maple Leafs fairly flying at the top of the league standing. They've lost only two games and tied none in beating every other club in the loop at least once, and made it read "nine" in the win column with successive triumphs over New York Americans and Detroit Red Wings during the weekend.

It was the outstanding feat of a five-game week-end in which there were other surprises. Boston Bruins turned in the next biggest by running up 10 goals to defeat the Americans 10-3 while New York Rangers lost 4-1 to Chicago Black Hawks after showing a flicker of the form that made them Stanley Cup holders in whipping Montreal Canadiens, 6-1.

There were new stars to herald in the Leafs' victory—perhaps a new line to revive the popularity of the famous "kid line." That was the Hank Goldup-Gus Marker-Pete Langelle trio, which Goldup sparked by scoring four goals in the Leafs 6-1 triumph over Americans in Toronto Saturday night.

Scored First Four Goals

Goldup scored Leafs first four goals to come one short of a league record while Langelle helped in three of them and Marker in two. Norm Larson had sent the Americans into a 1-0 lead before Goldup counted three times in the initial session and once more in the second. Dave Schriner and Billie Taylor were the other marksmen.

The Leafs travelled to Detroit for their Sunday victory, turning back the challenge of the onrushing Red Wings with a 3-1 triumph over the second-place club. Goals by Schriner, Wally Stanowski and Gord Drillon gave them a 3-0 lead in the first period before Detroit countered on a goal by Sid Abel in the second.

At New York Sunday, Boston Bruins ran up the highest score of the season in whipping the Americans. Bill Cowley picked up six points in the victory with two goals and four assists while Eddie Wiseman planked home three goals and aided in another.

Black Hawks Third

The other Boston marksmen were Woody Dumart with two goals, and Art Jackson, Mel Hill and Roy Conacher with one each. Buzz Boll, Charlie Conacher and Lorne Carr scored for the Amerks.

The Black Hawks meanwhile jumped into third place behind Detroit with their victory over Rangers in Chicago before a crowd of 16,208. The Black Hawks took a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Max Bentley and Bill Carse, adding to it on Cully Dahlstrom's counter in the next. Phil Watson scored for Rangers and Bill Thoms for Chicago in the final frame.

WEEKEND STARS

(By the Canadian Press)

Henry (Hank) Goldup, Toronto, who was one short of the league record in scoring four goals as the Maple Leafs whipped New York Americans, 6-1, Saturday night.

Neil Colville, Rangers, whose first period goal started the Rangers on their first victory in four games with a 6-1 triumph in New York Saturday over Canadiens.

Eddie Wiseman and Bill Cowley, Boston, who sparked the Bruins to a 10-3 triumph over Americans Sunday. Wiseman picked up three goals and an assist while Cowley scored two goals and helped in four others.

Paul Goodman, Chicago, who turned in another strong goaling exhibition as the Black Hawks whipped Rangers 4-1 last night.

Dave (Sweeney) Schriner, Toronto, who picked up his third point of the week-end by scoring the first goal in the Maple Leafs' 3-1 triumph over Detroit Sunday night.

BASEBALL MOGULS NOW AT ATLANTA

Major League Trade Talk Heard in Corridors of Big Hotels

Atlanta, Dec. 2 (AP)—Major league trade talk was heard freely today as baseball's moguls began their annual bargaining season as a side attraction to Wednesday's convention of the minor loops.

Two National Leaguers, President Larry MacPhail of Brooklyn and Manager Frankie Frisch of Pittsburgh led the increasing procession of big time leaders into Atlanta.

Catchers Mickey Owen and Gus Mancuso, other players and cash were mentioned in a deal brewing between Brooklyn and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cincinnati and the Boston Bees reportedly were considering a deal involving infielders Eddie Miller and Billy Myers, along with about $60,000. The St. Louis Browns are known to be ready to dish out cash for two pitchers and a seasoned catcher, although they are unwilling to part with any of their regulars. Washington wants two infielders and an outfielder. Boston's Red Sox have an eye out for Catcher Frank Hayes of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Some hints were dropped that the minors are seeking a voice in the selection of baseball's commissioner. He is now chosen by the majors.

BOWLING SCORES

Recreation Alleys

STANDING OF LEAGUES AT RECREATION ALLEYS

Ladies' League

	Played	Points
Just Us	6	21
Timber Toppers	6	21
Strollers	6	12
Corbins Office	6	10
Walker's Store	6	6
Pill Pounders	6	2

Ladies' League

Corbins	6	20
The Stooges	6	18
Corbys	6	15
South Wind	6	11
Lockermakers	6	9
C.D.S.	6	2

Ladies' League

Hit-Miss	6	19
Jitter Bugs	6	15
Deacons No. 1	6	15
Alemite	6	9
Sargent	6	8
Deacon No. 2	6	6

Ladies' League

Modern	7	22
Reliance	7	22
Swift	7	18
Met.	7	14
Happy Gang	7	6
Guild	7	3

C.N.R. League

	Played	Points
Signals	7	17
Office	7	17
Locos	7	16
Yard	7	14
Boilermakers	7	10
Wreckers	7	9

Major B League

	Played	Points
Houston	6	19
Corbins	6	18
Alemite	6	13
Corbys	6	9
Ont.-Intell.	6	8
Wisers	6	6

Major A League

Belleville Golf	7	19
Deacon Sportswear	7	18
Meade Johnston	7	15
Belleville Sargent	7	12
Corbys	7	11
Tip Top	7	9

Major C League

Luckins	4	14
Bank of Montreal	4	11
Pepsi Cola	4	10
R.C.A.F.	4	4
Shell	4	5
Deacons	4	4

High Singles in C.N.R. League—A. Jones 254; L. Train 252; C. Meens 283.

Ladies' High Single—F. Walden 253; M. Hallam 235; T. Cole 237; P. Lee 233; S. Ford 214.

Major B.—M. Callaghan 347; J. Royle 298; W. Bell 244; C. Hardwick 260; T. Boyle 262; C. Downey 242; S. Joslin 233.

Ladies' League—J. Colden 293; E. Carmichael 212; T. Mattis 214.

Major League—J. Legault 334; T. Hughes 273; P. Drumm, E. Barlow, G. Darvell 254; A. Whalen 243; G. Anderson 283.

High team score up to date:

Belleville Golf

P. Drumm	160	236	243	639
E. Barlow	238	246	335	819
T. Hughes	185	176	291	652
A. Little	251	202	225	676
J. Legault	307	282	310	899
Total	1141	1142	1404	3687

The Eastern Canada grid final between Ottawa Rough Riders, Big Four champs, and Toronto Balmy Beach, unbeaten champions of the O.R.F.U., was played on a slippery blanket of snow as a blizzard raged around the players. Ottawa defeated the Beaches, white sweaters, 8-2 in the first of the "home and home" games.

SHORE CAN STILL CARRY THE MAIL IN HOCKEY WAY

Springfield Indians Have Lost Only Two Games in Fifteen Contests

BARONS BEATEN

Number of Games Over the Weekend Does Not Materially Affect Standings

(By The Canadian Press)

The name of Eddie Shore rarely appears in the scoring summaries for Springfield Indians these days—the "Mr. Hockey" of 14 National Hockey League seasons has too many other duties with the top team in the American Hockey League.

There are few of the end-to-end rushes that were characteristic of Shore in his 13 seasons with Boston Bruins and one with New York Americans. He is attending strictly to business—the business being to coach his Indians while holding down a regular defence post on the team.

That the business is successful can be seen with a glance at the League standings. With nine victories and four draws in 15 starts, Springfield is well in front of the Eastern section and also has compiled three more points than Cleveland Barons, top team in the western division.

Still Can Carry Mail

Shore still can carry the mail on occasion, however, as he proved while the Indians were turning in two more victories during the weekend, with a 5-3 triumph over New Haven Eagles and a 6-5 win over Buffalo Bisons.

Springfield was trailing 5-4 in Buffalo last night when Eddie started the play that resulted in Chuck Corrigan slapping home the tying counter. The example inspired Fred Thurier, league-leading scorer, to bag his fourth point of the game and give Springfield the victory with an unassisted goal in the last minute.

The Indians had been forced into overtime for their Saturday victory against New Haven in Springfield. Goals by Charlie Mason and Glenn Brydson in the extra session gave Springfield the triumph after Chuck Corrigan had scored two and Bus Wycherley one in the regular time. The New Haven scorers were Marcel Tremblay, Earl Roche and Don Willson.

Cleveland Barons Beaten

Cleveland, top western section team, failed to keep pace with their co-leader when they lost 3-2 to Hershey Bears Saturday, although beating Providence Reds 4-2 Sunday. In other Sunday games, New Haven defeated Philadelphia Ramblers 6-1 and Pittsburgh Hornets downed Indianapolis Capitals 4-1, while Saturday's games were rounded out when Philadelphia beat Buffalo 3-1 and Pittsburgh defeated Providence, 6-2.

Hockey Results

National League

Sunday Results

Toronto 3; Detroit 1.
Boston 10; Americans 3.
Chicago 4; New York 1.

American League

Sunday Results

New Haven 6; Philadelphia 1.
Springfield 6; Buffalo 5.
Cleveland 4; Providence 2.
Pittsburgh 4; Indianapolis 1.

American Association

Sunday Games

St. Louis 3; Omaha 0.
St. Paul 7; Tulsa 2.

U. S. Eastern Amateur

Sunday Results

New York 3; River Vale 1.
Baltimore 4; Boston 2.

Ottawa Gains 6-Point Lead In First Game With Beaches For Eastern Canadian Title

Rough Riders Show Considerably More Power on the Ground

EVEN AT HALF-TIME

Dave Sprague Takes Andy Tommy's Lateral Pass for Touchdown

By SCOTT YOUNG
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP)—The stamp of a champion is upon the team that has power within the opposition 10-yard line. Lack of, that essential commodity may make Balmy Beach runner-up to Ottawa for the 1940 Canadian Rugby Union championship.

You may think from Saturday's 8-2 score in favor of Ottawa here and from statistics on the game, that the opening joust of the home-and-home, total-points Eastern title series was something of a cake-walk for Ottawa's ponderous but mobile Roughriders. If you have that impression, you are wrong. For Beaches had more scoring opportunities than Ottawa, but couldn't make them count because of something they lacked all season—power when the heat is on.

Twice in the second quarter Beaches had the ball on Ottawa's goal-line. Both times they failed to score, and through the stands snow-sodden fans recognized that impotency as the one fault perceptible in the Balmy Beach team during an unbeaten and untied Ontario Rugby Football Union season.

Gain Six-Point Lead

From another angle, Ottawa's stalwart wingline had plenty to do with Beaches' failures in pay territory. That mighty forward wall was tossing 'em back all afternoon, digging cleats deep into Varsity Stadium's snow-covered surface to stand firm against the west efforts of Frankie Seymour and his running mates in the Beach backfield.

A scanty crowd of 7,000 watched Riders' gain a six-point lead for the second game of the series in Ottawa Saturday. Early in the game, Beaches looked good everywhere but near the Ottawa goal-line but by the fourth quarter they were tired and ineffective. Bruce Barron, outstanding at secondary defence during the contest's earlier stages, was hurt and forced from the game in stopping Dave Sprague in the second quarter.

Without him Beaches couldn't stand the consistently heavy pounding and the Interprovincial champions started to roll. In the second half there was only one team on the field, and with seven minutes to go when Dave Sprague took Andy Tommy's lateral and smashed over the line for the game's only touchdown he climaxed a show of power that had made that touchdown inevitable.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Bill Cowley, Boston Bruins' starry centre, and Bryan Hextall climbed into a first-place tie for the National Hockey League point-scoring leadership in a free-scoring weekend. Cowley gained two goals and four assists in his club's 10-3 victory over New York Americans while Hextall picked up one goal and three assists in Rangers' two games. The former leader, Syd Howe of Detroit, bagged only one assist to fall into a third-place tie with Phil Watson of Rangers, who counted a goal and three assists. Henry (Hank) Goldup scored four goals for Toronto to take first place among goal-getters with seven and also hold a tie with two team-mates, Gordie Drillon and Syl Apps, for the last spot in the Big Seven.

The leaders.

	G.	A.	Pts.
Hextall, Rangers	5	7	12
Cowley, Boston	3	9	12
Howe, Detroit	4	7	11
Watson, Rangers	3	8	11
Goldup, Toronto	7	3	10
Drillon, Toronto	6	4	10
Apps, Toronto	5	5	10

YOUR WIFE WILL LIKE THE FRAGRANCE OF TRUMP Cigars

DOUBLE VALUE DOUBLE ENJOYMENT

No more checking up on the cost of your smokes — no more time "in the doghouse" because your better half objects to heavy, stale smoke odors filling the house.

Trumps contain Havana filler — delicate — aromatic — mellow-mildness — answer the domestic problem. Where cigars are sold you'll find Trumps. Ask today. Buy them by the box—only $1.25 for 50.

GUARANTEE
We guarantee that these cigars today at two for five cents contain Havana filler of the same quality as used in higher priced cigars blended with fine imported tobaccos . . . .

2 for 5¢

Minnesota Gophers Top-Ranking Team In United States

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—There aren't enough games left on the 1940 United States football schedule to have any great effect on the season as a whole, so it appears to be about time to summarize the results.

The final big week of the campaign produced only one major change in the status of the leaders. That was when the mighty Texas Aggies were beaten, 7-0, by Texas for their first defeat this season. That not only broke a string of 19 consecutive victories but it kept the Aggies from winning their second southwest conference title outright and put them out of the running for the mythical national championship.

Next Saturday's game between Southern Methodist and Rice will, unless they tie, decide which team will tie the Aggies for the conference. Despite that defeat Texas A. and M. still is very much in the running for a place in the Orange Bowl or Cotton Bowl games New Year's Day.

The "major" teams that came through the season unbeaten and untied were Minnesota, which finished its western conference conquest a week ago; Stanford's Pacific coast champions; Tennessee, title winner in the Southeastern Conference, and Boston College, unofficial ruler of eastern football. Lafayette, while not regarded as equal to Boston College in the east, had a perfect season and Mississippi State, runner-up to Tennessee, had one tie to mar its record.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. 2—(AP) — Bob Feller would have been in the movies now if the Indians had won the pennant. . . . Lew Jenkins, the lightweight king, has organized his own swing band and is available for bookings. . . . Up to now Connie Mack has nixed all offers to sell or trade Frankie Hayes—and he has had plenty.

Apparently Joe Louis takes Al McCoy more seriously than a lot of other people. . . . Anyway, the champ arrived in Boston for training armed with two baggage trunks loaded with training equipment. . . . Boston writers were as surprised as anybody, and some of them said so.

New York, for some reason still unexplained, is awfully keen for a Max Baer-Billy Conn fight.

Laugh of the week:
Those New Orleans bookies who didn't know the Brown-Columbia football game was played during the morning and accepted bets right up till noon, just as if nothing had happened—and took the worst shellacking since the fair grounds went out of business. . . . Haw!

Today's guest star:
John P. Carmichael, Chicago Daily News: "Wade Killefer, the new manager of the Indianapolis ball club succeeded Jewel Ens, who succeeded Wes Griffin, who succeeded Ray Schalk who suceeded Wade Killefer,"—so goes baseball.

SHOULD BE OCEAN TUG

Washington, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The United States Navy was somewhat embarrassed today. In a list of ships released for sale the auxiliary vessel Navajo was classed as "Ocean Tub". Officers hastily assured questioners that the classification should have read "Ocean Tug".

FAMOUS CAFE BURNS

San Francisco, Dec. 2.—(AP)—One of San Francisco's landmarks, Tait's-at-the-Beach, famous cafe, was destroyed by fire yesterday. Timbers swept onto the Beach from a shipwreck 70 years ago were used in the original building. It had been unused in recent years.

IF HE'S YOUR PROBLEM
CHILD . . you'll find
HIS GIFT
at
Quick & Robertson
CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with
Ken J. Colling

In a gigantic united effort every hockey club in the Dominion of Canada will be called upon to arrange benefit games during the week of Jan. 6th, 1941, according to G. S. Dudley, dynamic president of the C.A.H.A. The parent hockey body is planning to arrange exhibition, games in every city, town and hamlet playing Canada's national game, with all net proceeds to go to the Canadian Red Cross. Mr. Dudley feels that hockey is big enough to raise well over $100,000 in this manner. We must all be prepared to do our bit in this war and no doubt Mr. Dudley's plan will be received with open arms by the various individual clubs throughout the Dominion. True enough it is a gigantic effort, but by each individual club contributing its "widow's mite" the fund should be assured.

In centres like Belleville where two and sometimes three O.H.A. clubs operate, one big gala sports night, at which various phases of winter sports could be included in a program with all contributing towards the ultimate end and it has been suggested that either the 32-34th Battery or the 3-47th Battery hockey teams, which include many district players, be brought to Belleville as the feature attraction, when Belleville stages its benefit towards this cause. The C.A.H.A. is asking that each club stage regular games. Local clubs might commence plans towards that end without delay, thus eliminating any last minute rush.

Over the week-end the 3-47th Battery beat the Kingston City sextette in the Van Horne Memorial series to advance into second place in the league standing. Queens meet the Perth-Smith's Falls "Combines" this evening, while the Belleville Reliance squad tangle with the Limestone City seniors Wednesday night. Incidentally the Van Horne schedule terminates on Dec. 11th with the Reliance Aircraft meeting the Vimy Barracks Signals. As neither the Combines or Signals have won a game yet, all "Speedy" St. Louis' gang has to do is win one of their remaining two contests to be assured of a play-off berth, providing the usual practice of four clubs entering the Van Horne playdowns is still in effect.

Local hockey mentors are quite tickled with their O.H.A. groupings this year. President Bill Cook of the Belleville juniors says: "They'll be plenty of new faces for the fans to see with Cobourg, Port Hope and the revamped Trenton kids grouped with our team." Little has been heard from the Air Force camp, Group Captain T. A. Lawrence being unable to ascertain the quality of material at hand until ice is available at the Hume Arena for practice. St. Louis' Reliance team is scanning the skies for another defenceman and maybe a couple of forwards, now that the club has been elevated to the senior "B" category. With five clubs in the district senior "B" loop interest in the winter pastime should boom in Eastern Ontario. After winning the intermediate championship last year the Whitby Red Wings asked to be raised into the higher bracket. The Air Force, Peterboro' and Belleville Reliance will welcome Whitby, but we are anxious to hear the shouts of protest that are expected to come out of Kingston, the fourth club in the loop. After all it is about 140 miles from the Limestone City to the county seat of Whitby. The present set-up should be more acceptable than the old Peterboro-Belleville-Flyer group of three clubs at least.

"It's an ill wind, etc."—The week end storm was most acceptable to the skiers of the community even if it did tie up traffic. Skiis were resurrected early yesterday and the entire day enjoyed at skiing over the snow-clad hills north of the city. Usually the Oak Hills are the mecca for the manipulators of the long, sleek wooden blades, but the week end's abundance of snow made trails more adjacent to the city just as popular with the skiiers. Young and old took to the great out-doors and enjoyed a fine day at their favourite sport yesterday. Although slightly in excess to the usual amount of snow needed for good skiing, the lovers of this winter pastime revelled in their glory for the season's initial day of the sport.

Do you remember when Toronto Argonauts, eastern football champions, won the Dominion title seven years ago today, beating Winnipeg 13-0 at Toronto? Winnipeg won the title in 1935 and again last year.

The wisecrackers were calling the Ottawa-Balmy Beach game of Saturday, "the Snow Bowl Game," and rightly so as they played on a snow-covered grid iron. For nearly fifty minutes Alex Ponton's Beachers held the driving Ottawa force in tow but Alderman Dave Sprague, no doubt thinking of the votes he could muster by returning home with victory, paid off in a series of driving smashes that saw Ottawa stage one of their famous ground marches and score an 8-2 win. Not only did Sprague spark the Rough Riders, but scored the only touchdown of the game, which should be good for a lot of votes in Ottawa, where he hopes to be re-elected to the Capital City Council today. Coach Alex Ponton's Balmy Beach squad made a commendable stand and may surprise many right in Ottwa next Saturday.

SPORT SLANTS—Maybe it was worth it as he put on a one-man show Saturday night scored four goals and beat the Americans single handed, Kingston's Hank Goldup sustained a sprained ankle for his efforts on Saturday night. . . . Joe Louis is assured of a New Year Eve's celebration—he was signed to meet Red Burman in Madison Square Garden on the night of Dec. 31st. . . . Here again some person will wake up New Year's Day with a headache, and it won't be Louis. . . . Remember Bob Elliott of Kingston baseball and Queen's University football prominence? Bobbie carried the pig skin over for the only touchdown of the game as Kingston beat Kitchener 7-0 on Saturday to win the intermediate O.R.F.U. title. . . . Over 100,000 people saw the Navy beat the Army 14 to 0 on Saturday as the game went true to form. . . . The National Association of Professional Baseball meets this week at Atlanta, Ga. Watch for some startling developments, that is if you didn't receive one or two over the week-end.

N.H.L. Stars

(By The Canadian Press)

Standing: Toronto, won 9, lost 2, draw 0, points 18.

Points: Hextall, Rangers, 5 goals, 7 assists, 12 points; Cowley, Boston, 3 goals, 9 assists, 12 points.

Goals: Goldup, Toronto 7.

Assists: Cowley, Boston 9.

Penalties Orlando, Detroit, 18 minutes.

Shutouts: Brimsek, Boston; Robertson, Americans; Mowers, Detroit; Broda, Toronto, and Goodman, Chicago, one each.

Start December Right—Advertise Tomorrow

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER WANT AD RATES

Minimum Charge for the first twenty words, per Insertion	30c
Two Insertions	60c
Three Insertions	75c
Over Twenty Word, 1½c per word per insertion.
Box number	extra 10c

Copy accepted until 12.30 noon on day of publication.

Telephone 99.

AUTO FINANCE

AUTO LOANS
REFINANCING

On terms and at rates which you will find suitable to your requirements. Your car is a quick and gilt-edge asset for borrowing. Only the owner signs. Deal with confidence with the largest company of its kind in Canada.

D. H. MARSHALL
17 Bridge St. E. Phone 1073
Representing
CAMPBELL AUTO FINANCE
Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa

Business Directory

W. A. WATSON
ARCHITECT
Kresge Building.
(Formerly 28 Bridge Street E.)
N15-tf

MINERAL BATHS

MINERAL BATHS AND MASSAGE The finest treatment for Neuritis, Arthritis, Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Colds, etc. Separate parlors for Ladies and Gentlemen. Graduate Nurse. Registered Masseur. Phone 1152. "THE HEALTH INSTITUTE" 231 William St. Belleville

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist Mineral Fume Baths with oil and alcohol rub; coagulation of tonsils. Radioclast examination, manipulative surgery and suction treatment for sinus conditions. 228 Coleman St., Belleville. Phone 900. Lady attendant.

H. R. and VERA B. PITCHER, Sp.C., Chiropractors, and Drugless Therapists. Adjustments, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment. Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations. Coagulation of Tonsils and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St., East, Belleville, Ont. Phone 1274.

INSURANCE

The thought of Fire loses half its Terrors when you're protected with our Fire Insurance.

SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
LIFE and FIRE INSURANCE
249½ Front St. Phone 492

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1134W

COME ON OVER AND HELP YOURSELF!

It's not much harder than that to get a low-cost, monthly repayment QUINTE personal loan. Strictly confidential. No red tape.

LOANS FOR EVERY PURPOSE.

QUINTE FINANCE and SECURITIES LIMITED
168 Front St. Phone 168
BELLEVILLE

Screen Clock

BELLE THEATRE TIMES
NORTHWEST MOUNTED POLICE
Gary Cooper, Madeleine Carroll, Robert Preston
2.40 — 7.10 — 9.20

McCARTHY THEATRE TIMES
GOLDEN BOY
Barbara Stanwyck, Wm. Holden
7.30 — 9.40
COOKING SCHOOL CLASS
2.00 p.m.

CAPITOL THEATRE TIMES
MELODY and MOONLIGHT
Vera Vague, Jerry Colonna, Mary Lee
7.10 — 10.15
MEN WITH WINGS
Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland
8.25

WANTED

JOB BY EXPERIENCED TRUCK driver. Apply Bert Juby, 186½ Front St. D2-3t

EXPERIENCED MAID FOR GENeral housework. References required. Apply Mrs. G. A. Freeman, 230 E. Bridge St. D2-3

FURNISHED APARTMENT, — heated, immediately by two adults, preferably ground floor. Phone 1948. D2-3t

CAPABLE GIRL, 20 - 35, FOND of children, willing to leave city. Apply Box K, Ontario Intelligencer. N30-3t

BOOKKEEPER - STENOGRAPHer desires position. References. Phone 2199J. D2

TO EXCHANGE SPRING MATtresses for new or used feathers. Write Box A, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-4t

TO RENT 3 OF 4 ROOM FURNished, heated apartment, near business section. Write Box 9, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3t

GIRL FOR GENERAL HOUSEwork with references, for home in Toronto. Small family. Apply 53 Cannifton Road. Phone 2237M. D2

IMMEDIATELY, SMALL APARTment, furnished and heated, by family with two children, vicinity Alemite. Write Box F, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-2t

POSITION BY MAN WITH FOUR years' experience in garage work and acetylene welding. Write Box 4, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3t

BY GENTLEMAN, FURNISHED bedroom, central, also garage. Write Box S, Ontario Intelligencer. N30-2t

YOUNG LADY WITH SENIOR matriculation diploma in Shorthand and typing. Experience not essential. Write Box T, Ontario Intelligencer. N30-2t

LOST

ONE 900 x 20 CHAIN, BETWEEN Belleville and Trenton, on November 27. Return Metropolitan Transport, Belleville. Reward. N29-3t

FEMALE HOUND, CHAIN AND Collar on it. Color: Black, Tan and white. Phone 2305. 159 College. Fred Ewin's. N30-3t

NOTICE

SIDNEY CONSERVATIVES

Annual meeting to be held at Wallbridge, Friday, December 6, 8 p.m. Program consisting of speakers and local talent. Refreshments.

FRANK J. WOOD, Sec.-Treas.
D2-4

NOTICE

Annual meeting of the Melrose Cheese Company will be held in Town Hall, Melrose, December 9, 1940, at 1 p.m. All business of the Company to be transacted.

WM. McLAREN, President.
D2-5

NOTICE

The public is hereby warned that Practice Bombing will take place at two ranges on the Bay of Quinte daily between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. from December 1, 1940, to May 1, 1941.

The "danger areas" are enclosed by,—

(a) A circle of 660 yards radius on the Bay of Quinte SOUTH of the Quinte Golf Club.

(b) A circle of 800 yards radius on the Bay of Quinte between Indian Island and the north shoreline of the Bay.

These areas are shown on notices which are posted in the vicinity of each range.

No person is permitted to enter these areas during the period of bombing specified. Red flags and danger signals will be displayed at the land approaches to the danger areas when bombing is actually in progress.

J. S. DUNCAN,
Acting Deputy Minister for Air.
Department of National Defence,
Ottawa, Dec. 2, 1940. D2-3t

AUCTION SALE

Wednesday, December 4th., at 1 p.m., Standard Time; Lot 18, Concession 3, Tyendinaga Township, ¼ mile east of Melrose, R. C. English owner. Real Estate consists of 100 acres land, plenty wood and water, 9 room frame house, basement barn, electricity throughout. Terms: 10% day of sale, balance in 30 days. Chattels farm stock, implements, hay, grain, hogs, hens, corn, etc. Terms cash.

NORMAN MONTGOMERY,
Auctioneer, Belleville
163 William St. Phone 1170
N22-26-29-D2.

EVEN SANTA CLAUS KNOWS THE VALUE OF NEWSPAPER SPACE—

—AND IT COSTS SO LITTLE TO GET SO MUCH.

PHONE 99 TODAY

TO LET

4 ROOM FRONT APARTMENT, self contained, unfurnished. Apply 84 Yeoman St. D2

TWO OR THREE UNFURNISHED rooms, centrally located, suitable for young couple. Reasonable rent. Write Box D, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3t

6 ROOMED HOUSE ON TRENTON Highway; electric, good cistern, garage, not far from Airport. Suitable for young couple. Furnished or unfurnished. Immediate possession. Write Box 7, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3

LARGE ROOM DOWNSTAIRS, 2 smaller rooms upstairs, hard and soft water. Apply 18 College St. W. D2

6 ROOM BRICK HOUSE, HARDwood floor, all conveniences, garage, garden. Possession Jan. 1, possible before. Apply 71 Everett St. N30-3t

2 ROOM FURNISHED, HEATED Apartment, fireplace, large clothes closet, central. Immediate possession; use of phone. Phone 825M. N29-3t

156 BRIDGE STREET EAST — near Charles Street, desirable semi-detached brick house —living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, den, bath, hot air heating, two coal fireplaces, hardwood floors, garage. Available February 1st. Inspection by appointment. Exclusive agents, Belleville Locators, George N. Gorman, Prop., 166 Front St., Phone 99, House Phone 687. N26-tf

176 BLEECKER AVENUE, SOUTH of Bridge Street; brick house, situated in attractive grounds; large living room with coal fireplace, dining room with coal fireplace, kitchen, wired for range, 4 bedrooms and bath, hardwood floors, full basement, new hot air heating plant, double garage, interior of house newly decorated throughout. This is a very desirable residence. Exclusive agents Belleville Locators, Geo. N. Gorman, Prop. 166 Front Street, Phone 99. House phone 687. N22-tf

TENDERS

Tenders will be received by Oak Leaf Cheese and Butter Company at Cooper, for manufacture of cheese and butter for season 1941. Factory is equipped with electricity. Refrigeration installed. Tenders will be accepted until December 7, 1940.

FRED MOORCROFT, Pres.
Madoc, R. 3, Ont. Phone 102r1-5
N30-3t

ANNUAL MEETING

Thurlow Conservative Association Annual Meeting will be held Wednesday, December 11, at 7.30 p.m. Standard Time, at the Orange Hall, Cannifton. Watch for advertisement. D2

TINY SCHOOL FOR TINY TOTS

REPORT FOR NOVEMBER

Sr. Primer—Ann Robertson and Donald Pounsett, equal.

Jr. Primer—Charles Bateman, Geraldine Perks, Judith Taylor, equal; Jim Fox.

Class I—Nancy David, Donald Dalrymple, Betty Ann Breach, Janet Martin, Verna Freeman equal Billy Yeotes, Peter Annis, equal. Dorothy Crossland.

Class II—Audrey Hamilton, Barbara Abramsky, Maureen Wyatt, Susan Taylor, Joan Wilstead, equal.

Kindergarten Class—Jane Doig, Judith Spence, Peter Hart, Patricia House, Gilbert Fauquier, equal.

Best Progress for November—Judith Taylor.

Neatest Kindergarten Worker—Jane Doig.

Best Writers—Betty Ann Breech, Audrey Hamilton, Charles Bateman, Geraldine Perks.

Neatest Workbook—Anne Robertson.

L. D. WILKIN, teacher.

FOR SALE

30 OR 40 LAYING HENS, ONE year old. Phone 272r2-2. D2-3

2 BROWN CLOTH GIRLS' COATS —Sizes 16 and 18. Phone 2362. D2

PUREBRED HOLSTEIN BULL Calf. T.B. and blood tested, fully accredited. Gerald Brickman, 2nd. Con. Sidney, R. 5, Trenton. D2

2 PAIR OF SKATES (C.C.M.), new last year, size 5. Apply 117 North Front. D2

BEECH AND MAPLE HARDwood, also quantity of mixed wood. Further details apply J. Demore, Flinton, Ont. N30-4t

TUXEDO SUIT, ALMOST NEW. Size 38. Reasonable. Phone 731. N30-3t

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR, DEluxe Model, new unit, 3 year guarantee. Regular price $248. for only $159; easy terms if desired. Walker Hardware Co., Limited, 248-250 Front St. N29-3t

BEATTY WASHER, USED, $15.00. David Electric Shop, 340 Front St. N20-tf

AT THE McCARTHY

"Golden Boy"

Lavishly praised for its stirringly human qualities, its fine cast and splendid story, Columbia's production, "Golden Boy," is now showing at the McCarthy Theatre, starring Barbara Stanywck, William Holden and Adolphe Menjou.

"Golden Boy" is based upon the sensational Clifford Odet's play of the same name. Also in the cast are Joseph Calleia, Lee J. Cobb, Edward Brophy and Sam Levene. Latest Fox News Events and an amusing technicolor cartoon entitled "Crop Chasers." As Cooking School classes are being held each afternoon now at the McCarthy, "Golden Boy" and the screen program in addition is only shown twice nightly.

"Kit Carson"

A stirring chapter out of the making of the west will unfold on the McCarthy Theatre screen this week-end when Edward Small's "Kit Carson" will be presented.

This new production, an epic of frontier life and bravery, concerns the adventures of Kit Carson, the famous Indian fighter in the days when America was young.

The story opens on a note of excitment when John Hall as Kit Carson, together with Harold Huber and Ward Bond as his companions, Ape and Lopez, are attacked by a band of marauding Indians. The friends manage to escape and return to Fort Bridger where they are met by General Fremont, played by Dana Andrews. Fremont tells Carson that he is the only man who could possibly guide his party through the dangerous Indian country to the promised land of California.

Carson refuses because of the danger to the women and children in the party but his mind is changed when he meets Dolores Murphy, one of the group, plagued by the villainous attacks of Castro, crafty military governor in Monterey, California.

The adventures with redskins and the forces of the treacherous Castro encountered en route to California, furnish the vividly thrilling action of the story. The warm human interest in the rivalry over Dolores adds a compelling touch to the exciting adventures of the courageous band of pioneers. The picture comes to a bang-up conclusion with a pitched battle between Castro's men and the forces under Fremont, a battle in which Carson and his companions play a prominent role.

The feature "Kit Carson" is worthwhile screen entertainment, one of the most important productions released through United Artists during the year.

Jan Frazee appearing in the new filmusical "Melody and Moonlight," now showing at the Capitol with the added special attraction, "Men With Wings," in technicolor.

AT THE BELLE

"Northwest Mounted Police"

The incontestable evidence that nothing short of a triumph would satisfy Cecil B. DeMille when it came to judgment of his newest picture, "North West Mounted Police" was apparent as soon as the titles started to appear on the screen of the Belle theatre over the week-end where the film had its local premiere. Gary Cooper and Madeleine Carroll ranked as the stars of the production, and such starring players as Paulette Goddard, Preston Foster, Robert Preston, Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman, George Bancroft, Lon Chaney, Jr., and Walter Hampden where seen in important roles!

As if that cast were not enough to overwhelm and delight any audience, DeMille has chosen this picture to be his first made entirely in Technicolor, and a wise choice it was what with the beauty of Miss Carroll and Miss Goddard and the red coats of the Mounted an the incomparable scenic backgrounds to be caught by the Technicolor cameras.

Packed With Thrills

The story has its basis in actual fact and starts when the Metis, a half-breed Canadian people, revolt against the government under the leadership of Duroc (Tamiroff), Corbeau (Bancroft), and Louis Riel (Francis McDonald). They tell Sergeant Jim Brett and Ronnie Logan, of the Mounted, that they must have an answer to their demands within twenty-four hours.

Later, at Fort Carlton, the Mounted post, an addition is made to those present when Dusty River (Cooper), a Texas Ranger, rides in to inform Inspector Cabot (Montagu Love) that he is after a murderer. Next morning, Dusty meets April, who drives a wagon into the Fort, bearing the bodies of two Mounted, one dead and the other about to die. It soon becomes apparent that Corbeau, the man Dusty is after, did it. In the midst of all this excitement, it becomes apparent that Dusty would like to dispute Brett's claim to April's affections.

From this point, Dusty accompanied by April and Tod McDuff (Overman), a red-headed Scotsman, rides back to Batoche where he hopes to capture Corbeau, while Brett goes to the camp of the Crees to persuade Chief Big Bear (Hampden) that he should remain loyal despite Corbeau's offer of a Gatling gun and the odds of thousands of half-breeds arrayed against a mere fifty of the Mounted.

Ambush is High Spot

The next high point of the picture contains the climax of the picture, a bloody ambush of the Mounted by the half-breeds led by Corbeau and his Gatling gun; for Corbeau has promised Chief Big Bear that he will bring him the red coats of the Mounted before three suns have set, and Big Bear has promised to go on the war path if he does.

Incidentally, the second ambush only becomes possible because of Ronnie's romantic interest in Louvette, a tempestuous, gorgeous Indian girl. Sent out to prevent an ambush, Ronnie deserts his post to yield to Lovette's persuasion to marry her. She has him captured and tied up by Indians, while Ronnie's co-watcher is killed.

With such a host of stars operating under the DeMille banner, it would require thousands of words to describe the work of all the performers. Cooper does a magnificent job as the quiet Ranger, and Miss Carroll has never been more beautiful. And then there is Miss Goddard, who makes Lovette a wildcat of an Indian girl, the sort of a gal who makes it look credible when a Mountie leaves his post.

Of the photography, the horsemanship, the humor as dispensed mostly by Tamiroff and Overman, enough cannot be said. "North West Mounted Police" ranks as nothing short of a triumph for DeMille, his host of starring players and everybody concerned with the production for Paramount. The Belle latest World News Events precede the feature attraction.

Fred MacMurray heads the cast of "Men With Wings," the technicolor drama of the men who made history in the skies. With Ray Milland and Louise Campbell also in lead roles, the picture is now showing at the Capitol with the added musical feature, "Melody and Moonlight."

Connor Washers
Frigidaire
ELECTRIC RANGES and REFRIGERATORS
May be bought for 17c a Day
from
Walker Hardware
COMPANY LIMITED
248-250 FRONT ST.
N29-3t

BELLEVILLE LOCATORS

Own Your Own Home!

TALK IT OVER! THEN SEE
Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, Prop.
Licensed and Registered Real Estate Brokers and Associate Members of The Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards.
166 FRONT ST. Opp. City Hall

GET A $100 LOAN
Repay $7.78 a month
$20 to $500 Loans—No Endorsers
Loans made on furniture or auto. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. Money usually the same day.

GUARANTEED PAYMENT TABLE

Cash Loan You Get	Amount You Pay Back Each Month Including All Charges
	4 mos. loan	8 mos. loan	12 mos. loan	15 mos. loan
$ 30	$ 7.88	$ 4.10	$ 2.84
50	13.13	6.83	4.73
80	21.01	10.92	7.56
100	26.26	13.65	9.46	$7.78
125	32.83	17.06	11.82	9.73
150	39.39	20.48	14.18	11.67
200	52.52	27.30	18.91	15.57
300	78.79	40.95	28.37	23.35

Instalments based on prompt repayment and include charges of 2½% per month as authorized by the Small Loans Act, 1939. We guarantee there is nothing else to pay. Phone or call to apply.

HOUSEHOLD FINANCE
CORPORATION OF CANADA
PETERBOROUGH, ONT.
Second Floor, Lansfield Block
177 Charlotte St., Opp. Loblaws
M. E. Holt, Manager Phone 5841

DEATHS

BLATHERWICK—In Belleville on Saturday, November 30th., 1940, Frances Mabel McLaren, beloved wife of Thomas William Blatherwick, in her 37th. year.

The funeral will be held from the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street, on Tuesday, December 3rd., 1940, to Bridge St. United Church, for service at 2.30 p.m. D.S.T.

Interment Shannonville Cemetery.

(Flowers gratefully declined.) D2

CAMPBELL—In hospital at Strathroy, Ontario, on Saturday afternoon, November 30th., 1940, Robert Anson Campbell, residence, Arkona, Ontario, and formerly of Chisholm's Mills, Hastings County, in his 61st. year.

The funeral will take place from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, on Tuesday morning, December 3rd. Service in the chapel at 11 o'clock (Standard Time.)

Entombment Belleville Cemetery. D2

SPAFFORD—In the 2nd. Concession of Sidney Township on Saturday night, November 30, 1940, Frederick Arthur Spafford, in his 90th. year.

The funeral will take place from his late residence at the above address on Tuesday afternoon, December 3rd. Service in the home at 1.30 o'clock (Standard Time.)

Interment Belleville cemetery. D2

IF IT'S ABOUT YOUR EYES . . . SEE McFEE

BUSINESS PRINTING demands highest accuracy. The Ontario Intelligencer has the equipment and the master workmen to turn out the kind of a job that you want. We invite you to compare our work and prices with others. Why not visit our plant?

PHONE 99

Ontario Intelligencer Job Printing

RHEUMATIC
Aches and Pains

If just one bottle of Ru-Ma does not show you the quick, easy way to get real relief from rheumatic aches and pains, it costs you nothing.

Don't suffer longer; try Ru-Ma today and if you are not pleased with the results your money will be refunded by J. S. McKeown. This is a generous offer to all rheumatic sufferers.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Melody and Moonlight"

"Melody and Moonlight," surely the prime ingredients of romance, are admirably incorporated in Republic's new musical of that title which bowed into the Capitol Theatre Sunday midnight.

Songs, laughs, gaiety, everything, in fact, that the public craves to lift it momentarily from today's troubled times, are featured tellingly in the picture.

Johnny Downs, the lad with the perpetual-motion feet, demonstrates his remarkable terpsichorean skill in some of the fast action dance sequences, with petite Mary Lee, the fourteen-year-old charmer, supplying spritely songs.

Jane Frazee, the extremely photogenic leading lady, has charm, talent, grace and beauty, which just about sums up all that could be desired in the way of starring timber. The young lady will go a long way, if her work in "Melody and Moonlight" is a criterion.

Barbara Joe Allen—known as "Vera Vague" to her numerous radio fans, is as funny as ever, and Jerry Colonna contributes a goodly share to the fun and hilarity.

Claire Carleton does well as "Gloria", the tough dance hall hostess and Jonathan Hale and Frank Jenks contribute admirable character roles.

A special word should be said for the outstanding cinematography of Ernie Miller, who has achieved several noteworthy pictorial effects.

Joseph Santley directed with skill and finesse, under Associate Producer Robert North.

The added attraction on the same program:

"Men With Wings"

The story of three pioneers of the air, whose lives are bound up with the history of aviation during its first turbulent thirty-five years is told in the new Technicolor cavalcade of aviation, "Men With Wings."

The leading characters played by Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland and Louise Campbell, follow the tremendous urge of aviation from the Wright Brothers flight at Kitty Hawk in 1903 right up to the present moment. The picture was produced and directed by William A. Wellman, who brought the unforgettable "Wings" to the screen.

To close the program there is an unusual short "Stranger Than Fiction."

HEADACHES
Mentholatum on temples and brow brings quick relief. Also for neuralgia, head colds, cuts and chapping. Jars and tubes 30c.
MENTHOLATUM

Varied Endings To Stories of Storm-Caught Ships

(By The Canadian Press)

Rescue neared a Spanish freighter in trouble off Nova Scotia today while varying endings were written to the stories of other ships caught in an Atlantic storm last week.

A Canadian salvage tug was due to make contact during the day with the 5,239-ton Motomar, which sent out a call for help yesterday from a point 400 miles south of an east coast Canadian port. Her engines were disabled, but she was not reported in immediate danger.

The tug was at sea on another mission when the appeal came, and she turned to the rescue of the Spaniard. It was not known where the Motomar would be towed.

Somewhere in the same general vicinity, the Greek freighter Eugena Cambanis was believed afloat after having been disabled in last week's storm and abandoned by her crew. All the crew were taken aboard the British freighter Uria Nov. 29 after boiler failure had left the ship at the mercy of the sea. Their destination was not disclosed.

Ship is Abandoned

Another ship—the Canadian freighter Lisieux—had been battered into a sinking condition and abandoned by most of her crew of 29. Ten men—four of them Canadians—had been left aboard the foundering vessel when one of the lifeboats was swept away.

Seventeen others including 10 Canadians, were landed at St. John's, Nfld., over the weekend by two freighters. Two seamen had died of exposure in one of the lifeboats.

Under tow to an east coast port today was a Norwegian freighter, picked up by a Canadian tug yesterday, six days after she had reported her propeller and rudder out of commission. Though she lacked means of control and propulsion, she rode through the storm safely and without damage, according to wireless messages reaching shore.

Police Blotter

Aside from the investigation of numerous motor accidents, which occurred as the result of the year's worst snow storm and blizzard, local police authorities had little time for other activities. Fortunately the annals of crime found little activity in Belleville over the week-end, however, leaving the police a free hand to lend to the assistance of stranded and marooned motorists, whose motor cars were stalled in many points as the snow blew.

Spare Tire Stolen

Vernon Ferguson, 11 Evans St., reported the theft of a spare tire, tube and rim. The car accessories were stolen from off Mr. Ferguson's parked motor vehicle in the downtown area on Saturday night.

Fender Damage

Considerable fender damage resulted after two motor cars were in collision at the intersection of Bridge and Coleman Sts. shortly after 1.00 a.m. today. P. C. Wright investigated and found Glace Jones, Coleman St., was driving south on Coleman St. when his car was in collision with a west bound car, being driven on Bridge St. by William Shaw, 28 Bridge St. Both vehicles skidded somewhat in the deep snow.

A very short session of Police Court was held before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C. today when the only case disposed of saw a local man pay the conventional "ten and costs" after pleading guilty to a charge of intoxication. Charges of causing property damage at a local restaurant were read against two others, but before evidence was submitted Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson obtained an enlargement until Friday. "I want to get a little more information about this fracas before it is brought into court," revealed Mr. Robertson.

CONSTIPATED?
Take This Modern Vegetable Laxative to tone the liver and get the Bile juice flowing. Improves digestion and eases away clogging wastes. Ask for the genuine Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills,—at your druggist's.
56 PILLS-25c

DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS
(IMPROVED)
THE MODERN VEGETABLE LAXATIVE
CONTENTS 56 PILLS

"THE GORGON'S MASK

by Van Wyck Mason

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

With his nearest approach to a sob in nearly thirty years, the U.S. agent dropped on his knees beside the pitifully sprawled figure. Gently he raised her small, bright head on his lap. One stunned and sickened look told him that not even hope was to be his.

"Nadia!" he groaned in anguished helplessness. "Who did it? Karen?"

"It was not my people, Hugh," she whispered. "Though I—could have brought them here, and I—I planned to bring them—"

"To kill me?"

Wearily her eyelids drooped shut. "Yes—but in the end I—I found I could not—could not kill the one I love best in all the world."

"Your people were near?"

"Yes, I could have summoned them . . . even after I saw that boat with Kanamura in it."

"Kanamura!" The name burst from North's quivering lips with the force of an explosion.

Her great eyes seemed to plead. "You must listen—beloved of my heart—I—I am going. It is better that I should—rather than you."

He groped wildly for words. "You saw the Jap coming to kill you and didn't call your people? I—I don't understand."

"Yes." Her voice grew momentarily stronger. "I knew he and his were coming—to kill me. How they learned of this—place on Kauai—I do not know."

She fell silent, her eyelids fluttered drowsily downwards once more.

"Nadia! The O.G.P.U.—you could have called them?"

"Yes. Karen and the others were hidden — on that island — farthest across the bay. If I did not show the red blanket by two' o'clock, they'd know you were dead by poison—they could leave—on—on their mission."

"You could have called," North repeated dazedly, "even when you knew Kanamura was coming to kill you?"

"I—could—have. But, Hugh, mon adore, if Karen and the others had come—to Kauai to save me—they would have killed you, and that—I could not face. Bogu! How cold it grows! Hugh!" He seized her cold hand.

"Here, Nadia, darling, I'm right here."

"They will—not come—now, Hugh—you are—safe. And"—he voice had grown so weak he bent low—"beware—the thirteenth submarine—Japanese fleet."

"But when, how?"

"Kiss me, Hugh," she pleaded falteringly; he could not force himself to insist on answers to his questions Very tenderly he kissed the Red Gorgon's pale lips.

When he straightened, Nadia Stefan looked once more into his eyes, then died with a little smile on her lips.

* * *

For a long time Hugh North remained so motionless that he might have been cast in that metal which the hue of his skin resembled.

"Nadia!' he mumbled. . . . So vital a creature simply could not be dead, but . . .

Then a thought gradually penetrated . . . someone was looking at him!

North turned his head and there, standing in a doorway to the left, were a pair of scuffed brown sport shoes.

Slowly North's gaze crept up until it came to rest on the glasslike eyes of Hideyo Kanamura. Fury and rage were too puny emotions for North.

Shocking were the Japanese's first words as he stood with a long-snouted Luger pistol dangling at arm's length.

"I think, Captain North, that I deserve your thanks."

The kneeling American made no sound, so Kanamura's thin and penetrating voice went on: "She would have betrayed you—"

"Quiet!" With that, North sprang up, terrible in his cold rage. "You meddler. You've ruined everything—everything!"

Kanamura blinked at the murderously grim white man as one who looks into a strong light.

"Ruined? No, no!" He held up a placating, explanatory hand. "The French girl told me of the mistake I have made so far—please understand—I am now friendly, very friendly, to you."

North listened, still half stunned, fearful of what his anguish might drive him to do.

"At first, Captain, I thought you were in the pay of Polk, von Rentner, and that Frenchman plotting to plunge my country and yours in disastrous war—then Mademoiselle Renoire showed me the truth. I, sir, am of the Imperial Secret Service and I . . ."

The rest of the sentence North never heard, for a great light was breaking over him. Yes, he saw what had happened. Saw it very clearly. Phedre Renoire had told Hideyo Kanamura just enough to send the Japanese agent and his men in search of the Russian girl, a grimly determined execution party.

North could imagine the French girl macabrely content with the thought that, at last, Aristide La Tour's murder had been avenged. To bring about the Red Gorgon's death had been a terribly natural thing for any woman of Phedre's temperament.

"Just the same," North burst out, "you and your meddling have ruined the last sure chance I had of stopping this horrible affair at Honolulu."

"Ruined? No—that cannot be—I—I do not understand. I have helped you—"

"Now look here!" the intelligence captain said wearily. "My only chance was to beat her at her own game. I was winning." His voice thickened a little. 'She was prepared to tell me what I wanted to learn. But your assassins prevented it."

Poor Nadia! What a monumental piece of irony that, having only once been faithful to a man, she had paid for that loyalty with her life!

"Do you mean, Captain," Kanamura queried, "the Russian woman would have revealed this plot to bring on war?"

"Yes," North said in tones that left no doubt. "She told me a little, a very little, before she died."

"If that is so,"—the Japanese drew himself up very straight—"I shall make proper amends to the Sun-Emperor for my error."

"Drop the dramatics!" snapped North, "and if you're going to commit hara-kiri, do it tomorrow. I'll need you tonight."

He started, turned for a farewell look, and then called "Tsing! Tsing!"

Wide-eyed, the houseboy, who had slept all through the affair, appeared.

"Take care of her," North flung over his shoulder. "I'll send for her tomorrow. Come on, Kanamura, run! If Kilgour's followed instructions, there'll be a naval plane waiting for us at Waimea. It may get us to Honolulu in time."

* * *

Smoke from the funnels of thirty-odd men-of-war was settling over the feverishly anxious city of Honolulu, but the lights of the two cruiser squadrons tried to atone for the pall by creating an unfamiliar radiance in the harbor.

Captain North, alert on the bridge of Sub-chaser 322, turned to the somber-faced naval officer.

"I hope, Commander Long, you made sure about those submarines of ours?"

"Yes, the position of every blessed American tin fish in this part of the world has been checked; they're all accounted for."

"And you"—North turned to Kanamura who, with a diminutive naval officer of his race, stood a little to one side—"are very sure that all your submarines are at anchor?"

For answer, Kanamura pointed to two groups of six submarines which, lashed bow and stern, swung in the lee of the submarine depot ship Jingei.

"And," North queried, "you are sure there are no others—that none fell behind for repairs?"

"Captain Waseda," Kanamura explained, indicating the gravely courteous naval officer, "is in command of this squadron's submarine flotilla Unfortunately he cannot speak English, but he has sworn to me that there are no other Japanese submarines to the east of the Bonin Islands."

"Ask him," North directed, "if there is in your service a submarine called I-14?"

When the two Japanese drew aside to consult in brief and sibilant accents, Commander Long muttered: "I think you're crazy, North, to bring these Japs along. I believe Japan means to start something."

North was aghast at the grim earnestness of the other's manner "But I tell you they do not!"

"Perhaps." Commander Long looked not even a little convinced. "But if they do—in spite of our being outgunned—we'll give 'em plenty plus!"

Kanamura turned with, 'Captain Waseda informs me that there is an I-14 in our service."

"And where is she supposed to be?" snapped the American naval officer.

"Captain Waseda says he does not know; but she is most likely at the Sasebo naval base." While North looked on, Commander Long consulted a naval directory. Silently he indicated a paragraph, North read:

"Imperial Japanese Navy. I class submarines; known as Kaigun boats. Mount 4.7 gun forward. 15,000-mile cruising radius."

This last, Commander Long had underlined with his thumbnail. In North's ears a faint buzzing sounded—what if Nadia at the last minute had lied to him?

Miserably he watched the sinister gray shapes on either side of the sub-chaser slip past. Yes, sure enough, there was the Cornwall, the one English cruiser in the harbor, swinging to her anchor among the American ships. Kilgour's prediction had been fulfilled.

(To be continued)

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

It may be the cause of YOUR troubles Buck it up the RIGHT way. Feel grand

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "rotten"—headachy, backachy, dizzy, dragged out all the time.

For over 35 years thousands have won prompt relief from these miseries—with Fruit-a-tives. So can you now. Try Fruit-a-tives—you'll be simply delighted how quickly you'll feel like a new person, happy and well again. 25c, 50c.

FRUIT-A-TIVES Canada's Largest Selling Liver Tablets

RADIO PROGRAMS

(Daylight Saving Time)

MONDAY, DEC. 2.

6.45—BBC News—CBL, CBO
6.45—Scattergood Bains, sketch —WABC
8.00—Famous Jury Trials, drama—WJZ, WHAM
8.00—Let's Go to the Music Hall—CBL
8.00—Fred Waring in Pleasure Time—WEAF, WBEN, WGY
8.30—Burns and Allen — WEAF, WHAM
9.00—Play Broadcast—WGN, WOR
9.00—The Telephone Hour; Musical Program with James Melton—WEAF WGY
9.00—With the Troops in England —CBL, CBO
9.00—Those We Love — WABC.
9.30—True or False—WJZ, WHAM
9.30—Voice of Firestone; Symphony Orch with Alfred Wallenstein conductor, Richard Crooks, tnr.—WEAF, CBL
9.30—Pipe-Smoking Time—WABC.
9.30—Canadian Grenadier Guards Band—CBO
10.00—Radio Theatre: Pat O'Brien in "Knute Rockne, All American—WABC, CFRB, WGR
10.30—Show Boat—WEAF, WBEN
10.30—Basin St. Chamber Music—WJZ, WHAM
10.30—Luigi Romanelli's Orch.—CBL
11.00—Contented Hour — WEAF, WBEN
11.00—Guy Lombardo's Orchestra WABC, WGR
11.15—Britain Speaks—CBL
11.30—B.B.C. Newsreel—CBL

TUESDAY, DEC. 3.

9.30—Al and Lee Reiser, piano duo—CBO, CBL
10.45—Gospel Singer—WEAF
11.00—British Sketch Book—CBL
1.00—Kate Smith Speaks—WABC.
1.30—Nat'l Farm and Home Hour —WJZ, WHAM
2.15—Tony Wons' Radio Scrapbook—WHAM.
3.00—Hymns of All Churches—WEAF, WHAM
8.00—Fred Waring's Orchestra WEAF, WGY
8.30—Say It With Music; News—CBL
9.00—Ben Bernie's Musical Quiz—WJZ, WHAM
9.00—Johnny Presents Ray Bloch's Orch.—WEAF
9.00—Court of Missing Heirs — WABC, WGR
9.30—Uncle Jim's Question Bee; Bill Slater, M. C.—WJZ, WHAM
9.30—Horace Heidt's Treasure Chest—WEAF, WGY
9.30—First Nighter—WABC CFRB WHAM, WJZ
9.30—Good Luck Show—CBL
10.00—Grand Central Station, Drama—WJZ, WHAM.
10.00—The Old Observer—CBL
10.00—We, the People—WABC
10.00—Battle of the Sexes, Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson —WEAF, WGY
10.30—Fibber McGee and Molly—WEAF, WGY, CBL
11.00—Glenn Miller's Orchestra—WABC, WJR
11.00—Bob Hope Variety Show—WEAF, WGY
11.15—Britain Speaks—CBL
11.15—Invitation to Learning; Discussions—WABC, WGR
11.30—B. B. C. Newsreel—CBL
11.30—Uncle Walter's Dog House—Program—WJZ, WHAM
1.00—News; Artie Shaw's Orch.—WEAF, WGY.

RADIO DIRECTORY

CANADIAN STATIONS

CFRC—Kingston	1510
CBL—Toronto	840
CBO—Ottawa	880
CBW—Windsor	600
CBY—Toronto	1420
CFCF—Montreal	600
CFRB—Toronto	690
CHML—Hamilton	1010
CKCL—Toronto	580
CKOC—Hamilton	1120
CKTB—St. Catharines	1200

UNITED STATES STATIONS

KDKA—Pittsburg	980
WABC—New York	860
WBEN—Buffalo	900
WGY—Schenectady	790
WHAM—Rochester	1150
WEAF—New York	660
WENR—Chicago	870
WGR—Buffalo	550
WBBM—Chicago	770

Little Benny's Note Book

THE WEAKLY NEWS

SISSIETY PAGE

Mr. Puds Simkins accompanied Miss Mary Watkins to the Little Grand Sattiday afternoon to see the Six Bedp Brothers in Who Goes Where, each paying their own way in and a pleasant time being had by both.

INSULT REVENGED

Thursday afternoon Reddy Merfy insulted Shorty Judge by pulling his cap down over his head and then pushing him in the face, and after supper. Shortly called up Reddy's house on the telephone and asked for Reddy in a diskized voice and when Reddy came to the fone Shorty just waited there getting revenge by listening to him saying Hello hello hello hello with no answer.

ODD INFORMATION

Rabbits cant stop hopping without stopping altogether.

INTRISTING FACTS ABOUT INTRISTING PEOPLE

Puds Simkins is often late for school but he claims he makes up for it by never being late for meals.

Mary Watkins is learning to cook by helping her mother around the kitchin, but she is still too sensitive to peal onions.

POEM BY SKINNY MARTIN

A BIG IF

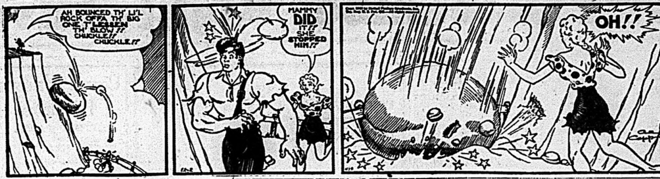
I wish I could speak English
And never studder or stammer,
And I really think I actually could,
If it wasn't for the grammar.

LOST AND FOUND

Neither.

LI'L ABNER — Now Yo' Sees Him-Now Yo' Don't ! !

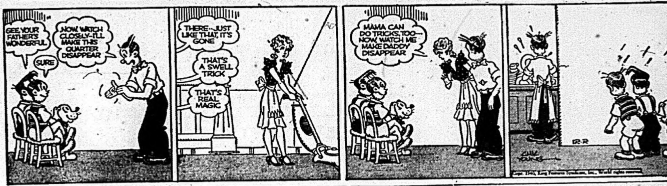
By Al Capp



AH BOUNCED TH' LI'L ROCK OFFA TH' BIG ONE T' LESSEN TH' BLOW!! CHUCKLE!! CHUCKLE!!
MAMMY DID IT!! SHE STOPPED HIM!!
OH!!
12-2
AL CAPP

BLONDIE — Hocus Pocus !

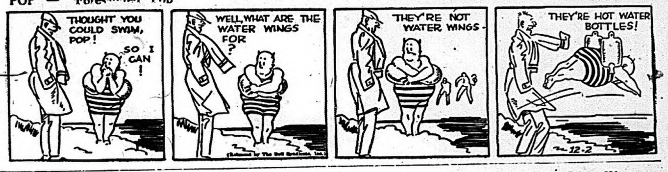
By Chic Young



GEE, YOUR FATHER'S WONDERFUL
NOW, WATCH CLOSELY—I'LL MAKE THIS QUARTER DISAPPEAR
SURE
THERE—JUST LIKE THAT, IT'S GONE
THAT'S A SWELL TRICK
THAT'S REAL MAGIC
MAMA CAN DO TRICKS, TOO—NOW, WATCH ME MAKE DADDY DISAPPEAR
12-2
CHIC YOUNG

POP — Foresighted Pop

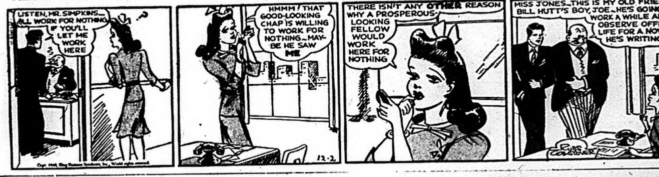
By J. Millar Watt



THOUGHT YOU COULD SWIM, POP!
SO I CAN!
WELL, WHAT ARE THE WATER WINGS FOR?
(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
THEY'RE NOT WATER WINGS-
THEY'RE HOT WATER BOTTLES!
12-2

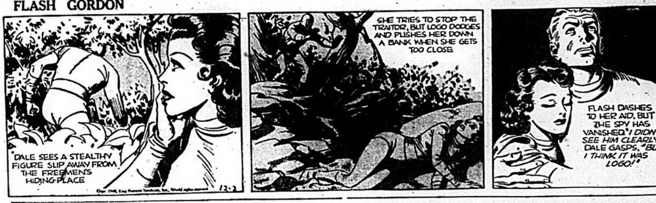
TILLIE THE TOILER — Local Atmosphere

By Russ Westover



LISTEN, MR. SIMPKINS—I'LL WORK FOR NOTHING IF YOU'LL LET ME WORK HERE
?
HMMM! THAT GOOD-LOOKING CHAP IS WILLING TO WORK FOR NOTHING—MAYBE HE SAW ME
12-2
THERE ISN'T ANY OTHER REASON WHY A PROSPEROUS-LOOKING FELLOW WOULD WORK HERE FOR NOTHING
MISS JONES—THIS IS MY OLD FRIEND BILL HUTT'S BOY, JOE—HE'S GOING TO WORK A WHILE AND OBSERVE OFFICE LIFE FOR A NOVEL HE'S WRITING
?!
RUSS WESTOVER

FLASH GORDON



DALE SEES A STEALTHY FIGURE SLIP AWAY FROM THE FREEMEN'S HIDING PLACE
12-2
SHE TRIES TO STOP THE TRAITOR, BUT LOGO DODGES AND PUSHES HER DOWN A BANK WHEN SHE GETS TOO CLOSE FLASH DASHES TO HER AID, BUT THE SPY HAS VANISHED. "I DIDN'T SEE HIM CLEARLY," DALE GASPS, "BUT I THINK IT WAS LOGO!"

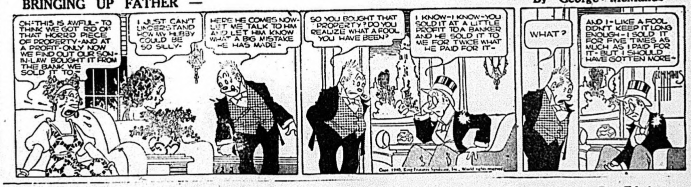
BRINGING UP FATHER —

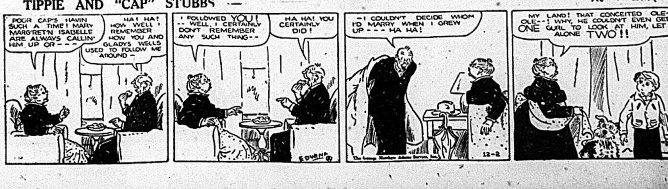
By George McManus



OH! THIS IS AWFUL—TO THINK WE GOT RID OF THAT HORRID PIECE OF PROPERTY—AND AT A PROFIT—ONLY NOW WE FIND OUT OUR SON-IN-LAW BOUGHT IT FROM THE BANK WE SOLD IT TO—
I JUST CAN'T UNDERSTAND HOW MY HUBBY COULD BE SO SILLY—
HERE HE COMES NOW—LET ME TALK TO HIM AND LET HIM KNOW WHAT A BIG MISTAKE HE HAS MADE—
SO YOU BOUGHT THAT PROPERTY? DO YOU REALIZE WHAT A FOOL YOU HAVE BEEN?
I KNOW—I KNOW—YOU SOLD IT AT A LITTLE PROFIT TO A BANKER AND HE SOLD IT TO ME FOR TWICE WHAT HE PAID FOR IT—
WHAT?
AND I—LIKE A FOOL—DIDN'T KEEP IT LONG ENOUGH—I SOLD IT FOR FIVE TIMES AS MUCH AS I PAID FOR IT—BUT I SHOULD HAVE GOTTEN MORE—
McMANUS

TIPPIE AND "CAP" STUBBS —

By Edwina



POOR CAP'S HAVIN SUCH A TIME! MARY MARG'RET'N ISABELLE ARE ALWAYS CALLIN' HIM UP OR---
HA! HA! HOW WELL I REMEMBER HOW YOU AND GLADYS WELLS USED TO FOLLOW ME AROUND—
I FOLLOWED YOU! -- WELL, I CERTAINLY DON'T REMEMBER ANY SUCH THING--
HA HA! YOU CERTAINLY DID!
EDWINA
—I COULDN'T DECIDE WHOM I'D MARRY WHEN I GREW UP --- HA HA!
12-2
MY LAND! THAT CONCEITED OLE--OLE--! WHY, HE COULDN'T EVEN GET ONE GURL TO LOOK AT HIM, LET ALONE TWO!!

STOCK MARKETS

QUOTATIONS FURNISHED BY BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD.
J. R. Poets, Branch Manager.

Quotations at 2.00

MINES

Ajax 13
Aldermac 15
Anglo Hur. 225
Aunor 200
Bankfield 9
Beattie 108
Bidgood 12 1-2
Big Missouri 4 3-4
Bralorne 995
Brouian 81 1-2
Buffalo Ank. 450
Calgary and Ed. 140
Can. Malar. 54
Central Pat. 190
Chesterville 123
Coast Copper 150
Coniaurum 137
Dome 24
Eldorado 35
East Mal. 274
Falconbridge 245
Gillies L. 4 1-8
Gunnar 37
Hardrock 95
Home Oil 233
Hollinger 13 1-8
Howey 30
Hudson Bay 26
Kerr Add. 340
Kirk. Lake 96
Lapa Cad. 7 1-2
Lake Shore 18 3-4
Leitch 50
Little L.L. 223
Macassa 355
McIntyre 48
McLeod 235
McKenzie 117
Mining Corp 83
Moneta 52
Nipissing 102
O'Brien 114
Okalta 77
Omega 16
Paymaster 27 1-
Pamour 138
Perron 167
Pend Oreille 182
Pickle Crow 288
Pioneer 215
Powell 104
Premier 90
Preston E. D. 310
Reno 15
Royalite 22
San Antonio 260
Sherritt G 82
Siscoe 49
Sladen M. 42
Sud. Basin 133
Sullivan 59
Steep Rock 156
Sylvanite 270
T Hughes 330
Tex Can Oil 125
Toburn 130
Ventures 295
W. Amulet 360
Wr. Hargreaves 705
U. Can 181

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 157 1-2
B. A. Oil 18 3-4
Brewing Corp. 115
Braz. Trac. 5 1-8
Can. Bud Brewery 4 1-2
Can. Cement 6 1-8
Can. Dredge 17
Can. Ind. Alcohol 185
C.P.R. 5 1-4
Can. Malting 38 1-2
Can. Vinegar 7 1-8
Canada Car 8 1-2
Cockshutt Plow 5 1-2
Cons. Bakeries 14
Con. Smelting 38 7-8
Dominion Foundries 23 1-2
Dominion Stores 5 1-8
Dist. Seagrams 25 7-8
Fanny Farmer 27 1-2
Ford "A" 16 3-4
Gypsum 3 1-2
Imp. Oil 9 5-8
Int. Nickel 34 3-4
Inter. Pet. 13 3-4
Imp. Tobacco 14 1-8
Loblaw 26 3-4
Massey Harris 3 1-8
Mont. Power 29
McColl-Frontenac 5
Power Corp. 5 7-8
Price Bros. 12 1-2
Steel of Canada 73 1-2
Shawinigan 17 1-2
Walker's 42 3-4
Walker's, Pfd. 18 1-2
C. P. A. 4 3-8

NEW YORK

American T. and T. 166 1-4
Anaconda 27 1-2
Bethlehem Steel 86 3-4
Chrysler 77 7-8
General Electric 33 1-4
General Motors 50
Inter. Telephone 2
North American 16 1-2
Montgomery Ward 38
Phillips Pet. 39 7-8
Radio 5
Standard Oil of N.J. 34 1-2
U. S. Steel 69
United Aircraft 43 1-2
Vanadium 33 7-8
Westinghouse 105 1-2

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP)—Trading on Toronto Exchange was light and firm today. Turnover totalled 100,000 shares.

Fanny Farmer firmed 1-8 to 28, B. A. Oil firmed 1-4 and Brazilian gained 1-8. Steels, utilities and papers were firm.

Gold gainers included Upper Canada, Kerr-Addison, Chesterville and Gold Eagle improved and in the base metals Noranda, Nickel and Pend Oreille were stronger.

Royalite and Calmont posted minor losses.

WALL STREET

New York, Dec. 2—(AP)—Leading stocks edged forward in today's market without attracting a great deal of buying power.

Scattered favorites, including Steels and other Industrials, got up around a point at the start. Quotations then slipped and dealings slowed near the fourth hour.

Stocks up at one time or another included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, Du Pont, Kennecott, Western Union, Loew's, U. S. Rubber and Great Northern. Some of these eventually faltered.

Canadian Hiram Walker advanced 1-2 point while International Nickel and Distillers Seagram dipped smaller fractions. Other Canadian issues were inactive.

Produce Markets

Toronto—Wholesale prices (Ontario Department of Agriculture) today were:

EGGS

Wholesale to retail:

A-large	.41
A-medium	.39
A-pullets	.38
Grade "B"	.35-.36
Grade "C"	.28

BUTTER

Butter, No. 1	.31—.31 1-4
Butter, No. 2	.29 1-2—.30 1-2
Churning Cream No. 1	.31
Churning Cream, No. 2	.28

POULTRY

(Dressed)

Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.21
Chickens, Grade "A"—
Over 5 lbs.	.19
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.18
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.17
Fowl—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 lbs.	.12

(Live Poultry)

Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.15
Chickens—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.12
Fowl—
3 to 4 lbs.	.10
Over 5 lbs.	.12
4 to 5 lbs.	.11
Ducks—
5 lbs and over	.19
Under 5 lbs.	.18

Butter Prices Move Higher

Toronto, Dec. 2 — Butter prices moved still higher to a new peak for the year on the Toronto open produce market Saturday as offerings remained limited. Further weakness was evident in eggs.

The pace was slower on the butter market because buyers were reluctant at paying the advanced prices and also because many of them had filled their week's requirements in preceding sessions. Holders continued to offer in limited volume even at the higher level of 31 1-4c a pound for No. 1 grade Ontario creamery solids.

Moderate receipts met with a poor reception on the egg market and prices again gave ground in the graded section. Lower grades shared in the slightly easier trend.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, Dec. 2—Produce market prices here Saturday as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

Butter: First-grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 32c; first-grade solids, jobbing price, 31 1-2c. Receipts for the week, 4,280 boxes, compared with 7,548 a year ago.

Cheese: Western white, current receipt price, 13 11-16c to 14 1-16c; colored, current receipt price, 13 7-8c to 14 13-16c: white and colored, wholesale jobbing price 14c. Receipts for the week, 6,989 boxes compared with 5,322 a year ago.

Eggs: Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 40c; a-medium, 36c; A-pullets, 35c; A-large, original, 31-32c; B-original, 29c to 29 1-2c: C-original, 24c to 25c. Receipts for the week, 5,188 cases compared with 4,261 a year ago.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Dec. 2.— (CP)—Cattle trade was active on all but common killers and stockers up to mid-session on the livestock market here today. Prices were 25 to 35 cents higher on steers and heifers. Cows and bulls sold steady. Lambs were 25 cents higher. Calves were firm and sheep steady. Unsold from last week were 700 head of cattle. No price was established for hogs. Today's supply included 900 stockers

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were—Cattle 2,300, calves 420, hogs 720, sheep and lambs 1,210.

Prices in the cattle section were—choice weighty steers $8.85 to $9; medium to good steers $7.25 to $8.60; butcher steers and heifers $6 to $8.25; a few light steers $8.50; butcher cows $4.25 to $5.50; canners and cutters $3 to $4; a few good butcher bulls $5 to $5.75; fed calves $8.75 to $10; stockers slow $5.50 to $6.50.

Calves sold at $10 to $11 for choice with a few tops at $11.25 and heavy common vealers down to $6. Grass calves sold at $4.50 to $5.50.

Lambs sold at $9.75 to $10 for good ewes and wethers with other grades selling downward to $7.

Sheep sold at $2 to $5.50.

Hogs sold previously at $10.75 dressedweight and $8 liveweight.

Montreal, Dec. 2 (CP)—Gains ranging from 25 to 50 cents were posted for cattle and grass calves in today's early livestock market here, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported.

Receipts: Cattle 1,031; calves 1,204; sheep 1,652, hogs, 1,777.

Good steers ranged from $8-$9, medium kinds from $6.75-$7.75 and common mostly $6-$6.50. Heifers sold from $5 to an extreme top of $7, with medium bringing about $6. A few early sales of good cows brought $5.50, while a few early canners made $3. Bulls fetched $3.75-$6.

Veals, which displayed a firm trend, made $11 for good qualities, up to $10.50 for mediums and down to $8.50 for common lights. Drinkers brought $5.50-$6 and grassers $4.25-$5.

Good ewes and wethers were steady at 11. Culls and bucks sold at $8 and sheep $3-$6. There were not enough early hog sales to establish a market.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP)—Dressedweight were up 20 cents at Barrie and Hull while prices were unchanged at Brantford and Stratford in bacon-hog markets reporting early today.

Dressedweight: Barrie $10.85, Hull $10.30, Brantford $10.25 plus transportation, Stratford $10.25 plus transportation.

THINKS

(Continued from Page One)

Weygand May Be Waiting.

They believe it is possible that the general, who was commander-in-chief of the French armies when they fell to Germany, is waiting for the Vichy government to commit itself to some further scheme for "collaboration" with the axis powers before he openly repudiates it. In this, these observers point out, Vice-Premier Pierre Laval, who has been conducting "collaboration" negotiations with Berlin, may unconsciously be playing Weygand's game.

Gen. Weygand's adherence to the Free French cause, however, would create a delicate problem in London. As a much older man with a name which still carries immense prestige in France, he presumably would expect to lead the movement, causing de Gaulle, who was little known in France before the war, to take a subordinate post in the movement which he himself created after the armistice.

If Weygand brought North Africa to Britain's aid, the whole strategic position in the Mediterranean and the Middle East would be reversed, military spokesmen said.

French Colonial Situation.

Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, British commander in the middle east, faced a hazardous situation through the defection of French colonial armies in June when France dropped out of the war.

Instead of having an allied army outnumbering the Italians, he suddenly found himself outnumbered by them. Although reinforcements were rushed from Britain, Australia, New Zealand and India, he had to allow the Italians to advance in the western desert across the Egyptian frontier. British Somaliland had to be evacuated. But these were Italy's only successes. The drive across the desert halted at Sidi Barrani and Italy is having difficulty supplying the troops there.

Weygand could bring to Gen. Wavell a well-equipped, partly mechanized army of upward of 500,000 men, composed of native troops, the French foreign legion, and others. That army could press down from the heights of Tunis eastward into Italian Libya.

Marshal Graziani's Italian army could thus be squeezed in a British-French pincer, say military commentators.

Larger Number Votes Polled Than Expected

Electors of Belleville plowed their way through snow-plugged city streets today to record their votes at the many municipal polls. Despite the conditions of the streets and the sub-zero weather of early morning, it was reported at noon that a larger poll than was at first expected had been recorded at that time.

Candidates for municipal honors were out bright and early with vehicular conveyances driving electors to the polls.

The sluggish interest in the nomination and pre-election speeches roused from its lethargy today and seemed to bear out a statement made by a veteran municipal servant "that the people had already made up their minds, and did not want to listen to any electoral platforms."

While interest on the street and in the usual places where the elections are generally decided long before the polls are closed, gave aldermanic and mayoralty candidates a fair discussion, the main topic appeared to hinge on the fight between Ex-Mayor George A. Reid and Commissioner Clifford Baragar for the seat on the Public Utilities Commission.

The electoral gauntlet thrown down and picked up by the candidates for the commissionership at the meeting held in the City Hall on Friday night had aroused exceptional public interest in the fray, and a closely-fought battle is expected. Both candidates exuded confidence today and the result is being awaited with unexpected interest.

Aldermanic candidates and those for the mayoralty went about the business of the election with the usual activities. Some difficulty was experienced in streets which are partly snow-filled, but early afternoon predictions foresaw a much higher poll than was anticipated early today.

DYNAMITE STOLEN

Bangor, Pa., Dec. 2. (AP)—Theft of 880 sticks of dynamite and 8,000 blasting caps from a storage magazine near Bangor was disclosed today by County Detective John Ruppert who said the missing explosive was "enough to blow this town off the map".

Stirling and District

County Holstein Breeders Hold Banquet, Award Prizes

Veteran Cattlemen and Organizer of Holstein Breeders Heard

PICTURES SHOWN

Stirling, December 2.— (Special)—Over one hundred and fifty guests gathered in Stirling Community Service building for the Annual banquet of the Hastings County Holstein Breeders' Association. A program of variety numbers provided by local talent and several fine addresses as well as the presentation of motion pictures provided the evening's entertainment.

The splendid dinner was prepared and served by the ladies of the Stirling branch of the Ontario Women's Institute and though the number of guests was fifty per cent larger than expected many fine comments were heard on the fine meal served. The guests took their places in the dining hall, when sufficient accommodation had been completed to meet the need and Mr. Clifford Ketcheson, president of the organization presided as toastmaster for the evening. Following the toast to the King, a brief period of lively community singing was enjoyed under the leadership of Art Duncan with Mr. Fred Houchin at the piano. Assembling in Stirling for the first time for this annual function the organization officers and members and their guests were officially welcomed to the community by Mr. W. C. West. reeve of the village.

Musical numbers provided by a Stirling trio Miss L. G. Poynter, Wm. Jones and A. Duncan included two groups of medleys one featuring southern songs and other patriotic songs. Mr. Jones also assisted in two solo numbers palying the guitar and harmonica.

Presentation of Awards

One of the highlights of the evening's programme was the presentation of the prizes to the members of the Hastings' County Junior Calf Club Members for their showing in competition at the annual Black and White Day held in conjunction with the Stirling Fall Fair. Mr. H. L. Fair, local representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture under whose direction the clubs were organized called the winners to the front of the hall and presented the prizes along with his personal congratulation. Prize winners in the competition were as follows (not listed in order of merit).

Belleville Junior Farmers' Calf Club —Clayton Thompson, Robert Hoard, Wesley Finch, Murray Heath, Douglas Campbell, Gordon Richardson, Bobby Sine, Douglas Ketcheson, Frank Meyers, Bert Bonisteel.

Madoc Junior Farmers' Calf Club —William Pigden, Herbert Harris, Eugene Pigden, Tom Burnside, Jack Burnside, Jim Burnside, Bob Kincaid.

Tweed Junior Farmers' Calf Club—Scott Bateman, Clifford McCamon, Ernie Reynolds, Jack Fluke, Stanley Geen, Jim Fluke, Raymond Geen, Carmen Geen, Joe Schwager.

Veteran Cattleman Speaks

Mr. R. M. Holtby, veteran cattleman and organizer of Holstein breeders throughout the Dominion also spoke to the gathering and expressed his keen interest in the progress of the local organization. Mr. Holtby is widely known for his knowledge in the cattle raising branch of agriculture.

Mr. A. D. Runyons of Kemptville

Mr. A. D. Runyons of Kemptville Agricultural School, spoke at some length on the subject "Ontario Farmers' War Effort". "The future activity of the Ontario Farmer should be one of crop production for the purpose of feeding in the most economical way livestock that will contribute to our famous dairy industry. We must strive to improve our crop production by the adoption of new proven methods such as tripod curing etc. etc. which serves the two-fold purpose of speeding up harvesting and retaining to the fullest the greatest of nutrition in crops. But advancement in this line isn't sufficient in itself there must always be stock improvement methods such as herd building, grading, etc., so that after the war Canada will have cattle of the highest type. Denmark gave us an example of this foresight in the postwar days of the last war. While supplying the British Isles with much needed dairy products she followed a strict program of herd building among the cattlemen of the nation. Though for the present her great contribution to the agricultural world seems to be lost, she set in motion the program that will live on after she is restored to peace". Particular interest in this fine address was taken by the younger members of the audience who in their agricultural studies have realized the true value of its purpose.

Illustrated Lecture

The main speaker of the evening was Mr. Hugh J. Colson, editor of the Holstein Friesian Journal, who after briefly offering congratulations to the organization for their progress climaxed his remarks with the showing of two reels of motion pictures of cattle shows of the New York World Fair and also cattle shows of Western Canada. Mr. Colson was introduced to the gathering by Mr. Ian McLeod, agricultural representative for the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

It was the largest gathering in the history of the Hastings County Organization and after expressions of gratitude to those who assisted on the program the evening closed with the singing of "O Canada".

SHORT COURSE IN AGRICULTURE HELD AT TWEED

Officials Pleased With Number of Registrations and General Interest Shown

MANY LECTURES

Stirling, Dec. 2 (Special)—Officials in charge of the winter short courses in Agriculture and Home Economics being held in Tweed under the direction of the Ontario Department of Agriculture are pleased with the number of registrants and the general interest being shown by those attending.

Mr. H. L. Fair local representative of the Department of Agriculture is in charge of the classes, which are being conducted in Oddfellows' Community Hall and the Town Hall. Twenty-one girls are taking advantage of the course in Home Economics and sixteen boys will study the special course in agriculture. The young ladies registered include Mrs. Gladys Atton, Marion Bateman, Ruth Coulson, Mabel Doggan, Doris Coulter, Doreen Fobert, Ann Brown, Olive Kennedy, Madeline Kleinsteuber, Margaret Kimlin, Helen McTaggart, Grace McCaw, Wilma Meraw, Dorothy Porter, Mrs. Jas. LeSage, Helen Jones, Ruby Jones, Rita Ryan, Dorothy Rashotte, Phyllis Sills, Mrs. Irene Benny, Mrs. Helen Cordy. At the conclusion of the organization meeting the following ladies were appointed as the class executive President Mrs. Carmen Atton; Vice-President, Rita Ryan; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Jas. LeSage; Librarian, Helen Jones; Song Leader, Doris Coulter.

Boys' Group and Officers

President, Stanley Geen; Vice-President, Justin Fleming; Secretary-Treasurer, Bruce Prindle; Committee, Ernie Reynolds, Michael Rush; Members of the class in addition to these officers are Carmen Green, Clare Kleinsteuber, Douglas Bolderick, Michael Courneya, Burton Coulter, Norman Coulter, Norman White, John White, Clarence Reeves, Clifford McCammon Donald Sills.

Capable Instructors

Among the instructors appointed to lead in the study courses are W. L. Bishop B.S.A., Norwich, Ont., on the subject Co-operation and Marketing; R. J. Bryden B.S.A., of the Chemistry Department O.A.C., Guelph, subject Soils and Fertilizers; J. E. Bergy B.S.A., Poultry Department O.A.C., Guelph, subject "Poultry"; L. C. Marritt, B.Sc.F., Forestry Branch Department of Lands and Forests, Toronto, subject Farm Forestry; W. M. Gordon B.S.A., Dominion Marketing Service, Peterboro, subject "Swine Marketing"; W. R. Dunlop, Belleville, subject, "Cream Testing and Grading."

Starting on Tuesday, Dec. 4th, these speakers will speak in the order given above on the following dates Dec. 4th; Dec. 6th; Dec. 10th; Dec. 11th; Dec. 16th; Dec. 17th. The value of these courses have been recognized not only by leading officials of the provincial department of agriculture but by farmers throughout the province and there continuance in the present time is looked upon as a worthy war measure in the development of agriculture.

Personals

Friends of Miss Sarah Knox aged Stirling resident will be sorry to learn that she was admitted to Belleville General Hospital last Friday. Miss Knox suffered a fall a few days ago in her home and at the present time is reported progressing favorably.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mason, Benny and Ross are spending a few days visiting the former's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie Mason in Oshawa.

GERMAN

(Continued from Page One)

the German armed forces would step in.

Pledged To Fight.

Bucharest, Dec. 2 (AP)—A German motorized division paraded through the streets of Bucharest today with King Michael bringing up the rear.

More than fifty German warplanes flew over a reviewing stand occupied by German generals surrounding Premier Ion Antonescu and the Iron Guard leader, Horia Sima.

Crowds which stood silent as the Nazis passed cheered lustily when Michael was driven by in an automobile.

(Michael was reported in border reports last week as having fled Bucharest as a result of Iron Guard disorders in the Rumanian capital.)

The Iron Guard meanwhile pledged itself to fight for the return of Transylvania.

Premier Ion Antonescu, speaking at the mountain town of Alba Julia in commemoration of the 22nd anniversary of Rumania's acquisition of Transylvania, assured 100,000 members of the Guard last night that Germany and Italy had displayed "understanding" for Rumania's desire.

(Hungary, with Rumania a recent signatory of the German-Italian-Japanese military economic pact, received about half the province of Transylvania Aug. 30 in an axis-dictated settlement. Rumania had gained it from Hungary at the close of the First Great War in the dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian Empire.)

"I went to Berlin and Rome for the Transylvanians," the premier said. "I pointed out all their sufferings and ours at this time. I found understanding."

Hitler, Antonescu said, gave him a message for the Rumanian army: "On your shoulders rests the duty to repair and correct any injustice Rumania suffered."

Official Hungarian quarters in Bucharest scoffed at Antonescu's references to Transylvania, declaring that "what is being said in Rumania is of no importance and of no interest to us."

BRITISH ARMIES

(Continued from Page One)

(The Rome radio said in a broadcast last Friday that reinforcements sent to Albania had been given the job of beating back the Greeks "without German aid.")

While whatever plans Britain may have for moving more forces into Greece are kept secret, it was regarded as certain that any move by the Axis would bring a counter move by the British and that certain advance moves in anticipation of Axis action also were likely.

To Meet On Mainland

Opinion here seemed to be that—even in case Germany joins the Italian battle with Greece—the British Command believed it would be better to meet German troops on the mainland than to permit them to break through to Mediterranean bases.

The feeling in the British middle east was that since the Axis has not brought the fight to dislodge British troops from the Suez Canal, Britain must carry the fight to the Axis.

When the Italians first srtuck at Greece there was considerable caution on the part of British authorities lest the Axis might be trying to ensnare British near East forces while preparing a major drive elsewhere. Too, even many Greek officers expressed doubts that the Greeks could hold the mainland long.

Developments Dissipate Views

Since then developments have dissipated both these views. Little likelihood is seen of a quick collapse in Greece, which would leave British forces stranded there and the Italians in the western Egyptian desert have shown no signs of being ready to try a main offensive against the British lines.

Gen. Georges Catroux, who has assumed leadership of the Free French forces in the Near East has declared that Italian reverses in the Greek campaign produced a deep effect among French troops in Africa and Syria.

He expressed the belief that any German or Italian attempt to occupy the regions these troops are holding would meet with their resistance.

EIGHT NAZI PLANES

(Continued from Page One)

One raider was shot almost to pieces by Spitfires, with wreckage splattering into the sea a few miles off Folkestone, on the southeast coast.

The raids in the south began early last night, with many Nazi planes crossing the coast. First they dropped flares to light their targets and followed with incendiary and high explosive bombs. In one area a raider was said to have come down to spray tracer machine gun bullets into the darkness.

London had a "two-alert" night, the first all clear coming fairly early and the second soon after midnight. The Alert periods were marked by heavy anti-aircraft barrages.

Full Repotrs Not Available

In the South Coast Town, a communique said: "Buildings were damaged by high explosive bombs and by fire. Some persons were killed and others injured. Full reports are not yet available but it is believed the number of casualties is not large".

The capital had three daylight alarms Sunday and numerous air battles were reported over the Channel and the southeast coast. Eight German planes and five British were shot down during the day. All Royal Air Force pilots were reported safe.

At nightfall the raiders spread out over the Island, striking mainly at the South Coast, but a Midland Town, a Southwest Town and the important Port of Liverpool on the West Coast also reported activity overhead.

R.A.F. Retaliate

The rumble of explosions from the French Coast across the channel indicated the R.A.F. was retaliating with new attacks on "invasion ports".

An air raid official in Southampton, discussing the heavy Saturday night raid on that town of about 175,000 population, declared that "if ever there was an indiscriminate bombing, we have had it here".

Many buildings in the centre of the city were wrecked. Several churches were destroyed, as well as a theatre, a newspaper office, a lending library, many shops and homes. The government said all fires were under control and that the homeless were being cared for.

Sub Presumed Lost

The Admiralty reported the 1,090-ton submarine Triad overdue and presumed lost. She was a sistership of the Thetis, which foundered on a trial dive June 1, 1939. The Triad whose normal complement was 53, torpedoed a 4,000-ton supply ship in Oslo fjord April 2 and nine days later attacked a convoy of supply ships. Two of her torpedoes were reported to have found their mark.

Official sources said the Royal Air Force had downed 201 German and 20 Italian planes over Britain and British waters in November. This was exclusive of planes brought down by anti-aircraft fire from ships or by the fleet air arm. Eight German planes were said to have been destroyed over Axis or Axis-occupied territory or waters in the same period. British losses over Britain and British waters were placed at 53 planes, with 28 of the pilots saved.

In the middle east and the Mediterranean, these sources said, the Italians lost 58 planes in November to 18 for the R.A.F.

The Press Association said yesterday 3,006 Axis planes, all but 20 of them German, had been shot down over Britain and British waters since the start of the war.

5,000 ITALIANS

(Continued from Page One)

Mention of the exact place where the front was reported smashed was forbidden by military authorities. They permitted mention merely that it was in the north.

One frontline report said "the victory, with exaggeration, is of exceptional importance, for the enemy line in this sector has been destroyed and all danger eliminated for us."

Ready To Surrender.

The capture of the Italians, this report said, came after the Fascist commander sent a message to the Greek line that he was ready to surrender. The Greeks, fearing a trap, cautiously surrounded the Italians with heavy detachments.

"The psychological effect of the surrender was such that it broke enemy resistance in the area and led to a hasty, precipitous retreat," it said.

"One after another of the Italian columns abandoned their positions, leaving behind all sorts of equipment in large quantities.

"Seventeen captured Italian officers disclosed that Elite Italian legions which had fought in Spain's civil war had taken part in defence of this area and were retreating in disorder."

Before this report was received, advices from the front described the fighting line at the start of the sixth week of war as swinging like a door toward the Adriatic coast, from a coastal area just north of the Greek frontier, to Lake Ochrida, on the Yugoslav frontier.

With this break, the arching battlefront appeared to have been cut into two segments, with the heaviest fighting still raging in the south around Argirocastro, the last remaining Fascist invasion base in southern Albania.

Dispatches from the front and statements by a Greek spokesman pictured the fighting line at the start of the sixth week of war as swinging like a barn door toward the Adriatic from a hinge on the Albanian coast, just north of the Greek frontier, to Lake Ochrida, on the Yugoslav frontier.

Stiffest Italian resistance was reported near that hinge, around Argirocastro.

In the central sector the Greek high command announced the capture of "points of special importance for the development of operations" around Premet, 18 miles north of the Greek frontier.

Near Lake Ochrida Italians were said to be retreating through ice and snow toward Elbasani, 40 miles northwest of fallen Pogradetz on the Albanian Capital Tirana.

The high command said last night the Greeks made "important advances on the entire front" and captured 150 more prisoners.

A spokesman added that the Italian retreat was general from Lake Ochrida to the sea, and that Greek bayonet charges had won new fortified heights.

"The booty we have captured (around Pogradetz) is very important and exceeds figures given in the official communique," he said. "More to the south, the fresh, select Italian troops which had been rushed to reinforce the enemy have contributed nothing. On the contrary, they suffered the effect of the contagions."

The Greek newspaper Progref answered what it said was an Italian radio assertion that Greek bayonet! fighting was "a barbarous form of warfare" by commenting:-

"Bayonet fighting certainly is less bayonet fighting was "a barbarous ing planes against non-combatants ...It is not our fault if the enemy lacks the courage of soul against these bayonet charges."

SCOTT'S EMULSION
A Better Way to take Cod Liver Oil
Contains Vitamins A and D
59¢ and 98¢
Recommended by
GEORGE PAULEY
DRUGGIST. Phone 105

CASF IN ENGLAND

(Continued from Page One)

While the 2nd Division is being brought to a state of keen preparation for battle, the infantry brigades of the 1st Division have been manning a section of England's coastal defences. In this branch of active service they would be the first to meet a force attempting an invasion.

When the late Norman Rogers inspected the Canadians at Aldershot April 23, and Britain's battlefront was extending into Norway, he was asked if it would make any difference where the Canadians served.

"Canadian troops always have gone where they were most needed and where they could make the greatest contribution," he replied.

There has been nothing to indicate that that is not the Canadian government's view at the moment.

LADY GOWRIE LAUNCHES ARUNTA, TRIBAL DESTROYER

Sydney, Dec. 2 (AP)—Lady Gowrie, wife of the Governor-General, today launched the H.M.A.S. Arunta, 1,870-ton tribal destroyer, first of its kind to be built in Australia and the largest naval vessel launched here since the seaplane carrier Albatros in 1928.

Two more tribal destroyers will be built, all armed with eight 4.7-inch guns, eight smaller guns and four 21-inch torpedo tubes. The ships will cost £1,000,000 ($3,550,000) each. The Arunta is named after an Australian aboriginal tribe noted for its virility, courage and intelligence.

SOME CRAFTSMEN

(Continued from Page One)

"Essential industries" under the arrangement would be those defined as such by the Department of Munitions and Supply. There would be no compulsion upon the men to return to their work, and in all cases the soldiers' wishes would be taken into consideration.

Employers of the men concerned must originate application for their temporary release from the C.A.S.F. the department's statement added. Employers would be asked to apply to the officer commanding the unit in which the soldier is serving.

Only Craftsmen to Apply

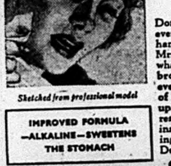
"Only applications for craftsmen will be in order and they (the employers) must give complete information as to the position the man will fill in the factory, as well as verifying that employers have been uable to obtain suitable help from employment bureaux," it added.

Final decision regarding applications would be made at National Defence headquarters.

Some restrictions would be imposed on applications, in order to prevent technical branches of the service from losing experienced men. No applications for release of men from the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps will be considered, due to a present shortage.

The Defence Department"s announcement followed by only three days Labor Minister McLarty's speech in the House of Commons in which he said an interdepartmental committee was endeavoring to ensure that soldiers skilled in certain types of work would be "returned to war industries as needed."

The men, who will be allowed to wear uniforms while not actually engaged in their work, will be reabsorbed into their former units when returned to active service.



Sketched from professional model

Suffered 11 Years from BRONCHITIS
Two Bottles of Buckley's Mixture Cleared it up.

Don't you make the mistake of trying "almost everything" if you have bronchitis or a tough hang-on cold. Benefit by the experience of Mrs. R. Stephenson, Onoway, Alta. Here is what Mrs. Stephenson writes: "I suffered from bronchitis for 11 years, and tried almost everything without relief. Only two bottles of Buckley's Mixture were needed to clear it up." Buckley's Mixture is a grand remedy for respiratory ailments. It eases the cough almost instantly, softens hard phlegm, eases breathing, clears your head, makes you feel fine. Don't experiment. Buy Buckley's.

IMPROVED FORMULA —ALKALINE—SWEETENS THE STOMACH

OVER 10 MILLION BOTTLES SOLD!

18

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

LADY BIRD CHATS WITH CANADIAN ACE

Jacqueline Cochran Odlum, noted American aviatrix, is shown with Air Marshal William A. Bishop, RIGHT, at the testimonial dinner given in Bishop's honor at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York city. Air Marshal Bishop, No. 1 ace of the British Empire in the world war, accounted for 72 German planes in that struggle. The dinner was given under the auspices of the New York Canadian Societies and American Friends of Canada.

RELAXATION FROM BATTLE OF BRITAIN

Girl members of an American ambulance corps in England are shown getting their exercise by riding an electric bicycle during their off-duty period. There are 260 surgical units in the ambulance fleet to which these girls belong. They work hard, day and night, when their services are needed and must take their relaxation when and where they can between raids.

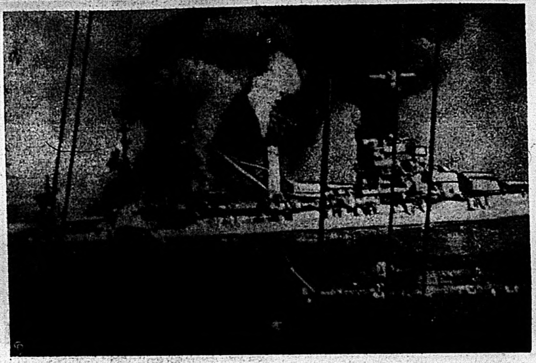
RESCUE ON THE HIGH SEAS BY R.C.N.

With intensification of Nazi piracy on the sea, the Royal Canadian Navy has been called upon tc perform a number of dramatic rescues. This striking photograph shows survivors of a torpedoed merchantman being rescued at sea by a Canadian destroyer.

VICHY GOVERNMENT TARDILY ADMITS DESTRUCTION OF ITS FLEET AT ORAN

Blasted by the guns of the British fleet after British proposals had been turned down, sailors are shown moving about the smoke-covered deck of the French battleship Dunkerque, during the now historic Battle of Oran last July. The Dunkerque was repeatedly struck by the British shells and seriously damaged.

A shell-blasted gun turret on the French battleship Bretagne, which was wrecked by British naval action during the Battle or Oran, is shown ABOVE. The Bretagne was but one unit of the French naval force that was either sunk, wrecked or beached, as Britain moved swiftly to prevent the French fleet from being used by Germany after the French surrender.



—Pictures from News of the Day Newsreel

Mortally wounded the French battleship Bretagne settles to the bottom in the Battle of Oran, which opened fire after the French commander, Admiral Marcel-Bruno Gensoul, refused to accede to British proposals that would have ensured the French fleet of not falling into Germany's hands for use against Britain. A decisive victory was scored by the smaller British force and Hitler's hopes of acquiring this portion of France's naval forces were rudely shattered. These pictures were released by the Vichy government as its official version of the battle.

Downed in Mediterranean

Jean Chiappe, newly appointed French high commissioner for Syra and Lebanon, whose plane, carrying him to his new post, is reported shot down over the northern Mediterranean sea. Chiappe, former prefect of police in Paris, received his appointment from the Vichy government, last week, replacing Gabriel Puaux. As yet there is no report as to the fate of Chiappe or of the plane's crew.

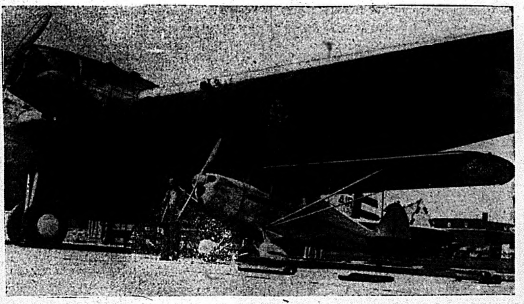
FINANCIER SUICIDES

Leaving a note for his wife, which said in part, "I am tired of fighting. I can't go on," Jesse L. Livermore, 62, former "Boy Wonder" of Wall Street, who made $10,000,000 out of $10 only to go bankrupt four times, shot and killed himself in an ante room of a New York hotel.

JAP ENVOY TO U.S.

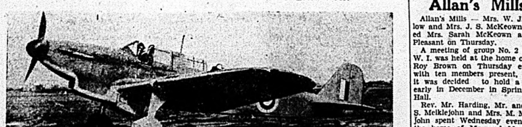
Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, former foreign minister, has been appointed ambassador to the United States, according to reports from Japan. Japanese interpreted the choice as an effort to improve relations between Japan and the United States.

THE GIANT AND THE PYGMY



The wing of the Boeing B-15 super-flying fortress, one of the largest military planes in the world, makes a nice shelter for this Piper Coupe at Mitchell Field, Long Island. These super-bombers are being built for the U.S. army air corps, but under the present "aid to England" policy of the United States, some of them may find themselves in action over Germany.

NEW BRITISH PLANE FOR MEDITER RANEAN WAR



A view of the new Fulmar fighter Britain's new Spitfire of the sea. The machine is said to be as powerful as the Spitfire and Hurricane and is specially designed for action with the fleet air arm. The plane is now in mass production for use in the Mediterranean theatre of war.

SLEEPING BEAUTY AWAKE

Winifred Rutz, the girl who slept for more than a week as the result of taking an overdose of sleeping powders, is shown leaving a New York hospital very much wide awake. This is the first case on record, according to physicians, where a victim has recovered from such a large dose of the drug.

Controls Ship Building

D. B. Carswell, director-general of naval construction, who has been appointed controller of ship construction and ship repairs in the department of munitions and supply, with powers to expand shipbuilding in Canada to its maximum of production and efficiency.

Allan's Mills

Allan's Mills — Mrs. W. J. Barlow and Mrs. J. S. McKeown visited Mrs. Sarah McKeown at Mt. Pleasant on Thursday.

A meeting of group No. 2 of the W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Brown on Thursday evening with ten members present, and it was decided to hold a dance early in December in Springbrook Hall.

Rev. Mr. Harding, Mr. and Mrs. S. Meiklejohn and Mrs. M. Meiklejohn spent Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKeown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McAdam, Mr. and Mrs. A. Burkitt visited Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hick of Belleville on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Heath and Pte. Dave Wellman and Pte. Ray Lain were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wellman.

Probabilities

Moderate winds; generally fair and decidedly cold. Wednesday — Fresh southeast to southwest winds; partly cloudy and cold, followed by moderating temperature and probably snowflurries.

The Ontario Intelligencer

Temperatures

	Max.	Min.
Today...	7.2	13b
One year ago	46	31.9

Weather—Clear.

✱ ✱

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1940

QUIETEST ELECTION IN YEARS HELD IN CITY

* * * * * * *

ITALIANS GRADUALLY RETIRE TOWARD ELBASANI

* * * * * * *

German Submarine Base at Lorient Bombed

Thompson Elected, Reid Commissioner 4 New Aldermen

Two-Year Term for Council Carries Gas, Water Dep'ts Remain With Commission

BELLEVILLE'S 1941-1942 COUNCIL

Mayor Glencoe E. Thompson	2,149
Ex-Alderman Charles L. Hyde	703
Majority for Thompson	1,446

ALDERMEN ELECTED:

H. J. Clarke	1,602
Harry Rollins	1,511
Frank Follwell	1,358
Russell Wetten	1,291
O. E. Butler	1,201
H. J. Armstrong	1,176
A. M. Kennedy	1,057
R. W. Pringle	1,049
Wm. Harvey	1,001
H. J. Allin	964
T. H. Marshall	876
C. R. Clapp	873
T. "Derby" Jeffery	845

Defeated candidates — Francis Potter, Thomas Cushing, G. C. Brickman, Jack Holley.

BOARD OF EDUCATION TRUSTEES:

Elected:

Rev. W. J. Walker	1,477
P. C. McGuire	1,136
B. C. Sisler	954
Carl Crosby	827
J. H. Legate	795
W. J. Harrison	696

Defeated:

Ross Stiver	676
Ray Zufelt	590
Geo. Wishart	589

(Continued on Page Three)

FATHER AT 81

Springfield, Ore., Dec. 3 (AP).—J. P. Ellison, 81, listened to his five-day old son squall lustily and predicted that he'd "spile it, just like the others". The baby is the third by Ellison's 27-year-old wife. They have two other boys, five and seven.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP)—The weather has been unusually cold over Ontario with light snow in many districts. It has been milder in Alberta and temperature is now moderating in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

PLACE:	8 a.m.	High Yest'dy	Low During Night
Vancouver	50	52	41
Victoria	50	49	47
Calgary	38	33	30
Edmonton	24	9	6
Winnipeg	5b	4b	18b
S. S. Marie	13b	10	14b
Toronto	1b	25	1b
Ottawa	16b	8	15b
Quebec	5	6	3
Halifax	31	25	12
Detroit	7	24	7
New York	25	38	25
Miami	66	86	66

Why The Weather?

A cold wind! There is a cold wind that blows off the Alps down through the gaps in the mountains and over the Mediterranean coasts. It is known as the "Mistral" on the southern coast of France, and it is said that the Gulf of Lion is given that name as those winds are often very violent there, as well as cold. It is told that a large British three-decker warship caught in a gale there was struck by such a heavy sea that she was thrown on her beam-ends, and for a moment it was thought she was lost. She righted, however, but was found to be completely disabled, with nearly all the bolts of her iron knees broken. It was described by one witness as "the most terrific scene I ever beheld".

FINANCE MINISTER CRACKS DOWN ON NON-ESSENTIALS

Non-Essential Imports From the United States Banned by New Edict

EFFECTIVE MONDAY

Ottawa, Dec. 3—(CP)—In what the Finance Minister, Hon. J. L. Ilsley described as a "drastic type of restriction program" Canada cracked down Monday on non-essential imports from outside the sterling area, by placing these non-essential commodities on a prohibited list.

Designed to conserve Canada's foreign exchange for United States war purchasing, the prohibitory list was directed mainly at non-essential imports from the United States. An unofficial estimate was that of items included in the prohibitory schedule, 90 per cent of them come from the United States.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

22 Merchant Vessels Totalling 87,975 Tons Lost in Week of Nov. 24

London, Dec. 3.—(CP)—Twenty-two merchant ships totalling 87,975 tons were sunk by enemy action in the week ending Nov. 24, the Admiralty announced today. This total is 30,000 tons above the average weekly loss since the war began.

The losses were 19 British ships totalling 75,560 tons and three allied vessels totalling 12,415 tons.

The Admiralty said the Germans claimed to have sunk 118,020 tons of merchant shipping during that week.

The total actually lost compared with a figure of 59,534 tons for the previous week and represented the most serious week since the seven-day period ending Oct. 21, during which 198,030 tons were lost.

'It is a serious menace", said a naval spokesman of the continued drain on the Empire's shipping resources, "but as a nation we can take knocks".

The Ministry of Information announced that 323,157 tons of British, Allied and neutral shipping had been sunk during the four weeks ending Nov. 24.

The Ministry compared this total with the 881,000 tons of British, Allied and neutral shipping which was sunk during April, 1917, at the height of the unrestricted submarine campaign of the first Great War.

Lord Woolton's Christmas Gift To U. K. Larger Tea, Sugar Rations

London, Dec. 3 (CP).—Lord Woolton, food minister, announced today his Christmas "gift" to the nation would be increased sugar and tea rations for the week of Dec. 16.

They will be twelve ounces of sugar and four ounces of tea, instead of eight and two ounces, respectively, allowed now.

Apart from loadings for which arrangements have already been made, no cargoes of fresh or tinned fruit, except a limited quantity of oranges, will for the time being be brought to Britain.

In a speech at Manchester, Lord Woolton said:

"This country has taken the offensive and, to make it successful, there must be a speed-up in the manufacture of arms. This offensive also will mean a drain on the country's shipping facilities.

"There is every reason to hope that before long we shall find ourselves settling old scores and to that end we have to mobilize the whole resources of the country.

"We must have speed, speed, speed and ships, ships, ships.

"We have to carry our forces overseas—and overseas is the proper place for Britain to be at war.

"As we are going to lose part of our food ships to take part in this offensive, I cannot afford to bring you any longer those things which are not essential for the prosecution of the war.

"Does that matter? We have had a standard of life that the rest of Europe has envied, but now we are going into the offensive."

GERMANS CENTRE NIGHT BOMBINGS ON S. W. ENGLAND

Twice Before Noon Nazis Strike at London but Efforts Are Feeble

BRISTOL ATTACKED

Children's Hospital Damaged by Fire and High Explosive Bombs

London, Dec. 3.—(CP)—Hitler's raiders hammered furiously at the west coast port of Bristol for six hours last night and then shifted their attention suddenly to London today after passing up the capital entirely from dusk to dawn.

Twice before noon the Germans struck at London, and one squadron of raiders dodged through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire to sow bombs which demolished a number of dwellings and caused some casualties. third alarm, which was followed quickly by the all clear, sounded during the lunch hour.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Britain Orders 60 Cargo Ships Built in U. S.

London, Dec. 3 (CP).—Shipping Minister Ronald Cross informed the House of Commons today that Britain had placed orders for construction of sixty cargo vessels in the United States and in addition would continue to purchase serviceable American ships.

Mr. Cross assured the House that "everything possible is being done to get ships with the greatest facility."

He said "old but serviceable United States vessels, including vessels belonging to the Maritime Commission, have been and will continue to be purchased for the British flag as opportunity offers."

NAZIS STRIP AUSTRIA

Portland, Ore., Dec. 3 —(AP)—Archduke Felix of Austria charges today that the "Prussians have stripped the palaces and museums in Vienna of everything and have taken the stolen goods into Germany."

The 24-year-old third son of Emperor Karl told interviewers Austrian workers are being sent to Germany to work in the Ruhr, where they are exposed to bombing raids, while German workers are being sent into Austria.

The refugee nobleman is en route to California.

STEAMSHIP REPORTS ATTACK

New York, Dec. 3 (AP).—Mackay radio said today it had received a message from the Valentia, Eire radio station, saying the steamship Salvonia was attacked by an airplane at 6:47 a.m. E.D.T. about 300 miles due west of the Irish coast.

(Lloyd's register of shipping does not list a vessel of that name.)

Class Barriers in Britain Crumbling Because of Ruthless Nazi Bombing

Terror From Skies Menaces Rich and Poor Alike—Forms Common Bond of Friendship Embracing All Classes

MOST APPARENT IN LONDON

Returned home to become Canadian Press Military Correspondent in Ottawa, Edwin S. Johnson, for four years London Superintendent and War Correspondent with the Canadian Forces in England, tells in this article of the changes that aerial warfare has made in the lives of Britons.

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

An East Coast Canadian Port, Dec. 3 (CP)—During the heat of battle, while she is fighting desperately for her very survival, Britain is undergoing the most sweeping social revolution in her history.

What reformers for generations have sought to achieve by agitation and other means the present war has accomplished almost overnight. It has happened because threatened Nazi invasion and terror from the skies have menaced high and humble, rich and poor alike. In face of this common threat class barriers are crumbling.

Today all are affected to the same degree by the Conscription Act and other emergency legislation. Each person contributes financially toward the war effort to the limit of his means. All are subject to the same rationing regulations and the air-raid shelter has brought people into closer communion and created a mutual bond of friendship, interest and understanding.

Amid the devastation and suffering caused by ruthless, indiscriminate bombing and shelling, the British people of all classes are marchink arm-in-arm, firmly believing that peace with victory awaits them at the end of the road.

Nowhere has this new-found relationship and splendid fortitude been so apparent as in bomb-battered London. Nazi bombs are no respecters of persons or property and whole streets of dwellings, from the lowly tenements of the East End to the stately mansions of Mayfair, have been reduced to

(Continued on Page Eleven)

MAGAZINE, COMIC READERS JOLTED BY NEW IMPOSTS

Prohibited Imports Include Periodical Publications Unbound or Paper Bound

MINISTER IS JUDGE

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—(CP)— The magazine and comic readers of Canada received a jolt from the Finance Minister, Hon. J L. Ilsley Monday when he presented his list of prohibited imports designed to conserve foreign exchange for essential war purchasing.

He placed the following reading material on the list of imports prohibited except when originating within the Empire:—

"Periodical publications, unbound or paper bound, consisting largely of fiction or printed matter of a similar character, including Detective Sex, Western and Alleged True or Confession stories, and publications, bound or paper bound, commonly known as comics, but not including bona fide supplements used with newspapers".

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Casualties Reach Total of 55,363

London, Dec. 3.—The War Office issued yesterday its one hundredth casualty list of the war, bringing to 55,363 the total of officially listed British army losses. In the 100 lists these casualties have been given, by name:

Prisoners, 32,219; killed in action, 4,749; wounded, 15,225; missing, 1,502; died, 1,668.

Apparently the names of all prisoners have not been obtained. War Secretary Anthony Eden announced recently that 44,000 British soldiers had been taken prisoner.

The list included 960 prisoners, 38 killed, 39 wounded, 45 died.

Prime Minister Received in Audience By His Majesty

London, Dec. 3.—(CP)— Prime Minister Churchill was received in audience by the King at Buckingham Palace today and stayed for lunch with His Majesty.

Others received by the King were Arthur B. Purvis of Montreal, chairman of the British Purchasing Commissioner in the United States, and Rear-Admiral E. E. Turle, British Naval attache at Athens, who gave His Majesty a first hand account of the war in Greece.

INACTION SLOWING WAR EFFORT SAYS PREMIER HEPBURN

Note of Approval Sounded for Defence Minister for Air and His Deputy

CURRENCY CONTROL

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario last night in an address to the Young Men's Canadian Club here renewed previous avowals of disapproval of the Federal Government with an attack on the inaction he said is slowing up Canada's war effort.

His only note of approval was sounded for the work of Hon. C. G. Power, Defence Minister for Air, and his Deputy Minister, James Duncan. He said that since they took over control of the air training plan it has become an effective unit of war effort. "But before that it was nearly as pitiful as the condition in England before Churchill took over."

An urge for immediate adoption of currency control was added to a plea to Canadians to take a more realistic war attitude. Of those who oppose currency expansion "to care for our needs," the Premier said, "whether they like it or not the financial men will have to advocate some form of currency expansion. You cannot go broke domestically as long as you have a central authority in control over finance."

Uses Illustration

His first target, the "tight little group turning out propaganda," was object of his main fire in the address. As an illustration, he said Canadians recently had been told of an All-Canadian Squadron flying All-Canadian Spitfires in fighting over England.

None of the pilots had been trained as Canadian fliers, he said, "Many of them went over there after we turned down the Empire Air Training Plan. They paid their way over or worked their way over and they were trained in the Royal Air Force." The term "All-Canadian Spitfires" was misleading, too, because he said not one engine or propeller for a Spitfire was being

(Continued on Page Three)

VANDERBILTS SEPARATE

New York, Dec. 3—(AP)—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, 28-year-old president of the Pimlico and Belmont racing associations, said through a spokesman today that he and his wife, the former Manuella Hudson, "have separated by mutual agreement."

GREEKS SMASH PAST PORTA EDDA ON THE ADRIATIC

Italians Around the Port Likely to be Cut Off by Greek Advance

WIDE GAINS

Greeks Take More Prisoners as Italians Flee on 100-Mile Front

By J. REILLY O'SULLIVAN,

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Ochrida, Yugoslavia, (on the Albanian Frontier), Dec. 3—(AP)—Gradual retirement of the Italian northern army toward Elbasani, in central Albania, continued today under constant harassing by Greek forces driving deep in Albania, border advices reported.

After long and bitter fighting, the Greeks last night were declared to have driven plume-hatted Italian Bersaglieri out of the village of Mumulishta, north of captured Pogradetz, in an operation apparently designed to mop up remaining Fascist units along the highway which skirts Lake Ochrida and leads to Elbasani.

Casualties were heavy on both sides, these reports said, on the front northwest of Moskopolis where the Greeks repulsed an Italian counter-attack and advanced across the Devoll River.

Greek sources reported the capture of important heights around Argirocastro, Italian southern base and predicted successful conclusion of the campaign in that sector within a few days.

Athens, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Greek left wing, reported to have smashed past Porto Edda, was said today to be making wide new gains all along the battlefront and threatening to engulf the last Italian fighting force in southern Albania.

The high command reported Greek shock troops won new mountain heights north of Premet, in a thrust into central Albania, and north of Pogradetz, in a drive down the road toward Elbasani near the Albanian Capital, on the right

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Mrs. M. G. Banting, Scientist's Mother, Dies at Alliston

Alliston, Ont., Dec. 3 (CP).—Mrs. Margaret Grant Banting, mother of Sir Frederick Banting, co-discoverer of insulin and noted physician, died yesterday in hospital here. She was 86.

Mrs. Banting suffered a broken hip three years ago and had been in hospital since then.

She was the first white girl born in Alliston and spent most of her life here.

'Keep Clash of Arms From Drowning Out Angel Chorus of Peace'—Pope

Vatican City, Dec. 3 (AP).—Pope Pius asked the warring powers today to observe a Christmas truce to keep "the clash of arms from drowning out the angel chorus of peace"

The Pontiff called on the belligerents to observe a truce "spontaneously or by mutual accord" in order that "new bloodshed may not disturb or miserably extinguish the heavenly joy of that hour."

The appeal was contained in a Motu Proprio, the name given to certain Papal rescripts because of the phrase, motu proprio—"of his own accord"—used in the document.

The Pope said in part:

"It is fair to hope and trust that at least on that holy night of that holy day all belligerents will declare a truce either spontaneously or by mutual accord so that the clash of arms shall not cover the angelic chorus of peace which is repeated in the sacred temples an dso that new fraternal bloodshed shall not disturb or miserably extinguish the heavenly joy of that hour."

The Pontiff's appeal accompanied permission for Christmas Eve masses in the afternoon instead of midnight where wartime blackouts prevail.

In addition, the ope freed Catholics in war stricken regions from obligations to attend Mass on Christmas Day itself.

Nov. 26 Prime Minister Churchill rejected a proposal made in parliament that he seek to arrange a Christmas armistice.

He said any such proposal would be rejected by the government.

Similar suggestions for Christmas cessation of hostilities have similarly been rejected in the past.

The greatest effort of ope Benedict XV to end the first great war failed in December, 1916, when both sides rejected each other's armistice suggestions.

An attempt for a Christmas exchange of hostilities in 1936 in the Spanish civil war failed and both fronts were lively. Last year, Helsinki was bombed on Christmas day by the Russians.

Direct Hit Scored On Supply Ship off Norwegian Coast

Fire Follows Bombing Of Wharves at Feje Island and Direct Hit on Ship Noted

London, Dec. 3 (CP)—British air offensive operations included an attack on the German submarine base in Lorient, France, last night and blows against shipping off the Norwegian coast.

The Air Ministry said a direct hit was scored on the stern of "an enemy supply ship" off Norway yesterday, and last night another ship sustained a direct hit and a large explosion and a fire followed the bombing of wharves at Feje Island.

No aircraft were lost.

London, Dec. 3 (CP)—The Air Ministry issued the following communique Tuesday:-

"Last night, aircraft of the coastal command attacked shipping off the Norwegian coast. One ship sustained a diret hit. A large explosion and a fire followed the bombing of the wharves at Feje Island.

"Yesterday another aircraft of the coastal command scored a direct hit on the stern of an enemy supply ship off the Norwegian coast.

"Aircraft of the bomber command last night attacked the submarine base at Lorient.

"In these operations none of our aircraft was lost."

TAKEN AT HIS WORD

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 3—(AP)—Deer season opened in Pennsylvania yesterday and one hunter went before Judge Benjamin Jones to ask his wife's freedom from a misdemeanor sentence which he had prosecuted.

"I promised the boys a venison dinner and I want her to have the kitchen stove going full blast," the man pleaded.

"You're invited to the venison supper—and Judge, if you'll let my wife out of jail I'll show you the best trout stream in Luzerne County next Spring."

Said His Honor: "I can't refuse that."

PICKS RIGHT TIME

New York, Dec. 3—(AP) — Sam Cohen, a street peddler, picked the right day and the right time to get himself arraigned in Essex Market Court for selling without a licence. He was Magistrate Edmund Palmieri's first case on the latter's first day on the bench, and so many nice things had been said about the new judge that he suspended sentence on Sam.

MANY DELICACIES ARE PROHIBITED

Silks, Furs and Feathers and Other Commodities Placed on List

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—(CP)—Feminine passion for silks, furs and feathers, and many other commodities and compounds designed to make a woman luxuriously comfortable will be more difficult to obtain as a result of Monday's import prohibitions.

And even when the Canadian woman is in her kitchen or going about her household duties, she may be handicapped. A wide variety of canned foods designed to make preparation of meals simple yet with attractive results was affected in the prohibitions announced in the House of Commons by the Finance Minister, Hon. J. L. Ilsley.

Although Canada produces much of the processed food which may no longer be imported, there will be many delicacies no longer available for midnight snacks and afternoon teas.

These include fancy fruits, biscuits, confectionery, nuts, chocolate and cooa products, wines and liquors, and numerous delicacies and compounds heretofore imported from the United States.

Canadian production should be able to furnish all the household gadgets designed to make housekeeping simpler but there will be a scarcity of such imported trimmings as fancy paper napkins, bridge scores, silverware, glassware and ornaments.

Clothing and cloth fabrics of all kinds no longer will be imported from other than Sterling countries and the same is true of jewellery and precious stones for personal adornment.

And when the housewife ends her work and is able to curl up with a magazine and a box of chocolates, the latter will have to be Canadian or British made, and the magazine of a nature which the Revenue Minister believes is worth the expenditure of foreign exchange.

If she likes sex stories, confessions or detective yarns, she will have to be content with whatever Canada produces. Those from the United States will be prohibited along with the "action comics" now popular with both adults and youths.

Coming Events

BOYS AND GIRLS, SANTA Claus will be on the McCarthy Theatre stage, Saturday afternoon and will have a free gift for all. D3

DON'T FORGET DANCE, AUSpices St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E. for War Work, Wednesday, Dec. 4, Trianon Ballroom. R.C.A.F. 13-piece Orchestra. Floor Show directed by Lillian Ashley. Ladies 35c; gents 40c. D3

BELLEVILLE LECTURE AND Study Club, Friday, December 6 Lionel Gelber, Canada and Anglo American Friendship. Collegiate, 8.30. N30-D3

BINGO, IMPERIAL CLUB ROOMS Tonight, 8.30. 10 games .25. Everyone welcome. O29N5.12,19,26D3

BAZAAR ONTARIO SCHOOL FOR the Deaf, Thursday, December 5, 3 to 6 p.m. Entertainment by pupils in costume. Afternoon tea 25 cents. In aid of Pupils Benefit Fund and Red Cross. N28-29-30D3-4

ANNUAL SALE AND BAZAAR, under auspices of Mrs. Lyall's group, of St. Thomas' Church, in Parish Hall, Wednesday, December 4. Afternoon Tea 25c. N28D2-3

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

19 Shopping Days till Christmas

CIVIL SERVICE LISTS ARE ANNOUNCED

The lists of candidates who have passed successfully the competitive examinations for permanent employment, Grade One, in the Civil Service of Canada, and for stenographers, Grade One, were published in the Canada Gazette of Saturday, Nov. 30th. Those from Belleville were Doris Irene Waddell, Doreen Lois Bryant, Kathleen Mary O'Callaghan, Eleanor Stewart Johnson, (Grade Two), Florence E. Carr, Lois Eleanor Moorman, Ruth Eleanor Belair, Faeola Kemp, and Violet June Grant.

COAL CARRIER TAKES TWO DAYS TO MAKE TRIP UP THE BAY

The coal-carrier "Sandland" bringing a consignment of fuel to the Schuster Coal Company here won the last round in a spirited fight with Old Man Winter early Monday evening when she finally docked at the company's wharf, discharged her cargo and sailed before the freezing grip of sub-zero weather placed a winter-long grasp on her.

The boat had battled the ice in the bay for two days, smashing her way through five inches of ice. Reaching a point opposite the Stephens-Adamson plant, she struck a "thin spot" and finally reached the dock a little after five o'clock.

With the mercury dropping rapidly to sub-zero points, the crew worked all night to discharge the cargo. Finished early this morning, the "Sandland" sailed with ice-covered decks and was last seen battling her way through the miniature ice-fields that now cover the bay to a depth of several inches.

CONDEMNED MAN REMAINS CHEERFUL

Cheerful in disposition and chatting amiably with his guards, Frederick Thain, convicted slayer of Arnold Wellman, aged Rawdon Township neighbor, whose shot-blasted body was found with that of his wife, Nancy Wellman, in their farm buildings last January, awaits the 14th of January when he will walk the "last mile" to the gallows.

Thain, according to jail officials, shows little sign of what lies ahead of him. His appetite is good and he sleeps well at night. Guards watch the death-cell 24 hours a day working in three-hour shifts.

RAILWAY COAL CAR RUNS OFF TRACKS

Slithering along the ice-filled right-of-way on Pinnacle Street, a loaded railway coal car left the tracks near the Bell Telephone offices and came to rest about two feet west of the steel, this morning.

The train-crew hauled the remainder of the cars to the C.N.R. station and returned to replace the heavy car on the tracks and haul it to its destination. It is understood no damage was done.

CAPITOL

2 — BIG HITS — 2

A MERRY MIX-UP OF GUYS, GALS AND GAGS.

Melody and Moonlight

SECOND HIT

THRILL-PACKED CAVALCADE OF AVIATION!
MEN WITH WINGS
FRED MacMURRAY
RAY MILLAND
LOUISE CAMPBELL

WEDNESDAY is FOTO - NITE

ONE BIG OFFER

$510.

COME EARLY!

First Show at 6.00 P.M.

THE IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFT! THEATRE TICKETS In Gift Envelopes Now on Sale

It Pays to Buy at The Rexall Store.

Cutex Gift Sets

Smarter than ever before.

NOW ON DISPLAY.

65c to $6.50

McKEOWN'S DRUG STORE

271 Front St. Phone 135

28 YEARS IN BUSINESS

CAMPBELL AUTO BODY and PAINT SHOP

BODY and FENDER REPAIRS

327 Coleman St. Phone 777

PALMIST

HAND WRITING ANALYSIS. and PALM READING and CARDS.

HANDWRITING BY MAIL

PROF. CYBELLE

211 Coleman Street.

N5-1m

SPECIAL!

PERSONAL CHRISTMAS CARDS

25 for $1.00

"With your name imprinted"

ORDER EARLY!

SILLS BOOK STORE

222 Front St. Phone 1829

D3-5

FOR

Watkin's Products and CHRISTMAS GIFTS

PHONE 1201J

COUNTY COUNCIL IN 4-DAY SESSION

The regular December session of the Hastings County Council got under way shortly after two-thirty today with the greater majority of members in attendance despite the bad travelling conditions of the roads outside the city.

Warden John L. Churcher formally welcomed his council and urged them to consider the many serious problems which would be placed before them during the four-day session. Many important reports will be submitted to council and a number of resolutions pertaining to war-time and other activities will be presented for approval and discussion.

25 Summonsed For Not Having 1940 Radio Licences

According to statistics the revenue derived from radio licences in Belleville and district is far below the average established in other years, according to Radio Inspector V. J. R. Brister, Toronto employee of the Department of Transportation for the Dominion Government, who on Monday preferred 25 charges against users of radios in this district, charging them with operating a radio-telegraph set without having obtained a licence under the Department of Transportation for the Dominion of Canada. The charges for these delinquents will be heard in police court later this week, it was learned today.

"The sale of radio licences in Belleville and vicinity this year is so far in arrears to that of other years that the Department has deemed it necessary to prosecute such delinquents. We do not desire to carry out these prosecutions, but when the public does not comply with the law then the only redress is to enforce such laws through the medium of court procedure. As soon as the radio licence sales reach a normal peak in this area there will be no further necessity of continued prosecutions," assured Inspector Brister as he swore out 25 informations against alleged failure to purchase 1941 radio licences in Belleville yesterday.

The charges include delinquencies in the purchase of automobile radios as well as those of the conventional home use. A similar drive was executed in Kingston last week with rather prolific results, insofar as the delayed purchase of radio licences was concerned, Inspector Brister revealed.

MERCURY DROPS TO 13 BELOW

Coldest Night of Year Reported From Belleville Purification Water Plant

Jack Frost gripped the Belleville district with his tentacles on Monday night and residents dug further into their clothes closets this morning for additional winter wearing apparel and scurried quickly to work with the temperature still hovering far below the zero mark. The most severe temperature of the season was registered with the mercury dropping to 13 degrees below zero.

Clouds of steam rising off the open water in the Moira River and the breath of persons and horses condensing instantly into dense vapour attested to the frigidity of the temperature. Garage operators did a land office business as balky motors refused to budge as the result of congealed motor oil in the crankcase and a hurry-up call for the towing truck being necessary before the delayed business man was able to get away to work.

Motorists Warned To Proceed With Caution

Motor hazards still remain along city streets and district highways, despite a three-day effort on the part of snow-plow operators to open up traffic. Sub-zero weather slowed the efforts of snow removal, which was being carried on as rapidly as possible under the trying circumstances, engineers announced today.

Slowly, traffic is returning to normal along the main highway arteries of the district, along north of Belleville only one-way clearances have been opened by the snow plows on Tweed Highway and the Madoc Road. Along Highway No. 2, however, ice has formed below a thin coating of snow that blew onto the travelled portion of the road. Motorcycle Patrolmen J. H. Hatch and C. Siple issued warnings suggesting that motorists using the main highway should proceed with caution. "Speeding with these patches of glaring ice beneath innocent-looking snow-covered parts of the highway may result in exceedingly serious accidents," warned Constable Hatch.

The Department of Public Works of the city continued to "dig Belleville out of the worst pre-Christmas snow storm in years." Snow was piled to a depth of five feet on side streets after the city snowplow had scraped paths. Trucks and workmen spent their third consecutive day trying to relieve the hazardous situation. Motor vehicles experienced considerable difficulty in leaving the street curbs, where the snow had not as yet been cleared away in the city, while tow trucks answered calls to outlying districts where cars skidded into the deep ditch snowbanks and were unable to move.

Generally speaking motorized traffic is slowly returning to normal, but authorities warn motorists to proceed with caution.

Toyland Special!

ENGLISH DOLL PRAM

with folding hood — strongly built and rubber tired.

TWO POPULAR SIZES:

$3.49, $4.95

Stroud's

Dunhill Pipes

Reg. $9.00

$5.95

WHILE THEY LAST

SCHRYVER'S PHARMACY

Phone 49 — We Deliver.

KEEP WARM IN A PARKA

BRUSHED JERSEY	.69
VELVETEEN (fur trim)	1.00
PLUSH, Velvet Lined	1.39
VELVETEEN (double fur) ...	1.59
REPELLO, fur trim	1.95
BRUSHED WOOL SETS	1.95

WOODLEY • FURIERS

Hastings County Cheesemakers Win Many High Honors With Fine Quality Cheese at Exhibition

John H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg, Finishes Second in B. E. Special Award and Wins Other Specials

B. ANDERSON WINS SILVER TROPHY

John H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg cheese maker, brought signal honor to himself and Hastings County with one of the best showings recorded by entrants in the British Empire Dairy Show and Cheese Exhibition sponsored by the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association at their 13th Annual Convention now in session in the City Hall here.

Pitted against the best cheesemakers in the Dominion, Mr. Dudgeon not only finished second in the coveted British Empire Special Awards winning the Gold Medal and Diploma with an average score of 97.6, finishing one-tenth of one per cent behind Mr. Bert Anderson, Madoc, who won the Silver Challenge Trophy, Gold Medal and Diploma with an average of 97.7, but won many other specials.

Further honors annexed by Mr. Dudgeon included first place in the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association Special awarded to maker from Central Ontario with the highest average score from May to October, inclusive. His average in this class was 93.998. The Echlin Memorial Trophy, awarded for the highest scoring cheese made in Central Ontario was also won by Mr. Dudgeon, who likewise added the Canadian Bank of Commerce Silver Tray awarded to the maker having the highest percentage of 94 or over score cheese during the season's make. His per cent in this class was 91.64882. His standings in the sectional prizelists were, also, very high.

Other Winners

Besides those of Mr. Dudgeon and Mr. Anderson, further honors were brought to Hastings County by Dairy Instructor Owen J. McEvoy, who won the Griffin Challenge Shield given to the instructor who has the group winning the most prize money. Mr. McEvoy's average in this class was 96.8.

Other county winners were in the Diploma of Honor Class, D. Rowe, Hoards; Bert Jones, Tweed and Alec Johnston, Roy Brown, Bonarlaw, and Nelson Sarles, Frankford, finished fifth and sixth in the Ontario Cheese Producers Special with averages of 93.789 and 93.754 respectively.

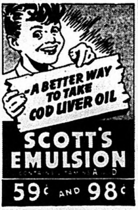
Hastings County Makers also scored heavily in the Diplomas of Honor class given makers whose entries in the Dairy Instructor's Special scored 97 or over. Winners were: J. Hall, Foxboro, 98; A. Johnston, Madoc, 97.9; T. O. Heath, West Huntingdon, 97.7; D. Rowe, Hoards, 97.3; Bert Bouck, Crookston, 97.2; Bert Anderson, Madoc, 97.1; J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg, 97.1; A. McCreary, Marmora, 97.1; John Finnegan, Marmora, 97.1.

A number of Hastings County makers including Messrs. Anderson and Dudgeon also finished well in the section classes. These are listed in the general prize lists.

RALPH MORTON NAMED PRESIDENT OF A.Y.P.A.

The inaugural meeting of the newly organized Anglican Young People's Association of St. Thomas' Church, attracted an enthusiastic gathering of young people in the Parish Hall last night. Ralph Morton was elected president while other officers are Vice-Presidents, Ross Hart, Annis Collins; Secretary, Gwendolyn Holmes; Treasurer, Ardelle Smith and Committee, Bob Gibson, Marion Morton and George Digby.

Enthusiasm was the keynote of the meeting and indications point to a very successful season. After the regular business session in which the officers for the organization were elected, the evening closed with dancing and refreshments which were served in the basement. Future meetings will be held in the Parish House every Monday at eight o'clock.



A BETTER WAY TO TAKE COD LIVER OIL
SCOTT'S EMULSION
59¢ AND 98¢

GEEN'S DRUG STORE

PHONE 131

ANNUAL BAZAAR

ONTARIO SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF

Thursday, December 5th

3.00 to 6.00 P.M.

ENTERTAINMENT BY PUPILS IN COSTUME

SALE OF SEWING—Aprons, Shopping Bags, Purses, Belts, Luncheon Sets, Cushions, Towels, Pyjamas, Toys, Bath-Mats.

SALE OF BAKING:—Christmas Cakes, Christmas Puddings; Home-made Candy; Baskets; Christmas Decorations.

AFTERNOON TEA, served by the pupils—25c.

SCHOOL BUS will leave post office at 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, and 5 o'clock, returning from the school at 3.45, 4.15, 4.45 and 5.30 o'clock.

NET PROCEEDS: Pupils' Benefit Fund, 60%; Red Cross 40%.

N28-29-30D3-4

SNOW CLEANING

CITY BY-LAW No. 1126 REQUIRES THAT:

1. Every person owning or occupying premises on Front Street, Bridge Street or Victoria Avenue shall remove and keep removed all snow and ice from the roofs of said premises.
2. Every person owning or occupying premises in the City of Belleville shall remove all snow and ice from the sidewalks adjoining said premises before TEN O'CLOCK EACH MORNING. If snow or ice is so frozen that it cannot be removed, sand, ashes or some other suitable substance shall be strewn upon such sidewalks by every such person.
3. No person shall deposit upon the streets any snow, ice or dirt taken from any alley, yard or cellar.

FREE SAND IS AVAILABLE BY TELEPHONING 195.

CHARLES A. MOTT,
City Engineer.

D3-5

MRS. A. THOMPSON DIES IN MADOC

Respected Village Resident Succumbs in 89th Year

A life long resident of Madoc district and one who enjoyed the affection and esteem of the entire community, Mary Jane McCoy, widow of the late Archibald Thompson, passed away Monday, December 2, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. F. S. Ashley, Madoc. The late Mrs. Thompson was in her eighty-ninth year. She was born in Madoc Township, March 30, 1852, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. McCoy, and spent her entire life in that neighborhood, receiving her education in Madoc schools.

Mrs. Thompson was a devoted member of Trinity United Church at Madoc and during her earlier years she gave much of her time and efforts to the work of the church, serving in the various women's organizations. She was a past president of the Woman's Missionary Society and of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. In her associations with her fellow members of these societies and in her untiring interest in the advancement of the work, she earned the sincere admiration of all with whom she came in contact.

Surviving to mourn her passing, and to whom the sympathy of the community is extended, are two daughters, Mrs. F. S. Ashley, of Madoc; Mrs. Stanley Morton of Belleville, two sons, Mr. Percy Thompson, Edmonton, and Mr. Stanley Thompson, Fort Worth, Texas, and one sister, Mrs. Charles Muffett, Coe Hill. She was predeceased by her husband, who passed away twenty-one years ago, two sons, Mr. Charles Thompson, Madoc Mr. John Thompson, Fort Worth, Texas, and two daughters, Miss Jennie Thompson, Madoc and Mrs. Stewart McNeil, Stavely, Alberta.

The funeral notice appears elsewhere in this issue.

Picton and District

DECIDE TIE VOTE BY TOSS OF COIN

John K. Welsh Named Deputy-Reeve After Flip of Coin by Town Clerk

Picton, Dec. 3—(Special)—A tie in the Deputy Reeveship contest featured Picton election yesterday. John Vestervelt and John K. Welsh each polled 589 votes. Town Clerk F. L. Ward was called upon to decide, flipping a coin, Welsh becoming Deputy Reeve.

Reeve H. S. Colliver was re-elected by a majority of 109 over Deputy Reeve Ralph Warren.

Utilities Commissioner H. B. Tully was defeated by M. E. Knox by 33 votes.

The two-year term by-law was defeated in Picton by 370 votes.

Following is the vote:

REEVE:
Colliver	655
Warren	546
DEPUTY REEVE:
Vestervelt	589
Welsh	589
UTILITIES COMMISSIONER
Knox	600
Tully	567
Majority for Knox, 33.
BY-LAW, 2-YEAR TERM:
Yes	325
No	[illegible]
By-law defeated by	370

Bloomfield Village defeated two-year by-law 47 to 3; only one woman voted.

Hallowell Township also defeated by-law 40 to 12.

Reeve J. H. Rutter was re-elected in Wellington; Councillors elected, George Greer, Arthur Orchard, Elvin Campbell, Frank Brimly, Carl Bryant was defeated.

Reeve Gerard Kavanagh was re-elected in South Marysburg Township over H. F. Grimmon, with majority of 156. The two-year term by-law was defeated 173 to 103.

The vote:

Kavanagh	221
Grimmon	65

Yacht Club Meets

Prince Edward Yacht Club held its annual meeting on Friday evening with Commodore W. S. Lane in the chair. A large number of members turned out for the election of officers which took place at this meeting.

Because of his efforts that contributed largely to the success of the club in 1940, Ralph Warren was elected Commodore for 1941 by acclamation. Other officers elected were: Vice - Commodore, C. C. (Buff) Cooper; Rear Commodore, Herb Daubney, Secretary, Fred VanDusen; Treasurer, Chas. McGibbon.

The Treasurer's report showed a most satisfactory season just past. Business transacted included plans for the annual regatta in 1941. The directors for the coming year are H. B. Tulley, C. F. Evans, F. L. Ward, K.C., H. Stowell, Geo. Publow, Elmer Huff.

Friends regret the serious illness of Percy Hudgin who was taken to the Mountain Sanitarium at Hamilton on Thursday.

LORD ROTHERMERE'S FUNERAL

London, Dec. 3—(CP) — Prime Minister Churchill and many government departments were represented today at a memorial service for Viscount Rothermere, newspaper publisher, held in crowded St. Bride's Church in Fleet Street, "the newspapermen's parish church. Lord Rothermere died Nov. 26 at Hamilton, Bermuda. He was buried there.

AIR CONDITIONED McCARTHY THE SHOW PLACE OF BELLEVILLE

NOW PLAYING
Evenings Only
7.10 — 9.10 P.M.
GOLDEN BOY
Starring
BARBARA STANWYCK
WILLIAM HOLDEN
ADOLPHE MENJOU
—Extra—
FOX NEWS EVENTS
Technicolor Cartoon

COMING!
THURSDAY
FRIDAY
SATURDAY
KIT CARSON
featuring
JON HALL
Star of "South of Page Page" and "The Hurricane."

Bancroft

Bancroft, Dec. 3 — Winter in the northern section of Hastings County has made an early debut and in fact the amount of snow at this early date seems to measure up with last winter's average already. The side roads for automobile traffic are practically paralyzed with only the highway artery clear for traffic. Sunday evening the temperature commenced to drop and early in the evening registered five below zero.

Dr. D. Rouse motored to Kingston Saturday afternoon on a business trip.

Quite a number of the local boys who are in the various training centres returned home for the week end on leave.

Mrs. O. O. Fuller Mrs. David Fuller, Mrs. Cecil Laundry, Mrs. Dr. O. W. Anderson and Mrs. Leo Doyle motored to Belleville on Friday.

Mr. Helmer, of Madawaska, was a business visitor in Bancroft on Thursday.

M. J. McAlpine who is attending school in Belleville spent the week end with his parents in Bancroft.

Miss June Walker who is attending school in Madoc spent the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Walker of Bancroft.

Mr. Cecil Wiggins who is temporarily employed with the Imperial Oil in Belleville was home over the week end.

Heavy Damage to Cars

An accident took place Saturday afternoon about three miles north of Bancroft on Highway No. 62 about four-thirty when a car driven by Mr. George Garrison of the Department of Highways, Bancroft, and Rev. Merriam of Maynooth became involved in a head-on crash at Wheeler's Corner. One of the drivers it seems applied his brakes and thus the car skidded across the curve directly into the path of the other vehicle causing quite heavy damage to both cars and also Mrs. Merriam a passenger received a cut in the head which was attended to by Dr. S. S. Lumb of Bancroft after which she returned to her home in Maynooth. Constable G. P. Wells of Bancroft investigated the accident.

The Young People of St. Paul's United Church in Bancroft were invited to spend the evening with the Young People of the United Church at Paudash Lake which they accepted reporting a very enjoyable evening that was spent in games and contests followed by lunch and their return home.

Police Blotter

Election day in Belleville proved quiet and serene, Chief Kidd stated today as he revealed the fact there had not been a single arrest or serious misdemeanour reported in Belleville on Monday. "Looks as though the citizens were too busy voting and electioneering to get into trouble," remarked another member of the police department today.

Provincial Constable Patterson drove through heavy snows for three hours late last night to investigate an accident near Ivanhoe on the Madoc Road. Investigations revealed that two motor cars met in a head-on collision in a narrow one-way burrow through a heavy snow bank two miles south of Ivanhoe about 10.00 p.m. last night. A south bound car was driven by Floyd E. Greer, 121 West Moira St., of this city, while a north bound vehicle was driven by Albert McLellan, of Turiff, Ont. Mrs. Donald McLellan was suffering from shock and head bruises as the result of the collision.

Property damage of a considerable amount resulted to both vehicles, Constable Patterson reported. Damage to the amount of at least $200.00 resulted in Mr. Greer's vehicle and upwards to $110.00 to Mr. McLellan's car. Both vehicles were damaged about the radiators, headlights and axles as the result of the head-on collision.

Chief Kidd revealed today the police were in possession of a bicycle which had been found abandoned.

FLASH!

KRESGE'S SANTA CLAUS

will be at the

McCARTHY THEATRE

SATURDAY AFTERNOON

AFTER STREET PARADE

with Free Candies to every Girl and Boy. Supplied by the S. S. Kresge Co.

OBITUARY

LATE MRS. WILLIAM McINTOSH

Monday afternoon, Dec. 2nd., the funeral of Mrs. William McIntosh took place from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street. The service in the chapel and at the graveside in Belleville cemetery was conducted by the Rev. D. T. McClintock, pastor of the Tabernacle United Church.

The bearers were Messrs. John A. McIntosh, George S. McIntosh, Donald McIntosh, John W. Cook, Alex. McGregor and Alex. Kidd.

MRS. CHARLES THOMPSON

The funeral of Mrs. Charles Thompson, who died in Ebenezer, N.Y., on Thursday last, took place from the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street, on Monday afternoon, Dec. 2nd. The service in the chapel and at the graveside in Belleville cemetery was conducted by the Rev. G. G. Wright, Rector of Christ Church.

A Thrill for Every Canadian Heart!

10 GREAT STARS!
2 GREAT LOVE STORIES!

Paramount presents
GARY COOPER
MADELEINE CARROLL
Paulette Goddard · Preston Foster · Lon Chaney, Jr.

CECIL B. DeMILLE'S "NORTH WEST MOUNTED POLICE"

CECIL B. DeMILLE in Technicolor!

BELLE —HOME OF FINE PICTURES—

Tonight & Wednesday

NEWS OF THE DAY

Daily 2.30: 7.00: 9.10

MAKE HAPPY ENTERTAINMENT YOUR GIFT!

THE IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFT! THEATRE TICKETS In Gift Envelopes Now on Sale

Santa Suggests "Thriftickets", too. Handy Booklets of Theatre Tickets . . . GOOD ANYTIME! "Thriftickets come in Holiday Gift Envelopes. Telephone 300 for Information.

845
734
111

THOMPSON

(Continued from Page One)

FOR PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION:

George A. Reid	1,570
Cliff. Baragar	1,200
Majority for Reid	370

TWO-YEAR TERM FOR MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT:

Yes	1,546
No	1,160
Majority in favor	386

TRANSFERENCE OF GAS AND WATER TO CITY COUNCIL:

No	1,580
Yes	1,018
Majority against	562

Reaffirmed Faith in Council

In one of the quietest elections seen here in many a moon, Belleville ratepayers yesterday reaffirmed their faith in their 1940 chief magistrate and members of the council who offered themselves for re-election for the two-year term. Nine members of the 1940 council were returned to office.

Mayor Glen. E. Thompson coasted through to an easy victory over Ex-Alderman Charles L. Hyde, his majority being 1,446. The chief magistrate polled 2,149 votes against his opponent's 703.

In what was a close fight during the early stages, Ex-Mayor George A. R d gradually pulled away from mmissioner Clifford Baragar f the Public Utilities Commiss hip, the final count giving the mayor a 370 majority over the sent office-holder.

Co ary to the opinions of the maj ty of surrounding municipali s, Belleville voted a two-year erm for its municipal govern . The question carried by a maj ity of 386. At the same time, in te of arguments pro and con, rat ayers also reaffirmed their con fience in the ability of the Pul c Utilities Commission to sup vise the Gas and Water Utilitie The majority in favor of the co nission retaining supervision wa 562.

Popularity Demonstrated

he unquestioned popularity of th Rev. W. J. Walker, minister of S Andrew's Presbyterian Church n only among the members of his o congregation but among resid ts in general, was exemplified the final returns for the trustee- ps on the Board of Education. Mr. Walker led the trustee poll h the fine vote of 1,477, over 300 excess of P. C. McGuire, who ished with a vote of 1,136. From e early returns, that filtered in e City Clerk's office soon after ven o'clock, Mr. Walker's election as never in doubt. His majority ounted steadily as the returns me in and his election was con ded long before final figures were vailable.

Another popular figure, who led the polls for council last year and who repeated again last night, was former School Inspector H. J. Clarke. Mr. Clarke, who has served one year in council, vindicated the faith placed in him last year during his tenure of office and the ratepayers, cognizant of fine councillor material, again placed him at the head of the poll. Mr. Clarke received 1,802 votes leading his nearest competitor Harry Rollins by 99 votes.

New Member Runs Second

Another youthful member of the new council and one who will experience his baptism of council fire during the next two years, is the popular Frank Follwell. Mr. Follwell is one of the new members and surprised even his most ardent supporters when he polled 1,358 votes to finish in third place. Other new members of the council are Councillors-elect Russell Wotten, Clarence Clapp and Thomas Marshall. These three, however, have had municipal experience previously. They replaced ex-Alderman MacLean Haig, Robert Graham, R. B. Cooper and Edson Logan, none of whom offered themselves for re-election.

Members of last year's council who were returned to office include Aldermen Clarke, Rollins, O. E. Butler, H. J. Armstrong, A. M. Kennedy, R. W. Pringle, Wm. Harvey, H. J. Allin and T. "Derby" Jeffery.

From the outset there was little doubt as to whom would be elected with the possible exception of the Utilities Commission and the candidates who polled the lowest votes for council and the Board of Education. From the earliest returns, Mayor Thompson, and veteran councillors, as well as the four leading trustees-elect gradually climbed to the point where their elections were conceded long before the final returns were known. Commissioner-elect George A. Reid, secured an early lead in which he was never headed. His majority gradually increased until it became apparent his election was certain. Only one position was in doubt until the last returns and that was the trusteeship for which Messrs. Ross Stiver and W. J. Harrison battled.

Little Interest Shown

As one veteran ratepayer remarked it was purely and simply an "indoor" election. The little interest that was manifest in pre-election meetings and on the street during the brief campaign was again exemplified last night at the City Hall. Where crowded corridors and auditorium formerly greeted the candidates there was but a few of the faithful, more attracted by curiosity than interest. The excited hum of ratepayers who crowded about office doors seeking the latest returns was replaced by spasmodic questions on the part of the few who faithfully awaited the outcome. There was not the proverbial corporal's guard out to welcome the successful candidates or sympathize with the defeated ones.

However, there appeared to be plenty of "indoor" interest, as the telephones in the offices of the Ontario Intelligencer rang or buzzed consistenty from seven o'clock, when the first call came in until well after midnight. Hundreds of calls were received and "put through" by the faithful hardworking staff of "Hello Girls" at the Bell Telephone Exchange.

Addresses in Auditorium

As is the traditional custom the successful candidates retired to the City Hall Auditorium, where they expressed their appreciation of ratepayer support to the small crowd, who awaited their appearance. Although the audience was somewhat in excess of that which greeted the candidates at the pre-election meeting last Friday, there were plenty of vacant seats in the auditorium.

However, it was an enthusiastic if small gathering which applauded each successful or unsuccessful candidate as they made their very brief addresses. Chairman W. A. Woodley reminded the speakers that very brief addresses would be in order after he had deplored the lack of interest on the part of the general body of taxpayers.

First to be called Mayor Glen Thompson stated that he was "very happy although very tired". "I am your mayor again for the next year." ("The next two years, you mean", a member of the audience reminded him.) "Sorry, two years', apologized His Worship, and continuing said, that the fine vote given him had shown the confidence reposed in him by the city after a year in office. He promised he and the council would work as hard during the coming terms as they had during the past year, and urged the people to get behind the city fathers and support them. You have elected a splendid council", he said, closing with the compliments of the Christmas season.

Given Fine Ovation

Ex-Alderman Charles L. Hyde received a fine ovation as he stepped on the platform and shook hands with the Mayor in congratulation. He felicitated the new council on its election to office closing with "I am ready to do anything to help Belleville. I have always been a Belleville booster and always will be".

Commissioner-elect George A. Reid, expressed his appreciation of the vote given him. "Mr. Baragar and I have always been good neighbors and friends and will continue to be such", he smiled. "But I must say one thing", he concluded, "Keep your old gas stoves, for there will always be gas".

Commissioner Clifford Baragar told the gathering that they had elected an experienced commissioner, and experience is an important thing. "I am going to stay good neighbors with Mr. Reid, because after all some one has to be snowed under". He offered the compliments of the season.

The remainder of the successful aldermen made very brief addresses in which they thanked the public for the support given them and uttered best wishes for the coming festive season and the new year.

And with the singing of the National Anthem the curtain rang down on the last civic election to be held here until December 1942.

FOR ALDERMEN

	Allin	Armstrong	Brickman	Butler	Clapp	Clarke	Cushing	Follwell	Harvey	Holley	Jeffery	Kennedy	Marshall	Potter	Pringle	Rollins	Wotten
Advance Poll	14	48	8	15	18	33	14	22	37	29	12	42	28	35	29	19	18
Foster No. 1	26	38	18	38	28	39	25	41	47	28	47	26	15	19	17	59	28
Foster No. 2	30	32	19	41	30	59	17	46	48	10	45	42	25	21	25	74	27
Samson No. 3	29	27	25	38	26	41	16	29	25	14	41	28	15	11	23	42	30
Samson No. 4	41	42	31	73	43	91	21	57	41	14	39	58	40	43	63	88	84
Samson No. 5	56	58	37	78	71	118	38	84	49	21	42	58	71	45	77	116	94
Ketcheson No. 6	34	37	22	60	36	71	37	60	29	26	36	33	30	27	54	53	52
Ketcheson No. 7	42	50	40	72	61	106	42	60	36	12	46	61	63	58	88	84	97
Ketcheson No. 8	54	54	28	57	43	111	38	58	44	11	49	44	50	47	67	87	67
Baldwin No. 9	10	24	6	20	7	22	11	24	13	8	8	9	16	4	12	20	19
Baldwin No. 10A	30	35	16	47	24	51	37	37	23	10	16	27	29	21	36	39	35
Baldwin No. 10B	37	49	33	59	34	71	45	50	27	14	33	40	42	52	53	60	65
Baldwin No. 11A	23	38	21	20	21	33	18	35	14	13	16	24	27	24	26	32	29
Baldwin No. 11B	54	46	22	49	39	72	39	61	50	14	35	83	47	47	50	78	53
Bleecker No. 12	28	34	13	39	23	40	19	29	36	15	19	40	32	23	24	27	34
Bleecker No. 13	17	30	13	16	16	14	13	26	21	11	11	16	19	4	9	19	17
Bleecker No. 14	15	50	8	25	10	20	18	27	41	9	19	28	16	27	14	29	25
Coleman No. 15	34	53	16	55	37	44	19	84	43	14	23	38	24	21	33	47	32
Coleman No. 16	71	75	16	52	33	61	23	116	81	37	43	45	21	36	41	62	45
Coleman No. 17A	28	37	17	28	20	38	20	41	31	17	15	29	30	14	17	39	43
Coleman No. 17B	32	34	20	37	25	46	16	41	27	20	21	26	27	15	33	44	39
Murney No. 18A	30	31	31	42	22	48	17	36	21	16	19	28	31	17	31	36	40
Murney No. 18B	33	48	26	36	40	61	14	46	30	21	30	32	29	21	26	50	49
Murney No. 19A	28	31	16	24	24	47	13	42	16	12	24	26	22	13	25	36	40
Murney No. 19B	15	23	13	24	14	27	10	36	13	5	12	18	16	12	14	24	23
Murney No. 20	34	35	38	32	28	66	18	40	39	27	36	33	30	20	38	56	59
Murney No. 21	55	49	23	57	42	91	29	60	46	44	57	66	33	29	66	96	71
Murney No. 22	25	31	18	28	21	31	14	28	34	14	18	23	13	9	15	30	24
Murney No. 23	39	37	39	39	37	59	17	42	39	17	33	34	35	18	41	60	52
	964	1176	633	1201	873	1602	658	1358	1001	503	845	1057	876	734	1057	1511	1291

BOARD OF EDUCATION

	Crosby	Harrison	Legate	McGuire	Slater	Silver	Walker	Wishart	Zufelt
Advance Poll	23	18	10	15	12	10	37	8	18
Foster No. 1	13	19	21	17	14	4	28	18	21
Foster No. 2	15	14	32	39	36	21	57	35	32
Samson No. 3	18	12	22	26	31	14	32	14	13
Samson No. 4	38	21	54	82	64	41	80	32	11
Samson No. 5	37	40	89	90	93	55	114	75	25
Ketcheson No. 6	40	30	31	51	47	33	60	34	16
Ketcheson No. 7	53	24	70	93	76	46	93	42	35
Ketcheson No. 8	57	35	76	78	65	35	94	39	13
Baldwin No. 9	13	9	7	14	13	8	17	5	7
Baldwin No. 10A	27	18	35	37	29	28	40	16	10
Baldwin No. 10B	27	18	49	48	30	37	65	25	19
Baldwin No. 11A	21	16	20	31	18	17	42	22	9
Baldwin No. 11B	37	27	30	54	43	26	73	23	18
Bleecker No. 12	20	24	10	27	14	19	36	13	18
Bleecker No. 13	10	13	9	12	11	11	27	8	8
Bleecker No. 14	14	17	6	11	14	8	27	10	17
Coleman No. 15	30	36	12	26	10	11	40	14	20
Coleman No. 16	39	50	13	26	24	26	64	20	34
Coleman No. 17A	24	37	17	25	14	11	37	6	29
Coleman No. 17B	22	37	15	27	15	16	37	12	12
Murney No. 18A	26	23	10	28	25	13	46	12	22
Murney No. 18B	31	22	26	41	28	26	41	16	29
Murney No. 19A	24	12	24	30	35	18	42	12	15
Murney No. 19B	16	12	7	18	19	16	32	10	12
Murney No. 20	57	28	21	49	46	32	49	16	26
Murney No. 21	45	47	42	64	54	35	77	17	54
Murney No. 22	10	18	12	30	20	20	36	5	18
Murney No. 23	40	29	32	47	45	39	54	30	29
	827	706	795	1136	954	676	1477	589	590

FOR MAYOR

	Hyde	Thompson
Advance Poll	18	48
Foster No. 1	27	70
Foster No. 2	13	77
Samson No. 3	8	71
Samson No. 4	49	105
Samson No. 5	48	131
Ketcheson No. 6	27	76
Ketcheson No. 7	46	111
Ketcheson No. 8	29	112
Baldwin No. 9	23	25
Baldwin No. 10A	24	60
Baldwin No. 10B	32	71
Baldwin 11A	27	42
Baldwin No. 11B	26	88
Bleecker No. 12	31	56
Bleecker No. 13	12	49
Bleecker No. 14	17	63
Coleman No. 15	25	96
Coleman No. 16	41	118
Coleman No. 17A	20	34
Coleman No. 17B	27	57
Murney No. 18A	18	60
Murney No. 18B	20	68
Murney No. 19A	12	60
Murney No. 19B	10	41
Murney No. 20	14	78
Murney No. 21	22	128
Murney No. 22	15	49
Murney No. 23	22	75
	703	2149

WATER AND GAS WORKS

	Yes	No
Advance Poll	16	49
Foster No. 1	46	39
Foster No. 2	43	47
Samson No. 3	26	42
Samson No. 4	48	86
Samson No. 5	50	115
Ketcheson No. 6	33	55
Ketcheson No. 7	49	101
Ketcheson No. 8	39	95
Baldwin No. 9	23	19
Baldwin No. 10A	31	52
Baldwin No. 10B	33	64
Baldwin No. 11A	19	40
Baldwin No. 11B	40	74
Bleecker No. 12	52	29
Bleecker No. 13	14	40
Bleecker No. 14	38	34
Coleman No. 15	40	61
Coleman No. 16	47	99
Coleman No. 17A	19	52
Coleman No. 17B	31	42
Murney No. 18A	29	43
Murney No. 18B	43	36
Murney No. 19A	29	34
Murney No. 19B	20	27
Murney No. 20	45	41
Murney No. 21	51	80
Murney No. 22	35	24
Murney No. 23	29	60
	1018	1580

FOR PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSIONER

	Baragar	Reid
Advance Poll	27	38
Foster No. 1	44	52
Foster No. 2	32	58
Samson No. 3	33	41
Samson No. 4	77	73
Samson No. 5	70	107
Ketcheson No. 6	48	52
Ketcheson No. 7	70	84
Ketcheson No. 8	56	84
Baldwin No. 9	21	25
Baldwin No. 10A	41	45
Baldwin No. 10B	45	57
Baldwin No. 11A	38	28
Baldwin No. 11B	47	67
Bleecker No. 12	47	39
Bleecker No. 13	16	42
Bleecker No. 14	29	46
Coleman No. 15	50	64
Coleman No. 16	71	85
Coleman No. 17A	24	53
Coleman No. 17B	35	45
Murney No. 18A	30	45
Murney No. 18B	38	46
Murney No. 19A	30	38
Murney No. 19B	24	24
Murney No. 20	39	51
Murney No. 21	49	95
Murney No. 22	28	34
Murney No. 23	41	52
	1200	1570

TWO-YEAR TERM

	Yes	No
Advance Poll	32	32
Foster No. 1	41	52
Foster No. 2	49	39
Samson No. 3	52	21
Samson No. 4	87	59
Samson No. 5	95	76
Ketcheson No. 6	59	40
Ketcheson No. 7	88	60
Ketcheson No. 8	80	61
Baldwin No. 9	27	19
Baldwin No. 10A	58	28
Baldwin No. 10B	53	45
Baldwin No. 11A	43	23
Baldwin No. 11B	74	39
Bleecker No. 12	51	32
Bleecker No. 13	24	31
Bleecker No. 14	38	35
Coleman No. 15	62	47
Coleman No. 16	76	78
Coleman No. 17A	39	32
Coleman No. 17B	42	35
Murney No. 18 A	48	27
Murney No. 18B	46	40
Murney No. 19A	43	22
Murney No. 19B	25	24
Murney No. 20	51	38
Murney No. 21	84	53
Murney No. 22	22	35
Murney No. 23	57	37
	1546	1160

DROWNED IN HIS CAR

Cornwall, Ont., Dec. 3 (CP)—Unable to escape from his automobile when it toppled into 30 feet of water in the Cornwall Canal, Carter Shaver, 44, of Lunenburg, Ont., was drowned yesterday.

Drink
Coca-Cola
Delicious and Refreshing

EXCAVATORS FIND BODIES

Madrid, Dec. 2 — (AP) — Two bodies which may be those of the great Spanish painter, Diego Rodriquez de Silva Y Velazquez, and his wife, were found Saturday by excavators in the Plaza de Ramales, Madrid, where the ancient church of San Juan once stood. Velazques' remains were buried in a vault of the church in 1660 and the body of his wife placed beside him eight days later. The French destroyed the church in 1811.

INACTION SLOWING

(Continued from Page One)

made in Canada.

"That kind of stuff leads people into a state of apathy and false security , and it's damnable and wrong."

Not Building Warships

He said also that a report saying seven Canadian warships were being built did not let the people know that they were of the covette type and that many of the vital parts had to be bought elsewhere.

"They know that they are misleading the people. If the people knew the truth they would not tolerate this inaction. We need planes and we need tanks, and we haven't got tanks. We need artillery and we have wagon wheels with fence posts between them . . . The true measure of our war effort is on its effect on the enemy and not in terms of millions spent here and millions spent there."

Stressing the fact that Hitler and his continental set-up had no money problems but that Britain must buy from the United States, the Premier termed United States citizens who hide behind neutrality and demand cash as "willing to fight to the last Englishman."

He called on labor to sacrifice. "I believe in the rights of labor and I believe in collective bargaining. I believe in protecting the rights labor had won all these years. But I believe labor will have to take a stand in the national interest and not in any selfish interest because if we lose the war, labor will lose all its rights."

Eldorado

Eldorado — Mrs. Charles D. McCann, Mrs. James Fox, were guests of Mrs. Charles Empey on Thursday.

Mrs. C. Phillips and daughter, Mary Patricia, were dinner guests at the home of Mrs. Fred Fitzgerald on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Hayton and family of Bancroft were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Hayton on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyne Empey were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holmes on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E.Moore and daughter Joyce, Mrs. A. McCoy and children, Dorothy and Donald attended a Mission Band meeting at the home of Mrs. D. Fox.

Mrs. Fred Holmes visited Mrs. Bruce Phillips on Thursday.

Miss Lois Groves returned to her home in Frankford after spending some time here with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Wannamaker of Trenton were guests at the home of Mrs. Fred Holmes on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bird of Cooper, called on Mrs. C. Phillips on Sunday.

Messrs. E. Moore and W. Hayton were in Peterboro on Monday.

Mrs. D. Reid and Miss J. McCaw of Ivanhoe were guests of Mrs. E. Moore last week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Devolin and family of Marmora, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holmes and Phyllis Holmes to Mrs. G. Holmes' of Queensboro on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Moorcroft and family were guests at the home of Mrs. Fred Fitzgerald on Sunday.

Miss Mary Taylor is spending her holidays with her aunt in Trenton.

Mrs. Frank Chambers spent the week end with friends at Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Conley of Stirling were Sunday guests of their son, Mr. Walter Conley.

Miss Annie Sandford spent a couple of days with his aunt, Mrs. Clayton Wannamaker.

Messrs. J. Donly, F. Harris and A. Jacobson spent a couple of days last week in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wannamaker visited their daughter, Mrs. Denike in Belleville on Sunday.

Mrs. John Nerman of Millbridge spent a couple of days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Andrew of Bannockburn.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Kilpatrick of Deloro were in Bannockburn one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Blackburn and son Harley, left on Wednesday for a motor trip to Ottawa to visit relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. McCann and Clayton were tea hour guests of their daughter, Mrs. Earl Wartman of Cooper.

Mrs. James Fox, Mrs. J. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Hanes were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Comerford on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. U. Wartman have returned to their home at Cooper for the winter after spending the summer months at their apiary near Warkworth.

A Junior Red Cross has been organized in the school at Cooper, and the children are very interested, a quilt has been donated by the Senior Society, and tickets are being sold for it. Mrs. Greenly entertained a few of the ladies on Friday afternoon when the quilt was quilted.

The Misses Downey of Grookston spent the week end at the home of their uncle, Mr. George Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Blackman and children of Detroit, spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rollins and Jack, also Mr. Will Askham from near Peterboro, spent the week-end with friends at Cooper. Mr. Ken. Rollins, who had been hunting, returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rollins of Queensboro visited relatives at Cooper on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hannah and Mr. Claude Wyatt of Frankford spent Tuesday with relatives at Cooper.

Bob and Glen Anderson of Madoc, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ferguson.

Rev. and Mrs. G. Crabbe were dinner hour guests of Mr. Will Holmes on Wednesday.

Mr. Cecil Blackburn was in Frankford on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Arkell spent a couple of days this week in Toronto.

W. M. S.

The November meeting of the Cooper and Remington W. M. S. was held in the home of Mrs. Oscar Saylor. The president presided.

The business period followed. Plans were made for a pot luck dinner and a quilting at the home of Mrs. W. Rollins and the pound sale to be continued next month with the Mission Band joining.

Worship period followed. The theme was introduced by Mrs. S. Rollins and nicely carried out in the singing of hymns. Bible readings and prayer. The program was conducted by Mrs. J. Woods. A synopsis of the Missionary Study Book was given by Mrs. Woods. Phyllis Parks gave a Temperance reading. A solo was nicely rendered by Mrs. W. Rollins; A Christian Stewardship reading was given by Bertha Moorcroft and after the benediction, lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants and all enjoyed a social half hour.

P. C. McGuire
("PERC")
wishes to convey his thanks to the Voters of Belleville for their splendid support at the polls for
BOARD of EDUCATION

Mr. CLIFF. BARAGAR
Wishes to Thank all Those who Loyally supported Him at the Polls yesterday.

Rev. W. J. Walker
BOARD of EDUCATION
Wishes to thank the Electors of Belleville for their support.

CARL CROSBY
wishes to extend his thanks for his appointment to
BOARD of EDUCATION

SPIRIT OF BRITAIN

Typical British spirit in the face of recent devastating Nazi air raids on London and other industrial centres, is typified by this close-up of a London stretcher party worker, who, cigarette in corner of mouth, carries on his work despite numerous facial wounds received by fragments of exploding bombs.

Our Best Guarantee:
"FURRIERS IN BELLEVILLE FOR 36 YEARS"

WOULDN'T A NEW FUR COAT BE A GRAND CHRISTMAS GIFT?

It looks like a long, cold Winter, one that makes a Fur Coat a "real warm friend." Come into Belleville's Oldest Fur Store and choose the coat you want. You will find a very large assortment from which to make your selection.

A FEW VALUES:
FRENCH BEAVER $ 69.50
KID CARACUL 69.50
FRENCH SEAL 89.50
NORTHERN SEAL 98.00
MUSKRAT 119.00
RACCOON 125.00
MUSKRAT, finest quality 189.00
HUDSON SEAL 225.00
PERSIAN LAMB 259.00

BUDGET PAYMENTS

WOODLEY • FURRIERS
273 FRONT STREET

A Word to the Wise

This Christmas Season, business will be heavier than in many years.
To enjoy the opportunity of shopping from a larger selection . . . the moral is to

Shop Early

THE
ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Municipal elections on Monday were quiet, though there was a contest for every public office and there were two questions submitted for the opinion of the voters. The mayoralty ballots give an indication of the number of votes who tuned out for a total of 2,852 ballots was used in this contest. Practically all of those who went to the polls voted on the questions, for 2,706 ballots were cast on the question of the two-year term for mayor and aldermen as a war measure, this meaning that yesterday's election decides the membership of the council and the mayoralty for 1941 and 1942, while a slightly fewer ballots were cast on the question of the return of the water and gas services to the city council from the Public Utilities Commission.

Mayor Thompson was given a very large majority.

Commissioner George A. Reid of the Public Utilities, a former mayor and also a member of the commission for a number of years, was returned by 370 majority for a two-year term.

The voters, by a majority of 386, expressed approval of the council elected for 1941 being authorized to hold office for the year 1942 as a wartime measure. There was a majority of 562 against removal of the administration of the water and gas services from the Public Utilities Commission for revesting in the authority of the city council.

Alderman H. J. Clarke, who led the candidates for aldermen a year ago, was again at the head of the poll. All the other members of the council of this year who offered themselves as candidates are back, Aldermen Rollins, Butler, Armstrong, Kennedy, Pringle, Harvey, Allin and Jeffery. Frank Follwell ran well in third place for a newcomer. Russell Wotten, a member of the Board of Education last year, T. H. Marshall and C. R. Clapp, all aldermen of other years, have been elected to council.

The Rev. W. J. Walker, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, was given the leadership of the poll among the candidates for the Board of Education. Other newcomers are Carl Crosby and H. Legate. P. C. McGuire, W. J. Harrison and B. C. Sisler return to the board after an absence.

'CANADA'S AIR HERITAGE'

Dedicated to the R.C.A.F. is a booklet "Canada's Air Heritage," just issued by the Minister of National Defence for Air, Ottawa. Its cover is in the two colors of the R.C.A.F. and bears the official emblem of the service. Colored portraits of four of the greatest airmen from Canada who served in the last war are included with their records of service and the glory of their amazing achievemests.

In a foreword of dedication to the men of the R.C.A.F., Air Vice-Marshal Breadner, Chief of the Air Staff, R.C.A.F., Says:

> "The Royal Canadian Air Force is the youngest of Canada's fighting services. Yet this new weapon of war and servant of peace is rich in tradition. Throughout the first Great War, thousands of Canadians served with the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Navy Air Reserve and brought fame and distinction to themselves and their country. In the last year of the war these two services were joined to form the Royal Air Force. The Royal Canadian Air Force came into being in 1924.
>
> "Today we are at war again—and once more Canadians are in the front rank of airmen. Our country is, moreover, a great training ground for airmen from all over the Empire.
>
> "Thus Canada's air traditions, nobly begun, are being carried on. This booklet tells of some of the great figures of the last war. In the air today and in our training schools are their successors. This booklet is at once a guide to the past and a signpost to the future. As was said recently by the Acting Deputy Minister of National Defence for Air: 'There is something in the mental mould and physical frame of our Canadian youth'."

Under the heading "Per Ardua ad Astra" appear these words:

> "In this little book you have read of the exploits of but four of the thousands of Canadians who served with distinction in the Royal Air Force in the Great War of 1914-1918. There was a great company of others who fought superbly and with devastating effect upon the enemy. Volumes could be filled with their deeds.
>
> "Today another generation of Canadians has taken their place and is writing its deeds in the skies over England and Europe. Some may have opportunities for spectacular flying, some may ride with a kindlier fate than others. There will be the unsung heroes; the regular duty men flying from dawn to dawn; the thousands of loyal men whose work is on the ground, who give untiring and ungrudging service in order to make possible the achievements that are being written in the imperishable records of our service.
>
> "To them all, the Officers, Non-Commissioned Officers and Men of the Royal Canadian Air Force, this book is commended."

Graphic accounts are related of four outstanding Canadian airmen who served in the last war: Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., D.S.O. and bar, M.C., D.F.C., Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, Croix de Guerre with Palm, who shot down 72 enemy planes in the last war; Lt. Col W. G. Barker, V.C., D.S.O. and bar, M.C. and two bars, Croix de Guerre, Medal for Military Valor, with fifty planes; Air Commodore Raymond Collishaw, C.B.E., D.S.O. and bar, D.S.C., D.F.C., Croix de Guerre, whose total was 60 enemy planes in that war, and Lieut. Alan Arnett McLeod, V.C.

The booklet will be treasured by members of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

LITTLE INTERRUPTION BY SNOWSTORM

Snowstorms when they come unexpectedly as at the weekend can for a time cause serious interruption of traffic, transportation on highways and the schedule of individuals. The storm which deposited many millions of tons of snow upon the city and countryside came at a time which made the least possible interruption. Had such a snowfall occurred during the workaday week, there would have been more serious handicapping of services. As it was, traffic was reduced greatly and few ventured out in motorcars for mere pleasure and only the urgent call of duty sent drivers out on the highways. Transports are at their low for the week on a Sunday.

The public works department faced the situation seriously and had workmen out all day. The importance of a snowplough in coping with the snow was demonstrated very clearly if it need be emphasized. Citizens had by noon on Sunday made good use of their time and practically all of the walks had been cleared. For this they deserve commendation on this recognition of their civic duty.

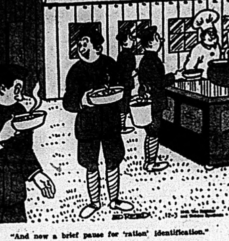
In older days such a storm would have snowbound the province for a considerable time. It is true that in other days small communities could have endured being snowbound for a longer period than they could today because of the fact that every part of the country is now a network of services, transportation, food, and so on. Today any community is less a substantial individual organization than it was, it is part of a great organization.

The five leading civil aviation concerns in Japan are to be combined and subsidized by the government to train civilian airplane and glider operators.

Recipes are mounted on a reel in a new holder and exposed as desired under a transparent window without being touched by the fingers by turning knobs.

OFF THE RECORD

By ED REED



"And now a brief pause for 'ration' identification."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

DEC. 3rd., 1920.

The members of the "Upstreamers" Group of the Y. M. C. A. held their monthly banquet recently and plans for the winter's work is well under way. They will hold their first debate of the season shortly. The question to be debated is, "Resolved that the dime novel is more injurious than the moving picture". Lionel Ives, Clifford Frost, Harry Post and Bert Wells will uphold the affirmative and the negative side will be supported by Arthur Herity, Bob Miles, Stanley Lennox and Theodore Maraskas. The boys are going in for hockey and are getting their team in shape.

The officials of the G. W. V. A. have a list of 500 names of soldier's children who will be remembered with presents at the Christmas Tree which is to be given especially for them.

30 YEARS AGO

DEC. 3rd., 1910.

Fifty years ago The Belleville Lodge No. 123 A. F. & A. M. was instituted in this city and the golden anniversary was celebrated recently. The charter members of the lodge were as follows: Andrew Ball Elmer, Robert Newberry, James L. Stimers, Nicholas O'Camb, John Wannacott, Donald Moodie, John Jordan, Alexander Wilson and Robert Wallbridge. Following the last meeting of the lodge a supper was served, presided over by Wor. Bro. C. D. Dyke, W. M. In response to the usual toasts speeches were made by Col. W. N. Ponton, W. D. McPherson, M. P. P., (Toronto), Henry Pringle, J. W. Johnson, H. Corby, H. J. Clarke, H. Sneyd. Songs were rendered by T. S. Holgate, and S. Burrows.

Mr. H. E. Hicks of Trenton was in town yesterday.

40 YEARS AGO

DEC. 3rd., 1900.

The tracks of the electric street car line were being cleared of snow to day preparatory to the running again of the cars. Two new closed cars have been purchased by the company.

The Rev. Dr. Wild, who was pastor of the Tabernacle in this city many years ago, was given a hearty welcome at that church on Sunday when he preached to a very large congregation.

Mr. W. E. Gladney of Marmora was a visitor in town today.

The Rev. N. J. Crowley, who has been assistant priest at St. Michael's Church here for some time, has been transferred to Trevlyan, Ontario. During his residence in Belleville, Father Crowley made many friends who regret his departure from the city. The Rev. James Sheedy of Kingston will be the new assistant at St. Michael's Church.

50 YEARS AGO

DEC. 3rd., 1890.

The schooners Kate and Delaware have been added to the fleet of boats in Winter quarters at this port.

The schooner Baltic, with coal for Napanee, is frozen in the ice at Deseronto.

A number of sleighs and cutters were about the streets today.

The curling rink was flooded yesterday and if the cold snap continues the curlers will be enjoying themselves soon.

The temperature fell to zero last night and to day the ferry steamer was unable to ply between here and the Prince Edward shore.

The Rev. S. J. Shorey of Peterboro who is well known here, has accepted a call to the Eastern Methodist Church, Napanee.

What's the Answer

BY THE ACE CAMERAMAN

(Distributed by the King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

1.—The story "The Blue Bird", was written by (a) Maeterlinck (b) Barry; (c) Dickens. Choose one.

2.—Name three great commanders of the French Army during the last World War.

3.—What is the river, in India, in which hundreds of thousands bathe to wash their sins away?

4.—True or false? O. Henry's real name was Samuel Clemens.

5.—Who is generally regarded as England's first prime minister?

6.—What movie has reportedly grossed more money than any other?

Answers

1.—Maeterlinck.

2.—Foch, Joffre, and Petain.

3.—The Ganges.

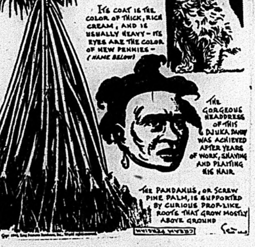
4.—False. It was William S. Porter.

5.—Sir Robert Walpole.

6.—Birth of a Nation.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT



DO YOU KNOW YOUR CATS?
ITS COAT IS THE COLOR OF THICK, RICH CREAM, AND IS USUALLY HEAVY - ITS EYES ARE THE COLOR OF NEW PENNIES - (NAME BELOW)
THE GORGEOUS HEADDRESS OF THIS DJUKA DANDY WAS ACHIEVED AFTER YEARS OF WORK, SHAVING AND PLAITING HIS HAIR
THE PANDANUS, OR SCREW PINE PALM, IS SUPPORTED BY CURIOUS PROP-LIKE ROOTS THAT GROW MOSTLY ABOVE GROUND

Trailer Travel

Trailer City, Winter Garden, Florida, Nov. 29.—We find in our travel this season, that we get a far different reception from the people of this great nation no matter where we drop in. Public opinion has now been moulded to the point where the United States firmly realizes that the British Commonwealth of Nations is fighting alone so that Government of the People, by the People, for the People will never perish on this earth. They also realise that the British Navy is their sure, first line of defence. That is worth 20 billions to them and if it should go (which it will not) they would be facing an invasion of the combined naval fleets of Germany, Italy, Japan. This indeed is a profoundly sobering thought.

One American Citizen on the Spot

We feel extremely sorry for one prominent American citizen, a great, sincere friend of Canada. We refer to James H. R. Cromwell, late United States ambassador to our country. When he made a speech in Canada shortly after his appointment, Washington thought he opened his mouth too wide diplomatically, so he was recalled. He then lost his election in New Jersey. The worst is yet to come. His wife, Doris Duke, of tobacco millions, has now given Jimmy the air, departing for Honolulu, while Cromwell goes to live with his mother, so it is reported.

On top of all this a tame seal a presentation to J.H.R., escaped from a lake made especially for it at great expense. It was found by a hunter, floundering around in the brush some distance from its artificial home and promptly shot in mistake for a game animal.

In a more recent speech in Toronto, Mr. Cromwell said in the course of very pro-British remarks that he thought the United States could be of more help by keeping out of the fracas than of getting in it. We do not agree with Jimmy on this point. We are of the opinion this great nation should step in, in a big way. The moral effect would be shattering to the mad-house painter of Germany.

Different Route

Trailer Travel this year takes us down through the centre of the States. Our present holeup is Trailer City, a beautiful park on the shore of Lake Apopka, owned and conducted by the City of Winter Garden, 18 miles west of Orlando. We understand this large park was built under a W.P.A. project and that Washington spent $150,000 to complete it. Lake Apopka is famed for its bass fishing while around and about orange and grape fruit groves abound. Great fruit houses, where the citrus fruit is received from the growers, then packed for shipment, are close at hand. Reasonable rates are here for trailer travellers. A welcome is extended to incoming trailers and other guests by a courteous and helpful management.

Hearty Welcome by U. S. Soldiers

On our arrival here a few days ago when shown to our parking lot we noticed several huge, canvas-covered, six wheel U. S. army trucks close at hand. We were not long in finding out what it was all about. These boys swarmed over and soon had us served with cool refreshing beer served in high paper glasses. We were informed they were of the United States Army Air Corps (Regulars) stationed at Orlando. Composite Pursuit Squadron to be more technical. They were on L.O.A. so were enjoying the swimming, fishing and sailing at Trailer City, accompanied by a large brewery truck.

After going into my credentials to be sure I was not a "Fifth Columnist" as they explained, it was their duty to be on the lookout. Being answered by me not to insult me again in no uncertain way, we became fast friends.

At this stage one of these soldiers came into my trailer, sat down to my typewriter and wrote as follows: "The Oranido Sentinel—We are all ready to fight for the United States." Your reliable reporter then had to promise a copy of this Trailer Travel would be sent to the Orlando Sentinel where these remarks would be reprinted by that worthy publication. The soldiers would then be able to read what we have written in that paper. We were then escorted over for more refreshment.

These men were all greatly interested in the Royal Canadian Air Force. A fine sample of American army men.

About Nov. 16th and 17th of this season early frost did some damage to the citrus groves in this vicinity.

ARTHUR JONES.

Russian Aid Held A Great Illusion

Holding that Red and Brown totalitarianism must ultimately flow into the same broad river, Eugene Lyons, one of America's outstanding authorities on Russia, claimed that this was already happening. Speaking before the Women's Canadian Club at a meeting held this week in Montreal and reported by the Gazette, he said this visit was a piece of showmanship and that it was "preposterous" to suppose that any important negotiations took place.

"The totalitarian countries do not have to negotiate in the limelight," he said. "Molotov is scarcely trusted by Stalin to eat a meal alone, let alone decide the fate of Europe. This meeting was intended to influence the people throughout the world. It was the outward symbol that negotiations between the two countries were going well."

Mr. Lyons held it "absurd" to suppose that Russia would join the democracies against Germany. He believed that Russia was an "honest" supporter of the Axis—"in the sense that there is honor among thieves, and said the illusion that Russia might right-about-face was carefully fostered by German-inspired propaganda.

To back his claim that Russia was actually a partner of Germany, he listed the following reasons: Russia fits more naturally in the Axis alignment than with the democracies, because it has the totalitarian type of mind; the group in power in Russia is more interested in maintaining power than in Russia's interests as a nation; the Soviet regime must keep out of war at any price.

Elaborating he said: "Even the Finnish campaign shook Russia economically to its foundations. The group in the Kremlin knows that another war would knock the props from under the regime. Although giving an illusion of strength with its great army and its large number of tanks, Russia is weaker today than under the Czars.

"The Stalin group is more afraid of its own people than it is of a strong neighbor, and more inclined to rest in the strength of a neighbor strong enough to support it."

Reds Fear Democracy Most

Mr. Lyons believed that Stalin had more to fear from a revival of democratic sentiment throughout the world than from an intensification of totalitarianism. He said: "Russia in the last 12 years has become part and parcel of the totalitarian world and it can survive only within the pattern of that world."

While maintaining that Russia was a full partner of Germany, he did not, however, say this partnership could not change. But he felt it would not change as long as hope remained for a German victory. He said Russia's job now likely was to persuade Turkey to give Germany right of passage and to act in the Far East to release the full strength of Japan.

The speaker forecast that Russia would settle her differences with Japan at the expense of China. He said Russia had more bargaining power in Asia than in Europe, for she controlled a large section of China. Already, he said, signs indicated that Soviet propaganda in China was sowing the seeds of disunity there. Already Chinese Communists and "the stoopes of the Comintern" were attacking Chiang Kai Shek.

Is Propaganda Weapon

Soviet propaganda, he held, was also at work in the Latin-American countries trying to throw a wrench into relations between these countries and the United States. This propaganda, he said, reached a group of people who would not be influenced by German propaganda as such. This was another indication of the assistance Russia was giving Germany in its propaganda.

Mr. Lyon felt it was absolutely necessary for the United States and Britain to begin to treat Russia realistically as part of the totalitarian front. He thought perhaps the governments of these countries were more realistic about the situation than the peoples of the two democracies, and while they had given up hope of a right-about-face by the Soviet had used the possibility of that hope as a factor in morale. If this were so, he thought they were making a mistake.

Spirit of French People

A correspondent who has lately been in France, writes to The Times, London, telling of the awakening spirit of the French people. According to him there has been a remarkable change of attitude of late.

The spirit of the French people of all classes has become very different from what it was two months ago, writes this Times correspondent. French "news" is more widely distrusted; the talks from London given by members of General de Gaulle's staff have many more listeners. The question of the strength of the forces of Free France is a constant pre-occupation, and, although no one between the ages of 18 and 48 can gain a permit to leave the country, attempts at escape are increasing.

The politicians, and the military leaders are openly blamed for the disaster, and one hears the phrase "Ce n'est pas fini." The handing over to the Italians of 800 aeroplanes delivered from America just before the armistice caused resentment against the Vichy Government. Even French officials who supported the Petain regime, and who still obey its orders, speak in confidence of their hope of a British victory. The courage and independence of the French people are reasserting themselves and awaiting the first signs of a British success, which would do an incalculable amount to strengthen the spirit of resistance.

Gradually during the summer a new attitude on the part of the French people towards the disaster became perceptible. This arose chiefly out of the circumstances which followed the armistice. The territory under the Vichy Government was almost entirely cut off from the rest of France, except for the steady drain of goods into German-occupied territory. Transport broke down more and more because of the lack of fuel; food, although at first fairly plentiful, could not be effectively distributed. Everywhere shops were besieged by queues and, after the first comers had been served, such notices as "no butter, no sugar, no oil, no coffee, no chocolate," were regularly displayed. Meat, too, was difficult to come by. Prices rose and, although this did not greatly affect people with foreign currency as a pound would fetch 240f, a dollar 100f, or more on the local "black bourses," it created a problem for the French, many of whom were without employment. Exaggerated anti-British propaganda continued the work of disillusionment which economic difficulties had begun.

It took a little time for ordinary French people to realize that their favorite newspaper was not entirely to be trusted, but in time it was borne in upon them. The cafes and public meeting-places hummed with tales of towns in the "free" area being occupied by German troops. There was an almost complete lack of trustworthy information. British broadcasts were jammed, the mail from neutral countries was seized by the German censor in Bordeaux. It was even forbidden, under strict penalties, to bring old newspapers into unoccupied territory for fear that the spirit of freedom which they breathed might lead to discontent. Foreigners, Jews, and colored people were equally prohibited from crossing the boundary laid down by the armistice.

But when all precautions have been taken, and in spite of the full chorus of anti-British propaganda, it is not possible to prevent news from abroad from seeping in, or to stifle completely the growing feeling of sympathy with Great Britain. People have continued to cross the frontier from Belgium, Holland, and elsewhere, and what they have to say of happenings in the world at large does not fit in entirely with the facts as presented by the Vichy Government. The effect is cumulative.

Less consideration is being shown by the German troops to civilians in the occupied territories; the exactions which provide the Germans and no one else, with adequate food are increasing; and there is a growing feeling of resentment, expressed or unexpressed, among the subject people themselves. At the same time there are stories of unrest within the German ranks, where soldiers appear to be disgruntled at the delay in the promised attack on England.

Reform Bridge Game or We Quit, Say Men

The males are on the verge of a strike, according to an article in Esquire Magazine. Unless some changes are made in a big hurry, bridge will be relegated to the ladies' clubs where it will remain as a sort of emotional orgy for a bunch of disappointed women. And the men? Back to a decent pastime such as straight, draw or even stud with deuces wild.

Due to women's making a cult out of bridge, it is now played much like chess. Even a heavy sigh during the deep contemplation of one player brings forth a block of nasty looks. A lot of bunk about informative bidding makes a bridge session one of constant nervous tension. And the female variety of "politeness" in bridge makes it all a bitter frustration.

After all, the game is supposed to be for amusement. As introduced in Esquire, a new system would put some life into the old game. The thesis of this new system, called Hand over Hand contract, is the so-called etiquette of bridge. Now, according to strict bridge etiquette, all bids must be made in a monotone, so that you can't let your partner know by the tone of your voice that you think things have gone far enough. Furthermore, there should be no comments on the bidding — either while it is going on or during the play of the hand. Nor should there be any comment on the play until it is over. And on top of that, there should be no comment on anything else.

Open Conversation

The Hand over Hand system adopts instead a system which permits any combination of comments, by all four players at once if desired, during the bidding and the play. For instance, "If Mrs. Smith opens with one spade and her partner jumps to three hearts and Mrs. Smith then bids three spades in a very 'puny' voice to let Mr. Smith know he'd better be careful, why under this system of bridge, it's perfectly all right for Mr. and Mrs. Jones to shout out, 'She's trying to tell you to be careful, you dumb cluck. she's got a mighty weak opening bid.' This would add life to bridge."

Then, too, open conversation on the bidding and play would prevent cheating. And practically all bridge players cheat—with women ranking as the worst offenders! They work out little systems of bidding whereby the tone of voice or a cough after a bid carries the message...they watch how you pick your cards out, and count your hand that way. In poker it is permissible to take advantage of any information you can gather by all kinds of unfair methods. In bridge it is unfair to do anything! Yet poker is usually a fairly honest game, while bridge players use dozens of little methods of cheating..."particularly the women, who are much shrewder than men at such things."

The new system goes the rest of the way toward curing cheating by abandoning all artificial conventions. All signals are boloney except kicking under the table. In order that signals can't be misunderstood, players are allowed to announce their cards. If your partner drops two clubs in reverse to give you the high-low come-on, you might miss it. But if, instead, he simply says on the first lead, "Look, Baby, I'm playing the eight," then on the second play he remarks, "Now I'm playing the trey, which means I'm entirely out of clubs, Dear"—why this is giving fair and sure information to everybody. The result is the same, and the players aren't bothered with having to remember fool rules of play, or with having to cheat.

Poker Rules

Esquire would apply the rules of poker to bridge—except that the deuces wouldn't be wild — and all "politeness" would be taken out of it. After all, it's really not politeness—it's cruelty. When a man's partner freezes him with. "It's too bad we didn't see that switch to clubs would have defeated the contract," he has no answer. He can't get rough, for that marks him as a boor. If he starts to explain, he simply looks silly. On the other hand, if the lady really says what she thinks, it's "You big ape, even a child would have had enough sense to switch to clubs!" To that you have no answer, no matter how shoddy —like "Why don't you stick a few aces in your sleeve so you can win occasionally?" ...or "What the devil are you talking about, when you gave up the hand by leading away from your ace-queen in the opening play?" And then everybody's relieved.

The point is, concludes the article, that bridge is rapidly losing its grip on the people because of the bunk surrounding the game. With so many rules and systems, there's no room for imagination or experiment—and with the women taking over the game there's only polite abuse for a man who plays just for fun.

Newest Notes of Science

Science News Service

A guard has been invented to hold a person's fingers rigid and separated after liquid polish has been applied to the nails until the polish dries.

Efforts are being made in Switzerland to increase the domestic production of bark for tanning leather until the country can meet its entire needs.

Lessons for typewriting students are projected on a screen by a new device, magnified so that they can be read the length of an ordinary classroom.

Dual mirrors have been invented to be mounted on automobile windshields to give drivers views of the roads behind them and at wide angles on each side.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

James W. Barton, M.D.

Preventing the Queer Child Becoming a Mental Patient

I watched the career of a boy who was just one year ahead of me at public school. He won the gold medal at public school, stood highest in all his high school classes, entered university with several scholarships, and graduated from the university head of two departments. Shortly afterwards, his mind went "wrong" and he spent his time making little articles with a jig-saw. All the time he was at public and high school and at the university, he never, to my knowledge, played a game of any kind, He did nothing but study. Naturally the rest of us, while admiring his mental ability, considered him "queer".

Psychiatrists — mental specialists—tell us that if the life history of mental patients who are of the unruly type or the depressed type were investigated, it would be found that as boys and girls they were just a little "queer" or different from the other boys and girls.

Dr. J. P. S. Cathcart, Chief Psyciatrist, Department of Pensions in National Health Review, Canada, states that his experience with these cases convinces him that the underlying cause of factor in this type of mental ailment is a peculiar type of sensitiveness. You might say "thin skinned". Together with this condition of being thin skinned is an irritating parent-child situation. These patients all believe that they were unfairly treated by one or both parents, whereas the parents believe that the patient was a difficult child to handle, wayward, and outspoken in his resentment of his parents' guidance.

Dr. Cathcart points out that, by knowing the patient's background, the physician can revive some of the patient's bitter memories about his childhood. The patient thus understands to some extent why he behaves as he does; in fact, his queer behavior no longer appears mysterious to him.

Further treatment aims at giving the patient natural confidence in himself instead of false courage, which false courage is his way of meeting a difficult situation by blustering and violent explosions of temper or anger.

The lesson here is that parents should not be too hard or too easy with their children. My suggestion is always the same; that is, that youngsters not only be allowed to play games but encouraged to play. In all group games youngsters must learn to "give and take".

Invented more than 40 years ago, an adhesive material to prevent machine belts slipping on pulleys is just being marketed on a commercial scale.

Gordon C. Longfield, Belton Wins British Empire Cheese Title at C. O. C. M. A. Exhibit

Gordon C. Longfield, Belton, Ont. cheesemaker, retained for Western Ontario, the cheesemaking honors won last year by Donald Howes, Atwood, Ont., when he was awarded the grand championship of the British Empire Dairy Show and Cheese Exhibition at the 13th convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers Association here today.

The Middlesex County maker won the T. Eaton Silver Tray and the championship with an average score of 97.95 for six entries in the championship class. Five of the entries scored 98 or over but the sixth reduced Longfield's grand average to the figure mentioned. L. E. Adair of Burgessville, Ont., was runner-up with a grand average of 97.51. The highest score cheese in the exhibition 98.5 was made by Adair, but lower scores in other entries reduced his grand average.

Western Ontario makers again scored heavily in all classes, leading Central and Eastern Ontario, Quebec, Alberta and Manitoba, by a clear margin. The Quebec entries showed up exceptionally well, and finished well ahead of last year.

Bert Anderson, Madoc maker, upheld the honor of Central Ontario by annexing the British Empire Challenge Shield, Gold Medal and Diploma with an average of 97.7. A fellow Hastings County maker, John H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg, was runner up in this division with a score of 97.6. Horace St. Denis, Ormstown, Quebec, led the eastern province makers, while O. J. McAvoy, Mastings County Dairy Instructor carried off the honors for the instructor having the largest prize-winning group. Prize winner lists were posted in the Exhibition Hall at noon today.

While the record cheese exhibit of 632 entries went on exhibition officially yesterday, the convention proper did not open until this afternoon.

Cheesemen Welcomed

Official welcome to the cheesemen, outstanding dairymen and agriculturists of the province and dominion and others who thronged the City Hall this afternoon, was given by His Worship Mayor Glencoe Thompson of Belleville and Warden John L. Churcher, of Hastings County following the invocation by the Rev. Dean Leacy of Napanee.

Reports and comments on the exhibition and cheese demonstrations were given by Mr. Joseph Burgess, Chief, Grading and Dairying Products Inspection Services, Ottawa, and addresses by F. T. Hart, District Inspector, Weights and Measures; H. L. Waters, representative Montreal Provision Trades Association, Montreal and Dr. A. L. Gibson, Superintendent Eastern Dairy School, Kemptville, a fifteen minute talking film by the Toledo Scale Company, accompanied Mr. Hart's address.

Tomorrow, Wednesday, addresses will be given by George Gardner, President, Ontario Cheese Producers' Association; C. E. Lackner, Director of Dairying, Toronto; W. H. Sproule, Professor of Dairying, O.A.C., Guelph; H. B. Sandwith, Chief Dairy Instructor for Eastern Ontario, Kingston and E. G. Hood, B.S.A. Thos. J. Hicks, Senior Dairy Produce Grader, Montreal; J. F. Singleton, Associate Director of Marketing Services, Ottawa; Oscar Boivert, Inspector, General Dairy Branch, Quebec; L. C. Roy, Supt. Agriculture for Eastern Canada of the C.N.R. Resolutions will also be presented and reports of nominating committees brought in.

The convention will officially close tomorrow night at a grand banquet where prizes will be presented and Miss Winifred Phillips, Ontario's first "Dairy Queen" officially "crowned" and introduced to the cheesemen.

A Colorful Picture

The exhibition proper forms a colorful picture in the Market Rooms of the City Hall. The entire room is beautifully decorated in colors of purple, white and yellow. Busts of Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth are framed in white, purple and yellow while a large replica of the red-white and blue exhibition insignia stands out boldly in the centre of the exhibit.

Walls and posts are resplendent in white with borders of purple and yellow while windows and doorways are framed in the same colors. Festoons of blue and white drape the ceiling beams making the whole a beautiful background for the golden yellow of the exhibits.

Each cheese has a small circular exhibition slogan pasted on its side which forms another added touch of color. The entire room is a blaze of color and is a distinct credit to Bob Fair, Belleville decorator who with his assistants is responsible for the color, design and finish of the decorative scheme.

Following are a list of the prizewinners:

Grand Championship for 1940—T. Eaton Co. Silver Tray—Gordon C. Longfield, Belton, Ont., score 97.95 grand average for six entries.

British Empire Special

1st, Silver Challenge Trophy, Gold Medal, Diploma—Bert Anderson, Madoc, Ont, 97.7; (2) Gold Medal Diploma, J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg, 97.6; (3) Silver Medal, Diploma—Donald Howes, Atwood, Ont. 97.6; (4) Bronze Medal, Diploma, Gordon C. Longfield, Belton, Ont. 97.4.

Diplomas of Honor—Mac Remington, Dorland; L. E. Adair, Burgessville; C. O. Pickard, Mt. Elgin; D. Rowe, Hoards; Bert Jones, Tweed; T. Roy Johnstone, Listowel; C. F. Guernsey, Wolf Island; Albert Bennington, Tillsonburg; Alec Johnston, Madoc; G. M. Elliot, Clinton.

$3000 Special. Open to Dominion, Ont. Excluded

Factory Cheese, Sept. (w)—Henri Bilodeau, Roberval, Que.; Bernard Laramee, Yamaska, Que.; Donat Perron, Roberval, Que.; Ovide Lavoie, Lac St. Jean, Que.

Factory Cheese, Sept. (c)—Horace St. Denis, Ormstown, Que.; Joseph Dube, Rimouski, Que.; New Coaldale Cheese Co., Coaldale, Alberta.

Factory Cheese, Oct. (w)— J Dube, Rimouski, Que.; Lorenso Houle, Roberval, Que.; Henri Bilodeau, Roberval, Que.; D. Perron, Roberval, Que.; Reni Fournier, Rimouski, Que.

Factory Cheese, Oct. (c)—H. St. Denis, Ormstown, Que.; C. U. Kornelson, Giroux, Man.; George Kornelson, Steinbeck, Man.; J. Dube, Rimouski, Que.

J. D. Lecalair Trophy (Highest scoring cheese from Quebec)—Henri Bilodeau, Roberval, Que., 97.9.

Cooperative Federee de Quebec Silver Cup (highest score Oct. cheese from Quebec)—Horace St. Denis, Ormstown, Que., 97.8.

Echlin Memorial Cup (Central or Eastern Ont. highest scoring cheese)—J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg.

Griffin Challenge Shield (to Dairy Instructor who has group winning most prize money)—Owen J. MacAvoy, Madoc, Ont.

Walker Wallace Silver Challenge trophy—C. O. Pickard, Mt. Elgin, Ont, 98.3.

Dairy Instructors Special

To 3 dairy instructors of Central and Eastern Ontario, having highest average score on cheese manufactured by their makers—O. J McEvoy, Madoc, 96.8; S. H. McNeill, Kingston, Ont., 96.7; J. A Murray, Campbellford, Ont. 96.4.

Diplomas of Honor

To makers whose entries in Dairy Instructors Special scored 97 or over—J. Hall, Foxboro, 98; A Johnston, Madoc R. 2, 97.9; T. O Heath, West Huntingdon, 97.7, Francis Orr, Sunbury, 97.3; D Rowe, Hoards, 97.3; Fred Remington, Wilton, 97.3; R. Wright, Sydenham, 97.2; Bert Bouck, Crookston, 97.2; W. P. Moore, Campbellford, R. 2, 97.1; Bert Anderson, Madoc, 97.1; P. G. Cramer, Westbrook, 97.1; J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg, 97.1; A. McCreary, Marmora, 97.1; J. Finnegan, Marmora, 97.1; E. W. McNeill, Moscow, 97; D. V. Spencer, Queensboro, 97.

Honorary Diplomas of Memberships, 1940

Awarded to retired cheese makers of Central Ontario counties for service to Dairy industry — John Murphy, Tweed, Hastings County, (43 years); E. I. Babcock, Napanee, Lennox and Addington (44 years); Earl Ryan, Hartington, Frontenac, (49 years); Horace F. Way, Brighton, Northumberland (41 years); Andrew Wilson, Young's Point, Peterborough (53 years).

Ontario Cheese Producers Association Special

J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg, 93.998; Thomas Hogle, Roslin, 93.997; Albert McAdam, Peterborough 93.996; C. F. Guernsey, Wolfe Island 93.894; Roy Brown, Bonarlaw 93.789; Nelson Sarles, Frankford 93.754.

These awards made to Central Ontario makers with highest average score, May-Oct., inc.

Bank of Commerce Silver Tray

Awarded to maker having highest percent 94 score or over, May to Oct.—John H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg, percent of 94 score—91.64882.

Section Prizes

Factory Cheese, June (w or c) — L. E. Adair, Burgessville; A. Bennington, Tillsonburg; H. J. Neeb, Tavistock; Gordon C. Longfield, Belton; Clifford Carter, Lakeside; Douglas Rowe, Hoards; Bert Anderson, Madoc; Alec Johnston, Madoc; Donald Howes, Atwood.

Factory Cheese July (w or c) — G. C. Longfield, Belton; D. Howes, Atwood; L. E. Adair, Burgessville; C. O. Pickard, Mt. Elgin; Bert Jones, Tweed; C. Carter, Lakeside; A. Johnston, Madoc; John H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg; H. J. Neeb, Tavistock.

Factory Cheese Aug. (w or c) — T. Roy Johnston, Listowel; L. E. Adair, Burgessville; G. C. Longfield, Belton; John H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg; A. Bennington, Tillsonburg; C. Carter, Lakeside; H. J. Neeb, Tavistock; Bert Jones, Tweed; Fred Remington, Wilton.

Factory Cheese, September (w)—C. O. Pickard, Mt. Elgin; G. C. Longfield, Belton; Bert Anderson, Madoc; Henri Bilodeau, Chambord Co. Quebec; A. Johnston, Madoc; C. Carter, Lakeside; Don Howes, Atwood; A. Bennigton, Tillsonburg; Delbert Rowe, Harold.

Factory Cheese, September (c)—G. C. Longfield, Belton; L. E. Adair Burgessville; C. O. Pickard, Mt. Elgin; Horace St. Denis, Ormstown, Que.; T. K. McKnight, Inverary; John Finnegan, Marmora; Joseph Dube, Rimouski, Que.; C. Carter, Lakeside; Bert Anderson, Madoc.

Factory Cheese, October (w) — J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg; H. J. Neeb, Tavistock; L. E. Adair, Burgessville; C. O. Pickard, Mt. Elgin; G. C. Longfield, Belton; Paul R. Sabourin, Casselman: T. Roy Johnston, Listowel; John Finnegan, Marmora; A. Bennington. Tillsonburg.

Factory Cheese, October (c) — G. C. Longfield, Belton; H. St. Denis, Ormstown, Que.; T. R. Johnston, Listowel; C. O. Pickard, Mt. Elgin; E. U. Kornelson, Giroux, Man.; George Kornelson, Steinbeck, Man.; Douglas Rowe, Hoards; Donald Howes, Atwood; Thomas O. Heath, West Huntingdon.

Two Flats (w or c)—C. O. Pickard, Mt. Elgin; D. Rowe, Hoards; G. C. Longfield, Belton; L. E. Adair, Burgessville; A. Bennington, Tillsonburg, H. J. Neeb, Tavistock.

Three Stiltons (w or c)— G. C. Longfield, Belton; C. Carter, Lakeside; J. N. Truelove, Westport; G. M. Elliott, Clinton; C. O. Pickard, Mt. Elgin; L. E. Adair, Burgessville.

County Councils Special Awards

Frontenac—June (w or c)—C. F. Guernsey, Wolf Island; W. N. Cooper, Sunbury; E. A. Reed, Kingston.

July (w or c)—C. D. Cramer, Elginburg; E. A. Reed, Kingston; Fred Langford, Battersea.

August (w or c)—W. E. Cooper, Sunbury; C. F. Guernsey, Wolf Island; C. D. Cramer, Elginburg.

Sept. (w or c)—T. K. McKnight, Inverary; C. D. Cramer, Elginburg; Chas. Carter, Westbrook.

Oct. (w or c)—H. C. Hall, Wagarville; E. A. Reed, Kingston; C. D. Cramer, Elginburg.

Lennox and Addington—June (w or c)—Robert Bruce, Enterprise; W. Campbell, Selby; Earl McNeill, Moscow.

July (w or c)—Robert Bruce, Enterprise; W. Campbell, Selby; E. Murphy, Enterprise.

August (w or c)—Fred Remington Wilton; Harold White, Stella; Earl McNeill, Moscow.

Sept. (w or c)—E. McNeill, Moscow; F. Remington, Wilton; E. Murphy, Enterprise.

Oct. (w or c)—D. M. Sandford, Sharpe's Corners; E. McNeill, Moscow; F. Remington, Wilton.

Prince Edward—June (w or c)—M. Remington, Dorland; E. W. Henderson, Milford; H. S. Channel, Hillier.

July (w or c)— M. Remington, Dorland; E. W. Henderson, Milford;

August (w or c)—H. S. Channel, Hillier; E. W. Henderson, Milford; M. Remington, Dorland.

Sept. (w or c)—H. S. Channel, Hillier; Fred Newcombe, Demorestville; Mac Remington, Dorland.

Oct. (w or c)—M. Remington, Dorland; H. S. Channel, Hillier; Fred Newcombe, Demorestville.

FIRST LADY OF U.S. DOES CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, first lady of the United States, is a staunch believer in doing her Christmas shopping early, and here we see the President's wife selecting toys from the counter of a New York store.

Correspondent Bears Charmed Life Amid Falling Nazi Bombs

Edwin Johnson Relates Close Escape From Death While Residing in London

APARTMENT BLASTED

(Edwin S. Johnson, for four years superintendent of the London Bureau of the Canadian Press, and since January, 1940, war correspondent with the Canadian Forces in England, returned to Canada Monday to take up the post of military correspondent at Ottawa. In the following story Johnson tells how his London flat was demolished by bombs on the eve of his departure for Canada.

This was the third occasion on which living or working quarters of Canadian Press staff writers in England were shaken or damaged by bombs. Early on September 25 bombs landing in the street left smashed windows and broken plaster in The Canadian Press office; two weeks later a high explosive bomb tore up the courtyard and smashed the entrance of the building in which six C.P. writers lived.

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

An East Coast Canadian Port, Dec. 3 (CP)—After months of dodging bombs and shell splinters in England I have returned to my native Canada unharmed, a trifle poorer materially, but a confirmed believer in fatalism.

In fact I owe my life several times over to that strange something people variously call Providence, fate, luck, or a guardian angel.

Ever since Hitler unleashed his attempted aerial knockout blow against Britain, I have secretly harbored the belief that this war correspondent, for some strange reason, had been singled out as Germany's military objective number one. Wherever I moved, whether in London, in the provinces, at the port of embarkation and finally aboard ship, the crash of high explosives seemed to trail a few feet in my wake.

Invitation Saves Life

True, they didn't find my range but there were close calls and according to the law of averages I should not be here today.

On the eve of my departure for home, where I had been summoned to take up a new post, Hitler's emissaries of frightfulness dropped one of their over-size packets of hate right in the centre of my London flat, but here fate intervened and I was not at home to accept delivery. For the first time since the so-called Blitz began I had accepted the invitation of a colleague on a lower floor of the same building to spend the night with him.

All night long the enemy had been droning overhead, indiscriminately, blindly, unloading death and destruction in one of the most violent raids upon the metropolis.

Despite the din of the defensive barrage and the intermittent crash of bombs we somehow managed to drop off to sleep.

Suddenly we were aroused by the roar of a low-flying machine. Three times it crossed directly overhead and then we heard the ominous whine.

"Here she comes", my friend whispered. Before he had uttered the last word there was a blinding flash, followed by a volcanic blast which shook the nine-storey building to its very foundation. We were showered by flying glass and masonry, furniture in the flat was sent spinning about in the dark. We felt certain the bomb had landed in the adjoining room.

Not until dawn an hour later did we learn what had actually happened. The bomb, which experts claimed had been around 1,200 pounds in weight, had crashed through two feet of reinforced concrete roofing, ploughed through two more flight and exploded in the flat directly below what had been my bedroom.

Upper Floors Shambles

The entire upper portion of this modern residential block had been reduced to a shambles. Three floors were completely obliterated, debris was tossed more than 100 yards across the inner garden court and spattered against the face of the wing directly opposite. The havoc was comparable to that following a point-blank blast of a heavy-calibre gun.

Throughout the day air raid precautions crews worked without rest or relief in the remote hope of finding possible survivors in the piled-up rubble. Six hours later they recovered the mutilated remains of two brothers who lived in the flat comforting friends. But there was been convinced it was just as safe between your own four walls as in the shelter below. Their father and mother who had taken refuge in the basement escaped unhurt.

Four more bodies were found within the next 24 hours. In all 22 families lost all their belongings, 15 others were rendered homeless, and 12 more were less seriously affected. Hundreds of window panes were shattered, water and gas mains were broken and the lighting system was put out of commission.

Those whose relatives had been killed wept on the shoulders of comporting friends. But there was no evidence of panic or hysteria. Sufferers were herded into nearby apartments where they were fed and outfitted in whatever spare clothing could be found, clothing which was welcome although it didn't always fit.

Four Couples Share Flat

Four married couples came to share the shelter of my friend's two-room flat where I had stopped for the night. We enjoyed the benefits of gas, water and light. They were of the so-called middle-class strata of British society, people moderately well-to-do and accustomed to the luxuries of life.

This day all gladly pooled their resources. While the women did their best to straighten out the flat, which looked as if a cyclone had struck it, the men went off to the nearest shopping district.

Without ration cards the selection was rather limited, but we accepted whatever food was procurable. Within an hour, our refugee group sat down to a communal lunch of fried sausages, mashed potatoes, turnips, cauliflower, bread and tea.

Ravenously hungry, all agreed it was the grandest meal they had ever tasted. Dinner was shared in the same way but it had to be curtailed before the tea stage was reached. Dusk had fallen and the howl of the banshee reminded us that Jerry is seldom late.

That night he dropped six more bombs in the immediate area, two of which struck another wing of the building. The damage this time, however, was not so severe and there was no loss of life.

All told 14 bombs had hit this large residential structure before I left which brought the apt suggestion from a colleague: "Why don't you move nearer some target of possible military importance? You are sure to be safe there."

If it hadn't been for the fact I was homeward bound for Canada I might have put this theory to a test.

6 MINESWEEPERS ORDERED

Vancouver, Dec. 2 (CP)—Donald M. Service, General Manager of the North Vancouver Ship Repairs Ltd., announced yesterday his firm had received an order for six minesweepers each costing $620,000.

The company has nearly completed an earlier order for six of the vessels, and the new work, total value of which is $7,750,000, is expected to keep its yards busy for another year.

ENGRAVED FREE
FOUNTAIN PENS AND SETS
Costing over One Dollar Engraved with Name in Gold FREE.
PARKER'S
WATERMAN'S
SHEAFFER'S
EVERSHARPS.
See the Nurse's Set — Pen, Pencil and Thermometer, in Pure White
CIGARETTES FOR OVERSEAS
300 for $1.10
COME IN AND TRY AN ELECTRIC RAZOR
DOLAN
THE DRUGGIST
PHONE 138

Warden W. H. Morrow Tendered Banquet Held at Cobourg

Wooler — On Wednesday evening in the British Hotel at Cobourg, by Northumberland and Durham Counties Council, a banquet was tendered to Warden W. H. Morrow, reeve of Murray township. W. A. Smith, Deputy Reeve of Murray township, was chairman for the sessions proceedings and the guest speaker was Lieutenant Col. J. C. Gamey, C. O., of the Midland Regiment. On behalf of the counties council, Deputy Reeve W. W. Brown presented the Warden with a gold watch.

Reeve Percy Gooding of Brighton township, proposed a toast to the county and was responded to by Percy Stinson of Millbrook (ex-Warden). A former member of the counties council, Lieutenant H. R. S. Ryan, replied to a toast to the men in uniform, proposed by Reeve G. A. Edmondstone of Bowmanville.

Total war grants, set by the council to the amount of $10,000 for the year and recommended by the patriotic grants committee, payment of which to be awarded to the following: The Canadian Legion, $1,000; The Knights of Columbus Army Huts, $1,000; The Navy League, $2,000.

Warden Herman Morrow during the summer was married and in commemoration of the event, the members of the Northumberland and Durham Counties Council, 'ere closing its session on Thursday, gathered for a social period, during which time, Mr. Morrow on behalf of his wife was presented by Reeve Percy Gooding, and Reeve G. A. Edmondstone with a silver sugar and cream set on tray.

Mrs. George Pearson has returned home from General Hospital, at Belleville. Her condition is fair.

Mrs. Stillman Terrill has gone to Toronto for medical treatment at the Private Patients Pavilion, in General Hospital.

Mrs. Frank Ellis has gone to Toronto and will remain during the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith is entertaining for a few days. Mr. Ed. Herrington of Saskatoon.

Those to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Robert Clarke at Trenton on Sunday, November 24, were: Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Terrill, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dorland, Mr. and Mrs. George Adams and Mr. and Mrs. G. Peister.

Mr. Delbert McColl of Trenton was a guest of his sister, Mrs. A. C. Dafoe and Mr. Dafoe recently.

Mr. Clarke McColl was in Ottawa for a week visiting relatives.

Mrs. Elgin Mitchell is at the home of her sister, Mrs. T. Sheppard, Brighton. She has been quite ill but is now convalescing.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dafoe entertained Mr. and Mrs. James Redick of Trenton on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Oddy of Toronto was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

Mrs. Roy Putnam and her group served a lunch in the parlors of the United Church on Tuesday. There was the usual large crowd attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor spent a recent Sunday with friends in Prince Edward.

Mr. and Mrs. Hedley Ireland entertained Mr. and Mrs. George Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Burton Lowe on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gendron spent a week with relatives at Millbridge.

Messrs. Vaughn Adams, Fred Coltman and J. C. Herrington have returned home from deer hunting.

Mr. D. Rogers of Toronto spent last week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rogers.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Morgan were in Tweed on a recent Sunday, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Emerson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Henderson of Prescott spent Wednesday with their daughter, Mrs. A. Morgan.

Mrs. Hugh Curry of Mount Zion spent a day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Rogers.

Marmora

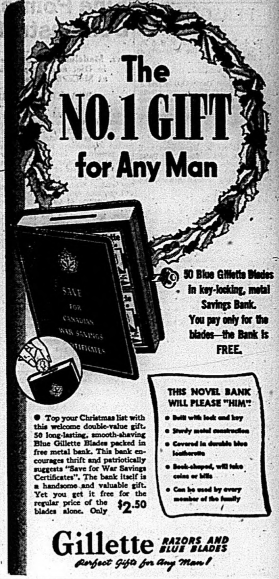
Marmora — Lieut. P. Gray of Camp Borden spent the week end at his home here.

Flowers were placed on the altar at St. Paul's on Sunday in memory of the late William Gray by Mrs. W. Gray and family.

Lance Corporal J. Darrah of Camp Borden spent the week end at his home here.

The heavy fall of snow on Saturday evening proved quite an inconvenience to local motorists, particularly those using the township road. Those wishing to use No. 7 and No. 14 highways on Sunday had the pleasure of discovering the snow plow had gone through to improve traffic conditions.

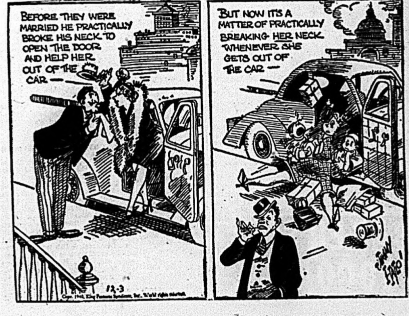
Born—On Thursday, Nov. 28th, to Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Chrysler, a son.



The NO. 1 GIFT for Any Man
50 Blue Gillette Blades in key-locking, metal Savings Bank. You pay only for the blades—the Bank is FREE.
THIS NOVEL BANK WILL PLEASE "HIM"!
- Built with lock and key
- Sturdy metal construction
- Covered in durable blue leatherette
- Book-shaped, will take coins or bills
- Can be used by every member of the family
● Top your Christmas list with this welcome double-value gift. 50 long-lasting, smooth-shaving Blue Gillette Blades packed in free metal bank. This bank encourages thrift and patriotically suggests "Save for War Savings Certificates". The bank itself is a handsome and valuable gift. Yet you get it free for the regular price of the blades alone. Only $2.50
Gillette RAZORS AND BLUE BLADES
Perfect Gifts for Any Man!
SAVE FOR CANADIAN WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

PHONE: Dealer's Phone No. to go here
AND WE WILL TELL YOU WHY
THIS YEAR YOU, TOO, SHOULD CHANGE TO
'blue coal'
THE COLOUR GUARANTEES THE QUALITY
It only takes one ton of 'blue coal' to prove to you that it's the greatest heating value money can buy. For cleaner, better heating at less cost, order 'blue coal' today.
HARRY SMITH
152 PINNACLE ST. PHONE 2071
"A Fuel for Every Purpose"
Listen to "The Shadow"—CFRB, Tues., 8.30 p.m., CKCO, Tues., 8.00 p.m., CFRC, Thurs., 8.00 p.m.

They'll Do It Every Time By Jimmy Hatlo



BEFORE THEY WERE MARRIED HE PRACTICALLY BROKE HIS NECK TO OPEN THE DOOR AND HELP HER OUT OF THE CAR —
BUT NOW IT'S A MATTER OF PRACTICALLY BREAKING HER NECK WHENEVER SHE GETS OUT OF THE CAR — 12-3
JIMMY HATLO

PERSONALS

R. J. Mattis of the R.C.A.F., St. Thomas, spent the week-end at his home, here.

Mr and Mrs. Denis Delisle and A. Kincaid of this city were among the out-of-town guests attending the "Presidents' Ball" of the Catholic Action Club, Kingston, on Friday night.

Mrs. Robert R. Basserman with little daughters, Barbara and Patsy is spending a few days in the city with her mother, Mrs. S. Cummins, before leaving to take up residence in Noranda.

Miss Marie Scott, bride-to-be, was guest of honor at a delightful miscellaneous shower held last evening at the home of Miss Betty Greatrix, 72 Yeomans Street. The rooms were beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers and about forty guests were present. Miss Scott received many lovely gifts for which she graciously thanked her friends. Euchre and bingo were enjoyed, the prizes for euchre being won by Mrs. James Scott and Mrs. Allan Browning and the bingo prize by Miss Rita Walsh. A dainty lunch was served at the close of the evening.

The Hamilton Spectator contains the following interesting note about a former Belleville resident, Mrs. Louise Diamond, daughter of Mrs. Thorpe Carman: "Known to local concert audiences as a dramatic coloratura soprano, Louise Diamond recently paid a visit to New York for an audition before the board of adjudicators of the Metropolitan Opera company. She sang two numbers including an operatic aria and later received an encouraging letter from Maestro Wilfred Pelletier which said, in part 'the committee hopes that you will present yourself for an audition next season'." Mrs. Diamond's husband W. Clarke Diamond, is the son of F. D. Diamond of Belleville.

PINE GROVE W. I.

The November meeting of the Pine Grove W. I. was held at Mrs. D. Hollinger's Thursday, Nov. 28, 1940, preceded by a dinner at which Mrs. F. Heasman and Mrs. M. Dafoe, leader for the Meat Cookery Course put on a demonstration of the art of cooking meat. P [illegible]. The meeting opened with 15 members and 2 visitors were present and the president, Mrs. F. Heasman was in the chair.

Four ladies are to meet next week to lay out quilt pieces for making a quilt for refugees. The secretary to write re price of quilt pieces. It was decided to give a gift of money to war work this year.

Mrs. W. Rodgers gave the report of the second day of the Area Convention held in Belleville in October. Mrs. Heasman and Mrs. M. Dafoe gave a report of their two days in Stirling where they were taught the various methods of preparing and cooking meat.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Down the isle at the theatre there's a procession of wool evening wraps. A lovely full-length cape is of white woollen with gold braid forming a scroll decoration down either side and making a small stand-up collar.

SMOOTH, ENJOYABLE FLAVOUR!
BAKER'S
COCOA

ORDER a tin of Baker's Cocoa from your grocer. Use the famous Baker recipe on each tin. There you have a delightfully flavoured cocoa that appeals to the entire family . . . so rich, so tempting.

MINIMUM EXPENSE! Order the 1 lb. tin and you'll be amazed at the saving. Serve it regularly after school or at bedtime. You get extra value in quality and flavourful nourishment.

Quality Leader for 160 Years C118

BAKER'S BRAND COCOA

Fine Points in Cooking Demonstrated by Expert

Mrs. Madeline Day Stresses Value of Milk and Butter in Diet and Preparation of Food in Cooking School at McCarthy Theatre

PRACTICAL RECIPES DEMONSTRATED

Coming to the aid of the busy homemaker who sometimes finds the task of planning three meals every day in the year exhausting on the imagination, Mrs. Madeline Day presented in the McCarthy Theatre on Monday afternoon the first in the series of the 1940 Parade of the Foods, which on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons will continue with further interesting discussions of Canadian Cookery.

Mrs. Day stressed the fact that this was not a cooking school in the accepted use of the term. While many in the audience might be inexperienced in the art of cookery, there were large numbers who were expert cooks. To them, Mrs. Day brought not lessons in cooking but the newest recipes that would brighten up menus on which items appeared so frequently that the family had lost its first rapture in their enjoyment. The foods demonstrated were all of the practical kind which the homemaker could go home and try. All recipes called for common, ordinary ingredients found in the pantry cupboard and were not the variety that caused the cook to read over regretfully knowing it was beyond her budget to experiment with.

Stage Kitchen

The stage at the McCarthy presented an inviting appearance with its "kitchen" equipped with every latest household help, all in snow white. Mrs. Day's appearance was greeted with enthusiasm by the audience and as she welcomed the ladies present and began her discussions her witty and interesting manner won all hearts. Mrs. Day had the happy faculty of turning a serious moment into a gayer mood with her apt humour. In her talks Mrs. Day brought to her audience a wealth of new ideas, besides stressing the fundamentals that make for good cookery at all times.

Assisting Mrs. Day on the stage was Mrs. Reta Goodmurphy while the ushers, in smart white uniforms were, Misses Kay Moorcroft, Shirley Hitchon, Eileen Langridge, and Dorothy MacDonald.

Mrs. Day pointed out that cooking was a matter of greatest importance. Upon health giving meals depended the bodily strength and development of the family. More than ever before are women realizing the responsibility that is theirs and are doing their utmost to prepare nutritious, economical meals.

Value of Milk

The value of milk in the diet should be thoroughly understood by every homemaker. Milk is the nearly perfect food containing every food value and every mineral except iron. Children should have one quart a day and adults one pint. This can be introduced into the diet in custards, soups, cream sauces, and other ways than in the drinking of milk.

"You women of Ontario," said Mrs. Day, "should be proud of the fact that you have been instrumental in making the pasteurization of milk compulsory in this province. If you knew the terrible outbreaks of disease traced to contaminated raw milk you would realize with what reason you should be proud of the legislation that prevents that here."

As Mrs. Day continued her talks she spoke of an interesting contest held in a western city when she worked on a paper. Women of foreign countries were invited to come to the kitchen maintained by this paper and prepare the food for which their country was famous. As she talked with these women Mrs. Day asked them what was the main difference between Canadian cookery and that of their home land. Invariably the answer was that Canadian women lacked variety in flavorings.

Three Flavors

"Here in Canada," they told her, "the women have only three flavorings on their pantry shelf, vanilla, cinammon and lemon. But we use any number." There was much truth in their remarks Mrs. Day added. It is so much easier to add a few flavorings to one's store and have innumerable variety with one basic recipe that women should experiment more.

A basic cake recipe, for instance, could be used as an orange cake, pineapple, almond cake by choosing this flavoring. In the making of cakes Mrs. Day favored the greater use of butter. This dairy product was high in food value, she said, and created greater resistance to disease. Sour milk should not be scorned, as it has almost as much food value as sweet milk and nothing makes better pancakes, waffles or more tender biscuits than sour milk.

Sift Flour Well

To make the cake light and fluffy the eggs should be beaten a long time and the flour thoroughly sifted.

"Don't be like the woman," cautioned Mrs. Day, "who painstakingly sifts and resifts the flour and then knocks the cup on the edge of the table to 'pack' it down, and allow the addition of another spoonful This destroys the whole value of sifting."

If the cook wants to bang about a bit the thing to do is to knock the bottom of the cake tin (filled with batter) on the table, just before putting it in the oven. This breaks up air bubbles which if allowed to remain intact would develop holes in the cake.

The main things to remember in making fine pie crust was to have the shortening and water ice cold to cut the shortening in good sized pieces while blending it and to roll it lightly.

"You are lucky if you are one of those women who can roll out their pastry into a perfect circle to fit the pie tins. Mine usually looks like the map of India" laughed Mrs. Day.

Delicious foods were prepared and baked on the stage. Mrs. Day gave her hearers expert advice on how to make fine textured cakes. light and fluffy pie crust and appetizing rolls, as well as savoury supper dishes. She invited questions and the women brought many problems to her notice. There were some who had interesting suggestions. One of these was the use of cold milk instead of water in pie crust said to make very fluffy crust and Mrs. Day was so intrigued with the idea that she promised to try the method as soon as possible.

Community Singing

During intermission Mr. Cornell delighted the audience with his piano numbers which inspired the ladies to join in community singing Mrs. Day acted as leader and the women enthusiastically took part. An amusing number was the singing of "School Days" when Mrs. Day requested that the ladies sing the line "I wrote on my slate I love you Joe" by substituting the name they had really written on their slates. From the result it appeared that "Jim" was the most popular boy at school.

Mrs. Day discussed the merits of the various products and kitchen equipment used on the stage, giving in an interesting manner the advantages of each.

"Parade of The Foods"

Climaxing the afternoon's program was the "Parade of the Foods" The pretty ushers appeared on the stage carrying trays with mirrored covers in which were reflected the dishes prepared. The lights were dimmed leaving only the brilliantly lighted trays and their delectable dishes gleaming in the darkness. This brought an ovation from the audience, so appealing and artistic was the arrangement of each tray. The girls then went through the aisles and the ladies were able to inspect at close range the results of Mrs. Day's work on the stage. Each item was keenly admired and every person in the audience hoped that she would be the lucky winner of the food prizes.

Prize-Winners

Miss Rose Smith kindly assisted by drawing the names of lucky ticketholders to whom the many fine prizes were present. They were as follows:

Mixmaster, Mrs. Florence Harris, Sidney Street.

Food hampers, Mrs. George Winters, Bleecker Ave., Mrs. Jack Bell, Charlotte St., Miss Mary Brennan, Front Street, Mrs. J. Aronld Thomson, Dundas St., E.; Mrs. E. Colcough, North Front St.; Mrs. E Bunnett; Mrs. E. Crowe, Pine St.; Mrs. Amos Green, Gordon St.; Mrs. E. Armistead, Octavia St.; Mrs. D. Storrey, Foster Ave.; Mrs. J. Brennan, Bleecker Ave.; Mrs. M. P. Buck, Chatham St.

Cake, Mrs. M. E. Hughes, Queen St.

Saucepan, Mrs. D. Grant, Burton St.

Cake, Mrs. D. E. Jeffs, Geddes Street.

Coffee Maker, Mrs. J. F. Thomas.

Food, Mrs. J. Cordes, Yeoman St.; Mary Greenleaf, W. Park St.; Mrs Joseph Tilley, Alexander St.

Rinso—Lux—Mrs. J. Jarvis, Frank St.

Food Hampers—Mrs. M. E. Routley, Murney St.; Mrs. George Sharpe, Corbyville; Mrs. A. J. Swain, Cedar St.; Mrs. M. Stephenson, Gt. St. James St.; Mrs. George Reid, Henry St.; Mrs. Percy Alexander, Bleecker St.; Mrs. Bradford, Catherine St.; Mrs. Gertrude Dennis, Victoria Ave.; Mrs. W. H. Middleton, Turnbull St.; Mrs. T. Cousins, Bleecker Ave.; Mrs. J. Bell, W. Bridge St.; Mrs. H. White, William St.; Mrs C. Carr, 25 Bridge St., E.

Cake, Mrs. Fred Rawson, Bridge St.

Food, Mrs. S. L. Joss, Ann St.; Mrs. G. A. Lee, Cedar St.

Cake, Mrs. E. Palmer, Gordon St.

Christmas cake, Mrs. C. Walter, Catherine St.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Day invited the ladies to return for Tuesday's and Wednesday's sessions.

SHANNONVILLE W. A. BAZAAR

The ladies of the W. A. of Shannonville United Church held their annual bazaar in the church hall on Tuesday, Nov. 27th. The hall looked very attractive, decorated in gay Christmas colors and evergreen trees, large and small and small flags added a patriotic touch.

Tables of homemade cooking, homemade candy found ready sale, in charge of Mrs. Sam Elliott and Mrs. Gammon. A fish pond delighted the children who drew toys, pop corn, etc. Mrs. Saul MacFarlane and Mrs. Stanley MacDonald presided over the fishing. Mrs. Walter Morden and Mrs. Robert MacFarlane were kept busy selling aprons. Mrs. Everett Stratton, Mrs. C. Clarke and Mrs. Orval Stratton presided over a table of miscellaneous articles both useful and pretty A lucky number table from which various articles were drawn for was in charge of Mrs. Frank Doxtator and Mrs. K. B. Vivian.

The long lunch table was looked after by Miss Helen Lazier, Lois Larone, Irene Goodfellow and Jean Whiteman. Lunch was served cafeteria style, each one choosing what they liked, all one could possibly eat for the small sum of 15 cents. Tea was poured by Mrs. Allan MacDonald, Mrs. Charlie Kierl, Mrs. Fred Melborne, Miss Sara Stickney and Mrs. W. Osborne also assisted. Proceeds amounted to $75.50 and the ladies were well pleased with the success of their efforts and wish to thank all who helped in any way by their attendance and patronage.

WEDDINGS

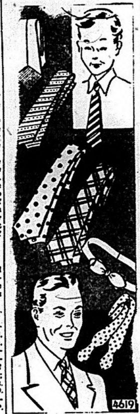
WALT—MONTGOMERY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of Rev. H. Boomhour of Rednersville, in the evening of November 30, when Mabel Kathleen Montgomery, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Montgomery of Ameliasburg, was united in marriage to Howard Elliott Walt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Walt of Consecon.

The bride was becomingly dressed in sky blue chiffon velvet with a corsage of roses. The bride was attended by Miss Nellie Werden in rust crepe with a corsage of bronze baby mums. Mr. Harmon Montgomery, brother of the bride, supported the groom.

Later, the bridal couple left on their honeymoon for Montreal and Ottawa. The bride donned a soldier blue boucle coat and accessories to match.

Ties Make Smart Gifts



Pattern 4619

Stop right here at the men's gift corner, and solve all those "what shall I give him for Christmas?" problems. For these smart ties, Pattern 4619, are designed by Anne Adams to make perfect presents for every man you know, both big and small. They're simple enough for even the most timid beginner to make, and take very little material. There are two styles for men: one a four-in-hand; the other a bow tie which may be made up for everyday or formal wear. The boy's tie is in a slightly smaller size. Follow the cutting chart included in the Sewing Instructor for greater economy in cutting out your fabric. Just three-quarters of a yard will make ties of any style. Order this pattern NOW—in time for Christmas!

Pattern 4619 is available for boys and men. For individual yardages see pattern.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Send your order to The Ontario Intelligencer Pattern Department, 166 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Never Reciprocates for Courtesies

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a girl of 22, deeply in love with a handsome man who seems to have been rather wild in his younger days. Mother does not approve of him, as he comes to our house only when invited to a meal. When we meet in town he never takes me home. I think it is perfectly all right to come home by myself late at night, but Mother says no gentleman who claims to love a girl would allow her to come home by herself late at night. Sometimes I fell like leaving home.

Heartbroken.

From what you tell me about this handsome man, I'm inclined to agree with your mother that he's not a promising specimen. Any real man returns the courtesy of accepting a meal at a friend's house. The one exception to this is when a boy is jobless and a friend likes to show him this courtesy. But for a man to meet a girl in town and let her wander home by herself, late at night, shows definitely that he needs a book on etiquette.

Don't be "heartbroken" over a man of this type.

Loves a Country Boy

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a girl of 20, in love with a boy of 22, who is a regular country boy. I live in the city. They don't have much money, and as he has an older brother, my boy friend doesn't have much authority at home. We met at a church affair and saw each other frequently, but now I find out he has a girl in another city. Also, it seems as if my sister is falling for him, too. He acts as if he thinks more of her than he does of me. Still I'm so deeply in love that I can't eat or sleep.

My mother wants me to forget him and suggests I go to another city. Do you think I should tell him, or should I write him when I reach my destination? Perhaps you'll say I should forget him, but he asked me once to marry him so I think he does like me a little.

Shirley.

That country boy sounds like a charmer to me. You've fallen for him, your sister is aware of his drawing power, and he's said to have a girl in another city.

Also, from your own account, he must have a good dash of fickleness in his composition, because, while he asked you to marry him once, he now seems to be more attracted to your sister. Don't you think it's a mistake to take this boy too seriously? If your mother wants you to go to another city and you have relatives to visit and may meet some interesting people there, I think it would be a good thing. This young man is likely to charm several more girls before he settles down.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

SIGNING NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Every time I have to sign my name I always seem to be in a predicament. For instance, I never know if a married woman should sign her name Mrs. John Smith or Mrs. Mary Smith. I wish you would set me right about this.

Also when should Mrs. be put in parenthesis?

Sincerely yours,
(Mrs.) John Smith

It will help you to clear away your difficulty if you consider the two forms of a married woman's name. The formal name is Mrs. John Smith. This, for example, is the correct form for your visiting cards, the name which should be used on envelopes or packages addressed to you.

The informal usage is Mary Brown Smith or, Mary Smith, and a letter, since it is written in the first person, should be signed with your informal name.

It is never correct for a married woman to sign any kind of letter, like this:

Very truly yours,
Mrs. John Smith

or, even worse,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mary Smith

In general, letters are of three kinds. Those you write to your intimate friends are, naturally, signed with your first name only.

Then there are the letters you write to someone whom you don't know very well, but who does know your husband's first name. This kind of letter is correctly signed:

Sincerely,
Mary Brown Smith

The third kind is the letter to people who must be informed of your formal name, so they can identify you, or so that they will know the name to be used on the envelope of a letter to be addressed to you. This may be a business letter, a professional letter, or a social letter to someone who doesn't know your formal name. It should be signed:

Very truly yours,
Mary Brown Smith (or Mary Smith)
(Mrs. John Smith)

The correct form of signature of your letter to me should be:

Sincerely yours,
Mary Brown Smith
(or Mary Smith)
(Mrs. John Smith)

The entire formal name is put in parenthesis, not just the Mrs.

The most important fact to remember is that you should sign your informal name (Mary, Mary Brown Smith, or Mary Smith) in the direct signature of a letter. Then, if necessary for the information of the person to whom you are writing, add your formal name (Mrs. John Smith) under your direct signature, and to the left of it.

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

More About Heredity

When, yesterday, I suggested that youth should go thoroughly into the background of a prospective mate before setting the wedding date, it was not my purpose to be an alarmist. I didn't mean that if the search uncovers a family weakness or defect which you wouldn't care to see in your mate or children, the marriage should be called off without further consideration. No, the point is that you should always know the dangers. If you do, you can be on guard against them.

I am convinced that one of the greatest of all social developments of recent years are the laws of some States making physical examinations compulsory before the marriage license is issued, and I hope that these requirements will soon affect all United States and Canada. Even if these tests and examinations aren't 100 percent dependable, they will have a great effect on preserving the institution of Marriage, improving the health of resultant offspring.

Some persons seem to feel their rights have been invaded by these examinations. Yet anyone should be happy of assurance of a healthy marriage and children.

Healthy children require healthy parents. That is elemental, as I have said so many times. After the Quintuplets were born, the newspapermen who covered the event were always after me for an opinion as to whether the children would live or not. I told them repeatedly that if the children did manage to live, it would be because their heritage of health pulled them through. Now, six years later, I still credit this.

They come from a long line of sturdy ancestors. On both sides of the house, their forebears were hardy farming people who lived under such conditions that they were exceptionally free from disease and attained great ages.

To families of good character, good character was all important. They insisted upon it in additions to the family and so good character tended to run in families. Of course, there were defects in the systems, too, about which we all know, for the critics have harped on them so much.

Anyway, today parental choice of mates for sons and daughters is virtually a thing of the past in the United States and Canada. The young people don't stand for such interference, as they deem it, in their personal affairs. They make up their own family backgrounds, and then they discover that heredity is a mighty important factor in human relationships.

I'm not suggesting that this is the principal reason for the high divorce rate. I'm inclined to believe the biggest factor is that young people don't have enough patience about anything—they won't wait and see if a marriage can be made to work. The first time it is tested, they throw up their hands and quit. I think, too, that people wait too long to get married, and wait too long after marriage to try to have children, and childless marriages lead to a breakdown of affection.

But our tendencies will correct themselves. Wise, farsighted decisions are difficult in times of great social and political change, particularly when so many have lost their religious beliefs.

FULL 6½ SIZE

SAVE THE CARTON ENDS FROM SUNLIGHT "It's all PURE Soap"

AND GET THESE SPOONS AT LESS THAN ½ USUAL PRICE!

6 Original Rogers Silverplate teaspoons in charming "Allure" pattern for 5 Sunlight Soap carton ends printed with the star and 64¢. Matching knives, forks available. Send to Sunlight, Dept. E-218 Hamilton, Ont.

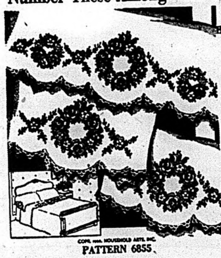
On display in Universal's "Hired puiation worn by Rosalind Russel pointed up with clever stripe mani roma with side saddle draped skirt (L). A clinging formal of blue crepe worn by Virginia Bruce in the posed with cut crystal flowers, is es to the Capitol soon. same production. "Hired Wife" comWife" is this trim grey wool suit

---

Going big for southern wear is the classic tailor-made suit done in cream-colored fine, light Shetland tweed, worn with a black jersey shirt.

Number These Among Your Linens

Household Arts by Alice Brooks



Stitchery May Be Used Separately Or With The Crochet

COPR. 1940, HOUSEHOLD ARTS, INC.

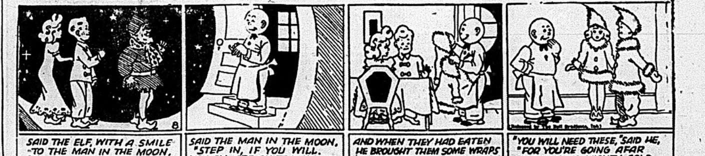
PATTERN 6855

Embroider this design done in easiest stitchery on bed sets—on towels or scarfs and you'll have linens you'll proudly use. Pattern 6855 contains a transfer pattern of a 6 x 22 inch, two 6 x 11 inch and eight 1 3-4 x 2 inch motifs; directions for crochet; illustrations of stitches; materials needed; color schemes.

To obtain this pattern send twenty cents in coins (20c) (stamps cannot be accepted) to The Ontario Intelligencer Household Arts Dept., 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

A VISIT TO SANTA CLAUS—The Man in the Moon

By GEOFF HAYES



8
(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
SAID THE ELF, WITH A SMILE TO THE MAN IN THE MOON, "I'D LIKE YOU TO MEET MY TWO FRIENDS, TED AND JUNE."
SAID THE MAN IN THE MOON, "STEP IN, IF YOU WILL. YOU ALL ARE QUITE WELCOME SO JUST EAT YOUR FILL."
AND WHEN THEY HAD EATEN HE BROUGHT THEM SOME WRAPS ALL TRIMMED WITH WARM FUR AND SOFT FUZZY CAPS.
"YOU WILL NEED THESE," SAID HE, "FOR YOU'RE GOING AFAR AND IT GETS MIGHTY COLD AS YOU NEAR THE NORTH STAR."

BELLEVILLE CITY COUNCIL FOR 1941

RESTRICTIONS TIGHTENED BY TARIFF CHANGES

Use of Ordinary Consumer Goods Whittled Down at Expense of Imports

PROTECT POSITION

By CARL REINKE

Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Ottawa, Dec. 3 (CP)—The average Canadian prepared to tighten his belt a bit today as he looked over the emergency tax and tariff proposals just placed before the House of Commons. He saw that the use of ordinary consumer goods was to be whittled down, chiefly at the expense of imports, in a broad-ranged move by the government to protect the exchange positions of both Canada and the United Kingdom. He began to realize that talk of the diversion of funds and labor to war purposes was more than conversation.

Canada's exchange position, he saw, is to be protected by prohibiting or limiting the importation of a wide variety of non-essentials and durable consumer goods from the United States.

From $70,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year may be saved in American funds by these restrictions but total Canadian purchases there, including war supplies, will reach an all-time high this year.

Britain's exchange position, particularly regarding her continued purchase of war materials in Canada, is to be aided by the relaxing of Canadian tariffs on 15 to 20 per cent of Canada's imports from the United Kingodm.

At home, profiteering will be minimized and consumer demand held down—a major stroke against the threat of inflation—by the imposition of heavy excise taxes on domestically-manufactured durable consumer goods, chiefly household appliances.

Changes Effective Monday

These tariff and tax changes, proposed by Finance Minister Ilsley yesterday, were effective yesterday but do not effect Christmas stocks already held by merchants throughout the country. The excise taxes apply only to manufacturers' sales and manufacturers' prices.

Announcement of these fiscal proposals was preceded by a statement by Prime Minister Mackenzie King on the present war situation. There could be no doubt the Prime Minister said, that the situation for Britain and her allies was "much better today that it was, not only at the time of the signing of the Armistice between France and Germany but as it developed in the months which immediately followed the fall of France".

This was a war of years with inevitable periods of success or reverse which should be viewed with a time perspective. It was increasing in its fury but Britain's strength was also increasing steadily and in the end the war would be won by national character Mr. King said.

The Throne speech debate, suspended briefly for Mr. Ilsley to introduce his finance resolutions, was resumed late in the day and is being continued today by Conservative Leader Hanson. Pensions Minister Mackenzie also may speak. The debate is expected to wind up late tonight or tomorrow, after which consideration of the finance resolutions will begin.

More Than Monetary Significance

The Finance Minister said the measures he was laying before the House for the conservation of exchange had more than a monetary significance.

"By denying ourselves a wide range of imports and by these reductions and removals of duties on British goods, we once more say to Britain and to the world that we are with her and that we have faith in her ultimate success", said Mr. Ilsley.

After reviewing the steps previously taken to conserve exchange for the buying of war supplies in the United States, the Minister said these had been outweighed by the continuous pressure of wartime import demands and immediate steps had to be taken now to curtail the use of hard currency exchange in the purchase of non-essential imports. At the same time he emphasized that the steps being taken were only for the duration of the war.

Prohibition Decided

Since drastic restrictions were required, tariffs were inappropriate and quotas involved too great administrative machinery, he said, so prohibition had been decided on

These were:—

Prepared cereal foods: Florist stock and cut flowers; processed and canned fruits and vegetables (but not currants, raisins, dates, apricots, nor grapefruit juice); preserved fish, certain classes of fiction magazines and comics; consumers' paper items; perfumes, etc.; china and glass; silverware; electrical household appliances, stoves, etc.; bathroom fittings; automobiles; sporting goods and fishing tackle; cameras; music instruments; luggage; all finished clothing or wearing apparel; silk fabrics; ornaments jewellery and precious stones; toys and dolls; and various miscellaneous articles.

On Decreased Scale

Another list of commodities from non-sterling countries would be permitted entry into Canada under licence "temporary but on a decreased scale." This list comprised five major groups: unmanufactured tobacco, automobiles and motor vehicles other than passenger automobiles, hardwoods and veneers and plywood, raw silk and partially manufactured natural silk, and all petroleum products,

The minister explained that these commodities would be admitted for a time in the hope that Canadian industry would adapt itself to the use of other materials involving less drain on foreign exchange.

Use More Domestic Tobacco

It was hoped, for instance, that more domestic tobacco would be in use in Canadian tobacco products; that the furniture industry would use domestic woods in place of imported hardwoods; that gasoline imports could be eliminated by the refining of all Canadian-consumed gasoline in Canada; that the silk industry could swing over from natural silk to artificial fibre.

In not including American fresh fruits and vegetables in the prohibited list, Mr. Ilsley explained, the government was moved by two major considerations—the importance in the national diet of having cheap, abundant supplies of fresh vegetables and, secondly, the possibility of creating difficulties in the marketing of Canadian farm produce in the United States by restricting agricultural imports from that country.

Free Canadian Machines

Admission to Canada of more British goods would not only enable Britain to buy essential war supplies here but would also free Canadian labor and machines for war work and make additional supplies available to Canadian consumers, the Minister continued as he announced amendments to the tariff on British goods. Because British producers' costs were greatly increased by war, he felt Canadian producers could stand this competition. Most Canadian industries affected were enjoying a "very greatly increased demand" on account of the war anyway.

He proposed to remove the duty entirely from British cotton items, all artificial silk items, bituminous coal; jam and marmalade; furniture; gloves and mitts; and some miscellaneous items. Duties would be reduced at the same time on pharmaceutical preparations, soap, earthenware, table cutlery, bicycles, electric motors, rugs, oilcloth, linoleum.

Needed For War Industries

Where imports were restricted, it was not desirable that domestic production of mechanical types of consumers' goods should be expanded to meet the demand created by that restriction, he said further, nor that price and profits should be increased by simply restricting their production. The skilled labor and much of the materials used in such goods would be needed for war industries.

Accordingly, the government proposed new or increased excise taxes on such goods but these taxes were not heavy enough to curtail production beyond the degree made necessary by the labor and material requirements of the munitions and supply department.

How Tax Applies

The Excise Tax on the first $700 of the price of passenger automobiles would be increased from 10 to 20 per cent. with the rates on the value above $700 remaining as imposed last June. The 10 per cent rate on cameras, phonographs, radios and radio tubes would be increased to 25 per cent on the manufacturers' price. A 25 per cent excise tax would also be imposed on electric and gas stoves, refrigerators, water heaters, light fixtures, slot and vending machines, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, toasters, electric grills, irons, curlers, electric razors.

The government would seek power to suspend the import restrictions wherever a domestic manufacturer was found to be exploiting the situation by charging unjustifiably enhanced prices.

The Finance Minister said every effort would be put forward on the positive side to increase Canada's supply of foreign exchange by boosting gold production to the limit, expanding the tourist industry by every possible means and continuing to seek new export markets. To facilitate exports where they might not otherwise take place the government would assist exporters in special cases by special tax allowances for depreciation or depletion of capital assets, or by tax credits where the first two were impossible.

Bulgaria produced about 40,000 tons of tobacco which represents more than 40 per cent of its exports, this year, equalling last year's record production.

I wish to thank the Voters of Belleville for indicating their confidence in me, by placing me at the top of the polls for a second time.

H. J. Clarke

TO THE VOTERS OF BELLEVILLE:

My sincere thanks for your loyal support in electing me Councilman, 1941.

H. J. ARMSTRONG

Please accept my deep appreciation for your loyal support.

H. J. ALLIN

MY DEEP APPRECIATION
TO THE VOTERS OF BELLEVILLE

FOR ELECTING ME
TO THE COUNCIL
FOR 1941.

FRANK FOLLWELL

E. ORMONDE
BUTLER

extends his Sincere Thanks for re-election
as
COUNCILMAN
1941

Thank You!

TO THE CITIZENS
OF BELLEVILLE:

I extend my sincere thanks for your confidence in re-electing me Mayor of Belleville for 1941.

Glencoe E. Thompson

May I extend my deep appreciation to my friends, and the Voters of Belleville for their support in electing me as Councilman for 1941.

C. R. CLAPP

MY SINCERE
THANKS FOR MY ELECTION
AS COUNCILMAN, 1941.

T. H. MARSHALL

Hydro Commissioner

GEORGE A.
REID

UTILITIES
COMMISSIONER
1941

wishes to thank the electors for their vote . . and also to take this opportunity to wish all, a Very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

May I express my sincere appreciation to the Voters of Belleville for their loyal support in re-electing me for 1941.

HARRY ROLLINS

"BILL"
HARVEY

Extends his Thanks for Re-election
for 1941.

T. Derby Jeffery

COUNCILMAN
for 1941.

Extends his Sincere Thanks

R. W. Pringle

Extends his gratitude for his re-election
as Councilman
1941.

THANKS . . .

"Russ" Wotten

A. M. KENNEDY

COUNCILMAN, 1941

EXTENDS HIS
SINCERE THANKS.

Automatic Umpire New Gadget To Be Introduced by Inventor

It is a "Magic Eye" Affair Which Makes Work of Umpire Much Easier

CAN'T TALK BACK

(By Whitney Martin)

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. 3. — (AP)— It was bound to come, folks, and there could only be one source—the sputtering little idea-factory who gave us the pneumatic home plate duster and the jack-in-the-box microphone to pipe player-umpire arguments to the fans.

This time it's the automatic umpire which Ray Dumont, Kingpin of the United States Semi-pro Baseball Congress, is going to introduce at the tournament finals at Wichita, Kas., next August.

It's a "magic eye" affair which, although not doing away with the Umpire entirely, will make his work so much easier that the job will lose much of its hazard.

"The idea is this", Dumont explains. "An electric ray, the exact width of the plate, will make its appearance at the side of the batter. If the ray is not broken by the pitch, it means the ball did not go over the plate or touch any corner. All the umpire has to say is 'ball'.

"If the ball goes over the plate, or any corner, the ray will be broken and a signal on the scoreboard will tell the fans and the impire that the ball was a strike.

"All that the umpire will have to do is judge the height of the pitch. We could get a device to judge that also, regulating the rays in comparison with the height of the batter. We don't want to do that, though, as we still want the umpires. Who would the fans take it out on, and what alibis would a team have, if there were no ball-and-strike umpires?"

The idea is intriguing, and with photo-finishes in horse racing, and football, to take the guess out of the games, there probably is no reason why baseball shouldn't do something to eliminate the element of human error.

However, it may take a lot of spice out of the game, and probably will eliminate the necessity for the Sprouting Mike, except for routine announcements, as the players can't talk back to a light beam.

BOWLING SCORES

"Y" Alleys

Ladies' Afternoon League

Athletics, 3 Points—
Mrs. Rowsome	..137	67	56—280
Mrs. Wardhaugh	181	207	158—546
Mrs. Newman	... 98	183	159—440
Mrs. Weymark	..127	87	55—269
Mrs. P. Smith	..112	109	130—351
Total			1886
Lawn Bowlers, 1 Point—
Mrs. Black	109	139	114—362
Mrs. O'Conner	..121	111	133—365
Mrs. McVeigh	..100	162	120—382
Mrs. Goodfellow	109	105	110—324
Mrs. Argue	169	135	93—397
Total			1830

Recreation Alleys

Major "A"

Belleville Golf, 3 Points — P. Drumm, 657; E. Barlow, 622; T. Hughes, 656; A. Little, 630; J. Legault, 697; Handicap, 66. Total 3328.

Belleville Sargent, 1 Point — G. Darvell, 560; H. Ryan, 586; A. Whalen, 650; C. Shappee, 533; G. Anderson, 777; Handicap, 32. Total 3106.

Ladies' League

Walker Store, 3 Points—H. Booth, 593; I. Turner, 361; E. Bonter, 388; R. Bray, 519; J. Doe, 269. Total 2130.

Corbins Office, 1 Point—H. Reddick, 439; H Lee, 475; E. Mangold, 388; D. Fox, 330; S. Reddick, 371. Total 2003.

Pill Pounders, 0 Points—B. Way, 338; D. Conley, 204; M. Reid, 426; R. Brough, 308; C. Canning, 493. Total 1769.

Strollers, 4 Points—S. Ford, 413; L. Miles, 524; R. Fox, 461; J. Tice, 434; O. Nightingale, 391. Total 2223.

Timber Toppers, 1 Point — P. Davie, 442; T. Cole, 459; I. Duffield, 439; J. Fairbairn, 560; P. Lee, 453 Total 2353.

Just Us, 3 Points—F. Walden, 655; M. Hallam, 539; J. Croft, 478; E. Whalen, 579; B. Doolittle, 510. Total 2761.

Old Kentucky CIGARETTES

BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS

Operated on for appendicitis a few weeks ago George Selkirk, Yankee outfielder, is recovering by "leaps and bounds" at St. Petersburg, Fla., where he winters. George plays golf daily. The Yanks train at St. Petersburg.

Mervyn Red Dutton Would Like to Beat The Boston Bruins

By The Canadian Press

That old warrior, Mervyn (Red) Dutton, would be pleased immensely if his New York Americans, walloped soundly the other night by Boston Bruins rebounded from the defeat to trounce the Bruins tonight in their National Hockey League clash at Boston.

In his hockey-playing days Dutton wouldn't have let a little thing like the 10-3 defeat the Bruins pinned on the Americans bother him for long. It would have only made him fight harder the next time out for Dutton had, and still has, quite a reputation as a man who just wouldn't quit.

That's why he would undoubtedly like to see his charges trim the Bruins in their own lair. Such a feat, admittedly difficult as the Bruins are apparently rolling now after a slow start, would lift Americans from sixth place into a fourth-place tie with their opponents. It would mean leaping over the idle New York Rangers, and that's something else that would bring joy to the Dutton heart.

The Boston-Americans game is the only one scheduled for tonight, while on Thursday the Rangers take on Canadiens at Montreal and Detroit Red Wings invade Chicago for a game with the Black Hawks.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—La Marble, the tennis queen, has just finished eight weeks of football prognosticating with an average of 80 per cent—a mark most of the newspaper experts would be delighted to sport.... Latest product of the rumor foundry—that the Reds are after Eddie Miller of the Bees—can be nailed right on the head.

Mr. Russell Hansen of Tucson, Ariz., rises to remark that at least two of the bowl football teams—Fordham and Nebraska—are "bowled over teams" We merely pass it along.

The Colonels down in Kentucky say there's nothing but Whirlaway in next year's derby, but the Chicago money will be riding on Our Boots.

Today's Guest Star

Jimmy Wood, Brooklyn Eagle: "This Louis-Burman business at least has some merit.... Burman is tough and game...... He's not a great heavyweight, but he won't faint on the stool before the opening round."

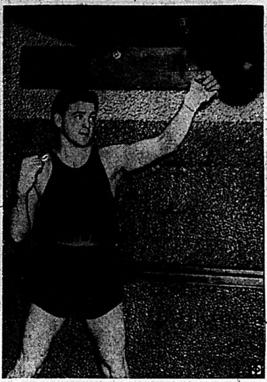
Ban On This

You guys who think Boston Bees are a bargain basement proposition have plenty more thinks coming.. ....President Charles Adams has put $635,000 in the property and it isn't likely he'll sacrifice for any 300 grand—not with chattels like Eddie Miller, Carvell Rowell, Chet Ross, et al, on the roster.

Next year's National League baseball opener in Cincinnati already is a sell-out.

GENTLEMEN!
The GEORGIA SALON
WILL SOLVE YOUR
GIFT PROBLEMS.
226 Front Street
D3-5-7

HE HAS NEXT RING DATE WITH LOUIS



Heavyweight champion of New England, Al McCoy, meets Joe Louis in Boston in December in what has been billed as a title bout. McCoy, who lives in Dorchester, Mass., recently lost a fight to Billy Conn.

SMALL MONTANA BEATEN IN THIRD BY LOU SALICA

Bantamweight Title Holder Directed His Attack at Montana's Ribs

JUST CAVED IN

Montana Knocked Down Nine Times Before Bout is Stopped

Toronto, Dec. 3—(CP) — Somebody told Hymie Caplin that Small Montana had something the matter with his ribs, and that is largely the story of Lou Salica's successful world bantamweight title defence here last night.

Because Caplin, Salica's manager, told his fighter to go out and hammer away at Montana's body. The first punch Salica landed on Montana's ribs made the former flyweight world champion flinch. The second one knocked him down and he went down nine more times before the bout was stopped after 90 seconds in the third round.

It was a murderous sight, to watch Salica popping Montana systematically in the ribs, knocking him down every time he landed a solid punch. Once in the second round Salica abandoned his body attack and then for the only time in the fight Montana looked like the powerful little piece of fighting machinery that dominated the flyweight division a few years ago.

But then Salica went back to his hammering body attack, and the end was inevitable.

Montana acted all through the fight as if his ribs were bothering him. Salica confirmed this. "I tried to be fair, but supposin' it was me had bad ribs," he said. "I wouldn't get much sympathy. Hymie (Caplin) told me to bust him in the ribs right off. I did. It worked so good I kept at it. This is not a racket for a gentleman."

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Baltimore—Harry Jeffra, 126 1-2, Baltimore, featherweight champion in New York and Maryland, outpointed Sixto Escobar, 127, Puerto Rico, (10).

Toronto—Lou Salica, 118, New York, world bantamweight champion, stopped Small Montana, 114, San Francisco (3).

Cleveland—Arturo Godoy, 200, Chile, outpointed Tony Musto, 190, Chicago (10); Pat Comiskey, 200, Newark, N.J., knocked out Don Siegel, 200, Detroit (1).

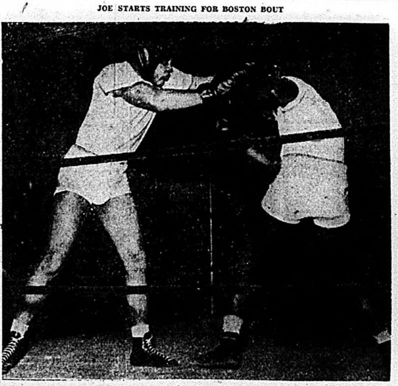
Newark—Pete Lello, 134 1-2, Chicago, stopped Morris Parker, 129, Newark, N.J. (8).

FOUR IN A ROW

Hank Goldup, star wing of the Leafs, was hero of the Leafs-Amerks game at Toronto when the Leafs handed the Amerks a 6-1 defeat. Handuspankus scored four of the six goals.

Seeds grown in a new metal flat are supplied with moisture by water from a tank beneath the soil, preventing them being disturbed by pouring water on them.

JOE STARTS TRAINING FOR BOSTON BOUT



Joe Louis has opened his training at Buckley's gym, Boston, preparatory to his coming bout with Al McCoy at Boston Garden on Dec. 16. ABOVE photo shows Joe in the ring with his sparring partner, Nichols.

HAMILTON GIVEN FIRST DEFEAT BY OSHAWA G-MEN

Motor City Boys Score 5-2 Win to Advance Team in Standings

ST. KITTS WIN

Defeat Niagara Falls by Scoring Six Goals in Last Period

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton's entry in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" group is smarting today under the sting of its first defeat in the current season. The defeat was administered by Oshawa G-men, the close second in league standing, and it was a real one of 5-2 proportions.

The Hamilton team met its first reverse last night at Oshawa. At St. Catharines the St. Catharines Saints came through with a six-goal spurt in the final period of a game with Niagara Falls to win 8-5 and rise to a third-place tie with Toronto Marlboros in the standing.

The Oshawa boys took an early lead when Ritchie netted a goal soon after the game opened and from there on Hamilton didn't seem to have a chance. The score was 2-1 at the end of the first, 4-1 at the end of the second and each tallied once in the third. Ritchie, Carr-Harris, Thompson, Reid and Cooper accounted for the winning points. Lamoureux and Fritz did the scoring for Hamilton.

An excited crowd of home-towners saw St. Catharines come from behind a 4-2 second period score to collect their victory spoils with a withering closing surge.

Capt. Red Reynolds put on a fine display of leadership and accounted for two of the winning goals. Hastie and Backer accounted for two more each for St. Catharines while the others were tossed in by R. Heximer and Mundrick.

Scorers for Niagara Falls were: Stuart (two), McQuade, McPhail and O. Heximer.

Pittsburgh Pirates Buy Stuart Martin

Atlanta, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates began strengthening their club today by purchasing second baseman Stuart Martin from the St. Louis Cardinals in a deal which gave the National League a jump on the American League in winter transactions.

Manager Frankie Frisch indicated a move to make his Pirates pennant contenders next season by labeling the 27-year-old Martin as one of the nation's best utility players and adding:—

"You can't win a pennant without a good utility man."

Martin, who beat Frisch out of the latter's infield job with the Cards, rejoined the former "Fordham flash" again in a straight cash deal. The price was not announced. Martin performed under Frisch three years before Frankie left St. Louis as manager after the 1938 campaign.

Major moguls are here for the convention of the minor leagues.

Business sessions will get under way tomorrow. Some of the approximately 1,400 delegates of both the minors and the majors were surprised to learn that Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis would make one of his rare public appearances at a convention banquet Thursday night to give a "few observations."

FIRPO TRAINING "PAMPAS KID"

"Wild Bull," Who Nearly Won World's Crown, Has Promising Fighter

A WHITE HOPE

Buenos Aires, Dec. 3 (CP)—Luis Angel Firpo, who once fought a two round "lightnin war" with Jack Dempsey, has started life anew here as the mentor of a new pretender from the Argentine to the heavyweight crown of boxing.

The entry is Abel Cestax, 21 years old, 232 pounds. Firpo says Cestax is nimble despite his closely-packed bulk. Cestax merely standing by as Firpo talks, gives an impression of tremendous brute force.

Firpo, himself had the crown almost in his grasp 17 years ago in New York when he knocked Dempsey into a tailspin. The stunned champion landed outside the ring.

Jack came back, however, and ended the tempestuous battle with a knockout in the second round.

Firpo was then billed as the "Wild Bull of the Pampas." It is hard to imagine this in the shy presence of Firpo today. He has a paunch, a double chin and a dim look in his eye.

But the old 1923 spirit is present when he speaks of his "find", a giant farmboy from the fringe of La Pampa Territory, southwest of Buenos Aires.

"His punch," said Firpo, "is 80 per cent more powerful than mine at my best. He is built like Dempsey, only with more muscles and with a longer reach. And he has a chin so small for a big man that you cannot hit it."

Reminiscing with friendly regret of the late "Tex" Rickard, the old "Wild Bull" says:

"I remember he used to say, If I find a man with the build of Dempsey, your punch and a small chin, I'll have an unbeatable champion." I wish he could have seen this boy."

Arturo Godoy Wins 10-Round Decision

Cleveland, Dec. 3—(AP)—Arturo Godoy, satisfied he has staked a claim for a third match with champion Joe Louis, packed his bags today and announced he was sailing Friday for South America—and would return only if Louis agreed to meet him again.

Godoy's manager, Al Weill, said he believed the Chilean's convincing 10-round decision over rugged Tony Musto of Chicago last night placed him in line for another title shot. Godoy battered and pounded Musto and floored him twice in the fifth round—once for no count and again for a count of three.

Godoy said his immediate reason for going to his home in Iquique, Chile, was the serious illness of his mother.

Musto, weighing 190 pounds, was hanging on for the final three rounds but manoeuvred to weather a flurry of Godoy punches. Arturo weighed 200.

FOOTBALL ATTENDANCE UP

New York, Dec. 3—(AP) — With increases in the mid-west, east and far-west more than offsetting losses in other sections of the United States, college football attendance for 1940 rose 2 1-4 per cent over last year.

An Associated Press survey today of 64 representative colleges showed a total attendance of 7,597,342 for 330 games this year. In 1939, 69 schools, playing 317 games, reported an attendance of 7,414,966. The games average, however, this year was slightly under 1939, the figures being 23,391 for 1939 and 22,788 for 1940.

IF HE'S YOUR PROBLEM CHILD . . you'll find HIS GIFT at Quick & Robertson
CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with Ken J. Colling

That man's in again—when Cec Perdue left his sport desk on the Peterboro Examiner to take over the Orderly Room Sergeant's duties with the 4th Field Battery at Peterborough last summer we bid him fond adieu with the customary soldier's farewell salutation. But then bad pennies always return and up pops Sergeant Perdue with a letter to this corner last week. Although army life seems to have shorn him of those lashing key-pounding efforts of yore. Actually we were glad to hear from Sgt. Cec. just as much so as he appeared to be interested in hockey activities down our way, which was aplenty. However, Sergeant Perdue informs us that along with him in the 4th Field Battery are several Peterboro pucksters well known in Belleville ice circles. They are Jim Ellis, Eddie Starr, Les Burton and Bun Kingdom. There are several other good hockey players with the 4th Field Battery and the boys would like to engage in an exhibition game here versus the best we've got. "O.K. Chum, we'll try to accommodate you and yours."

Queen's seniors took over the leadership of the Van Horne series last night by beating Perth-Smith's Falls. However, the Presbyterians are only leading the 3-47th Battery sextette due to the fact the "students" have played one more game. The Artillery lads have won all of their three games, while Queen's are undefeated in four starts. When these two squads meet in the final scheduled game plenty of action is looked for. In the meantime the Reliance Aircraft team meet sturdy opposition tomorrow evening in the Kingston City squad. A win here would just about put the "plane-makers" into the big money. Incidentally Art Black, Trenton's hockey maestro, feels that both Beale and Johnson would work in nicely with the Reliance sextette. Well, for that matter so would Inglis, if he's available from Trenton. Johnson is a younger brother of the reliable Norm Johnson of a decade ago, while Beale showed much promise as a junior. Maybe Skipper St. Louis could spend a profitable evening by journeying to Trenton and signing these two boys, who are just out of the junior ranks and should be ready.

Do you remember when Georges Carpentier, heavyweight boxing champion of Europe, knocked out Joe Beckett, Great Britain's title-holder in Albert Hall, London, 21 years ago today? Beckett went down for the count just 74 seconds after the fight began. It was impossible to accommodate the large crowd, so a system of signals were arrainged. If Carpenter won a green light was to be flashed on top of the hall, but if Beckett won a red light was to appear. Before the news that the fight had started reached the outside of Albert Hall some person looked aloft and there shone a green light indicating a French ring victory. Outside onlookers could scarcely believe their eyes.

It was officially announced today the various local service clubs had donated money to the 3-47th Battery for the purchase of the unit's hockey equipment. The Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs kicked in with $15.00 each, while the Kinsmen Club ponied over $25.00, several of their members being enlisted in the Battery.

Baseball took a special interest in a Hollywood divorce proceedings held recently when Bob (Brown Derby) Cobb and Gail (Movie Star) Patrick dissolved partnership. Both are stockholders in the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast League, Cobb being vice-president. After four years of marriage, Hollywood fans had come to regard theirs as an ideal union, but less than two weeks ago, Miss Patrick filed for divorce after she and her husband had been separated less than three days.

Attorney Victor Ford Collins, president of the Hollywood Club, filed for Miss Patrick. She charged incompatibility. At the hearing, the dark-eyed actress explained:

"You see, your honor, we're both Irish!"

"Divorce granted," thundered Judge William S. Baird.

"I still love baseball and I'll be out there rooting for the Stars every home game next season, just as I have done in the past."

Bill Meyer, one of the most successful managers in New York Yankees' baseball chain, is looking for a better job.

Manager of Kansas City Blues in the American Baseball association, Meyer was given permission by the Yankees last Saturday to seek a major league berth.

"I've been feeling around and have several chances to hook up with a major league team as coach, but I've done nothing yet," Meyer said. "I've gone about as far as I can in the minor leagues, and I figure it's about time for me to get into the majors if I ever do. I'm not getting any younger, you know.

Meyer said: "If a better job comes along I'll take it."

If the present cold snap continues to drive with its unabated fury there'll be skating at the Hume Arena before the end of the week. Ice-maker Pringle has labored long and ardently for the past 72 hours and today a perfect foundation was seen around the Hume Arena ice surface. The presence of snow materially assists in the making of ice, as the snow can be used to knit the less solid points and speed up the ice-making. At any rate the Arena employees are looking for the earliest opening of the local ice igloo this year, since the artificial ice plant did a fadeout.

Leo Goyer, former Belleville junior defenceman and more recently with the Kingston Lions, joined the 3-47th Battery R.C.A. and played in the Van Horne Memorial with the Artillery boys last week. Incidentally we understand Coach Wally Elmer and Goyer had a verbal tiff that resulted in the latter bolting the Lions to prove he could play hockey.

SPORT SLANTS—It's Stanford versus the Nebraska Huskies in the Rose Bowl, and don't be surprised to see the Texas Aggies meet Boston College in the Sugar Bowl...... However, the Minnesota "Gophers" are voted the No. 1 team in American football circles...... Did you hear the one about the "Gophers" sending Michigan Tom Harmon a crate of raspberries...... Seems Harmon said that Michigan, despite a 13 to 7 beating by Minnesota, was at least two touchdowns better than the Gophers...... Along came the raspberries with a note attached.... "For the touchdowns Harmon scored against the Gophers in THREE years".... ....The cutting remark carries this — Harmon never scored against Minnesota in his football career.... Gabby Hartnett, disposed manager of the Chicago Cubs, signed as playing-coach of the New York Giants yesterday.. It's great weather to be talking baseball, or is it?

Start December Right—Advertise Tomorrow

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER WANT AD RATES

Minimum Charge for the first twenty words, per Insertion	30c
Two Insertions	60c
Three Insertions	75c
Over Twenty Word, 1½c per word per insertion.
Box number	extra 10c

Copy accepted until 12.30 noon on day of publication.

Telephone 99.

AUTO FINANCE

AUTO LOANS
REFINANCING

On terms and at rates which you will find suitable to your requirements. Your car is a quick and gilt-edge asset for borrowing. Only the owner signs. Deal with confidence with the largest company of its kind in Canada.

D. H. MARSHALL
17 Bridge St. E. Phone 1073
Representing
CAMPBELL AUTO FINANCE.
Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa

Business Directory

W. A. WATSON
ARCHITECT
Kresge Building.
(Formerly 28 Bridge Street E.)
N15-tf

MINERAL BATHS

MINERAL BATHS AND MASSAGE The finest treatment for Neuritis, Arthritis, Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Colds, etc. Separate parlors for Ladies and Gentlemen. Graduate Nurse. Registered Masseur. Phone 1132. "THE HEALTH INSTITUTE" 231 William St. Belleville.

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist Mineral Fume Baths with oil and alcohol rub; coagulation of tonsils. Radioclast examination, manipulative surgery and suction treatment for sinus conditions. 288 Coleman St., Belleville. Phone 900. Lady attendant.

H. R. and VERA R. PITCHER, Sp.C. Chiropractors, and Drugless Therapists. Adjustments, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment. Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations. Coagulation of Tonsils and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St., East, Belleville, Ont. Phone 1274.

INSURANCE

The thought of Fire loses half its Terrors when you're protected with our Fire Insurance.

SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
LIFE and FIRE INSURANCE
249½ Front St. Phone 492

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1154W

GREAT NEWS!

EASY PAY LOANS
FOR EVERY NEED!

Loans on your Auto, or household. No red tape!

QUINTE FINANCE
and
SECURITIES LIMITED
168 Front St. Phone 168
BELLEVILLE

Screen Clock

BELLE THEATRE TIMES
NORTHWEST MOUNTED POLICE
Gary Cooper, Madeleine Carroll, Robert Preston
2.40 — 7.05 — 9.20

McCARTHY THEATRE TIMES
GOLDEN BOY
Barbara Stanwyck, Wm. Holden
7.30 — 9.40
COOKING SCHOOL CLASS
2.00 p.m.

CAPITOL THEATRE TIMES
MELODY and MOONLIGHT
Vera Vague, Jerry Colonna, Mary Lee
7.10 — 10.15
MEN WITH WINGS
Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland
8.25

WANTED

BICYCLE DELIVERY BOY TILL after Christmas. McBride's Grocery. D3

TWO ENERGETIC MARRIED men with sales and executive ability for large firm of well-advertised products. Local restricted territory. Steady job to successful applicants with references. Mr. Fleming, Queens Hotel, Thursday. D3

CAPABLE FARM HAND BY THE month. Please state wages wanted to Box J, Ontario Intelligencer. D3-2t

GIRL TO ASSIST WITH HOUSE work. Apply Mrs. Gray, 100 West Bridge. D3-3t

WIDOW, ENERGETIC, UNENCUMBERED desires position as housekeeper for elderly gentleman in return for comfortable home. Small remuneration. Box 8, Ontario Intelligencer. D3-3t

BOY 16 - 18 YEARS OF AGE, FOR office work. Fast typist essential. Write, giving references and qualifications to Box V, Ontario Intelligencer. D3-2t

TO RENT, GARAGE IN VICINITY of Forin St. Phone 1796R. D3-2t

CLERK FOR OFFICE, KNOWLEDGE of Bookkeeping, Typing and Stenography preferred. Give references and experience. Box 10 Ontario Intelligencer. D3-2t

MAN TO WORK ON FARM. Thos. Nightingale, R. 7, Belleville. Phone Mt. View 8-1. D3

IMMEDIATELY, SMALL FURNISHED or partly furnished apartment on East Hill. Phone 2007. D3

JOB BY EXPERIENCED TRUCK driver. Apply Bert Juby, 186½ Front St. D2-3t

EXPERIENCED MAID FOR GENERAL housework. References required. Apply Mrs. G. A. Freeman, 230 E. Bridge St. D2-3

FURNISHED APARTMENT, — heated, immediately by two adults, preferably ground floor. Phone 1948. D2-3t

CAPABLE GIRL, 20 - 35, FOND of children, willing to leave city. Apply Box K, Ontario Intelligencer. N30-3t

TO EXCHANGE SPRING MATTRESSES for new or used feathers. Write Box A, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-4t

TO RENT 3 OF 4 ROOM FURNISHED, heated apartment, near business section. Write Box 9, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3t

IMMEDIATELY, SMALL APARTMENT, furnished and heated, by family with two children, vicinity Alemite. Write Box F, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-2t

POSITION BY MAN WITH FOUR years' experience in garage work and acetylene welding. Write Box 4, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3t

MEN WANTED

FAMILEX GETS AND KEEPS ITS dealers through first class service, a complete training and by such quality products that customers can't help but keep on buying. With or without experience an honest hard worker can make his living. Start this independent business with a capital of $50 in an exclusive territory. Build not only for today but for the future. WITHOUT OBLIGATION, ask for details from FAMILEX PRODUCTS, 570 St. Clement Street, MONTREAL. N19-26-D3-10-17-24

NOTICE

The public is hereby warned that Practice Bombing will take place at two ranges on the Bay of Quinte daily between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. from December 1, 1940, to May 1, 1941.

The "danger areas" are enclosed by,—

(a) A circle of 660 yards radius on the Bay of Quinte SOUTH of the Quinte Golf Club.

(b) A circle of 800 yards radius on the Bay of Quinte between Indian Island and the north shoreline of the Bay.

These areas are shown on notices which are posted in the vicinity of each range.

No person is permitted to enter these areas during the period of bombing specified. Red flags and danger signals will be displayed at the land approaches to the danger areas when bombing is actually in progress.

J. S. DUNCAN,
Acting Deputy Minister for Air.
Department of National Defence,
Ottawa, Dec. 2, 1940. D2-3t

TENDERS

The time for receiving Tenders for the new St. Michael's Convent has been extended to 5 p.m., December 11. Tenders should be sent to the architect, James H. Haffa, 96 Bloor St., West, Toronto. D3-2t

EVEN SANTA CLAUS KNOWS THE VALUE OF NEWSPAPER SPACE

—AND IT COSTS SO LITTLE TO GET SO MUCH.

PHONE 99 TODAY

TO LET

SMALL BUNGALOW, HOT WATER heating, hardwood floors. Adults only. Apply 306 Front St. D3-3t

ATTRACTIVELY FURNISHED, Heated four room apartment, rangette and refrigerator. Garage. Private entrance. Phone 1888W. D3-3t

2 OR 3 UNFURNISHED, UNheated roms, ground floor, centrally located, pantry and outshed. Apply 12 Everett St. D3

HEATED, FURNISHED BEDroom or bed sitting room. East Hill. Phone 973J. D3

TWO OR THREE UNFURNISHED rooms, centrally located, suitable for young couple. Reasonable rent. Write Box D, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3t

6 ROOMED HOUSE ON TRENTON Highway; electric, good cistern, garage, not far from Airport. Suitable for young couple. Furnished or unfurnished. Immediate possession. Write Box 7, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3

156 BRIDGE STREET EAST — near Charles Street, desirable semi-detached brick house —living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, den, bath, hot air heating, two coal fireplaces, hardwood floors, garage. Available February 1st. Inspection by appointment. Exclusive agents, Belleville Locators, George N. Gorman, Prop., 166 Front St., Phone 99, House Phone 687. N26-tf

176 BLEECKER AVENUE, SOUTH of Bridge Street; brick house, situated in attractive grounds; large living room with coal fireplace, dining room with coal fireplace, kitchen, wired for range, 4 bedrooms and bath, hardwood floors, full basement, new hot air heating plant, double garage, interior of house newly decorated throughout. This is a very desirable residence. Exclusive agents Belleville Locators, Geo. N. Gorman, Prop. 166 Front Street, Phone 99. House phone 687. N22-tf

TENDERS

Tenders will be received by Oak Leaf Cheese and Butter Company at Cooper, for manufacture of cheese and butter for season 1941. Factory is equipped with electricity. Refrigeration installed. Tenders will be accepted until December 7, 1940.

FRED MOORCROFT, Pres.
Madoc, R. 3, Ont. Phone 102r1-5
N30-3t

ROUND TRIP
BARGAIN FARES
DEC. 6-7-8

from BELLEVILLE	to
TORONTO	$ 2.85
Chatham	$ 7.35
Goderich	$ 6.10
Hamilton	$ 3.85
Owen Sound	$ 5.85
Parry Sound	$ 3.75
Schreiber	$ 19.70
Sudbury	$ 9.25

and many intermediate points
For train service, return limits, etc., consult agents. Ask for handbill.
POOL TRAIN SERVICE.
CANADIAN PACIFIC CANADIAN NATIONAL
N30-D3-5

BUSINESS LINERS

FULLER BRUSHES make useful Christmas Gifts. Phone 744J for illustrated catalogue. Dick Terry, 257 Bleecker Ave. D3-3t

FOR SALE

BOY'S LEATHER JACKET, SIZE twelve years; skates and boots, man's, size 6; lady's, size 5; girl's size 2. Apply 179 William St., evenings 6 - 8. D3-3t

REGISTERED HOLSTEIN BULL, 20 months old, son of Twenty Thousand pound Bull, blood tested and accredited. Would accept steers or Jarrow heifers. Raymond Norton, Bloomfield. D3

7 TUBE ROGERS ELECTRIC console radio, good condition, cheap for cash or exchange for hardwood. Phone 1388J. D3-3t

SOFT WOOD SLABS, 4 CORD load, $18.00; also body soft wood. For particulars write H. C. Lloyd, Phone Belleville 1222. D3-6t

USED CAR PARTS, BATTERIES, used 21-inch tires, also 20-inch and 19-inch. Reasonable. Ford A Roadster; Star Sedan; used bicycles. Pigden's Garage, opposite Crystal Hotel. D3-2t

100 HAMPSHIRE REDS, PULLETS, laying, also 30 bushels carrots. Apply 72 Frank St. D3-2t

30 OR 40 LAYING HENS, ONE year old. Phone 272r2-2. D2-3

BEECH AND MAPLE HARDWOOD, also quantity of mixed wood. Further details apply J. Demore, Flinton, Ont. N30-4t

TUXEDO SUIT, ALMOST NEW. Size 38. Reasonable. Phone 731. N30-3t

BEATTY WASHER, USED, $15.00. David Electric Shop, 340 Front St. N20-tf

LOST

PURSE ON FRONT STREET, BEtween McIntosh Bros., Quick and Robertson and C.D.S. Good reward. Phone 1322W. D3-3t

ONE TIRE CHAIN, IN OR CLOSE to the city. Reward. Bishop's Seed Store. D3

FOUND

BLACK SHORT-HAIRED DOG white markings, wearing collar. Phone 454W. or call at 219 Bleecker. D3

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, December 3

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A STUBBORN chain of adverse configurations among the important planets is observed in this day's astrological chart. Opposition, antagonism, resistance and obstruction may be expected to challenge the utmost powers and talents for overcoming forces for impediment, defeat and hostility. The major conflict may come from elders or old institutions.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which their highest powers for resistance, struggle and fortitude may be called upon to triumph over a succession and variety of antagonistic, undermining and frustrating circumstances, having unhappy reactions on the most intimate relations in life. The emotional upset may be outstanding, calling for especial discretion.

A child born on this day will have a very contradictory nature, with many conflicts and struggles beneath a surface of serenity and restraint. While moody or reserved it will be sociable, friendly and sympathetic.

For Wednesday, December 4

A DAY of curious, unforeseen and exciting circumstances is predicted by the involved lunar and mutual aspects. Under an urge to do abrupt, irregular and erratic things in trying to adjust the unusual state of affairs it is likely that the dangers and dilemmas will be exaggerated and prove more complicated. Impetuous, wayward and eccentric moves are particularly unfortunate as they are impelled by an excited and irresponsible state of the mind.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthdays it is are on the eve of a year of peculiar, extraordinary, perhaps, spectacular experiences and adventures. Strange, revolutionary and abrupt visitations may prove disastrous and uprooting unless managed by a well-ordered, shrewd and capable mind—which had best be sought in superiors or elders. Be particularly cautious with signatures.

Connor Washers
Frigidaire
ELECTRIC RANGES and REFRIGERATORS
May be bought for
17c a Day
from
Walker Hardware
COMPANY LIMITED
248-250 FRONT ST.
N29-3t

BELLEVILLE LOCATORS

Own Your Own Home!

TALK IT OVER! THEN SEE
Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, Prop.
Licensed and Registered Real Estate Brokers and Associate Members of The Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards.
166 FRONT ST. Opp. City Hall

GET A $100 LOAN
Repay $7.78 a month
$20 to $300 Loans—No Endorsers
Loans made on furniture or auto. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. Money usually the same day.
GUARANTEED PAYMENT TABLE

Cash Loan You Get	Amount You Pay Back Each Month Including All Charges
	4 mos. loan	8 mos. loan	12 mos. loan	15 mos. loan
$ 30	$ 7.88	$ 4.10	$ 2.84
50	13.13	6.83	4.73
80	21.01	10.92	7.56
100	26.26	13.65	9.46	$7.78
125	32.83	17.06	11.82	9.73
150	39.39	20.48	14.18	11.67
200	52.52	27.30	18.91	15.57
300	78.79	40.96	28.37	23.35

Instalments based on prompt repayment and include charges of 2% per month as authorized by the Small Loans Act, 1939. We guarantee there is nothing else to pay. Phone or call to apply.

HOUSEHOLD FINANCE
CORPORATION OF CANADA
PETERBOROUGH, ONT.
Second Floor, Lansfield Block
177 Charlotte St., Opp. Loblaws
M. E. Holt, Manager Phone 5841

1941 CALENDARS
NOW READY for the Policyholders of the
BAY OF QUINTE
FIRE INSURANCE CO.
C. W. BURR
219 Front St., Belleville
D3-eTu

DOCTORS CHECK KIDNEYS FIRST

Because they know that healthy Kidneys remove from the blood the waste matter —the excess acids and poisons, formed by the ever-changing human body as it decays and rebuilds itself. But if the Kidneys fail, illness surely follows. Backache, Rheumatic Pains, Impure Blood, Lack of Energy, Too Frequent Urination, Sleeplessness, Headaches—all may result from faulty kidneys. As a health safeguard —as a wise precaution—regulate your kidneys frequently with Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over fifty years the favorite Kidney remedy—non-habit forming. 108

Dodd's Kidney Pills

ACCURATE WORK saves you money. We realize that printing inaccuracies are just as expensive to you as they are to us. Proofs at The Ontario Intelligencer are triple checked for errors before the final forms are set up—your insurance against delay!

Ontario Intelligencer Job Printing

AT THE BELLE

"North West Mounted Police"

Gary Cooper and Madeleine Carroll, cast in the sort of romantic roles which brought them to screen fame—he as Dusty Rivers, a Texas Ranger, and she as April Logan, a gallant nurse—are the starring duo who head the huge cast of Cecil B. DeMille's "North West Mounted Police" now playing at the Belle and the first epic by the master producer-director to have been made entirely in Technicolor.

In keeping with the magnitude of his stars, DeMille has assembled an outstanding group of starring players. Heading the list are Paulette Goddard, cast as Louvette, fascinating, tempestuous Indian girl; and Preston Foster and Robert Preston as Sergeant Jim Policemen. Among the others are Akim Tamiroff as Duroc; Lynne Overman in a comedy role as Tod McDuff; George Bancroft as the chiefest heavy, Corbeau; Lon Chaney, Jr. as a half-breed, Metis, and Walter Hampden as Chief Big Bear.

Always one to choose an important theme for his pictures, DeMille has elected to demonstrate the fortitude and courage of the Mounted in this picture. As a basis for his plot, he has selected the famous Riel incident—the attempt of one Louis Riel played by Francis McDonald in the picture, and thousands of half-breeds under his leadership to run the Mounted Police out of Canada and to govern themselves.

The story which DeMille unfolds in "North West Mounted Police" has epic proportions, and no condensed version of it can possibly convey all the excitement spectacle, romance, humor, gusto and sheer motion picture magic packed into it. It moves along quickly after the Metis, led by Riel, Duroc and Corbeau send their demands to Inspector Cabot (Montagu Love), at Fort Carlton, asking for an answer in twenty-four hours.

Mounted to Fight

The only course open to the courageous Mounted is to resist the Metis and attempt to keep them from gaining the Cree Indians as allies, even though there are only fifty Mounted at the Fort, and five hundred in all Canada. Their procedure is resolved when April, nurse at Batoche, where the Metis are organizing their rebellion drives into the Fort with two Mounted Policemen in a wagon—one dead and the other mortally wounded.

Present when she arrives is Dusty Rivers, a ranger from Texas, sent out to get a murderer who has fled to Canada. Clues prove that the men were shot by Corbeau—the man Dusty has been sent after, too.

During the session at the Fort, the two romances of the picture are clearly defined. It becomes evident immediately that Brett worships April, and it takes Dusty just about a single meeting to realize that he would like to know her much better. And several other scenes establish the fact that Ronnie can't resist Louvette.

The narrative progresses from this point along several strong lines, with Dusty, McDuff and April proceeding to Batoche where Dusty hopes to apprehend Corbeau, and with Brett going to the camp of the Crees to persuade Big Bear to stay out of the rebellion. A tremendous climax is reached shortly thereafter as the Mounted run into an ambush wherein most of them are slaughtered by the Metis.

Other outstanding aspects of the production, in addition to the magnitude of the cast and the epic quality of the story are the photographic backgrounds provided by the skill of DeMille and a huge corps of assistants, and the perfection of the Technicolor, particularly effective in this production because of the colorful backgrounds and uniforms.

The Belle News of the Day will be exhibited on the same program.

AT THE McCARTHY

"GOLDEN BOY"

Featuring charming Barbara Stanwyck with William Holden and Adolphe Menjou, Columbia Studios outstanding production "Golden Boy" is now showing at the McCarthy Theatre in addition to latest Fox News events and a funny technicolor cartoon novelty entitled "Crop Chasers." Due to Cooking School Classes during the afternoon the above splendid screen show is only presented each evening.

"Kit Carson"

Filmed against the spectacular backdrop that is Monument Valley in Kayenta, Arizona, 180 miles from the nearest railroad station, Edward Small's adventure spectacle, "Kit Carson" will have its first Belleville showing at the McCarthy Theatre this week-end, through United Artists release. Directed by George B. Seitz, the stellar cast is headed by Jon Hall, star of "South of Pago Pago" and "The Hurricane," supported by Lynn Bari, Dana Andrews, Ward Bond and Harold Huber. Its action-filled story unwinds some of the spectacular episodes in the life of the great adventurer who joined forces with John C. Fremont to survey the map the shortest overland route to California, in the days when travel often meant fierce attacks from the Indians.

When Producer Small decided on Kayenta as his location site, he sent his aides to consult with the council for five elders who rule the destinies of the Navajo Nation. After they had been informed that hundreds of Indians would be given employment in building the camp, maintaining it and then working as extras in the picture itself, they made the recommendation which was necessary before the superintendent from the United States Indian Service could give his approval for the picture to be photographed on the Navajo reservation.

With 300 people in the "Kit Carson" company encamped at Kayenta for a month, there was a great deal of trade in various Indian wares, such as rings, bracelets, dolls, Navajo blankets and bead work of all kinds. This was especially true at the Navajo Indian hospital, where tuberculosis patients pass seemingly endless days by working on such articles. The funds from sale of these goods goes to the patients who have done the work.

The Indians were not acquainted with all of the food they were given. For instance, there was custard pie. An Indian picked up a slice, put it between two slices of bread and enjoyed a novel sandwich. Jon Hall noticed that the cooks were handing out little pig sausages to the Indians. He was extremely surprised, to say the least, to notice that the Navajo braves were trying to light them, thinking they were cigars. Hall showed them the trick of taking a bite instead of a puff, and the Indians were quite happy about the whole thing.

Navajo Indians all have established names in their own language, but they frequently change their English names, usually taking the name of some famous person or place. One squaw was asked her name so that it could be entered on the payroll. Quite calmly she said she was Ann Sheridan. A wrinkled brave, well into his sixties, said his name was Clark Gable. Indian Service officials predicted that after the departure of the "Kit Carson" troupe, Kayenta would be full of people named John Hall, Lynn Bari, Dana Andrews, Ward Bond, Clayton Moore, etc.

IN MEMORIAM

JUBY—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Floyd Irwin Juby, who passed away December 3, 1939.

Surrounded by friends, we are lonesome,
In the midst of pleasure, we're blue,
A smile on our face, still a heartache
Thinking, dear one, of you.
There are griefs that cannot find comfort,
And wounds that cannot be healed.
There is a sorrow deep in our hearts
That cannot be half revealed.

—Ever remembered by Father, Mother, Brothers and Sisters. D3

JUBY—In loving memory of Floyd Irwin Juby, a dear husband and father, who passed away one year ago today.

—Sadly missed by His Wife and Sons. D3

DEATHS

THOMPSON—In Madoc Village on Monday, December 2nd., 1940, Mary Jane Thompson, widow of Archibald Thompson, in her 89th. year.

The funeral will take place from her late residence on Thursday, December 5th., to Trinity United Church, Madoc, for service at 2.30 o'clock (D.S.T.) D3

AT THE CAPITOL

"Melody And Moonlight"

A new musical from the ingenious Republic studios is now playing at the Capitol Theatre to a packed and enthusiastic house. "Melody and Moonlight"—all that its name implies and more—presents a most refreshing array of songs and dances, tied together with a cheery and entertaining plot that is sure to please the most critical audiences.

Johnny Downs, always a favorite, is right at home in his role, as the poor but ambitious hoofer who dreams of seeing his name in electric lights while he plugs away at the mundane task of earning his living by working as bellhop in a large metropolitan hotel.

Jane Frazee is warm and appealing as the bored debutante who goes to a taxi dance hall seeking adventure, and learns, to her dismay, that she has found love.

Little Mary Lee, the youngster who first achieved fame as a singer with Ted Weems' orchestra and later as a permanent singing fixture in the Gene Autry pictures, wins many new friends through her sympathetic role of the hoofer's younger sister, who is "little mother" to an entire household of down-and-outers, cooking for them, sewing for them, and keeping them constantly cheered up with her gay philosophy.

Comedy sequences are supplied by those two wacky individuals, Barbara Jo Allen ("Vera Vague" to her radio fans) and Jerry Colonna. Supporting roles are ably handled by Jonathan Hale, Claire Carleton and Frank Jenks.

The added attraction is "Men With Wings."

The man who made the most sensational airplane picture of the silent days, "Wings" produced and directed Paramount's Technicolor epic of the air, "Men With Wings," now showing at the Capitol. He is William A. Wellman, who, in addition to the never-to-be-forgotten "Wings", filmed two outstanding recent successes, "A Star Is Born" and "Nothing Sacred."

A flying ace himself, Wellman is thoroughly acquainted with every detail of planes and knows as well as any man in Hollyood the psychology and personality of fliers. During the filming of "Men With Wings" the most elaborate air picture ever made, he personally interviewed all stunt fliers before hiring them for roles in the film, supervised the collection of famous types of planes, and often took to the air himself to film a particularly tricky sequence.

"Men With Wings" tells a romantic story of three young pioneers of the airways who are caught in the surging current of aviation's march to triumph and whose lives are bound up with the progress of flying. Fred MacMurray, switching from the light comedy roles which have characterized him in a dozen pictures, plays the dramatic lead, teamed with Ray Milland and Louis Campbell.

"Feels Years Younger" Since Taking Syntona

Says Stomach and Nerves Felt Better After First Bottle. Continued Treatment Brought Relief from Backache, Leg Pains, Headaches and Dizzy Spells.

MR. JAMES CORNEY

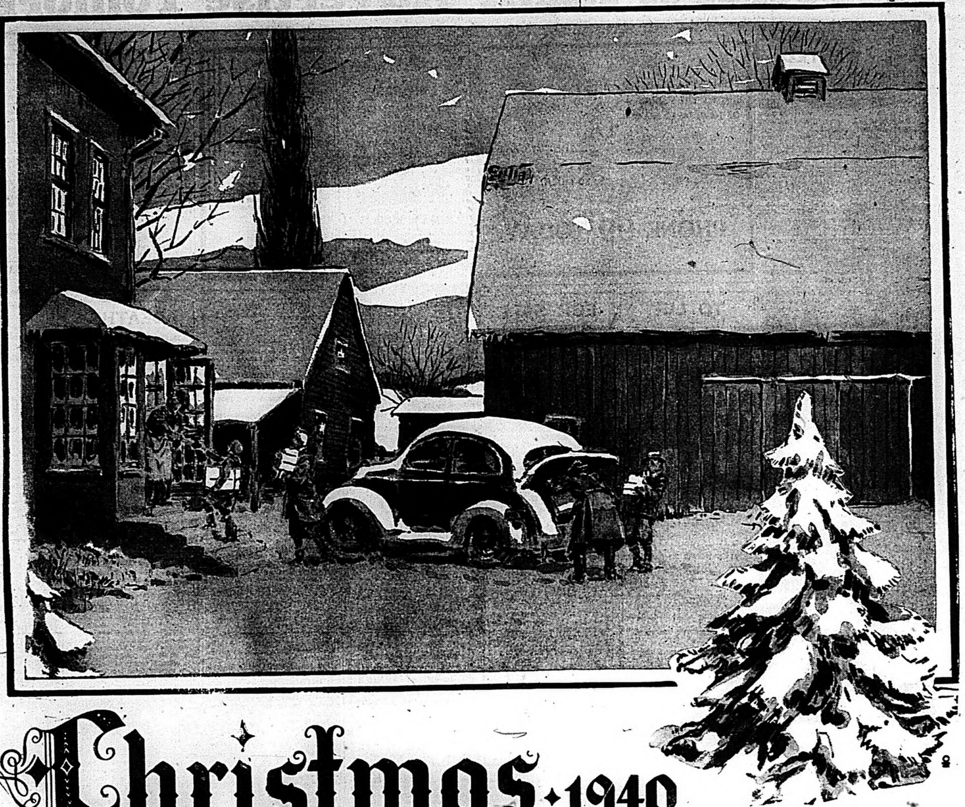
"If I had known about Syntona sooner, I could have saved myself from a lot of suffering," said Mr. James Corney, well-known Hamilton man, residing at 269 Wilson Street.

"For six years my stomach was in such a disordered condition that I suffered after every meal with gas, indigestion, acidity and heartburn. At night I would roll from one side to another trying to get to sleep, but there was a constant discomfort from gas and a burning feeling in my chest and throat. The acids from my stomach must have gone all through my system, for I developed pains in my back and legs and I had frequent headaches and spells of dizziness. I felt tired out, nervous and listless because I wasn't getting my proper sleep.

"Of all the medicines I tried nothing gave me any real relief until I began taking Syntona, but it helped my stomach and nerves right from the first bottle. I have now taken six bottles and I really feel years younger. I enjoy my meals wherever I go and have no gas or indigestion afterwards. The pains have left my back and limbs and I am free of those backaches and dizzy spells."

Let this grand herbal tonic help you, as it has hundreds of other local men and women. Syntona is pleasant to take and it contains no harmful drugs or depressors.

Syntona is now being introduced in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist. Find out how it can help you, too.



Christmas · 1940

IT'S going to be a great Christmas. In spite of war, in spite of so many of our boys being away from home, we are all going to think more about the real significance of Christmas and "Peace on Earth" than ever before. The gift problem will be an easier matter for many too, because employment conditions are vastly different from what they were for the past few years. Belleville stores have prepared for a busy Christmas season . . . and with only about three weeks left it is certainly going to be a trying time for all concerned.

In order to simplify the matter of gift selecting, which must come before the gift giving, the weekly Christmas Shopping Guide of The Ontario Intelligencer filled with gift ideas new and old, will appear each Thursday until Christmas. Watch for it. Go through it carefully and you will find your gift problem greatly simplified by its many suggestions. Make up your list before you leave home and you will find that you will save hours of tiring work in searching from store to store and counter to counter. Let the Thursday Ontario Intelligencer help you solve your Gift Problems.

Santa Claus Parade in Belleville Saturday December 7th
2 P.M.

The Ontario Intelligencer

STOCK MARKETS

QUOTATIONS FURNISHED BY BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD.
J. R. Poets, Branch Manager.

Quotations at 2.00.

MINES
Ajax	16
Aldermac	15
Anglo Hur	225
Aunor	210
Bankfield	7 1-2
Beattie	109
Bidgood	12 1-2
Big Missouri	5 1-2
Bralorne	975
Broulan	84
Buffalo Ank.	450
Calgary and Ed.	145
Can. Malar.	50
Central Pat.	190
Chesterville	125
Coast Copper	135
Coniaurum	136
Dome	24
Eldorado	34 1-2
East Mal.	267
Francoeur	48
Falconbridge	245
Gillies L.	4
Gunnar	36
Hardrock	100
Home Oil	235
Hollinger	13 1-8
Howey	31
Hudson Bay	26 1-2
Kerr Add.	360
Kirk Lake	96
Lapa Cad.	15 1-4
Lake Shore	19 1-2
Leitch	51
Little L. L.	225
Macassa	365
McIntyre	48 1-8
McLeod	230
McKenzie	119
Mining Corp.	83
Moneta	54
Nipissing	105
O'Brien	115
Okalta	78
Omega	16
Paymaster	24
Pamour	140
Perron	171
Pend Oreille	188
Pickle Crow	293
Pioneer	210
Powell	104
Premier	86
Preston E. D.	320
Reno	16
Royalite	23 1-4
San Antonio	250
Sherritt G.	83
Siscoe	49
Sladen M.	43
Sud. Basin	138
Sullivan	58
Steep Rock	136
Sylvanite	260
T. Hughes	320
Tex. Can. Oil	127
Toburn	129
Ventures	295
W. Amulet	360
Wr. Hargreaves	710
U. Can.	183

TORONTO
Bell Telephone	157.
British American Oil	18½.
Brewing Corporation	115.
Brazilian Traction	5⅜.
Canada Bud Brewery	4⅜.
Canada Cement	6½.
Canada Dredge	18.
Can. Industrial Alcohol	185.
C.P.R.	5¼.
Canada Malting	38¾.
Canada Vinegar	7½.
Canada Car	8⅜.
Cockshutt Plow	5.
Cons Bakeries	14.
Con. Smelting	39.
Dominion Foundries	23½.
Dominion Stores	5½.
Distillers Seagrams	25⅜.
Fanny Farmer	27½.
Ford "A"	16½.
Gypsum	3⅜.
Imperial Oil	9⅜.
International Nickel	34⅜.
Inter Petroleum	14½.
Imperial Tobacco	13½.
Loblaw	26.
Massey Harris	3½.
Montreal Power	28½.
McColl Frontenac	5¼.
Power Corporation	6.
Price Bros.	12¼.
Steel of Canada	73½.
Shawinigan	17½.
Walkers	42½.
Walkers Preferred	18½.
Walkerville Brewery	65.
C.P.A.	4⅜.

NEW YORK
American T. and T.	165 3-4
Anaconda	27
Bethlehem Steel	86
Chrysler	76 1-2
General Electric	33 1-8
General Motors	49 3-4
Inter. Telephone	2
North American	16 3-4
Montgomery Ward	37 3-4
Phillips Pet	39 5-8
Radio	4 7-8
Standard Oil of N. J.	34 1-8
Standard Brands	6 7-8
U. S. Steel	67 5-8
United Aircraft	42 1-2
Vanadium	33 3-8
Westinghouse	103 1-2

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP).—The gold stocks on Toronto Exchange today had an advance of .87 in the index by noon and this was the only change in the list that might be traceable to the budget changes announced yesterday. Evidently there had been some fear that the extra income arising from the premium on United States dollars might be attacked. Gains up to 20 cents were posted among the medium-priced golds. Western oils were slightly higher, base metals slightly lower and the industrials held unchanged.

Goodyear Tire referred and Canadian Celanese were up ½ to ¾ but these gains were offset by losses in the foods, including Blue Ribbon Preferred, Consolidated Bakeries, Dominion Stores and Loblaw B.

Calgary and Edmonton gained 8 cents to 1.48 and Home Oil 3 cents to 2.35.

WALL STREET

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—The stock market resumed its do-nothing position today as outstanding buying or selling incentives seemingly were lacking.

Among early wavering stocks —a few stiffened eventually—were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Western Union, Kennecott, Chesapeake & Ohio, United Aircraft and Du Pont.

Mild resistance was displayed by Loew's, U.S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck and Allied Chemical.

Canada's announcement of drastic restrictions on imports from the United States, principally consumer goods, was received with composure in boardrooms. This had been predicted and it was realized the dollar exchange conserved would be spent in the United States mainly for armament materials.

Canadian issues slanted down. McIntyre Hiram Walker, Distillers Seagram and Lake Shore Mines each lost 1-2 point. Canadian Pacific dipped a smaller fraction while Dome Mines held steady.

LIVESTOCK

Montreal, Dec. 3—(CP) — Grass calves sold down 25 cents but other classes of livestock held unchanged today.

Receipts: Cattle 103; sheep and lambs 92; calves 176; hogs 1,014.

Heifers ranged from $3.50 to $6.25, according to quality. A few good cows made $5.50, mediums $4.50 to $5 and common butchers down to $3.75. Canners and cutters sold between $2.75 and $3.50 and common bulls from $3.75 to $4.25.

Veals brought $8.50 to $11, with a few choice ones fetching $11.50. Grassers sold down to $4.50 and $4.75.

Good ewes and wethers fetched $10, culls and bucks $8 and sheep $3.50 to $6.

In the hog market, B-1 dressed made $11; B-1 alive, fed and waterer, $8.25 to $8.35 and off trucks up to $8.50. Grade A drew $1 premium with discounts made on off grades. Sows made $5 to $5.50 with a few young ones bringing $6.

Toronto, Dec. 3 —(CP)— Cattle trade was fairly active at generally steady to strong prices up to midsession at the livestock market here today. Veal calves, lambs and sheep were steady. No price was established for hogs but indications were it would be firm. The holdover from Monday was 900 head of cattle. Today's supply included 500 stockers.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle 720, calves 180, hogs 630, sheep and lambs 460.

Prices in the cattle section were: Weighty steers $7.25-$9; butcher steers and heifers mostly $6-$8.35; butcher cows $4.25-$5.50 with a few at $5.75; canners and cutters $5-$4; a few butcher bulls $5-$5.50; fed calves $9-$10.50.

Calves sold at $10.50-$11.50 for choice vealers with common heavies selling downward to $6. Grass calves brought $5-$5.50.

Lambs sold at $9.75-$10 for good ewes and wethers with other grades from $7-$9.50.

Sheep sold at $2-$5.50.

Hogs closed previously at $10.85 dressedweight and $8.15 liveweight.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Dec. 3—(CP)—Dressedweight were up 10c at Brantford and prices were unchanged at Hull and Stratford in baconhog markets reporting early today.

plus transportation, Hull $10.30

Dressedweight: Brantford $10.35 Stratford $10.25 plus transportation.

Limited Offerings Lift Butter Prices

Toronto — Good demand for limited offerings kept the butter trend rising and the Ontario product sold at the highest levels of the current year on the Toronto open produce market yesterday. Fresh egg prices remained weak.

Buyers purchasing for their own requirements easily absorbed continued light available supplies on the butter market and brought about still higher prices. The first grade Ontario product moved through wholesale channels yesterday morning at 31½c a pound, but in afternoon dealings the price was raised to 31¾c. Even at this level holders did not offer too freely. Prints to the retail trade ranged higher in sympathy with solids, selling at 32¾c to 33¼c for top grades.

Fresh receipts were ample for the slow trading on the egg market. Dealers again reduced prices in both sections in an effort to stimulate sales. Lower-grade eggs maintained a steady tone. Satisfactory movement of storage eggs is reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. It now appears that the disposal of these stocks will be completed earlier than has been the case for some years, helped materially by the heavy export sales.

Montreal Produce.

Montreal, Dec. 3—(CP)—Produce market prices here, as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

Butter: First grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 32½c-33; first grade solids, jobbing price, 32c-32½c.

Eggs: Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 39; A-medium, 36; A-pullets, 35; A-large, original, 31; B-original, 30; C-original 24½. Receipts, 259 cases.

Produce Markets

Toronto—Wholesale prices (Ontario Department of Agriculture) today were:

EGGS
A-large	.39-.40
A-medium	.37-.38
A-pullets	.38
Grade "B"	.36-.37
Grade "C"	.28

BUTTER
Butter, No. 1	.31 1-2 .31 3-4
Butter, No. 2	.30-.31
Churning Cream No. 1	.31
Churning Cream, No. 2	.28

POULTRY

(Dressed)

Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.21
Chickens, Grade "A"—
Over 5 lbs.	.19
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.18
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.17
Fowl—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 lbs.	.12
(Live Poultry)
Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.18
Chickens—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.12
Fowl—
3 to 4 lbs.	.10
Over 5 lbs.	.12
4 to 5 lbs.	.11
Ducks—
5 lbs and over	.19
Under 5 lbs.	.18

ANGLO-SPANISH AGREEMENT HAILED AS BENEFICIAL

Spanish Funds in London Will be Freed to Permit More Purchases in Sterling Area

PURELY ECONOMIC

London, Dec. 3 (CP).—The new Anglo-Spanish financial agreement was hailed in London today as a favorable sign that a larger trade pact with that strategically important country might be concluded shortly.

It is understood that progress has been made in the trade negotiations, which have been under way for some time, largely due to Gen. Francisco Franco's personal interest in them.

Under the agreement announced yesterday Spanish funds frozen here will be freed to permit a larger volume of Spanish purchases in the sterling area.

It is emphasized that the agreement is purely economic and that no political clauses or understandings are attached. However, it is obvious that Spain concluded the arrangement fully aware that its benefits would cease were she to throw in her lot with the axis.

A high government leader commented that "Spain wanted butter and the axis offered only bayonets".

OBITUARY

MRS. HELEN D. McGUIRE

Mrs. Helen Douglas McGuire, widow of Charles McGuire, and mother of Mr. A. H. McGuire, McDonald Avenue, Road Superintendent for the Township of Thurlow, died at New Liskeard, Ontario, this Tuesday morning.

The late Mrs. McGuire was born in the Old Country, her maiden name being Henderson. She had reached the advanced age of 96 years. Seventy-two years ago she came to this district with her family and they drove in wagon over exceedingly rough roads to L'Amable in North Hastings, where they settled. Mrs. McGuire was one of the pioneers of this county. Twenty-five years ago she left this district to reside in New Ontario. She was a woman of fine character and great courage and in the esteem of all who knew her she held a high place. In religion she was a member of the United Church.

Surviving her are six sons, Mr. John McGuire of Youngstown, Ohio; Mr. William McGuire of New Liskeard; Mr. Charles McGuire of St. Joseph's Island, Ontario; Mr. Andrew McGuire of Youngstown, Ohio; Mr. Alex H. McGuire of Belleville, and Mr. Edmund McGuire of Cobourg; four daughters, Mrs. William Martin, St. Joseph's Island, Ontario; Mrs. Thomas Patton, Noranda, Ontario; Mrs. Daniel Mackie, New Liskeard, Ontario, and Mrs. Flesherton Swain, Thornloe, Ontario.

Mrs. McGuire was a sister of the late Rev. Dr. James Henderson, who was a prominent minister in the Methodist Church at Montreal, and at one time preached in Shannonville. Her husband died ten years ago.

The funeral will take place at New Liskeard on Thursday.

RAIN MAKER WINS OUT

Lakeland, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP) Miss Lillie Stoate, who claims she can bring rain by sitting on the shore of a body of water, was headed for her Oxford, Miss., home today, after Lakeland had had its best shower in weeks. The "rainmaker" ended an eight-day vigil beside Lake Mirror yesterday. She said she had kept her promise to the berry growers of the Plant City section who brought her here. Heavy rains were reported yesterday in the Plant City area.

CLASS BARRIER

(Continued from Page One)

rubble and charred timbers.

Like Big Family

The people are facing the ordeal bravely and like one big family are lending succour where it's most urgently needed and sharing whatever they have with the less fortunate.

The motives of Hitler's aerial blitzkrieg have, of course become patent long ago. By hammering away with his air force day and night against the nation's industrial centres, lines of communications and wherever there is a settlement, he hopes to paralyze Britain's machinery of war production, create chaos and to crush the civilian morale.

Within recent months I have had the opportunity of travelling quite extensively through those areas which have been subjected to the most ruthless attacks. In some parts much damage has been done, particularly to civilian property. Factories and other military objectives have been hit here and there, but in the vast workshop which is Britain at war there has been no serious weakening or disorganization of her ability to produce those vital resources she needs to meet her stepped-up war effort.

Emergency repair crews, however, have performed prodigious deeds in keeping pace with destruction. Furthermore the average individual accepts such inconveniences without too much grumbling or philosophically admits it might have been far worse.

The civilian populace has already given ample proof that its morale will not be easily shattered.

What amazes visitors to London is the small damage done to military objectives and other important targets in comparison with the large number of bombs dropped. To a motorist approaching from any point of the compass the city's skyline does not appear to have undergone any drastic change. It is only when one sets out on a tour of the great city that its jagged wounds become apparent.

Due to the efficiency of the R. A. F. daylight raids over the metropolis are becoming less frequent. As a consequence business and traffic proceeds with a bustle and congestion reminiscent of peacetime. Night life, however, has been drastically curtailed.

The average individual pays little attention to the warning siren or bark of the guns during the day. More often he makes off for a point of vantage or joins a group of sky-gazers watching the progress of a "dog fight" and following the strange vapor patterns from the exhausts of the machines. Cheers and shouts of joy rend the air whenever our fighters crack down a Jerry. That has become a familiar sight for the front-line Londoners.

Alberta Farmer Wins World's Oat Championship

Vilna, Alta., Dec. 3—(CP) — "I thought I would win," said Paul Francis Pawlowski, 23-year-old Polish farmer, when he learned last night that he had won the world's oats championship at the Chicago International Exposition's Grain Show. He placed seventh in oats at Chicago in 1939 with his first exhibit.

Paul Francis, oldest of seven boys and four girls in the Pawlowski family, said he prepared the Victory oats exhibit that won him the title. Just a year ago he saw and heard the boys who were winning world grain crowns for Alberta and told himself "if they can win world titles, I can."

Paul Francis, who succeeded Bill Skladan, 21, of Andrew, Alta., as oats king, said he "intends to stay with oats," when asked whether he would now try to win the wheat championship.

The Pawlowski family came from Poland in 1905 and have practised scientific farming on their 230-acre farm about 100 miles north-east of Edmonton.

MAGAZINE, COMIC

(Continued from Page One)

It is left to the Revenue Minister to decide whether or not any publication is to be included in the foregoing description and his word shall be final and conclusive. Bulk of such publications read in Canada come from the United States.

Just what effect the prohibition will have on Canadian subscriptions to such reading matter has not been decided yet according to a Finance Department source.

It was considered that most of the barred periodicals would be of the newstand type when the prohibition was drawn up, this source said. He added that offhand he thought the subscription time remaining would just be lost but added "possibly, as the measure is an exchange-saving one, the prohibition could more justly be made to apply at the expiration of the present subscription".

Officials of the revenue department said the import ban would not affect any of the "better-class, serious magazines" published in the United States, and that it was aimed primarily at certain of the so-called "pulp" magazines made up almost entirely of fiction of the more dramatic type and with few serious articles.

FINANCE MINISTER

(Continued from Page One)

This prohibition, effective Monday on any listed article that is not already in transit to Canada, is contained in the War Exchange Conservation Act, 1940, introduced in the Commons by the Finance Minister.

It also contains safeguards against domestic producers of goods taking advantage of the prohibition to increase prices. In such an event the governor-in-council may permit entry of such goods and reduce or remove duties imposed on them.

Included in the list of prohibited items are the following, with 1939 imports from all countries and the amount imported from the United States bracketted in that order:

Passenger automobiles ($11,134,955-$10,766,186); washing machines ($635,171 - $635,132); refrigerators, ($957,143-$955,308); musical instruments ($1,171,154-$887,392); electric light fixtures ($803,101-$727,184.)

Included in items to be imported only under licence were the following with the amount imported from all countries in 1939 and the amount imported from the United States in brackets: Railway ties ($282,324-$282,324); veneers ($402,586-$363,086); furs, undressed ($3,696,796-$2,650,348); tobacco, raw, ($4,527,565-$3,922,747.)

Rotarians Enjoy Colored Films of Canadian Scenery

The Belleville Rotary Club visited Vancouver Monday. They left at 1.15 p.m. and were back in the city a few minutes after two o'clock. The remarkable trip was made aboard an air liner of the Trans-Canada Air Lines and taken through the magic of technicolored motion pictures.

The colorful journey started at Montreal and touched at Ottawa, Toronto and North Bay. The beautiful panorama of Canada's cities and forests, lakes and streams unfolded in a travelogue that was enjoyed by the clubmen.

Winnipeg opened the gateway to an aerial vista of the huge expanses of prairie, with its colored patchwork quilt effects as envisioned from a height of eight thousand feet. Regina spread its beauty far below against the checkerboard of prairie expanse as did Lethbridge and Calgary.

The wonder of the Rockies with snow-tipped peaks and rugged grandeur drew gasps of admiration from the clubmen as the mythical plane sailed majestically over the cloud-tipped mountains.

The natural and man-made beauty that is Vancouver's alone brought an end to a delightful cross-Canada trip that was as educational as it was breath-taking in its beauty.

During the business session of the weekly luncheon, President Percy McGuire announced that the sum of fifteen dollars had been granted to the 3rd-47th Battery R.C.A., for the purpose of purchasing hockey sweaters. Success of the club's efforts in entertaining members of the Royal Canadian Air Force on Sundays were reported by Rotarians Ed. Bernstein and Morrison.

BAILEY'S
Weekly Specials
XXXX QUAKER FLOUR $2.70
24-Lb. Cotton QUAKER FLOUR 69c
Full Line of PURITY FLOUR, CANADA CREAM, and ALBERTA ROSE
●
Mill Feeds:
BRAN — SHORTS — MIDDLINGS
BARLEY — CORN — OATS
●
WHEAT and MIXED SCRATCH FEEDS.
CORN KING MINERAL FEED
We also have Wheat, Corn, different grades of Mixed Scratch Feed, and a full line of Commercial Pioneer Feeds.
W. H. BAILEY
FLOURS and FEEDS
North Front St. at Evans. Phone 1962W

Canada's Role in the War Is Reviewed by Bankers

Production of Materials Ahead of Expectations and Wheat Crop A Great Potential Asset — Prudence And Economy Urged

BANK OF MONTREAL'S STRONG POSITION WELL MAINTAINED

Economy and prudence on the part of the individual, the corporation, the community and the state in order that Canada will be prepared for the drastic post-war adjustments which will be necessary, was urged by Huntly R. Drummond, president of the Bank of Montreal, at the annual meeting of shareholders held yesterday. He warned against the dangers of price inflation arising from war-time industrial prosperity and suggested that more thought should be given to the potential value of our bountiful wheat crop of the past season rather than to misgivings as to the immediate handling of it. The duty of the bank to discourage speculative tendencies under conditions such as now exist in industry and business was emphasized by G. W. Spinney, joint general manager in his address. In explaining the decline in the bank's holdings of government securities he suggested that this was a healthy sign as indicative that government war loan subscriptions were coming in large measure from the savings of the people.

Early in his address, Mr. Drummond emphasized that the impact of war conditions has altered all of our economic values and interrupted the trend of our normal businesses and industrial indices and commented with satisfaction on Canada's achievements in her war effort. "Few of us who were here last year" he declared "thought Canada could go so far in her war effort in the production of material aid as she has done, and we are just at the beginning. The production of war supplies will be immensely greater next year. Of business generally it is sufficient to say that practically every phase of industrial and commercial activity is reflecting the intensity of our war programme. Outstanding has been the importance of our mining industry, only now fully recognized and of the greatest help in stabilizing our exchange. Our railways are showing the highest traffic returns in years. Employment is at such a high level that we are approaching the point where it may become necessary, as in Great Britain, to curtail peace-time activities for the purpose of furthering the war effort."

The Wheat Crop

Referring to the 1940 wheat crop which, he indicated, may prove to be perhaps the largest, and one of the best in weight and quality, in the history of the Dominion, Mr. Drummond suggested that perhaps too much stress has been placed on the immediate inconveniences involved in the handling of it. "I should like to point out," he said, "that our great store of wheat is wealth in its best and most tangible form and in present circumstances an asset the potential value of which cannot be estimated. Mr. Winston Churchill has said that one of the first tasks to which Great Britain will address itself, when victory is achieved, will be the feeding of Europe's millions —all now on short rations. This is a promise known to the peoples of Europe and its importance will be progressively realized by them. Back of that promise is the tremendous crop of wheat which Canada holds in store."

Mr. Drummond referred to his remarks last year on the subject of government controls and, again emphasizing that they must of necessity act as a weight and retardant upon the free operation of business, urged that "when peace is restored, these controls should be removed as rapidly as conditions permit if we are to avoid wholesale regimentation of industry and labour, which would be contrary to the very spirit of the freedom for which we are fighting."

Dangers of Inflation

Sounding a warning against the dangers of price inflation, he said: "The magnitude of prospective expenditure imposes unavoidable obligations on the Government and on private citizens if we are to continue to avoid inflation. For the Government, all expenditures which do not contribute to the national war effort must be cut to the lowest possible limit and this duty applies equally to all public bodies in every field of administration."

Pointing to the fact that through the Price Control Board the Government is zealously seeking to stabilize prices and that the Excess Profits Tax largely eliminates company profits, Mr. Drummond urged that is equally the duty of the Government to see that wages, which form the major part of the cost of manufacturing, are not unduly inflated.

New Post-War Tasks

Continuing, he said: "Already, because of the war, Canada has attained an importance among the nations of the world such as it could not otherwise have attained in generations. When victory comes —and it may be sooner than we expect—enormous new tasks, new problems and, greatest of all, new opportunities will confront us. Let us, therefore, do everything in our power to be worthy of the position which we shall be called upon to assume in the construction of the world on a new and a finer basis."

Business Controlled By War

Reporting for himself and Jackson Dodds as joint general managers, G. W. Spinney observed that Canada's resources are devoted to the single objective of winning the war and declared that the bank is determined to play its full part in this national effort and looked forward with confidence to the achievement of victory, now the primary and all-important consideration.

The rise of industrial activity, he said, has stimulated new demands for credit, which are welcomed by the bank. He warned, however, that the bank has a special duty to perform in the discouraging of speculative tendencies and that, accordingly, the financing of abnormal inventories carried for purely speculative purposes in the expectation of rising prices would be equally against the interests of the banks, their customers and the public generally. Not only would such operations contribute to inflationary price increases and to artificial market conditions for the commodities concerned, Mr. Spinney pointed out, but they would inevitably store up trouble for the future. He emphasized, however, that there has been, so far, little evidence of such speculative tendencies.

Dealing with the accounts and balance sheet of the bank, Mr. Spinney referred to the slight contraction in profits for the past year as compared with the preceding year and indicated that the results were not unsatisfactory in view of the increase of $729,000 in taxes paid to the Dominion and Provincial governments during the year under review. Increase in revenue to offset these additional charges and other heavier operating costs was obtained chiefly from commercial loans, which for the year averaged about 22 per cent higher.

Reduction In Investments

The moderate reduction in total assets, he pointed out, was occasioned largely by a reduction in the investment portfolio of the bank due principally to redemptions at maturity of Dominion and Provincial Goverment securities. Referring specifically to this decline in federal and provincial securities at a time when the Government is making extremely heavy demands in the securities market for the financing of its war programme, Mr. Spinney emphasized the special position of the banks as subscribers to war loans. When a bank subscribes to additional quantities of Government bonds, and places an equivalent amount of credit at the Government's disposal, it is in effect, he pointed out, providing new money in the form of an addition to the supply of bank credit which was previously outstanding. Such operations may, therefore, have inflationary consequences, depending upon their timing and extent.

In the light of this fact, he suggested, the decline in the bank's holdings of Government securities should be regarded as a healthy symptom, indicating, as it does, that the Government's requirements have been supplied from savings rather than from new money.

Business and War Supplies

Business conditions, Mr. Spinney said, are now of course dominated by the demand for war supplies. The volume of industrial production is already higher than ever before and activity is widely spread throughout the country. The output of supplies is due to expand much further and it is clear that we are rapidly approaching a position in which, by contrast with the past ten years, our principal problem will be the adequacy of the means of production.

Referring to the increase of $16,200,000 in current loans and discounts in Canada shown on the balance sheet of the bank, Mr. Spinney said that this increase as at October 31st does not properly indicate the maintained improvement in this department. During the past twelve months he stated the monthly average of the bank's commercial loans has been $38,000,000 higher than in the corresponding period of the previous financial year. This expansion in loaning figures comes chiefly under the headings of loans to manufacturers, reflecting the higher levels of business activity and agricultural loans arising out of the large carryover of wheat.

SECRETARY TO THE WINDSORS

Nassau, The Bahamas, Dec. 3—(CP)—Miss Jean Drewes of Mount Vernon, N.Y., has taken up her duties as social secretary to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

She arrived Friday to handle the social side of the work heretofore done by the Duke's three aides-de-camp.

WE WANT TO
"TAKE A BOW"
We're counting on you to come in and look over the most striking Gift Display in our experience.
GEORGE PAULEY
DRUGGIST Phone 105

GERMANS CENTRE

(Continued from Page One)

The Nazi night raiders left a trail of destruction across ancient Bristol, a vital shipping centre. It was the third time in less than ten days that the port had been attacked heavily. Twice early last week the Germans subjected Bristol to a bombardment which a belated eye-witness account said today laid an 18th century section of the city in ruins and destroyed many of its fine old university buildings.

Number of Fires Started

The Ministries of Air and Home Security announced a number of fires had been started in Bristol by the Nazi bombers.

Some persons were killed and wounded, but the number of casualties was not believed large, a communique said.

Bombs also were dropped at scattered points in East Anglia, South Wales and elsewhere. Damage and casualties in these raids were slight, however.

In one southwest town, a children's hospital was damaged by fire and high explosive bombs, but none of the patients were injured. A second southwest town was bombed for the seventh consecutive night, but heavy anti-aircraft fire drove off the attackers. Night raiders also were reported over Liverpool.

After giving London a wide berth throughout the night, the Germans returned to the attack on the capital by daylight today. Streets were crowded with office-bound workers when air raid sirens suddenly sounded just before 8.30 a.m. (3.30 a.m. E.D.T.), and the alert barely had died away when a squadron of Nazi planes dived out of the morning mist. First reports said nine bombs were dropped, causing slight damage and no casualties.

GREEKS SMASH

(Continued from Page One)

wing, but a government spokesman termed the left wing advance the "most important."

There, the spokesman said, "the enemy retreated to the heights around Delvino and has passed, in depth, Santi Quaranta."

That is the port the Italians renamed Porto Edda for Premier Mussolini's daughter.

The Greeks apparently had not broken Italian resistance in the section immediately around the port, but indicated Fascist troops there might be cut off. The high command declared the road linking the port with Argirocastro, 15 miles northeast, had been placed under Greek fire.

In the Central and northern sectors, the high command reported more prisoners had been taken and started along the roads back into Greece, already said to have been plodded by more than 13,000 disarmed Italians. The greatest number of prisoners reported taken was 5,000 on Monday. Their surrender, the Greeks declared, broke Italian morale and resistance in the centre of the fighting front.

A Greek spokesman said: "In the River Aoos region (of the central sector) our troops are fighting with the same courage as that which enabled them to capture Pogradetz and have captured a summit 2,145 metres (about 7,000 feet) high on Politzani mountain. There the Italians were strongly established and hoped to remain."

He said the Italians retreated to villages and heights northeast of Premet.

"In the Pogradetz region," the spokesman said, "the enemy tried to cover his retreat by defending himself in the northeastern heights (along Lake Ochrida), but we hope to dislodge the enemy from these heights also."

The Greek Ministry of Home Security reported today considerable damage was caused to buildings by an Italian air raid on the Island of Corfu, and said 18 prominent residents of the Greek frontier town of Philiates were abducted by retreating Italians a week ago.

"Their fate is not known," it said.

Chest Colds
To Relieve Misery Rub on Genuine
VICKS VAPORUB

THE GORGON'S MASK

by Van Wyck Mason

CHAPTER THIRTY

The stage was set for tragedy—when would the curtain rise? North felt ten years older by the time the S. C. 322 had cleared the channel.

"And now where?" Long demanded. "How far out d'you think we'd better go?"

"You know the apparatus better than I do," North replied, "so I'll leave the choice of position to you."

Once the breakwater lights were astern, the sub-chaser's crew awoke to sudden energy. Groups of white-clad seamen hurried back and forth on the after deck, one squad much occupied with certain round objects heretofore lashed in special racks.

"Wish we didn't have those Japs aboard," North overheard a nervous young ensign mutter to a fellow single-striper. "I'm going to watch out—they're liable to pull something fast and give the whole show away."

Just then all lights on the S. C. 322 went out, and her Diesels ceased panting. Deathly stillness descended on the long gray-painted craft.

A breathless petty officer, ghostly in the starlight, appeared on the bridge and saluted the commander.

"Hydrophones in order, sir."

"Very well. Tell Lieutenant Newcomb we'll be below directly."

In a tiny cabin six men, two of them in civilian clothes, stood in various attitudes of expectancy, bent over an alert young man in a frankly dingy shirt.

Lieutenant Newcomb was sitting at a crowded table fitted with a bewildering assortment of lights and dials. Just in front of the operator was fixed, to a vertical shaft that vanished into floor planks, a contrivance not unlike the handlebars of a bicycle.

"This hydrophone," Long explained briefly, "is designed for listening to subsea noises. For instance, Lieutenant Newcomb can tell us what type a ship is even when she is passing ten miles away and how fast and in what direction she's travelling."

Like bronze images, the two Japanese stood watching with fearful intensity. Both seemed very nervous.

If Hugh North could have eliminated three hours from his entire life, he would gladly have done without those three which ensued. . . .

Once Lieutenant Newcomb raised a warning hand to report a freighter of some five thousand tons, limping along at nine knots on a southwesterly course.

"I think we've made a mistake," Commander Long bitterly commented after another hour had dragged by on leaden feet. "I'm afraid somebody has mislead you, Captain."

North made no reply, for his eyes were intent on Lieutenant Newcomb as he hitched forward a little on his seat remarking, "I hear something—can't get it very clear yet. Hold on!"

Newcomb narrowed his eyes and made some delicate adjustments in the finder bar.

Above him bent North, breathless with anxiety, watching the color begin to creep into the tensed operator's features.

"Still don't get it really clear, sir," Newcomb replied to Commander Long's pantomimed query. "It's either. . . . Just a minute, I can tell you more. Um—what's this?"

He hurriedly adjusted a dial to his right, then manipulated the finder bar very gently.

"That couldn't be one of our subs coming in, could it?"

"Why?"

"Sounds like one had submerged 'way off to port."

"No, it's none of ours," snapped Commander Long, his cold blue eyes beginning to glitter. "Admiral Blackburn issued strict orders."

Silence, pregnant with terrific possibilities, ruled in that smoky hutch.

"You think," Kanamura demanded haltingly—"you think this is really a submarine?"

"Quiet!" barked the operator.

"We'd better go on deck,' the hawk-faced American commander remarked. "Come, gentlemen!"

Back on the bridge, North strained his eyes over the starlit expanse of sea stretching off to starboard. Commander Long took the wheel himself and rang for half speed.

Breathless, North watched the two Japanese who, talking in undertones were now standing at the end of the tiny bridge, studying the dim horizon.

After the S. C. 322 had proceeded a quarter of a mile, Commander Long rang off the engines. . . . Again and yet again the halting and listening operation was repeated. North realized he was experiencing anew the sensations he had felt one time when he had watched a famous surgeon performing a very delicate and intricate operation.

At last Commander Long beckoned and muttered hoarsely: "We're getting very close, we're behind them now; so keep an eye on those Japs—don't let 'em off the bridge!"

North said he would see to that. "What comes next?" he asked.

"As soon as we're sure we're running on the same course, I'll have the marine telegraph order them to surface at once."

"And if they won't?"

"If they don't," tersely replied Commander Long, "we have ways of persuading them."

When the sub-chaser's exhausts were once more stilled, North, by listening intently, distinguished a faint series of bell-like sounds, apparently rising from the water itself.

Was this the true I-14 below them, he asked himself, or was it a false one? Was it indeed that messenger of death sent by the villainy of von Rentner and company? Could this stealthy craft be a thirteenth Japanese submarine? Commander Long stood with a set of earphones adjusted to his head. In answer to North's curt query, he frowned.

"Looks bad. We've repeated the order to 'halt and surface' three times. You've seen no signs of a sub, have you?"

"None. And the sea's as flat as a plate."

Commander Long suddenly snatched off the earphones and stepped to the speaking tube. "Ahoy, below there! Increase speed, keep right on for the harbor?"

Then indeed the S. C. 322 awoke to action. Lights went on, a searchlight blazed, and those seamen on the sub-chaser's stern rolled to its lip a large, gray object which much resembled a big ashcan in size and shape.

North's finger joints crackled as he gripped the rail of the tiny bridge. Faster and faster throbbed the screws, and now Commander Long gave a brief, shrill blast on the whistle. Instantly those wraithlike shapes on the stern let their curious missile fall overboard. When it struck the set with a wide silvery splash, the S. C. 322 bounded ahead like a spurred hunter.

Two hundred yards away she stopped as in her wake a marine volcano seemed to erupt. High into the air shot a vast fan of tortured water, and the sub-chaser reeled from the detonation.

"Man the forward gun! Sweep the sea with that light, Jennings!" snapped Commander Long. "If she surfaces," he flung at North, "we'd better be ready for her. That sub class carries a 4.7 rifle on her bow."

A whistling at the speaking tube called for attention.

"They've stopped, sir- Maybe they're going to surface."

Fwe-e-e! screeched the speaking tube.

"No, they've started again."

Twice more that deadly dropping of depth bombs was repeated. North realized that in the now not very distant harbor of Honolulu, the great steel juggernauts were coming to life. One by one searchlights began to rake the sky, and somewhere on shore the notes of a bugle sounded a breathless call.

After the fourth depth charge had been dropped, "Newcomb reports the sub hurt," Long told North, "but they're trying to make the harbor just the same. Look at that oil slick!"

Again the S. C. 322, almost at the mouth of the channel, dropped her fifth depth charge. Once more a great tower of water and spray soared skywards.

A white streak of phosphorus suddenly appeared to the left; and North shouted, "Look to port!" Instantly the gun crew went into feverish activity.

"Let' em have it when their 'scope is well up," Long shouted.

"No, no," North desperately pleaded. "Don't! Don't! Firing might start a general action."

"Right! Number One, cease firing!" The commander yelled his countermand through cupped hands.

"Look, look!" The two Japanese were crying excitedly, for . . . missing the entrance of the channel . . . the hunted submarine was rushing at the coral beds lining the right of the channel.

While water fell from her superstructure, more and more of the stranger's wetly smooth conning tower appeared, until North was able to read the "I-14" painted in glaring white just abaft the periscopes.

"Captain North!" Kanamura cried excitedly, "Waseda says this boat looks like a Kaigun boat; but she is not—she is . . ."

The Japanese agent's words were drowned out by a terrific clang. From a seething maelstrom of foam, the submarine's bow appeared, then . . . its plates buckling visibly . . . it slid over the reefs until . . . with a dreadful crunching sound . . . the stranded monster came to a halt.

Grimly ready for further resistance, the sub-chaser's gun crew trained their piece on the I-14 at point-blank range.

* * *

Bruce Kilgour looked thoughtfully into a tall glass; then raised it towards that copper-red sliver of the sun which was appearing above the Koolau range.

"Well, Hugh, old lad, here's to your greatest victory!" He grinned as he drew closer. "Odd, but right now I recall the words of a certain gambler—a countryman of yours, by the way—and I think they're particularly apt at this moment."

North, apparenly absorbed with the sunrise, made no comment.

"Said he, "Kilgour, there ain't half so much in winnin' with a good hand as in playin' a poor hand well'."

On the parapet of Fort Armstrong the two stood in solitary relief after the bustle attendant upon the arrest of Captain Karen and his polyglot crew of Russians, Germans, and Koreans—those "queer Japanese" of Pablo Gonzales, the little fisherman.

"Yes," Kilgour went on, "with all the proof your people found aboard that wretched sub, this war scare will end."

When Hugh North still said nothing, Kilgour peered curiously at his tall friend.

"Good Lord, old chap, wake up! Smile! Don't you realize you've pulled off the most amazing intelligence coup since the war?"

"That's what you think," muttered Captain North, his face grimmer than ever, as he turned back to Kilgour, the vision of the enchanting Nadia Stefan . . . vanishing . . . for the time . . . from before his eyes.

THE END

Copyright, 1939, by Van Wyck Mason: Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

RADIO PROGRAMS

(Daylight Saving Time)

TUESDAY, DEC. 2.

8.00—Fred Waring's Orchestra—WEAF, WGY
8.30—Say It With Music; News—CBL
9.00—Ben Bernie's Musical Quiz—WJZ, WHAM
9.00—Johnny Presents Ray Bloch's Orch.—WEAF
9.00—Court of Missing Heirs—WABC, WGR
9.30—Uncle Jim's Question Bee; Bill Slater, M. C.—WJZ, WHAM
9.30—Horace Heidt's Treasure Chest—WEAF, WGY
9.30—First Nighter—WABC CFRB WHAM, WJZ
9.30—Good Luck Show—CBL
10.00—Grand Central Station, Drama—WJZ, WHAM.
10.00—The Old Observer—CBL
10.00—We, the People—WABC
10.00—Battle of the Sexes, Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson—WEAF, WGY
10.30—Fibber McGee and Molly—WEAF, WGY, CBL
11.00—Glenn Miller's Orchestra—WABC, WJR
11.00—Bob Hope Variety Show—WEAF, WGY
11.15—Britain Speaks—CBL
11.15—Invitation to Learning; Discussions—WABC, WGR
11.30—B. B. C. Newsreel—CBL
11.30—Uncle Walter's Dog House—Program—WJZ, WHAM
1.00—News; Artie Shaw's Orch.—WEAF, WGY.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 4.

9.00—At the Console—CBL
10.00—Breakfast Club—CBL
1.15—Song Recital—CBL
3.30—Navy Band—WJZ, CBL
5.15—Club Matinee—WJZ, CBL
7.45—Lowell Thomas, news commentator—WJZ, CBL
7.45—Finnish Independence Day—CBL
8.00—The Little Revue—CBL
8.00—Fred Waring in Pleasure Time—WEAF
8.30—Cavalcade of America.—WEAF
8.30—Meet Mr. Meek, comedy drama—WABC, WGR
8.30—Serenade for Strings—CBO, CBL
9.00—Big Town, drama—WABC, WGR
9.00—Hollywood Playhouse, drama—Gale Page and Jim Ameche — WEAF, WBEN, WGY
9.00—Quiz Kids—WJZ, WHAM
9.30—Manhattan at Midnight —WJZ, WHAM
9.30—Dr. Christian, sketch—WJR, WABC
9.30—Plantation Party — WEAF, WGY
10.00—Time to Smile; Eddie Cantor, comedian; Dinah Shore, vocalist—WEAF, WGY
10.00—Star Theatre; Fred Allen, comedian—WABC
10.00—Melodies for You—CBL
10.30—The Question Box—CBL
10.30—News; Fiesta Pan-American—WJZ
11.00—Kay Kyser's Program—WEAF, WGY
11.00—Glenn Miller's Orchestra; Ray Eberle and Marion Hutton, vocalists — WABC,
11.15—Britain Speaks—CBO, CBL
11.30—Back Where I Came From—WABC, WGR
11.20—BBC Newsreel—CBL
11.30—Doctors at Work, drama—WJZ
11.45—News of the World—WABC
12.30—Eddy Duchin's Orch.—WABC

RADIO DIRECTORY

CANADIAN STATIONS

CKRC—Kingston	1510
CBL—Toronto	840
CBO—Ottawa	880
CBW—Windsor	600
CBY—Toronto	1420
CFCF—Montreal	600
CFRB—Toronto	690
CHML—Hamilton	1010
CKCL—Toronto	580
CKOC Hamilton	1120
CKTB—St. Catharines	1200

UNITED STATES STATIONS

KDKA—Pittsburg	980
WABC—New York	860
WBEN—Buffalo	900
WGY—Schenectady	790
WHAM—Rochester	1150
WEAF—New York	660
WENR—Chicago	870
WGR—Buffalo	550
WBBM—Chicago	770

ASCAP Tunes Banned From CBS Programs

New York, Dec. 2—(AP)—Music of most of the contemporary popular composers, members of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, will be gone from the non-commercial programs of all three major United States radio networks within a fortnight.

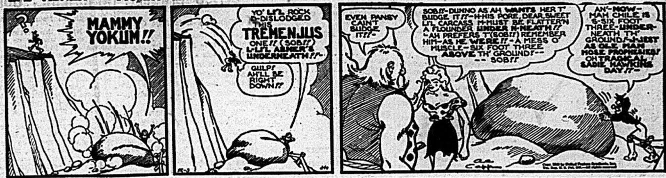
The Columbia Broadcasting System took a decisive step in the music royalty controversy between the broadcasters and Ascap yesterday when it banned all Ascap tunes from its sustaining or unsponsored programs.

Meanwhile, both Ascap, controlling the copyrights of about 90 per cent of the music played in the United States and Broadcast Music, Inc., the networks' newly formed organization of composers, raced to recruit as many composers as possible.

Gene Buck, President of Ascap, announced the addition of 44 new members, including such names as Randall Thompson, Eugene Ormandy and Jimmy Dorsey, and said his membership now totals 1,116 composer authors and 140 publishers.

LI'L ABNER — Prophet and Loss!

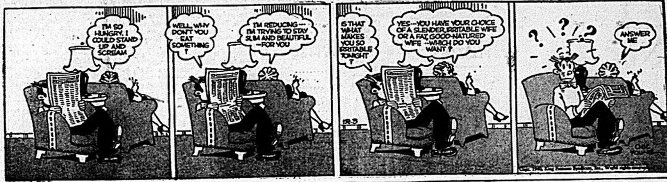
By Al Capp



MAMMY YOKUM!!
YO' LI'L ROCK D-DISLODGED THIS TREMENJUS ONE!! (SOB!!) L-LI'L ABNER'S UNDERNEATH!!-
GULP! AH'LL BE RIGHT DOWN!!
EVEN PANSY CAIN'T BUDGE IT!!-
SOB!!-DUNNO AS AH WANTS HER T' BUDGE IT!!—H-HIS PORE, DEAR, SWEET LI'L CARCASS M-MUST BE FLATTER'N A FLOUNDER UNDER N-NEATH!!—AH PREFERS T'(SOB!!) REMEMBER HIM—AS HE WERE!!—A MESS O' MUSCLE—SIX FOOT THREE ABOVE TH' GROUND!—— SOB!!
AN'—NOW—MAH CHILE IS S-SIX FOOT THREE-UNDER-NEATH TH' GROUND!-—JEST AS OLE MAN MOSE PROPHESIED! OH TRAGICAL SADIE HAWKINS DAY!!—
Al Capp

BLONDIE — He'd Rather Be a Bachelor!

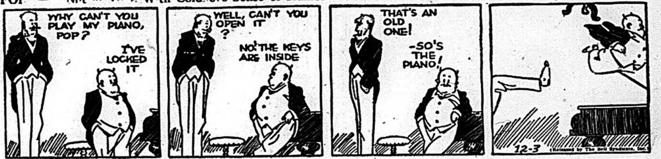
By Chic Young



I'M SO HUNGRY, I COULD STAND UP AND SCREAM
WELL, WHY DON'T YOU EAT SOMETHING ?
I'M REDUCING— I'M TRYING TO STAY SLIM AND BEAUTIFUL —FOR YOU
12-3
IS THAT WHAT MAKES YOU SO IRRITABLE TONIGHT ?
YES—YOU HAVE YOUR CHOICE OF A SLENDER, IRRITABLE WIFE OR A FAT, GOOD-NATURED WIFE —WHICH DO YOU WANT ?
? \ ? / ?
ANSWER ME
CHIC YOUNG

POP — Not in Tune With Colonel's Sense of Humor

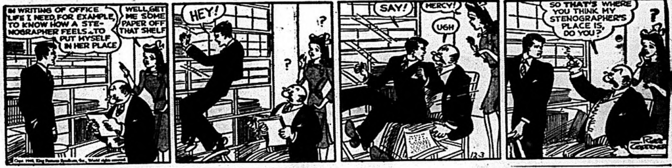
By J. Millar Watt



WHY CAN'T YOU PLAY MY PIANO, POP?
I'VE LOCKED IT
WELL, CAN'T YOU OPEN IT ?
NO! THE KEYS ARE INSIDE
THAT'S AN OLD ONE!
-SO'S THE PIANO!
12-3
(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

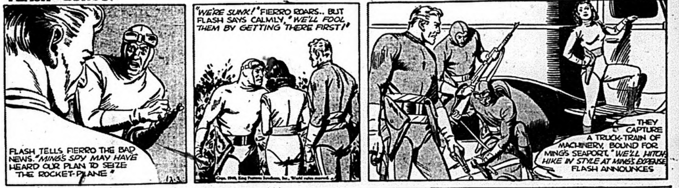
TILLIE THE TOILER — That's Falling into Place!

By Russ Westover



IN WRITING OF OFFICE LIFE I NEED, FOR EXAMPLE, TO KNOW HOW A STENOGRAPHER FEELS .. TO PUT MYSELF IN HER PLACE
WELL, GET ME SOME PAPER OFF THAT SHELF
HEY!
?
?
SAY!
MERCY!
UGH
12-3
SO THAT'S WHERE YOU THINK MY STENOGRAPHER'S PLACE IS, DO YOU?
?
Russ Westover

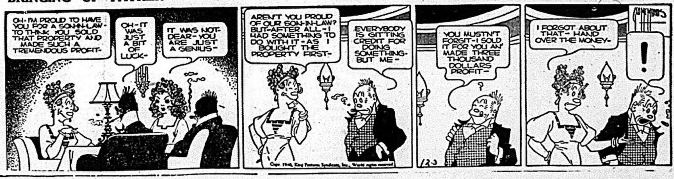
FLASH GORDON



FLASH TELLS FIERRO THE BAD NEWS. "MING'S SPY MAY HAVE HEARD OUR PLAN TO SEIZE THE ROCKET-PLANE"
12-3
"WE'RE SUNK!" FIERRO ROARS.. BUT FLASH SAYS CALMLY, "WE'LL FOOL THEM BY GETTING THERE FIRST!"
THEY CAPTURE A TRUCK-TRAIN OF MACHINERY, BOUND FOR MING'S SEAPORT. "WE'LL HITCH-HIKE IN STYLE AT MING'S EXPENSE" FLASH ANNOUNCES

BRINGING UP FATHER —

By George McManus



OH-I'M PROUD TO HAVE YOU FOR A SON-IN-LAW-TO THINK YOU SOLD THAT PROPERTY AND MADE SUCH A TREMENDOUS PROFIT-
OH-IT WAS JUST A BIT OF LUCK-
IT WAS NOT-DEAR-YOU ARE JUST A GENIUS-
AREN'T YOU PROUD OF OUR SON-IN-LAW? BUT-AFTER ALL-I HAD SOMETHING TO DO WITH IT-AS I BOUGHT THE PROPERTY FIRST-EVERYBODY IS GITTING CREDIT FOR DOING SOMETHING-BUT ME-
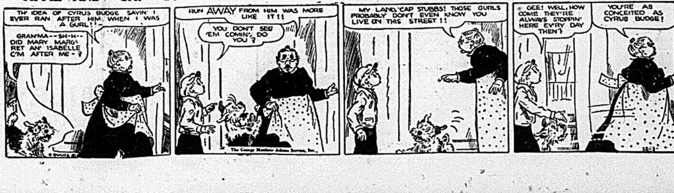
12-3
YOU MUSTN'T FORGIT-I SOLD IT FOR YOU AN' MADE THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS PROFIT-
?
I FORGOT ABOUT THAT-HAND OVER THE MONEY-
!

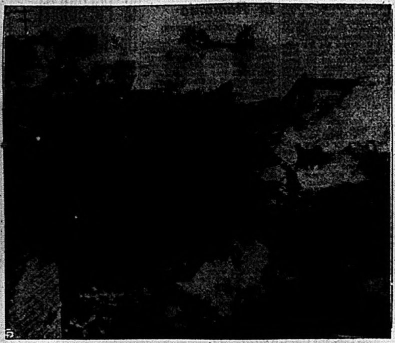
TIPPIE AND "CAP" STUBBS —

By Edwina



TH' IDEA OF CYRUS BUDGE SAYIN' I EVER RAN AFTER HIM WHEN I WAS A GURL!!—
GRAN'MA——SH-H——DID MARY MARG'RET AN' ISABELLE C'M AFTER ME-?
RUN AWAY FROM HIM WAS MORE LIKE IT!!
YOU DON'T SEE 'EM COMIN', DO YOU ?
MY LAND, 'CAP STUBBS! THOSE GURLS PROBABLY DON'T EVEN KNOW YOU LIVE ON THIS STREET!!
GEE! WELL, HOW COME THEY'RE ALWAYS STOPPIN' HERE EV'RY DAY THEN?
YOU'RE AS CONCEITED AS CYRUS BUDGE!
The George Matthew Adams Service, Inc.

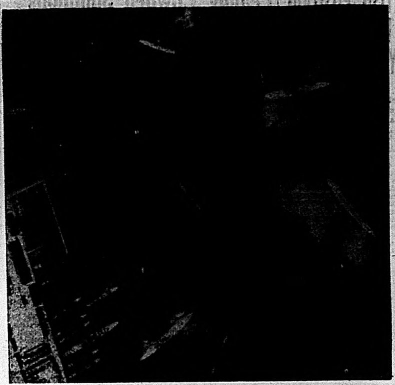
FIRE RAZES LOS ANGELES DEFENCE PLANT



Leaping hundreds of feet in the air, flames possibly of saboteur origin, roared through the Gilfillan Bros. Inc., plant at Los Angeles, engaged in national defence manufacture, and caused damage estimated at more than $300,000. The factory was manufacturing radio receivers, and also small airplane parts for military use, it was understood.

IL DUC'S NAVY LEFT SINKING, BEACHED AND AFIRE AFTER R.A.F. RAID ON TARANTO

A battleship of the 23,622-ton Conti de Cavour class lies beached in the inner harbor of Taranto (also shown), following the R.A.F. attack on that main Italian naval base on November 11. Note the protective nets surrounding the ship, the picture was made from about 6,000 feet altitude by a British pilot who met with no resistance and no shellfire, proving the British point that the Italians deserted the base following the air attack on it.

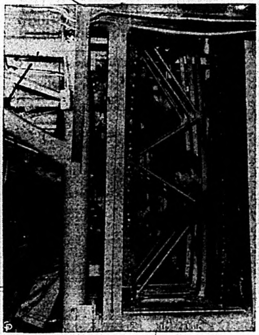


This aerial photo, radioed to New York, shows the inner harbor at Taranto, Italy, with two damaged cruisers of the Trento class surrounded by a large quantity of floating oil. Other Italian warships are also seen in the harbor. This photo was taken by British reconnaissance planes on Nov. 12 and Nov. 14, in daylight from altitudes of 6,000 and 8,000 feet. The battle took place on the Italian naval base the night of Nov. 11.

LATEST ADDITION IN U.S. NAVAL EXPANSION

The U.S. submarine Grenadier is pictured sliding down the ways at Portsmouth navy yard after it had been christened by Mrs. Walter Anderson, INSET, wife of Rear Admiral Anderson, director of U.S. naval intelligence. The Grenadier was the fourth submarine to be launched at Portsmouth this year.

BUILDING BOMBERS FOR BRITAIN



Workmen in the Boeing Aircraft plant at Seattle, Washington, are shown at work on a wing frame for one of the 20 22-ton flying fortresses which will go to Britain. The flying fortresses (B-17C's) weigh 22 tons, have a cruising radius of 1,500 miles and carry five-and-a-half tons of bombs at 280 miles per hour speed.

BRITISH TROOPS LAND IN GREECE TO FULFILL BRITAIN'S PROMISE

Britain's promise of "all possible aid" to hard-pressed Greece is kept, and General A. P. Wavell, British leader in the Near East, is shown, in dark uniform, being welcomed, LEFT, as he lands in Greece to plan for co-operation of British units and the Greek army. The first contingent of fully armed British soldiers disembarking at a Grecian port is shown, RIGHT. These are men of the British Near Eastern forces under command of General Wavell.

CONSTRUCTION OF TRAINING PLANES IN CANADA NOW ON MASS PRODUCTION BASIS

Construction of deHaviland training planes, used extensively in the preliminary stages of flying instruction under the British Commonwealth training plan, has been put on a mass production basis. Certain types of work in the manufacture of these, and other planes, are well suited to the abilities of women, and many of them have become front line workers in Canadian plants. This smiling miss, LEFT, is a fabric worker. A group of deHaviland training planes reach the end of the assembly line, TOP RIGHT, while welders are pictured BOTTOM RIGHT, piecing together the metal inneer structure of the sturdy little machines.

"America in Flowers"

AMERICA IN FLOWERS

The annual tournament of roses held at Pasadena has "America in Flowers" as its theme for the 1941 presentation. Miss Jetsey Posthuma shown in her role of "Liberty" for the floral parade, holds high a torch of freedom and a tablet on which is inscribed the theme. A floral flag forms a background.

ICELANDERS L EARN GAMES FROM CANADIAN TROOPS

British and Canadian soldiers who are seeing to it that no enemy base is established on Iceland are shown teaching the children of the Danish colony the rudiments of English football. In occupying the big island in the North Atlantic, Great Britain promised that it would be returned to Denmark after the war.

BRITISH POSITION IS IMPROVED SAYS PREMIER

Mr. King Advises House Not to be Unduly Depressed by Reverses or Elated by Successes

BRITISH PLAN SOUND

Ottawa, Dec. 3 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons Monday the Allied position is much better than at the time of the Franco-German armistice or at any time since, despite recent shipping losses and an intensification of German air bombardment on Great Britain.

In making this statement he emphasized the seriousness of the situation and predicted difficult times ahead.

He urged the House not to be unduly depressed by reverses or elated by successes, but to keep in mind the fact that the war was not one of weeks or months but of years.

British Strategy

The fundamental British strategy adopted at the start was sound, he said, although all things had not turned out as expected. That strategy was based on the expectation for a long and ever-widening struggle.

Mr. King made his anticipated statement on the war situation in answer to a request last week from Conservative House Leader Hanson, but he disputed Mr. Hanson's statement that the situation in Europe was more serious than at any time since the fall of France.

The Conservative House Leader thanked Mr. King for his statement, but said it contained little information which was not already public knowledge. He said Mr King had failed to answer his request for information on how Canada could give more effective assistance to Great Britain.

Air Bombardment

Dealing with air bombardment, Mr. King said there was nothing in press reports or official communications to support the suggestion that Birmingham, Bristol and Southampton virtually were destroyed.

"Birmingham is a city of 1,055,000 people," he said, "Bristol of 415,000, Southampton of 178,000. Coventry of 204,000. The figures published in the press in the case of Coventry, about 400 dead and 1,200 injured, are correct.

"I am able to say the casualties in the other cities are relatively much lower. What is most important of all, there was, in these raids, surprisingly little damage to military or industrial objectives."

British shipping losses were heavy, but the Royal Navy still commanded the seas. Steps were being taken to get more ships in order that there would always be a margin of safety.

Canada as well as Britain was having difficulty getting United States dollars to pay for purchases in that country, but it should be remembered that American resources were at the disposal of the allies, while Germany was completely cut off from them.

Mediterranean Situation

The situation in the Mediterranean was encouraging. Greek successes, disorder in Rumania and Yugoslavia to join the Axis were not helping Hitler.

Germany's formidable military machine, however, remained undefeated, and British forces had the greatest task in the history of the world. They might be called upon to meet an attack anywhere.

"The situation is bound to become increasingly serious as warfare spreads to new seas and shores, and as mutual destruction continues, as it most certainly will, with ever-increasing fury", said the Prime Minister.

"It is wholly probable that we shall witness much of anarchy as well as of war ere the death-grapple between totalitarianism and democracy has told its tale."

The one thing which could save the world, under the providence of God, was the might of Britain supported by the Dominions and India and aided by the United States.

Romance May Have Fling With Officers Of Air Force

May Marry After 6 Months in Service With Consent of O.C.

Ottawa, Dec. 3 (CP)—Romance can have its fling with officers of the Royal Canadian Air Force for the duration of the war. A recent general order lifted the strict peacetime restrictions placed on the marriage of commissioned officers in the Flying Force.

Now the rule is any officer may marry if he has been in the service for six months and obtains the permission of his Commanding Officer.

The peacetime rule was that no officer could marry until he had attained the rank of Flight Lieutenant unless he could satisfy the authorities that he had a private income in addition to his salary. As promotions were slow the result was most officers were unable to marry until they had been in the service for years. It took a long time to make the jump from Flying Officer to Flight Lieutenant.

Pealing Cowbell Summons Delegates to the Meeting

S. J. Anderson, President, Claims 1940 Edition of Dairy Show Best in History

OTHER SPEAKERS

The traditional opening ceremony of a lustily pealing cowbell summoned delegates and cheesemen to the opening session of the 13th annual Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association convention at the morning session on Tuesday. Mr. S. J. Anderson of Melrose, President of the association officially welcomed those who braved the frosty weather to attend and in his following address made special note of the 1940 season as being marked by an increase in the production of cheese, a gratifying increase in the percentage of first grade cheese and a record breaking increase in the percentage of high scoring No. 1 cheese.

Mr. Anderson claimed that the 1940 edition of the British Empire Dairy Show was bigger and better than ever before and that it is the most outstanding and important event in Canadian dairying. This was borne out by the generous measure of financial and other support which had been received from firms and individuals interested in the industry, he said. Mr. Anderson's address follows:

Address by S. Anderson, December 2, 1940.

Gentlemen:

"The season now drawing to a close has been a most noticeable one in several respects chief among which is fair increase in production a most gratifying increase in the percentage of first grade cheese and a record breaking increase in the percentage of high scoring number ones", said Mr. Anderson.

"This improvement in the quality of our product can be, I think attributed to several factors chief among which undoubtedly was the operation of the Cheese and Cheese Factory Improvement Act, however, the professional ability tact and courtesy of our own members who have managed to make cheese of high quality and still retain the goodwill of their patrons has been a most important factor in this increase in quality, a fact which I fear is not receiving the recognition and reward it deserves from our own patrons in all too many instances. I might add I have had the very great pleasure of representing this Association at the annual convention of the Eastern and Western Cheesemakers' Association and beg to report the welcome I received was most cordial in each case. I heartily agree with this idea of each association being represented at all three conventions and I take much pleasure in welcoming in my turn the representatives of the other two Associations.

I must also congratulate Mr. H. B. Sandwith and his able instructional staff on the efficient work performed by them in Central Ontario during 1940 towards improving the quality of our product.

Before closing I take this opportunity of heartily thanking all officers and members of our Association for the loyal support and co-operation which they have extended to me during my term of office as President and confidently bespeak the same for my successor.

I cannot close without referring to the part played by our Honorary President, Mr. Jas. L. Irwin, ever since the formation of our Association although I am well aware it is needless so to do.

It is common knowledge to us all that whatever measure of success may have attended these conventions and exhibitions is almost entirely due to the organizing ability, sage, advice and untiring energy he has put forward into this work on our behalf.

I close by wishing you one and all a Very Happy Christmas and a Successful and Prosperous 1941.

Brings Greetings.

In the absence of Mr. Jack Bain who was to have represented Western Ontario Cheesemakers' Association at the convention, Mr. Mel. Elliott addressed the assembly, bringing the greetings of dairymen and cheesemakers from Western Ontario. Mr. Elliott congratulated the Eastern Ontario Cheesemakers' Association on the wonderful exhibits on display at the Dairy Show and offered the co-operation of the Western Association in the continued success of the exhibition. Mr. R. R. Scharf also addressed the convention, representing the Eastern Ontario Cheesemakers' Association and extended greetings. He likewise expressed the wish of his association to co-operate in every manner possible for the future success of the Dairy Show and in closing he stated that while profits being received by dairymen were not too encouraging, he nevertheless urged that "they keep their chins up".

Nominating Committee Named.

The appointment of resolution and nominating committees was the next item on the program after which the veteran cheesemakers of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association were paid tribute by Mr. J. L. Irwin, Chief Grader, of the Belleville district. Cheesemakers named by Mr. Irwin were: Peterboro district, Mr. Andrew Wilson with 53 years service; Frontenac County, Mr. George Cleall of Selby Factory with 49 years service; Hastings County, Mr. John Murphy with 43 years service; Lennox and Addington, Mr. E. I. Babcock with 44 years service; Northumberland County, Mr. Horace Way of Cedar Creek Factory with 41 years service; Prince Edward County, Mr. Eugene Vandusen with 26 years service. All these cheesemakers will receive diplomas attesting to their long service in the cheese making industry. Tribute was also paid by Mr. Irwin to dairy instructors in this district and other members of his staff who had contributed largely to the success of the Dairy Show, and of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, of which he is honorary president.

Hastings Stands Fourth

Mr. Lynn Fair, of Stirling, Agricultural Representative for Hastings County, in a brief address gave an interesting comparison of agriculture in Hastings with other centres and districts in Ontario. Mr. Fair said that in a province consisting of 54 counties and districts, Hastings County with 42,000 cows, stood fourth in cow population. Only the counties of Middlesex, Oxford, and Grey surpassed Hastings in this respect, said Mr. Fair.

Fifty-six per cent. of the number of cows in Hastings County were kept for milk-producing purposes as compared with 35 per cent in Huron County. The reason for Hastings' predominance was that this county was predominantly a dairying district, stated the speaker.

Turning to production, Mr. Fair stated that Hastings stood second in cheese production and tenth in butter production in Ontario. Although the figures for 1940 were not yet complete, already Hastings had manufactured 3,250,000 lbs. of butter, over 1,000,000 lbs. more than any other county. Owing to the fact, however, that many large creameries were situated in Hastings and with these drawing a certain percentage of their cream from outside the county, this figure might not be truly representative, said Mr. Fair.

Increased Production

Hastings County this year produced up till November, approximately 83,000 boxes of cheese, showing an increase of 1,208 boxes over last year. It was expected that this year would show a larger increase than this, but it must be remembered, said Mr. Fair, that only 20,000 cows contribute to the cheese industry and that the average annual production for each cow contributing to this industry is only 4,000 lbs. This represents approximately 80 per cent of the cow's production as cheese factories do not run the entire twelve months. On the average there were 38.5 patrons for each cheese factory in the county and the average number of cows per patron was 10.4.

Considerable Increase

Mr. Fair stated that this year there had been a considerable increase in the number of high scoring cheese and gave comparable figures for the two years. In 1939 only 12 per cent of the cheese produced in Hastings scored 94 or over while in 1940, 32 per cent had scored this figure and higher. Sixty-five per cent had scored 93 and over in 1939 as compared with 56 per cent this year, with the drop in percentage being accounted for by the increase in the higher grade. Nineteen point five per cent scored 92 or over in 1939, while in 1940 9.5 per cent were over this figure. Three point five per cent were underscored in 1939 as compared with 2.5 in 1940. Seventy-seven per cent of the cheese had received the government premium in 1939 while in 1940 this had been increased to 88 per cent.

The factors influencing the higher grade cheese this year were given by Mr. Fair as being the premium on higher grade cheese, the desire for cheesemakers to make a higher grade cheese more co-operation between the cheesemaker and producer and lastly to the fact that factories were better equipped in the matter of cooling facilities. There were 51 factories manufacturing cheese in Hastings in 1940 of which 21 had electric refrigeration installed, five had ice cooling and ten had made application for the installation of refrigeration, making a total of 44 which would have cooling system before the 1941 season started. The average price for cheese sold on the Belleville Cheese Board during the 1940 season had been 13.45 cents per pound, concluded Mr. Fair.

Visitors Introduced

General business and the introduction of visitors to the meeting concluded the morning session. Mr. Ernie J. Brennan, chief grader, Kemptville Agricultural College, and former president of the Eastern Ontario Cheesemakers' Association spoke briefly, urging Canadians to a greater war effort, and commenting on the service cheese makers are contributing. "Cheese makers who had spent ten or twelve years in cheese-making industry, were, in manufacturing cheese, making a great contribution to Canada's war effort", he concluded.

ST. JULIEN CHAPTER PLANS GALA EVENING FOR WAR WORK

Sponsored by the St. Julien Chapter of the I.O.D.E. and for the benefit of Canada's fighting units of the C.A.S.F., a gala evening's entertainment that will include a dance and floor show, will be held at the Trianon ballroom on Wednesday night of this week. All talent and the use of the auditorium are being donated gratis and the entire proceeds will be given over to the war work of the St. Julien Chapter. A 13-piece orchestra from the R.C.A.F. and a dozen acts of local talented artists are included on the program, Mrs. J. Neate, Regent of the St. Julien Chapter, stated as it was assured that all revenue would be given to war work.

40 U.S. PILOTS FLY U.S. BOMBERS ACROSS ATLANTIC

Take Aircraft Across Icy Northern Ocean Without Molestation by Germans

10-HOUR JOURNEY

Baltimore, Dec. 3 (AP).—Forty United States pilots are making regular mass deliveries of American bombers to Britain without molestation from the German air force, one of them disclosed today, and are taking the aircraft across the icy north Atlantic at high altitude in approximately ten hours.

George R. Hutchinson, head of the "Flying Hutchinsons" family which in recent years made "good will" flights to fifty-one countries, asserted that regular deliveries had been made since early November and that none of the pilots had encountered German opposition.

Fastest Time 8 Hours 50 Minutes.

Seven high-speed Lockheed Hudson bombers were delivered in the first flight last month, he said. His own ship made the fastest time for the trip—eight hours and fifty minutes from land to land and ten hours from take-off in North America to landing in Britain.

The planes take off from an airport in "British North America", Hutchinson said, each carrying a pilot, co-pilot and a radio operator. He said about sixty pilots and thirty radio operators, including Americans, Canadians and Britons, were participating.

On the first flight the seven bombers started away in formation, led by a British officer, but after 5½ hours bad weather and severe icing conditions forced them to separate. Although scattered the rest of the way, the pilot said, all of the planes landed within an hour at a pre-designated British airport.

One Flight a Month.

Hutchinson, interviewed during a brief visit here with his family, said the crews were paid monthly salaries and made about one flight a month. They return by boat, with a round-about trip thus requiring about two weeks.

Special equipment for the flights includes oxygen tanks, extra fuel tanks and flotation gear in the event of a forced landing.

COLD WAVE SNAP GRIPS CANADA

Temperatures Range Below Zero in Manitoba, Ontario and Western Quebec

(By The Canadian Press)

Masses of cold air moving eastward from the Mackensie River valley in the far northwest put Manitoba, Ontario and the western part of Quebec in the grip of a cold snap today with temperatures tumbling far below zero.

But there was immediate relief in sight as the cold began to lift early today from Manitoba, and it was expected that temperatures would moderate in the affected parts of Ontario and Quebec by nightfall.

The Maritimes, which enjoyed comparative warmth, were scheduled to get the wintry blasts tomorrow.

Coldest Spot Moosonee.

Canada's coldest spot at eight o'clock this morning was Moosonee, James Bay terminus of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway where the temperature was 22 below. It had dropped to that during the night.

Moving east from Winnipeg, where it was five below, sub-zero temperatures prevailed in Ontario at Sault Ste. Marie, Parry Sound, Toronto, Kingston and Ottawa, in a range from one below to 13 below. It was zero at Montreal and 20 below at Doucet, Que.

Autumn-like temperatures of 35 to 50 above prevailed along the Pacific coast at Vancouver and Victoria and in Alberta.

The swift descent of freezing temperatures after last week's snow storms in Ontario left the province's by-roads and highways ice-coated and dangerous.

Wave Moves Eastward.

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP).—The central United States saw the mercury slip below zero in many sections today as a cold air mass moved eastward from the plains states.

A 54-year record for the date was broken at Milwaukee today when the mercury sank to eight below zero. The previous low was six below zero on Dec. 3, 1886.

Residents of Wadena, Minn., shivered in 22 below weather, an aged farmer froze to death in his home at Pelican Rapids, Minn., when his daughter suffered a heart attack and was unable to feed a fire. A woman was burned to death near Hibbing, Minn., when frozen hydrants balked firemen trying to extinguish a blaze in her home.

GREEKS STAGE SUCCESSFUL RAID

London, Dec. 3—(CP)—The Air Ministry News Service announced today that a "successful" raid was made yesterday by the Royal Air Force on "important military objectives" at Valona, Albania.

n Ohi sepin the harbor received a direct hit, the Service said, and a stick of bombs fell on the main jetty. Explosions followed a fire started in a large portside building.

One Italian fighting plane was shot down.

Trenton and District

Cory Defeats Alyea By 370 Majority

Trenton (Special) — Harry R. Cory was returned as mayor of Trenton yesterday, by a majority of 370 votes over O. "Buster" Alyea, who was the mayor for 1940. Cory was defeated by Alyea last year by 62 votes in a three-way fight, in which A. A. Farrar was the third candidate.

Mr. Cory was Mayor of Trenton for six successive years until his defeat last year. He entered council in 1933 and the next year, 1934, he was elected as mayor.

The mayor and council will remain in office for a period of two years or for the duration of the war, as the case may be, according to the order of the Provincial Government. The question was not placed to a vote as the council had called a public meeting to discuss the question some time ago and the townspeople did not turn up at the meeting to discuss it. The council decided that there was no need for the question to be placed before the voters.

One of the smallest votes in the last ten years was registered Monday, as many of the voters decided to remain at home rather than brave the wintry elements and snow-clogged roads. Practically every candidate had cars to transport the voters to and from the polling booths but the facilities were not sufficient to get a large number out.

Four Former Councillors Returned

Four out of five councillors who sought re-election this year were returned to office. Councillor Hugh O'Rourke who has served on the council for a number of years failed to retain his seat by a few votes. Councillor F. Ellis was the only councillor of 1940 who did not seek to be returned to council.

Kenneth J. Couch led the polls by collecting 1,135 votes. Ross Burtt followed close on his heels with 1,064 votes. Burtt, a former councillor, failed to run last year but was returned by a large vote this year. Councillor Richard J. Whitley, collected 830 votes and was followed by Councillor Henry LaFleur with 728 votes. Walter Gainforth, a newcomer to council, gained 701 votes and Councillor Victor Ryan collected 681 votes.

Four candidates for council failed to make the grade. They were Hugh O'Rourke with 647 votes; W. W. Miller with 619 votes, Douglas G. White with 613 votes and Thomas Cain with 264 votes.

Albert A. Farrar, a candidate for the mayoralty last year, who ran third, turned his defeat into a victory when he was elected commissioner by a majority of 671 votes. Mr. Farrar defeated George Sprentall, last year's commissioner, who collected 584 votes

Clearing Streets

Workmen are working hard to clear the streets of the snow and ice that has been packed on the main thoroughfares during the past four days in this town. Large on Dundas street for two days in crews of men have been working an effort to clear that street and the bridge of the excess snow.

Many motorists who left their cars outside last night were caught by the cold snap here when the thermometer descended to five below zero and were forced to walk or call taxis in order to get to work.

COLLISION KILLS 50 IN SPAIN

Two Express Trains Meet at Top Speed on Line Between Madrid and Barcelona

Zaragoza, Spain, Dec. 3 (AP)—From 40 to 50 persons were believed killed and at least 80 injured today in a collision of two express trains at a way station between Madrid and Barcelona.

Running at top speed, the express from Barcelona to the capital was reported to have ploughed into the waiting express from Madrid at th Velilla De Ebro Station, overturning one locomotive and splintering wooden cars.

First accounts blamed a faulty switch.

More detailed reports trickling into Zaragoza indicated the train from Madrid had stopped to wait for the train from Barcelona to pass, but that the Barcelona Express crashed into the Madrid train at high speed—presumably because a switch was not thrown.

The moving train overturned the stationary locomotive and then ground into the wooden coaches, ripping them apart.

RICHARD'S SWORD TO BE LEFT BENT

Will be Left as Sign and Token Free People Though Bent, Cannot be Broken

London' Dec. 3 —(CP—Cable)—When a bomb bent the crusader's sword gripped in the hand of Richard the Lion-Hearted's statute beside the House of Commons, Hon. Vincent Massey, the Canadian High Commissioner, suggested that it be left in that state as a symbol of the spirit that a free people may bend but will never break. Lord Reith, Minister of Works and Buildings, announced today that the suggestion has been adopted.

Mr. Massey advanced the proposal during a broadcast in which he recited:—

"So let it stand a people's sign and token
"Figured in bronze for all free men to see
"The sword of the Lion Heart
though bent not broken
"In this new warfare of God's chivalry."

The High Commissioner did not divulge the author of the verse but The Canadian Press learned that he wrote it himself.

British Guns Pound Italians

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The British African command reported today its artillery had resumed pounding of Italian forces dislodged from Gallabat, border station straddling the frontier between Ethiopia and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

The communique said the British forces were concentrating their fire on the Fascist lines established immediately east of Gallabat, which has changed hands several times.

Amplifying previous reports of a clash the night of November 30 in the Sudan area around Kassala, today's communique said the Italians left were ambushed, resulting in the capture of three prisoners, seven motorcycles and a quantity of equipment including machine guns, rifles and ammunition.

OFFICER TO SELECT INTERNEES FOR PIONEER CORPS

British Commons Told Official From Britain to Select Candidates From Among Internees From Britain Held in Canada

London, Dec. 3 — (CP Cable)—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison told the House of Commons today that an administrative officer has gone to Canada to select suitable candidates amongst internees from Britain held there to serve in the Pioneer Corps, which cleans up bomb wreckage and engaged in salvage work.

In a written reply to Col. Josiah Wedgewood, Labor, the Home Secretary added that the officer, Alexander Paterson, one of the commissioners of prisons in England, Wales, arrived in Ottawa Nov. 19 and is now visiting the camps.

Col. Wedgwood also asked if Mr. Paterson would try to induce the Canadian Government to change the present classification of refugees as prisoners of war.

Mr. Morrison explained that "prisoner of war, class two," was the official wording used in the Canadian Defence Regulations to describe civilian internees and that therefore it was difficult to alter a description which applied to civilians interned by Canada in addition to those from the United Kingdom.

The Minister said 19,500 aliens are still interned by the United Kingdom. Of these 4,000 are classified as unfriendly and the others are being dealt with as fast as possible. He said skilled workers would have first consideration for release to become part of the national war effort.

CLAIM VESSEL SUNK BY U-BOAT

Nazis First Say it is Merchant Cruiser Which U.K. Admitted Lost in June

SAY OTHER SHIPS SUNK

Berlin, Dec. 3 (CP)—D.N.B., Nazi news and propaganda agency, issued a statement today that a German U-boat yesterday sank the 17,046-ton British merchant cruiser Caledonia.

When correspondents later pointed out that the British Admiralty had announced loss of the ship last June 14 the agency asked that the announcement be changed to "an auxiliary cruiser of 17,000 tons."

(The Admiralty announcement of June 14, confirming a German claim, said the Caledonia, renamed the Scotstoun when put into war service was sunk by a German submarine with a loss of two officers and four seamen.

(Before the war, the liner, operated by the Anchor Donaldson Line, was in service between Canadian and United Kingdom ports.)

Besides the Auxiliary cruiser, the Nazis claimed that 15 ships in a convoy it was protecting were sunk.

(As is customary, there was no comment from British authorities, but Nazi claims of wholesale sinkings in attacks on convoys seldom measure up when the facts become known.)

Nazis Concerned Over Oil Supply In Rumania

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON)

Washington, Dec. 3—(AP)—German concern over internal conditions in Rumania is too clearly indicated now for much doubt to exist that Berlin sees possibilities of a serious menace to the Nazi war effort.

Assured order in Rumania under a Nazi-dominated regime is a prime requisite for Germany. Hitler's strategy in the Balkans has centred in protection of his vital supply depots in Rumania.

Just how big a conflagration in that country has been touched off by the blood purge of the green shirt pro-Nazi extremists remains to be seen. It seems clear, however that Berlin cannot contemplate a march to aid Italy against the Greeks until the storm in Rumania has been definitely stilled. Germany has too much at stake there to take risks.

Rumanian public opinion has had little chance to show itself since that country became a helpless pawn in the war. Factional leaders have come and gone at Bucharest without even a shadow of popular support for their policies and acts.

The parade of a motorized Nazi division through the streets of Bucharest "with King Michael bringing up the rear" afforded a test to some extent of Rumanian public feeling toward the Germans. It was intended to overawe all factions and avert a German resort to arms to maintain order.

See Leaders as Puppets

Yet neutral observers report that Hitler's war chariots rumbled through the streets of the capital amid an apathetic if not a definitely hostile silence. The cheers were reserved for the boy King.

Berlin would have Rumanians believe that Nazi troops are stationed in that country only to protect it from external aggression. It seems clear however that the populace of Bucharest views Hitler's legions as conquerors, not friends; their own national leaders as Nazi puppets in office.

Even passive public resistance to Germany's will could be a grave matter for Berlin. With winter at hand the flow of Rumanian oil and foodstuffs into Germany will be handicapped. Add to that internal disorders or acts of sabotage and a substantial portion of Hitler's armies would be required to keep the essential traffic moving.

Repercussions of the Greek repulse of Italian forces are another factor for Berlin consideration. The Greeks have taught their Balkan neighbors that the Italian member of the Axis team, at least, is not omnipotent.

Looms Above Greece

Except for the internal situation, reports that Germany is pouring fresh divisions into Rumania might be significant of Nazi intentions to risk Russian and Turkish opposition and undertake a flanking drive against the Greeks in aid of Italy. Unconfirmed rumors of early Yugoslav alignment with the Axis are in circulation. That could mean that Berlin is endeavoring to open a Yugoslav corridor of approach to the Italo-Greek front in Albania.

It seems certain, however, that, until order in Rumania is assured, the situation there will continue to be of more immediate and vital concern to Nazi strategists than the Italian debacle. A German march now to Italy's help would leave a chaotic Rumania behind it or on its flank, and add to the obvious uncertainty in Berlin as to where Russia stands on the Balkan chess board.

RUSSIA ON GUARD

Moscow, Dec. 3 —(AP)— Gen. Ivan Touleneff, commander of the Moscow military district, reviewed the international situation and called for further strengthening of the Red army in an address to an infantry division today.

"International conditions indicate that enemies of our Socialist country will try again to organize all possible troubles and provocations," he said. "This compels us to be vigilant."

The navy organ, Red Fleet, in an international review, discussed the importance of the East Indies.

"Submission of the Netherlands Indies to Japan," it said, "would not only deprive the Netherlands of its richest Far Eastern colony but also would have extremely serious consequences in England and the United States."

EXPENDITURES AT NEW HIGH

London, Dec. 3.—(CP)— Last week's war expenditures rose to the record figure £99,133,950 ($401,096,070).

The previous week expenditures were £72,350,000. The total to date for the final year, starting April 1, is $2,140,918,499.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of letting these conditions become chronic. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hem-Roid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk a chronic pile condition when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

(Advt.)

GARDINER DUFF IS PRESIDENT OF KINSMEN

Annual Voting for Offices Elects Popular Charter Member to Chair

CLUB BUSINESS

Gardiner Duff, well-known Belleville druggist and charter club member, was elected president of the Belleville Kinsmen Club at the annual election of officers of that service club held in connection with their semi-monthly meeting at the New Queens Hotel Monday evening. The members of the executive to function with President-elect Duff for 1941 are: Kinsmen James Fraser, Elmer LeBarr, Orliff Lloyd, F. C. Miller, Don Roe and Harry Rollins.

With the election of officers as the chief item of business on the evening's agenda, President Jeff Marvell introduced several important items of business, including the appointment of a new chairman of the club's principal service to the community, the Kinsmen Club Eye Clinic. Dr. Earl McDonald, the baby member of the club, who was officially inducted during the evening graciously accepted the post left vacant by the recent resignation of Max Water's who is leaving Belleville.

Turkey Bingo

The annual Kinsmen Club pre-Christmas turkey bingo will be held again this year in the stand recently vacated by the C.D.S. grocery division, the bingo to take place one full week prior to Christmas Eve. Those in charge of the Kinsmen bingo will be Kinsmen Don Roe, chairman, assisted by Kinsmen Harry Rollins, Harry Knott, Newt Wilbur and Tommy Colden.

The club's next meeting will take the atmosphere of a Christmas charity program. President Marvell announced that each member was expected to bring an underprivileged teen-aged boy and the evening will be devoted to the entertainment of these children to culminate with the arrival of Santa Claus and the distribution of gifts for the youthful guests. The committee in charge of the club's annual Christmas party for under-privileged boys will be composed of Jim Fraser, chairman, Phil Huddlestone and Court Miller.

Tenders Thanks

At the conclusion of the election of officers, President-elect Gardiner Duff personally thanked the club members for their trust and asked the wholehearted co-operation of every member to assure the continued success of Kinsmen in Belleville during 1941.

Ernie Smith acted as sergeant-at-arms, Don Roe as song leader, while Phil Huddlestone presided at the piano.

370 CASUALTIES AT SOUTHAMPTON

Rescue Workers Search Rubble for Victims of Two Nazi Raids

Southampton, Dec. 3 (CP Cable)—A procession of homeless trekked from this important shipping centre today while rescue workers searched rubble for victims of two savage Nazi week-end raids.

Authorities said casualties "are known to be about 370, which includes both killed and seriously wounded, after Nazi planes battered the great southern port Saturday and Sunday nights.

Hundreds of high explosive and fire bombs were dumped on shopping and other streets, leaving whole areas in ruins.

In the countryside around the city a large number of people who had been unable to obtain billets for the night had their first sleep in 48 hours last night in trucks and cars parked at the roadside. The scene was like a gypsy encampment.

Little Accommodation

One of them said: "There are hundreds in Southampton like me. Country houses, hotels and even cottages have taken in refugees from Southampton until there is not even a sofa unoccupied. It is not that we cannot stand the bombing, but rather that there is no accommodation left for us in town."

Red-eyed from lack of sleep, Town Clerk R.R.H. Meggeson said there is "no question of any large-scale evacuation though we've had loud speaker cars going round the streets reminding the people that they can take advantage of the arrangements for evacuating mothers and young children."

Meantime the 200-foot clock tower of the civic centre stood like an accusing finger pointing at the sky. People who lived through the two nights of horror said the raiders lit the sky so bright with flares that it was possible to read a newspaper in the street. Incendiary and high explosive bombs followed. The Nazi airmen also machine-gunned firemen.

UNDERGROUND POPULATION FALLS OFF 40 P.C.

London, Dec. 3—(CP) — Thousands of Londoners have taken advantage of the toned down air raids of the past month to sleep between sheets instead of packing congested subway shelters. The Home Office estimated today the nightly population of the underground stations had fallen off about 40 per cent, from 150,000 a month ago to an average of 90,000.

Probabilities

Strong southwest winds or moderate gales with light to moderate snowfalls. Thursday, strong northwest winds and becoming colder again with snowflurries.

The Ontario Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1940

Temperatures

	Max.	Min.
Today	21.2	18
One year ago	34	19.9

Weather—Stormy.

GREEKS CLOSING IN RAPIDLY ON PORTO EDDA

NEW "AID TO BRITAIN" BELIEVED IMMINENT

90 P. C. Nazi Refineries Attacked by RAF—Dalton

Italians Pounded At Opposite End Of Albanian Line

Greeks Drive Past Port Edda in Flanking Movement Placing Argirocastro Under Direct Fire

Athens, Dec. 4 (CP). — Greek forces were reported today to be pressing hard against the Italian defences of Porto Edda and Argirocastro, Albania, where resistance was said to be collapsing with capture of both cities expected at any moment.

Earlier a Greek spokesman declared that Fascist troops were falling back fast in the region of Porto Edda, the Italians' southernmost port of entry into Albania, and that Greek advance units were within 1¼ miles of the city.

Other Greek forces, at the opposite end of the Albanian battlefront, were driving steadily through snow-blanketed mountains toward Elbasani and the Albanian capital, Tirana.

In the area of Argirocastro, Greek artillery was said to have neutralized Italian resistance by placing under fire the road running northeast from Porto Edda inland.

New Positions Occupied.

North of the Ostrovitza mountains in the central sector new positions were said to have been occupied by the Greeks in their counter-invasion of Albania. An Athens spokesman said they set up field pieces and shelled Italian emplacements.

Heavy and medium bombers of the Greeks were reported exceptionally active yesterday, facilitating the ground operations. They were said

(Continued on Page Eleven)

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Dec. 4 (CP).—Light to moderate snowfalls have occurred in Ontario where it has become a little milder. The weather has been fair and milder in Alberta and southwest Saskatchewan, but light snow has fallen in southern Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan where temperature continues below normal.

PLACE:	8 a.m.	High Yest'dy	Low During Night
Victoria	47	55	45
Vancouver	47	57	42
Calgary	34	45	29
Edmonton	14	37	14
Winnipeg	—	7	—4
Sault Ste. Marie	10	9	9
Toronto	19	7	6
Ottawa	—14	—2	—20
Quebec	—12	7	—14
Halifax	7	37	6
Detroit	19	20	13
New York	13	27	12
Miami	49	77	48
Los Angeles	66	86	63

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Foehn winds! In America these winds are called "Chinooks". They may be experienced all along the eastern slope of the Rockies, in Alberta, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado. They are warm, dry wind, melting and evaporating the snow and allowing easy grazing. The beginnings are found in the damp west winds from the Pacific, which precipitate most of their moisture on the western slopes of the mountain ranges, losing latent heat in the process. They thus become warmer, or at least the cooling due to ascent is counteracted. They then cross the mountains, and upon descending become warm and dry.

HOUSE COMMITTEE TO ASSIST GOV'T ON EXPENDITURES

Private Members Given Opportunity for More Work in War Effort

DEBATE CONCLUDES

(By Carl Reinke)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—(CP)—Private members of parliament are to have a bigger part in direction of Canada's war effort—as they have been urging with increasing vigor in recent weeks.

A committee of parliament on national expenditure is to be created through which a score or so of members of all parties will assist the government directly in supervising and controlling the vast war expenditures being made. A similar body has been functioning in the British House of Commons for a year.

Members not engaged on the new committee of the Canadian House are being advised to take a more direct part in the leadership of war activities in their own constituencies, co-operating closely with the government.

(Continued on Page Nine)

CHILD IS BORN IN A TRAILER

Father and Mother Refused to Apply for Relief Fearing Loss of Custody of Children

Kingsville, Ont., Dec. 4 (CP)—Sixth child of Mr. and Mrs. Zeke Laskey of Gosfield South, was born in a trailer at two a.m., Dr. J. P. Lee, who attended the mother, said today.

Mr. and Mrs. Laskey face the winter in a 14 by 7 trailer that was abandoned by its original owner. With them are three children, including the girl born Saturday.

Delivery of the child was accomplished by light of a flashlight and a small kerosene lamp. The child now has jaundice.

The Laskeys have refused to make application for relief because they fear custody of some of the six children might be lost.

Mrs. Laskey refused to go to hospital for the confinement for fear the two children with her in the trailer might be taken away in the meantime.

Cannon on Fighter Planes May Prove Most Potent Against Raiders

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Dec. 4 —(CP—Cable)—Royal Air Force fighter planes equipped with cannon are now engaged in the sky battles over Britain and experts are confident that the cannon will make the swift-flying fighters far more effective in beating back German raiders.

The process of fitting the heavier armament has been under way for some time but the information could not be disclosed until today.

In the early stages of the Battle of Britain, Hurricanes and Spitfires, armed with eight machine guns, took a deadly toll of attacking Nazi planes seeking vainly to control the skies as a prelude to an invasion attempt.

Then Germany strengthened the armor of her planes, making them less vulnerable to machine-gun fire and thereby reducing losses amongst the raiders and their escorts.

To counter, the R.A.F. decided to fit cannon on its fighters, providing longer range of effective fire and greater destructive power.

For security reasons it cannot be stated how many cannon the British fighters are carrying but experts are convinced they will prove a more potent weapon than the Browning machine guns.

Reports here suggest the United States Bell Airacobra fighter may be made available to Britain. Firing trials of this machine have been held over Lake Ontario. It is fitted with a 37-millimetre long-barrel type of cannon.

BAD WEATHER CURTAILS NAZI STRIKING POWER

Early-Evening Attacks Are Aimed Chiefly at London and Industrial Midlands

R.A.F. CURTAILED

London Convent Used as Air Raid Shelter Struck but Damage Light

London, Dec. 4 (CP).—Birmingham, oft-bombed heart of the industrial midlands, shared with London the brunt of German air attacks last night, but adverse weather was credited today with blunting the striking power of the Germans and limiting damage and casualties to a minimum.

A communique issued by the ministries of air and home security minimized the effectiveness of the German night assaults, saying clouds prevented them from picking out targets.

The public, meanwhile, was encouraged by the disclosure that the Royal Air Force fighter planes had been equipped secretly with cannon in an effort to meet the challenge of the German air force more adequately.

So bad was the weather last night that the Germans headed for home shortly after 10 p.m. (5 p.m. EDT).

Operations of the Royal Air Force likewise were curtailed, but authoritative sources said a small squadron of its night raiders bombed railway communications in the Rhineland, where Cologne has been a favorite objective.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

SUGGESTS OFFICIAL DISCUSS METHODS OF SUPPLY DELIVERY

London, Dec. 4 (CP). — Edgar Granville, Liberal, gave parliamentary notice today of a question to Prime Minister Churchill suggesting that a member of the war cabinet visit Washington to discuss with the United States government methods of acquiring and delivering war supplies to Britain.

John Parker, Labor, planned to ask the minister of economic warfare, Hugh Dalton, "whether he was aware there was a food shortage in northeast Spain and whether he was satisfied that supplies be allowed under a recent pact with the Spanish government will not indirectly assist" Germany.

GETS DEER AT BACK DOOR

Lehighton, O., Dec. 4 (AP).—While her husband tramped the woods with a hunting party, Mrs. Grant Costenbader bagged a deer at home. She saw the deer from her kitchen window in nearby Aquishicola. Taking a gun she hurried to the back porch and brought down a 120-pound doe on the first shot.

Widening Rift Seen in Axis, Italy's Deterioration Impairs Usefulness as Partner of Nazis

Reuters Agency Says It is Considered Possible Germany Would Seize Italian Port of Trieste

IL DUCE, GRAZIANI AT LOGGERHEADS

New York, Dec. 4 (CP).—Private reports from Europe received by some well-informed diplomatic sources in Washington indicate a rapidly deteriorating situation in Italy and a widening rift in the Berlin-Rome axis, Reuters News Agency said today in a dispatch from its correspondent in the United States capital.

"Probably sensational changes" in western Europe and the Mediterranean are in prospect in the near future, according to these sources, Reuters said. Germany now considers Italy's usefulness as a partner almost irreparably impaired and it was considered possible Germany would seize the important Italian port of Trieste on the Adriatic, taken from Austria after the first great war.

Dissatisfaction among the people of Italy is evident but has not yet crystallized because opposition to the Fascist regime still is leaderless, these sources said. A number of executions of dissatisfied elements also is keeping anti-Fascist feeling in check, it was said.

Friction between Mussolini and Rudolfo Graziani, his commander in chief of operations, has been reported, according to word received in Washington. It was said Graziani three times has refused orders to attack on the Egyptian front until reinforcements in men and material reach him and these apparently cannot be sent.

As a result of this situation, plus Italian reverses in Greece and the refusal of the Italian fleet to meet

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Britain Will Not Barter Territory for Supplies, Attlee Tells House

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 4 (CP).—With two words in the House of Commons, Clement Attlee, Lord Privy Seal, spiked all reports today that the British government might barter territory for war supplies from the United States.

"Yes sir," Mr. Attlee replied when asked by Oliver Simmonds, Conservative, if he could give assurance that the government would not barter the sovereignty of any British territory in return for war supplies from foreign countries.

Mr. Simmonds' question was prompted by unofficial speculation here and abroad that some sort of deal might be made by Britain under which the United States would be given British colonies in the Caribbean and along the Atlantic seaboard in return for war supplies.

Heredity is Stronger Than Environment Okla. Quads Prove

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP).—Four of the most beautiful girls in the United States have proved again that the influence of heredity is stronger than that of environment.

The quarter—Roberta, Mona, Mary and Leota Keys, of Hillis, Okla.—is the first set of quadruplets to be graduated from college.

They are so identical in looks that each is always being mistaken for one of the other three, yet they have developed, in the same identical environment, distinctly different personalities, habits and traits.

According to Dr. Iva Gardner of Baylor University and Dr. H. H. Newman of University of Chicago, who have studied the girls almost since their birth on June 4, 1915, they are two pairs of twins with one paid identical and the other two distinct in their heredity from each other and from the identical pair.

This arrangement, described in the Journal of Heredity, could not have been more ideal for scientific study of heredity versus environment if the scientists had planned it, particularly since the four turned out to be intelligent girls who have co-operated fully in all the tests given them.

Their fingerprint patterns are remarkably similar, their palm patterns are even more so, their intelligence tests form twelve years of age until college graduation from Baylor in 1937 have almost coincided with their high school grades ranking well above average.

Dr. Gardner declared that in spite of the fact that there was some variation in scholastic programs among the four girls their college grades came out nearly even.

All four of the girls dress alike and when they are together they respond to questions, suggestions and ideas almost in unison. They have a "group response" rather than individual responses.

When apart they show distinct individual differences.

The twins, Mona and Roberta "are extremely similar in behaviour and reactions and can be distinguished by but few of their friends," Dr. Gardner added.

CONVICT KILLS PRISON MATE

San Francisco, Dec. 4 (AP).—Alcatraz federal prison officials reported today that Henri Young, bank robber, had killed convict Rufus McCain, 37, in a sudden attack with a makeshift dagger in the prison tailor shop.

McCain, his abdomen ripped by the razor-sharp steel spike, died several hours after the attack. Authorities said there was long-smouldering hatred between the convicts.

JUST ANOTHER ERROR

Berlin, Dec. 4 (CP).—Nazi spokesmen asserted today that "an error in transmission from the front" caused the German high command yesterday to claim the sinking by submarine on Monday of the British liner Caledonia—a ship whose loss was announced by the British Admiralty nearly six months ago.

The vessel actually sunk, they asserted, was 4,000 tons larger than the 17,000-ton ship first claimed, but added they were unable to name the vessel "because of military reasons".

GERMANY USES MORE OIL THAN SHE IS PRODUCING

80 Per Cent of Germany's Oil Plants Subjected to British Bombing

ECONOMIC PRESSURE

Britain Has Constantly, Says Dalton, Imposed New Shortages on Enemy to Determent of His War Effort

London, Dec. 4 (CP)—Hugh Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare, said today that Germany now was using more oil than she was producing because Royal Air Force bombers had attacked 90 per cent. of her refineries and 80 per cent. of her oil plants.

He said stocks of oil in Axis dominated territory were smaller now than at the beginning of the war, adding:

"I think the economic pressure which we are exerting is constantly turning the balance in our favor. It is a slow process and it must be stimulated and assisted by other factors if we are to end the war in our favor within a reasonable time.

"That it will so end I have never doubted and since I have been Minister of Economic Warfare we have constantly imposed new shortages on the enemy to the determent of his war effort.

29 CORPORATIONS FACE INDICTMENTS

Chain of Conspiracies is Alleged to Control and Monopolize Price of Nitrogen, Nitrate of Soda

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—A worldwide chain of conspiracies to control and monopolize the price of nitrogen, nitrate of soda and other nitrates used in the production of munitions was charged by a Federal Grand Jury today against 29 corporations, including the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours and Company.

A series of six Sherman Anti-Trust Act indictments handed up to Judge William Bonday named, in addition to the corporations, 66 individuals—officers, directors and employees of the corporations.

The nitrates which the defendants allegedly conspired to control are used in agriculture, the operation of steel mills, gas plants, water works and other industries connected with National Defence in addition to production of munitions.

Named with the Du Pont Company, among others, were the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, of New York; Chilean Nitrate Sales Corporation, Synthetic Nitrogen Products Corporation, the Barrett Company, of New York and the Solvay Process Company, of Syracuse, N.Y.

Canadian Flier Gets Damaged Plane Home After Sinking Submarine

London, Dec. 4 (CP).—A Canadian pilot of the Coastal Command today described over British Broadcasting Corporation facilities an attack on a submarine in the North Sea and an exciting flight home in a damaged machine.

The pilot, from Stellarton, N.S., was on a reconnaissance flight when the U-boat was sighted "just as it was stepping into its own backyard."

"Our reconnaissance patrol of three Lockheed Hudsons were near the Norwegian coast when we found the U-boat slinking home," he said. "We wasted no time . . . I do not think Jerry realized he was being attacked until he saw us screaming down with our bomb doors open."

The Nova Scotian said it was too late for the submarine to submerge, but the conning tower gun opened fire and hit his aircraft three times.

The U-boat was hit squarely by one bomb and another burst close beside the hull. The Canadian saw the submarine's stern lift from the water, then it disappeared in a swirl of oil and bubbles.

The stricken plane had an elevator out of operation, one petrol tank empty and another leading. Nonetheless it managed to "flutter" back to its base and land safely without giving a job to an ambulance waiting at the field.

Britain 'Good Risk' Says U.S. Federal Administrator

Attends Important Parley Held at U.S. Treasury—Says Meeting Discussed War Supply Production

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones said today that the British Government is "a good risk" and that ordinarily he favored loans to "good risks when they need it for a proper purpose."

He declined, at a press conference, to amplify these two remarks further. He specifically refused to say that he favored loans to the British for war purposes now or in the future.

He was asked whether the Johnson Act prohibiting loans to first Great War debt defaulters—including Great Britain—should be appealed.

"Not now," he repeated.

Saying he did not know how much money the British have left for purchases in the United States, Jones declared that "they say they do" need financial aid.

Jones at Meeting of Treasury

Jones was one of nine high government officials who met at the Treasury yesterday. They were reported authoritatively to have surveyed the British purchasing and financial situation. All he would say about the meeting was that "we discussed generally the production of war supplies."

He declined to answer a question whether war production was discussed in the light of British ability to pay for United States materials.

The "good risk" statement of Jones followed some bantering remarks in which he had declined to comment specifically on a reported proposal of Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board to lend Britain $2,500,000,000 against the Empire's production of gold for the next five years.

Imminence of an important new development in the aid-for-Britain program was indicated by the mere fact that yesterday's meeting at the Treasury was held.

First surmises were that the meeting was concerned with the question of supplying Britain with enough tonnage to replace some of her recent heavy shipping losses.

Wasn't Biggest Thing

One informed official said, however, that if merchant shipping was discussed, "it wasn't the big thing."

(Continued on Page Eleven)

HOUSE TO ADJOURN FEB. 17

Ottawa, Dec. 4 (CP). — Unless summoned by the speaker in the meantime the House of Commons will adjourn until February 17 after concluding consideration of current financial legislation.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King gave notice of a motion to this effect in today's votes and proceedings of the Commons.

Under-Secretary Of U. K. Treasury Comes to U. S.

Washington, Dec. 4. — (AP) — Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau announced today that Sir Frederick Phillips, Under-Secretary of the British Treasury, was scheduled to arrive in the United States today "to place the latest available information (on British finances) before the United States Treasury".

Morgenthau's statement consisted of only one sentence. It followed by only a few minutes a statement by Secretary of Commerce Jones, speaking as Federal loan administrator, who said that the British government "is a good risk" for loans.

It was learned that the mission of Sir Frederick was one of the chief causes of a meeting yesterday of nine important government officials when aid to Britain was discussed.

PLANE SEEN TO DROP LOW

Port Hope, Ont., Dec. 4 (CP) — Police and fishermen are combing the shore of Lake Ontario, east from Port Hope, for an eastbound plane which was seen to dip low over the lake. A raging blizzard is limiting visibility to a few yards off shore and as yet it is not definitely known here if the plane crashed.

ITALY CALLS 1921 CLASS

Rome, Dec. 4.—(AP)— Italians born in 1921 were called today for service in the army for the regular two-year constriction period, adding 200,000 more men to the 1,000,000 already under arms.

MAJOR VICTORY CHINESE CLAIM

20,000 Japanese Reported Killed in Action in Hupeh

Hong Kong, Dec. 4 (CP)—Chinese dispatches portrayed today as one of the major victories of the Chinese-Japanese conflict the reported Chinese successes in Central and Northern Hupeh Province, where a Japanese offensive was claimed to have been smashed last week.

Central news in a dispatch from Chungking said Chinese authorities officially announced about 20,000 Japanese were killed in action in Hupeh, and that large quantities of arms and ammunition were seized.

Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek telegraphed Gen. Li Tsung-Jen, commander in chief of the Chinese forces in Hupeh, commending him for his "wise direction of operations which led to the Japanese debacle."

Reports reaching Shanghai said a steady stream of Japanese wounded had been moving down the Yangtse River in the last two weeks in transports and hospital ships. They were said to have included 11,400 men from the region of Hankow, Capital of Hupeh.

Coming Events

DANCING EVERY WEDNESDAY and Saturday nights to Dan Fairman's Swing Band at Aajman Club, 224 Front, over Lattimer's.
D4

BAZAAR ONTARIO SCHOOL FOR the Deaf, Thursday, December 5, 3 to 6 p.m. Entertainment by pupils in costume. Afternoon tea 25 cents. In aid of Pupils Benefit Fund and Red Cross.
N28-29-30D3-4

REGULAR THURSDAY BINGO, Knights of Columbus; 25 games for 25c. Voucher prizes, door prize. Cover all big game.
O30eWT-tf

GEEN'S LAXATIVE COLD TABLETS
Give Quick Relief 25c PHONE 131

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

18 SHOPPING DAYS TILL Christmas

COUNCIL MAKES TOUR OF AIR STATION

Receiving permission from the ficer Commanding the Trenton se of the Royal Canadian Air rce, members of the Hastings unty Council will tour the air ation this afternoon. The county thers will leave for the base at ree o'clock where they will be et by a party of flying officers o will escort them during the ur.

At night they have accepted the vitation of the Central Ontario eesemakers' Association to at- nd the grand banquet which will rmally close the 13th annual con- ntion of the association as well as e Fourth Annual British Empire iry Show.

RETIREMENT OF REEVE MAWSON REGRETTED BY COUNCIL MEMBERS

A familiar face that will be issed at the 1941 sessions of the ounty Council will be that of eeve David Mawson of Limerick ownship. Reeve Mawson withdrew om municipal affairs this year, ving way to Councillor Malcolm arks who will represent his township for the next two years at ast.

Reeve Mawson's withdrawal from blic life culminated fourteen ars of service to his municipality, ne of which were served in the eeve's chair. County Council col- agues expressed regret at his de- ion to retire, at Tuesday's formal ening of the December session, as eeve Mawson has been outstand- g as a councillor of more than sing ability. He devoted his in- rest to the county as a whole as ll as to his municipality. He will missed in circles both inside and tside Shire Hall.

EDITOR RECEIVES BURNS PUTTING OUT SMALL FIRE

Attempting to extinguish a minor aze that broke out in the Con- ntion Hall of the City Hall Tues- y, Mr. E. O. Evans, agricultural itor of the Family Herald and eekly Star, received painful rns on the backs of both hands. A carelessly thrown match ited a small pile of rubbish en it rolled beneath a radiator the room and the Montreal wspaperman, who is here cover- the British Empire Dairy Show his paper, plunged his hands neath the appliance to put out e blaze. The extreme heat of the diator seared the back of his nds badly.

It Pays to Buy at The Rexall Store.

Cutex Gift Sets

Smarter than ever before.
NOW ON DISPLAY.
65c to $6.50

McKEOWN'S DRUG STORE
271 Front St. Phone 135

36 YEARS IN BUSINESS
CAMPBELL AUTO BODY and PAINT SHOP
BODY and FENDER REPAIRS
327 Coleman St. Phone 777

PALMIST
HAND WRITING ANALYSIS. and PALM READING and CARDS.
HANDWRITING BY MAIL
PROF. CYBELLE
211 Coleman Street.
N5-1m

WHAT COLOR IS THE SKY?
Watch for the answer in "It's a Fact!"

PICTURE FRAMING
PROMPT SERVICE
WORK GUARANTEED
SILLS BOOK STORE
222 Front St. Phone 1829
D4-6

Special Badge For Bomb Disposal Squads

London, Dec. 4 (CP).—The King approved a specia lbadge for members of the time bomb disposal squads today.

The badge is slightly larger than a half dollar and shows an orange bomb on a red background. It will be worn on the left sleeve between the elbow and wrist.

FOTONITE $510
—On the Screen—
"MOONLIGHT AND MELODY"
"MEN WITH WINGS"
ONE BIG OFFER

One puff from a deadly cigarette... AND THE FLEET IS MARKED FOR DOOM!
Can Chan strike fast enough?
ROY ROGERS - MANHUNTER!

Thursday—Friday—Saturday

CHARLIE CHAN IN PANAMA
with SIDNEY TOLER
JEAN ROGERS • LIONEL ATWILL
MARY NASH • SEN YUNG • JACK LA RUE
KANE RICHMOND • LIONEL ROYCE
CHRIS-PIN MARTIN • HELEN ERICSON
Also: NEWS—9th. Chapter "TIM TYLER'S LUCK"

EXTRA ON THE SAME PROGRAMME
A LETTER FROM CAMP BORDEN
Life in Canada's great military camp ... all the excitement ... humanity and spectacle of Canadian youth in training!

Tackling the most dangerous assignment of his career as he hits the trail against a band of enemy agents.
COLORADO
A REPUBLIC PICTURE
ROY ROGERS
GEORGE "Gabby" HAYES
PAULINE MOORE • MILBURN STONE • MAUDE EBURNE
CAPITOL

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

LOST

BROWN BROADTAIL MUFF. Finder will receive reward by returning to Woodley's Fur Store. D4-3t

H. HERRINGTON ON TRIAL FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Court Decides to Try Separately Defendants in Joint Indictment

A joint charge that they did unlawfully drive a motor vehicle recklessly and in a manner dangerous to the public, was read to Herbert Herrington and Edward A. Kellaway, both of this city, when they appeared at the opening of the general sessions of the Peace and Jury Sittings of the County Court held before His Honor Judge Reynolds of Kingston here Tuesday. The charges arose out of a motor accident which occurred north of Millbridge on Aug. 17 last when a truck owned by Kellaway and driven by Herrington was in collision with a motor car driven by William McPhee of this city. Pleas of not guilty were entered by both accused men.

Protest Sustained

E. O. Butler, solicitor for the defendants, protested the joint indictment, holding that in the first instance separate charges had been preferred and heard in the preliminary hearings, when Herrington and Kellaway were committed for trial on more serious charges. In a recent sitting of the Supreme Court however, the Grand Jury rendered true bills of dangerous driving and later the joint charge was preferred.

"Originally two charges were preferred and separate informations laid and up until the time the Grand Jury heard the evidence, they were separate indictments," held Mr. Butler.

"The evidence is identical in both instances, but I have no strenuous objections to separate trials," replied Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson forthwith and with the consent of His Honor, Mr. Kellaway stepped from the prisoner's docket and Herrington's case proceeded.

Outlines Evidence

In summing up the case before the jury Crown Attorney Robertson reviewed the case for the benefit of the jury, stating that on the night of Aug. 17th, 1940, a truck allegedly driven by Herrington and owned by Kellaway was in collision with a motor car driven by Wm. McPhee of this city and as the result of the accident fatal injuries had been sustained by Mrs. Jessie Allore of Trenton.

W. B. Scott, Highway Department engineer residing at Bancroft, gave expert testimony as to distances, submitting a plan of the highway near Millbridge, where the accident occurred. The chief point brought out by Mr. Scott was the various distances of vision from opposite points of the alleged point of impact. A. L. Cole, Belleville, submitted photographs taken at the scene of the accident, while Provincial Constable Stanley Palmateer, Bancroft and who was in charge of the investigation, told of the position of the vehicles on the highway when he arrived at the scene. The case is still in progress.

The jury is composed of Murney Reynolds, Harry Burley, Walter Foley, Alex Tanner, Edward Davidson, Wesley Bradshaw, George Striker W. L. Fox, James Keene, Wesley Wallace, Charles Bayette and George Rush.

Three-Truck Motor Accident Ties Up Traffic for Hours

Motor traffic east of Belleville was halted and vehicles marooned for some hours as the direct result of a three-truck motor accident that occurred after midnight Tuesday. As the result of the crash, three large transports and trailers were strewn across the north route of the four-laned highway one-half mile west of the Point Anne intersection on Highway No. 2.

Owing to mechanized trouble a large Metropolitan transport, driven by Patrick McGrady of Toronto, came to a halt near the entrance to the four-lane highway east of Belleville. McGrady got out of the cab of his tractor and signalled a Smith transport, driven by William Spicer also of Toronto, to continue past. In passing Spicer's tractor skidded into a deep icy rut and the trailers of Spicer's and McGrady's transports locked together, the force of the impact swerving the large Metropolitan truck across the highway. A third transport was following Spicer and was driven by Clarence Gooderham, who also resides in Toronto.

Gooderham skirted the flares that had been set out, but when his truck was unable to pass the two trucks in collision, Gooderham immediately swerved his tractor trailer to the left with the result the heavy vehicle skidded sideways into the boulevard between the two-lane highway. Traffic was tied up at this point for several hours before Motorcycle Patrolman Charles Siple and several garage tow trucks could separate the tangle of wreckage. Considerable damage resulted to all three transports, but no injuries were sustained. The sub-zero weather slowed up the efforts of garagemen in releasing the wreckage.

OBITUARY

JAMES GIBSON

James Gibson died on Tuesday, Dec. 3rd, at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Gordon H. Bray, 28 Hillside Street. He was in failing health for some time.

The late Mr. Gibson, who was in his 80th year, was born at Aurora, Ont., being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Gibson. For the past year and a half he made his home in this city with his daughter, Mrs. Gordon H. Bray. For many years he resided in Bracebridge, Ont., and for thirty-eight years he was a tanner in the employ of the Anglo-Canadian Leather Company in that town. In religion he was a member of the Free Methodist Church and was highly esteemed.

Surviving him are six daughters, Mrs. Fred Denham, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. E. J. Lee, Barrie; Mrs. H. M. Parker, London, Ont.; Mrs. S. Berry, Muskoka Lakes; Mrs. F. Moore, Falkenburg, Ont. and Mrs. Gordon H. Bray, Belleville; two sons, Mr. Percy Gibson, Toronto and Mr. Mell Gibson, Sudbury.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

LATE MRS. THOMAS W. BLATHERWICK

There was a large attendance of friends at the funeral of Mrs. Thomas W. Blatherwick, late residence 8 Queen Alexandra Avenue, which took place Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 3rd, from the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street, to Bridge Street United Church, where an impressive service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. James Semple, assisted by the Rev. W. Sterling, pastor of the United Church at Shannonville, both of whom took part in the service at Shannonville cemetery where interment was made.

The bearers were Messrs. John J. Trudeau, Arthur Hill, Morley Anderson, John Badger, Frank Pringle and Clarence Hagerman.

The floral tributes were beautiful and many in number.

LATE ROBERT A. CAMPBELL

The funeral of Robert Anson Campbell, a former resident of Chisholm's Mills, Hastings County, who died at Strathroy, Ontario, on Saturday last, took place from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell St., on Tuesday at 11 o'clock (standard time). The service in the chapel and at the Belleville cemetery, where entombment was made, was conducted by the Rev. Dr. James Semple, pastor of Bridge Street United Church.

The bearers were Messrs. John Johnson, W. Preston, D. Hall, F. Coulter, J. Colden and J. Vance.

LATE FREDERICK A. SPAFFORD, (Sidney Township)

Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 3rd, the funeral of Frederick Arthur Spafford took place from his late residence in the 2nd concession of Sidney Township. The service in the home and at the graveside in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. W. J. Scott of Aikens United Church.

The bearers were Messrs. H. Grills, P. Westover, S. Westover, E. Bush, C. McMullen and F. Moon.

WILLIAM T. HUTCHINSON, (Calgary, Alberta)

William Thomas Hutchinson, father of Mr. Thomas J. Hutchinson of Belleville, died after a brief illness in Calgary, Alberta, on Monday evening, Dec. 2nd.

The late Mr. Hutchinson was born 65 years ago in Cheshire, England. In the year 1912 he came to Canada and located in Calgary where for many years he was engaged with the Ashdown Hardware Company, one of the largest wholesale and retail hardware dealers in Western Canada. Eight years ago he spent a year and a half in this city with his son, Mr. Thomas J. Hutchinson, and those who knew him at that time will regret to learn of his death.

Surviving him are his wife, who prior to her marriage, was Miss Emma Edgerton; two sons, Mr. Thomas J. Hutchinson, Belleville, and Mr. Walter Hutchinson, Peterboro; one daughter, Mrs. H. A. Danskin, Calgary; one brother, Mr. Walter Hutchinson, Toronto and another brother and a sister in England.

The funeral will take place in Calgary on Thursday, Dec. 5th.

A BETTER WAY TO TAKE COD LIVER OIL

SCOTT'S EMULSION
59¢ AND 98¢
SCHRYVER'S PHARMACY
PHONE 49

Heavy Snowfalls Set New Record

No One Can Recall There Being So Much Snow So Early in Season

Never in the memory of the oldest resident of Belleville has there been as much snow at this time of the year as has fallen in this district during the past week. Old timers who cherish the memories of bygone winters and enjoy reminiscing over the tall tables of early snow storms and blizzards, readily agree they do not recall so much snow in this district at this time of the year.

After a two-day tie-up of motor vehicle traffic following the week-end blizzard roads had been ploughed out yesterday and traffic was beginning to return to normal when the mercury dropped to 18 below zero last night, again slowing traffic down to a noticeable degree. The weather moderated early Wednesday however, and snow set in to drive a blizzard out of the south and again choke main highway arteries with several inches of a light fluffy snow to make traffic exceedingly hazardous as the snow pile high. About 30 inches of snow have fallen this season. Last winter there were 90 1-2 inches.

Piles of snow blanket the streets of Belleville after citizens dug themselves out of the worst pre-Christmas snow storms in this city's history. For almost five days snow has fallen in this area leaving snow banks fully five feet high on the outskirts where a driving blizzard whipped the snow high into banks that blocked traffic and left motor vehicles marooned.

Shortly after midnight last night the coldest day of the season was registered when the mercury dropped to 18.5 degrees below zero. Four hours later it was only 12 below and later again it moderated with snow setting in for an all-day storm that again hampered traffic and left highways and county roads in a hazardous condition for traffic.

FRENCH PROTEST STUDIED

Madrid, Dec. 4 (AP).—The British Embassy informed the French Embassy in a note today that the recent French protest over the bombing of Marseille was being studied. The French charged that the bombing, which caused several deaths last month, was by British planes.

EVENING WRAPS
MADE-TO-ORDER for the Season's Festivities
ORDER EARLY TO ASSURE DELIVERY.
DELANEY'S
EXCLUSIVE FURRIERS
17 Campbell St. Phone 797

ANNUAL BAZAAR
ONTARIO SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF
Thursday, December 5th
3.00 to 6.00 P.M.
ENTERTAINMENT BY PUPILS IN COSTUME
SALE OF SEWING—Aprons, Shopping Bags, Purses, Belts, Luncheon Sets, Cushions, Towels, Pyjamas, Toys, Bath-Mats.
SALE OF BAKING:—Christmas Cakes, Christmas Puddings; Home-made Candy; Baskets; Christmas Decorations.
AFTERNOON TEA, served by the pupils—25c.
SCHOOL BUS will leave post office at 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, and 5 o'clock, returning from the school at 3.45, 4.15, 4.45 and 5.30 o'clock.
NET PROCEEDS: Pupils' Benefit Fund, 60%; Red Cross 40%.
N28-29-30D3-4

SECOND SESSION COOKING SCHOOL WILL ATTENDED

Interesting News of Canadian Cookery Outlined by Mrs. Madeline Day

FINE PRIZES

"Parade of the Foods" Demonstrates Dishes Prepared on Theatre Stage

Tuesday afternoon's session of the Cooking School being conducted in the McCarthy Theatre by the talented instructor, Mrs. Madeline Day, brought a large and enthusiastic audience to the theatre, eager to hear more of the latest Canadian Cookery news.

Helpful Advice

Mrs. Day had much practical advice to give homemakers, and her informal and entertaining manner made the afternoon most enjoyable as well as instructive. Treating well known dishes in a new manner would make them more appealing to the family, and Mrs. Day suggested many innovations, well within the average budget limit.

Cakes, pies, meat dishes and salads were included on her program and she discussed the many fine points in their preparation. As she prepared a casserole for the main course of a meal Mrs. Day had many useful pointers to give on the success of escalloped potatoes, a favourite Canadian dish.

Escalloped Potatoes

"Many of you probably have found your escalloped potatoes" sometimes curdle," she said. "Here are three ways in which you can overcome this. First, after you have sliced the potatoes very thin, soak them in cold water for an hour. Second, if this does not do the trick cook them for a few minutes in this water, bringing it to a boil. If both these methods fail, instead of using milk, pour a very thin white sauce, no thicker than cream over the potatoes. Escalloped potatoes should be cooked, uncovered, so that they will brown nicely, and in an oven no hotter than 325 degrees."

As Mrs. Day's skilful fingers quickly prepared the many tempting dishes of yesterday afternoon's school she talked on all manner of subjects that made for better housekeeping. The ladies in the audience were invited to ask any questions and they did not hesitate to do so, so that the atmosphere was of a neighbourly gathering of old friends.

Not only did Mrs. Day speak of the actual preparation of food but advised its careful selection with attention to the proper balance of food values in the diet. She told of economical choices and the manner of cooking these.

Latest Developments

The care in preservation of food and the latest equipment for this purpose were brought to the attention of the ladies, and Mrs. Day told of the advantages of the latest in kitchen equipment.

During intermission, piano numbers by Mr. Cornell of the McCarthy theatre staff, were greatly appreciated by the audience. As on Monday, the highlight of the school was the "Parade of the Foods" when the dishes prepared were exhibited in mirrored trays, on the stage and then carried through the audience so that the ladies could see the texture of the finished product.

Many handsome prizes were presented to lucky winners in the audience and it was announced that all who had attended at any time would be ligible for Wednesday's grand prize a radio.

Prize Winners

Drawing of the lucky tickets resulted in the following winning prizes Mixmaster Mrs. T. W. Law, McDonald and Victoria Avenue; Food Hampers: Mrs. W. H. Middleton, Turnbull Street; Mrs. Rose Meagher, Octavia Street; Mrs. E. Sandercock, Belleville; Mrs. W. H. Bailey, 18 Evans Street; Mrs. James Cordes, Yeomans Street; Mrs. J. A. McFee, Foster Avenue; Mrs. H. R. Shoebridge, Frank Street; Mrs. D. J. Culhane, E. Moira; Mrs. R. Forbes, Geddes Street; Mrs. W. Peoples, John Street; Jennie Redner, R.R. No. 4, Belleville; M. M. Redner, R.R. No. 4 Belleville.

Cake: Mrs. Harry Sager, McDonald Avenue.

Roasting Pan: Mrs. E. Burn, Chatham Street.

Cake: Mrs. E. Palmer, Gordon Street.

Coffee Brewer: Mrs. W. J. Harrison, Boswell Street.

Cake: Violet Grant, Grier Street.

Cookery: Mrs. McKenna, Burnham Street; Mrs. James Lynch, Front Street; Mrs. J. Craighead, Catherine Street.

Food Hampers: Mrs. Alice Wilkinson, Ann Street; Agnes Gallagher, Pinnacle Street; Evelyn Ethier, Dundas Street; Beatrice Murray, Ann Street; Mrs. J. Shappee, Cedar Street; Mrs. Wm. Kyle Charlotte Street; Mrs. J. J. Murphy Harriett Street; Mrs. J. C. McCarthy, Charles Street; Mrs. Cliff Baragar, Charles St.; Mrs. T. C. McMullen, Parker Street; Mrs. Vivian Darcy, Dundas Street; Mrs. Kathleen Fraser, 85 Geddes Street; Mrs. Jos. Tilly, Alexander Street.

Cake: Mrs. J. Hagerman, 20 Forin Street.

Rinso and Lux: Mrs. Leo Callaghan, Victoria Avenue.

Christmas Cake: Mrs. A. Mumby, Cannifton Road.

DAILY 2.30: 7.10: 9.10
THURS. — FRI. — SAT.
THRILLS! EXCITEMENT! SPECTACLE!
Edward Small presents
KIT CARSON
with JON HALL • LYNN BARI
— Ends Tonight —
BARBARA STANWYCK • WILLIAM HOLDEN
in "GOLDEN BOY"
FOX NEWS TECHNICOLOR CARTOON
COMING! — SUNDAY AFTER MIDNIGHT
The Picture You Will Remember for the Rest of Your Life.
"Mein Kampf—My Crimes"
AIR CONDITIONED McCARTHY THE SHOW PLACE OF BELLEVILLE

Ditty Bags For Canadian Sailors Bulge With Gifts

Seventy Canadian sailors who will spend Christmas on the high seas or at Canadian ports, will receive ditty bags bulging with a wonderful collection of Christmas gifts, due to the thoughtfulness of Belleville women working with St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E. The eighteen Belleville boys in the navy whose names were sent into the chapter at its request, will each be recipients of bags and the others will be distributed by the Navy League of Canada to Canadian sailors.

Tuesday afternoon the ditty bags were packed in the Oddfellows' Hall by members of the chapter. These bags were sent by the Navy League and the amount of gifts packed into each amazed those who watched the packing. There was a sweater, scarf and pair of sox for each one the handiwork of the chapter members. But that was only the beginning. Every bag contained as well, all in gay Christmas wrappings, cigarettes, games, a New Testament, flashlight, Christmas cake, paper and pencil, towel and face cloth, sox stretchers, candy, tooth paste and those handy sewing kits called "housewives." Each chapter member filled a bag with her own donations and the group was helped by many individuals and stores to whom they extended sincere thanks for their donations and assistance.

Yesterday afternoon the chapter had presented to it a beautiful life size baby doll, dressed exquisitely, the gift of Annabelle Docter. Tickets will be sold on this to raise funds for the chapter's work.

Police Blotter

City and Provincial Police collaborated to investigate the distribution of literature in Belleville yesterday, which was believed to have been of a subversive nature. After considerable effort Detective Fred Isard and Provincial Constable J. G. Burton apprehended two men who were alleged to have been distributing pamphlets which were entitled—"The End of Nazism."

Subsequent investigation in the offices of Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson at the Court House last night ultimately resulted in the two men being liberated, but told to leave Belleville immediately. The general consensus of opinion of the authorities was that the literature was not exactly subversive, but its attack on religions was not appreciated. The literature is identical with that distributed by a cult known as Jehovah's Witnesses in other parts of Canada and which brought police court charges. As no charges were preferred here the police refrained from revealing the names of the men apprehended yesterday.

No arrests were necessary in Belleville during the last 24 hours and as the result of continued storms and cold weather few transients are on the open roads these days, as can be proven in the fact that only six transients sought comfortable sleeping quarters at the police station last night.

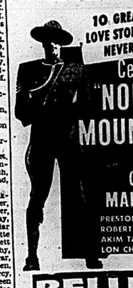
Lost Only 4 Days In 28 Years From Duties

Mr. Harry M. Baker, Mail Carrier, Now on Leave, Will Retire

In about 28 years as mail carrier in Belleville, Mr. Harry Baker, 107 Catherine Street, has lost only four days from his duties through illness outside of regular holidays, a record to be proud of as he comes to the time of his retirement in the near future after a period of leave which has been granted him by the Post Office Department in recognition of his faithful service to the public.

Mr. Baker, who is a son of the late Robert Baker and a brother of the late Charles Baker, was born in this city and has spent his life here. Before he entered the postal service he was a decorator.

This week Mr. Baker began his leave.



A GREAT PICTURE DRAWS GREAT CROWDS!
... WHATEVER YOUR PLANS FOR TONIGHT, TOMORROW OR FRIDAY ... MAKE SEEING THIS PICTURE A "M-U-S-T" .. YOU'LL THANK US FOR IT!
HELD OVER!
10 GREAT STARS! 2 GREAT LOVE STORIES! 1,000 THRILLS NEVER BEFORE EQUALLED!
Cecil B. DeMille's "NORTH WEST MOUNTED POLICE"
IN TECHNICOLOR!
GARY COOPER
MADELEINE CARROLL
PRESTON FOSTER • LYNNE OVERMAN
ROBERT PRESTON • PAULETTE GODDARD
AKIM TAMIROFF • GEORGE BANCROFT
LON CHANEY Jr. • WALTER HAMPDEN
Extra! A LETTER FROM CAMP BORDEN
Life in Canada's great Military Camp .. All the Excitement ... Humanity and Spectacle of Canadian Youth in Training!
BELLE
—HOME OF FINE PICTURES—
Daily 2.30: 6.55: 9.10

Text of Address of Chief Dairy Instructor at Cheesemakers' Convention

Reviewing the results of the past year's production of Ontario Cheddar Cheese and to note the great improvement that has taken place is indeed encouraging to all engaged in the industry, which during the last few years from both the quality and quantity standpoint has been declining regardless of the repeated warnings which have been sounded, particularly with regard to the maintenance of the high standard of quality so essential in competition in the British market, and to uphold the reputation of Canadian Cheese.

Last year when I addressed you in convention I stated we were disappointed with what had been accomplished, the only noticeable improvement made to our credit was that of the improvement in quality of those cheese which were placed in first grade, and when the final compilation of figures by the Federal Staff was completed we had only made the very small increase in the percentage of first grade cheese of .14 per cent. It is therefore very gratifying to all those concerned to note the improvement made in the past season. The producers and cheesemakers who are responsible for this improvement are to be congratulated on the good work which they have done. The results show what can be accomplished through a united effort, as there has been greater cooperation between the producers, cheesemakers and our Provincial staff towards the improvement of the quality. With this as their objective they have succeeded in reducing the number of undergrade cheese by [illegible] boxes. There has also been a further improvement in the quality of textures and finish of cheese which is indicated by the increased number of high scoring cheese. This, together with the increase in quantity of nearly ten million pounds, equivalent to between 95 and 100,000 boxes made, should improve the average score and also the percentage of first grade cheese materially, and place the industry in the position it enjoyed between the years of 1932 and 1936, when the percentage of first grade ranged over 96 per cent and I also believe will set a record for high scoring cheese.

The Value of Legislation to the Industry

There are several factors which have tended to bring about this improvement in the past season.

1. The Cheese and Cheese Factory Improvement Act and subsidies.
2. Greater co-operation between the producer and cheesemaker.
3. The change in our instructional work, made possible by the Cheese Producers' Association taking over the testing of milk.
4. Favorable weather conditions which prevailed this season.
5. General improvement in cheese factories under license system.

No doubt the prime factor responsible for this improvement was the Cheese and Cheese Factory Improvement Act whereby a premium was paid on the high scoring cheese. As the price of cheese was pegged by the British Government at 14c delivered in Montreal and was somewhat disappointing to the producer, he realized that the only means of increasing the price was by improving the quality and by so doing benefit by the premium on high scoring cheese. Due to the appreciation of this fact many of the producers assumed this responsibility and improved the quality of milk supplied to the cheese factory. From the reports coming in from our instructors, this co-operation was practiced to a greater extent than formerly and assisted in improving the quality of milk considerably, but was not as general as it should be, in fact only a very few factories have the full co-operation of their patrons. There is great room for improvement along this line. Also through the passing of this Act the standard of the cheesemaker has been raised, whereas a few years ago the maker's qualifications and ability was determined by the percentage of first grade cheese even though they were only a 92 score. Today, however, these qualifications depend upon his ability to produce 93 and 94 scoring cheese, and the careful and ambitious maker is not satisfied with merely a first grade, in fact is disappointed unless he is producing 93 or 94 score, and has put forth a greater effort to improve his milk supply and to practice the most approved methods of manufacture that he may produce the maximum number of high scoring cheese.

When visiting factories this year, the enthusiasm of the makers was very high. After trying some cheese at the factories, I was often asked by the maker what would be the score. Since I was only an instructor and not a grader my reply in many cases which warranted it was that they were very nice cheese. The uniformity of methods of manufacture with uniform textures and flavor were outstanding. One could travel all day and find this same quality prevailing.

Improvement in Finish

A further improvement in the finish of cheese has helped place shipments in the higher grades. Profiting by their experience of last year when grades on many shipments were lowered on account of poor finish, makers realized that to obtain these higher scores, the outside appearance must correspond to that of the inside quality. This resulted in a general improvement, showing that greater attention had been paid to the bandaging and regularity of turning cheese. Besides my own observation in this regard, such remarks or comments in the reports from instructors on this improved finish as "Stylish", "Excellent" and "Good" were frequently noted, but were never heard prior to the Cheese and Cheese Factory Improvement Act. I do not mean to imply that all our cheese have come up to this standard. On the contrary, indications that there is room for still greater improvement along this line in many of our factories is evidenced, in some cases by our staff expressing the type of finish as "Fair", "Ordinary" or "Some Wrinkles", denoting that the finish could be improved.

A Change in System of Instruction

Relieving our staff of Instructors of the milk testing by the Cheese Producers' Association has also been of valuable assistance in the general improvement of our cheese. Formerly from ten to twelve days of each month were required for testing milk. Through this change our men have been able to give more assistance to the cheesemakers in the manufacturing of cheese and to bring about greater uniformity of methods, to do more instructional work in the factories and also on the farm with producers, towards the improvement of quality, more frequent use of the Methylene Blue, Sediment and Fermentation Tests has been made possible. These tests when it has been found necessary have been followed up with greater amounts of field work than in any previous year, many farms were visited for the purpose of improving milk production, checking up on utensils used, and to improve cooling facilities.

Figures from my records from May 1st to November 15th, show that: No. of Farms visited—2,882; No. M.B. Tests—19,700; No. Fer. Tests—7,200; No. Sed. Tests—1,700. These tests have revealed many cases of very low grade milk being delivered to the factories which after a visit of our Instructors to the producer's farm, have brought about greatly improved quality of milk. There can be no doubt that the extra time afforded for instructional work at farms, due to the change in the system of testing has been an important factor in this year's improvement, and that this work should be extended next season. The testing of milk for butterfat by outside men appointed by the County Cheese Producers' Association, under the supervision of the local instructor, has from reports from each county been generally satisfactory, and I would strongly recommend its continuance.

For too many years, instead of improving the quality of the milk, many factories have accepted gassy, over-ripe and tainted milk, and have tried to overcome these deficiencies by resorting to other means contrary to the principles of cheesemaking—the use of high temperatures, too fine-cutting of curds and various other methods used were to try to produce a first grade cheese from second, third, and sometimes fourth grade milk. The results were coarse, harsh, or mealy textures; the curing or the maturing qualities of the cheese were impaired and the cheese would not break down as they should, with the resultant complaints from our customers—the British importers.

This year more attention has been paid by all concerned. First, towards the improvement in the quality of the milk and second, to the methods of manufacturing the cheese. In this respect we have made definite progress. We have profited by the mistakes of the last few years, which have proven that we cannot divert far from the principles of cheesemaking with any degree of success, that these principles cannot be ignored, and the closer we adhere to them the greater will be our attainments. Quality milk and sane methods of manufacturing are the essentials that produce quality cheese. I regret to report there are still a number of the larger factories which are privately owned that are accepting milk of questionable quality and are depending on volume of business for their profits; these plants engage trucks to haul milk on a price per hundredweight basis, truckers organizing their own routes. Several of these plants have been responsible for a large number of our undergrade cheese in the past season (four of which produced 2,776 boxes of undergrade cheese or more than 10.7 per cent. of the total Pick-outs for Central and Eastern Ontario). These are some of the unfortunate cases which entirely lack co-operation between producer and manufacturer.

Improved Sanitary Conditions Under Licence System

The licencing of cheese factories which has been in force during the last two years, is having the effect of bringing about a general improvement in the quality of our cheese. Under this system the regulations have been tightened up, each factory must be approved before a licence is issued, this has been the means of improving many of our plants. Particular attention being given to the interior and equipment, sanitary conditions and drainage and water systems are receiving more attention each year.

Four of the older plants which have served their usefulness and were beyond repair have been replaced with new and more modern type of buildings and equipped with improved cooling rooms. Many other factories have also taken advantage of the Government subsidy to improve their facilities, all of which is having its effect on improved quality.

The exterior of many of our factory buildings could be much improved in appearance with a coat of paint and other outside repairs, which would create a better impression with the public in general and indicate that cleanliness and tidyness are important features in the manufacture of cheese and that outward appearances are in keeping with the quality of the produce.

Defects

We now come to the discussion of the defects in cheese usually classified as Flavor and Mechanical, of which the latter type are those within the control of the cheesemaker. With regard to the mechanical defects of cheese, as previously stated the total number of undergrades has been substantially reduced, the variety of defects however were as numerous as last year, but the number of boxes in each variety was considerably lower than in 1939. There has been a very satisfactory decrease in these defects in this year's work, which emphasizes the greater interest which has been taken by cheesemakers towards the improvement of textures. At the Convention last year I mentioned that many of these defects were attributable primarily to poor textures. With the extra effort put forward towards improving texture, a reduction in this error is noted. My figures cover the period from May 1st to November 20th, of both years, and show that for 1939 these mechanically defective cheese were 20,246 boxes, as compared with 8,464 for 1940, or a reduction of 11,782 boxes, equivalent to a decrease of 58 per cent. Many of these defects such as acidy, weak, coarse, open, stiff, and various other defects showing reductions of from 25 to 75 per cent.

Regarding Flavor Defects

Rancidity still holds its prominent place among our defects for flavor, although not accounting for as many boxes as last year. For the same period, May 1st to Nov. 20th, in 1939 we had 12,866 boxes as compared with 10,288 boxes in 1940, a reduction of 20 per cent. From these figures it will appear that rancidity in number of boxes is 2,578 less than last year, and actually is, and on a percentage basis when the increase in number of boxes of cheese made is taken into consideration, will show a greater decrease. But since the number of undergrades from other causes has been reduced rancidity from the viewpoint of percentage of total defects shows that it constitutes 34.5 per cent. of these defects in this year, whereas it was responsible for only 32 per cent. of the total defects in 1939, or an increase of 2.5 per cent. All other flavor defects showed improvement, with the exception of fruity flavor, which increased this year. We have 35 per cent. increase in this type of cheese over 1939 when we had 2,775 boxes as compared with 4,221 this year. All the others, such as off, sl. off, not clean and stable flavors, showing decreases from 20 to 66 per cent.

During the early part of the season some research work on rancidity was carried on by Messrs. Castell and Irvin, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, at the Kemptville Agricultural School. Many samples of milk were taken and analysis of same made and I believe a good deal of data collected. This work in the East was discontinued in or about July to be carried on at Guelph.

Better Attention Should Be Given To Winter Cheese

I would like to call to the attention of all those cheesemakers who operate through the winter months, December to April 1st, that while some of our factories which operated last year turned out some very fine cheese, a number of others showed that they were not giving the same care to their winter make as they did to those made in the summer. Consequently we started this year on April 1st, with 3,414 boxes of undergrade cheese, a large percentage of these showing mechanical defects. 18 out of our 25 groups had undergrade cheese caused by cracked rinds, varying in number from 5 boxes up to 800 boxes per group, and the total number picked out for this cause was 1,161 boxes, or 31 per cent. of the total. This defect is caused by improper bandaging of cheese and can be avoided by the use of plenty of hot water and greater care in bandaging. Another 800 boxes were acidity, weak, pasty, or coarse, all of which indicate defects in texture. There is no reason why 50 per cent. at least could not be eliminated if the same care and attention are given to the manufacturing and finishing as in the summer months.

In concluding I would like to thank the cheesemakers, producers and our instructors for their cooperation and assistance in bringing about the improvement in quality of the past season, and to ask you to put forth an even greater effort in the coming season, that we may maintain and improve our present standing. To do this we must make more frequent use of the Methylene Blue and Fermentation tests followed by more farm instruction work, which gives us the necessary individual contact with the producer and has been of valuable assistance towards improved quality of milk in the past season. Under the present system of instruction this work can be considerably extended and with careful methods of manufacture we can look forward to a further improvement in 1941.

RAIDER SURVIVORS REACH CA NADA

Snatched from a watery grave by a freighter which came to their rescue, this group of seamen from the British merchantman Trewallard are shown as they arrived at an undisclosed port in eastern Canada. Their vessel was being convoyed by the Jervis Bay when a German surface raider, believed to be a pocket battleship, attacked them in mid-Atlantic. Though their ship went down in the first onslaught, the Jervis Bay got between the convoy and, the raider and bravely gave battle with her small calibre guns until sunk. Her action so delayed the raider that most of the vessels reached their destinations safely.

A scene from "Charlie Chan in Panama," 20th Century-Fox film coming next to the Capitol. Above are (left to right) Mary Nash, Kane Richmond, Jean Rogers, Sidney Toler (as Chan) Sen Yung (his "No. 2 son") and Lionel Atwill, also Roy Rogers in his latest western, "Colorado."

PLAINTIFF GIVEN $450 DAMAGES

Settlement of Motor Accident Case Made Out of Court

Settlement in favour of the plaintiff for the sum of $450.00 was announced by counsel in the only civil action jury case entered for trial at the opening of the general sessions of the Peace and Jury Sittings of the County Court held before His Honor Judge Reynolds, of Kingston, at the Court House here yesterday.

The action was for damages and entered by John Read and family of Foxboro against Morley Smith and Harold Van Allen of this city. Counter claims were at first filed, but previous to the opening of the court yesterday the solicitors for the parties concerned convened and an amicable settlement was made in favor of the plaintiff, Mr. Read.

The action arose out of a motor accident which occurred on the Foxboro Road on July 30th, 1939, and during which a motor vehicle driven by Harold Van Allen and owned by Morley Smith, was in collision with Mr. Read's car. Several members of the Read family sustained injuries. Mr. E. O. Butler, appearing for the plaintiff in the case, informed Judge Reynolds at the opening of court yesterday that settlement had been agreed upon for the sum of $450.00 in favour of his client, Mr. Read.

Picton and District

50TH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING IS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Williams of Cherry Valley Entertained at Dinner by Family

OTHER ITEMS

Picton, Dec. 4 —(Special)— The fiftieth anniversary of their wedding was marked yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Williams of Cherry Valley. To mark the occasion, members of their families and several friends were entertained at six o'clock dinner. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Williams were presented with a lovely chair.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were married at Cherry Valley and have always resided in that community. They operate the village store and post office and previous to that resided on a farm. They are valued members of the United Church, Mr. Williams being on the Official Board and Mrs. Williams a member of the various organizations.

They have a son, Roy Williams, and two daughters, Mrs. Leighton Fennemore and Mrs. Earl Brummell.

x x x

Around Zero Mark

The temperature hovered around the zero mark all day Tuesday and kept many indoors. Many motorists had difficulty starting their cars and garages were kept busy. According to the government thermometer, it registered eleven degrees below zero just before eight o'clock yesterday morning.

x x x

The shipping season closed on Monday when the freighter City of Toronto called here and loaded canned goods for Montreal and points east. There were two inches of ice in the inner harbor but no difficulty was experienced by the freighter in breaking it. The shipping season has been a good one and near that of last year which was the best in many years. While the export market is cut off the Canadian market is able to absorb the pack this year.

x x x

Picton Officers Promoted

Major Colin Hepburn of Picton has been appointed to the command of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Wing at District Depot "C" at Kingston. He succeeds Major Gordon Walmsley who was recently appointed Assistant Judge Advocate General of Military District No. 3. Lt.-Col. Gerald Allison, M.D., of Picton, who has been M.O.H. of M.D. No. 3, Kingston, has been transferred to Ottawa as Assistant Medical Director of M.D. No. 1.

x x x

Personals

Telephone facilities for the local Bombing and Gunnery School are being installed by the Bell Telephone Company.

Capt. C. H. Leavens, M.D., Petawawa, spent the week-end with Mrs. Leavens and family.

Mrs. D. N. Morden accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Fred Trebel to Toronto Wednesday and will also visit her son, Dr. Erskine Morden, at Florence, Ont.

John C. Ready of Gambriells, Mrs. Leonard Palmer of Sudbury, and Anwill Ready of Winnipeg, who is stationed at the R.C.A.F. at St. Thomas, were in town Tuesday for the funeral of their father, W. J. Ready, who was buried at Wellington on Tuesday afternoon.

The prizes at the L.O.B.A. card party on Monday evening were won by Mrs. G. Allen, Mrs. E. Ellsworth, John Carson and L. Richardson.

W. T. Reeks, who has been sailing on the lakes this season, is home for the winter months.

Hear Applications For Naturalization On Friday Next

His Honour Judge Reynolds, of Kingston, who is presiding at the current sittings of the General Sessions of the Peace and Jury Sittings of the County Court, which opened in Belleville yesterday, announced that the presentation of five applications for naturalization would not be heard until Friday.

Although it has been the practice to hear applications for Canadian naturalization at the opening of County Court in Belleville in years past, His Honor Judge Reynolds pointed out that two criminal charges were listed for trial and must be given precedent over such applications. "I will hear the applications in my chambers at noon on Friday," Judge Reynolds instructed Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson, who was about to make the presentations on behalf of the applicants. There are five persons seeking Canadian naturalization at the current sitting of the County Court.

In the only non-jury case listed for trial Mr. R. D. Arnott K.C., solicitor for the plaintiffs in the action, sought an enlargement and set date for the hearing, owing to the lengthy docket. The case, Wilkinson versus Duggin, is a damage action arising out of a motor accident, with counter claims. His Honor set Dec. 16th as the date for the hearing.

Marmora Village And Township Carry Two-Year Term

Marmora, Dec. 4 (Special)—The retiring Reeve and Councillors of both Marmora Village and Marmora and Lake Township were returned to office for a two-year term as a result of the elections held on Monday. Despite the heavy roads in the township a goodly percentage got out to vote. At No. 2 Poll Beaver Creek, for example 121 registered their votes of a total of 150 electors. Voting in the village was somewhat sluggish, only 260 casting their votes of 632 entitled to vote. The township decided by a majority of 297 to endorse the two-year term. The yeas were 375 against 98 nays.

The results are appended:

Marmora Village

Reeve W. R. Linn (re-elected by acclamation); Council, W. A. Sanderson 185; V. Lynch 182; R. E. Neal 173; L. Phillips 171; J. Hart the unsuccessful candidate polled 102 votes.

Marmora and Lake Township

For Reeve: John A. Bell 338; Irwin McCoy 151.

For Council: W. J. Pack* 331; G. Davidson* 282; C. Kelly* 247; A. Tompkins*, 227. *Re-elected. G. Brown 171; W. Jones 164.

George Brown unsuccessful candidate was unable through illness to participate personally in the contest, having to be admitted to Belleville General Hospital.

GIFTS
FOR CHRISTMAS
Chest of Silverware
10.00, 11.50, 16.00 to 50.00
ELECTRIC CLOCKS
3.00 to 45.00
Chime (Westminster) CLOCKS
22.00 to 40.00
DRESSER SETS
5.00 to 35.00
FOUNTAIN PEN SETS
Waterman, Parker, Sheaffer and Eclipse
LEATHER BILL FOLDS
1.00 to 5.00
Fancy Chrome CLOCKS
Bulova, Mars, Waltham, Elgin, Lorie and many other makes of WRIST WATCHES
5.00 and up
Emblem & Signet Rings with or without diamond sets
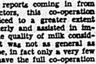
ROLLS RAZORS 6.95
ELECTRIC RAZORS
Shavemaster and Remington
16.75
J.O.R. McCURDY
324 Front St. Ph. 518



As Easy as Falling off a Log
That's how easy it is to check a chest cold with Pasmore's. One dose does the trick; clears the bronchial tubes; brings relief in TWO MINUTES. Never be without this dependable aid.
Pasmore's
BRONCHIAL MIXTURE

MORE LIGHT IN YOUR LIFE
HYDRO LONG-LIFE LAMPS
AT YOUR HYDRO SHOP
Hydro Shop
277 Front St. Phone 284

PHONE: 2071
AND WE WILL TELL YOU WHY
THIS YEAR YOU, TOO, SHOULD CHANGE TO
'blue coal'
THE COLOUR GUARANTEES THE QUALITY
It only takes one ton of 'blue coal' to prove to you that it's the greatest heating value money can buy. For cleaner, better heating at less cost, order 'blue coal' today.
HARRY SMITH
152 PINNACLE ST. PHONE 2071
"A Fuel for Every Purpose"
BC10
Listen to "The Shadow"—CFRB, Tues., 8.30 p.m., CKCO, Tues., 8.00 p.m., CFRC, Thurs., 8.00 p.m.

WON'T POP BE SURPRISED WHEN HE FINDS UPSTAIRS AS WARM AS DOWNSTAIRS — HE DOESN'T KNOW WE HAD THE HOUSE INSULATED WITH SUPERSEAL WOOL THIS MORNING
FRISE

YES! .. AND HE'LL BE PLEASED, TOO, WHEN HE FINDS HOW MUCH HE SAVES ON FUEL BILLS WITH SUPERSEAL Insulating WOOL
Sold by
NATIONAL ROOFING & INSULATING COMPANY
219 Front Street - - Belleville.
Just Telephone 2490 for Free Estimate.
Evening Phone 1350R

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

ALERT TO THE TREND

Count Stefan Bethlen venerated statesman of Hungary, it is said, has warned Hungary not to believe that the Axis Powers would win the war. He has also severely criticized the signing of the Tri-Power Pact by Hungary. Belgrade hears that other noted Hungarians have opposed the signing.

Such reports may be taken as signs that his infallibility, belief in which Hitler has sought to impress upon the nations is by no means accepted in Europe. Nations which have watched anxiously the manoeuvres of the German Fuehrer have been quick to catch the situation as it is unfolding in the northwest of Europe where Hitler's blitzkrieg has failed to deal with the British people as he intended and in the Mediterranean with the crushing blows to the Italian navy delivered by the British fleet and naval air arm and with the Greek victories over the Italian armies that invaded Greece and have now been pushed out and in Albania where the Italian army has been driven back and where this week five thousand soldiers were taken prisoner by the Grecians.

Hitler set himself up to be a terror and a fright to the nations. Mussolini caught the urge and adopted a plan to terrify the Greeks by the sight of his imposing might, but the bluff was called by the Hellenes who have discredited Mussolini and the Fascist regime.

Today many believe the war phase has changed greatly in the past few months.

Britain's sturdy defence has done much to encourage the nations. Few people want to follow Hitler. It is terror of the Hun which has counted in many instances. Now the terror of his blitzkrieg is not so terrifying.

No doubt many persons in what is neutral Europe and in Nazi-occupied lands who have access to the real news realize that the Axis Powers cannot win. In the long view they see Allied victory over the Hun.

ITALY'S EXHIBITION

Italy continues her exhibition of a nation set on the path to defeat by reason of the selfishness and greed of a dictator and his sycophants. The unheroic conquests of Ethiopia and Albania several years ago by Mussolini when every effort was being made by democratic nations to preserve peace among the nations were no measure of the striking power of Italy for they did not test the Italians. Probably these were the worst steps that Mussolini could have taken because they were against peoples unprepared and gave Il Duce and his henchmen opportunity to boast of their empire and strut about and probably softened the Italian Fascist who was thereby taught to think war was no such difficult matter after all. Fascist folly.

Today Italy is in a sorry plight with her fleet smashed and her army being driven across Albania and thousands of her troops taken prisoner in spite of the reinforcements sent to bolster up the Italian morale. The vauntings of Mussolini have stood him nothing and his prestige has fallen because it had no foundation. He stained the name of his country by allying her with the Hun when he undertook to deliver a blow at the collapsing neighbor, France, and now he has increased Italy's woes by the ruin he has brought upon his invasion armies and his navy. Fascist Italy is a weak point of the Axis, and there is a strong feeling that Italy is very vulnerable to attack.

BRITONS WILL NOT GO HUNGRY

Lord Woolton in warning Britons that in future they would have to live harder, explained, "but do not think when I say that that it means you must tighten your belt. That is the wrong phrase to use because it means you must go hungry and you will not go hungry. We will live on home produce as far as possible and for the rest we will import from the foods which we have already bought and that now lie over the world from China to Peru ready for us to collect them to supplement our home-grown foods."

One of the objects the German Nazis seek is to interrupt British shipping. The world has a fair notion of what the British blockade is doing to the German Reich and Italy in cramping their war schemes. Britain with her vast resources has provided for food for her people will have the food and will not go hungry. But they will live harder, according to the words of Lord Woolton.

Monday the announcement was made that fresh fruit imports except oranges would be prohibited in Britain.

Britons will live all the harder and cultivate home production as they have been doing.

They will not go hungry for the people are resolved to do the utmost in producing that which is required. What British resolution means is indicated in the success of the resistance to Hitler's would-be invaders.

The same day there was a statement in New York that British organizations were negotiating for the building in the United States of 350 ships with a total value of about 750,000,000.

GERMAN NAVAL FORCE FLEES

Similarity of movement has taken hold of Italian and German warships alike. The Fascist fleet had been diligently keeping itself away from the British Mediterranean fleet until one night recently it was caught in Taranto and there dealt a smashing blow by the fleet air arm. Then the British went at the Italians again and pounded the fleet off Sardinia late last week. Next day or so the British light naval force cruising in the English Channel caught sight of a Nazi light naval force, and after exchange of shots the Nazis raced towards Brest.

The fugitive quality of the Fascists and Nazis on the seas prove that they do not like to stand up to the mighty British ships and fearless British sailors.

The Nazi and the Fascist warships have told a rather sorry tale in this war.

Newest Notes of Science

Science News Service

Air circulates between strips of a new metal window awning.

An air speed indicator for automobiles has been combined with an outside mirror.

Plastics that are similar to bakelite have been developed from cactus in Mexico.

Rustproof fishhooks have been invented made of an alloy about 98 per cent nickel.

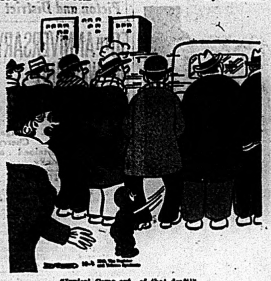
Match boxes have been invented to be built into kitchen walls, only their fronts appearing.

Control of all radio stations in Spain has been placed under the ministries concerned with national defense.

A bulb type spray gun has been invented that can be attached to the top of a can of paint for small jobs.

Pneumatic tires eight feet in diameter have been constructed for landing wheels of 70-ton bombing airplanes.

OFF THE RECORD By ED REED



"Junior! Come out of that draft!"

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

DEC. 4TH, 1920

The W.C.T.U. rummage sale receipts were $305.69; the expenses amounted to $21.60, leaving a balance of $284.09.

Mr. Lisle Weese of Ameliasburg Township won the greatest number of points at the Ameliasburg School Fair last October and has received certificate from the Department at Toronto.

The annual turkey fair held at Napanee on Dec. 1st and 2nd was the largest ever held in that town. About 100 tons of turkeys, ducks, chickens and geese were purchased by buyers. Prices were the highest ever paid at the fair; turkeys 49 cents per pound, geese and ducks 35 cents per pound and chickens 32 cents to 35 cents per pound.

Mr. C. A. Crawford, who has been visiting friends here, has returned to his home in Hamilton, Montana.

30 YEARS AGO

DEC. 4TH, 1910

The Rev. R. C. Blagrave, Rector of Christ Church went to Napanee to day.

The following officers were elected at a recent meeting of the members of the Business Men's Bible Class in connection with Bridge Street Methodist Church: Hon. Teacher, Judge Deroche; Teacher, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn; Associate Teacher, Mr. E. E. O'Flynn; Associate Teachers, Rev. Dr. Bishop & J. J. B. Flint; President, Mr. David Price; Vice President, Mr. R. B. Morden; Secretary, Mr. B. D. Harns; Treasurer, Mr. Russell Chown; Organist, Mr. Allen Chown; Musical Director, Mr. C. H. Vermilyea.

Dr. MacColl of this city has been elected a member of the Ontario Medical Council.

40 YEARS AGO

DEC. 4TH, 1900

At the regular meeting of Lydford Lodge No. 184, Sons of England, the following officers were elected: Past President, George R. Brown; President, S. J. Sinfield; Vice President, J. Carr; Treasurer, J. Newton; Secretary, J. Harker; Recording Secretary, W. Vallance; Chaplain, J. Elliott; Pianist, Prof. Wilmott; Inside Guard, R. C. Allison; Outside Guard, T. Bowles; Physician, Dr. W. W. Boyce; Managing Committee, C. Herring H. Clarke, J. Peck, S. Holmes and A. M. Ketcheson.

The city council contributed the sum of $15 towards the expense of buying rubber tires for the hospital ambulance. The wheels were sent to Montreal to be fitted with the tires.

Mr. W. Boulter, Mayor of Picton, was in town today.

50 YEARS AGO

DEC. 4TH, 1890

At the annual meeting of Oxford Lodge No. 17, Sons of England, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Arthur Wensley; Vice President, R. Oliphant; Financial Secretary, H. Talmadge; Recording Secretary, W. Hopkins; Treasurer, H. W. Smith; Chaplain, W. Wilton; Managing Committee, Bros. W. Creeper, Harker, Young, Baker, Salter and Belcher. Inside Guard, F. H. Hill; Outside Guard, William Corham; Surgeon, Dr. R. Tracy; Auditors, Bros. Hulme, Wilton and Harker; Grand Lodge Delegates, Bros. R. C. Hulme and J. W. London; Trustees, J. W. London and George Twining.

The Rev. Dr. George, pastor of John Street Presbyterian Church will spent Sunday next in Toronto.

Mr. John Bell, Q.C., has arrived home from the Old Country.

What's the Answer

BY THE ACE CAMERAMAN

(Distributed by the King Features Syndicate. Inc.)

1.—Where is the Arc de Triomphe located? Is it in (a) Spain; (b) Italy; (c) France; or (d) Belgium?

2.—What is the oldest and smallest republic in the world?

3.—"The Masque of the Red Death" was one of the best stories by—— —— Supply the author's name.

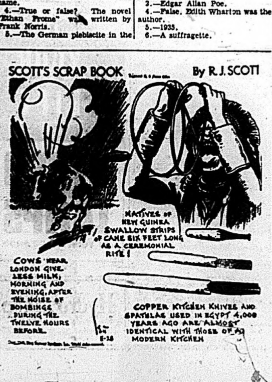
4.—True or false? The novel "Ethan Frome" was written by Frank Norris.

5.—The German plebiscite in the Saar region was held in (a) 1932; (b) 1935; (c) 1937. Which year?

6.—Carrie Chapman Catt was famous as (a) an actress; (b) a suffragette; (c) a debutante glamour girl? Select the correct one.

Answers

1.—France.
2.—Andorra.
3.—Edgar Allan Poe.
4.—False. Edith Wharton was the author.
5.—1935.
6.—A suffragette.



SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK
By R. J. SCOTT
NATIVES OF NEW GUINEA SWALLOW STRIPS OF CANE SIX FEET LONG AS A CEREMONIAL RITE!
COWS NEAR LONDON GIVE LESS MILK, MORNING AND EVENING, AFTER THE NOISE OF BOMBINGS DURING THE TWELVE HOURS BEFORE.
COPPER KITCHEN KNIVES AND SPATULAS USED IN EGYPT 4,000 YEARS AGO ARE ALMOST IDENTICAL WITH THOSE OF A MODERN KITCHEN

Glimpse of the Fleet Not Yet in Being

All round the coast for the past 12 months there has been secret activity. Secret in the sense that no one unauthorised knows quite what has been done: public in the sense that the world was told as soon as the war started that we were putting in hand a great shipbuilding program, that, as one item, our submarine hunting flotillas would be trebled in a few months, that large numbers of new merchant ships had been ordered as replacements for possible losses.

Those of us whose work keeps us in constant touch with nautical activity know bits of what is being done here and there, so writes H. C. Ferraby in the Navy, London. Most of us I think are wise enough to keep those bits of knowledge in our heads and not to commit them to paper, for notebooks may be mislaid—an air raid might blow them straight into the hands of an undesirable—and I have no intention here of setting down any details of that program and its progress.

But there is an interesting glimpse of that Fleet not yet "in being" that can be given, a glimpse of the work that it means to all sorts of people, a glimpse of some of the sidelines of activity that are started up by this wartime rush of output.

First of all, before ever the shipyard men can start work, there is a very hard worked department of which most people never hear anything—the Royal Corps of Naval Constructors. They have to prepare the designs for the new ships, they have to produce the thousands of blue prints from which the detailed work in foundry, forge, workshop and slipway will depend. The constructors have done some remarkable jobs in their time and no doubt have done many more, secretly, during the past months.

One example from the last war may interest you. The Corps had drawn up plans for a new class of battleship; the Admiralty ordered a change of design to make the ship battle-cruisers. Within eighteen months of the date of the order those ships were completed and on service. That meant that the shipyard men worked fast, but think of the speed with which the naval architects must have worked to get out new plans so that the building could be started.

Plans for more than 2,000,000 tons of new ships were prepared by the Royal Corps in the last war. At a rough estimate they produced designs for three battle-cruisers, three large light cruisers, three types of monitors, three classes of light cruisers, eight classes of destroyers, one class of patrol boat, three classes of minesweeper and five classes of submarine. And on top of all that they produced designs for adapting ships for special purposes, as for example the Vindictive for her attack at Zeebrugge.

That is an aspect of the work of the Navy that is not often mentioned publicly. When this war is over we must hope that Sir Stanley Goodall, the Director of Naval Construction, will tell us something of the work that has been done behind the scenes to make possible the bringing into being of our new fleet.

* * *

You have to be rather a privileged person nowadays to pass through the gates of any shipbuilding yard. And to walk around the yard, even accompanied by a high official of the company, makes you realize what a suspicious character you really are, for there are watchers everywhere, and despite your escort you may be challenged at any moment to prove that you have the necessary permission to be in the yard. I have even been challenged when I was part of the official procession following Royalty on a tour of a famous yard and when, if it had been really necessary I could have asked the King of England to vouch for me.

This care, however, is very necessary, for many new types of ship for special purposes are in hand, some sufficiently far advanced for a technical expert to make a very good guess at the purpose for which they have been built. Then, too, there are engineering and electrical secrets to be safeguarded in the workshops, armor plate facts that stare you in the face if only you chance to pass the part of the yard where the plates are being got ready to be built into the ships. And there is the prime secret of all — how many ships of the different classes are on the stocks, how many are in the fitting-out basins nearly complete.

A shipyard that has all its building-slips occupied and many thousands of skilled men working at their utmost stretch is one of the noisiest places in the world. One of the modern musicians ought to find every possible inspiration for rare cacophonies and weird rhythms if he could spend a day or two listening to the work going on.

There is something very gaunt and grim about a ship's towering frame above you on the stocks. Even the smaller classes of ship seem immense masses as they grow ashore, perched up on the blocks that look so rough and ready and are really such a masterpiece of scientific planning and calculation. There is such an air of mystery, too, about the cryptic, white-painted signs and directions on various plates, angle-irons and pieces of machinery on the ground alongside the berth, ready to be built into their appropriate places. Those queer signs and abbreviations all have their meaning for the skilled workers, but to the inexpert visitor they look like the dementia of an algebra enthusiast, there are so many Xs and Ys among them.

And then you get up, by a long wide wooden ladder, to the ship's deck only half completed, with gaping holes and booby traps for the unwary.

It is difficult to imagine that this untidy, unpainted rusty mass of metal will ever be a living ship, the smartest of her squadron and the apple of her commander's eye. There are bare walls of steel plate that form part of the superstructure. Inside them, there is a huddle of tools, unplaced lengths of steel, an unseamanlike coil of rope and a general air of a salvage dump.

Yet in a few months' time within that same space there will be all the neatness and comfort of a wardroom and anti-room, with the wardroom cat, a stray from the shipyard, monopolizing the best armchair beside the fire.

I always love the true story of the shipyard cat that attached herself to a newly built cruiser as soon as the ship was fit to live in and went away on the acceptance trials. Whereupon the chairman of the shipbuilding company wrote an official letter to the commanding officer, pointing out that it was a condition of the contract that all fittings "built in" with the ship should be accompanied by the appropriate book of instructions, and his firm accordingly had pleasure in enclosing the latest issue of "Cats and How to Keep them"

Odd Facts on Trout

Waters quite barren of trout and other sporting fish frequently have qualities which make them potential fishing waters par excellence. Not that sport fish should be planted in lakes just because the waters look to be suitable; far from it. But sometimes, on careful investigation by fish culture experts of the Dominion department of fisheries, previously uninhabited waters are found to be quite capable of supporting a fine stock of sport fish and so increasing Canada's fishery resources.

Such was the case with Robinson's Lake in New Brunswick. In December, 1939, speckled trout yearlings from a department hatchery were placed in this water. The fish at this time weighed about three ounces each. Conditions apparently were excellent. Some ten months later specimen fish taken in sampling nets showed that the trout had increased their weight to approximately 32 ounces or in other words a tenfold increase had taken place.

A peculiarity in the development was that despite the fact that the fish were well developed, very deep for their length, and in good condition, the skeletons of the trout had not developed in proportion to the overlying muscle tissue. The diameter of the vertebrae was relatively small. This peculiarity is under investigation. While it in no way affected the quality of the trout as either sport fish or pan fish the occurrence suggests a deficiency in bone building material in the food that was available in the lake. — Brandon Sun.

NARVIK AGAIN

Disastrous though the Norwegian campaign was from many points of view, it is likely to bear belated but rather important fruit before long. As everyone knows, the iron-ore, indispensable to Germany, from the north of Sweden is at normal times shipped mainly from the Swedish port of Lulea during the Summer, and solely from the Norwegian port of Narvik during the winter. The date when Lulea becomes ice-bound varies to some extent according to whether it is a hard or mild Winter; the middle of November is about the average. Soon therefore the Germans, though they will no doubt use icebreakers at Lulea till the last moment, will be driven back on Narvik — or would be if there were a Narvik to be driven back on. In fact the port itself, and the railway leading to it from the iron-fields, were so completely smashed up by the British attacks of last Spring that there seems no present likelihood of half an ounce of ore being shipped that way. And if a likelihood did emerge the Navy and the R. A. F. between them would know how to deal with it.—London Spectator.

Gold Production Lien For Loan

New York, Dec. 4 (CP)—The New York Herald Tribune says today it was learned that Marriner S. Eccles, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, has proposed that the United States loan $2,500,000,000 to the British Government secured by a lien on the British Empire's gold production over the next five years.

The newspaper said Eccles, speaking in a personal rather than an official capacity, made the suggestion to a closed meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board here last Thursday. It said Eccles mentioned as among the results of such a loan: Sterilization of part of the gold expected to flow into the United States; prevention of inflation of the American banking system and modification of present easy money.

Costly Gems Sell Readily

London.—In spite of the slump in luxury purchases, jewellers are far from idle. "There is nothing more portable and handy, for people expecting at every moment to be torn up by the roots from the midst of their homes and friends, than a handful of gems. For gems speak the language of every country, and can be turned into real money when currencies are crashing and share-markets in a panic. In England people tend to overlook the value of 'potted wealth' that can be slipped into the lining of a coat or concealed in the heel of a shoe, and may give a footing to a refugee on an alien shore."

So writes Mr. Louis Kornitzer in The Jewelled Trail, the fourth of the series of books about precious stones which he has made out of his long career as a jewel merchant.

He goes on to tell the story of an Austrian monumental mason who hit on the idea of smuggling his jewellery out of Nazi Austria concealed in a cache hollowed out in a gravestone for a Jewish family in Rotterdam. Unfortunately for him, some Nazi rowdies noticed the stone as he was taking it to the railway station. The lorry carrying it was crossing a Danube bridge at the time, and the Nazis noticed the Hebrew lettering on the gravestone. They never found the jewellery, but they threw the whole stone into the river, where it was lost forever.

Another refugee was more fortunate. He was an Austrian lawyer who sold his personal jewellery, piece by piece, in London, and so got to know several London dealers. It occurred to him that many refugees would not know how or where to sell their jewellery, and he set up as their broker, with such success that within six months he had earned enough to bring his parents, his married sister and her family and to set up a home for them.

Other more fantastic stories of Mr. Kornitzer's concern swindles, superstitions and coincidences in the gem trade. Once, for instance, somebody tried to persuade him to act as selling agent in America for the jewels of the Dowager Empress of Russia, smuggled out of Bolshevik Russia. But they were also smuggled into the United States, carefully hidden in the stuffing of furniture which was delivered at a flat which Mr. Kornitzer had been persuaded to take in New York. He found them — and put them back.

"Fortune or no fortune," he writes, "I wasn't going to risk my name and liberty. Not even for the jewels of an empress."

Other dealers were not so squeamish, and the jewellery is being worn to-day "at some of New York's most patrician gatherings."—Hamilton Spectator.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

James W. Barton, M.D.

Avoiding Surgery in Sinus Infections

In former days physicians considered the chief work of the nose to be an entrance for air to the lungs. Thus if any obstruction were present, an operation to remove the obstruction was the first thought and patients were sent to nose and throat specialists to have the obstruction removed so that there would be ample room for air to enter the lungs. In removing the obstruction—straightening the septum or removing projecing turbinate bone or other defect—often the specialist likewise had the same idea in mind and much of the lining tissue of the nose was removed or destroyed.

Now that sinusitis, inflammation of the sinuses adjoining the nose, is receiving much attention by physicians, many of these patients are being referred to nose specialists to have these sinuses drained and obtain better ventilation, as good ventilation should prevent any congestion or inflammation of the lining of the sinus.

In the opinion of many nose specialists there has been in the past too much damage to the lining of nose and sinuses in the surgical treatment of chronic sinus trouble. They believe that some of the symptoms are caused in some cases by conditions of the body that have nothing to do with the sinus itself. One of these conditions is allergy—being sensitive to certain substances such as food, feathers, pollen, house dust and others. Other conditions causing sinus symptoms are adenoids and infected tonsils, the removal of which makes surgical treatment of a sinus or sinuses unnecessary.

Dr. J. Mackenzie Brown, Los Angeles, in the Journal of the American Medical Association states that in chronic sinusitis a general examination of the patient should be made by the family physician before he is sent to the specialist for examination of the nose and throat. Sometimes there is allergy present together with sinus infection. Naurally the allergic tendency will increase or prolong the sinusitis. By overcoming the allergic condition the sinus infection may clear up without the need for any surgical operation.

By avoiding surgery and thus the destruction of much of the lining of the nose and sinuses, the other functions of this lining— taste, smell, sound—will not be disturbed.

Mexico is estimated to have produced 260,000 bales of cotton this year and 1,600,000 bags of coffee.

Stewart Says—

New Deal Begins To Worry About Rising Prices

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Canadian Columnist

Chas. P. Stewart

Washington—Despite all the national administration's efforts to prevent it, an upward tendency in a great many prices is noticeable. It isn't pronounced enough yet to be called inflation. Nevertheless Wendell Willkie suggests that inflation is what it's the beginning of. What's more it worries New Deal administrationists.

For instance, Leon Henderson, U.S. defence council's chief economist, is opposing it vigorously. The consumers' spokesmen and spokeswomen in various defensive and economic units also are appealing strenuously to wholesalers' organizations to put brakes upon any violent rise in living costs, because naturally consumerdom must feel the first effects of it. And wholesalers generally profess complaint intentions. The question is, though, can they make good on them, if the bulge continues and gains greater and greater proportions?

The New Dealers' contention is that the government's deficit spending, its unprecedented national debt and the increase in its limit, asked for by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, a government can overstrain its credit, in which event its money shrinks in buying power — that is, prices sky-hoot.

Not Near Limit?

Maybe we haven't reached that point yet, or a point anywhere near it.

However, we've seen it happen in other countries. A few years ago it happened throughout Germany, so that a man with a several-thousand-mark bank account couldn't draw all his cash out and buy a decent meal with it. Finally the Germans had to abandon their old-fashioned marks altogether and invent a new kind.

I've observed the same thing in some of the Latin Americas. Illustratively, Paraquay hasn't any money at all, of its own, that anybody'll accept. Business is transacted there in English, Yankee, Argentine or Brazilian currency.

Of course we shan't so overdo ourselves. All the same, perhaps we can overdo ourselves somewhat.

Even as substantial a republic as Argentina did it. The Argentines started off with, as their unit, a peso, equivalent to about 94 cents in our Yankee dollar. The peso was redeemable on a basis of 100 per centavos. But the government presently had issued so much paper that the peso's buying power slumped to less than one-half its nominal value. Accordingly, many years ago, the Buenos Aires congress announced: "Henceforward the peso will be redeemable at only 33 centavos per peso." It's been that way ever since. If that wasn't inflationary, I'm no judge of inflation.

Here in the United States such prognosticators as Leon Henderson, to mention a pro-New Deal authority, see peril of a different sort of inflation of living costs.

Cut Unemployment

Unemployment's being sopped up very rapidly. The hitherto unemployed, though, are going largely into military preparedness production or into the conscription army. Possibly peace time industries will soon find themselves with an actual scarcity of workers. If so, there's likely to be an actual shortage of processed stuff to eat and wear, to shelter us, to run street cars and railroads, et cetera. Correspondingly peace industrial toilers, back in jobs again, will have increased consumptive capacity, and conscripts will have to eat, wear clothes and occupy barracks like sixty.

With consumption thus competitively expanded and peace production probably short handed, with a skimpy supply and a vastly greater demand, why won't prices go skyward? They will, is the expert prediction.

To be sure, the industrial crowd doubtless will see to it that they're taken care of. As prices rise, the workingmen's unions will insist on correspondingly advanced wages—and they'll get 'em. They're starting to attend to it already.

Boosts in the white collar elements' incomes will lag. They always do.

Ditto the incomes of folk dependent on invested money's returns.

The farmers' outlook is problematic. They have so large a surplus on hand already that presumably it will be a long while before it's exhausted.

At best, it looks like a boom ahead. A boom is what Leon Henderson is afraid of. He's observed one or two and doesn't like what follows them.

WILL INCREASE OFFICERS PAY IN ARMY OF MEXICO

Mexico City, Dec. 4 (AP)—President Manuel Avila Camacho told a group of Generals today one of the first acts of his administration would be to increase the pay of officers and men in Mexico's army. Present base pay of a Mexican private is 1.70 pesos (about 34 cents) a day and of a Captain, 5.20 (about $1.04). The President did not indicate what new levels he would propose.

Dominion Gov't Should Be Main Source of Financing War Says Warden Churcher

Hastings County Council Opens Final Session of the Year

MUST SACRIFICE

"With provincial governments, and those of municipalities exercising policies of rigid economy, in my opinion the Dominion Government should be the main source of financing the war," Warden John L. Churcher told the Hastings County Council in his address that formally opened the December session Tuesday afternoon.

"I believe that better results and economy would be secured in this manner" th. Warden said.

With minor governing bodies using care and economy in financing, and the Dominion Government doing the spending, a better basis would be laid for the reconstruction period that will inevitably follow the war, the Warden felt.

Last year was one of uncertainty, and the country is still in a serious position, he said, but all should be thankful for things as they are.

Wave of Unrest

There is a tremendous wave of social unrest sweeping the world, and the Empire has a tremendous task in fighting world forces of evil. Canada, and Hastings County do not realize the tremendousness of it all. We leave this year and as British subjects can look forward with determination to carry on and eventually win. "It means hard work and tremendous sacrifice," the Warden said, "but these must be met if the Empire is to win. But when we are fighting for something we believe right, we have every confidence in the outcome.

The past year, the Warden said, had not been a financial success in the rural communities. Crops had been based on the law of averages. Perhaps 1941, in spite of war, would be better. Rural communities should be thankful, for what they have.

Financial Status Good

The financial status of the county had not changed during the year, the Warden said. He commented on the amount of money spent by municipalities at the recent tax sales, amounts of which had tripled those of last year.

Although the Roads Committee had been hampered by lack of funds appropriation, the 1 1-2 miles of paving on the Madoc road had been paid for. "There will be no carry-over, only on the maintainer," he said. He urged all municipalities to keep their roads in good repair. He urged a pay-as-you-go policy, "because we do not know what is ahead of us."

He expressed pride in the council for raising the rate 1 mill this year for patriotic purposes.

"There are very few counties in Ontario which have done as well," he remarked.

Closing the Warden expressed his pride in the council, and the cooperation received during the year. "It has given me great pleasure to preside over such a fine body of men," he said.

The Rev. G. Gordier, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Bancroft, opened the sitting with a brief religious service. The National Anthem followed.

"No Action"

Several resolutions and recommendations from various county councils of the province met with short shrift at the hands of the council when offered by Clerk Erie Denyes for concurrence.

The body turned an emphatic thumbs down on resolutions sent by the Elgin County Council asking for concurrence in sending a petition to the Federal authorities "objecting to the setting of prices of hogs, cheese and other farm commodities," and also another in which the same body asked concurrence in a recommendation that the Dominion Government stabilize bacon prices and process all exports of this commodity through the packers.

There was little discussion. But it was pointed out that the British Government has set the prices on these commodities and nothing much could be done about it.

"It is not a question of price," Warden Churcher pointed out," but one of win the war. We must send Britain all we can without dallying about what we are going to get for it."

The council also took no action in a resolution from the Peterborough County Council asking coicurrence in a request that the government extend the Old Age Pension limit to 70 years. It also referred to a file the recommendation of the Stanford County Council for a plan to supply free hospitalization and medical services to indigents, the cost to be borne by the Dominion Government and the employers of labor.

Empey Hill

Empey Hill—Mrs. S. E. Winter returned home on Monday from Arden where she spent a week with her sister Mrs. J. Alexander.

Mrs. Bruce Kimmerly is visiting her sister Mrs. E. R. Price.

Mr. and Mrs. Garry Provins, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Akey spent the tea hour on Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMath.

Miss Bea Mowers left on Sunday for Ottawa where she has secured a position in the Civil Service.

Mr. Arthur Waddingham has returned home from Toronto where he spent the past week.

Miss Ethel Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Winter, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Winter, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Ashley, Mr. and Mrs Harold Winter were tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kelly of Halloway spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sexsmith.

Mt. Pleasant Pioneer W.I. held a party at their hall on Friday night.

Mrs. Robt. Harvey, Mrs. Roy McMath, Mr. Robt. Tucker and Mack spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kimmerly.

Mr. Earl Oliver of Kingston spent the week end at his home.

Corporal Charles F. Martin of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders of Canada at Niagara Falls, spent the week end with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Bert Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Denison spent Thursday in Newburgh, guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Denison.

Mr. Gordon Trull of Bowmanville spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tate.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce and family of Kingston spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Wilde.

Mr. Ira Anderson is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawley Bradshaw of Roblin, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. John McFarlane.

Mr and Mrs. Frank Sexsmith spent the tea hour with Mrs. A. Oliver on Friday.

Mrs. K. Tucker spent the past week with her daughter Mrs. A. Waddingham.

Mrs. J. Alexander of Arden spent a couple of days with Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Winter. Her mother, Mrs. M. Detlor returned to her home with her on Tuesday.

Mt. Pleasant W I. held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening. It was opened in the usual way. Fifteen members responded to the roll call. The treasurer reported $41.54 on hand. Mrs. Clare Toppings, leader of the Girls' Club held a meeting at her home on Nov. 11th. Mrs. Jim Topping thanked the Institute for articles and treats sent to her soldier son, who was ill with penumonia. Mrs. Topping also read a letter from an English correspondent in England. Several items of business were discussed. It was decided to send $5.00 to the British War Victims' Fund. Each member was asked to make as many quilt blocks as possible and hand in at next meeting. The secretary was instructed to write a letter of sympathy to Mrs. Schuyler French and family. Several members brought articles made from cotton bags, all of which were lovely and very useful ideas.

Mrs. Nugent introduced Miss Lepha Woods of Napanee who gave a very interesting story of her trip to the British Isles.

Mrs. Walter Hudson gave her report of the Kingston Area Convention. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem. Lunch was served by the committee.

There was no service on Sunday on account of the condition of the roads.

Allan's Mills

Allan's Mills — Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stuart and Shirley visited Mr. and Mrs. B. Heath on Sunday.

Mrs. Wallace Rutherford and Diana spent the week end with Mrs. Jas. Barnett.

A social evening was held on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Meiklejohn for Rev. and Mrs. Harding and family who are leaving soon for Bethany. An appropriate address was read by Mrs. Murray Meiklejohn and signed on behalf of Rylestone congregation by Mrs. Rob. Mumby, Mrs. J. S. McKeown, Mrs. Roger Lain, Mrs. S. G. Meiklejohn, and Mr. W. T. Allan.

Mrs. Totton presented Mr. and Mrs. Harding with a cabinet of silver and Betty McKeown presented Joy with a ring and Vera Stuart presented Dorothy with a silver dish.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding made suitable replies. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and contests and community singing and a dainty lunch was served.

On Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rutherford, the friends of Rev. and Mrs. Harding of Stanwood met to bid them farewell. An address was read by Mrs. Carman Redden and signed on behalf of the congregation of Stanwood by: Mrs. John Lain, Mrs. Chas. Lawrence, Mr. Allan Rutherford.

Mrs. Harding was presented with a blanket. Mr. Harding was presented with a lamp. A splendid program was enjoyed. Chorus by six of the school children, reading by Pearl Rowe; contest by Helen Redden; readings by Jack Lisle and Rob. Lisle.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Rowe and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Webb on Sunday.

Mrs. Percy Bateman entertained the members and visitors of the W. I. on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. J. P. Baker.

It was decided that the W. I. donate material to Red Cross Christmas baskets and relief were discussed. It was decided to hold a pot luck dinner. Group No. 2 are holding a dance in Springbrook hall in aid of war work being done by W. I. Mrs. Florence Bateman took charge of the program and called on Rev. Harding who gave a splendid address on reconstruction.

The members bid Mr. Harding good-bye and extended their best wishes to him and Mrs. Harding and family. A contest was put on by Mrs. Bateman and the meeting closed with "There'll Always be an England" and "God Save the King".

NAZI BOMBERS MAKE THIRD RAID ON BRISTOL PORT

Nurses Save 80 Patients of Children's Hospital Hit by Aerial Torpedo

KIDDIES CHEERFUL

Bristol, Dec. 4 (CP) — For six hours during the night Nazi bombers dropped their cargoes on this city. It was the third big raid on the port in less than 10 days.

The damage in last night's raid was more scattered than in previous attacks. Officials said, however, the food situation was "not serious."

Nurses saved 80 patients of a children's hospital hit by an aerial torpedo and clambered over the ruins today to salvage surgical instruments. The children were carried to a neighboring hospital.

Nurses Carry Children

"When the first bombs whistled down, the staff of 20 nurses on duty carried the children—four or five to a cot—to a lower corridor," said nurse Mary Dingle.

"Then there was defeaning crash as a bomb—it must have been a very heavy one—fell through the roof of the operating room. At once we picked up as many children as we could and ran with them to the otheh hospital. "Then we returned and got the others.

"The kiddies were quite cheerful and one tiny tot of four or five sang as we hurried him along."

An air raid warden, a taxi driver and another civilian ran through the falling bombs and saved a church by putting out fire bombs with hand pumps.

London, Dec. 4.—(CP)— How an ancient part of Bristol, western English port which was bombed heavily again Monday was turned into a "ruin" and many of the city's university buildings swept by fire in a recent German raid was told in a letter received here.

It was written by Dr. J. S. Spink, a London University lecturer, who moved to Bristol early in the war with other teachers and students.

Dr. Spink is a member of the University and raid precautions guard and an observer in the squad which watched from the Bristol University tower, commanding a good view of the city.

Spink said he was working in his room when an alert sounded shortly after 6 p.m. on the night of the raid, so he "went up to see". Herein part is the story in his own words:—

Flares Light up Town

"Two or three big flares floated down, lighting up the whole town. Fires were burning. Suddenly another (a church) started in the centre of the city.

"The old town in Bristol is very compact, with narrow, 18th Century streets. Suddenly, all along the hills on the south side of town, hundreds of little points of light appeared—incendiaries.

"Then, right across the centre of Bristol, in a strip about a quarter of a mile wide, lots of lights appeared—hundreds of incendiaries bursting into flame on the roofs of houses. I must admit the spectacle was grandiose.

Incendiaries Whistle Down

"Then suddenly they began to fall on us, scores of them whistling down around the tower. Many fell on the buildings, and we rushed downstairs to a flat part of the roof and put out two or three . . . .

"We thought our own building was all right. But a phone bell rang, and a guard in the Science block said they had two or three fires. We rushed down from the tower to help them. As we reached one of the doors a bomb came hissing down. We dodged back in and fell flat. . . . . .

Roof of Great Hall Afire

"On my return, I met a colleague who said he thought the great hall was on fire. The roof of the great hall was of heavy oak timber . . . the roof was ablaze.

"Then the rush started. There were hoses to pull up and down stairs and get working. I turned a hose on the floor of the hall and played it on the roof until smoke laid me out.

"We kept going and had five hoses at work fairly soon, but the flames sped along the timbers. Burning boards began to fall . . .

"King's College (London) had 7,500 books in that hall and the King's offices under it.

"We carried on until the police cleared us out because of a time bomb. Four bombs had fallen at the base of the building, but none on it.

Scores of Fires Raging

"Outside, scores of fires were raging. The anatomy block and geography department were done for. The art gallery and museum next door both were ablaze. The whole street was levelled to the ground.

"It was not until the next day that I saw what happened to the shopping and commercial centre of Bristol. It is quite true that nearly all damage was done to shops, houses, offices, theatres, and cinemas rather than docks and railways . . .

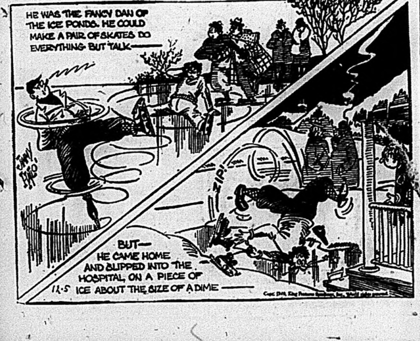
"The Vice Chancellor of Bristol and our principal decided to shut down the faculty or arts till next term. The rest are carrying on . . .

Damage Not Vital

"I think Bristol made a rapid recovery and that quite literally the damage, though severe, was not vital—so much consisting as it did in shops.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo



HE WAS THE FANCY DAN OF THE ICE PONDS. HE COULD MAKE A PAIR OF SKATES DO EVERYTHING BUT TALK—
JIMMY HATLO
ZIP!
BUT— HE CAME HOME AND SLIPPED INTO THE HOSPITAL, ON A PIECE OF ICE ABOUT THE SIZE OF A DIME—12-5

COMPACTS
$1 to $6.50
EVERY GIRL WOULD LIKE ONE.
AIR FORCE EMBLEM attached at small cost
SEE OUR FINE ASSORTMENT.
DOLAN
THE DRUGGIST
PHONE 138

SHOP ON THURSDAY AND SAVE
OPPORTUNITY DAY
At WALKER STORE—THURSDAY, Dec. 5th.

REAL SILK
HOSE
FIRST QUALITY
FOUR NEW WINTER SHADES: TROPICANA, PERUVIA, TABASCO, COCO.
FULL FASHIONED
Fine chiffon stockings that will make wonderful gifts. For evening or everyday wear PAIR ....
59c

CELASUEDE
PYJAMAS and NIGHTIES
Truly a great bargain are these smart Pyjamas and Gowns. New styles and materials. The colours are Ice Blue and Tearose. Small, medium and large sizes.
$1.00

Girls' Fur-Trimmed Coats
Tailored the way mother likes them to be—in styles daughter likes! Heavy wool materials. Warmly lined. Colors are Brown, Wine, Blue, Rust. Buy her one for Christmas. Sizes 8 to 14X ....
$9.95

NEW YORK HAND BAGS
She is bound to be thrilled with one of these New York Handbags, so chic yet so roomy. Plenty with zippers, all fashioned from simulated leathers and in styles which are copies of much higher-priced models. ....
$1.98

MEN'S BATHROBES
$6.95
Made of ENGLISH ALL WOOL FLANNEL
Maroon, Blue, Brown, and Green Shades.

Chenille
Bedspreads
90" x 100"
$2.98
Two beautiful designs in Tufted Chenille Bedspreads. Patterned in popular pastels and white on firm white ground. A large purchase allows us to sell these higher priced spreads at this very low figure.

CHRISTMAS
TOWELS
35c each
3 for $1.00
Thick, absorbent Terry Towels in white with fancy and attractive striped patterns. Sharply reduced for this one day sale.

Men's Fancy Winter Socks
EXCEPTIONAL VALUE
A brand new range of men's fancy Socks, comprising small diamond, crossbar and vertical patterns. Sizes 10 to 12. Per Pair ....
50c

Women's Woolette Pyjamas
These are quite the smartest styles and patterns we have shown in some time, including Warmies and Eskimo Flannels. All sizes. PER SUIT ....
1.98

36 inch Printed Flannelette
REGULAR 33c VALUE
A big purchase months ago makes this popular fabric available at this low price. Suitable for women's and children's wear. PER YARD ....
25c

Granny's Own War Utility
YARN
Ball 69c
EACH BALL CONTAINS ENOUGH TO KNIT ONE PAIR OF SOCKS.
War Utility Yarn is specially prepared for service garments. Fine, soft 4-ply Fingering Yarn in Airforce Blue, Khaki, Blue Heather, Grey and Camel. Knit your next pair of socks with Granny's Own War Utility Yarn.

MEN'S LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS
Men's fine quality Linen Handkerchiefs, with wide hem. A limited quantity to be sold at this price. Shop early for this item. EACH ....
25c

One Day Sale of Women's Winter Underwear
VESTS AND BLOOMERS
Winter weight fine quality Cotton Vests and Bloomers. Mill over makes and a few sub-standards in the lot. All sizes, including O.S. ....
39c

WOMEN'S WOOL BLOOMERS
Fine all wool Bloomers with wide waist band and cuff knees. PAIR ....
79c

CHENILLE
House Coats
2.79
Robes you'll love to lounge in. Fine quality Chenille with full flaring floor length skirts. Long full sleeves. Corded sash. Colours: Peach, American Beauty, Royal and Rose.

WALKER STORES, LIMITED
BELLEVILLE

PERSONALS

Mrs. A. F. Stillman has returned to her home in Woodstock after visiting friends in Belleville and Ottawa.

Miss Margaret Fairbairn, Charles Street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Richard Jacoby, Detroit.

Patronesses at the annual Spinsters' Ball to be given by the Cadet Rangers are, Mrs. Leo B. Riggs, Mrs. W. N. Ponton, Miss Ivy Dickens, Mrs. T. Aman, Miss Jessie Tuite and Miss Hilda Collier.

Dr. J. J. Robertson, Pinnacle Street, is confined to his home suffering from a severe cold.

The many friends of Mr. Thomas J. Hutchinson will regret to learn of his bereavement occasioned by the death of his father which occurred in Calgary, Alberta, on Monday evening, December 2nd.

Mr. I. H. Unverzagt, Evansville, Indiana, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Bernstein, George St.

Mrs. E. W. Cafley of Lanark, is spending this week in the city, the guest of her daughter, Miss Joan Cafley, 31 Murney Street.

Mrs. W. C. Wilson, Herchimer Avenue, has returned home after spending the past week in Toronto.

Tuesday evening St. George's Sunday School held a very successful euchre winners being, ladies' first, Mrs. Welch; second, Mrs. Symons; third, Mrs. Wardaugh; men's first, Mr. Nickle: second, Mr. Elliott; lone hands, Mrs. Boyle.

Mrs. Jack McGuire, 70 Gordon Street, has returned home from Port Colborne, where she was godmother at the christening of her nephew, David Verne Hoffman, little son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Hoffman.

Something unusual in the way of afternoon teas was arranged yesterday in Tabernacle Sunday School when the W.A. entertained at a Milestone Tea. This original party was carried out with faithful attention to the smallest detail and the result was an affair that won the warmest praise from the visitors. Mrs. George Ashley, president of the W.A., and Mrs. G. Sharpe, a grandmother, received. Refreshments were in cafeteria style and each table at which the guests paused for items on the menu was decorated in a distinctive manner to indicate a "Milestone". Mrs. Boneham was treasurer and Mrs. E. W. Windover was convener of the tea. The trays were in charge of Mrs. Gorsline and Mrs. Cornish. First was the infants' table, with two nurses presiding, Misses Vivian Grose and Mary Bronson. Mrs. Johnson replenished the table. The school girls' table was in charge of Misses Ethel Arnott and Grace Firth, with Mrs. Langridge and Mrs. Greenwood replenishing. The young ladies' table was looked after by Miss Myrla Goodfellow and Miss Gwen Toms with Mrs. Bray and Mrs. Lawrence replenishing. The bride's table was particularly appealing with its attendants costumed effectively, Mrs. Dougherty as the bride, Miss Betty Redfern as the bridesmaid and little Nadine Lawrence as the flower girl. Mrs. Greenleaf was in charge of replenishing the table. The mothers' table was looked after by Mrs. Harry Moorman, Mrs. Lloyd Hicks and Mrs. A. D. Archibald with Mrs. Goodfellow replenishing. The "grandmothers" attracted much admiration in their quaint costumes. They were Mrs. Towell and Mrs. Grose who poured tea, Mrs. A. Charlton, Mrs. Cherrie and Mrs. C. Hogle. Also assisting were Mrs. A. H. Fisher, Mrs. J. F. Charlton, Mrs. Bedell, Mrs. Bell and Mrs. W. Boyd. Having covered the various milestones in a woman's life, and collected a trayful of delicious refreshments, the guests proceeded to small tables grouped in the tea room. During the tea hour a program of vocal solos by Mrs. H. Poste and Mrs. E. W Windover, and a piano duet by Misses Peggy Doolittle and Marion James was greatly enjoyed. At six-thirty an appetizing hot supper was served, cafeteria style. Vocal solos were given by Mr. Bill Brennan and Miss Hazel Denike.

WEDDINGS

CAFLEY—MACDONALD

Holloway Street United Church was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday, November 30, at three o'clock when Jean Mildred, daughter of Mrs. B. L. MacDonald and the late B. L. MacDonald, became the bride of Jack Donald Cafley, Hamilton, son of Mrs. E. W. Cafley and the late Rev. E. W. Cafley. Rev. D. A. Dilts officiated.

Wedding music was played by Mr. William Connor and during the signing of the register, Miss Joan Cafley sang "Because".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Clarence Brenton, Norham, was charming in crushed rose crepe with violet velvet trimmings and black accessories. She wore a corsage of Ophelia roses. Miss Ruby Brenton, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, in heavenly blue crepe with navy accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. Ross Kirkham, Perth, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Harry Darling Belleville, and Mr. Edwin Haig, Hamilton.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dixon, 37 Ridley Avenue. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion, the bride's table being most effective with pink and white decorations and tall pink tapers. Mrs. MacDonald, mother of the bride, wearing navy sheer with matching accessories, and Mrs. Cafley, mother of the groom, in rosewood crepe with navy accessories received. Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip the bride donning a black mink trimmed coat. Upon their return they will reside in Hamilton. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brenton, Norham, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kirkham, Perth, Mr. and Mrs. McConnell, Marlbank and Rev. Caswell Roblin.

Mother, If Child's Young

Relieve Misery of Colds Improved Vicks Way

If your child is miserable with muscular soreness or tightness, spells of coughing or irritation from a cold—you'll welcome the relief a "VapoRub Massage" brings.

With this more thorough treatment, the poultice-and-vapor action of Vicks VapoRub more effectively PENETRATES irritated air passages with soothing medicinal vapors... STIMULATES chest and back like a warming poultice or plaster... STARTS RELIEVING misery right away! Results delight even old friends of VapoRub.

TO GET a "VapoRub Massage" with all its benefits—massage VapoRub for 3 minutes on IMPORTANT RIB-AREA OF BACK as well as throat and chest—spread a thick layer on chest, cover with a warmed cloth. BE SURE to use genuine, time-tested VICKS VAPORUB.

PRESTON—MAINES

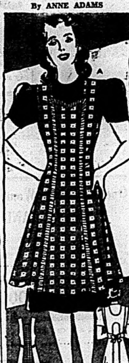
In Tweed United Church parsonage on November 26, at 11 o'clock a quiet wedding was solemnized by Rev. Mr. Morrison, when Mildred Eileen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Maines, was united in marriage to Freddie Johnson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Preston both of Thomasburg.

The bride was attired in a Copenhagen blue street length dress, grey coat and black accessories.

A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride, after which Mr. and Mrs. Preston left for Toronto and western points. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm near Thomasburg.

Easy-to-Make Panelled Apron

By ANNE ADAMS



Pattern 4394

Kitchen duty is really fun around holiday time, especially if you're wearing an Anne Adams apron like Pattern 4394! It's dainty, efficient and marvelously quick to make. You might accent the becoming front panel by either using contrast, as in Apron B — or by trimming its full length with ruffling or ric-rac, as shown in Apron A. You've a choice of two becoming neckline versions. The lower waistline seams at the sides give smooth fit and allow for extra skirt fullness. Notice the absence of side seams in the skirt, the in-one treatment of each side-front bodice with the straps, and the one-piece cut of the back top—all time-saving details!

Pattern 4394 is available in sizes small (32-34), medium (36-38) and large (40-42). Small view, view A, takes 2 yards 35-inch fabric and 2 3-8 yards ruffling; view B, 1 5-8 yards 35-inch fabric and 1 1-8 yards of contrast.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Send your order to The Ontario Intelligencer Pattern Department, 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PERKS—McQUARRIE

The marriage was quietly solemnized in St. John's Anglican church chapel, Peterborough, on Monday, December 2nd, of Helen Marjorie McQuarrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. McQuarrie, 720 Elgome Crescent, to Donald Edwin Perks, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Perks of Belleville, Canon W. P. Robertson officiated. Attendants were Miss Marguerite Ash and Mr. Reg. Perks, brother of the groom.

A frock of peacock blue silk with corsage of yellow roses and black accessories was worn by the bride, and Miss Ash was in a frock of beige wool with black accessories and corsage of pink roses.

atRRFwh

STAPLEY—SINE
GRILLS—SINE

A pretty double wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. M. C. Sine when her daughters, Mary Viola, became the bride of Clayton H. Stapley, son of Mrs. Harry Stapley, Stirling, and Annie, younger daughter, to Ernest Harry Grills, son of Mr. J. R. Grills, Carmel. Rev. S. A. R. Delve of Ivanhoe, officiated.

The brides entered the room to the strains of the Wedding March played by Miss Bessie Fleming, Ivanhoe The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreens and pink and white decorations. The brides looked charming in gowns of white sheer chiffon with matching accessories and carried bouquets of pink roses and ferns.

The couples attended each other. During the signing of the register Miss Annie Fleming, Ivanhoe, sang "Song is Sweet" and "Sunshine of Your Smile".

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served to about forty guests by the Misses Norma Sarles, Annis Johnston, Ethel Hagerman, and Doris Sine. The brides' mother wore wine crepe.

The grooms' gifts to the brides were a beautiful gold locket and necklace and to the organist and soloist were gold bracelets. The brides' gifts to their waitresses were red and white salt shakers.

Later the happy couples left amid showers of confetti and best wishes for a trip to Toronto and Niagara, the brides travelling in gowns of Whisper Blue and Blush rose. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Stapley will reside at Stirling and Mr. and Mrs. Grills on the groom's farm at Carmel.

Silver Wedding Anniversary Is Observed

A pleasant surprise was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Foster Keene, Madoc, on Saturday evening, November 30, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary when immediate relatives and friends gathered at their home and were entertained at dinner.

Those present were Mrs. Lillian Bacon, sister of the groom, whose unexpected arrival from Edmonton, Alberta, added much to the pleasure of the occasion: Mr. Charles and Miss Alma Keene; and Mr. and Mrs. John Keene, Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Wood and Irene of Stirling; their three daughters, Mrs. R. Demill, Misses Beulah and Lorna Keene; and Mr. and Mrs. George Moorcroft.

Mr. and Mrs. Keene were presented with the following silver gifts: casserole, flower basket, bon bon dish, salt and pepper shakers, and also a smoker.

PRESTO MUSIC CLUB

The Christmas meeting of the Presto Music Club was held on Tuesday December 3, at the home of Wm. G. Connor, 240 Pinnacle Street. The program was arranged by Mrs. E. M. Hubbs and consisted of the following numbers —(1) Piano duet — Lazelle Brown and Mrs. Houston —In a Rose Garden, (Ewing); (2) Vocal solo — Ann Brown—Mary's Treasures. (Protheros); (3) Vocal solo—Evelyn R. Bird, O Thou That Tellest, ... from The Messiah, (Handel); (4) Vocal duet — Ada McDonald and Phyllis May —He Shall Feed His Flock,— from The Messiah, (Handel); (5) Piano solo, Wm. G. Connor Sonata in E minor, 1st movement (Grieg); (6) Violin solo, Dr. Locke, Intermezzo from L'Artesienne Suite, (Bizet); (7) Vocal duet—Mrs. Houston and Doris Houston — O, Holy Night, (Adam); (8)) Piano solo, Mr. V. P. Hunt, Woodland Sketches, (Macdowell); (9) Vocal solo— Evelyn R. Bird, — To Living Waters, (Bach); (10) Vocal Solo Mrs. Houston—The First Christmas Morn (Newton).

A collection was taken up to buy Christmas presents for children being cared for by the Children's Aid Society. A tasty lunch was then served and Mrs. Hubbs poured coffee. A social hour brought the meeting to a close.

BABY'S UPSET STOMACH QUICKLY CORRECTED

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It's easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. S. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote quiet sleep. Walking floors at night is unknown in our home."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and that upset her almost to the point of convulsions. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying—went to sleep and when she awakened was her own good self again."

Equally effective for diarrhoea, colic, teething troubles, simple croup, constipation and simple fever. Sweet-tasting, easy to take, prompt in their action yet harmless. Analyst's certificate in every box. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if not satisfied.

Plainfield Couple Celebrate Their Silver Jubilee

In celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Shannon of Plainfield, were at home to relatives and friends on the evening of November 17.

Members of the immediate family who came home to mark the occasion were Mr. Vincent Shannon of Peterborough Normal School; Miss Mary Shannon, nurse-in-training at Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston; and Miss Geraldine Shannon, a student in residence at Notre Dame Convent, Kingston. Reverend J. Shannon, P.P. of Spencerville and Reverend J. V. Meagher P.P., of Stoco, brothers of the jubilarians, also came to join with those present in offering felicitations and good wishes.

In tangible commemoration of this silver jubilee, the mothers, brothers, and sisters of Mr. and Mrs. Shannon, presented them with a beautifully-finished chest of Rogers' silver flatware.

After a very pleasurable entertainment and musicale, a sumptuous supper, including a delicious wedding-cake, was served. The guests who had been accorded such a genial welcome in the early evening, remained, to enjoy the delightful hospitality of the home, until early morning.

A host of friends and acquaintances rejoice with Mr. and Mrs. Shannon and unite with their relatives and intimate friends, in wishing them the choicest of life's blessings for the future.

Senior B. Y. P. U. Enjoys Address By Miss Thompson

A program of outstanding merit was enjoyed by the Senior B. Y. P. U. of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church at their regular weekly meeting held on Tuesday evening in the club rooms. A significant topic entitled "Values That War Cannot Destroy" was ably presented by Miss Jean Thompson.

"With war and international anarchy menacing the world order," said the speaker, "the view is often expressed that civilization may be on the verge of a new dark age in which all that mankind values will crumble away We Christian young people do not entertain this view.

"It would be perilous to underestimate the seriousness of the present historic moment. There are unnumbered wrongs to be righted in our civilization and innumerable unrealities to be corrected. We may expect to witness the process of destruction in terrifying forms. But amid the inevitable wreckage of much that is now held dear, things will remain that cannot be destroyed, things as stable and abiding as the invisible bonds that bind the universe together.

"The foundations of the soul of man cannot be shaken. Man is truly man in the measure in which he lives for something greater than himself and the clue to life is the sacrifice of life. Selfish people are sub-human and a society of such people is doomed."

Cannot Destroy Core

"The moral core of the universe cannot be destroyed. The righteousness embedded in the Ten Commandments and the mercy inherent in Christ's gospel of love are equally everlasting. No atom-smasher devised by man can affect this kernel of reality. The overreaching purpose of God cannot be destroyed. The power that controls human destiny wills fellowship. The will to fellowship and not the will to power shall prevail. If these things are cherished and built upon we may lay aside our fears and greet tomorrow with a cheer."

Miss Ethel Smith, guest artist, sang "Till the Lights of London Shine Again" and as an encore "At the Balalaika." Possessed of an astonishingly clear and sweet voice, effortless and without strain, the young singer delighted her audience with the sheer beauty of her singing. She sings well because she loves to sing. Piano accompaniment was supplied by Miss Smith's mother.

A beautiful Christmas story, "The Perfect Gift" was read by Miss Mildred Lloyd, whose power of expression made the story vivid and palpable to her listeners.

The Fellowship Group had charge of the meeting with Miss Nora Hales in the chair. The Scripture lesson from Galatians 5 was read by Mr. Alan Haw and Mr. John Jury offered the closing prayer.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Mrs. Vanishing American Goes Modern

It's not an unusual sight in Washington, D.C. to see Indians, dressed in all the bravery of beaded buckskins, moccasins, and sometimes feathered headdresses, pattering along the streets.

In fact, it's such a frequent sight that the passersby, with the exception of small boys, hardly spare them more than a casual glance. It indicates merely that the noble braves have been to the Bureau of Indian Affairs; or if they happen to be "heap big chiefs," they may have been to the White House to shake hands with the "Great White Father."

But a day or two ago, patrons of a local Five-and-Ten witnessed an astounding sight they will not soon forget. Madame Squaw was buying bright handkerchiefs, junk jewelry and silk stockings. Her noble brave, in all the glory of his tribal costume—I know this is "believe it or not" stuff, but I'll swear to it —was holding the papoose. He didn't look embarrassed, and he was doing a very good job of minding the baby. Wide-eyed, the youngster, who was about three or four months old, looked at the palefaces who were buying things.

Perhaps Time's whirligig is doing something for the heretofore slavish position of the Indian woman. In my 'teen age, visiting at sundry army posts, I used to see the squaws on the reservation put up the teepee, take it down, do all the work there was to be done around the camp, cook and take care of the children. Meanwhile the lazy braves sunned themselves and smoked .There was practically no hunting to be done at the time of which I write. But the squaw, as the inferior, did all the drudgery and moved the family from one camp to the next.

And now, in confirmation of the amazing reversal scene, witnessed in the Five-and-Ten with squaw shopping and brave holding baby, comes a story from Alaska. In Nome, where Indian men predominate four to five in the ratio of the sexes, the squaw is no longer a yes-woman, neither does she go in for the drudgery that Indian women accepted without a whimper, as late as a generation ago.

Today she insists on having her say-so in family and tribal affairs. In fact, the rumor has been whispered that, having seen what beauty culture does for white squaws, the Indian woman is not above investing in cold cream and lipstick.

She's heard talk around the campfire that, in the case of Indians who owned acreage on which rich deposits of oil were found, the noble braves did not marry Indian women. They were married, in fact, by white women, the ladies invariably doing the heavy courting and bearing off the braves to the parson.

"How come?"—or whatever may be the Indian equivalent of those words. The answer would be something like this: "White squaw, plenty old, forty or fifty snows" (their computation for years). "She put heap grease on face nights, keep her young."

The Indian wife, who was perhaps not more than "25 or 30 snows," but showed the effect of climate and drudgery, did some hard thinking. Next time she went to town, she bought "face fat," with which she seems to have absorbed modern ideas.

But no one need worry about it; the Bureau of Indian Affairs isn't in the least concerned over this reversal of position. In fact, they take it as a good joke.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Problems Presented in Sending of Christmas Cards

There are certain questions of good form and good taste that puzzle all of us as we begin to organise the sending of our Christmas cards.

First, there's the question about the use of the phrase "and family" —Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and family. Many of our Christmas cards are sent to carry our greetings to all the members of a family. Naturally, then, the phrase "and family" comes to mind, and we plan to write this phrase on the envelope and perhaps on the card also.

This isn't good form or good taste, not only on Christmas-card envelopes but on envelopes of any kind.

If we address an envelope to "Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and family," Mr. and Mrs. Brown are given the compliment of being individually mentioned in our message, but the blanket-term "and family" doesn't make much of a personal bow to the other members of the family.

The ideal way of sending our Christmas cards to a family is, of course, to address one to Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and to send separate cards to the individual members of the family. But ordinarily this is far too great a strain on our budget.

So it is the way of wisdom to take the one envelope we do send and add as much personal touch as we can. For example, we can address the envelope to:

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown
Miss Mary Brown
Mr. John Brown, junior

Or, if you prefer, you may address the envelope to Mr. and Mrs. John Brown. On the card itself, below the engraved or printed message, write a message, such as "Love and Christmas greetings to Mary and Johnnie too." If, for another example, other members of the family include a grandmother and grandfather, you might write, "Christmas greetings to your mother and father, and to Mary and Johnnie."

All of these are simple and gracious and personal ways of circumventing the phrase "and family."

Another question often asked is whether or not it is proper for us to send Christmas cards to people in mourning. It is proper and it is kind, but, of course, we must choose with understanding the cards we send to these friends to whom Christmas day will be a very difficult day to endure. Cards of religious inspiration are all appropriate. But never should we send a card out of key to this special mission, never a gay card, never a card with the word "Merry" on it.

More exquisite in thought than sending a card is the plan to write a sincere little note of friendliness and understanding to those of our friends who are in mourning. Our warm-hearted words can bring them deep comfort.

A similar question is whether or not people in mourning should send Christmas cards. This of course, depends entirely on their own feelings. Their intimate friends who receive these cards—and they are sent only to intimate friends—will be touched by their bravery in forgetting their own unhappiness in wishing happiness to their friends. If the strain of sending cards is too great, they should not add to their burden of sorrow. Instead of sending cards, some people in mourning prefer to write little notes to their especially close friends.

COURTESY TIP

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

It isn't good sportsmanship, when you are shopping, to take the slogan, "The customer is always right" as a permit for you to be unreasonable and discourteous to a salesperson.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, December 5

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A MODERATELY interesting and progressive day is the augury based on the predominant lunar aspects. The energies and spirit of initiative may be keyed up to more than customary high pressure, and yet such stimulation is likely to be exercised in the domain of the personal rather than the business life, unless such practical expression pertain to the arts, entertainment or perhaps promoting certain social, welfare or romantic functions.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of lively and interesting adventures, with the forces and faculties keyed to high purpose, although this may be in the direction of progressive or artistic rather than purely sordid and practical objectives.

A child born on this day will be active, energetic and ambitious to be of service in a humane, social or philanthropic spirit. It will be artistic, refined, have high ideals and aims, thereby promoting much personal appeal.

For BETTER desserts
DURHAM Corn Starch

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Pasteurized Milk

It is a source of great satisfaction to me that Ontario, the province where I was born and have lived all my life was the first in Canada, and one of the first on the Continent, to make the pasteurization of all milk offered for sale compulsory. Under the leadership of Premier Mitchell Hepburn, the Ontario legislature wrote pasteurization into the laws of the province in the face of an opposition which was very active and noisy. The opponents promised they would have the pasteurization law repealed at the next meeting of the legislature because it was such a hardship on the farmer and a blow to the rights of minorities.

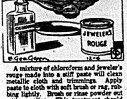
Fortunately all efforts to induce Premier Hepburn and his followers to change their mind and rescind the bill have failed. Recently figures were released that show that today ninety-two percent of all the milk consumed in the province is now pasteurized. And at the same time, it was announced that the result of this compulsory pasteurization has been—forty percent reduction in undulant fever, fifty percent reduction in typhoid fever! Surely these two figures alone are a sufficient justification for the law, without taking into consideration the hundreds of children who have been spared tubercular infection of the spine and joints.

Sometimes when you mention typhoid fever in connection with unpasteurized milk, people look at you in amazement. They seem to think you are stretching facts a long way to set arguments to back up pasteurization theories. Yet we know today that unpasteurized milk is one of the most fruitful sources of typhoid.

A few years ago there was an outbreak of typhoid in one of our largest Canadian cities. Before the epidemic was brought under control, there were 5,000 cases, and many persons died. An investigation traced the epidemic straight to unpasteurized milk.

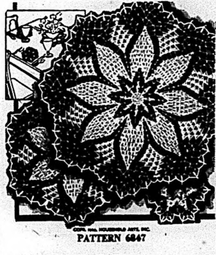
My own experience as a doctor convinces me beyond a doubt that pasteurization pays dividends in healthy babies and husky children. That's why the Dionne Quintuplets have never had a drop of milk that wasn't pasteurized.

Wife Preservers



A mixture of chloroform and jeweler's rouge made into a stiff paste will clean metallic cloth and trimmings. Apply paste to cloth with soft brush or rag, rubbing lightly. Brush or rinse powder out with gasoline. This treatment should only be used out of doors or with plenty of air in the room, and away from any fire.

Doilies Are Practical Accessories



Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Dainty Doilies Quickly Crocheted at Small Cost

PATTERN 6847

A dining table set with these lovely crocheted doilies will add to everyone's enjoyment. They will give your table that luxurious look and will enhance your china, glass and silver. Pattern 6847 contains instructions for making doilies; illustrations of them and stitches; photograph of doily; material needed.

To obtain this pattern send twenty cents in coins (20c) (stamps cannot be accepted) to The Ontario Intelligencer Household Arts Dept., 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

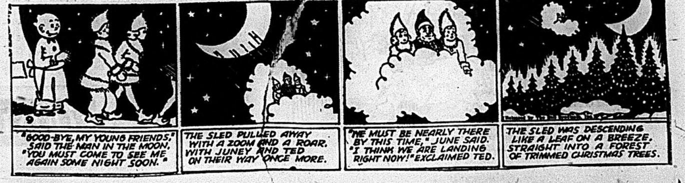
Relief FROM BILIOUS HEADACHES

may be obtained quickly if caused by constipation. Take Nature's Remedy—the all-vegetable laxative. Causes gentle, thorough action. Refreshes. Invigorates. Ask your druggist for a 25c box of NR Tablets tonight. See how much better you will feel tomorrow.

Nature's Remedy NR-TABLETS-NR

A VISIT TO SANTA CLAUS—Safe Landing

By GEOFF HAYES



9
"GOOD-BYE, MY YOUNG FRIENDS," SAID THE MAN IN THE MOON. "YOU MUST COME TO SEE ME AGAIN SOME NIGHT SOON."
THE SLED PULLED AWAY WITH A ZOOM AND A ROAR. WITH JUNEY AND TED ON THEIR WAY ONCE MORE.
"WE MUST BE NEARLY THERE BY THIS TIME," JUNE SAID. "I THINK WE ARE LANDING RIGHT NOW!" EXCLAIMED TED.
THE SLED WAS DESCENDING LIKE A LEAF ON A BREEZE, STRAIGHT INTO A FOREST OF TRIMMED CHRISTMAS TREES.

Members of Cheese Convention Welcomed by Mayor, Warden

Both Executives Express Appreciation for Bringing Dairy Show to This City

MANY SPEAKERS

Members of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association and sponsors of the British Empire Dairy Show were officially welcomed to Belleville on Tuesday afternoon as they held their 13th annual convention and 4th annual dairy show when Mayor Glencoe Thompson extended the welcome of the citizens of Belleville. The welcome of Hastings County to the members was extended by Warden J. L. Churcher of Bancroft. Mr. S. J. Anderson, President of the Association, acted as chairman for the afternoon's program of instructive and informative addresses given by men closely associated with the agricultural industry.

"It is indeed a pleasure to welcome the annual cheese exhibition to Belleville," stated Mayor Thompson as he addressed the convention. "The continued success and progress made from year to year is most gratifying and a very real tribute to the untiring efforts of the sponsors. The cheese making industry had always been a source of pride to this locality and we realize the great benefits which have resulted now, as in the past, from its operations. Now with our Empire engaged in its great fight for freedom, the industry again takes its important place in the very front ranks of our forces."

"Belleville appreciates the honour of being chosen as the site of this exhibition, and as the Mayor of this municipality, I have much pleasure in extending to the association, its members and guests a most hearty welcome, congratulations and best wishes for continued success."

Welcomed by Warden

In extending the sincere and cordial welcome of the people of Hastings County to the convention members and visitors, Warden Churcher stated that the Bay of Quinte district had an enviable agricultural record and for many years had been a producer of the finest cheese.

In a time such as this, considering the seriousness of the international situation and the need for increased production, Mr. Churcher stated that there might be a tendency to stress quantity rather than quality. It was indeed gratifying, however, he said, to know that quality of cheese in Hastings district is being maintained. Always quality must be the watchword, he said.

Referring to the problems certain to exist at the conclusion of the present war, Mr. Churcher stated that a re-adjusment of world markets will be made and with Canada having established herself as a great producing centre, it will naturally follow that she will get her share of export markets and world trade. In closing he congratulated the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association in bringing the British Empire Dairy Show to Belleville and wished them continued success in their venture.

Speeches Re-arranged

In a re-arrangement of the program, necessitated by the late arrival of the Montreal train bearing speakers for the afternoon, H. B. Sandwith, Chief Dairy Instructor for Eastern Ontario and Mr. E. G. Hood, B.S.A., Chief Dairy Research, Science Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, delivered their addresses which were scheduled to be given on Wednesday.

Dr. Hood gave an enlightening and informative address on "The Rancidity of Cheddar Cheese," a complete and thorough analysis of the problem as seen by the Science Service, to which local association members listened with attention as the problem discussed by Mr. Hood was a vital one to the cheese industry.

Other speakers for the afternoon included Mr. Joseph Burgess, Chief, Grading and Dairy Produce Inspection Services, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa; F. T. Hart, District Inspector Weights and Measures and H. L. Waters, representative Montreal Provision Trades Association, who gave a very inesting discourse on the marketing problems confronting the Canadian cheese industry and also food production figures of the past few years for England under war time conditions. In conclusion Mr. Waters stated that the greatest problem of the post-war period will be to adjust supply to demand.

Mr. Hart gave an instructive address on the care and maintenance of weighing machines which was much appreciated by factory operators, while pertaining to the same subject a fifteen-minute picture reel on "Modern Weighing Machines" was shown by the Toledo Scale Company.

By visual demonstration, District Inspector Hart brought home to the crowded and enthusiastic audience the ravages of rust and corrosion in scales subjected to conditions which obtain in the damp atmosphere of the average cheese factory. Initally, Mr. Hart had on hand actual pivots, bearings and loops which had been removed from scales rejected by his staff at local cheese and butter factories. Pivots exhibited were in a bad state of repair—rusty and badly worn through preventable corrosion. Scale bearings and loops were shown to be deeply pitted and cut in.

On the other side of the picture, specimens of pivots, bearings and loops were shown as they came from the scale factory and after renovation. These bad and good specimens were passed to the cheese makers for their personal examination. Enlarging on this subject the official stated rust in scales was to the scale maker what crime was to the legal profession—their living.

He went on to say that if there were no crime there would be less crime prevention services and if proper care was given to weighing machines, much expense for repairs and replacements would be saved by the traders concerned. The proper care of scales can be summed up in two words—cleanliness and lubrication. If cheesemakers would clean the scales once a week and vaseline all bearing parts once a month and at the end of the cheese making season see to it that every working part of the scale is lubricated before being laid up during the close season, then much trouble would be spared scale inspectors and cheese factories. Finally he stressed the point that factory owners should present all weighing apparatus for inspection at the local Weights and Measures Office, preferably between December-March prior to the opening of the season to ensure a good start in having the scales in as good shape as possible.

Cheese Exhibit Prize Lists

Following are further prize lists of awards made at the British Empire Dairy Show and Cheese Exhibition now in session in this city:

County Council Awards

Prince Edward—June (w or c)—E. W. Henderson, Milford; H. S. Channell, Hillier. July (w or c)—E. W. Henderson, Milford; H. S. Channell, Hillier; Fred Newcombe, Demorestville. August (w or c)—H. S. Channell, Hillier; E. W. Henderson, Milford; Fred Newcombe, Demorestville. September (w or c)—H. S. Channell, Milford; E. W. Henderson, Milford; Wm. Anderson, Picton. October (w or c)—H. S. Channell, Hillier; F. Newcombe, Demorestville; E. W. Henderson, Milford.

Northumberland and Durham—June (w or c)—D. Rowe, Hoards; W. F. Moore, Campbellford; S. E. Hobbs, Campbellford; H. F. Way, Brighton. July, (w or c)—S. E. Hobbs, Campbellford; D. Rowe, Hoards; W. F. Moore, Campbellford; H. F. Way, Brighton. August, (w or c)—R. Rowe, Hoards; W. F. Moore, Campbellford; S. E. Hobbs, Campbellford; H. F. Way, Brighton. September—D. Rowe, Hoards; S. E. Hobbs, Campbellford; H. F. Way Campbellford; W. F. Moore, Campbellford. October (w or c)—D. Rowe Hoards; H. F. Way, Brighton; W. F. Moore, Campbellford; S. E. Hobbs, Campbellford.

Hastings—June (w or c)—Bert Anderson, Madoc; A. Johnston, Madoc; D. Vernon Spencer, Queensboro; Morris Rose, Stirling. July, (w or c)—Bert Jones, Tweed: A. Johnston, Madoc; J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg; John Finnegan, Marmora. August (w cr c)—J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg; B. Jones, Tweed; Horace, Palmer, Plainfield; Roy Brown, Bonarlaw. September (w or c)—B. Anderson, Madoc; A. Johnston, Madoc; J. Finnegan, Marmora; Delbert Rowe, Harold. October, (w or c)—J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg; M. Rose, Stirling; J. Finnegan, Marmora; Bert Anderson, Madoc.

County Cheese Producers' Associations

Lennox and Addington—Mac Remington, Fred Remington; Earl McNeill, Moscow; Harold White, Stella; D. M. Sandford, Sharp's Corners; E. Murphy, Enterprise; L. Brown, Centreville; Robert Bruce, Enterprise.

Peterborough—Geo. H. Brookes, Trent River; A. McAdam, Peterborough; Arthur Orr, Hastings.

Prescott—August, Carl Murray, Hawkesbury; September, Carl Murray, Hawkesbury.

Northumberland—Douglas Rowe, Hoards; S. E. Hobbs, Campbellford; H. F. Way, Brighton.

Frontenac—W. E. Cooper, Sunbury; C. F. Guernsey, Wolf Island; C. D. Cramer, Elginburg. (This was w or c August). September, w or c) —T. E. McKnight, Inverary; C. D. Cramer, Elginburg; Charles Carter, Westbrook. October (w or c)—H. E. Ball, Wagarville; E. A. Reed, Kingston; C. D. Cramer, Elginburg.

Kingston Cheese Board Special

For factories boarding on the Kingston Board—T. E. McKnight, Inverary; D. V. Spencer, Queensboro; Robert Bruce, Enterprise.

Madoc

Madoc—Madoc Red Cross Society shipped to Red Cross Headquarters forty-eight pairs socks, six scarves and five quilts also a box of refugee clothing from the O'Hara Unit was forwarded to headquarters. Madoc Society also acknowledged two quilts (complete), one pr. socks and a complete baby's layette from St. Peters' Young Women's Club. These will be forwarded to Toronto with the next shipment.

Mrs. Millsip, Miss Betty Millsip and Mrs. W. D. Wilson of Toronto spent the week end with Mrs. Jennie Morrison.

Miss Yuell of Oshawa spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Johnson. Mrs. Yuell who has been spending the last two weeks with her daughter returned to Oshawa.

Miss MacDermid spent the week end in Kingston.

Mrs. Mary Embury has returned home after spending the past month with relatives in Toronto.

Greetings
BRING THE CHILDREN!
SEE
The Big
SANTA CLAUS PARADE
in
BELLEVILLE
This SATURDAY
2.00 P.M.

Percentage of High Scoring Cheese Never Higher Than This Year Chief Grader Tells the Delegates

Joe Burgess Gives History of Year's Work in Ontario and Quebec

BETTER TEXTURE

Speaking before the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association Convention here on Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Joseph Burgess, Chief grading and Dairy Products Inspection Services, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, congratulated them on the great improvements in the quality of cheese manufactured during the 1940 season. "During the present year there has been a remarkable improvement in the quality", stated Mr. Burgess, "and this afternoon I want to review some of the conditions which I believe are generally recognized as important factors in securing the improvement in quality, not only in Ontario, but also in other provinces of the Dominion". Further Mr. Burgess said:

In connection with the amalgamation of factories, five applications have been received from the Province of Quebec up to the present time, three of which have been approved and the other two are under way. These amalgamations will replace 12 or more small plants with five new or remodelled buildings which will be properly equipped to manufacture the best type of Canadian cheese.

The total number of factories where the ripening rooms have been insulated or insulated and refrigerated, and on which subsidies have been paid is 173. In addition, 135 contracts have been approved and reconstruction is under way at these factories.

The average cost to the department which represents half of the total costs where the ripening rooms were insulated and refrigerated, including 54 ripening rooms which were enlarged, was $509. In cases where ripening rooms were insulated but not refigerated, the average cost to the department was $302, or, in other words, the total average cost of insulating and refrigerating 173 ripening rooms was $1,108, and the total average cost for insulating the ripening rooms at 21 factories was $604, half of which in all cases was paid by the department.

Quebec Does Well

Including all the ripening rooms on which the subsidies have been paid or the contracts approved 176 are located in Ontario, 127 in the Province of Quebec, two in Manitoba and three in Alberta. In addition to the number referred to in the previous sentence, about 150 factories have expressed their intention of improving their ripening rooms and the initial inspection has been made at these factories by an officer of the department. That means that 458 factories have taken or are taking action to improve their ripening rooms, and this does not include the ripening rooms at 45 factories in Western Ontario, which were insulated and refrigerated previous to the passing of the Cheese and Cheese Factory Improvement Act.

One cannot over-estimate the value of these improvements to the cheese industry, as they are of a fairly permanent nature, and so long as the ripening rooms are maintained and properly managed, should result in better cheese being produced under both normal and abnormal conditions.

In connection with the standardization of pressing equipment, 239 factories have made the necessary changes and subsidies have been paid at an average cost to the Department of $93 per factory. Contracts have also been approved for standardizing the pressing equipment at 178 factories on which the subsidy has not yet been paid, and I would add that if there are any factories which have not yet taken action to standardize pressing equipment, the matter should be attended to as early as possible.

It has been part of my duties, in addition to supervising the grading, to compile yearly reports for a period of 17 years, or ever since grading began in 1923, and there has never been such a large proportion of the total make of Ontario and Quebec cheese which were equal to 93 or 94 score or what is generally recognized as the finest type of Canadian cheese. It is expected that the total premium to be paid throughout the Dominion will be over one million dollars, an increase of at least $400,000 over the payments in 1939.

Tribute to Makers

High scoring cheese cannot be produced from inferior milk and the milk producers must have accepted part of the responsibility in raising the standard of quality by furnishing a class of milk which could be made into high scoring cheese. On the other hand, the makers, combined with the assistance from the instructors, must have developed greater efficiency in their manufacturing methods because, while only a small percentage of the factories have better facilities for ripening or curing cheese, there must have been a great improvement in the general character when such a large proportion of the total make was equal to 93 or higher score.

This is particularly gratifying in view of the fact that only a short time ago, about two years, there were numerous complaints about the texture of Canadian cheese. It was stated that the texture was too dry, mealy or harsh, and that it took too long for the cheese to mature and, even then, the texture of many cheese was not satisfactory. That condition or defect has been completely eliminated within the last year and a half, and the Dairy Division at Ottawa realizes that there must have been real co-operation between the provincial staff and the cheesemakers to overcome this texture defect in less than two years.

There has been such a general improvement in texture and also in workmanship, it is evident that the cheesemakers and instructors deserve a great deal of credit for their work during the past season.

With reference to the temperature in cheese ripening rooms and also in cheese warehouses during the present Fall Recommendations were made that the temperature in the ripening rooms should be maintained between 60 and 65 degrees, also that warehouse temperatures should be raised to at least 55 degrees to ensure that the cheese would show as much maturity as possible before being exported. Generally speaking, managers of cheese warehouses complied with the request and there were very few cases where the warehouse temperatures were too low, and I would also point out that even if the temperatures maintained in all cheese ripening rooms and in cheese warehouses were not all that could have been desired, there can be no doubt that a decided improvement was made and that the Fall cheese were never as well taken care of as during the past four or five weeks.

It is stated that under present war conditions, cheese are going into consumption earlier than usual and the object of having the Fall cheese matured as much as possible before being exported was not only to improve the quality, but also to provide cheese in a more suitable condition, taking the war situation into consideration.

Report on Convention

Mr. Burgess in reporting on the cheese exhibition stated that the exhibit this year is not only the largest of any exhibit put on by the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, but believed it to be the largest ever held in the Dominion of Canada.

"It has been my privilege to act as one of the judges at all of your exhibitions and I have no hesitation in making this statement that there is a higher standard of quality in this years' exhibit than at any previous time. The decorations and display of cheese are quite equal to, if not superior to, those of previous years and indicates, that those in charge of setting up the exhibition deserve a great deal of credit for arranging an exhibition of cheese in such an attractive manner. The value of the prizes, including the medals, cups, trophies, etc., is something over $2,000 and it is no doubt due to the generosity of the numerous contributors which has made it possible for the exhibition to become such a huge success. Ever class in the different sections contains such a large number of cheese which are almost perfect in flavor and workmanship that the judges had a very difficult time in selecting the winners. In all classes, there are a number of exhibits which scored from 96 to 97 1-2 points which did not receive a prize, and I want to make special mention of these cheese as the exhibitors should realize that their exhibits were close up to what the judges considered the finest quality. There is a total of 563 cheese in the various classes which were manufactured in four different provinces, Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba and Alberta and cheese from all of these provinces were awarded prizes.

"Ontario having by far the largest proportion of the exhibit secured most of the prizes and while Western Ontario cheese have again won many of the highest awards, there is a greater distribution of prizes in Central Ontario than in previous years.

"The outstanding feature in connection with the exhibition is the general improvement in flavor and particularly in the texture of the cheese. There were almost fifty per cent. of the cheese which scored 42 or more points on flavor, which was an increase of about seven per cent in high flavor scores compared with the 1939 exhibit.

"Seventy-five cheese were scored perfect in texture compared with 23, one year ago, and 84 per cent. of the balance were almost perfect with texture scores of 24.5 to 24.9 points. I have already referred to the remarkable improvement in the texture of Canadian Cheese during the past year and a half, and the exhibition cheese also show a general improvement in texture. It is not necessary to say very much about closeness or color as there were very few cheese where serious deductions were made. However, in a high class exhibit deductions of 1 to 3 tenths of a point sometimes reduces the score below the prize winning group.

"The finish of the cheese was much improved over previous years but at the same time there is probably more room for improvement in this connection than in any other part of the exhibit so far as high scoring cheese are concerned and makers who do not attempt to make cheese which are almost perfect must expect to have the total score reduced according to the extent of the defect.

In conclusion Mr. Burgess denied a statement made in Kingston recently that exhibition cheese such as are placed on exhibition at the British Empire Dairy Show are not suitable for export to the United Kingdom. "This statement was utterly false," stated Mr. Burgess, "as the cheese shown at this exhibition have been proven to be entirely suitable for export."

Iron Guard Leader Abolishes Police Force

Bucharest, Dec. 3 (AP)—Horia Sima, Iron Guard leader, abolished today the Iron Guardist Police organization which had played a leading role in the revenue murders of the past week.

He coupled this move to restore order in the turbulent ranks of the Iron Guard with an order for dismissal of those "guilty of false heroism." Rumanians interpreted this latter action as meaning Sima and Premier Ion Antonescu are determined to oust thousands of disreputable members.

These undesirables have been blamed for the present anarchy in Rumania, which reached a peak last week with the assassination of 64 former officials high in the regime of former King Carol.

Comparative quiet prevailed throughout the country today as German troop reinforcements streamed into the country.

The dissolution order said the police organization "had accomplished its mission in helping the Iron Guard in an epoch of transition."

The last act of the Guardist police was a raid on a Constanta spinning mill where it claimed it uncovered "the headquarters of a nationwide white slavery ring with hundreds of little girls as well as ladies of good society involved."

Shannonville

Shannonville — The L. O. L. held their annual oyster supper in the Orange Hall Wednesday evening. Four long tables were set the length of the hall and they were well filled. The gentlemen waited on the ladies and they were well looked after. Mr. Miller Carl was chairman and introduced the speakers of the evening, Dr. Harold Welsh, M. L. A., Roslin; Rev. A. E. Pepper, Tweed; Rev. C. P. Heaven, Shannonville, and Rev. Sterling, Shannonville and Mr. Claude Clarke, Deputy Master of the L. O. L. The program was enjoyed by the large audience. Mrs. Lorne Weese was pianist. The program was as follows; Mr. Fred Mitchell led community singing. Mr. Roblin Dulmage a reading; Mrs. Cole, reading; musical selection, Mrs. Lorne Weese; Roblin Dulmage, reading. The program closed with God Save the King.

A most successful bazaar and afternoon tea was held Tuesday afternoon and evening in the Brick Hall under the auspices of the W. A. of the United Church. Tea was served cafeteria style. Miss Whiteman, Miss Lazier, Miss Goodfellow and Miss Laune served tea.

A pot luck dinner and quilting was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Mark, Thursday afternoon, under the auspices of the W. G. Trinity Church.

Sergeant Carman Spencer, R. C. A. F., and Mrs. Spencer of Jarvis, Miss Ruth Spencer and Mrs. Madeline Spencer were Tuesday evening callers at the home of Rev. A. E. Pepper and Mrs. Pepper, Tweed. They were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Groves and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Spencer, Queensboro.

Mr. Peter Marian, Trenton Airport, spent the week end at his home.

Pte. Ronald Mayell, Ordnance Corp, Kingston, was a week end guest of his mother, Mrs. Olive Mayell.

Mr. Ross Fuller, Oshawa, spent the week end at his home.

Mr. Gordon Sager, Oshawa, was a Sunday guest of Mr. Robert Sager.

Mr. Joe Barnhart spent the week end at his home.

Sergeant C. S. Spencer, R. C. A. F. and Mrs. Spencer, Jarvis, are spending a few days guests of Mrs. Madeline Spencer and Ruth.

Sergeant C. S. Spencer was a member of the graduating class at Jarvis, to receive his wings.

Albury

Albury—Mr. and Mrs. George Young and Evelyn. Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Beuford Peck.

Miss Edna Carnrike and friend spent the tea hour on Sunday with her sister Mrrs. Hugh Weese and Mr. Weese.

Mrs. Chase and Estella and Bernard, Mr. S. Thomas, Miss Herrington spent the tea hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Williamson and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Russell.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Redner and family spent the tea hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Beuford Peck.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williamson.

Mr. Earl Bonter and Mr. Alec Dickie both have new cars.

Mrs. Roy Williamson, Mrs. Harry Dempsey, Mrs. Hugh Weese, Mrs. S. C. Peck, Mrs. Beuford Peck attended the Institute meeting at the Rednersville Hall on Thursday afternoon. Five Institutes from the county were represented. Owing to the bad roads not so many were present. Papers were given by each Institute. A lovely lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Wallbridge spent the tea hour on Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Beuford Peck.

Mrs. Will Peck spent a few days in Belleville with her daughter, Mrs. E. LaBarr.

Mrs. T. Dempsey is spending sometime with Mrs. R. Onderdonk.

Roads were blocked on Sunday owing to the bad snow storm.

Canada

With grim determination this young and virile nation dons her armour.....buckles on her sword. From coast to coast the tempo of Canada's war effort accelerates. Tanks, planes, shells, foodstuffs and equipment of every kind are being rushed and massed for victory. Canada means business.

Personal sacrifice must match this national effort.

Yours is the duty of providing the dollars so vital to Canada's war needs. Yours is the duty to save.....that you may be ready and able to lend your money to the nation when the call for money comes.

Money, no less than men and machines, is a decisive factor in this war. Thrift is a national necessity.

Save for Victory

THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA

Survivors State Ship is Sunk By Italian Sub

An East Coast Canadian Port, Dec. 4 (CP)—Five Newfoundland seamen, who escaped from the flaming British tanker La Brea after it had been torpedoed off Scotland Aug. 24, waited in this port today for transportation to their homes in the old colony.

The sailors, brought here from England, said their 6,665-ton vessel, owned in the United States before the war, had been sunk by an Italian submarine in a daylight attack. The men rowed more than 24 hours in two lifeboats, reaching the Hebrides.

Two men on the ship were killed —the British captain and an Australian fireman. The others left with the tanker's oil cargo ablaze.

"The attack came without warning," said Leonard Brown of Burin, who was on watch when the torpedo struck at 11.30 a.m. "After we managed to get clear, the submarine came to the surface and got a look at us."

"She wasn't far away," he recounted, "and we could read the markings on her conning tower. She was an Italian."

Enforce Attendance Of School Children Left in London

London, Dec. 4 (CP)—Authorities decided today to set the truant officer of London's "Dead-End Kids."

They estimated that three-fourths of the 92,000 school children remaining in the city are not going to school, but are spending their nights in air raid shelters and their days roaming streets.

Now, along with the growing campaign for compulsory removal of children from the city, school attendance is to be enforced.

Resources of Empire Limitless Says Express Editorial

London, Dec. 4 (CP Cable)—The Daily Express, newspaper of Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born Minister for Aircraft Production, today cited Canada's tariff changes and ban on certain luxury imports as an example of the Empire's contribution to the war effort.

The editorial said that compared with the present struggle the war of 1914-18 was much more a Franco-British effort.

"Look at what Canada is doing this time as an example," the Daily Express said. "She is the home of the Empire Air Training Scheme. One group of her factories alone produces 1,000,0000,000 rounds of ammunition a year.

"She builds warplanes, tanks, lorries; her airmen and soldiers have crossed the Atlantic in thousands.

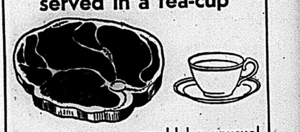
"And now Canada tightens her belt further in our cause. She bans the imports of luxuries and abolishes customs duties on many goods Britain can send her.

"When Britain's resources seem strained to you, cheer yourself with a look at the Empire. Its resources are limitless; its will to win inflexible."

1500 POUNDS SKI WAX ORDERED FOR U.S. ARMY

Boston, Dec. 4 (AP)—Ski-wax—familiar item to winter sport fans—will play a part in the United States army's preparedness program. The Boston quartermaster depot of the war department today announced it had contracted for 1,500 pounds of the wax from the Strand Ski Company, New Richmond, Wis., at 54 cents a pound—apparently for use by troops being trained for winter manoeuvres.

BEEF-STEAK
served in a tea-cup



would be unusual
But—
you can enjoy beefy flavour and goodness in stimulating
HOT
BOVRIL
"PREVENTS THAT SINKING FEELING"

"I get what I want for Christmas!"

I always tell my family that there's nothing I'd like better for Christmas than something to smoke. Then I add that for sheer smoking pleasure there is no other tobacco just like Old Chum. That fixes it.

½ lb tins in festive cartons 80¢ OLD CHUM

Boston Bruins in Third Place After Swamping Americans With Bill Cowley Setting Pace

Score is 6-2 and Bruins Display Driving Power of Other Years

SQUEE ALLEN HURT

N.Y. Player Sustains Hemorrhage in Right Eye After Being Hit With Stick

By JACK MITCHELL,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

It will take a few more games for perspective, but right now the Boston Bruin powerhouse—after working at half speed since the start of this National Hockey League season—finally appears to be generating fully from every turbine.

The Bruins, now only one point out of second place, have fired a total of 16 goals to almost double their former output in winning their last two starts. It is true both were against New York Americans, but a sprightly lot of Americans that, though crippled, no longer work for Manager Red Dutton as the old men of Manhattan.

For those who watch the shadows for coming events, it may be not amiss to remember that the Bruins now occupy almost exactly the same spot as at this time last season before a drive carried them to the league championship. There always has been something about Manager Art Ross' Clubs, perhaps the sheer power, that makes them slow on the getaway.

The power with all its trimmings was there in full force as Bruins walloped the Americans 6-2 in Boston last night to follow up a 10-3 victory over Dutton's troupe Sunday. It was the only league match and the result lifted the Bruins from fourth to third place, one point behind Detroit Red Wings.

Bill Cowley Paces Attack

Pacing the attack again was Bill Cowley, veteran Boston centre who picked up six scoring points in the first meeting. Cowley contributed two goals and an assist to the Bruins' cause and incidently increased his personal point total to 15 to hold first place alone among the league's individual scorers.

The other four Boston goals were divided evenly among as many players, with Defenceman Jack Shewchuk getting his first of the season and Roy Conacher, Woody Dumart and Bill (Flash) Hollett bagging the others. Both Americans' counters came in the final frame with Lorne Carr and rookie Norm Larson getting them.

The Americans, with three players already out of the lineup through injuries, lost another in the game. It was the 22-year-old rookie left winger, Vivian (Squee) Allen of Saskatoon, who suffered a hemorrhage in his right eye when cut by a hockey stick. He was ordered to remain in hospital for further examination.

"MIGHTY MITE" PLAYS LAST GAME

Setting a new record of 33 completed passes failed to console Davey O'Brien, the mighty mite of the U.S. gridiron, when he was taken out of Philadelphia Eagles-Washington Redskins game at Washington with only a few seconds to play. It was his last football game, as Davey is leaving the Philadelphia team to join the G-men of the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation.

GODOY SEEKS THIRD BOUT WITH LOUIS

Chilean Champ Wins Over Musto and Seeks Another Shot at Louis' Crown

Cleveland, Dec. 4—(AP)—Arturo Godoy, satisfied he has staked a claim for a third match with Champion Joe Louis, packed his bags and announced he was sailing Friday for South America—and would return only if Louis agreed to meet him again.

Godoy's manager, Al Weill, said he believed the Chilean's convincing ten-round decision over rugged Tony Musto of Chicago recently placed him in line for another title shot. Godoy battered and pounded Musto and floored him twice in the fifth round—once for no count and again for a count of three.

Godoy said his immediate reason for going to his home in Iquique, Chile, was the serious illness of his mother.

Since losing twice to the Brown Bomber, Godoy also beat Gus Dorazio of Philadelphia.

"I think my fight with Musto showed I am best man to meet Louis," Godoy said. Max Baer or no one wants to fight me so I might as well stay home until I get a crack at the title."

Musto, weighing 190 pounds, was hanging on for the final three rounds but managed to weather a flurry of Godoy punches. Arturo weighed 200.

Whole Forward Line In Loop's Top Three Scoring Positions

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 4 (AP)—The high-powered forward line of Springfield Indians blasted furious new assaults against the net-minders of the American Hockey League during the past week, with the result that Fred Thurier, Fred Hunt and Glenn Brydson were more firmly entrenched than ever in the loop's top three scoring positions.

Thurier, leading the league since early season, gained five points during the week to bring his total to 26, while Hunt added four points for an aggregate of 23. Brydson was in third place with 16.

Les Cunningham of Cleveland Barons and Lloyd Roubell of Pittsburgh Hornets, the first Western Division representatives to crash the scoring column, were tied with 15 points, and Bobby Kirk of Hershey Bears was next with 14.

Vic Myles of New Haven Eagles, with 15 minors and a misconduct penalty, and Allan Shields of Buffalo Bisons, with 12 minors, led the penalty list.

	G.	A.	Pts.
Thurier, Springfield	9	17	26
Hunt, Springfield ..	12	11	23
Brydson, Springfield	8	8	16
L. Cunningham Clev.	7	8	15
Roubell, Pittsburgh .	7	8	16
Kirk, Hershey	5	9	14
Desilets, Cleveland ..	4	9	13
Locking, Cleveland .	5	8	13
Smith, Philadelphia.	6	7	13
Summerhill, Clev. .	9	4	13
Blake, Pittsburgh ..	6	6	12
W. Kilrea, Hershey .	4	8	12
Polich, Philadelphia	4	8	12
Thibeault, Springfield	5	7	12

BOWLING SCORES

Recreation Alleys

C.N.R. LEAGUE

Locos 1 point: A. Saunders 543; A. Duffield 545; A Jone 506; A. Knott 483; H. Robinson 537—2614.

Boilermakers 3 points: T. Cope 526; S. Symonds 532; T. York 558; T. Caton 616; E. Schrieder 504—2736.

Yard 1 point: D. Pointer 675; F. Bolte (2) 321; J. Cather (2) 287; H. Pointer 581; R. Johnston 535; M. Kelley (2) 283—2682.

Office 3 points: C. Young 560; A. Meagher 607; W. Jackson 659; L. Train 501; G. Fisher 440—2767.

Major B League

Ont.-Intell. 3 points: F. Fortune 664; B. Hardwick 474; R. Hardwick 750; C. Tice (2) 308; C. Hardwick (2) 335; G. Robertson (1) 134; C. Ling (1) 160—2825.

Corbins 1 point: J. Royle 451; J. Graham 633; M. Moyes 503; A. Hill 476; W. Bell 486—2549.

Wisers 0 points: G. McDonald 574; W. Mills 458; C. Downey (2) 393; T. Boyle 522; J. Doe 444—2391.

Corbys 1 point: W. Lywood 601; B. Knott 454; R. Farquharson 522; J. Moon 489; W. Whiting 607—2673.

O.B.C. Mixed League

Finnigan 463; Fennell 307; McAlpine 256; Meagher 312; Doig 257—1617.

Waite 429; Chapman 569; Theobald 479; Graham 466; Donohue 585—2528.

Wonnacott 298; Smith 470; Rawson 636; Chapman 202; Doyle 350—1945.

Jean 366; Allie 372; Helen 361; Mike 340; Dick 442—2201.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

New York—Leo Rodak, 135 1-4, Chicago, outpointed Maxie Shapiro, 130, New York, (6).

White Plains, N.Y.—Bill Weinberg, 190, Boston, stopped Julio Ortensio, 201 3-4, New York, (5).

New York—Tami Mauriello, 160, New York, stopped Eric Seelig, 163 1-4, White Plains, N.Y. (7).

Obviously hurt, Small Montana is shown struggling to his feet (LEFT) after one of the te nknockdowns he received at the hands of Bantamweight Champ Lou Salica in their title bout at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. Referee Billy Burke stepped in and stopped the fight in the third round following Montana's tenth trip to the canvas. A mere shell of his former self, the former world's flyweight champ was in bad shape early in the first round after Salica had hit him with a murderous right hand to a vulnerable spot in the challenger's left side. The victorious champ is shown (RIGHT) shaking hands with Montana as his handlers work over him.

BROWNS ACQUIRE TWO PITCHERS FROM RED SOX

Fritz Ostermueller and Danny Galehouse Are Hurlers Involved

MACK IN MARKET

Luman Harris Secured in Straight Deal for Ed Huesser

Atlanta, Dec. 4—(AP)—Baseball's minor leagues took the stage today with official opening of their 39th annual convention, but the majors grabbed the spotlight with the ring of cash on the barrel-head.

The St. Louis Browns, here with advance billing as a club willing to peel its bankroll for player strength, did just that in a surprise move on the eve of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues parley.

Brown President Donald Barnes announced purchase of Fritz Ostermueller and Danny Galehouse, two good journeyman pitchers, from Boston Red Sox for an unspecified sum in cash, and indicated the club also was interested in a "dependable catcher."

Unofficial figures put the probable price for Ostermueller and Galehouse at $30,000. Ostermueller last season was credited with five wins and nine defeats, while Galehouse won six and dropped six.

Connie Mack in Market

Meanwhile Connie Mack acquired a promising southern league pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics. In a straight swap with the Atlanta Crackers, the lanky patriarch gave Ed Heusser, a right handed submarine baller, for Atlanta's Luman Harris. One of the Crackers' mainstays last season, Harris won 17 and lost eight. Heusser was a disappointment with the A's, winning six and losing 13. Cracker Manager Paul Richards, however, was optimistic regarding Heusser, recalling he won 19 and lost seven for Memphis in 1939.

Deal May be On

There were recurrent but unconfirmed reports that the southern champion Nashville Vols were negotiating for sale of Boots Poffenberger, a 26-game winner last season in the southern association after a spectacular washout with Brooklyn Dodgers. Similar speculation centred on conferences between newly-appointed General Manager Jim Gallagher of Chicago Cubs and Larry MacPhail, president of Dodgers. Rumor tagged Brooklyn's pitcher Luke Hamlin likely to go to the Cubs in exchange for an outfielder, possibly Augie Galan or Jim Gleeson. Gallagher and MacPhail, however, depreciated talk of the deal.

Here is a bit of fast action literally frozen by the speedray as the New York Hockey Rangers defeated the Montreal Canadiens by 6 to 1 score at Madison Square Garden. Goalie Kerr of the Rangers is down in defence of his net as teammate Watson (7) bats the puck out of the danger zone, breaking up attack of Canadiens' Demers (19) at LEFT, and Lach (14) at RIGHT. Hiller (8) of the Rangers is in the foreground.

League Leaders

(By The Canadian Press)

Standing—Toronto, won 9, lost 2, drawn 0, points 18.

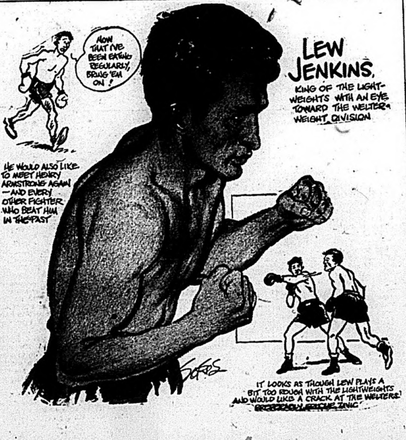
Points—Cowley, Boston, 5 goals, 10 assists, 15 points.

Goals—Goldup, Toronto, 7.

Assists—Cowley, Boston, 10.

Penalties—Orlando, Detroit, 18 minutes.

Shutouts—Mowers, Detroit; Broda Toronto; Brimsek, Boston; Goodman, Chicago, and Robertson, Americans, 1 each.



NOW THAT I'VE BEEN EATING REGULARLY, BRING 'EM ON!
LEW JENKINS,
KING OF THE LIGHT-WEIGHTS WITH AN EYE TOWARD THE WELTER-WEIGHT DIVISION
HE WOULD ALSO LIKE TO MEET HENRY ARMSTRONG AGAIN —AND EVERY OTHER FIGHTER WHO BEAT HIM IN THE PAST
IT LOOKS AS THOUGH LEW PLAYS A BIT TOO ROUGH WITH THE LIGHTWEIGHTS AND WOULD LIKE A CRACK AT THE WELTERS!

IF HE'S YOUR PROBLEM CHILD . .

you'll find HIS GIFT at

Quick & Robertson
CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with
Ken J. Colling

S. R. "Sandy" Burrows announced today he intended to call together the clubs composing group No. 1 in the senior "B" series of the O.H.A. the week-end of Dec. 14th. The meeting is to be held in Belleville and will be attended by Whitby, Peterboro, R.C.A.F. "Flyers," Belleville Reliance and the Kingston Hockey Club. The group meeting is for the purpose of drafting the season's schedule which no doubt will be a double one, with each team visiting the others on two occasions. However, the meeting can be prepared for a stormy session as we understand the Limestone City moguls are anything but satisfied with the inclusion of Whitby and even do not like the idea of travelling to Peterborough. With this announcement Convener Art Black of Trenton can set a date for the junior group meeting anytime after Dec. 16th, as the Belleville juniors are unable to accept playing dates until after the senior clubs have announced their schedule. No doubt both groups will get under way between Christmas and New Years, providing the present winter-like weather continues and there seems to be no abating.

According to Sports Scribe Fred Craig, of Peterboro', the Liftlock City moguls are quite satisfied with the new five-club set-up, which is much preferable to the old three-teamed group of years past. However, we'd like to point out it would be folly to sell the stocks of the Whitby Red Wings short, as the Red Wings will be permitted to use any Oshawa players who do not make the senior "A" club in the Motor City. There is an abundance of good hockey players in Oshawa, so as a warning to all — watch the Red Wings fly high. Of course on paper the Kingston Club has the edge on all, as the champion Peterboro' sextette has lost three of their 1940 title holding squad. The Limestone City moguls have access to the Queen's senior squad, as well as all of the military camps surrounding Frontenac County and they're still squawking. Reports tell us there are many outstanding hockey players at the Airport, but Group Captain T. A. Lawrence is not making any comment until he calls a practice which should be early next week. As for "Speedy" St. Louis' Reliance Aircraft squad, the local skipper has contacted a couple of additional good pucksters and it looks like a merry time will be enjoyed on the ice lanes of senior hockey in Central Ontario this winter.

Bewailing that the O.H.A. groupings afforded them are not popular in Kingston, Sports Columinist Bill Walshe takes up his henchmen's point, but if you will read carefully between the lines of Mr. Walshe's following sport note, much is to be anticipated. Bill says in his column: "The O.H.A. groupings for Eastern Ontario teams has not met with the general approval of local clubs but until a meeting is called there will not be any official objection. Including Whitby in a senior group with Kingston is not practical, while putting Brockville in a junior section with Kingston teams also forces an expensive travelling for all clubs.

Kingston seniors and juniors will likely be strengthened by soldiers and students from Queen's with the Tricolor and military not entered in the O.H.A. The victory of the combined football force on Saturday showed the good retsults of co-operation and the improved chances for championships."

John Ball, 79, eight times winner of the British amateur golf championship, died at his home in Holywell, Wales, yesterday. yesterday. John Ball was one of Britain's greatest golfers. He was the first amateur golfer to win the British open title and the only one prior to Bobby Jones, the American ace, to win both the open and amateur golf championships of the British Isles in the same year.

At the rate they are making ice at the Hume arena we would not be surprised to see skating on Friday night.

Do you remember when George Vezina, one of hockey's all-time-great goalkeepers, was ordered to quit the game 15 years ago today. Despite a temperature of 102, the Canadien netminder played his last match Nov. 28 and in the following week lost 30 pounds. He died at Chicoutimi, Que., March 28, 1926.

They tell us Lefty O'Doul, the former National League outfielding star, is laughing quietly to himself these days. It seems Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, announced he was going ivory hunting for youthful baseball talent next spring. It will be recalled that O'Doul, San Francisco "Seals" manager, first tried to sell Terry on Joe DiMaggio. No deal. Then Dominic DiMaggio. No deal. Then Ted Williams. Still no deal. So no wonder O'Doul is quietly chuckling to himself.

News from the National Baseball Commission meeting at Atlanta, Ga., isn't exactly of the flood type. However, all of a sudden Manager Lena Blackburne acquired an abundance of cash and is going around after players in a manner that would indicate the Toronto owners have at last taken the elastic band off the bank roll. Oscar Vitt says the Cleveland Club owes him $2,500 under the attendance clause in the former Indian's contract, which won't be any too well received by the "cry babies." Rumours have Hank Greenberg wearing the khaki of the U.S.A. army next summer, instead of the pearl-grey of the Detroit Tigers. Greenberg is next on the draft list, to be called up in the spring. He asks no favours, however. Bill Terry says Gabby Hartnett hasn't been signed by the Giants as player-coach, while owner Stoneham says he has. Some fun when the owner of a major league club doesn't know what his holdings are bringing in.

SPORT SLANTS—Understand "Woolworth Dave" Martin is taking in Saturday night's N.H.L. game as guest of the Belleville Juniors. . . . Ask Dave how simple it is to get ducats to these Saturday night games in Toronto. . . . Manager Frankie Frisch bought infielder Stu Martin from the Cardinals to plug up his Pittsburgh infield. . . . Strangely enough it was the same Stu Martin who took Frisch's job and relegated him to the bench. . . Some people don't know when they have had enough—now Arturo Godoy, the Chilean game guy of the ring, wants a third shot at Joe Louis. . . . Basketball at the R.C.A.F. saw the Canadians beat the Americans 44 to 33 last night but the game was played under the "hands-off" Canadian rules. . . . For his contribution to boxing throughout the year, "Hammerin' Hank" Armstrong was awarded the Edward J. Neil Memorial Trophy yesterday.

N.H.L. Stars

(By The Canadian Press)

Bill Cowley, Boston, who picked up two goals and an assist in pacing the Bruins to a 6-2 triumph over New York Americans.

Lorne Carr, Americans, who scored one goal and played his usual tireless game although the Americans were overwhelmed in Boston.

Start December Right–Advertise Tomorrow

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER WANT AD RATES

Minimum Charge for the first twenty words, per Insertion	30c
Two Insertions	60c
Three Insertions	75c
Over Twenty Word, 1½c per word per insertion.
Box number	extra 10c

Copy accepted until 12.30 noon on day of publication.

Telephone 99.

AUTO FINANCE

AUTO LOANS
REFINANCING

On terms and at rates which you will find suitable to your requirements. Your car is a quick and gilt-edge asset for borrowing. Only the owner signs. Deal with confidence with the largest company of its kind in Canada.

D. H. MARSHALL

17 Bridge St. E. . Phone 1073

Representing

CAMPBELL AUTO FINANCE

Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa

Business Directory

W. A. WATSON

ARCHITECT

Kresge Building.

(Formerly 28 Bridge Street E.)

N15-tf

MINERAL BATHS

MINERAL BATHS AND MASSAGE The finest treatment for Neuritis, Arthritis, Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Colds, etc. Separate parlors for Ladies and Gentlemen. Graduate Nurse. Registered Masseur. Phone 1152. "THE HEALTH INSTITUTE" 231 William St. Belleville

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist. Mineral Fume Baths with oil and alcohol rub; coagulation of tonsils. Radioclast examination, manipulative surgery and suction treatment for sinus conditions. 322 Coleman St., Belleville. Phone 900. Lady attendant.

H. R. and VERA E. PITCHER, Sp.C. Chiropractors, and Drugless Therapists. Adjustments, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment. Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations. Coagulation of Tonsils and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St., East, Belleville, Ont. Phone 1274.

INSURANCE

The thought of Fire loses half its Terrors when you're protected with our Fire Insurance.

SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST

LIFE and FIRE INSURANCE

249½ Front St. Phone 492

HALL & EARLE

General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass

278 Front St. Phone 1154W

Need Money for Christmas?

If you need money for the Christmas Season . . . and you want it quickly . . . remember we loan on Household effects or Automobiles.

QUINTE FINANCE
and
SECURITIES LIMITED

168 Front St. Phone 168

BELLEVILLE

Screen Clock

BELLE THEATRE TIMES

NORTHWEST MOUNTED POLICE

Gary Cooper, Madeleine Carroll, Robert Preston

2.40 — 7.05 — 9.20

McCARTHY THEATRE TIMES

GOLDEN BOY

Barbara Stanwyck, Wm. Holden

7.30 — 9.40

COOKING SCHOOL CLASS

2.00 p.m.

CAPITOL THEATRE TIMES

MELODY and MOONLIGHT

Vera Vague, Jerry Colonna, Mary Lee

7.10 — 10.15

MEN WITH WINGS

Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland

8.25

WANTED

TWO UNFURNISHED OR PARTLY furnished rooms, preferably heated, by permanent tenant in business. Write Box 11, Ontario Intelligencer. D4-3t

TWO TONS BALED STRAW. F. B. Hudson, 168 Bleecker. D4

MARRIED FARMER, MONTHLY or yearly engagement, fine brick residence, near school, church, small family preferred. Everett Fenemare, R. 1, Bloomfield, Ont. Phone 107w3, Picton. D4

LADY BOOKKEEPER, EXPERIENCE not essential. Apply between 12 and 1.30 and 5 and 6. Singer Sewing Machine Co., 40 E. Bridge St. D4-2t

4 OR 5 ROOMS OR SMALL house, unfurnished. Apply H. Bourgeau, Trudeau Motor Sales. D4-2t

CAPABLE GIRL, 20 - 35, FOND of children, willing to leave city. Phone 1011. D4

CAPABLE FARM HAND BY THE month. Please state wages wanted to Box J, Ontario Intelligencer. D3-2t

GIRL TO ASSIST WITH HOUSE work. Apply Mrs. Gray, 100 West Bridge. D3-3t

WIDOW, ENERGETIC, UNENCUMBERED desires position as housekeeper for elderly gentleman in return for comfortable home. Small remuneration. Box 8, Ontario Intelligencer. D3-3t

BOY 16 - 18 YEARS OF AGE, FOR office work. Fast typist essential. Write, giving references and qualifications to Box V, Ontario Intelligencer. D3-2t

TO RENT, GARAGE IN VICINITY of Forin St. Phone 1796R. D3-2t

CLERK FOR OFFICE, KNOWLEDGE of Bookkeeping, Typing and Stenography preferred. Give references and experience. Box 10 Ontario Intelligencer. D3-2t

JOB BY EXPERIENCED TRUCK driver. Apply Bert Juby, 186½ Front St. D2-3t

FURNISHED APARTMENT, — heated, immediately by two adults, preferably ground floor. Phone 1948. D2-3t

TO EXCHANGE SPRING MATTRESSES for new or used feathers. Write Box A, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-4t

TO RENT 3 OR 4 ROOM FURNISHED, heated apartment, near business section. Write Box 9, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3t

POSITION BY MAN WITH FOUR years' experience in garage work and acetylene welding. Write Box 4, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3t

CAR OWNERS, ATTENTION: Cash paid weekly for selling guaranteed quality Nursery Stock. Full or part time. New sales plan. Quick commission. Luke Brothers, Nurseries, Montreal.

AGENTS WANTED

IF YOU WANT TO START A business of your own and become independent, write today for the JITO Proposition. NO RISK UNDER THIRTY DAY TRIAL OFFER. The most complete line offered with FREE PRODUCTS for consumers. Start now to begin the new year right. WOMEN and MEN accepted. Apply at JITO, 1435 Montcalm, Montreal. D4,7,9,11,14,16,18,21,23,26,28,30

MALE AND FEMALE HELP WANTED

NOW IS THE TIME TO QUALIFY for a Government job as Steno., Clerk, Postman, Customs Clerk, etc. Applications for next stenographers' exam to reach Ottawa, Dec. 20. Free Booklet and information from M.C.C. Schools Ltd., Toronto 10. D4,7,11,14

NOTICE

The public is hereby warned that Practice Bombing will take place at two ranges on the Bay of Quinte daily between the hours 3 a.m. and 5 p.m. from December 1, 1940, to May 1, 1941.

The "danger areas" are enclosed by,—

(a) A circle of 660 yards radius on the Bay of Quinte SOUTH of the Quinte Golf Club.

(b) A circle of 800 yards radius on the Bay of Quinte between Indian Island and the north shoreline of the Bay.

These areas are shown on notices which are posted in the vicinity of each range.

No person is permitted to enter these areas during the period of bombing specified. Red flags and danger signals will be displayed at the land approaches to the danger areas when bombing is actually in progress.

J. S. DUNCAN,

Acting Deputy Minister for Air.
Department of National Defence,
Ottawa, Dec. 2, 1940. D2-3t

EVEN SANTA CLAUS KNOWS THE VALUE OF NEWSPAPER SPACE—

—AND IT COSTS SO LITTLE TO GET SO MUCH.

PHONE 99 TODAY

TO LET

LARGE FURNISHED ROOM, downstairs, hardwood floors, continuous hot water, one furnished bedroom upstairs. Apply 162 E. Dundas St. Phone 2268. D4

HEATED, FURNISHED BEDroom or bed sitting room. East Hill. Phone 973J. D3-3t

5 ROOM HOUSE AT ROSSMORE, warm and comfortable, rent reasonable. Apply to Ray Bush, Rossmore. D4

EIGHT ROOM HOUSE ON HERchimer Ave. Apply W. C. Wilson, corner of Bridge and Herchimer. D4-3t

SMALL BUNGALOW, HOT WATER heating, hardwood floors. Adults only. Apply 306 Front St. D3-3t

ATTRACTIVELY FURNISHED, Heated four room apartment, rangette and refrigerator. Garage. Private entrance. Phone 1888W. D3-3t

TWO OR THREE UNFURNISHED rooms, centrally located, suitable for young couple. Reasonable rent. Write Box D, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-3t

156 BRIDGE STREET EAST — near Charles Street, desirable semi-detached brick house —living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, den, bath, hot air heating, two coal fireplaces, hardwood floors, garage. Available February 1st. Inspection by appointment. Exclusive agents, Belleville Locators, George N. Gorman, Prop., 166 Front St., Phone 99, House Phone 687. N26-tf

176 BLEECKER AVENUE, SOUTH of Bridge Street; brick house, situated in attractive grounds; large living room with coal fireplace, dining room with coal fireplace, kitchen, wired for range, 4 bedrooms and bath, hardwood floors, full basement, new hot air heating plant, double garage, interior of house newly decorated throughout. This is a very desirable residence. Exclusive agents Belleville Locators, Geo. N. Gorman, Prop. 166 Front Street, Phone 99. House phone 687. N22-tf

TENDERS

The time for receiving Tenders for the new St. Michael's Convent has been extended to 5 p.m., December 11. Tenders should be sent to the architect, James H. Haffa, 96 Bloor St., West, Toronto. D3-2t

BUSINESS LINERS

FULLER BRUSHES make useful Christmas Gifts. Phone 744J for illustrated catalogue. Dick Terry, 257 Bleecker Ave. D3-3t

LOST

WHITE FOX TERRIER PUPPY with dark markings on face, Finder kindly phone 309 or 1656R. D4

Milk Report For November,

	Butter Fat
Montrose Dairy, Jersey	4.9
Montrose Dairy, Ayrshire	3.4
Citizens Dairy, Jersey	4.5
Citizens Dairy, Standard	3.6
Walmuir Dairy	3.6
Butler Dairy	3.7
Reid Dairy	3.3
Millard Dairy	3.6
Harper Dairy	3.4
Whelan Dairy	3.7

Sediment test, "all samples clean."

(Sgd.) C. B. Waite, M.D.,
Director of Laboratory.

FOR SALE

STOVE, CIRCULATOR HEATER (furnacette), practically new. Reasonable price. Phone 366. D4-3t

FIVE ROOMED HOUSE, HOT AIR furnace, good cellar, sun porch, garage, between Cannifton and Corbyville. Apply Jay Campbell, Cannifton. D4-3t

BOY'S LEATHER JACKET, SIZE twelve years; skates and boots, man's, size 6; lady's, size 5; girl's size 2. Apply 179 William St., evenings 6 - 8. D3-3t

7 TUBE ROGERS ELECTRIC console radio, good condition, cheap for cash or exchange for hardwood. Phone 1388J. D3-3t

SOFT WOOD SLABS, 4 CORD load, $18.00; also body soft wood. For particulars write H. C. Lloyd, Phone Belleville 1222. D3-6t

USED CAR PARTS, BATTERIES, used 21-inch tires, also 20-inch and 19-inch. Reasonable. Ford A Roadster; Star Sedan; used bicycles. Pigden's Garage, opposite Crystal Hotel. D3-2t

100 HAMPSHIRE REDS, PULlets, laying, also 30 bushels carrots. Apply 72 Frank St. D3-2t

BEECH AND MAPLE HARDwood, also quantity of mixed wood. Further details apply J. Demore, Flinton, Ont. N30-4t

BEATTY WASHER, USED, $15.00. David Electric Shop, 340 Front St. N20-tf

BELLEVILLE LOCATORS

Own Your Own Home!

TALK IT OVER! THEN SEE

Belleville Locators

GEO. N. GORMAN, Prop.

Licensed and Registered Real Estate Brokers and Associate Members of The Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards.

166 FRONT ST. Opp. City Hall

GET A $100 LOAN

Repay $7.78 a month

$20 to $300 Loans—No Endorsers

Loans made on furniture or auto. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. Money usually the same day.

GUARANTEED PAYMENT TABLE

Cash Loan You Get	Amount You Pay Back Each Month Including All Charges
	4 mo. loan	8 mo. loan	12 mo. loan	18 mo. loan
$ 30	$ 7.88	$ 4.10	$ 2.84
[illegible]	13.13	6.83	4.73
[illegible]	21.01	10.92	7.56
100	26.26	13.65	9.46	$7.78
125	32.83	17.06	11.82	9.72
150	39.39	20.48	14.18	11.67
200	52.52	27.30	18.91	15.87
300	78.79	40.95	[illegible]	[illegible]

Instalments based on prompt repayment and include charges of 3% per month as authorized by the Small Loans Act, 1939. We guarantee there is nothing else to pay. Phone or call to apply.

HOUSEHOLD FINANCE
CORPORATION OF CANADA
PETERBOROUGH, ONT.
Second Floor, Lansfield Block
177 Charlotte St., Opp. Loblaws
M. E. Hull, Manager Phone 5842

LOW COST means nothing unless the work is up to required standards. Printing done at The ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER will satisfy you, because our work is of the quality that is demanded by buyers who really know printing!

PHONE 99

Ontario Intelligencer Job Printing

BIRTHS

BARBER—At Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday, December 3, 1940, to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Barber, a daughter. D4

DEATHS

GIBSON—In Belleville at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Gordon H. Bray, 28 Hillside St. on Tuesday, December 3, 1940, James Gibson, in his 80th. year.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, until early Thursday morning when the body will be forwarded to Bracebridge, Ontario, where the funeral will take place from the Marshall Funeral Home on Friday afternoon, December 6th. at 3 o'clock.

Interment Bracebridge Cemetery. D4

SCHROEDER—Suddenly at her home, Patteros, Washington, on Tuesday, December 3rd., 1940, Agnes Julia Berry, wife of W. H. Schroeder and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Berry of this city, and sister of Mrs. Martin Wims, 36 Gordon St., Belleville. D4

HOUSE COMMITTEE

(Continued from Page One)

This program evolved yesterday in the House as the Throne Speech debate, nearly four weeks old, was wound up. Two amendments were lost. One, proposed by Conservative House Leader Hanson, was defeated on a straight vote between the Liberals and all opposition groups, 140-51. The other, proposed by John Blackmore, leader of the New Democracy group, was supported only by that group and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation 174-18.

The House today turns from the ominous debate on the Throne Speech to the two vital finance resolutions introduced Monday by Finance Minister Ilsley. It is believed debate on these measures can be completed in time for Christmas adjournment by Friday.

Senate Meets Briefly

Last night the Senate met briefly before adjourning to 5 p.m. today when government leader Dandurand suggested bills on tax and tariff changes might have been sent to the Senate by the House. It was the Senate's first meeting since Nov. 15.

Senator C. E. Tanner (Con. Nova Scotia) urged that wooden cargo vessels should be built in Canada to carry foodstuffs and war materials from the Dominion to Britain.

Yesterday's loose debate in the Commons was featured by a series of exchanges between Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the Conservative House leader, by renewed demands for a parliamentary investigation of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and by a sharp clash between J. S. Roy, Independent Conservative member for Gaspe, and Justice Minister Lapointe.

M. J. Coldwell, Acting C.C.F. House leader, asserted that an investigation of CBC affairs was necessitated by charges of "irregularities" and serious internal conditions made by Alan Plaunt on his recent resignation from the CBC Board of Governors.

There were the resignations of two responsible CBC officials for somewhat similar reasons. There were the grave charges of Jean-Charles Harvey, Editor of Le Jour, Montreal, that certain CBC officials were "enemies of the Democratic ideal," and would not be displeased by a British defeat.

Wants Government to Talk

"Why is the government silent on the matter?" asked Mr. Coldwell. "Why does the Board of Governors remain ready to allow such a condition to continue.

"This is a great public service and to my mind it is dangerous to rely upon a chairman who is head of a St. James Street Trust (Rene Morin, chairman of Trust General Du Canada, Montreal), and a vice-chairman who is a key figure in the Canadian movie industry, which in a sense is a competing industry which, largely under the guidance of this Vice-Chairman (N. L. Nathanson, chairman, Famous Players Corporation), has become one of our great Canadian monopolies.

"Is this another example of big business controlling what has been called by an American author the opinion industry?"

In a fiery speech, Mr. Roy tried to move an amendment to the Throne speech resolution, to the effect that the government had asked, and been given, a mandate for only moderate participation in the war —as evidenced by the speeches of Quebec members of the Cabinet prior to the election. These speeches compared to those of other members of the government in other parts of the country, indicated a "shameless opportunism" on the part of the government.

Proposed Motion Killed

Mr. Roy's proposed motion died when he failed to obtain a seconder, for which Mr. Lapointe congratulated the House. The Minister of Justice denounced the new member as a contributor to disunity.

"He well knows that Quebec has never been as united as she is today," Mr. Lapointe said. "Quebec is solidly with the effort of Canada in this conflict and we are going to stay solidly behind that effort—no matter what may be the sniping campaign of those disgruntled politicians who try to divide a united country."

The only people in Quebec who were opposed to the war work of the government were Communists, he said. There might be others but they were afraid to express their views.

He added that Mr. Roy was elected by "an unfortunate accident," when two strong Liberals opposed him.

Starting off the day Mr. Hanson criticized the reports by nine cabinet ministers on the war effort for their failure to adopt a "more realistic attitude."

He clashed with the Prime Minister when he suggested there was a feeling in England that Canada was trying to make money out of the war.

That, Mr. King declared, was a libel on the people of Canada, on its producers and manufacturers. It was unfair to the people of England and doubly unfair to the people of Canada and the only person he had ever heard suggest such a thing was Mr. Hanson himself.

Proposal Accepted

Mr. Hanson, who three weeks ago proposed appointment of standing committees on military and on war supply matters, yesterday urged the government to name a special committee to review the government's war expenditures currently.

This proposal, which was accepted by the Prime Minister, had been discussed at a private meeting between the two leaders and a handful of their colleagues after the original proposal was made by the Conservative leader, it was disclosed "no approach to the subject could have been more helpful" than that of Mr. Hanson and his associates the Prime Minister said.

Because of the necessity of secrecy, Mr. King said he hesitated to agree to appointment of two standing committees as originally suggested. However, he believed a select committee as suggested by Mr. Hanson and similar to a committee operating at Westminster would be beneficial.

When Parliament reconvened in February, after the Christmas adjournment, the Prime Minister said he would introduce a motion identical with the one used in forming the British committee.

How Can I Best Serve?

The Prime Minister said the time had come when every Canadian should examine his or her own conscience to determine what service could best be rendered. Some could assist by saving, some by lending, others by working in various avenues.

"The time has come when it is for every man and every woman to ask himself and herself, 'how can I best serve in this great crisis, how can I serve my country and how can I serve humanity itself?' because it is the existence of civilization as we understand it that is at stake at this time."

Mr. Coldwell urged the government to adopt a compulsory loan project, similar to that introduced in New Zealand, to assure equality of sacrifice.

He wished that Canadians could hear the kind of challenging economic, social and political aims which Britain's leaders were voicing.

J. F. Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata) urged a return to responsible government. A small group of cabinet ministers thought the war was their exclusive prerogative.

"There was too much hypocrisy about patronage, he claimed, when certain cabinet ministers were bringing in a crowd of their business associates.

Ceylon's first soap factory was opened a few weeks ago.

WE STRONGLY ADVISE IMMEDIATE PURCHASE of

CONNOR WASHERS
FRIGIDAIRE REFRIGERATORS
and
RANGES

A few left at Old price.

SMALL DOWN PAYMENT.

EASY TERMS.

WALKER HARDWARE COMPANY LIMITED.

248 - 250 Front St.

D4-4t

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Bill Cowley of Boston Bruins continued his point-gathering spree against New York Americans last night, climbing into first place alone in the National Hockey League's Big Seven by picking up two goals and an assist in Boston's 6-2 victory. Two other Bruins moved into a tie for the last berth, Eddie Wiseman by bagging an assist and Roy Conacher with a goal and an assist. Bryan Hextall, New York Rangers, slipped from a first place tie with Cowley into second position and Detroit's Syd Howe remained tied for third with Phil Watson of Rangers as no other games were played.

The Leaders:	G.	A.	Pts.
Cowley, Boston	5	10	15
Hextall, Rangers	5	7	12
Howe, Detroit	4	7	11
Watson, Rangers	3	8	11
Goldup, Toronto	7	3	10
Drillon, Toronto	6	4	10
R. Conacher, Boston	6	4	10
Apps, Toronto	5	5	10
Wiseman, Boston	5	5	10

A NEW NOSE FOR 30¢

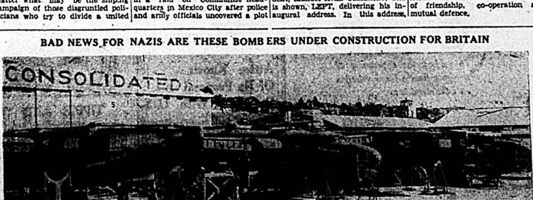
Mentholatum quickly soothes nasal irritation ...relieves sniffling and sneezing. Clears the nose. Jars and tubes, 30c.

MENTHOLATUM Gives COMFORT Daily

NABBED IN PLOT TO KILL MEXICO'S NEW PRESIDENT

These men, RIGHT, were seized in a raid on Communist headquarters in Mexico City after police and army officials uncovered a plot to assassinate Mexico's new president, Manuel Avila Camancho, who is shown, LEFT, delivering his inaugural address. In this address, Camacho pledged Mexico's full adherence to the Pan-American ideal of friendship, co-operation and mutual defence.

BAD NEWS FOR NAZIS ARE THESE BOMBERS UNDER CONSTRUCTION FOR BRITAIN



Very bad news indeed for the Nazis are these powerful consolidated heavy bombers being rushed to completion at the Consolidated plant in San Diego, California. They are among the 26 ships of this type purchased by the British to aid in battle against the Nazis. Finished ships of this class have already started long, long trips to "undisclosed destinations"—informed sources good at putting two and two together to get four claim that that "long, long trip" involves flight over the United States then across the Atlantic to beleagured Britain. These aerial giants when completed weigh 20 tons, cruise a 1,500-mile radius at 300 miles per hour and tote five tons of bombs.

IN SOUTH SEA TRAGEDY

Death by starvation ended the adventurous South Seas cruise of this Oakland, Calif., couple, Mr. and Mrs. Delton Condley. Their bodies were found in wreckage of the 28-foot yacht Wing On on a Fiji Island reef. Also aboard was Fern Thompson, of San Pedro, Calif., too weak from malnutrition to be questioned. Her husband is believed to have been buried at sea. The Wing On left San Francisco last August. The Condleys left their then seven-months-old baby, Patsy, INSET, in San Francisco with Condley' sister.

HAVE GOOD CAUSE FOR MEDITATION

With Greek troops, aided by Britain, continuing to hand stinging defeats to the vastly numerically superior Italian forces, these three important figures in the Axis lineup have good reason to be plunged deep in meditation. This picture was taken at a conference recently at Florence. Von Ribbentrop, Germany's foreign minister, RIGHT, appears to be doing the talking as Il Duce and his son-in-law, Count Ciano, do the listening. Germany is reliably reported to be strongly irked at Il Duce's string of failures in Greece, the Mediterranean and Africa.

Kennedy's Resignation as Ambassador To London Approved by N. Y. Press

New York, Dec. 3—(CP)— The New York Herald Tribune, commenting editorially on Joseph P. Kennedy's resignation as United States Ambassador to Great Britain, said today "a vast number of Americans. . . .are going to breathe more easily".

The New York Times, while commending Kennedy for much of his work in London, also was critical of the Ambassador who announced last night he had submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt November 6.

It said "unguarded talk was always one of the defects of his qualities in London; another was a reliance upon 'hunches' rather than cool analysis".

The Herald Tribune said:

"The one important issue in the United States today is between those who believe that even war may be a lesser evil for American democracy than a supine surrender of our last democratic allies to Hitlerian world empire and those who believe that war of any sort would be so destructive that in last analysis they would give up the fort and make peace with Hitler rather than risk it.

A Word to the Wise

This Christmas Season, business will be heavier than in many years. To enjoy the opportunity of shopping from a larger selection . . . the moral is to

Shop Early

RADIO PROGRAMS

(Daylight Saving Time)

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 4.

6.15—Club Matinee—WJZ, CBL
7.45—Lowell Thomas, news commentator—WJZ, CBL
7.45—Finnish Independence Day—CBL
8.00—The Little Revue—CBL
8.00—Fred Waring in Pleasure Time—WEAF
8.30—Cavalcade of America—WEAF
8.30—Meet Mr. Meek, comedy drama—WABC, WGR
8.30—Serenade for Strings—CBO, CBL
9.00—Big Town, drama—WABC, WGR
9.00—Hollywood Playhouse, drama—Gale Page and Jim Ameche — WEAF, WBEN, WGY
9.00—Quiz Kids—WJZ, WHAM
9.30—Manhattan at Midnight — WJZ, WHAM
9.30—Dr. Christian, sketch—WJR, WABC
9.30—Plantation Party — WEAF, WGY
10.00—Time to Smile; Eddie Cantor, comedian; Dinah Shore, vocalist—WEAF, WGY
10.00—Star Theatre; Fred Allen, comedian—WABC
10.00—Melodies for You—CBL
10.30—The Question Box—CBL
10.30—News; Fiesta Pan-American—WJZ
11.00—Kay Kyser's Program—WEAF, WGY
11.00—Glenn Miller's Orchestra; Ray Eberle and Marion Hutton, vocalists — WABC,
11.15—Britain Speaks—CBO, CBL
11.30—Back Where I Came From—WABC, WGR
11.30—BBC Newsreel—CBL
11.30—Doctors at Work, drama—WJZ
11.45—News of the World—WABC
12.30—Eddy Duchin's Orch.—WABC

THURSDAY, DEC. 5.

9.15—Vocal Vogues—CBL
10.00—Breakfast Club—CBL
12.00—BBC News—CBL
5.00—School of the Air—CBL
7.00—Questions of the Hour—CBL
7.30—Paul Sullivan Reviews the News—WABC
8.00—Fred Waring in Pleasure Time—WEAF, WGY
8.15—Lanny Ross—WABC, CFRB
8.30—They Shall Not Pass—CBL
8.30—Bob Crosby's Orch.—WEAF, WGY
8.30—Vox Pop; Parks and Wally—WABC, WGR
9.00—Ask-It-Basket with Ed East—WABC, WGR
9.00—Meditation—CBL
9.00—Coffee Time; Fanny Brice (Baby Snooks); Dick Powell; Mary Martin—WEAF, WGY
9.00—Horace Heidt's Orch.—WJZ, WHAM
9.00—Meditation—CBL
9.30—In Chicago Tonight—WOR
9.30—Strange As It Seems—WGR, WABC
9.30—The Aldrich Family—WEAF
9.30—Fame and Fortune, Quiz Program—WJZ, WHAM
10.00 — Major.. Bowes — WABC, CFRB
10.00—Music Hall. Bing Crosby M.C. and comedian; Music Maids; Ken Carpenter announcer—WEAF, CBL
10.30—News; America's Town Meeting of the Air Discussion—WJZ
11.00—Rudy Vallee program—WGY WEAF
11.00—Glenn Miller's Orch.—WJR, WABC
11.15—Britain Speaks—CBL, CBO
11.15—Choose Up Sides—WABC
11.30—Magnolia Blossoms—WJZ
11.30—Chicago Symphony Orch.—WGN
11.30—Musical Americana: Raymond Paige's Orch.—WEAF, WGY
11.30—BBC Newsreel—CBL
12.30—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WABC
1.00—News; Fats Waller's Orch.—WJZ, WHAM

RADIO DIRECTORY

CANADIAN STATIONS

CFRC—Kingston	1510
CBL—Toronto	840
CBO—Ottawa	880
CBW—Windsor	600
CBY—Toronto	1420
CFCF—Montreal	600
CFRB—Toronto	690
CHML—Hamilton	1010
CKCL—Toronto	580
CKOC Hamilton	1120
CKTB—St. Catharines	1200

UNITED STATES STATIONS

KDKA—Pittsburg	980
WABC—New York	860
WBEN—Buffalo	900
WGY—Schenectady	790
WHAM—Rochester	1150
WEAF—New York	660
WENR—Chicago	870
WGR—Buffalo	550
WBBM—Chicago	770

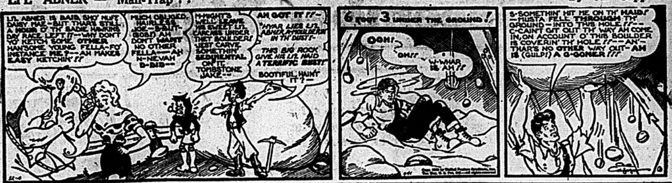
Attlee Knows Of No Proposal For Union With U. S.

London, Dec. 3—(CP)—Clement Attlee, Lord Privy Seal, answering a question in the House of Commons today said he was not aware of any proposal for either definite or implied union with the United States and that "if any such plans should approach the fringe of practical policy it could only be after prolonged discussion by the legislative bodies on both sides of the Atlantic."

His reply was to Richard Stokes, Labor, who asked assurances also that "no further naval or military bases would be let to the U.S.A. or union be entered into or irrevocably committed without the government first giving opportunity to the House for full discussion."

LI'L ABNER — Man-Trap ! !

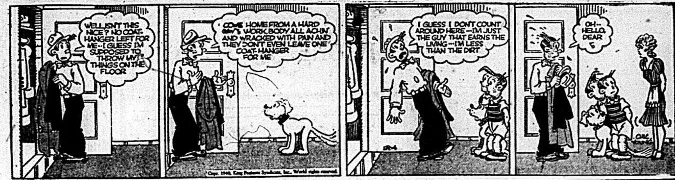
By Al Capp



LI'L ABNER IS DAID, SHO' NUFF, DAISY MAE—BUT THAR'S STILL A HOUR O' TH' SADIE HAWKINS DAY RACE LEFT!!—WHY DON'T YO' KETCH SOME OTHER HAN'SOME YOUNG FELLA—FO' INSTANCE ME?—AH MAKES EASY KETCHIN'!!
MUCH OBLIGED, HAIRLESS JOE—B-BUT- (SOB!) AH DON'T WANT NO OTHER FELLA—AH N-NEVAH D-DID—
M-MIGHT'S WELL LEAVE HIS SWEET LI'L CARCASS UNDER THET BOULDER! JEST CARVE SOMETHIN' SEDIMENTAL ON IT, TOMBSTONE JAKE—
AH GOT IT!!— "HYAR LIES LI'L ABNER A-MOULDERIN' IN TH' DUST!— THIS BIG ROCK GIVE HIS LI'L HAID A TERRIFIC BUST!" BOOTIFUL, HAIN'T IT?—
6 FOOT 3 UNDER THE GROUND!
OOH!
OH!!
W-WHAR IS AH?!
S-SOMETHIN' HIT ME ON TH' HAID!—MUSTA FELL THROUGH TH' GROUND—INTO THIS HOLE!!—C-CAIN'T GIT OUT TH' WAY AH COME IN, ON ACCOUNT O' THIS BOULDER IS COVERIN' TH' HOLE!!—AN' THAR'S NO OTHER WAY OUT—AH IS (GULP!) A G-GONER!!!

BLONDIE — The Worm Turns

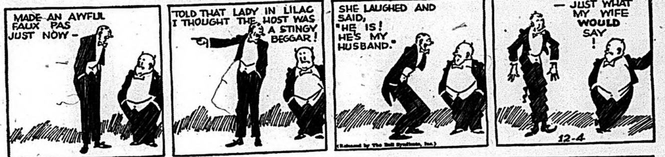
By Chic Young



WELL! ISN'T THIS NICE? NO COAT-HANGER LEFT FOR ME--I GUESS I'M SUPPOSED TO THROW MY THINGS ON THE FLOOR
COME HOME FROM A HARD DAY'S WORK, BODY ALL ACHIN' AND WRACKED WITH PAIN AND THEY DON'T EVEN LEAVE ONE COAT-HANGER FOR ME
I GUESS I DON'T COUNT AROUND HERE---I'M JUST THE GUY THAT EARNS THE LIVING---I'M LESS THAN THE DIRT
OH-- HELLO, DEAR
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

POP — This Fellow Should Talk to Himself

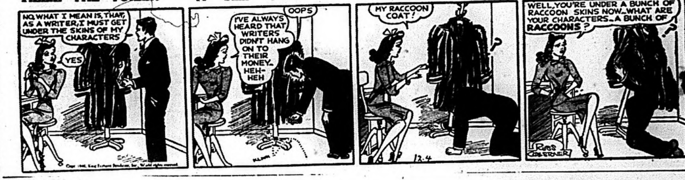
By J. Millar Watt



MADE AN AWFUL FAUX PAS JUST NOW—
TOLD THAT LADY IN LILAC I THOUGHT THE HOST WAS A STINGY BEGGAR!
SHE LAUGHED AND SAID, "HE IS! HE'S MY HUSBAND."
— JUST WHAT MY WIFE WOULD SAY !
12-4
(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

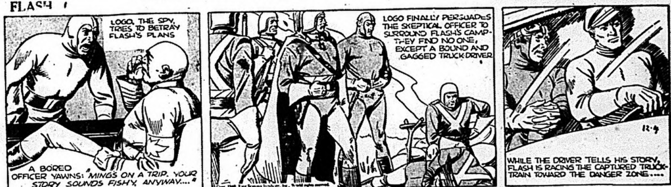
TILLIE THE TOILER — A "Skin" Game

By Russ Westover



NO, WHAT I MEAN IS, THAT, AS A WRITER, I MUST GET UNDER THE SKINS OF MY CHARACTERS
YES
I'VE ALWAYS HEARD THAT WRITERS DIDN'T HANG ON TO THEIR MONEY.. HEH-HEH
OOPS
MY RACCOON COAT!
WELL, YOU'RE UNDER A BUNCH OF RACCOON SKINS NOW..WHAT ARE YOUR CHARACTERS..A BUNCH OF RACCOONS?
12-4

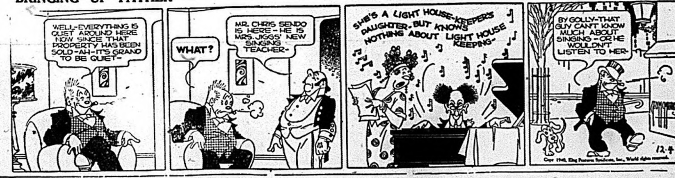
FLASH



LOGO, THE SPY, TRIES TO BETRAY FLASH'S PLANS
A BORED OFFICER YAWNS: "MINGS ON A TRIP. YOUR STORY SOUNDS FISHY, ANYWAY...."
LOGO FINALLY PERSUADES THE SKEPTICAL OFFICER TO SURROUND FLASH'S CAMP-THEY FIND NO ONE, EXCEPT A BOUND AND GAGGED TRUCK-DRIVER
12-4
WHILE THE DRIVER TELLS HIS STORY, FLASH IS RACING THE CAPTURED TRUCK-TRAIN TOWARD THE DANGER ZONE....

BRINGING UP FATHER —

By George McManus



WELL-EVERYTHING IS QUIET AROUND HERE NOW SINCE THAT PROPERTY HAS BEEN SOLD-AH-IT'S GRAND TO BE QUIET-
WHAT?
MR. CHRIS SENDO IS HERE-HE IS MRS. JIGGS' NEW SINGING TEACHER-
SHE'S A LIGHT HOUSE-KEEPER'S DAUGHTER-BUT KNOWS NOTHING ABOUT LIGHT HOUSE KEEPING-
BY GOLLY-THAT GUY CAN'T KNOW MUCH ABOUT SINGING-OR HE WOULDN'T LISTEN TO HER-12-4
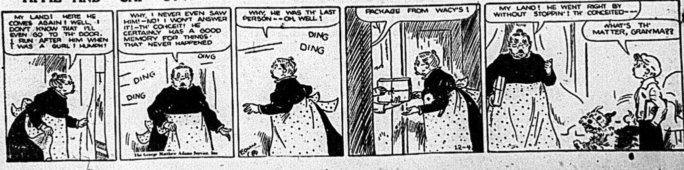
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

TIPPIE AND "CAP" STUBBS —

By Edwina



MY LAND! HERE HE COMES AGAIN! WELL, I DON'T KNOW THAT I'LL EVEN GO TO TH' DOOR. I RUN AFTER HIM WHEN I WAS A GURL! HUMPH!
WHY, I NEVER EVEN SAW HIM!—NO! I WON'T ANSWER IT!—TH' CONCEIT! HE CERTAINLY HAS A GOOD MEMORY FOR THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPENED
DING
DING
DING
WHY, HE WAS TH' LAST PERSON--OH, WELL!
DING
DING
PACKAGE FROM WACY'S!
12-4
MY LAND! HE WENT RIGHT BY WITHOUT STOPPIN'! TH' CONCEITED---
WHAT'S TH' MATTER, GRAN'MA??
The George Matthew Adams Service, Inc

STOCK MARKETS

QUOTATIONS FURNISHED BY BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD.
J. R. Peets, Branch Manager.

Quotations at 2.00:

MINES

Ajax	19
Aldermac	16
Anglo Hur	230
Aunor	215
Bankfield	7 1-2
Beattie	107
Bidgood	12 1-2
Big Missouri	5
Bralorne	990
Broulan	86
Buffalo Ank.	430
Calgary and Ed.	142
Can. Malar	53
Central Pat.	194
Chesterville	130
Coast Copper	125
Coniaurum	140
Dome	24 1-2
Eldorado	37
East Mal.	310
Falconbridge	225
Gillies L.	4
Gunnar	37
Hardrock	98
Home Oil	232
Hollinger	13
Howey	30
Hudson Bay	25 1-2
Kerr Add	360
Kirk. Lake	98
Lapa Cad.	7
Lake Shore	19
Leitch	50
Little L. L.	220
Macassa	375
McIntyre	48 1-2
McLeod	235
McKenzie	118
Mining Corp.	82
Moneta	54
Nipissing	102
O'Brien	115
Okalta	72
Omega	15
Paymaster	25
Pamour	145
Perron	178
Pend Oreille	180
Pickle Crow	295
Pioneer	215
Powell	107
Premier	87
Preston E. D.	335
Reno	14
Royalite	23 1-2
San Antonio	260
Sherritt G.	83
Siscoe	49
Sladen M.	43
Sud. Basin	135
Sullivan	58
Steep Rock	152
Sylvanite	265
T. Hughes	330
Tex. Can. Oil	125
Toburn	136
Ventures	300
W. Amulet	360
Wr. Hargreaves	710
U. Can.	192

TORONTO

Bell Telephone	158.
British American Oil	18¼.
Brewing Corporation	115.
Brazilian Traction	5⅝.
Canada Bud	4½.
Canada Cement	6¼.
Canada Dredge	18.
Can. Industrial Alcohol	187.
C.P.R.	5¼.
Canada Malting	37.
Canada Vinegar	7¼.
Canada Car	8⅝.
Cockshutt Plow	5.
Cons. Bakeries	14.
Con. Smelting	39.
Dominion Foundries	23½.
Dominion Stores	5½.
Distillers Seagrams	25½.
Fanny Farmer	26⅞.
Ford "A"	16.
Gypsum	3½.
Imperial Oil	9½.
International Nickel	34⅜.
Inter. Petroleum	13¼.
Imperial Tobacco	13⅜.
Loblaw	26⅜.
Massey Harris	3¼.
Montreal Power	28⅞.
Power Corporation	5⅞.
McColl-Frontenac	5¼.
Price Bros.	12½.
Steel of Canadad	74.
Shawinigan	17¼.
Walkers	42½.
Walkers Pfd.	18¼.
Walkerville	75.
C.P.A.	4⅝.

NEW YORK

American T. and T.	166 1-2
Anaconda	27 1-4
Bethlehem Steel	85 5-8
Chrysler	76 3-4
General Electric	33
General Motors	49 5-8
Inter Telephone	2
Montgomery Ward	37 3-8
Phillips Pet	39 3-4
Radio	4 7-8
Standard Oil of N.J.	33 1-2
Standard Brands	6 3-4
U. S. Steel	68 3-8
United Aircraft	42
Vanadium	33
Westinghouse	104

WALL STREET

New York, Dec. 4 —(AP)— Shipbuilding shares staged a fairly strong rise today but failed to sustain a general rallying attempt in the stock market.

Minus signs predominated in other sections of the list toward the fourth hour and fairly active earlier trade degenerated into a lackadaisical affair.

Chief gainers included N.Y. Shipbuilding, Electric Boat, Dupont, International Mercantile Marine, Allied Chemical and Boeing. Slanting lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Can and General Electric, More than 100,000 shares of Commonwealth & Southern changed hands at 1-16 point off.

Canadian Distillers Seagram and Dome Mines dipped small fractions. Hiram Walker held steady and Canada 4s, in the Bond Market, advanced 1-4 point.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 4 (CP)—The golds featured Toronto Exchange today. Volume totalled 277,000 shares.

East Malartic pushed up to 3.10 for a gain of 20 cents in active trading and then slumped to 2.86 for a small net decline. Kerr-Addison posted part of an early advance and gains were held by Macassa, Preston, Central Patricia, Chesterville, Upper Canada and a few others.

Steep Rock, Noranda and Smelters were weak and in western oils prices were off narrowly for Home Oil, Foothills and Okalta.

Utilities and beverages gained narrowly and the tone was soft for foods and senior oils. Cub Aircraft was in active demand at a gain of 10 cents to 1.18.

LIVESTOCK

Montreal, Dec. 4 (CP)—Most classes of livestock failed to establish enough sales to show a definite trend on Montreal Livestock Markets today, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported. Hogs, however, held steady.

Receipts: Cattle 26; sheep and lambs six; hogs 130; calves 28.

Cattle, calves and lambs failed to establish a market.

Hogs made $11 for B-1 dressed, $8.26-$8.35, for B-1 alive, fed and watered and up to $8.50 on off trucks. Grade A drew $1 premium with discounts made on off grades. Sows brought $5-$6.

Toronto, Dec. 4—(CP)—Cattle trade was active with prices generally 15c higher up to mid-session at the Livestock Market here today. The calf market was strong. Hogs and lambs were firm. Sheep were steady. The cattle holdover from Tuesday was 600 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle 760, calves 230, hogs 820, sheep and lambs 260.

Prices in the cattle section were: Choice weighty steers $8.75 to $9 with two at $9.25 and common steers down to $7.50, butcher steers and heifers $6 to $8.25 with a few at $8.50, boners $4.25 to $5.50, butcher cows $4.25 to $5.75, canners and cutters $4, fed calves $9 to $10.50, a few bulls $4.25 to $5.50.

Calves sold at $11 to $11.50 for choice with a few at $12 and common vealers selling downward to $6. Grass calves sold at $5 to $5.50.

Lambs sold at $9.75 to $10 for good ewes and wethers and at $7 to $9.50 for other grades.

Sheep sold at $2 to $5.50.

Hogs sold at $10.90 dressed-weight and $8.15 liveweight.

Sows sold at $4.75 to $5.50 dressed.

Domestic Consumption Of Butter Higher

Toronto — Preliminary report issued late yesterday indicated substantial reduction in the cold storage stocks of creamery butter in Canada. Amount of butter held in the nine cities on Dec. 1 totalled 29,127,625 pounds, a decrease of 6,649,714 pounds from the year ago stocks of 35,777,339 pounds. The figures suggest that the record high level of domestic consumption continued through the month just past.

Following the release of the report, the butter market here was practically bare of offerings of the Ontario first-grade product. Slower buying during the day's session proved sufficient to absorb the prevailing light supply of the Ontario make that had been available at Monday's price of 31 3-4c, but no sales were reported when holders offered limited quantities at the higher price of 32c a pound.

Improved demand steadied prices in afternoon trading on the egg market after the three top grades eased slightly in the graded section in morning dealings. The recent snow storms have not retarded deliveries of receipts to any extent and yesterday's supplies were enough to satisfy local requirements.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, Dec. 4—Produce market prices here, as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

Butter: First grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 33c; first grade solids, jobbing price, 32 1-2c.

Eggs: Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 38c; A-medium, 34c to 35c; A-pullets, 33c to 34c; A-large original, 31c; B-originals, 30c; C-original, 21 1-2c. Receipts: 424 cases.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Dec. 4—(CP)—Dressedweight were up 10 cents at Peterborough and prices were unchanged at Brantford, Hull and Stratford in bacon-hog markets reporting early today.

Dressedweight: Brantford $10.35 plus transportation, Hull $10.30 Peterborough $10.35 plus transportation, Stratford $10.25 plus transportation.

23 MEMBERS OF CREW OF YUGOSLAV SHIP LANDED

London, Dec. 4.—(CP)—Twenty-three members of the crew of the 1,937-ton Yugoslav Steamship Cetvrite, which was sunk by a Nazi bomber off the coast of Ireland, were landed today at Valencia, Eire.

Produce Markets

Toronto—Wholesale prices (Ontario Department of Agriculture) today were:

EGGS
A-large	.39-.40
A-medium	.37-.38
A-pullets	.36-.37
Grade "B"	.35-.36
Grade "C"	.28
BUTTER
Butter, No. 1	.31¾
Butter, No. 2	.30¼-.31
Churning Cream No. 1	.31
Churning Cream, No. 2	.28
POULTRY
(Dressed)
Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.21
Chickens, Grade "A"—
Over 5 lbs.	.19
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.18
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.17
Fowl—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 lbs.	.12
(Live Poultry)
Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.18
Chickens—
Over 5 lbs.	.18
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.12
Fowl—
3 to 4 lbs.	.10
Over 5 lbs.	.12
4 to 5 lbs.	.11
Ducks—
5 lbs. and over	.19
Under 5 lbs.	.18

BAD WEATHER

(Continued from Page One)

The Government said today the German attacks on Britain last night nowhere were on a large scale and that first reports indicated the number of casualties would "not prove large."

Several persons were buried, however, when a bomb struck a London convent used as an air raid shelter.

Incendiary bombs also struck a crowded London movie theatre, showering the audience with sparks and plaster, but the auditorium was cleared quickly and the flames were extinguished.

Although the Germans began their night attacks on London earlier than usual, the assaults were sporadic, and a communique said no large fires had been caused and no important objectives hit.

Several fires, soon brought under control, were started in the midlands, the communique said, and bombs also were dropped at scattered points in South England.

In one suburban area in South England, a low-flying Nazi bomber machine-gunned a bus, but the driver already had led the passengers to safety in a nearby field.

Tunnel Through Debris

Five persons were killed and a number injured by a stick of bombs which fell in another area of southeast England.

Three women ambulance drivers were taken unhurt from the wreckage of the bombed convent shelter in London by rescue workers who tunnelled through debris.

Several persons were known to have been killed in the shelter, but several Sisters of Mercy who were praying in the convent chapel when the bombs fell were unhurt. A moving picture theatre near the convent was turned into a first aid post.

Seven bombs fell in a row in this district, smashing an apartment house.

Three heavy bombs caused considerable damage in another sector of London, where a number of homes and stores were wrecked. Four bodies were recovered from ruined buildings there during the morning.

One low flying raider, believed to have been an Italian plane, dropped three bombs on a beach near a southeast coast town during the night, smashing shops, a hotel and house windows.

Mainly at Birmingham

It was disclosed authoritatively that the German raid on the Midlands last night was "mainly in the Birmingham area."

Last night's raid was the first heavy assault directed against that city in more than a week. Planes in the raid, which was of comparatively short duration, dropped fire bombs, high explosives and delayed action bombs.

Nineteen persons were trapped when a high explosive bomb hit two adjoining basement shelters. They were rescued through an emergency exit.

A mobile crane was used to lift the debris of the bombed London convent and rescue parties, helped by the Army Pioneer Corps, continued this afternoon to search for victims. Some were brought out alive.

Refugee women—French and Polish—housed at the top of the convent escaped injury.

Thirteen-year-old Renee Fletcher told this story of escape and tragedy at the convent shelter:

She and her parents had been using the refuge each night. Last night she ran out during the alarm to buy fried fish from a nearby restaurant for the family supper.

While she was gone the bomb struck. She got back in time to see her father dug out of the wreckage gravely injured. They still were digging for Renee's mother.

Killed by Liquid Air Blast

Montreal, Dec. 4 —(CP)— Alex Bakaijea, 40, was killed in the Canadian Liquid Air Company plant today when a cylinder of liquid air exploded. Bakaijea was decapitated by the force of the blast. An inquest will be held.

ITALIANS

(Continued from Page One)

to have bombed heavily Italian columns and other Fascist targets in the Berati and Valona areas, despite strong anti-aircraft fire and fighter opposition.

Other bomber formations attacked Fascist camps near Elbasani and in the valley of the Shkumbi river, which runs past Elbasani to the sea. Hits were described as of "great importance," and all Greek aircraft returned safely.

Tell of Planes Mount.

The British air force said its toll of Italian planes mounted. A Royal Air Force communique declared:

"Reports received confirm that, in addition to two Italian aircraft destroyed by our bomber and fighter formations Dec. 2, two other enemy aircraft also were shot down. In the Premeti area our fighters intercepted two reconnaissance aircraft and they were destroyed."

The spokesman also credited the Greeks with new gains in their efforts to encircle Argirocastro—about 30 miles northeast of Porto Edda—and said heights northeast of Libohovo, six miles southeast of Argirocastro, had been seized from the Italians.

Many Prisoners Taken

The High Command's communique on action at the opposite end of the battlefront—in the push toward Elbasani—said only:

"In the Pogradetz region, we captured new heights after fierce fighting. Prisoners were taken, and automatic weapons, Howitzers and three guns fell into our hands".

The spokesman, describing operations in that sector, declared the Greek right wing pushed forward despite snow and bad weather northwest of Moskopolis, dislodging Italians from heights there.

Forty Miles From Elbasani

(Dispatches from the Yugoslav frontier indicated the Greeks had reached the Devol Valley northwest of Moskopolis, which would put them within 40 miles of Elbasani.

(Reports from the same sources last night said another column had driven Italian Bersaglieri troops from Mumuliahta, just north of Pogradetz, which would put this drive within 45 miles of Elbansani by road.)

In the centre of the battlefront, near Premet, the Greeks were reported to have cut to pieces one of Italy's picked companies, and then captured two officers and "what was left" of the company.

The spokesman said Greeks on this front also seized the plateau of Platovouni, crushing "strong enemy resistance".

Greek communiques said civilians were killed in Italian bombings at Prevenna, Philiatra, and the island of Levkas, and that Greek planes "successfully bombed columns and storehouses behind the enemy lines".

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch from London quoted the Athens radio as saying 604 persons had been killed and 8,070 wounded in Italian air raids on "undefended" towns and villages in the first month of the Greek-Italian conflict.)

IMPORTANT

(Continued from Page One)

Tending to support this assertion was the Maritime Commission's action yesterday in approving the sale of four more cargo vessels to Britain. Since the war, 130 such American ships have been sold to Britain, and the Commission announced that it still had 63 laid-up ships on which Britain could bid.

One of this group's previous meetings was followed shortly by the destroyers-for-bases swap; another by the announcement that Britain would be permitted to increase her aircraft orders here by 12,000 planes, and the third by the release of giant, long-range bombers.

Whatever else was discussed, it apparently had a close link with the whole question of British financial resources and her ability to buy war materials in this country.

Finance Major Topic

This financial question, it was authoritatively reported, was a major topic, although the meeting was not for the purpose of considering whether the United States should advance money to help Britain.

While not connecting the matter with yesterday's special meeting, The New York Herald Tribune reported today, however, that the subject of a British loan already had been advanced.

The newspaper said that Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve system, had proposed at a private New York meeting last week that the United States make Britain a $2,500,000,000 loan, the security to be a lien on the British Empire's gold production for the next five years.

Eccles, the newspaper said, spoke in a personal rather than official capacity when he suggested the loan to a gathering of bankers, industrialists and economists.

Brought on by Statement

Yesterday's conference of high government officials here, one source indicated, may have been a result—as far as financial aspects went—of the Marquess of Lothian's recent statement that Britain's resources were dwindling to the point where she would need monetary as well as material assistance. This statement by the British ambassador created a stir of controversy on Capital Hill and elsewhere.

There has been a great subsequent demand, it was learned, for information on Britain's exact status. Manufacturers want to know whether it is financially safe to accept further orders and if the millions they have spent to handle British orders will be repaid.

Another souce of concern has been what would happen to American export trade if British resources should become exhausted. The empire now takes about 60 per cent of all United States exports and a sudden, complete collapse of this big market would be a heavy blow to United States economy.

WIDENING

(Continued from Page One)

the British fleet, Hitler now is believed to be seeking to build a new axis—Berlin and Vichy. The reported visit to Berlin of Vice-Premier Laval — a visit Germany has denied—is believed to be connected with this project, Reuters said.

Laval is believed willing to give his support to the project if the rewards to France are suffcently inviting. The diplomatic sources say reports from Europe indicate Hitler finds Mussolini "unreliable and troublesome", and that he would therefore find the remains of the French fleet, plus French Mediterranean bases, more useful against Britain than any contribution Mussolini has yet made or is likely to make. He therefore has allowed Laval to understand that a handsome price would be paid by Germany for such assistance.

Obstacles In France To Hitler.

To this there are at present three obstacles—anti-German feeling in unoccupied France; Marshal Petain and Gen. Maxime Weygand, Reuters continued. However, Laval was understood to feel that with the press under his control and handsome rewards in the offing (presumably at the expense of both Britain and Italy), he could overcome French public feeling.

"But Petain remains unwilling and Weygand is difficult to persuade because he is understood to feel that a semi-independent French colonial empire in Africa would be a strong bargaining factor in any future peace conference," Reuters added. "He is less sure now than he was in June that Germany will preside at such a conference.

"An incidental development expected in the Mediterranean," according to the same diplomatic sources, is German seizure of Trieste. Washington circles are linking urgent efforts to get Admiral Leahy on his way to Vichy (as United States Ambassador) with these developments while Laval is reported anxious to get Petain to Versailles, out of reach of diplomats and Frenchmen who might persuade him not to accede to Hitler's plan."

(Reports from Vichy have indicated that Petain shortly will move to Versailles with at least part of the Vichy government, which would place the seat of the government in German-held territory. Discussions with the Germans to move the government to Paris so far have not succeeded. Versailles is about 20 miles from Paris.)

Rumania Expropriates British and American Oil Field Properties

Bucharest, Dec. 4 (AP).—Premier Ion Antonescu of Rumania decreed today the expropriation of all oil pipelines, pumping stations, reservoirs and all real estate on which they are situated.

(The decree was regarded as not altering the situation greatly, since German troops have occupied the oil fields to ensure their operation in Germany's interests. Eventual control of the oil industry will be governed by the outcome of the war.

Practically all British subjects engaged in the industry have withdrawn from the country, but the British minister and his staff remain in Bucharest to protect British interests.)

A second decree ordered seizure of all Danube barges, tubs, tankers and sea-going ships owned and used by companies with Jewish stockholders.

It was said this will enable Antonescu to seize United States and British companies' properties if he wishes, since they have Jewish stockholders.

The companies under the decrees will be re-imbursed over 25 years, being paid by bonds bearing 3 per cent interest.

An official announced that daily oil production in Rumania had dropped since summer from 1,700 to 1,400 tank cars a day. The official reason given for this was the inability to transport the full production, but informed quarters said disorders in Rumania were mainly responsible.

"Meals Were Putrid" Says Captain Who Was Captive for 134 Days

Halifax Dec. 4—(CP)—A British captain who spent 134 days as a Nazi prisoner at sea before a British submarine rescued him was in Halifax today on the way to take up a new command.

Capt. C. Arundell was in command of the steamer Haxby when she was shelled and sunk on the Atlantic last April by a German raider. He formerly skippered coal boats plying between Sydney, N.S. and St. Lawrence River ports.

Sixteen of his crew, the captain said, were killed; the rest had to leap into the sea when the boat was shelled to pieces. The raider picked up the survivors and later put them aboard a Nazi-controlled Norwegian ship.

"Most of the time we lived on black bread, sausages and some vegetables," the captain said. "The meals were putrid. I wouldn't call it starvation, but it was next door to it."

Finally, as the Norwegian vessel neared the French coast, on June 30, the submarine Truant appeared. The Nazi crew scuttled the freighter and the Truant picked up the imprisoned seamen.

U.S. Air Corps Official Optimistic of British Victory After Making 43-Day Survey

New York, Dec. 4—(AP)—Major-General J. E. Chaney, commander of the Northeastern District of the United States Army Air Corps, told newsmen that after a forty-three day survey in Britain he is "very optimistic on the outcome of the war from the British point of view".

Describing the British Isles as "a fortress", he said: "'At the rate they are going, the British won't lose the war".

Asked whether he meant that Britain would win the war, he replied: "That is another question".

In the most extended interview permitting direct quotation given by an American Air Corps officer returning from Britain, General Chaney declared the military information the United States is gleaning from Britain on both British and German military establishments "in money would be worth hundreds of millions of dollars".

Decisive as Waterloo

"I believe that in the air battle over England in August and September, historians will find material to record it as one of the decisive battles of the war, equally decisive as the eight to twelve battles from Marathon to Waterloo", he said.

He expressed the opinion that German's initial daylight raids were not intended to destroy docks in England because the Germans planned to use the docks in an invasion attempt.

During that phase of the Battle of Britain, General Chaney placed the plane losses at six German to one British, culminating, he said, in Germany's loss of 185 planes on August 15 alone.

Airplane factories at Bristol were slightly damaged early in the war, he said, but the plant turning out British "Hurricane" fighters has not been touched.

He described the German airplane engine as "very superior" to the British and emphasized its fuel injection system which eliminates a carburetor and prevents "icing-up" in winter.

He indicates, however, that although Germany has a large air force her aviation is not as strong as has been reported. "If Germany has all the planes she is supposed to have", he commented, "I cannot understand why she doesn't forget about bombing and fight it out with pursuit planes.

"If they have this great superiority, which they claim, they should be able to come over England day after day with pursuit planes and crush British resistance in the air, just as they did in Poland".

Analyzing German successes on the Continent from the time of Poland's fall, General Chaney said they were due to overwhelming air superiority, tremendous superiority in mechanized forces and the effective use of spies and saboteurs.

He apportioned the air warfare into three phases after the fall of France. The first was from Aug. 8 to 18, the second from Sept. 5 to 15, and the third started on Sept. 26.

In the first phase Germany's effort was directed, he said, at British shipping and airdromes. German air losses mounted.

In the second phase the Germans used tremendous formations of bombers with pursuit escorts. That culminated in Germany's loss of 185 planes on Sept. 15, with a four-to-one advantage favoring Britain.

1.9 to 1 for Britain

He described the third phase, still in progress, as consisting principally of night attacks because the Germans found they could not pierce British air defenses in daylight. He said losses are now 1.9 to 1 in favor of Britain.

Asked whether the United States bombsights are effective at night, he replied enthusiastically. "They sure are; British sights also are effective at night", adding that the German sights are not.

The United States must consider four important factors as a result of the war, General Chaney said. They are the problem of combating night bombardments, improvement of airplane-to-ground radio sets, building more offensive power into fighter planes and defensive power into bombers, and the building of anti-aircraft guns which can shoot to 40,400 feet.

BLIZZARD HITS KINGSTON AREA, WORST IN YEARS

Fifteen Inches of Snow Already Fallen in Frontenac County

The cold snap in Ontario eased today but Manitoba, Quebec and parts of the Maritimes continued to show temperatures at or below zero. Blustery winds and snowfalls continued in Ontario.

The mild weather on the Pacific Coast, which enjoyed temperatures in the 40's, was progressively colder to zero at Winnipeg. Western Ontario and the eastern part of the central province had near-blizzards but the temperature was up to 18 above at London and 19 at Toronto.

Toronto and many sections of Ontario were struggling with fresh snowfalls that added to highway difficulties with several roads already blocked by previous falls. The Georgian Bay area experienced another storm that threatened to block country roads completely. Main highways around Brantford were still open but the going was hard. Three highways around Stratford were blocked.

Blizzard Strikes Kingston

A blizzard struck the Kingston area early in the day and big drifts of snow were whipped over side roads while traffic on main highways was slowed considerably. The snowfall in this district was heavier than for twenty years past at this time of year.

All previous cold records for this early in the season were shattered at Ottawa where the mercury fell to 27 below zero during the night. The temperature at the capital rose to zero during the morning, with continued snow.

Fifteen inches of snow have already fallen in Frontenac County in Eastern Ontario while twenty inches have fallen in Peterborough—the heaviest since 1920.

Detailed reports Wednesday showed the passenger and freight steamer Caribou frozen in Little Current but efforts will be made to release her for her final trip of the season to Owen Sound.

Near Blizzard at Chatham

Chatham had a near blizzard although temperatures were higher than Tuesday. The snowfall slowed down deliveries of sugar beets to the refineries at Chatham and Wallaceburg and a considerable acreage is still unharvested. A large acreage of corn in Kent is still uncut.

The fresh snowfall also assumed blizzard proportions in the Hamilton district. At Hamilton and Toronto city streets were in a perilous condition and highways were equally dangerous.

Cold weather records of twenty years' standing were shattered at Brockville when the thermometer reached a low of 11 below zero. Snowfall in the Brockville area was heavier than at this period in any of the past thirteen years, with a fall to date of 36 inches.

One old timer at Chatham claimed there hasn't been as much snow there since 1878. New snow fell on top of a 15-inch storm last week-end.

Chicago (AP) — The first cold wave of the month moved seaward today with a parting slap at the eastern states.

Arctic blasts pushed the mercury to record lows for the date in New York State today and to sub-zero marks at many New England points.

Rising temperatures brought relief to the middle west after a frigid spell that saw records fall in many parts of the midland. Twenty and thirty below readings were reported in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The cold wave ended Long Island's most productive cauliflower season, ruining the last few thousand crates of a record 1,500,000 crop.

YOU'LL CHEER TOO

When you see the Variety of SMART GIFTS on our

25c—50c and $1 Tables

Come and Look

GEORGE PAULEY

Druggist Ph. 105

Civil Liberties Should be Guarded Says Trust Official

Toronto, Dec. 4 (CP). — There should be as little "whittling away" of civil liberties as possible in wartime, J. M. MacDonnell, president and general manager of the National Trust Company, said in an address here last night.

"The most important job civilians have is to be watchful custodians of the things we are fighting for," he said. "For if you think that the institutions of liberty and democracy will live by themselves we will wake up one morning and find ourselves living under a totalitarian regime."

ESTATE TO GO TO QUEEN'S

Montreal, Dec. 4 (CP).—The bulk of the estate of the late Hon. Frank Carrel, former Quebec city publisher ultimately will go to Queen's University of Kingston, Ont., to educate students from Quebec, it was announced Tuesday.

The purpose of the bequest, the amount of which is not yet known, was to help to develop friendlier relations between the provinces of Quebec and Ontario.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

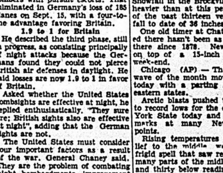
Hey— Kids!

SANTA CLAUS will be in Belleville

THIS SATURDAY 2 P.M.

New! Different! Delicious!

50c serves 8 generous portions



frosty-fruit ICE CREAM CAKE

All Ice Cream—a brand new treat you won't want to miss. Rich in tempting fruits, with the luscious, mellow, fruity flavor of fine fruit cake. [illegible] toasted macaroon "icing" [illegible] thrill at dinners, parties, bridges. Order one today!

EMPIRE FRUIT and GROCERIES

209 Front Street Phone 676

— FREE DELIVERY —

EXPENDITURES UP $16,827.48 IN ELEVEN MONTHS

Financial Report Submitted to County Council by the Treasurer

RECEIPTS UP

Expenditures of the Hastings County Council for the period from January 1st to November 30th, 1940, were $258,087.75 an increase of $16,827.48 over amounts of the same period in 1939. Receipts amounted to $192,805.25 an increase of $1,602.61 over last year, a report of County Treasurer James Haggerty revealed today.

Main contributing factors to the sharp expenditure increase were the payments of $10,024 19 part of the $18,000 grant to a patriotic fund raised by an additional mill to the tax rate passed in June, and the marked upward trend of the cost of administration of justice. Up to November 30th the latter has cost the county $31,961 67, an increase of $3,098.23 over the similar period of 1939.

Other expenditures which show an increase are the Children's Aid Societies and Industrial Schools which for the eleven months period has cost the country, $16,505.11, an amount which tops last year's cost by $1,894.76; school costs are up some $3,500 and roads $3,000.

County Costs Decrease

On the other side of the municipal ledger, municipal government costs decreased some $400; machinery $2,000; miscellaneous grants, $3,000; and indigent accounts $3,000.

Receipts from county rates were $94,825.85, a decrease of $2,500 over the 11 months period of 1939. Land taxes, however, brought increased revenue of $6,300, total amount being $15,819.10.

General licences were down $200 but receipts from Roads and Bridges were up $3,500. Administration of Justice brought $16,785.50 a decrease of $1,000 from last year. House of Refuge receipts were down some $3,000, while for the first time in years, magistrates fines brought in a revenue of $26.11.

Administration Costs Of Hastings County Thoroughly Discussed

Concurring in a resolution forwarded by the Bruce County Council petitioning the Federal and Provincial governments to discontinue all allowances, mileage and other expenses to judges, magistrates, and other officers connected with the administration of justice, and to pay straight salaries to such officials without extras, the Hastings County Council today levelled stern criticism at the mounting costs of administration of justice for the county during the past three or four years.

The resolution also included that judges be required to contribute to their own pensions on the same basis as all civil service employees.

The cost of administration of justice in this county which, will reach the amount of over $32,000 this year, means the cost of $1 per capita of the population, it was pointed out by Warden John L. Churcher. "The cost is attaining terrific proportions, some of which seem unnecessary," he said.

There must be a move made in some direction to reduce the slowly mounting expense, Reeve W. J. Davis stated. "Costs are mounting yearly until it won't be long until they are out of sight."

Fault of the System

The Warden expressed the opinion that too many jurors and juries were evident not only here but throughout the province. "It is no fault of the men, but of the system," he said. "I don't think juries are entirely unnecessary but I am convinced, that six good men can pass as equally good judgment on a criminal as can twenty-four. There has been a lot of argument about this all over the country and I think the time has come for a clear-cut policy."

Hastings County people and its council should vitally be interested in the question, the Warden said, "inasmuch as we are a law-abiding people and should not bear such a heavy expense. The entire system should be revamped all over Ontario."

The dignity of the council chamber was shaken with laughter when tiery Reeve William Linn, Marmora Village, stated that "the trouble is there are too many lawyers.

Reeve Charles Rush, Hungerford, and other members concurred in the Warden's opinion. They aligned themselves as being against the empanelling of grand juries.

Concurrence in the Bruce County resolution was carried unanimously.

Appeal to Eire To Permit Britain To Use Bases

Edmonton, Dec. 4 (CP)—An appeal to the Government of Eire to permit the British to use air bases and ports on the Irish coast was made in a resolution approved at a meeting of 70 Irishmen and women here last night.

R. D. Tighe, Edmonton barrister, said it was the duty of Irishmen in all parts of Canada to try to influence the Eire Government to allow Great Britain and her allies to use ports and air bases.

Ontario Dairy Director Advocates Better Winter Feeding of Milch Cows

Advocating better winter feeding of milch cows as a measure to increase the production of milk and cheese as necessitated by the 15,000 additional long tons which will be required to fulfill recent contract of supplying 112,000,000 pounds of cheese to Britain during the 1941 season, Mr. C. E. Lackner, director of Dairying, Department of Agriculture, Toronto, stated before the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' convention here on Wednesday morning that an increase in production of only one half pound of milk per day per cow for the coming season would result in the necessary increase in production of cheese required for this purpose.

Mr. Lackner estimated that the feeding of only one pound of grain to each milch cow during the winter season would result in their coming out in the spring with the ability to produce the extra milk. "Feeding, breeding and weeding" were the three recognized points to consider in the betterment of dairy herds, stated Mr. Lackner, but attention to the first named point alone would accomplish what is being aimed at in the matter of increased production to meet new trade arrangements with Britain.

Accomplishments Outlined.

Mr. Lackner gave a resume of what had been accomplished by instructors during the past season, stating that it had been the aim of the instructor to visit as many of the producers' farms as possible with the view of encouraging a higher standard of milk produced. This, he said, together with the fact that producers had worked in closer co-operation with the maker, had resulted in a much higher standard of cheese being manufactured.

Referring to the general outward appearance of factories in Ontario, Mr. Lackner stated that during the past summer he had visited over 300 individual plants and had seen the worst as well as the best of factories and unfortunately a great many factory owners had permitted their plants to get in a sad state of disrepair. In advocating that owners strive to better the appearance of their factories, Mr. Lackner said that tidy buildings contribute greatly to appearance.

Sanitary Conditions Partly Responsible

Referring on low grade cheese being turned out by factories, Mr. Lackner stated that the trouble was not all due to the producer sending a low grade of milk to the factory but that the sanitary condition of the plant was in a great measure responsible. "Unless makers are very careful about this, a great many low grade cheese will be manufactured," he stated. "Contamination of starters was also in some measure responsible," he said.

Mr. Lackner advocated the amalgamation of smaller factories as being beneficial to the cheese industry. This would result in cheesemakers making a better living wage with larger and better equipped factories and more able to turn out a higher grade cheese, he said.

Referring to the fact that rancidity in cheese was being held against the cheesemakers in awarding them certificates, Mr. Lackner stated that this had been considered necessary by the department in order that the cheesemaker may be encouraged to continue his efforts to overcome this objectionable point in cheese.

Mr. Lackner encouraged the installation of electric refrigeration equipment by factories, stating that such cooling equipment was greatly beneficial in the manufacturing of high-grade cheese. Such equipment was aiding considerably in the prevention of mechanical defects and aided in overcoming mould when properly operated, he said, with a great improvement in the general appearance of cheese being noted where refrigeration had been used.

Tribute to Makers

In closing the speaker paid tribute to district cheesemakers in the grade of cheese manufactured during the past season and urged them to greater efforts. He urged the co-operation of the producers in attaining the increased production necessary to fulfill Canada's new cheese contract with Great Britain, stating: "We do not want to fall down on our contract. Britain is expecting us to fulfill it as part of our war effort."

Mr. George Gardiner, President, Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, spoke briefly, urging that the duty of the producer was to economize in the cost of production of cheese rather than to demand an increase in the market price of cheese as a solution to his problem.

Mr. W. H. Sproule, Professor of Dairying, Ontario Agriculture College, Guelph, gave an interesting and informative address on the proper handling and preparation of starters used in the manufacture of cheese. He highly recommended that the milk used for starters be taken only from herds with a high standard of health, and that it be made certain that the milk was of good flavor. The use of starter had been introduced as a means of obtaining a greater uniformity of grade in cheese, he said. Dr. A. L. Gibson, Superintendent, Eastern Ontario Dairy School, Kemptville, was the concluding speaker of the morning's program, speaking on "A Democratic Industry."

Mr. E. J. Brennan of the Kemptville Agriculture College, and former president of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, acted as chairman for the morning's program.

Following the morning session, the cheese on exhibition at the British Empire Dairy Show were auctioned off to the highest bidders with prices ranging from 15 1-4 cents for white to 26 cents for Stiltons. Mr. W. H. Morton purchased 380 white at fifteen and one-quarter cents per pound, with Mr. W. R. McCreary taking 104 colored at sixteen cents. Mr. McCreary also purchased twenty-five flats at sixteen and one-half cents and thirty-eight Stiltons at twenty-six cents per pound.

$8,487.88 Realized From Land Tax Sale

Coffers of Hastings County were enriched at the conclusion of the adjourned Land Tax Sale on Tuesday by the sum of $8,487.88. This amount represented the proceeds from the sale of 512 lots, the entire quota of lands offered for sale for taxes by county officials. This amount is over $6,000 in excess of that realized from the 1939 sale.

The first sale in early November realized $2,881.06 and the remainder at the adjourned sale this week. Officials expressed surprise at the quickness with which county municipalities bought up lands in their respective communities. The sales were conducted on a cash basis.

The amount received, and incidentally prices were much higher than those of 1939, was an indication of better times, officials believe, as more ready money appeared available than is usually seen at such sales. It was the first time in many years that the entire quota of lands offered, was sold.

No Changes Looked for In Existing Liquor Laws of the Province

Toronto, Dec. 4 (CP)—Premier Hepburn today said no action is contemplated to change the existing liquor laws of the province.

The Premier's statement was made in connection with reports that the government contemplated restricting hours of sale both in beverage rooms and liquor stores, but Mr. Hepburn observed: "We contemplate no change in the present regulations—not even as to hours."

According to hotel authorities, some hotel properties have dropped by half in value due to uneasiness among the proprietors that either the Ontario or the Federal government might make drastic control as a war time measure.

Dana Andrews, Lynn Bari and Jon Hall, co-stars of Edward Small's thrilling adventure drama, "Kit Carson," which opens next at the McCarthy Theatre. William Farnum and Raymond Hatton also have important roles.

DUKE INSPECTS RED CROSS WORK

The Duke of Windsor, governor-general of the Bahamas, inspects the results of work at the Bahamas' central council branch of the British Red Cross while his wife, RIGHT, guides him on a tour of the centre. During his visit, he unveiled a portrait of Queen Elizabeth and made a short speech to which the Duchess, as president of the Bahamas Red Cross branch, responded.

CLASS HONORS MR. F. S. DEACON

Tribute Paid to 36 Years of Service to Bridge Street United Church S. S.

A large group of past and present members of the Young Men's Bible Class of Bridge Street United Church attended a banquet at Dickens' Tea Room, last evening, held in honor of Mr. F. S. Deacon. He was presented with a gold cuff link set by the class. Mr. Harold Cowan made the presentation and acted as chairman. The sing-song was led by Mr. Howard Clarke. Brief messages of tribute were paid to Mr. Deacon in appreciation of his long record of service by Rev. Dr. James Semple, the minister of the church, Mr. Howard Clarke, a former leader of the class, Mr. Joe Shortt, assistant Superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. Albert Watson of Albert College and Mr. C. W. Burr. Superintendent of the Sunday School.

Heavy Rail Shipments Of Timber Products Being Made From North

With trainload after trainload of timber, pulpwood and hardwood, leaving the districts weekly, lumbermen of the northern part of Hastings and other counties are experiencing the busiest season in a decade, according to northern municipality reeves here for the December session of the county council.

Railheads at Maynooth and other northern points are hives of activity as woodsmen rush the new "cuts" for shipment before heavy weather sets in. Thirty cars left Maynooth last week and the timber products are flowing in a steady stream from other points via railroad and truck.

Heavy stocks are already lying at the railheads awaiting shipment but these will not be transferred until the weather stops cutting activities in the woods. Judson Gunter and Daniel Goodwin, Maynooth, are the principal shippers. It was stated that with present weather prevailing, many lumbermen will have their "cuts" clear long before the conventional season ends.

Board of Control To Ask Permission To Donate $10,000

Ottawa, Dec. 4—Ottawa Board of Control has decided to ask Premier Hepburn of Ontario a second time for permission to donate $10,000 for relief of families bombed from their homes in London.

About a month ago the city asked the Ontario Government leader for permission to make the donation and no decision has been received.

"It is getting near the time when this money will be urgently needed in London," Mayor Stanley Lewis said today. After yesterday's Board of Control meeting he said another letter on the matter will be sent to Mr. Hepburn.

GENEROUS GIFT BY ALEX LIPSON

Mr. Alex. Lipson, owner of the Lipson chain of stores, has thought of the Prince Edward County boys serving overseas, in a generous manner. Last week Mr. Lipson, who operates stores in Picton, Belleville, Trenton, Napanee and Gananoque sent each khaki-clad lad from Prince Edward now in England, three hundred cigarettes.

The gifts will be very acceptable to the boys in England, while the gesture on the part of Mr. Lipson is one that is generous to the extreme and an exemplification of his faith in the Canadian troops to hold their own with the best the Empire can produce.

Over 30 Inches Of Snow Has Fallen

Citizens who are complaining of the current season's fall of snow and telling the world there is more snow this season than fell all last winter are slightly out on their calculations, according to official information from the Belleville Purification Plant.

Last winter 90 inches of snow fell in the Belleville area, the majority coming in the latter part of the winter months. Up until noon today it is estimated that about 30 inches of snow had fallen in Belleville since winter swept down out of the north last week, which is only one-third the amount of snow that fell last winter.

"For a start we aren't doing bad this year and if this keeps up Belleville will establish a new snow record for all times," remarked one old-timer as he stood in a local barber shop and gazed out into this afternoon's continued raging blizzard.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Colorado"

For one whole day Republic actors and crew saw nothing but rocks during the filming of the Roy Rogers picture, 'Colorado" which opens at the Capitol next. Red Rock Canyon, one of the locations used for the film, contained hundreds of varieties of multicolored rocks. It proved a choice spot for Rogers, who added twenty new types of rocks containing precious stones and metals to his valuable collection, which is one of the actor's hobbies. The Canyon is set on the edge of the Mojave Desert, and its colorful rock formations and vivid sunsets have made it one of the most scenic spots in California.

With a story about Civil War days and dissension in the state of Colorado the new Rogers picture includes George "Gabby" Hayes, Pauline Moore, Milburn Stone and Arthur Loft.

"Charlie Chan in Panama"

A fiendish plot to destroy the Panama Canal and trap the fleet in the wrecked locks is the challenge faced by the famous Earl Derr Biggers sleuth in "Charlie Chan in Panama".

The latest of the 20th Century-Fox pictures, featuring Sidney Toler in the title role, with Jean Rogers, Lionel Atwill, Mary Nash, Sen Yung, Kane Richmond, Chris-Pin Martin, Lionel Royce, Helen Ericson and Jack La Rue featured in the supporting cast.

With the main body of the fleet stationed in the Pacific, but required immediate, unhindered access to the Atlantic, keeping the Canal open becomes vitally necessary to the current naval strategy.

So well have the defenses been developed that attack from land, sea or air offers practically no menace. Sabotage, then, becomes the principal threat to the ship artery's safety, and it is such an attempt which motivates the thrilling story of "Charlie Chan in Panama".

With the great locks mined, and the man who might avert the disaster murdered, Chan cleverly weeds out the many suspects and, with sixty seconds left, risks his life on a daring last-minute stratagem.

The added shorts include the Universal News and 9th Chapter of "Tim Tyler's Luck".

AT THE McCARTHY

"GOLDEN BOY"

Barbara Stanwyck, William Holden and Adolphe Menjou, heading an excellent cast are now playing at the McCarthy Theatre in one of the most lavish and entertaining motion pictures ever produced by Columbia Studios, "Golden Boy", a picture you should see. Also playing in addition is an excellent technicolor cartoon and latest Fox News events.

"Kit Carson."

Based on the real-life story of one of the boldest and most dashing adventurers in American history, Edward Small's latest production, "Kit Carson" with Jon Hall playing the title role, will open next at the McCarthy Theatre.

The stellar cast in "Kit Carson" features, in addition to Hall, Lynn Bari, Dana Andrews, Ward Bond, Harold Huber and Clayton Moore. The picture was directed by George B. Seitz, and John DuCasse Schulze acted as art director.

Spotlighting the adventure-filled episodes of Carson's life when he joined John C. Fremont of the United States army to survey and map the shortest overland route to California, Small's film of "Kit Carson" abounds in spectacular scenes involving bitter fighting with the Indians, dangerous treks in wagon trains, plots and counterplots engineered by sly and cunning Mexican schemers.

Most of the sweeping outdoor scenes for "Kit Carson" were photographed on location at Kayenta, Arizona, next door to the Navajo reservation, and hundreds of the Navajos participated in filming. Small was delighted that he won the co-operation of the Navajos. Otherwise he would have been unable to transfer to film the great scenic beauties and amazing topography of Monument Valley. This vastly picturesque section was chosen for the maor location site because of its natural magnificence and complete isolation. The "Kit Carson" cameras operated on a mile-high plateau flanked by eroded buttes, table lands and pinnacles cut out of a strata that was once 16,000 feet high. The weird formations combine the eroded fantasies of wind and rain. It is a fabled region with a history too odd to be discovered.

News of the coming of the "Kit Carson" movie troupe from Hollywood spread with remarkable rapidity throughout the Navajo reservation and soon Indians were flocking into Kayento on horseback, mule back and by foot. Working through four Navajo interpreters, approved by the council of five elders. Director Seitz employed the Indians on a "first come, first served" basis. Indians were hired at the rate of three dollars per day, plus food—and the food was a real novelty to many of the redmen and their squaws.

Among the data dug up by the Edward Small research department, young Kit Carson was apprenticed to a saddle maker in Missouri by his father. Kit didn't like the work and hit straight for the Indian country in the west, where he engaged in trapping for the next few years. His boss, however, was determined to have him found and returned. He therefore inserted a legal advertisement in the "Missouri Intelligencer" offering a one cent reward to any person bringing the boy back.

AT THE BELLE

"North West Mounted Police"

That brightly burning star of genius which has guided Cecil B. DeMille to fame as a motion picture Producer-Director has nothing on the light used by the starring cast of DeMille's new picture for Paramount, "North West Mounted Police," which will be held over until Friday by popular demand of an appreciative public. For Gary Cooper and Madeleine Carroll are starred, and the starring players seen include Paulette Goddard, Preston Foster, Robert Preston, Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman, George Bancroft, Lon Chaney, Jr., and Walter Hampden!

An unsurpassed list, it is the biggest cast Demille has ever offered, a cast suited to the epic proportions of this picture, and one competent to deal with its big story, the fact that this is the master's first all-technicolor film and the other fast aspects of the production.

Before making it necessary for anybody to read a line about the story of this picture, it might be said that it contains enough thrills for any five average pictures, just as its cast has enough stars for any five every-day films. More than that it contains two love stories, one a triangular affair with beautiful Miss Carroll as the lady, and the other a romance or whatever one might call it between a tempestuous Indian girl who is about as wild as the North Woods and a Mountie.

Metis Mobilize

The action of the picture receives its initial impetus at Batoche, place where thousands of half-breed Metis are revolting under the leadership of Duroc (Tamiroff) and Corbeau (Bancroft). Sergeant Jim Brett (Foster) and Ronnie Logan (Preston) of the Mounted are told of the Metis' demands. In the course of the excitement at Batoche it becomes apparent that Brett is interested in Ronnie's sister, April (Carroll), who is the nurse at the settlement. However, she seems to think that he belongs too much to the Mounted.

With the half-breeds threatening to revolt, and only fifty Mounties at Fort Carlton, Inspector Cabot (Montagu Love), sends Brett to the camp of the Crees, where he tries to dissuade their chief from making war. Later he is joined by Dusty Rivers (Gary Cooper), a Texas Ranger who has appeared at the fort, announcing that he's after Corbeau for murder and by Tod McDuff (Overman), red-headed Scottish constable. The upshot of the meeting finds the chief demanding that Corbeau bring him the coats of the Mounted before three suns have set.

The betrayal of the Mounted, resulting in their ambush, by Ronnie because of his love for Louvette (Goddard), and the ultimate triumph of the gallant Mounted over the half-breeds, plus the capture of Corbeau and the winning of April, lead the picture on through thousands of thrills and moments of romance to a fitting conclusion.

Attempting to commend every member of the cast would be a futile task Cooper and Miss Carroll are at their best, which happens to be good enough for anybody. And Miss Goddard really does a job of it as Louvette, the Indian girl, who makes love with all the ferocity of a wildcat.

One of two love stories in Cecil B. DeMille's technicolor epic, "North-west Mounted Police," continuing at the Belle until Friday, is the romance between golden-haired Madeleine Carroll and Gary Cooper.

Conviction Quashed

Guelph, Ont., Dec. 4—(CP) — A conviction against Joseph Coros, Czechoslovakian resident of Guelph on charges of having failed to register as an enemy alien and of being in possession of firearms, contrary to Defence of Canada regulations, was quashed in court here today.

Crown Attorney J. M. Kearns, K.C., informed Judge R. L. MacKinnon that word had been received from the Department of Justice at Ottawa that the Crown was not going to present any evidence in the case. Coros appealed his conviction after Magistrate F. Watt had fined him $100 and costs.

Coros based his appeal on the claim that the part of Czechoslovakia from which he came was not under German domination. Investigation is said to have revealed that Coros' claim was correct and the conviction was quashed.

LANCASHIRE WELCOMES REMOVAL OF TARIFFS IN CANADA'S BUDGET

Manchester, Dec. 4 (CP Cable)—Lancashire welcomed today the removal of tariffs on British cottons and rayons in the Canadian Budget.

E. Raymond Streat, chairman of the Cotton Board, voicing the Board's gratitude, said the rise in prices had been greater than the amount of the tarif which was removed, so the Canadian textile manufacturer would not be placed in a position worse than before the war as far as competition with Lancashire was concerned.

EDMONTON FLIER AWARDED D.F.C.

London, Dec. 4 (CP Cable)—Lt. Howard Peter Blatchford of Edmonton today was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for gallantry displayed in flying operations against the enemy.

The citation said Blatchford, attached to No. 257 squadron in November "was the leader of a squadron which destroyed eight and damaged a further five enemy aircraft in one day."

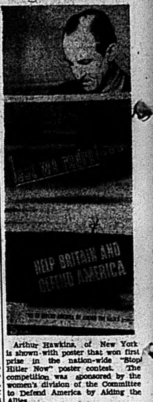
"In the course of combat he rammed and damaged a hostile fighter when his ammunition was expended and then made two determined head-on feint attacks on enemy fighters which drove them off," the citation added. "He has shown magnificent leadership and outstanding courage."

DR. F. KARN, ORGANIST, DIES

Cranleigh, Surrey, England, Dec. 4 — (CP Cable) — Dr. Frederick James Karn, 78, conductor, organist and composer, died here Monday.

Dr. Karn won his degree as Doctor of Music at the University of Toronto in 1889. At the time of his death he was principal of the London College of Music.

WINNING POSTER



HELP BRITAIN AND DEFEND AMERICA

Arthur Hawkins, of New York is shown with poster that won first prize in the nation-wide "Stop Hitler Now" poster contest. The competition was sponsored by the women's division of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies.

Robbery Plot Foiled

Smashing an amazing plot to seize the $400,000 United States army payroll at Fort Ord, near Salinas, Calif., under cover of machine-guns, police arrested James L. Allegretti, described as the "keyman" in the daring plot. Allegretti is wanted in Chicago for complicity in the near fatal shooting of a Chicago Tribune payroll guard and the theft of $10,000 cash last July 19, police say.

CENTRE OF STRIKE

It was because Fred Ross, $27-a-week worker at the Aluminum Company of America in Pittsburgh, owed $3 dues to the union and the company refused to fire him that the C.I.O. Aluminum Workers went on strike for a week. The strike cost 7,500 workers $250,000 in wages and held up defence production. By terms of the settlement, Ross is shifted to another plant.

Deputy Minister Dies

Col. C. L. Smart, deputy minister of transport, collapsed and died at Ottawa at the age of 66. He took over the post he held at his death when the transport department was set up in 1936.

Probabilities

Lower Lake region: Fair and cold tonight and most of Friday, then moderating with light snow Friday night; moderately northerly winds today, then becoming variable.

The Ontario Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1940

Temperatures

	Max.	Min.
Today	25	19.1
One Year Ago	35	16

Snowfall—10 inches.
Weather—Clear.

LARGE ITALIAN BASES ON VERGE OF CAPTURE

BRITISH-TURKISH FINANCIAL PACT HAILED

R. A. F. Bombers Raid Dusseldorf and Turin

Premet Captured, One Destroyer Hit, 10 Planes Downed

Retreating Italians Subject to Withering Fire on Communication Lines

Athens, Dec. 5 (AP). — Greek forces launched dawn attacks today on Porto Edda and Argirocastro, Italy's last remaining big bases in the southwestern corner of Albania, according to a Greek report from the front, and the two cities were reported about to fall.

Other reports by the Greek command and the British Royal Air Force included:

1. Capture of Premet, threatening the trapping of Italian forces withdrawing northward from Argirocastro.

2. Two direct hits and several near misses on an Italian destroyer near Porto Edds, leaving it listing heavily.

3. Apparent destruction of ten Italian planes in fierce battle over Italian lines.

4. Raking bombardment of retreating Italians and their communications vital to withdrawal from southern Albania.

The main road from Porto Edda was said to be under Greek control, but this left open escape by a tortuous coastal route, less improved than the main road running through Argirocastro.

Porto Edda Cut Off.

One report, however, said Porto Edda was completely cut off from communication with the rest of Albania. Porto Edda, formerly called Santi Quaranta (Forty Saints), was renamed for Mussolini's daughter, wife of Foreign Minister Ciano.

A dispatch from the Argirocastro

(Continued on Page Eleven)

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Dec. 5 (CP)—Snowfalls have occurred in many parts of Ontario and it is colder again this morning in northern districts. It has been cold in Manitoba with light snow in some sections, but the weather has been fair and mild in Alberta and Southwest Saskatchewan.

PLACE:	8 a.m.	High Yest'dy	Low During Night
Vancouver	46	48	44
Victoria	46	47	45
Calgary	30	45	36
Edmonton	20	30	9
Winnipeg	Zero	7	11b
S. S. Marie	3	23	3
Toronto	23	27	22
Ottawa	13	6	3
Montreal	15	14	14
Halifax	34	20	12
Detroit	19	29	19
Miami	56	73	53
Los Angeles	62	82	60

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

How straight do winds blow? Neglecting the diversion of winds caused by obstacles, free winds do seem to blow in nearly straight lines. But if one could follow such winds, it would be found that some winds blow in a practically straight line for thousands of miles, while many follows complicated curves. Observation of dust whirls and tornadoes indicate that some winds follow small circular paths, or, more exactly, tight spirals. Wind directions are most complex around obstacles, like mountains, cliffs, forests, houses, fences, etc. Let loose a feather or a piece of tissue paper and watch its flight.

Shipping Losses Not Under-Estimated Says Anderson

London, Dec. 5.—(CP) — The Government may have to apply its powers of labor compulsion "in tackling the most vitally important and urgent task of the reconstruction of our industrial centres" Sir John Anderson, Lord President of the Council, told the House of Commons Wednesday.

These powers, Sir John said, "should be applied after consideration of all the facts", the real test being "whether it would give results".

Sir John said that Britain's shipping losses in recent months in the western approaches to Britain had "not been under-estimated" by the government. He added that "these and connected problems are among the main pre-occupations of the defence committee over which the Prime Minister presides".

He assured the House that Prime Minister Churchill is "giving constant attention to the question of enemy attack from underseas and from the air upon our ships and convoys".

Greeks Upset Bully As David Overthrew Clanking Philistine

Southampton, Dec. 5—(CP)—A tribute to the "extraordinary valor of the Greeks who had given the Allied cause its first major land victory" was paid today by Herbert Morrison, Home Secretary.

"The example of Greece," he said, "gives us a timely reminder that courage, brains and inflexible determination can upset the calculations of a bully as swiftly, as unexpectedly and as thoroughly as David with his sling overthrew the clanking champion of the Philistines."

"While the overthrow of Italy was not completed," Mr. Morrison said, "the Greeks, supported by our own arms, have shown the world that spirit that not only will achieve it, but bring still greater triumphs."

Woman Sat 12 Hours in Lounge Of Hotel During Coventry Raid

An East Coast Canadian Port, Dec. 5.—(CP)—A woman of Coventry came here Wednesday, and she spoke of bombs, of the "big raid", of weeks away from bed, and of hopes of finding a new home in America.

She came, leaving her still-unbombed home in the devastated city in search of peace. "We shall make our new home over here", she said as she reached the welcome soil of Canada.

"I was to bed only twice in the last two months in England", she told newsmen. "Other nights I've slept in a shelter".

But she was nowhere near a shelter when the huge raid came last month, she related. She sat through that in the lounge of a public house while the bombs thundered for 12 hours.

"Before the big raid," she said, "we had been raided for several weeks. These were small raids, with only one or two planes at a time. They did some damage, though. But from the moment the big raid began, I knew we were in for something serious.

"The raiders began by encircling Coventry with a ring of incendiary bombs. One of these hit a garage which caught fire. The flames lit up targets for the Nazis

Stayed in Lounge

"My family and I were walking home from the outskirts of town when the raid began. We didn't get home that night. A corporation bus came along, but it didn't take us very far, dropping us at a public house. There we stayed in the lounge for 12 hours. It was impossible to go out while the raid lasted.

"Fortunately, our home was not hit but we shall make our new home over here."

The woman said she had heard reports of a new incendiary bomb being used by the Nazis. "You think it's been extinguished" she said, "but suddenly it hops into the air and starts a new fire nearby".

Two Londoners who arrived on the same ship said the people of the Empire capital don't scare easily. They are likely to stand on curbs watching attacking planes.

"A plane came over Trafalgar Square the other day just after it had bombed a print shop nearby", one of them related. "The sirens were wailing, but everyone sauntered along as usual". The only frightened persons were three old ladies who bolted for a tea room.

"Take my mother", the other Londoner said. "I can't get her out of the city. Offered to fix her up with a place in the country. But no. She says she's been living in London for 70 years and intends to go on living there".

EIGHT KILLED IN AIRLINER CRASH NEAR CHICAGO, ILL.

Big Machine Crashes Into Vacant Lot a Scant 200 Yards From Airport

GRAZED APARTMENT

Airline Official Scouts Theory Ice Forming on Wings Caused Crash

Chicago, Dec. 5 — (AP) — The death early today of two men brought to eight the number of persons killed in the crash of a United Air Lines plane near the Chicago Municipal Airport.

Eight others were injured.

From the lips of survivors and an examination of the wreckage, investigators sought an explanation for the accident which occurred when the 21-passenger mainliner, inbound from the east, plunged nose first into a vacant lot a scant 200 yards from the airport about 6 p.m. last night.

Witnesses said that the big craft apparently lost flying speed when coming in for a landing and dropped from a height of about 150 feet.

The plane grazed a three-storey apartment building at Keating Avenue and 64th Street, broke an electric power line, smashed a gable of a bungalow and demolished a frame garage before coming to a stop.

Official Scouts Theory

J. H. Herlihy, Vice-President in charge of operations for the line, scouted the theory that ice formation on the wings might have caused the crash.

The dead:

Capt. Philip C. Scott, 34, Chicago, the pilot.

First Officer George S. Young, 30, Oak Park, Ill., the co-pilot.

Stuart W. Moore, United States Ordnance Engineer, Cleveland.

Wilbert J. Austin, 64, Cleveland.

Kelly F. Melton, 40, Chicago.

Lee F. Haneline, 38, Downers Grove, Ill.

Charles Manville, 38, Cleveland.

The flight began at New York and stops were made at Philadelphia, Akron, O., and Cleveland. Dissatisfied with the performance of one motor, Capt. Scott was given another plane at Cleveland to which crew and passengers were transferred.

The airliner circled the Chicago Airport for 28 minutes awaiting landing orders from the traffic control tower.

Roosevelt Seeks Authority To Go Ahead With Seaway Project on St. Lawrence

Need of Project for Power and Defence Purposes Emphasized by President In Message to Seaway Conference

COMPARABLE TO PANAMA CANAL

Detroit, Dec. 5—(AP)—President Roosevelt announced today he will ask the United States Congress, convening in January, to approve a treaty with Canada providing for completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project "on which so much of our national safety and welfare depend."

The President's announcement, presaging another battle in Congress over the long-debated project (defeated in 1934) was made by A. A. Berle, Jr. Assistant Secretary of State, in an address before the Great Lakes Seaway and Power Conference.

President Roosevelt, in a message to the conference read by Berle, emphasized that the St. Lawrence project would provide millions in new horsepower urgently needed to speed up defence production, and create a safe haven and waterway for construction of ships to replace tonnage sunk in the war.

"The opposition which defeated the St. Lawrence treaty in 1934," Mr. Roosevelt said, "was a mistaken opposition, based on failure to appraise the full needs of their country in the world situation which was even then developing.

"I said then that 'an opportunity is presented to complete a seaway comparable in economic value to the Panama Canal,' a seaway to which the public development of St. Lawrence power is inseparably linked.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Targets in Turin Hammered by British

London, Dec. 5—(CP) — British bombers made a sustained attack on Duesseldorf, German industrial centre, and did considerable damage to selected targets at Turin, a manufacturing city in Northern Italy, last night, the Air Ministry announced today.

Bomber crews, the Ministry said, observed considerable damage at Turin. Other bomb targets included the ports of Antwerp, in German-occupied Belgium, and Calais, on the French Channel coast, as well as several enemy airdromes.

The raid followed up attacks the previous night on towns of the upper Rhine, including Mannheim and Ludwigshaven, where explosions and fires were caused. A blast furnace at Essen and railway yards in Berlin, as well as gasoline plants at Stettin and Leuna, were attacked that night.

BRITISH TREASURY OFFICIAL IN U.S. ON VITAL MISSION

Is Expected to Lay Financial Cards of Empire on Table Before Morgenthau

FUTURE ASSISTANCE

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP)—Sir Frederick Phillips, Undersecretary of the British Treasury, came to the Capital today to lay the financial cards of the embattled Empire on the table before Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau—and perhaps to explore the question of future assistance from the United States in cash or credit.

The possibility that the subject of financial aid might be discussed at the scheduled conference brought new demands that complete first-hand information on Britain's present status be given Congress—preferably by Sir Frederick—before any action is considered or proposed.

Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep-California) foresaw an imminent drive for repeal of laws now barring loans to Britain and announced he would fight it to the last ditch. Parring a miracle, he said, "there is no doubt that the United States will go to war."

Significance of the Morgenthau-Sir Frederick talks coincided with

(Continued on Page Eleven)

REPRESENTATIVE FORCED OUT

Honolulu, Dec. 5 (AP).—Eugene M. Cannon, president of the Latter Day Saints Mission at Tahiti, said on his arrival today that inhabitants of the French island possession "rose up wrathfully against the vacillating Vichy government Sept. 2" and forced Gov. Chastenet de Gery, Vichy representative, to resign.

THE 'INADEQUACY' OF EMERGENCY TAX BEING CRITICIZED

Opposition Leaders State People Are Prepared for Sacrifices But Want Burdens Evenly Distributed

VIEWS EXPRESSED

By CARL REINKE,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 5—(CP)—The "inadequacy" of the government's emergency tax and tariff proposals is being criticized by opposition leaders in the House of Commons—not the new burdens thus imposed or the people of Canada.

The people, recognizing the necessities of the situation, are prepared for greater sacrifices than those involved in the tax measures announced this week, the government was told yesterday, but the people want those sacrifices distributed fairly.

To emphasize that stand, M. J. Coldwell, acting House Leader for the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, introduced an amendment proposing a compulsory, interest free war loan "to be levied according to ability to subscribe." If New Zealand could do that, Canada certainly could, he said.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

CHINESE BANKER RELEASED

Shanghai, Dec. 5 (AP).—Chinese newspapers reported today the release of Percy Chu, one of China's foremost bankers, who was reported kidnapped from the International Settlement last Friday.

AXIS RAIDERS RETURN TO ATTACK IN EARLY HOURS

Embattled Britain Left in Peace for Several Hours During Night

BRISTOL AGAIN NORMAL

Smoke Pours from Factories and Ships Seen Loading and Unloading at Docks

London, Dec. 5 (CP)—Thirteen enemy planes were shot down over Britain today against the loss of one Royal Air Force fighter, the Ministry of Information announced. This is the highest number destroyed on one day for some time.

London, Dec. 5—(CP) — Several casualties were reported today when Axis raiders, striking anew, dropped a bomb shortly after noon on a mental institution in a south-eastern town.

After leaving Britain in peace for several hours during the night, the raiders dropped four other bombs on the town, wrecking two houses without casualties. One fell on a road and two in an orchard.

London had its first warning of the day early in the afternoon. It was quickly over without any reports of bombs being dropped.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

SPENT FOUR DAYS IN AN OPEN BOAT

Survivors of Steamship Geraldine Mary Arrive at Eastern Canada Port

Sydney, N.S., Dec. 5.—(CP)—Survivors of the Newfoundland Steamship Geraldine Mary spent four days on the Atlantic in open boats after she was torpedoed August 4, Alexander Crawford, 19-year-old seaman, said yesterday as he headed for home in St. John's.

The young seaman said the 6,723-ton Anglo-Newfoundland development company vessel was sunk without warning off the Irish coast as she headed for Britain from an East Coast Canadian port. One of her passengers was killed with the second engineer and a fireman.

The other 53, including some passengers, got into the boats. "After four days on the water", Crawford said, "we were picked up and taken to London".

The torpedoing came 300 miles off Ireland. "I awoke with a start", Crawford said, "and hurried to my lifeboat. It had been smashed away. Then I went to the port side and assisted in getting another one away.

Direct Challenge To Nazi Power In the Balkans

Expected Purchases Under Agreement Will Run into Millions of Pounds Sterling

London, Dec. 5 —(CP)— Britons today termed a new financial agreement with Turkey, second step in Britain's recently intensified diplomatic activity, a wedge against German efforts to draw the guardian of the Dardanelles into the economic orbit of the Axis.

The Financial Times said the agreement, signed yesterday, was an "especially bitter blow to Hitler because there is reason to believe the Germans were about to put forward tempting proposals to the Turks."

Diplomatic circles viewed the treaty as an important commercial move and a vigorous political stroke as well and declared it to be a "direct challenge to economic domination in the Balkans," by Germany as represented by yesterday's signing of a 10-year Rumanian-German trade and economic pact.

Only a Miracle Can Keep U. S. Out Of War Says Johnson

San Francisco, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Senator Hiram W. Johnson told interviewers Wednesday "only a miracle can keep us out" of participation in the war.

"There is no doubt that the United States will go to war", he asserted. "Those in command are perfectly mad to be 'in the game'."

He predicted Congress soon would see a drive for repeal of the Johnson Act, his own measure which prohibits loans to nations in default on previous debts.

Without predicting outcome of the drive, Johnson said, "I hope to make a few of these mad hatters realize they have to fight".

He would not predict when he believed the United States would enter the war but said it could happen any time.

The Senator expressed belief most Americans want Britain to win but said he saw no reason why "we have to dig and give them all the money they want."

Tanks, Guns and Rapid Mobility Keynotes of New British Army Corps

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Somewhere in England, Dec. 5—(CP)— A new British army has emerged in this country since the withdrawal from France—a revolutionized army in which the keynote is tanks and guns and rapid mobility.

In the months since the Germans swept through western Europe, British factories have turned out tanks and guns which surpass anything ever used in battle by British units. From Canada and other Empire countries has come some of the newest war equipment.

In traditional British manner, many Nazi principles of mechanized warfare have been copied and vastly improved upon, particularly in re-organization of armored units.

"It happened like this many times in the first Great War," said a British tank brigade colonel. "The Germans invented a number of ingenious things which we later adapted and beat them at their own game. We are feeling confident now that we have taken another leaf from their book regarding mechanized fighting."

British officers said many of the tanks are better than the Nazis have yet devised and new mobile guns provide fire power never before achieved—and there seems to be quantity as well as quality.

The aim is an army of technicians to operate the equipment and the British appear well on their way to this goal.

Some members are from the territorials. They bring a civilian enthusiasm to a dangerous task and well-tested civilian courage to the military areas. They are of the same stuff as the men of London and want to show it in open battle.

Other regiments are from the permanent force, made up of soldiers who already have fought against vast odds in this war and are going back for their revenge in more powerful mobile fortresses.

British Sailors To Have Turkey For Christmas

Alexandria, Egypt, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Officers and crews of the British Mediterranean fleet will eat turkey with "all the trimmings" at their Christmas dinner.

On Christmas Day each warship will have its tree and the officers will visit all the mess decks to exchange Christmas greetings with the men and distribute small gifts. Chaplains will give special communion.

This is the holiday menu:—

Breakfast—Rolls, Coffee, Eggs and mixed grill.

Dinner—Tomato, Soup, Roast Turkey, Dressing, Potatoes, Cauliflower, Christmas Pudding, Fruit, Dessert and Coffee.

Supper—Cold turkey Roast Pork, Pickles, various condiments and tea.

A series of singing parties will follow in the various war rooms.

If the Fleet is in harbor on Christmas Day Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham, Commander in Chief, will visit each unit to exchange greetings.

U. K. SOUND RISK FOR LOANS SAYS H. MORGENTHAU

Treasury Secretary Will Confer With Phillips of British Treasury

NATURE OF MISSION

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP).—Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau said today that he, like Jesse H. Jones, Federal Loan Administrator, believed that the British Government was a "good risk" for loans.

Morgenthau made the comment at a press conference after arranging to meet tomorrow with Sir Frederick Phillips, Under-Secretary of the British Treasury, who arrived in the United States yesterday.

Asked when the British would need credits, Morgenthau replied:

"If I knew the answer to that question it would not have been necessary for Sir Frederick to have come over."

But as far as he knew, he added, Sir Frederick came to the United States only to present factual information on British finances and resources available for purchases in the United States, and not to make a loan request.

"He has been here twice before," Morgenthau said, "and he has never asked for anything before."

Morgenthau's announcement to reporters that he considered the British a "good risk" was briefly put. Someone asked whether he agreed with a statement made yesterday by Jones, who is commerce secretary as well as loan administrator, that Britain was a "good risk". Morgenthau said "yes".

Coming Events

REGULAR THURSDAY BINGO, Knights of Columbus; 25 games for 25c. Voucher prizes, door prize. Cover all big game. O30eWT-tf

CHRISTMAS CONCERT VICtoria Avenue Baptist Sunday School, Friday, December 6, 8 p.m. Offering. D5-2t

FOR MEMBERS OF THE WOMen's Canadian Club, Tuesday evening, December 10, 8.15, lecture by Mrs. Nancy Pyper "Famous People I Have Met". D5-1t

THE YEAR AROUND GIFT . . .
A MAGAZINE SUBSCRIPTION
Here's an easy way to simplify your Christmas shopping problems. Just drop in and send them a year's subscription to their favorite Magazine.
183 FRONT ST. THE JAMES TEXTS PHONE 892.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

16 SHOPPING DAYS TILL Christmas

SUGGESTIONS FOR PREVENTING FIRES

With the approach of the festive season, Belleville citizens are reminded of the potential danger to life and property from Christmas decorations such as bunting, cotton, etc. It is pointed out that nothing can render these displays absolutely safe, and if accidents are not to mar the holiday season, constant vigilance and care is necessary.

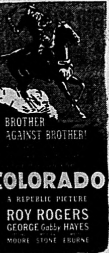
As the rapid spread of flame in such inflammable material, should a fire occur in a crowded store or meeting, is almost certain to occasion panic, especially where children are gathered, the Canadian Underwriters' Association suggested a few simple precautions purporting to reduce the damage to a minimum.

Particular care must be taken that all inflammable material is kept clear of heating and lighting devices, steam pipes, stove pipes, etc., while attention should be given to see that electric circuits are properly fused and not overloaded by the addition of temporary lights. And as a further precaution it should be seen to that fire extinguishing appliances are sufficient, in good order and readily accessible.

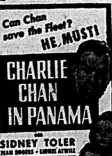
CHEESE ARE BOXED FOR SHIPMENT

With the culmination of the British Empire Dairy Show on Wednesday, the City Hall market room is today taking on the appearance of normalcy again, with a gang of workmen today busily engaged in boxing the cheese which for the past four days have been on exhibition. All prize tickets and score cards are being taken from the cheese and will be mailed back to the cheesemakers exhibiting the cheese, while the purple, blue and white decorations will be taken down and the exhibition room restored with its accustomed tables in preparation for the regular Saturday market. After boxing, the cheese will be transported to the respective warehouses of the buyers who purchased the cheese at auction on Wednesday.

CAPITOL
Complete Shows 7 - 9
2—ACE HITS—2



SECOND HIT



EXTRA
ON THE SAME PROGRAMME
A LETTER FROM
CAMP BORDEN
Life in Canada's great military camp . . . all the excitement . . . humanity and spectacle of Canadian youth in training!
Plus — LATEST NEWS.
Serial "TIM TYLER'S LUCK"
THE IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFT THEATRE TICKETS Now on Sale!

It Pays to Buy at The Rexall Store.
Cutex Gift Sets
Smarter than ever before.
NOW ON DISPLAY.
65c to $6.50
McKEOWN'S
DRUG STORE
271 Front St. Phone 135

26 YEARS IN BUSINESS
CAMPBELL AUTO BODY and PAINT SHOP
BODY and FENDER REPAIRS
327 Coleman St. Phone 777

PALMIST
HAND WRITING ANALYSIS. and PALM READING
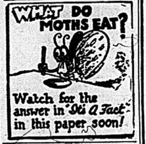
and CARDS.
HANDWRITING BY MAIL
PROF. CYBELLE
211 Coleman Street.
N5-1m



WHAT DO MOTHS EAT?
Watch for the answer in 'It's a Fact' in this paper soon!

FURS REPAIRED RELINED RE-STYLED
R. A. BACKUS
EXPERT FURRIER
38 Bridge St., W. Belleville, Ont.

SILK HOSE
RUNS MENDED
10c (Single Run)
MRS. ALEXANDER
Phone 1568 Footbridge

AWNINGS RUINED BY HEAVY SNOW

A heavy load of snow on the roofs of Front St. business blocks and large icicles hanging from the eaves over the sidewalks present a potential danger to pedestrians as well as presenting a condition that may lead to leaking roofs if they are not promptly shovelled.

Merchants who inadvertently left their awnings down during the snow storm on Wednesday are today rueing the damage wrought as the result of ice and snow. One merchant was seen taking his awning down this morning, but he had neglected this duty several days too long, as ice and snow from the roof of the building had crashed through the canvas and had ruined the awning.

Men of Alcatraz Must Wash Linen For U. S. Soldiers

San Francisco, Dec. 5 (AP)—The boys at Alcatraz will do their part in the United States defence program even if it isn't very exciting.

Warden James A. Johnston ruled that the convicts' bit is to take soiled linen from incoming army and navy transports and send it back fresh and clean.

A dozen of the hundred laundry workers, irked by the mountainous piles of incoming linen, staged an informal strike yesterday.

Armed guards hustled the dissenters to their escape-proof cells. The men were given late dinners and breakfasts and denied library and reading privileges.

400 ALARMS

London, Dec. 5 — (CP) — With more than 400 day and night air alarms, London has spent the equivalent of more than six weeks under control of the raid sirens, a log of the daily alerts of the war shows.

Warnings extending from a few minutes in length to one of 14 hours, the longest recorded, gave the capital a total of 1,056 hours, or 44 days, under alarm since the Germans began large scale raiding last August.

4 SUBSCRIPTIONS CHATELAINE for $2.00
2 SUBSCRIPTIONS READERS DIGEST $5.00
THE BEST RATES AND PROMPT ATTENTION, at GEEN'S PHONE 131

DON'T WAIT
Used Car prices are lower now than they will be next Spring. There is a better selection now. New model announcements are bringing in choice ones, and you need a good car to stand safely and economically for Winter driving. Drop in now, don't wait, get satisfaction and value here.
'39 CHEVROLET SEDAN
'38 CHEVROLET COACH
'36 FORD COACH
'33 OLDSMOBILE SEDAN
'27 CHEVROLET COACH
'36 STUDEBAKER SEDAN
'38 CHEVROLET PICK-UP
'39 PONTIAC SEDAN
'36 PLYMOUTH COUPE
J. B. BOYCE
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE
SALES — SERVICE
SUNOCO SERVICE STATION
Front St. Phone 794
D6-3t

WHAT COULD BE SWEETER . . .

Then a Christmas Gift from Lattimer's?
- COSMETIC SETS
- LEATHER SETS
- PERFUMES
- MANICURE SETS
- CANDY
- KODAKS

and Countless other suggestions — too numerous to mention.
COME IN AND INSPECT OUR DISPLAYS.
LATTIMER'S
DRUG STORE
PHONE 67.

Minor Accidents In City Due to Poor Visibility

Several motor accidents were reported in Belleville yesterday during the height of the winter's worst blizzard and snowstorm that again paralyzed traffic within the city limits, following a five-day snow storm.

As the blizzard whipped up a sheet of white before traffic, visibility was practically nil to motorists Wednesday afternoon. While parked to permit a passenger to alight on Cannifton Road, the city bus, driven by Joseph Schamerhorn, was struck in the rear by a truck driven by Paul Orlando, 38 Johnson St. Orlando was following the truck, but owing to the poor visibility and snow he was unable to observe the bus come to a halt.

A few moments earlier on West Dundas Street, opposite the Albert College a motor car driven by Fred McDonald of Scarboro Junction, skidded out of a snow bank and collided with the rear of a motor car driven by Morgan Jarvis of 76 Moira St. The vehicles were proceeding in opposite directions and about to pass through a narrow path made by the snowplow. Mr. McDonald's car skidded out of the snowbank into Mr. Morgan's rear fender, causing damage to at least $75.00 P. C. Thomson reported.

Webster Wilson, R.R. No. 7, Belleville, complained to police that a motor vehicle had backed into his parked car on Pinnacle Street and damaged the headlights, radiator, and fenders, while Cameron Keonohan, 28 Murney Street, told police he had backed into a Hydro pole on Chatham Street, damaging the pole and his car. Here also the blinding snow storm was attributed to the poor visibility, as Mr. Keonohan assured police he did not observe the pole.

A new building paper is heavily coated on both sides with aluminum paint to insulate house walls against heat and cold.

Carrier pigeons that fly to their homes at night have been developed in New Jersey by the United States Army Signal Corps.

CROWN CONCLUDES CASE AGAINST H. HERRINGTON

Statement Made by Accused Admitted in Evidence But Not Read in Court

CONSTABLE HEARD

The Crown concluded its case against 18-year-old Hubert Herrington of this city, who is facing a charge of dangerous driving in the present sittings of the General Sessions of the Peace and Jury Sittings of the County Court being heard before His Honor Judge Reynolds, late Wednesday, when Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson introduced his final witness and turned the case over to Mr. E. O. Butler, local barrister appearing for Herrington. The defence in the case will be concluded today, it is believed.

The charge against Herrington arose out of a motor accident which occurred north of Millbridge on Highway No. 62 on Aug. 17th last when a truck driven by the accused and owned by Edward A. Kellaway of this city, was in collision with a motor car driven by William McPhee of this city. Fatal injuries resulted to Mrs. Jessie Allore, of Trenton and who was a passenger in the car driven by McPhee.

Chief Witness Heard

Provincial Constable Stanley Palmateer of Bancroft, was the principal witness called by the Crown yesterday, his evidence having to deal with measurements and observations taken as the result of his investigation looking into the accident. There was some legal controversy relative to the admission of a statement, which the accused made to Constable Palmateer during the proceedings. The jury was retired and after deliberation and consultation between Mr. Butler, Mr. Robertson and His Honor Judge Reynolds, Mr. Butler agreed to the admission of the statement which was not read or introduced at that point, however.

William Hammett, a passenger in the car driven by McPhee, stated their vehicle was on the proper side of the highway at the time of impact. "We had passed another car coming in the opposite direction when a second pair of headlights appeared ahead. They seemed to come straight across the road towards us and there was a crash," stated Hammett as he denied there had been any drinking in the party. Mrs. Hammett, Mrs. Wm. McPhee and Mrs. Wm. Beare, other passengers in the motor car corroborated Hammett's testimony.

Unable to Testify

Dr. R. S. Gibson, of this city, told the court he had examined William McPhee upon his admission to the Belleville General Hospital following the accident. Dr. Gibson gave a brief observation of McPhee's condition and stated he was unconscious. "Today he is quite incapacitated. His left eye is deviated and his vision noticeably affected," stated Dr. Gibson as he added Mr. McPhee had not recovered from the nervous shock received and was unable to appear and give evidence at this time.

"Was there any evidence of drinking on the part of McPhee?" asked Crown Attorney Robertson.

"I would say he had not been drinking. There was no evidence or odor of liquor whatsoever," replied the witness.

When cross-examined by Mr. Butler, the witness reiterated his statement and added the patient was breathing so heavily that any odor of liquor would have been noticeable.

Concluding the case on behalf of the Crown, Mr. Robertson turned the proceedings over to Mr. Butler. Several witnesses for the defence are expected to be called today, including Edward Kellaway, owner of the truck, who also faces the same charge as Herrington, and a truck driver who was proceeding in front of the vehicle driven by Herrington on the night of the accident.

MEIN KAMPF-MY CRIMES
STARTLING EXPOSE OF THE NAZIS ..... THE FILM THE WAR HAS FREED FOR ALL TO SEE!
SUPPRESSED UNTIL NOW

AIR-CONDITIONED
McCARTHY
THE SHOW PLACE OF BELLEVILLE
SUNDAY AFTER MIDNIGHT
12.05 A.M.
ALSO:
MON. — TUES. — WED.
DAILY ...... 2.30: 7.10: 9.10 P.M.
THE STORY HITLER WROTE, WHICH HE THOUGHT WOULD NEVER BE SHOWN.
THE PICTURE YOU WILL REMEMBER FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE.

BOYS and GIRLS!
KRESGE'S
SANTA CLAUS
will be at the McCARTHY THEATRE
Saturday Afternoon
WITH A FREE GIFT FOR ALL.
Supplied by the S. S. Kresge Company.
D5-6

Rev. Dr. C. W. DeMille Speaks at Meeting Of Temperance Forces

The outlook for temperance is bright, Rev. Dr. C. W. DeMille, new president of the Ontario Temperance Federation, declared on Wednesday evening at a banquet-meeting of the Temperance Forces of Belleville and vicinity held in the parlors of Bridge Street United Church.

Dr. DeMille pointed out that the law in Ontario prohibits advertising of liquor, beer and wine, but he said the names of manufacturers are painted on trucks and transports which pass up and down the highways of the province.

He declared that "in the fight against 'drink' there is no defeat." He adopted the slogan, "agitate, agitate, agitate" on the issue for temperance and added "We must educate, educate, educate. We must make matters plain. We have been quiet too long."

The Government at Ottawa should be given credit for what it has done for the young men in the training camps where they are now given thirty days' training. The Government does not permit wet canteens in these centres.

Dr. DeMille urged that societies pass resolutions, secure signatures to petitions and send these to Ottawa and to encourage the pledge-signing campaign as a help to young people. He asked members of the organization to pray for the success of the temperance cause.

Mr. H. W. Ackerman moved a hearty vote of thanks to Dr. DeMille, to the ladies of the W.C.T.U. for putting on the supper, to the young ladies who served, to Miss Saunders for a solo and to Mr. Alec Gordon for his accompaniments.

The retiring president, Rev. E. Farnsworth, who presided at the banquet, urged protection of the young people. To the members of the Temperance Federation he advised intense activity because "doing nothing means to lose." He thanked the Rev. Dr. Semple for his assistance in arranging the convention and the board of the church for the use of the church rooms.

Rev. C. T. Olmstead of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church conducted the devotional exercises at the opening of the meeting following the banquet.

Officers elected were President C. W. Burr and Secretary Rev. J. W. Flatt.

Rev. Dr. Semple introduced Dr. DeMille as a former president of the Bay of Quinte Conference and one of the outstanding members of the ministry.

TOY PLANES MOST POPULAR

London, Dec. 5—(CP) — Toys most in demand by London Christmas shoppers are model airplanes.

The most popular models are those of Hurricane and Spitfire fighters.

The only demand for German Heinkels, Messerschmitts and Junkers is for full-size craft grounded by the Royal Air Force.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
The
McCARTHY
THEATRE
MATINEE SATURDAY
Starts
3 p.m.
To allow everyone to witness Belleville's Santa Claus Street Parade which starts at 2 p.m.
D5-6

TRUCKS ABANDON SCHEDULES AFTER HEAVY SNOWFALL

Picton Highway Blocked But Workmen Soon Open Road

CITY HARD HIT

Whipped by a strong south gale, snow again blocked the highways adjacent to Belleville Wednesday and last night. Late last night it was announced that Highway No. 14 leading from Belleville to Picton had been blocked and several motor vehicles marooned. Trucks abandoned their schedules at Belleville last night and laid over, while buses ran many hours behind schedules owing to the snowbound condition of the highways both east and west of Belleville.

School children in Prince Edward County were given a holiday today as all secondary roads were blocked as the snow drifted to a height of over six feet along concession roads.

The full force of the blizzard struck Belleville and again left city streets snowbound and in a hazardous condition for motorized traffic. The Department of Public Works employees labored all night in an effort to alleviate the conditions and restore city streets to normalcy. By late morning the downtown area had been cleared of snow and traffic was moving quite normally. Side streets were still snowbound and garage tow trucks in demand to assist motor vehicles, which skidded into the deep banks, that had been left when the city snow plough had piled the snows high on either side of city streets.

Aeroplanes at the R.C.A.F. base were grounded Wednesday owing to the exceedingly poor visibility, as one of the worst blizzards in years whipped by a strong south gale, made flying a practical impossibility.

Rural mail deliveries were suspended in many parts of the district as it was impossible to battle through the deeply blocked county roads and couriers abandoned all efforts to make deliveries late yesterday.

With the advent of a warm shining sun on Thursday, however, highway workmen and others rushed to the work of alleviating snow congestion, were able to combat the mountainous-like snow drifts and were slowly opening the main arteries of traffic.

Trenton Lions Club Boys' Band Has F. Jobson as Leader

Trenton (Special)—The Trenton Lions Club Boys' Band has a new leader, Fred Jobson of the Belleville Municipal Band. The new leader took over the job recently from Sergeant Cooper of the R.C.A.F. who has quite a job cut out for him, in looking after his own band and is unable to carry one with the Trenton Boys' Band.

Realizing that the parents of the boys in the band had spent a great deal of money for the instruments, the Lions Club decided that a new leader be obtained. Mr. Jobson had started the Brighton Band and has already assumed the leadership of the band.

The storms and exceptionally cold weather caused a postponement in the schedule of the Lions Club in their salvage drive. The town was formerly divided into four zones and only two zones had been canvassed before the bad weather started. In these two zones there was a great deal of junk and salvage collected and was stored in a barn owned by President Carswell. In this already vast collection there is at least a ton of newspaper and magazines, some of which will be given to the Salvation Army for distribution.

The Club has made the request for all car owners to save their licence plates and turn them over to the club.

Many Roads Blocked

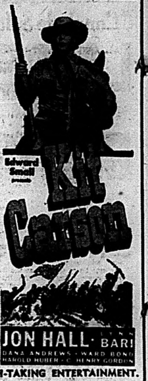
Trenton and district is again digging itself out of the snow left yesterday by the blizzard that raged throughout the day. Never before in the history of the town, according to old-timers, has there been so much snow so early in the year.

Many county and township roads in the district were blocked by the drifting snow, including highway 33 from Trenton to Wellington. Snowplows worked throughout the night in order to clear a path for the traffic.

In spite of the fact that the mercury has dropped as low as 15 below in the past three days, Harry Coutts, manager of the Trenton Arena, predicts that the cold weather will not stay. Mr. Coutts has been making ice at the arena for 21 years and should be an authority on such matters.

However, the Trenton River is frozen over and skaters are already limbering up on Mayhew's pond north of the town.

DAILY 2.30: 7.10: 9.10
TONIGHT — FRIDAY — SATURDAY
SEE!
10,000 yelling savages ambush the pioneers!
SEE!
Battle of the wagon train!
SEE!
Hundreds of wild horses stampede!
SEE!
Deadly crossing of the Mojave Desert!
SEE!
Frontier town turned into a fiery cauldron!



TWO HOURS OF BREATH-TAKING ENTERTAINMENT.
— SEE IT TONIGHT —
AIR CONDITIONED McCARTHY THE SHOW PLACE OF BELLEVILLE

Germany Wants Italy To Increase Flow Of Food to Reich

Rome, Dec. 5 (AP)—An Italian-German agreement to increase Italy's not yet satisfactory flow of food supplies to Germany by intensifying farm production here and giving aid to growers was reported today by Stefani, Italian News Agency.

The Agency said Italian farm production did not yet meet German needs and therefore Gueseppe Tassinari, Italian Minister of Agriculture, and Walter Darre, German Agriculture Minister, had recently reached an agreement to intensify Axis farm collaboration.

U.S. INCREASES FAR EAST AIR STRENGTH

Manila, Dec. 5 — (AP) — The United States increased its air strength at this far eastern outpost today with the arrival of the 17th Pursuit Squadron from Selfridge Field, Mich. It included 25 officers, 330 men and the squadron's complement of planes.

BELLE—SATURDAY
Mrs. Thin Man and the man "Who Stayed To Breakfast" are battling toe-to-toe . . . and howl-for-howl . . . in the merriest mix-up marriage ever was blamed for!

THIRD FINGER, LEFT HAND
Myrna Loy
MELVYN DOUGLAS
Raymond WALBURN
Bonita GRANVILLE
Lee BOWMAN
Felix BRESSART

Extra!
COMICOLOR CARTOON — NEWSREEL — THE GREEN HORNET SERIAL.
SATURDAY MAT.
All New Issue of F-R-E-E COMIC BOOKS for Boys and Girls!

THRIFTY BUYS IN RECONDITIONED CARS
Used Cars? You'd never know it, for every one of these has been completely reconditioned from bumper to bumper. Guaranteed!
1939 Touring DODGE SEDAN $695.00
1935 Deluxe OLDS. TOUR. SEDAN .. $475.00
1930 4-Cylinder PLYMOUTH SEDAN .. $185.00
1936 ½ Panel DODGE TRUCK $450.00
HASTINGS MOTORS
LIMITED
CITIES SERVICE LOT
112 - 124 Front Street

NEVER BEFORE A PICTURE LIKE IT!

2 LOVE STORIES

Paramount Presents
GARY COOPER
MADELEINE CARROLL
PAULETTE GODDARD
PRESTON FOSTER
LON CHANEY, JR.
CECIL B. DeMILLE'S
NORTH WEST MOUNTED POLICE
in Technicolor!
EXTRA ON THE SAME PROGRAMME
A LETTER FROM
CAMP BORDEN
Life in Canada's great military camp . . . all the excitement . . . humanity and spectacle of Canadian youth in training!
TONIGHT and FRIDAY
BELLE
— HOME OF FINE PICTURES —
Daily 2.30: 6.55: 9.10

Cheesemen and Friends Gather For Banquet in City Hall to Conclude Splendid Convention

Assembly Pays Tribute to Ontario's "Dairy Queen" Chosen by Popular Vote

VARIED PROGRAM

Rev. W. J. Johnstone, Toronto, Delivers Eloquent Address, "How to be Happy in World Like This"

Well over four hundred cheesemen of Ontario and Quebec, Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture representatives, prominent dairying and farming men of the district and province with their wives, and representatives of Hastings County Council were in a jovial mood on Wednesday evening as they gathered to pay tribute to "the best cheese exhibition ever held in the Dominion of Canada" and to pay homage to the "Ontario Dairy Queen," at the banquet which culminated the three-day convention of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association convention and the Fourth Annual British Empire Dairy Show.

It was a jovial and gay party that crammed the auditorium of the City Hall to the doors from as early as seven o'clock until after eleven. Representatives of the crossroads of the agricultural life of the Dominion, veteran cheesemakers, proud in their long service of Canada's basic industry, rubbed shoulders with those of the younger generation who show promise of retaining the laurels won for the country in which they live and for the districts which they represent. Farmers of the district, business and professional men of the city and other centres, joined in the tribute to Canada's cheesemen.

To the last mouthful they enjoyed the sumptuous repast served by the ladies of the Wallbridge Women's Institute. They roared with laughter at the witticisms and snappy comebacks of "Pal Pat" and his side-kick ventriloquist Ted Rust, as they staged an Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy act, and applauded generously the Sutton Sisters, as they sang popular songs in lovely harmony. They responded immediately to the contagious enthusiasm of Duncan Cowan, Toronto, master of ceremonies, whose melodic voice and gay personality led them in singing old-time and patriotic melodies, and gave well-merited acclaim to Ruth Gibbard as she gave acrobatic and tap dancing numbers for the enjoyment of the audience, while the deep throaty tones of Ethel Evan's violin, as she played tuneful melodies was equally well appreciated.

Dairy Queen Introduced

The introduction of Miss Winnifred Phillips to the banquet party as "Ontario's First Dairy Queen" and the presentation of a handsome chest of silver to the winsome young Stirling miss by the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, proved easily the highlight of a most interesting and delightful evening's entertainment. The ceremony established a precedent in the annals of agricultural history in Central Ontario as never before in Belleville has a maid received this honor at the cheesemen's annual banquet.

A hushed feeling of expectancy permeated the audience as Mr. George Pollard, dairy instructor for Central Hastings, ascended the platform to introduce Miss Phillips as "Queen" of the dairy maids. Mr. Pollard, in introducing Miss Phillips, paid special tribute to the farm women of Ontario and the Dominion of Canada, who, he said "were in a great measure responsible for the success of the dairying industry." "I take great pleasure in introducing Miss Winnifred Phillips, the daughter of a Hastings County dairyman, as Ontario's First Dairy Queen," said Mr. Pollard. As a fitting tribute to the honor bestowed upon Miss Phillips, Mr. Pollard formally presented her with a handsome chest of silver.

Makes Fine Response

"I am very proud indeed of the honour conferred upon me in being named Ontario's First Dairy Queen," stated Miss Phillips as she graciously accepted the honour bestowed upon her, "and I say 'Thank You' to the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, to the judges, who have conferred upon me this honor and to the cheese patrons of this district for this lovely gift." Little Miss Lois Weaver, on behalf of Central Cheese Factory, presented the newly crowned Dairy Queen with a suitable bouquet in honor of the occasion.

Mr. Allan Fraser, Secretary, National Dairy Council, Ottawa, acting as chairman for the evening, introduced Mr. J. L. Churcher, Warden of Hastings County, who with other members of the County Council attended the banquet in a gathering. Mr. Churcher spoke briefly, stating that he was proud that Hastings County Council, as a democratic body, had in years past played an important part in the life of the province. "It is such County Councils as Hastings' that stand for the very thing which a democratic government is striving to preserve," he said.

County Council Introduced

Warden Churcher claimed that the finances of Hastings County were in a sound condition and that they were glad of an opportunity to make contributions to the British Empire Dairy Show, which was second to none and an honor to its sponsors and to the city of Belleville. At the conclusion of his talk, Mr. Churcher introduced the members of the county council to the assembly.

"The future has more for Canada than the past has ever had," declared Rev. Wm. J. "Bill" Johnstone, Minister of Eglinton Church, Toronto, who, as guest speaker for the evening, chose for his subject, "How to be happy in a world like this." Rev. Johnstone said that "in the post war period which is to come, no country will play as important a part in international affairs as will Canada."

In broaching the subject of his address, Rev. Johnstone declared that there were three distinct and different classifications of people in the world, namely those patrons assuming a reflective attitude, those who were introspective, and lastly, those who assumed a prospective attitude toward life. Persons in the first named classification were always looking backward and referring to the "good old days," stated the speaker, but by graphic illustrations, which rang true to life, he showed the error as the result of reflecting backwards. While declaring that it was a good thing at times to look backward in reflection, the speaker said that "no man can be happy, when out of touch with the present life."

Must Live For Others

The attitude of introspection was in no small measure responsible for unhappiness in the world, claimed Rev. Johnstone, stating that "modern psychology has taught us that a man so self-centred that he cannot see anyone but himself is the most unhappy man in the world." We must get rid of this attitude and live for others in order to make for happiness. "We must adopt a spirit of friendliness," he said.

Persons with a prospective attitude toward life are always looking ahead to the better times which they will be enjoying in the future, "but twenty years ahead is not the time to enjoy life but, rather, we must enjoy ourselves today to be truly happy," Rev. Johnstone declared.

Rev. Johnstone claimed that the three great teachers af life were Law, Affliction and Experience. "We cannot break the law of our land, the laws of body, or of intellect, and be happy", he said.

Affliction likewise was a great teacher, stated the speaker. "It teaches us to be more patient, more understanding, and to be sympathetic toward others in misfortune". "When God wants soldiers, he goes to the mountains of Affliction", quoted Rev. Johnstone.

The speaker declared that experience was the greatest teacher of all in that it taught the futility of worrying. Illustrating his point with reference to parents who were continually worrying about their children, the speaker declared that experience has shown that if parents had influenced their children correctly, they will have built something into their lives, that will endure the greatest of temptations: "If we put the best we have into our work, we do not need to worry, as nothing but the best can come out of it", he claimed.

Must Break Down Barriers

In conclusion Rev. Johnstone urged that the barriers of reflection, introspection and prospection were the three partitions, that we must break down to attain happiness in this world. That these partitions were being broken down between the Democracies of the United States and Britain was proven by the attitude of American residents in regard to assistance being given the British Empire in the present war. During a recent visit of Rev. Johnstone to the United States, Washington residents had stated that "the United States, while not in the war officially, is in the war unofficially, and with Britain and Empire". "May Brittannia always rule the waves", concluded Rev. Johnstone.

Appreciation to Rev. Johnstone for his inspiring address was expressed by the Chairman, Mr. Allan Fraser.

The entertainment provided by Mr. Duncan Cowan and his troupe of guest artists, in no small measure contributed toward the splendid success of the evening, with the dancing acts by Miss Ruth Gibbard being especially pleasing. Miss Gibbard's act of tap dancing on roller skates, while skipping the rope drew generous rounds of applause, with Louise Westlick, a former Belleville girl as pianist and accompanist, receiving a splendid reception.

Prizes Presented

The presentation of prizes and trophies to the various winning cheese makers exhibiting cheese at the Dairy Show was a much looked-forward-to item on the program. The donors of the awards in practically every case presented the trophies and prizes to the winning cheese makers.

Following the presentation of prizes, the evening's entertainment was brought to a close with community singing led by the master of ceremonies, Duncan Cowan. The ever popular "There'll always be an England" and the old time favourite "Auld Lang Syne" were sung with spirit as the banquet gathering broke up shortly after eleven o'clock. The net proceeds of the dinner as served by the ladies of the Wallbridge Women's Institute will be turned over to the Red Cross.

Belleville Boy Was Candidate For Windsor Council

William Charles Riggs, a Belleville boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Riggs, Bridge Street West, was an unsuccessful candidate for aldermanic honors in Ward Four in Windsor in the elections on Monday of this week. Mr. Riggs stood sixth out of eight in the contest, the two standing highest being elected to represent the ward in the Windsor City Council.

He has been President of the Typographical Union of Ontario. He is well-known in Belleville where he enlisted for the First World War and where he was a member of the staff of The Intelligencer. He has been chairman of the Public Library Board of Windsor for the past year, and a member of the board for five years.

His platform in the recent elections included the extension of home-ownership and a program of low-cost home building. He argued for cheaper bus fares, urged a sinking fund for the needs of future municipal growth "thus giving the pay-as-you-go policy meaning and effect," and proposed that Windsor carry its own insurance.

Aches and Pains of RHEUMATISM

Your money will be returned by J. S. McKeown if one bottle of Ru-Ma does not show you the quick, easy way to get relief from the cruel, stubborn aches and pains of rheumatism. Ru-Ma must please you or money back. One bottle will convince you.

Christmas Gifts
FEATURING THE ORIGINAL
APPLE BLOSSOM FRAGRANCE
by Helena Rubinstein

Helena Rubinstein

(At left)
A gift in the grand manner; a complete Apple Blossom set of Cologne, Body Powder, Bath Oil, Powder Cologne, Face Powder, Perfume, Soap and Atomizer. Set . . 6.50

Helena Rubinstein

(At right)
An entrancing bath set of Bath Oil, Body Powder, Cologne, (small sizes) and Complexion Soap all in the winning Apple Blossom fragrance in a Christmas box 2.35

(At left)
A most engaging little gift full of charm. A bottle of Apple Blossom Cologne and a box of Apple Blossom Powder. The set . . . 1.75

McKEOWN'S
DRUG STORE
PHONE 135

Shop At ZELLER'S It Pays!
RETAILERS TO THRIFTY CANADIANS

TOYLAND
OPENS SATURDAY!

"How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood
"When fond recollection presents them to view . . ."

To grown-ups, what a wealth of meaning in these popular lines! What fond recollections of Mother, Dad, Grandparents, Aunts, Uncles . . . conspiring with Santa to make Christmas Day ecstatically happy for their girls and boys! How precious these memories! AND NOW: how heart-warming to plan long-to-be-remembered Christmas Joys for the young 'uns of today! On Christmas Eve, see to it that every stocking which awaits Santa's coming is filled with 'Thrillers' for beloved youngsters. Let Zeller's Toyland help you make the right selection.

'PLANES

- ● China Clipper 9¼ by 13½ ins.
- ● DC 4 Mainliner Two Handsome Models
- ● "Piggy Back" Types
- ● Navy Plane
- ● Army Bomber

39c Ea.

Practically every little lad — and many a small girl too — loves mechanical toys. See this low-priced group of Aeroplane Toys.

Take a LOOK at These TOYS

39c Ea.

Mechanical Action Type!
Climbing Tractor, Toytown Dairy Wagon, Rocket Racer, Scooter, Cowboy on Horse, Trapeze Artist, Flivver Bug, Streamlined Racer, Jitterbug Dancer, Ski Boy, 8-in. Turtle, 10½-in. Aeroplane.

Mechanical TRAINS 1.49

4-unit trains in passenger or freight models, with key-wound engine and ten pieces of track.

STEEL TRUCKS: Dump, semi-trailer models, stake types. 16½" to 17¾" long. At 79c

EXTRA HEAVY GAUGE STEEL Push Toys: Dump truck with Shovel. At.. .. .. 1.49

STEEL PUSH TOYS: City Baggage Dray, Ladder Truck, Army Truck, Auto Wrecking Truck, Dump Truck. At 1.39

RIDE 'EM STEEL TOYS: Rubber tired tricycle. At 1.98

COAST DEFENCE GAME: Packed in attractive box. Only 79c

TARGET GAME: With rubber safety darts. Boxed. At .. 39c - 79c

DOLL PRAM: Rubber tired. At 2.49

ARMY CORPS TRUCK: Three groups, priced at 39c - 1.39

NAVY SET: Batteships, Cruisers, Destroyers, Submarines, Transports. In attractive box. Set 79c

ARMY SET: Soldiers and military equipment. Set 79c

POPGUN: Double barrelled. 28¼ in. long. Leather shoulder strap. Boxed 79c

PAINTING KIT: Containing paints, palettes, crayons, brushes, stencils and pictures to color. Only 59c

ZELLER'S TOYLAND BUTTONS
FREE to each Boy and Girl visiting our Toyland on Saturday!

Kindergarten Set!
TABLE AND 2 CHAIRS
$1.98

For your most beloved little girl, choose one of these sturdy, well-built sets. Natural varnish finish. Splendid value!

CRAYON SETS
15c ea.

"POPEYE" CRAYONS: assortment of sixteen in box. SET OF 18 Crayons and 12 pictures to colour. "BLENDWELL" HEXAGON Crayons: Set of 16 in box.

SETS FOR A YOUNG "ARTIST": Crayon Sets or Crayon and Water Colour Sets, complete with pictures for colouring. Each 29c

For Girls! For Boys!
BOOKS

PAINTING BOOKS! CUT-OUT BOOKS! 15c - 19c

PICTURE STORY BOOKS: Great assortment at, ea. 10c

BOOKS FOR VERY YOUNG CHILDREN:.. Mother Goose, Teddy Bear, Bulky Book, Bedtime Stories. At 15c

CLASSIC STORIES FOR CHILDREN: In this group are Jack and Jill, Alice in Wonderland, Kidnapped, Swiss Family Robinson, Black Beauty, Heidi. Also: Indian Series, Tanglewood Tales, Campfire Girl and Girl Scout Series. At 29c

"GUILD LIBRARY" EDITIONS: 32 titles including Arabian Nights, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, Silas Marner, Pickwick Papers, Shakespeare's Masterpieces. At.... 35c

FAVOURITES WITH GIRLS AND BOYS: Little Women, Tom Sawyer, Robin Hood, Pinocchio, Hunchback of Notre Dame, Tale of Two Cities, Bible Stories. At 59c

FOR BOYS!

MECHANICAL FLYING FORTRESS: 4-motor 'plane. At 79c

SOLDIERS, plastic. Various types .. 2 for 15c

SET: 20 Soldiers and Ammunition 79c

STREAMLINED TRAIN: Mechanical 1.49

ARMY TOYS!

ARMY TURNOVER TANK: High-gloss enamel finish. At 89c

GREAT GUN CANNON; 25½ ins. long. Steel construction. At 1.29

GUNS: "Red Ranger" Pistol; Target Pistol, Pop Gun. Each 15c

Sparkling Automatic Pistol - Pump Dart Gun - Double-Barrel Pop Gun, each 45c

Mechanical TOYS
A GRAND ASSORTMENT!
Climbing Tractor with endless rubber tread. Army Tank, turnover type—khaki coloured. Each only 89c

GAMES! GAMES!
10c to $1.49

● Board Games Metal Frames
● Action Games with Grand Values!

Shoot-o-Loop, Marble Bingo, Mystery Shooter and Jingle Cup Marble Game; "Trap 'em Alive'; 'Ride 'Em Cowboy' and "Hot Shot" Bagatelle Games; Ice Hockey, Champion Bowling Alley; Chinese and San Loo Checkers . . . and many other games to delight girls and boys!

Grand Gifts
For Men! For Boys!

MEN'S SCARVES $1.00

ATTRACTIVE ASSORTMENT—Twill (spun rayon) Scarves, patterned and fringed. Dots! Paisley! Stripes.

NAVY - MAROON - GREEN Twill (spun rayon) Scarfs with novelty patterns. Fringed.

WOOLS: Cosy! White, maroon, green; fringed.

WOOL SCARVES: plain colors including white, also patterns. Wool fringe. Zeller-priced 79c

SCARVES OF SPUN RAYON Polka dot, paisley, check and allover designs. Zeller-priced 69c

Men's GLOVES

WOOL GLOVES to wish "him" a Merry Christmas! Made with ribbed cuffs. Popular colours. Pair 79c

WOOL GLOVES: Khaki and Air-force Blue. A practical and good looking Gift for the boys in Service 1.00

CAPESKIN GLOVES for "dressy" wear! Warmly lined. A grand gift for "your favorite man." Pair 1.19

MEN'S TOILETRY GIFT SETS

FOR SHAVING: Shaving Soap, After-Shave Lotion, in attractive box. Only 49c

COLGATE SETS! PALMOLIVE SETS: Shaving Cream, Dental Cream, After-Shave Lotion, Talcum Powder. Per Set 49c

JERGEN'S — WOODBURY SETS: Popular assortments at 49c

BOYS' HELMETS

"WEATHER BUSTERS" that will give plenty of warmth and protection. Of sheepskin, lined with doeskin; camel pile trim, earlaps. Adjustable chin strap. Black. Dark Brown. A dandy Gift. Zeller-priced 1.19

MITTS: Of sturdy Sheepskin. Lined with flannelette. Elasticized wristbands. Black, Brown, Red, Blue, Green. Pair 59c

PULLOVERS

Boys' all wool brushed Pullovers. Cadet neck zipper. Three color combination. Sizes 26 to 34 .. .. 1.47

BREECHES: Of freize cloth. Reinforced at seat; reinforced and laced at knees. Navy. Sizes 8 to 16. Zeller-priced 1.98

COMBINATIONS

MEN'S: Long-sleeved, ankle-length style. Plum brushed. Sizes 36 to 44. .. .. 1.00

BOYS': Plum brushed. Sizes 20 to 34. 79c 89c $1

THE
ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

HEROIC DEEDS OF MEN OF NAVY RECALLED

This week is Navy Week in Ontario.

In schools in all parts of the province, the thrilling story of Britain's sea might will be retold. How England became Mistress of the Seas makes one of the noblest chapters in all history and both boys and girls will recall heroic deeds at sea as in Ontario's classrooms, tribute is paid to the Empire's magnificent sea defence.

This educational project of the Navy League of Canada, Ontario Division, is calculated to have far-reaching effects. The significance of British sea power will be more widely realized as the various activities of Navy Week become known among parents as well as pupils.

In adopting this method of stimulating patriotism, the Navy League has the full support of the Department of Education, including the League's plan of deepening the desired impression by making a collection in the schools, in aid of the sailors at Christmas.

The League has undertaken to see that every man who sails the high seas, and who is at a Canadian seaport during the Christmas season, is given tangible proof that those who serve the King afloat are not forgotten. The "ditty bags" being filled by women workers for the Navy League in many parts of Ontario, will bring comfort to those who serve in the merchant marine as well as in His Majesty's naval forces.

Following a similar project last year, letters of thanks poured in from men and boys whose Christmas had been made so cheerful. One lad in the Canadian Navy wrote that the ditty bag was "quite the nicest present I ever received and was doubly appreciated because we spent Christmas Day at sea in exceptionally rough weather. The last few trips convoying merchant and troop ships have been interesting but very unpleasant, owing to ice forming to a thickness of up to six inches over all. Our ship's company come from coast to coast, with every province represented." This was typical of the letters received, many adding words that showed them to have been deeply touched.

This Christmas the plan has been greatly extended and in addition to the 10,000 ditty bags, the Navy League has purchased 20,000 packages of cigarettes, 20,000 chocolate bars, 10,000 packages of gum and 5,000 pounds of plum pudding as part of the Christmas cheer.

WARTIME BUDGET

Canada has been given an interim budget which aims at the curtailment of luxuries and restriction of non-essentials imported from non-sterling countries so far as to save exchange, raises the excise taxes on domestic and personal conveniences and lowers the rate of import duty on British products. It draws attention to the fact that the interest of Canadians must be mainly war production.

The estimate is that in exchange alone there will be a saving of five to six million dollars a month. The effort is to save dollars and to develop inter-trade with Great Britain, for which purpose duties have been lowered on imports from Britain.

The Minister of Finance, the Hon. J. L. Ilsley, pointed out an important factor that Canada's imports from the United States will increase this year over last and will be larger than ever in history and that "there is no intention in the measures now taken for war purposes of implying that there will be any permanent change in our normal trade policies." What it does mean was that "all that will happen will be a shift in the character of our imports—a reduction in non-essential imports for war purposes to make possible a substantial increase in our purchase of vitally needed war equipment and supplies."

Gold mining was given a high place by Mr. Ilsley. Canada is stimulating the provision of foreign exchange by gold production. He said that the gold mining industry was impressed with the need of increased production by every means known to the able and experienced operators of that industry. Canada will sell about $200,000,000 in newly-mined gold this year.

It has been stated that the budget surprised by its moderateness as many people were prepared for drastic curtailment. Canadian people are willing to undergo restrictions so that the purpose of Canada may be achieved to lend the most possible effort towards the victorious prosecution of the war.

"We have tried at all times to accord fair and honest treatment to the residents of foreign countries," the minister said in his address.

TRIBUTE TO BRAVE MEN

A naval man has revealed an impressive scene at the approximate spot where the gallant Jervis Bay and her captain and crew fought one of the great actions of the war. It was a memorial service on board a British war vessel held on Sunday November 24. Two hundred men repeated the prayer, "Almighty God Who Art the Confidence of All the Ends of the earth and of Them That Are Far Off Upon the Sea," and sang the hymns "Eternal Father, Strong to Save" and "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." When the warship reached the position where the Jervis Bay began to fire in that memorable engagement in which she sacrificed herself to save almost all the ships of a British convoy, the engines of the warship were reduced to half speed, the ensign was lowered to half mast and a cross of poppies was dropped into the sea. Bugles sounded the Last Post and Reveille and three volleys for the dead were fired.

The most heroic are those who know man's dependence upon God. The stalwart crew of the warship paid their tribute to those who wrote one of the most glowing acts in marine history. In paying tribute to those who lost their lives in the Jervis Bay's sacrifice for the sake of the convoy ships, the crew of the warship were stronger men.

No dictator can conquer such a people as have produced such heroes as the captain, the officers and the men of the Jervis Bay and as all those who respect the memory of the noble dead.

Newest Notes of Science

Science News Service

Using a replaceable blade, a new dry shaver is revolved by passing over the face without requiring electric power.

Italy's rice production this year is expected to reach 850,000 metric tons, about 90,000 tons more than last year.

As a space saver in small kitchens a new automatic gas operated water heater has a top that can be used as a table.

A machine has been invented that is asserted to show when a person's hair is growing thin and that baldness impends.

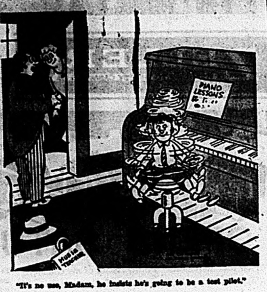
The coast of Peru and adjoining islands are the home of the only species of penguins outside of the Antarctic regions.

There are no moving parts in a new lawn sprinkler that can be adjusted to cover a wide area or a narrow strip of grass.

Spain is estimated to havr. produced about 10,000 378-pound bales of cotton this year, about twice as much as last year.

OFF THE RECORD

By ED REED



"It's no use, Madam, he insists he's going to be a test pilot."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 5th., 1920.

Ald. Ostrom went to Montreal today on business.

Mr. P. McDonald, who has been here for a time, engaged in exporting fish to the United States, left today for his home in Buffalo, N.Y.

At the annual meeting of the members of Belleville Musicians Local No. 371, the following officers were elected: President, W. W. Hart; Vice President, G. W. Elliott; Recording Secretary, Charles Hannah; Financial Secretary and Treasurer, H. Deshane; Executive Committee—H. Hart; Vice President, G. W. Hannah, W. Aselstine, R. Hinchey, L. Walmsley, E. Liddle and W. Wannacott; Examining Committee—W. Hart, R. Hinchey and R. Blaind; Auditors, L. Walmsley, D. Sword and A. Wannacott; Sergeant-at-Arms, W. Aselstine and W. Grant; Marshal, H. Stanley.

30 YEARS AGO

December 5th., 1910.

The annual meeting of the members of the Liberal Conservative Association of the Township of Thurlow was held in the Conservative Club Rooms in this city and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Hon. President, Mr. W. P. Hudson, ex-M.P.P.; President, Mr. W. J. Mallory; First Vice President, Mr. G. W. Henderson; Second Vice President, Mr. F. R. Hicks; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. George F. Reed.

Mr. G. G. Thrasher of Stirling was in town today.

Br. Harry Whittier of Trenton was in town today.

Mr. G. H. Bleecker of Trenton was in town today.

40 YEARS AGO

December 5th., 1900.

Mr. Silas E. Lennox is spending a short time at Melrose.

Mr. J. W. Pearce, Marmora, was a visitor here today.

Mr. H. Corby, M.P., and Mr. W. B. Northrup, M.P., went to Toronto today.

A Union Jack flag is missing from No. 2 fire hall and the firemen are anxious to regain possession of it. They are offering a reward for the thief's conviction, but as they know his name, they expect that the stolen flag will be returned before any one has any trouble over it.

Mr. W. Bensley of Warkworth was in town today.

Mr. C. B. Scantlebury has returned after a business trip to Winnipeg.

50 YEARS AGO

December 5th., 1890.

Mr. Freeman of Watertown, N.Y., is in town on business in connection with the water works.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hope are spending a few days in Detroit, Mich.

Repairs are being made to the police court room and as a consequence court was held in the City Clerk's office this morning.

Boys and girls are enjoying coasting on the hills.

A requisition is in circulation requesting Dr. Wilson to offer himself for election to the office of Mayor for next year.

Mr. S. Lazier has resigned from the staff at the local post office and his place will be taken by Mr. James Reeves, son of ex-Alderman Reeves.

What's the Answer

BY THE ACE CAMERAMAN

(Distributed by the King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

1.— What is the name of the oldest ship in the United States Navy?

2.—True or false? A protractor is a farming machine.

3.—The Gerard Barnes Lambert Trophy is awarded for one of the following sports—(a) skeet shooting; (b) sailboat racing; (c) midget auto racing.

4.—One of these orchestra leaders plays an electric guitar; (a) Phil Harris; (b) Bob Knight; (c) Bob Crosby. Which?

5.—What football team answers to the name of "Huskies"?

6.—Who played the lead in the movie, "The Black Pirate"?

7.—How many Presidents died in the White House?

Answers

1.—The U.S.S. Constellation.

2.—False. It is an instrument for measuring angles on paper.

3—Sailboat racing.

4.—Bob Knight.

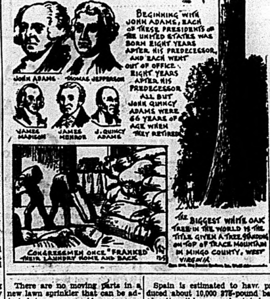
5.—University of Washington.

6.—Douglas Fairbanks, Sr.

7.—Two, Taylor and Harrison.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT



BEGINNING WITH JOHN ADAMS, EACH OF THESE PRESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES WAS BORN EIGHT YEARS AFTER HIS PREDECESSOR, AND EACH WENT OUT OF OFFICE EIGHT YEARS AFTER HIS PREDECESSOR. ALL BUT JOHN QUINCY ADAMS WERE 66 YEARS OF AGE WHEN THEY RETIRED
JOHN ADAMS
THOMAS JEFFERSON
JAMES MADISON
JAMES MONROE
J. QUINCY ADAMS
CONGRESSMEN ONCE "FRANKED" THEIR LAUNDRY HOME AND BACK
THE BIGGEST WHITE OAK TREE IN THE WORLD IS THE TITLE GIVEN A TREE STANDING ON TOP OF TRACE MOUNTAIN IN MINGO COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA

Haifa Coveted By Axis

Haifa is attracting the attention of the Italians because it is the terminus of the famous oil pipeline from Iraq, along which millions of tons of oil are pumped every year. From this great pipe-line the British Navy in the Mediterranean draws its supplies of fuel.

During the past few weeks the anti-aircraft defences of the port have been greatly strengthened and the enemy meets with a warm reception whenever he appears. Today Haifa is the most important port of Palestine, and can boast of the second largest harbour in the Mediterranean, coming next after Marseilles, says John England in The Hamilton Spectator.

Haifa is more prominent in modern Palestine than it was in the days of the ancient world. Then it was completely overshadowed in importance by ancient Acre. Now Haifa has a splendid modern harbor with a depth of 30 feet alongside the main quay, so that tankers can load with ease. Not many years ago ships calling at Haifa had to anchor a thousand yards from the shore, resulting in great loss of time.

The serious political rivalries in Palestine during the past few years have not prevented extraordinary progress being made. The astounding expansion of the orange trade and other branches of agriculture, commerce and industry, and the opening of the pipe-line from Northern Iraq, have assured the success of the harbour and the prosperity of the port. Haifa is the principal outlet for the products of Trans-Jordania and it has railway connections with both Palestine and Egypt. In normal times it is also the centre of civil aviation lines.

• •

The ancient city lies at the foot of a mountain famous in biblical history, Mount Carmel. As soon as the main breakwater began to creep out from its foot, coasting craft began to use it as a shelter and from that day onward the prosperity of Haifa, as a modern port, was certain. Today Haifa has passed equally ancient Jaffa as Palestine's chief port. Jaffa lies nearer to Jerusalem, and also gains something from the fact that it is situated in the heart of the orange belt. But, unfortunately, it has a poor harbour; indeed, it is nothing more than an open roadstead, and dangerous rocks abound. Ships' masters dislike going there, except in calm weather, and there are the remains of many wrecks about.

Haifa lent itself to the building of an almost ideal harbour, because the ridge of Mount Carmel gives shelter from the prevailing southwest winds, and the shores also shelves conveniently, allowing the building of quays and breakwaters. Haifa's new harbour was opened seven years back, in October, 1933. It cost £1,250,000 and was within one-half per cent. of Sir Frederick Palmer's estimate. There are now three hundred acres of sheltered water, which ships of almost the largest tonnage can enter. The harbour, which can provide all facilities for rapidly expanding export and import trade, and is itself capable of expansion, is almost certain to grow. During the process of construction 100 acres of land were reclaimed.

• •

The building of the new harbour ranks as one of the most notable engineering achievements of recent times. The government of Palestine decided to carry out the work in 1927. A thorough survey of the site was carried out. The actual building was begun two years later, the first load of stones from the quarries arriving in October, 1929. The harbour lies between two great arms of breakwaters, one a mile and a half in length, the other half a mile long. The former is composed of nearly a million cubic yards of stone blocks, which were placed in position by a crane capable of handling a load of 15 tons at a radius of 75 feet. The deep-water berth is 1,400 feet long and is capable of accommodating three or four large tourist liners of about 30,000 tons each. In all, two and a half million tons of stone were quarried at Athlit, some ten miles from the coast.

• •

Remarkable progress was experienced immediately the port was opened and, by 1936, four transit sheds had to be added to the two originally provided. Within the harbor is an oil dock for the accommodation of tankers. The main jetty is about fifteen hundred feet long and there is room for two 500-feet tankers. Another very important item of export in recent times has been potash, of which the Dead Sea contains great quantities. It is an indispensable fertilizer, and it is estimated that when the enterprise is properly developed Haifa will dispatch an average of a thousand tons a day.

The future of Haifa will not depend upon Palestine alone. With the opening up of desert motorways to the countries of the East, and the development of air travel, the port will draw to it the commerce of more distant territories. The Jews estimate that Haifa is destined to become a great port for a population of almost fifty million people. The territory embraced spreads from Syria and across the desert to the Tigris-Euphrates basin, much of which is being restored to its old-time prosperity as the result of irrigation. The government of Iraq is spending a proportion of the oil royalties on this work.

Haifa is rapidly becoming a gateway to the East and seems likely to play an important part in the War of the Mediterranean.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

James W. Barton, M.D.

One Attack of Pneumonia Predisposes to Further Attacks

When certain ailments attack us our blood and tissues build up a resistance with which to fight the ailment. Nature is so good to us that the amount of resistance we build up during the attack remains with us for months, years, in fact our whole lifetime and so we are never attacked by that ailment again. This is spoken of as setting up an "immunity" against that particular ailment.

There is one ailment, however, that once it attacks us, we never seem to build up enough resistance or immunity to prevent a second attack. In fact, one attack makes us more likely to have further attacks. This ailment is pneumonia.

The organisms that cause the different types of pneumonia are always in us, always lying in wait to overcome us should our resistance become low. Further, pneumonia is usually present during the cool or cold weather, when the warm sunlight is not present to fight these organisms and when our own fighting cells—the white corpuscles of the blood—are not at their best because cool weather or coldness chills them and makes them less active.

That coldness or drafts is an important factor in chilling the white corpuscles and allowing harmful organisms to make headway in the body has been known for a long time. For years, baseball pitchers have been putting on a sweater between innings or putting the sleeve of their sweater over their pitching arm to prevent cold and stiffness interfering with the strength and elasticity of their muscles and to prevent developing a cold from becoming overheated.

If, then, getting overheated and exposing one's self to cold or a draft will cause a cold which is the beginning part of pneumonia, the lesson is plain.

Workers should not hurry out from factories or mines after work, particularly if they have taken a hot shower to remove dust and dirt from their bodies. The same applies to those engaged in sport, particularly golfers who hurriedly dress after the shower, jump into their cars and hurry home to be in time for the evening meal.

The fact that colds seem to be "catching" in an office, school, or factory but pneumonia is not catching, would tend to show that it is a tired, rundown body, exposed to colds or drafts, that causes the ordinary cold to go on to pneumonia.

French Canada Admires Londoners

French Canada's admiration for the wonderful resistance displayed by Londoners against the Nazi onslaught is expressed in the following letter, sent to Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, by a Quebec agriculturist who insists on not having his identity divulged. A cheque for $100 accompanied the letter. Here is the letter:

"Mr. Minister:—

"Would you be so kind as to forward the enclosed cheque for $100 to the British Government, in London.

"I would like the British Government to give my humble contribution to one of the poor London families that had to suffer the most from the barbarous cruelty of the Nazis.

"As a true Canadian and loyal patriot, my heartfelt wish to the London people, on the occasion of the coming Christmas and New Year, is for an early British victory."

CANNY ENGLISH SPARROWS

—Unscientific observers of the English sparrow who have long suspected this bird of being highly intelligent will find their suspicions confirmed by science. In a recent monograph, "The Economic Status of the English Sparrow in the United States," a publication of the United States Department of Agriculture, E. R. Kalmback, writes:

> When tested with food boxes, to which it had to discover access, and the experimental maze, the English sparrow revealed a rate and method of learning quite comparable with that of other higher vertebrates. It was found to profit readily by experience, and, although its method of learning was one of trial and error, its persistency was most striking.

The bright, alert eye of the English sparrow is no false sign. To aggressiveness and hardiness this bird adds the capacity to profit by experience, persistency, wariness and sensible caution. In 50 years it has extended its range from less than half of the continental United States to the whole of the continental United States, to large parts of Canada, to parts of Mexico.—New York Sun.

CHEESE FACTORY BURNS

Brockville, Dec. 5 —(CP)— Orchard Valley Cheese Factory at Jellyby, Leeds County, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night, according to word reaching here. Reports said the fire had made too much progress when discovered to be checked.

The factory, owned by J. C. Ferguson, was the second eastern Ontario cheese factory burned Tuesday night. Earlier in the evening $7,000 damage was done to one near Smiths Falls.

Duce's Army Runs True To Form

By Westbrook Pegler

In The Minneapolis Star Journal

To the historic honors won at Adowa, Caporetto, Guadalajara and Lissa, the dashing invincibles of Benito Mussolini have now added new glories, inflicted by the Greeks in Albania and the British at Taranto, where the Duce's indomitables upheld the famous, if somewhat queer, traditions of their arms.

To be sure, the flight of the irresistibles in Albania did not equal in magnitude the spectacular advance to the rear which has made Caporetto a name too sacred to be mentioned in Italy, nor in speed and form with the magnificent feat of footwork achieved at Guadalajara in Spain.

But, man for man, the forces which ran the Greeks to exhaustion over the mountains in recent

After all, spirit counts for a great deal in Mussolini's scoring system, and the forces in Albania certainly deserved to be marked A in earnestness as they tore for home when the fighting started.

If there was any blame at all, it belongs to the Duce, in selecting for this contest a terrain in which the roads were narrow and winding and the curves improperly banked.

The conquering legions were compelled to slow down on the turns or pitch over the cliffs, and there were bottlenecks in which some of the slower members impeded men behind who were full of run and wanted only road room.

So, notwithstanding the fact an extraordinary proportion of invincibles were caught the forces involved doubtless will receive from the Duce the cherished right to wear the proud insignia of a cloud of dust, which is awarded to all distinguished regiments of his forces.

It is hard to see how Mussolini can conscientiously honor the heroes of the naval engagement at days have no need to apologize to the survivors of Caporetto, and the heroes of Guadalajara will have to admit that they did their running on a faster and straighter track. Taranto on an equal scale with those of the old battle of Lissa.

It is true, that, on the net results, they upheld the traditions of Lissa, but, after all, they didn't run away during the action.

They had already run away and were hiding at the time, whereas, at Lissa, the Italian fleet not only achieved an historic defeat but followed that with a magnificent flight from the Austrians comparable in sea warfare, to the most glorious feats of running ever recorded by land forces.

Aluminum Executive Dies

Montreal, Dec. 5 —(CP)— O. M. Montgomery, 60, vice-president and general manager of the Aluminum Company of Canada, died suddenly at his home here last night following a heart attack. Burial will be at Lanark, Ont., his birthplace.

A graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, Mr. Montgomery joined the aluminum company in 1906 and later served as director of purchases before being named vice-president in 1937. He was also a member of the board of directors.

Surviving are his widow, two brothers and three sisters.

Southern Rhodesia broke all records by producing a flue cured tobacco crop of more than 34,400,000 pounds in the last season.

Santa Says Your Eyes Deserve First Consideration

Make a "HIT" give glasses

Mother or Dad would like nothing better than a gift of new correct glasses. You'll get real pleasure in helping them "see" young again. Our Registered Optometrist will examine their eyes before or after Christmas. If your wife wears glasses give her a thrill—give her new modern, smart "Nu-monts."

Lewis Optical Parlors

280 FRONT STREET PHONE 1406

WHY ASK? OF COURSE I'VE CHANGED TO 'blue coal'

IT'S THE BEST HEATING VALUE YOUR MONEY CAN BUY

THIS YEAR YOU, TOO, SHOULD CHANGE TO

blue coal

THE COLOUR GUARANTEES THE QUALITY

HARRY SMITH

152 PINNACLE ST. PHONE 2071

"A Fuel for Every Purpose"

Listen to "The Shadow"—CFRB, Tues.
L. JONES BARRISTER

SEE LIPSON'S FURNITURE HOUSE
FOR EXCLUSIVE GIFTS — EASY TERMS
BUY NOW — PAY NEXT YEAR

POPULATION UP SOME THOUSANDS WITH PRISONERS

Canada is New Home for Army of Combatants and Internees From Overseas in Number of Camps

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (CP).—Except for friends and relatives and officials immediately concerned interned prisoners are the forgotten men of the war. Canada may have as many as 10,000 of them.

Most recent word on the number interned in Canada comes from an internment official but even it is vague. He placed the number between 8,000 and 12,000.

The public knows little about them. Unless they are of great prominence or win a little temporary notoriety by an escape or an attempt at an escape the public never knows these persons by name.

These persons live under constant guard behind the high barbed wire fences of Canadian internment camps. They are there because they were captured fighting in the forces of the enemy or because they are civilians considered a menace to the security of Canada or Great Britain. Some of them—officials won't say how many—are women. They have separate quarters from the male internees.

In the camps planning means of escape is the major pre-occupation of the bolder spirits. Otherwise they pass the time working, reading, talking, playing games, writing or studying.

Transfer of several thousand prisoners from Britain to camps in Canada boosted the scale of the Dominion's internment operations far beyond what was anticipated at the start of the Second Great War. During the First Great War the peak of internment saw only some 2,000 held in Canada.

The prisoners transferred to the dominion from the United Kingdom were moved because of the danger of numbers of them escaping and engaging in fifth column work in the event of German invasion of Britain.

Canadian Internees.

Canada's internment problems in the present war started with the round-up of German nationals and Nazi sympathizers in September, 1939. First prisoners, numbering several hundred, were confined in temporary quarters at the Citadel at Quebec, Fort Henry at Kingston, Ont., and the Halifax Citadel.

Permanent camps were established at Petawawa, Ont., and Kananaskis, Alta., both points off the beaten track and away from centres of population. These two camps still are the only places of confinement. An unannounced number of camps have been set up in other places to confine the thousands of Germans and Italians brought to the dominion from the United Kingdom.

The two camps for Canadian internees contain a varied group of civilians but no combatant prisoners of war. There are leaders of Nazi and Fascist organizations which operated in Canada, Communists, members of the National Unity party and Germans and Italians of military age who were in Canada at the start of the war and who might be expected either to try to get out or make trouble.

In the camps operated for the British government are people of the same type arrested in the United Kingdom but these include a number of persons who were really refugees from Nazi Germany but who must be confined on precautionary grounds. In addition, however, there are large numbers of combatants, soldiers, sailors and airmen taken in actual operations of war.

The various groups are segregated into different camps, the combatants because international treaty prescribes certain treatment for officers and men who are prisoners of war, and the civilians for convenience.

It is the combatant group which has furnished most of the excitement in connection with internment. In this group there have been sixteen attempts at escape. All but one are back in custody and the one, Ernst Nueller is dead, shot when he resisted capture in the Northwestern Ontario bush.

Two attempts at escape from the Canadian internment camp at Kananaski ended with capture of the men.

Prisoner's Pay.

Officer prisoners of war cannot be required to work and are entitled to their army pay from the Canadian government which in turn bills the British government. The British government balances off the pay of German officer prisoners against amounts paid British officer prisoners in Germany by the German government.

The officers do not get the cash but credit is given them on the books of the camp. Out of their credits they must buy clothing and any luxuries which are admitted to camps under regulations.

Combatant prisoners without status can be required to work but not on anything contributing to the prosecution of the war. They must attend to their own needs, do their own cooking, and keep heir quarters clean.

For that they get no pay but for other work, such as road-building, wood-cutting and farm work, they get 20 cents a day, again in credit, not cash.

Civilian prisoners are not protected by international agreement but in Canada they are treated much the same as non-officer combatant prisoners. They get 20 cents a day for work other than camp fatigue. Like combatant prisoners they get the same rations and quarters as Canadian soldiers on active service.

But where the fighting men held prisoner wear the uniform of their service, the civilian prisoners wear a camp uniform, distinguished by a red circle inserted in the jacket at the small of the back and a red strip down each trouser leg.

Among one group of civilian prisoners brought from Britain a special works program useful to the Canadian government is being organized. These are prisoners of the refugee type, sympathetic to the British cause and if they wish they may work on the making of sheepskin coats for the Canadian army and on other articles for army use.

In the two purely Canadian camps at Kananaskis and Petawawa communists, fascists and nazis mingle with Canadians. Among the more prominent inmates of these camps are Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal who was interned after he counselled Canadians against national registration, Adrien Arcand, also of Montreal and leader of the outlawed National Unity Party and James Franceschini of Toronto, millionaire Italian-born contractor.

Internment authorities have never denied that among civilian prisoners held in Canada for Great Britain are Prince Frederick of Prussia and Ernst (Putzi) Henfstaengle, formerly high in Nazi circles as a press relations man and said to have been a favorite of Hitler because of his piano playing—until he fell into disfavor.

CANADA'S NO. 2 FIGHTER UNIT PEACE-TRAINED

New Fliers to Meet Germans Was Organized in Winnipeg in 1934 and Formerly Co-Operation Squadron

Winnipeg, Dec. 5 (CP).—Airmen who prepared for war in peacetime are ready to take their place in the Battle of Britain. They are members of Canada's No. 2 Fighter Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and most of the personnel is made up of Winnipeg and Manitoba fliers.

Men who fought against the Germans in the skies of France in the First Great War, organized and prepared the squadron for battle service overseas. It left Canada in May, after an intensive period of training in Winnipeg and Ottawa, as No. 112 (City of Winnipeg) Co-operation Squadron.

Stationed in southern England the squadron, first detailed as an "army eye", now will take its place with No. 1 Fighter Squadron which has written a new page of valor in the history of the R.C.A.F.

No. 112 Army Co-operation Squadron was organized in Winnipeg in 1934. Many of its pilots got their wings at the Winnipeg Flying Club, training under direction of Great War fliers, and with Sqdn.-Ldr. J. A. Sully of Winnipeg as first commander. Later, Sqdn.-Ldr. P. H. Crabb, now a wing commander at R.C.A.F. headquarters in Ottawa, took charge, and when the squadron moved out of Winnipeg last February it was under the command of Sqdn.-Ldr. R. H. Little, the present officer in charge of the air school at Calgary.

When the unit embarked from an eastern Canadian port late in May, the squadron was under the command of Sqdn.-Ldr. S. L. Hanna of Winnipeg. It carried overseas a battle flag presented by the city of Winnipeg, and recently honored when Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., visiting headquarters in England, unfurled its new R.C.A.F. flag.

TO HURT ON LEAVE

There have been promotions and changes in personnel overseas. The squadron members have made valuable reconnaissance flights. It also has served as a pool reinforcing squadron for No. 1 Fighter Squadron and No. 10 (City of Toronto) Army Co-operation Squadron.

Representative Unit.

When No. 2 Fighter Squadron left the dominion, its personnel included airmen from many sections of Eastern and Western Canada. Its officers came from eight provinces in the dominion, representing twenty cities and towns, from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The larger centres in the Dominion, Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Victoria, were all represented. From the far West was P.O. E. L. Musgrove of Victoria, B.C. From the eastern provinces was P.O. S. A. Bushel of Canso, N.S.

PREFERS WAR AREA

Calgary, Dec. 5 (CP). — George Manolescu, of the Royal Canadian Navy, is very definite about it. He would rather face German bombs than Calgary automobile drivers. Home on leave, he was slightly hurt when a car crashed into his automobile on a Calgary bridge. He speaks from experience. He was in several day and night bombing raids in Britain, and while on convoy duty witnessed the destruction of a submarine.

CLOCKS UNITING WARTORN FAMILY

Peter's Mother in England Knows When Her Son in Canada is Dining

Regina, Dec. 5 (CP).—Peter Findlay, 11, is far from home, but he has received some reminders of war from his Middlesex home where his parents have a map of Saskatchewan and a clock on the mantel set at Regina time.

When it is 11 p.m. Middlesex time, Peter's mother can visualize him eating supper at five o'clock in Regina.

Peter's parents sent him a tin box filled with a jagged piece of copper shrapnel, a piece of braided parachute cord and a stout piece of greenish German parachute cloth which was found in the garden of his home. A delayed action landmine floated to the garden with the parachute and was detonated by an engineers' precaution squad.

Peter is in Regina for the duration, staying with his great-aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Findlay.

Tommies Welcome To Whale Dinner

Danish People on Faroe Islands Kindly Hosts of Troops

Thorshavn, Faroe Islands, Dec. 5 (CP).—There's a new slogan in the British-occupied islands situated between the Shetlands and Iceland. It's "Take a Tommy Home to Tea" and represents one effort to entertain British troops who came to Danish-owned isles after Germany overran Denmark.

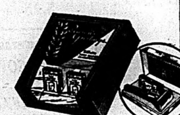
The Tommies are welcome everywhere. They get on particularly well with the youngest generation. In various homes here, four or six British soldiers are invited to spend a couple of hours once a week. The visits are quite informal and the men can do what they like—talk, play games or drink coffee.

Nobody here worries about a meat ration. Since April, nearly 4,000 whales have been caught and that means the islanders are provided without 4,000 tons of meat and blubber. Whale meat is the usual national food. By a system dating back for 1,000 years, the meat and blubber are shared among the thousands of homes in the islands.

This Christmas
GIVE HIM A HAPPY NEW YEAR
OF SHAVING COMFORT

Gillette's Smart Razor and Blade Sets, Priced as Low as 98¢, are Welcomed by Men of Sixteen or Sixty!

VALUABLE BANK FREE WITH 50 BLUE GILLETTE BLADES—Here is an unusual double-value gift. This handsome metal savings bank, with lock and key, leatherette covered. Will please any man. It encourages thrift and suggests war savings. This bank is free with the purchase of 50 easy-shaving, long lasting Blue Gillette Blades. You pay only the regular price of the blades alone. $2.50



GILLETTE TECH RAZOR with 15 BLUE GILLETTE BLADES. Give him the popular, new Gillette Tech Razor. He'll get the smoothest, most comfortable shaves he ever had. You'll get his lasting thanks. Complete with 15 Blue Gillette Blades in gay red Christmas package; the low cost fits even Junior's gift budget at only...... 98¢

MILORD 24-k Gold-Plated, One-Piece Tech Razor Set combines the convenience of a one-piece razor with the shaving advancements of the modern Tech. In smart Texol case with 5 Blue Gillette Blades... A brand new set this season for.. $1.50

MILADY (companion set to MILORD)—24-k Gold-Plated One-Piece Tech Razor. The answer to an up-to-date woman's demands for daintiness. With 5 Blue Gillette Blades in lovely feminine case. $1.50

IMPROVED NEW VALET AUTOSTROP RAZOR: Here's an opportunity to be thrifty yet give a present that will be long-remembered. The improved new Valet Autostrop Razor insures years of shaving satisfaction. With 15 Valet Blades and selected leather strop in handsome, colorful package with transparent cellophane window............ $1.29

Gillette RAZORS AND BLUE BLADES

PERFECT GIFTS FOR ANY MAN!

This Christmas
WE MAKE YOUR DREAMS COME TRUE

BLUEBIRD
150

A GLORIOUS PERFECT "Bluebird"
Two side diamonds enhance the beautiful solitaire. Hand fashioned mounting of 18kt gold.

15-JEWEL WATCHES
Sturdy, accurate guaranteed movements. Styles for men and women. Natural cases. At 17.50

15-JEWEL "ADMIRAL"
A watch for the work-a-day man. Sturdy and dependable movement. White case . 15.00

'Bluebird Pair' $40
They are perfect in every detail. Insured free of charge.

New Ensemble $100
A handsome couple! Perfect and flawless diamonds, hand fashioned mountings.

LOVELY NEW COMPACTS
A host of styles and lovely delicate colors from which to choose. Single and double types. 1.00 UP

BULOVAS
A new 15-jewel model is featured here. Others 17 and 21 jewels 24.75 UP

Omegas
Smart styles for men and women. Guaranteed performance .. 45.00 UP

TWO DIAMOND BULOVA 42.50
This dainty 2 diamond model is fully guaranteed. Very feminine.

Sunbeam Mixmaster
The gift ideal for the home—or mother. Fully guaranteed 29.75
- Hot Point Automatic Iron $8.95
- Sandwich Toaster $7.95
- Coffee Maker $5.95

GRUENS
For Men and Women! Precision built watches for men and women. Gruen are fully guaranteed. 24.75 and up

HORSE SHOE CLOCKS
An appropriate gift for the home, office or horse lover. Electrical movement of quality ... 9.50
PAY WEEKLY!

'SUNBEAM'
The finest electrical razor yet! Guaranteed fully. At 16.75

SMART NEW TEA SERVICES
A lustrous set in heavy quality silver-plate. Teapot, Creamer and Sugar 10.95

CHECK these GIFTS:

CASSEROLES, Pyrex lined	2.95 UP
FLOWER CENTRES, glass lined	2.95 UP
BAKING DISHES, silverplated	6.00 UP
ENTREE DISHES, double style	7.00 UP
RELISH, BON BON DISHES, etc.	1.00 UP

52 pc. chest $59.75
1847 Rogers Bros.
This beautiful new Christmas chest is tarnish-proof and holds a complete service for 8 persons. Other sets start at $34.75—open stock pieces as well.

Pay After Christmas!

DRESSER SET $3.95
50c weekly

34 Pc. Set Rogers $14.95
50c weekly

ANGUS McFEE Jewelers
216 Front St. Phone 128
USE YOUR CREDIT

ZOO IS LONELY BUT UNDAUNTED BY NAZI RAIDS

Monkeys Jittery but Most of Animals Show Little Fear Though Bombs Have Sought Them Several Times

By D. E. BURRITT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 5 (CP).—If you think this war is serious, you should hark to the woe of "Skinny", the 210-pound keeper at London's famous zoo in Regent's Park.

For not only have "Skinny" and his strange pals been bombed by German airmen but they [illegible] deserted by the thousands who professed to be their friends in [illegible] of peace.

Everybody is carrying on as usual, though the wide avenues that lead through endless rows of cages present a picture as melancholy as a deserted football stadium. Here and there little piles of debris or charred framework show where the zoo received fourteen high explosives and more than 100 incendiary bombs but "Skinny" says "nothing serious".

What really was serious for a time was the escape of thirty monkeys and a zebra, released when bombs damaged their cages. The zebra was chased through the park by the keepers and finally caught, while the monkeys came back of their own accord at mealtime.

So far, the animals have proved they "can take it", and aside from a slight tension in some of the cages when the siren screeches, they seem oblivious to the fact that an air raid is in progress.

Chimps Get Nerves.

About th eonly nervousness openly displaced is shown by Mrs. Bill, Alf and Fanny, the chimpanzees, who, at the first sound of the siren, scuttle into a corner and remain in a locked embrace like football players in a prolonged huddle. They remain silent, taking turns in twisting their heads far enough to discover what is going on behind their backs. In that position they remain until the "raiders-passed" signal is given.

The stubborn mountain goats, never happy unless they are risking their necks on the highest peak of their artificial mountain, ignore everything except feeding time. They did condescend to lift their heads momentarily when a bomb fell through their mountain and created a miniature volcano. But they didn't budge.

A little more temperamental are the giraffes, Tim and Susy, who lower their lanky necks to accept food from visitors—but they don't appear grateful. Even at that they won't eat anything except delicacies. The hippopotami aren't like that. They eat everything dumped into their cavernous mouths—and they don't dare take time to swallow until everything in sight has been lodged between their jaws. Air raids have made anything but "gastrics" out of them.

Camel Has A.R.P. Job.

Away off in another section, gentle "George", the big Dromedary who has carted thousands of children around on his back, is doing useful work. He is drawing truckloads of debris from bomb-damaged buildings and gets no extra food rations for his labor.

It's not that the animals are afraid of air raids. That's the least of "Skinny's" worries. "But they are lonely," he said as he leaned against the twisted bars of the cage that once housed the "Wild Asses".

"Why, there ain't no bloomin' company for them," he said dejectedly. "Not a bloomin' soul comes here on Sundays. Take a look down there, the place is barren. That's what it is. It's barren." And he tsared sadly down the broad concrete walks which normally would be jammed with men, women and children, trying to catch a peep of the never-ending circus.

50 Miles Daily To Help Troops

English Matron Circuits Big Area Daily With Tuck-Shop

London, Dec. 5 (CP).—Every day, rain or shine, Mrs. Madge Nicholson sets out from her home in East Anglia in a camouflaged van on a tour of Britain's bleakest marshlands to cheer the troops stationed along the North Sea.

She drives the van, which serves as a miniature village shop complete with cafe, fifty miles a day, sometimes through dense fog and in the blackout. The soldiers call her the "Florence Nightingale of the marshlands".

"I felt that something must be done for the boys stationed on this most desolate stretch of our coastline, where they remain for weeks without seeing a soul," she said. "With the help of the Women's Voluntary Services, who gave us £100 ($445), the County Council which gave £50 ($223) and local residents, we bought our van.

"Part of it is fitted up as a canteen in which we sell tea and cakes, specially made for us by the local confectioner. The other part, is equipped as a shop in which we sell everything from hair oil to birthday cards for sweethearts."

Mrs. Nicholson, who is helped by Mrs. C. B. Marshall, a fellow member of the W.V.S., said she travelled 4,100 miles in fourteen weeks, sold 20,700 cups of tea and 37,102 cakes. "Our shop is self-supporting," she added, "and if we happen to make a little profit we give the boys a free tea."

Air Vice-Marshal L. D. D. McKean

Chief Air Liaison Officer
United Kingdom Air Liaison Mission

(This is one of a series on military chiefs directing the armed forces in Canada.)

By KEN CLARK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
(Copyright, 1940, by The Canadian Press

Air Vice-Marshal L. D. D. McKean is the link between the British Air Ministry and the vast British Commonwealth Air Training plan stretching across Canada.

As he sits in his large bright office in the corner of the Jackson building in Ottawa, he has a telephone to London ready to his hand. The office is flanked by the liaison groups of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and out and away to east and west over the Atlantic and over the snowy plains of the west are the shadows of the wings of thousands of the Empire's young men.

Vice-Marshal McKean sits with his feet on the desk and smokes about three cigarettes an hour but not by timing. He says most people get around the awkwardness of calling Air-Vice Marshals Air-Vice Marshals by simply calling them Marshals. The terminology of the air force is new and complicated. For five years McKean was Chief Staff Officer to the Officer Commanding-in-Chief of the Training Command.

Veteran of the First Great War he was in prison in Germany three years. He escaped four times but they caught him every time and transferred him to another prison. The longest he was "out" was eight days. There were no "escape clubs" in Germany at that time but there was sort of free masonry among professional escapists who were informed by grapevine telegraph of what was going on.

Finally, for some reason he never discovered, he was exchanged and spent the last few months of the First Great War doing convoy patrol duty off the Yorkshire coast.

Adventure of 1915.

Mcean was "ditched" (crashed) three times before he and a machine gunner hit the water off a bit of enemy coast in the summer of 1915. They were flying a Henry Farnham, an all steel machine, and looking for submarines when they ran out of gas.

There was nothing for it but to strike out for the nearest land. When they struck the water both were thrown clear but the gunner whacked his head against something. In one way or another (presumably McKean helped his companion) they made the beach and were promptly put in durance vile by the German shore patrol.

McKean is a slim man, 54 years of age. To look at him he might be anywhere between 45 and 55, one of those spare Scots who attain a lightly fleshed middle-age and stay there indefinitely. He has a narrow face, the hair thinning backward and graying in contrast to a pair of heavy pointed eyebrows the color of iron rust. Beneath these the eyes are a startling blue. He looks a bit like the late Lord Tweedsmuir.

In undress mufti he wears a pair of gray flannel slacks with the seam elegantly emphasized, a light sweater for a vest and a blue blazer. On the little finger of his left hand he wears a heavy gold signet. The hands would go well around a golf club.

McKean's handicap has been down as far as twelve but he plays a better game of bridge. His bridge, in fact, is "not too bad". As to skiing to which he is looking forward, he learned in Switzerland where there's more open space than in the vicinity of Ottawa. He looks forward with some trepidation to doing slaloms around the trees.

Land, Sea and Air.

McKean is a Scot of lengthy residence in the far east and now at last in Ottawa. His parents were both Scotch and he was born in Ireland, "too long ago".

In 1904 he was in a naval crammer's school in Wales and in May he went into the King's Navy as a junior officer. Until 1914 he knocked around the globe in various ships, spending some years on China station. In 1914 he joined the Royal Naval Air Service and never thereafter went back to the sea—that is on ships.

When the Royal Air Force was formed combining the R.N.A.S. and the Royal Flying Corps, McKean went into that and in 1915 was instructing. One of his pupils was Air Vice-Marshal Goble, the Australian Chief of Liaison down the hall in Ottawa.

After the war the Air Vice-Marshal served two years at the Air Ministry and worked with an experimental torpedo squadron till the summer of 1924 when he went to Egypt to spend five years at the Heliopolis station. The work there was long range flying and during his stay he made the first flight from Egypt to Aden and back.

In 1929 he went home and served two more years at the Air Ministry, air staff department.

When the Air Vice-Marshal came to Canada in March his predecessor, Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, since named commander of the British forces in the Far East with plenipotentiary powers, noted that McKean had been closely associated with the expansion of the Royal Air Force training organization in Great Britain from the time of its peace establishment to the present dimensions.

Finds Airmen Keen.

This is what Air Vice-Marshal McKean sasy about the Canadian fliers now training:

"I've been around quite a bit and seen a large number of their establishments and two things seem to me to be particularly striking.

"One is the keenness to get on with the job. Of course there are 'teething' troubles, shortage of the equipment and that sort of thing and that's nobody's fault, it is inevitable. But what I say about the keenness applies equally to the service training schools and the preliminary civilian schools.

"I've seen a lot of the trainees, pilots, observers, radio operators and air gunners, and I found them all very, intelligent, well set up and smart. Of course I could say the same about our own men. This is a new generation. It knows its own mind.

"And the second thing is the keenness to do well, not to fall down on the courses and then to get across to the fighting."

Why do the boys want to get into the navy and the air force rather than the army. "Well," he said, "some one remarked—I wish I'd said it—'The navy could by some unimaginable catastrophe lose the war, the air force will win the war.' After that comes the army and consolidates."

The Air Vice-Marshal contemplates the future. He believes that this time the British will make sure there will be no repetition of this thing "we bought this twice, we won't buy it again."

He foresees the possibility of some sort of international air police to keep the order of the world. Aggressors would be bombed before they could start anything.

On the same day, a few months ago Air Vice-Marshal McKean received word that his only son and his nephew had been killed flying against the Germans.

Our Best Guarantee:
"FURRIERS IN BELLEVILLE FOR 36 YEARS"

FURS MAKE WARM FRIENDS!

When you are looking for HER Christmas Gift — choose Furs! Belleville's oldest Fur Store is ready to help you make the right selection.

COATS
JACKETS
SCARFS
MUFFS
HATS

BUDGET PAYMENTS

HUNDREDS OF
HATS

Woodley's Millinery Department is known to thousands of women who never think of going anywhere else for their hats. There's a style for every individual taste.

$1.95 to $8.50

WOODLEY • FURRIERS
273 FRONT STREET

"You'll never regret buying quality"
—Santa.

Gift Hose
CORTICELLI
HOSIERY
"THE GIFT SHE LOVES"

Sheer, medium or service weights, packaged in lovely Christmas boxes. In shades of Joyous, Coco, Splendor, Gardenia, Madelon, Grey and Taupe. Sizes 9 to 11. Pair

79c
to $1.50

EVENING SHAWLS
IMPORTED FINE WOOL, fringed 3.50
PURE SILK CHIFFONS, fringed, extra large. In shades of white, wine, royal, with floral designs 5.95

SCARVES
Sheer and lovely in color. Fine imported wools. Beautiful velvets.
59c to 2.95

Costume
Jewery
A SMART ASSORTMENT OF THE SEASON'S FAVORITES IN COSTUME JEWELRY!

Men's Scarves
White in silk and in wool, fancy stripes in fancy stitch wools and fine cashmeres, smart shades of blues, greens and wines.
1.00 to 2.50

Men's Fine Wool Hosiery
All types of designs and colors in different weights .... 39c to 1.00

Men's Ties
Always a welcome gift — fine selection of domestic and imported silk, and silk and wool ties.
ALL IN CHRISTMAS BOX .... 59c and 1.00

Men's Dressing Gowns
Silks, Flannels, Elderdown — plains and stripes — beautifully styled and tailored. Quantities are getting limited so shop early!

Men's Linen Handkerchiefs
Brown's pure Irish Linen handkerchiefs. Smart initialled handkerchiefs, each 25c
Plain Linen Handkerchiefs 25c 35c 50c

Chenille Bed Spreads
We now have a complete selection of lovely Chenille bed spreads. White with pastel colorings, solid colors or colored background with contrasting shades. Come and make your choice now. Prices from $2.95 each and up

An Ideal Gift!
Beautiful pure linen bridge sets (36" cloth with 4 serviettes). Embroidered, appanzel, mosaic and lace trim, in white or ecru. Limited supply only. Set 3.95

Linen Pieces
Madeira doilies, tray-cloths, place mats and runners. In white, ecru and ecru cut work. All sizes, squares, rounds and ovals to choose from. Other odd pieces in organdy with linen appliqued flowers 15c each and up

CUSHIONS
Chesterfield cushions, plain, quilted and shirred. Wine, gold, rose, rust, green and lovely assortment of shapes at .. 1.00 UP

Comforters
Satin reversible, plain or Paisley and flowered Cretonnes. Wool, feather or down filled. Priced to suit all, exceptional value as low as 5.95

NEW ARRIVALS
WOMEN'S SLIPS, embroidery top strap shoulder, adjustable straps. White only at 1.95
O.S. STRIPE GOWNS in white, tearose and blue at 2.50
GOWNS in white, embroidered front, wide shoulder. Sizes medium and large at 2.95
PANTIE and BRAS SETS, lace and embroidery trimming in tea rose and white. Small, medium, large. 1.59 - 1.00

Genuine
Leather
Hand
Bags

SEE OUR LARGE ASSORTMENT.... OUR MOTTO IS: "EVERYTHING IN BAGS"!

"His Favorite Gift"

MEN'S SHIRTS
FAMOUS TOOKE MAKE

Now is the time to make your selection while stocks are complete. Collar attached and separate collar styles in fancy and whites.

Collar Attached – 1.65, 2.00, 2.50
Separate Collar – 1.75, 2.25

CHILDREN'S SWEATERS
Fine wool pullover sweaters in fancy patterns. Some with colored embroidery — round or boat neck, long sleeves, 22-34 ...$1.59-$2.50

CHILDREN'S PYJAMAS
Warm pyjamas in two piece tuck in or Butcher Boy styles. Plain or fancy patterns. Sizes 2-14 ..79c-$1.69

ROMPERS
Smart rompers for small boys up to 3 years in Madeira, Broadcloth or Silk Crepe. Smocked or embroidered ....$1.00-$1.95

WOOL GLOVES
Varied assortment of wool or Angora gloves in plain or embroidered patterns. All shades ....79c-$3.75

SKI MITTS
Wool lined fine leather ski mitts, elastic at wrist and strap on cuff. Brown, red, green or blue. Sizes 4 to 8 .... $1.39 and $1.69

Flowered
SATIN GOWNS
and
BREAKFAST
COATS
TO MATCH!
Several different styles!
Gown - $2.95
Coat - $4.95

HOUSE COATS
... in flannel zipper and wrap-around closing L. S. in wine, white, copen, green, rose ... from
$2.95 to $7.95

McINTOSH BROS.
257 FRONT STREET PHONE 802

Letter Describes Customs in Newfoundland

Bonarlaw — A very interesting letter has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Mumby from their son Mr. Ralph Mumby, district manager of the D. K. McLaren Coy., in charge of the Maritimes and Newfoundland and located at Saint John, N.B.

Recently Ralph made a business trip to Newfoundland and states he travelled from one end to the other a distance of 547 miles. What he saw to write home about was as follows and is news to the average resident of Ontario:

All vehicles drive on the left side of the road as in England. Last year they voted whether this should be changed and decided in the negative as horses now are trained to turn left and it would take a generation of horses before this could be made right.

The trains run very slowly, averaging about 15 miles per hour only and on a narrow gauge track which is very winding in places.

The one large centre is St. Johns and it has a population about the same as Saint John, N.B. Many of the streets are paved but very few paved sidewalks and as a result many of the people walk on the roadway. There are good hotels. Blue berries seem very plentiful.

Ralph describes a double funeral he saw. The hearses were each drawn by a single black horse and were open style. Only mourners were in evidence and they walked behind the hearse regardless of the distance to the cemetery.

Ralph liked the people of Newfoundland very much. He found them very sociable and friendly and states they enjoy having visitors.

x x x

The euchre and social evening sponsored by Group No. 3 of the Springbrook Womens' Institute and held on Friday evening of last week in the Orange Hall, Springbrook, was a real success although owing to the weather the attendance was not as large as expected. Euchre, Chinese checkers and bingo kept everyone busy and happy and an abundant lunch of sandwiches, steaming coffee and tarts of all descriptions satisfied the inner man.

The prizes were won by Mr. Geo. E. Thompson and Mrs. Geo. Williams for euchre and for Chinese checkers by Mrs. Hiram Mumby and Miss Della Cassidy.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Caldwell returned home on Friday last from Toronto where they have been visiting friends and relatives for several days.

Mr. Fred Seeney, a former resident of Bonarlaw, was in town for a few hours on Friday. He is shortly taking a position with the C.P.R. as operator in the Maritimes and his family will reside in Marmora.

Mr. Glynn Eastwood left on Friday for Oshawa where he has secured a position.

Mr. Clarence McComb of Toronto spent the week-end with friends in this vicinity.

Miss Marion Richardson spent the week-end at Campbellford and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. R. McGee and Donna were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barlow on Monday evening of this week.

Reeve G. B. Bedford, Treasurer John Thompson and Clerk W. J. Barlow attended a Municipal Instruction class held in Belleville on Monday of this week.

Rawdon

Rawdon — On Friday evening Mount Pleasant Rawdon Young Peoples Union presented a play entitled "Governor Joe's Amen," staged by Ivanhoe talent.

Mr. Irvin Reid was chairman for the occasion and extended greetings on behalf of the young people. Miss Hilda Kilpatrick furnished music before the play and between acts. Misses Ruth Rose and Lois Weaver with Mrs. Kenneth Weaver as accompanist, sang "Playmates," and Rev. S. Delve delighted with two piano accordion numbers.

Mrs. Arthur Woods introduced the characters as follows:

Governor Joe Howard, Mr. Arthur Wood; Bruce Howard, his son, Mr. Malcolm McMillan; Morris Duke, Bruce's friend, Mr. Frank Palmer; Larry Davis, criminal lawyer, Mr. Elmer Rollins; Mr. Blow, carpet cleaner, Rev. S. Delve; Mr. Beat, carpet cleaner, Mr. George Wood; Gale Howard, the governor's daughter, Mrs. George Wood; Alicia Howard, the governor's sister, Miss Phyllis Twiddy; Lellie Howard, the governor's wife, Mrs. Frank Palmer; Mrs. Jim Connor, a heart-broken mother, Mrs. Stanley Prest; Jennie, the maid, Miss Marjorie Prest.

The stage was nicely arranged and the scenes of all three acts took place in the living room of the governor's mansion. The play was full of humor and pathos and was well presented by the artists.

The league executive served lunch to the cast at the close and the proceeds were over twenty dollars.

Mrs. Emma MacMullen, Springbrook, is holidaying at the home of her brother, Mr. A. D. Runnalls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shortt entertained over twenty members of Bethel Young People's Union to a wiener and bun party Thursday evening. The new president, Miss Kida McMullen, presided and the service opened with "Blest be the Tie That Binds." Miss Marjorie Brady read part of the 119th Psalm. A humorous reading was given by Mr. B. C. Tucker and a comical number by Mrs. Don Heath. Mrs. Sam Elliott staged a contest "Parts of the Body," and Rev. J. E. Beckel presented "a Quiz." Several interesting games were staged and the proceeds was over three dollars.

Mrs. Warren Reid visited Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sanderoock, Belleville, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morton were recent guests of Dr. and Mrs. Roy Hendry, Toronto.

Misses Jean and Isabel Preston, Peterborough, spent a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Preston.

Burrs

Burrs — This district was no exception regarding weather conditions over the week-end and found itself blanketed with a generous depth of snow. Some were unable to reach home Saturday night due to road conditions and the local church service was cancelled Sunday afternoon for the same reason. Sunday evening the county road maintainer was a welcome sight as it passed, opening the Wellington town line road for traffic. A sleigh, cutter and two cars were the only vehicles in this immediate vicinity.

The Ameliasburg electoral contest however called for action and consequently many township roads were opened Sunday evening and during the night. Though weather conditions were none too favorable Monday, party stalwarts worked hard and a close vote was polled by all seeking election.

Congratulations are extended to the successful candidates and may 1941 prove them to be a worthy choice.

Mrs. Fred File graciously served coffee and light refreshments Monday evening to members of the Ameliasburg council.

The Ameliasburg and Hillier Agricultural Society during the past summer selected Ignatius Nightingale and Murney Parks to choose sides from the officers of this society to sell membership tickets for the fair, the losing officers were to provide oysters for the winning side when all officers and their wives would be entertained at a supper at the Masonic Hall, Ameliasburg. Weather permitting, it will be held soon.

Monday evening, November 25th., the Y.P.U. met at the Orange Hall, Allisonville, with a good attendance. The Devotional period was in charge of Miss Betty Bongard, Crofton, who gave a splendid missionary paper on the life of Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, recently deceased. The recreation hour was in charge of Miss Gladys Werden, Christian St., and provided much enjoyment.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Campbell, Hillier, were Thursday evening dinner guests with Mr. and Mrs. Val Squire.

Owing to a faulty brake an airplane with two occupants was forced to land at the Mountain View airport Tuesday forenoon. No one was injured and it will be flown back to Trenton after repairs are made.

Mrs. Ross Burr returned home Friday after spending several days with her mother, Mrs. M. M. Werden, who is slowly recovering from a severe attack of rheumatism.

Miss Norma Harris spent Saturday night with Miss Muriel Burkitt.

Mrs. J. E. Moran called on Mrs. David Fox, Jericho, Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Val Squire spent Sunday at the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Purtelle, Crofton.

Mrs. Norman Price, Mountain View, and her brother, Mr. Reddick Hastings, returned home Monday after visiting their cousin, Mrs. J. R. Marvin. Mr. Reddick has spent twenty-eight years of his life in a lumber camp.

Deloro Safety Committee Hears Monthly Reports

Marmora — The regular monthly meeting of the Deloro Safety Committee was held in the electric shop on Monday afternoon with R. A. Elliott presiding. Three suggestions were reported as having been received in the past month. No awards were made. The star is retained by the Silver Plant.

The report of the Inspection Committee was given by W. L. Rigg and that of the Health and Investigation Committee by W. M. Regan. C. H. Buskard presented the monthly statement of the Benevolent Relief Funds and I. H. Hemphill reported for the Publicity Committee after which the meeting adjourned.

The local N.P.A.M. unit held a route march on No. 14 Highway on Monday evening.

Messrs W. Hart, B. Kouri and E. Leonard spent the week-end in Toronto.

Wooler

Wooler—Guests at the home of Rev. S. A. York on Friday evening and Saturday were, Mr. Bert Wilson of Cardinal, Miss Kate Brown, Rev. J. E. Black and Rev. H. R. Whiting, B.A., of Ottawa.

Mr. S. L. Terrill was in Toronto during the week-end.

Miss Eva Masters spent the week-end with Miss Gwena Elford.

On Saturday night, Mrs. Ken Gotsel with her children moved their household effects to Brighton where they will take residence.

When loading cattle, Mr. Maurice Herrington sustained a bone fracture in his leg.

Mr. Jack Morgan of Trenton was a guest of his parents recently.

Miss Myrtle Dawson is in Morganston visiting her grandparents for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beatty of Toronto were recent guests of Mr. Maurice Herrington.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Maybee were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ireland.

Mrs. Edgar Shaw of Sault St. Marie is a guest of her sister, Mrs. J. C. Herrington and Cooney.

On a recent Wednesday evening a very successful bean supper was held at the Carman church. Rev. W. T. R. Delve was guest speaker and the well prepared program was interesting.

Mrs. George Adams on Wednesday of last week attended a bazaar sponsored by the O.E.S. at Belleville and reports a good sale and an enjoyable time.

Rev. Father Black at his home on Sunday afternoon officiated at the christening of baby McAuley (Joseph Henry) son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McAuley, Miss Rose Cummings, Reg. Nurse at St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough and her brother, Private Joe Cummings of Picton, were godparents at the ceremony.

Guests at the home of Rev. S. A. York at the tea hour and over the night were Rev. John Woodland and Mr. O. Barry of Sydenham, Ontario.

Mrs. A. Sharpe, Mrs. S. Sharpe and Miss Eva Masters accompanied Mr. W. J. Lawson to Trenton on Monday where they called on relatives.

Murray Township Council

The regular meeting of Murray Township Council was held in the Council Chambers on Friday, November 15th., with members all present and the Reeve, W. H. Morrow, presiding.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The following orders were drawn on the Treasurer:

Regular:

Angus Gunter, 1-4 salary, $50.00; W. J. Stacey, six court sittings, $24.00; Murray and Brighton Telephone Company, $2.25; Whittier and Company, 1,000 relief vouchers, $6.00, tax 8 per cent, .48c, mail .56c, $7.04.

Resolutions:

It was moved by C. B. Jandrew and seconded by C. L. Whaley, that road voucher No. 18 for from November 1st. to November 15th be passed.—Carried.

It was moved by C. L. Whaley and seconded by W. H. Morrow, that the Township of Murray buy 5,000 ft. of snow fence at .07c per foot and 350 posts at .37c each—$479.50.—Carried.

It was moved by C. B. Jandrew and seconded by C. L. Whaley, that the poolroom licence be renewed for a year from December 5th, 1940, to December 5th, 1941, payable half-yearly at $30.00 a year in E. L. McAuley's name.—Carried.

Nomination held on November 2nd. Meeting adjourned to meet again January, 1941.

David Teal,
Clerk.

The members of the Murray Township Council presented their Reeve, Warden Herman Morrow, a golden chain with locket.

HOW TO HELP PREVENT MANY COLDS From Developing

Quick—Put a Few Drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up your nose at the first sniffle, sneeze, or sign of catching cold and let its stimulating action aid Nature's defenses against the cold.

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

"I'm Going to Ask You Belleville Folks for INFORMATION on WHY YOU PREFER TIP TOP CLOTHES!"

"I wear Tip Top clothes because their better British woolens give me more smartness and more service for my money."
"I'm sold on the quality tailoring in Tip Top Clothes. I know from my own experience that they can 'take it', yet always look in style."
"It's the up-to-the-minute style of Tip Top Clothes that gets my vote."
"Tip Top have made my mannish-tailored clothes for years, and I've never had smarter outfits in my life."
"I've got a hard figure to fit —but Tip Top gives me a perfect fit every time."

"Thank you, folks. Your comments prove conclusively that Tip Top still leads in Tailored-to-Measure Style; Fit and Value—as it has for years!"

LADIES! Tip Top will individually tailor your mannish coat or suit to your measurements from your selection of fabrics and styles : : $28.75

$27.50

Hand-cut and Individually Tailored to Your Personal Measurements

TIP TOP TAILORS Limited

STORES EVERYWHERE

N. C. WILBUR, Manager

298 Front St. Phone 2154

TT15-F-40

McNABB'S

Christmas COAT Sale!

15% to 30% DISCOUNT

Have that luxury furred Winter Coat you want for Christmas . . . at the big savings you expect in January! Richly furred with 1941's luxury furs, beautifully tailored in fine woollens. Chose from silver fox, mink, beaver, other rich furs . . . in plastrons, side borders, waist deep collars, fur jackets atop untrimmed coats. Black, browns, newest colors. Sizes for misses, women, juniors, half sizes. Warmly interlined. Buy yours today!

Christmas DRESS Sale!

SPECIAL GROUPS of high-priced Dresses reduced for this special event. Just the frock you want may be among these groups at a substantial saving.

BUY NOW!

The J. A. McNABB Ltd.

PHONE 444 — BELLEVILLE — 254 FRONT ST.

If it's a SPORTING GIFT he'll like it!

Those males on your list —from 6 to 65—will be pleased as punch with a gift for their favourite sports. And TOWNSEND'S is Belleville's favourite sporting goods house. Put the two together and there'll be a Merry Christmas . . right now and for years to come!

C. C. M.

Matched Sets

Juvenile .... 3.49 - 4.35
Adults ...... 4.85 - 24.00
Juvenile Figure Skates .... 9.25 - 13.75
Ladies' Figure Skates, ... 10.95 - 28.00
Men's Figure Skates ...... 13.95 - 27.50

SKIS

1.50 - 23.00

Harness ...... 1.25 - 7.50
Poles .... 1.00 - 9.00
Gloves .... 1.75 - 4.00
Wax 35c

Table Tennis

Sets .... 2.50 - 10.00
Bats, each .. 70c - 2.75
Balls .... 5c - 15c
Posts and Nets .... 1.25 - 3.50

HOCKEY EQUIPMENT

Shin Pads .... 75c - 6.00
Pants .... 1.50 - 5.00
Gloves .... 1.98 - 13.50
Stockings ...... 1.25. Toques 65c
Sweaters ...... 2.35 Pucks 25c
Sticks .... 25c - 2.50

MODEL AIRCRAFT

Cmplete Kits .... 10c - 1.00
Basketball Shoes .... 3.50 - 7.50
Snow Boots 5.95

TOBOGGANS

4 ft. to 9 ft. .... 2.50 - 9.00

BADMINTON

Racquets .... 3.95 - 16.00
Presses .... 90c. Shoes 3.25
Birds, each .... 20c - 45c dozen .... 2.00 - 3.50

TOWNSEND'S SPORT SHOP

25 CAMPBELL ST. BELLEVILLE PHONE 66M

BUSY WOMEN MAN EAST PORT CLUB A SAILORS' REST

Once Society Centre Fort Massey of Halifax Becomes Meeting-Place of Sea Fighters of Canadian and Allied Nations

By DOUG HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Dec. 5 (CP).—A stately old mansion stands today as Canada's contemporary monument to the men of the navies of Britain and her allies.

They used to call it Fort Massey in the old days when it was a proud rendezvous for Halifax society. Now, rescued from days of decay, it's the Ajax Club of Canada, an organization in which every non-officer of the Royal Navy holds a membership that didn't cost him a cent. Every man of the Royal Canadian and allied navies is an honorary member.

The staff offers a lesson unselfishness. Wife of a surgeon lieutenant-commander of the R.C.N.V.R., Mrs. C. Stuart McEuen of Montreal is the club "controller" and the woman who by letter has brought a flood of donations from every corner of the nation.

She and all other members of the staff are serving voluntarily. The house supervisor is Miss Joan Hodson of New York, daughter of a retired English naval officer. The librarian is Mhairia MacLeod Fenton of Montreal and the secretary and treasurer, Misses Isobel and Edith MacNeill are daughters of a Dalhousie University professor.

The unsalaried chauffeur for the club is Miss Moira Drummond of Montreal, daughter of the late celebrated Canadian poet. She will bring invalided seamen to the club and take the sailors on trips through the country.

Out of the alleged coldness of its heart, big business has joined with well-to-do Canadians and a few Americans to create what officials have termed "a national tribute".

Contributions, some of them running into the thousands, range from a supply of coal for the duration to a station wagon and complete furnishings for the two main lounges.

Meals and Reading.

The house is big enough, officials say, to accommodate between 400 and 500 at a time and meals can be served to 100. Food will be served at cost price and gifts of several companies will enable it to be cut even lower. For instance, one firm has promised a weekly supply of ham.

The library already has more than 800 books and its objective is 3,000. Donald Neville Willing, well known New York charity worker, has contributed 600 and, in addition, has generously offered to keep the club supplied with pens and stationery for the duration.

As a gesture of friendship, the library will have Dutch and Norwegian books and will take a weekly Gaelic newspaper. Hollywood's movie greats have contributed by sending along autographed photos wishing the members good luck.

Men of both the R.N. and the R.C.N. have been doing their share for the past two months. For instance, the book cases of the library are the handiwork of a Canadian shipwright. Discipline in the club will be up to the seamen themselves.

Actually, the club is a branch of the activities of the Interallied Hospitality and Food Fund, a registered war charity. Spacious grounds and an equally spacious house make it an equally spacious house make it down to the sea in warships to spend their leisure hours.

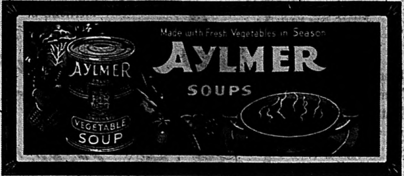
EVE'S TWO FACES HER MONEY-MAKER

Hollywood, Dec. 5 (CP).—"Two-faced" might be fighting words to some, but they're sweet music to Eve Arden of the movies.

She's proud of her two faces—so proud she almost has developed two voices to go with them.

Looking at the left side you see a small eye, outstanding cheek bone, drawn cheek. She's the vixen type. The other angle is strictly ingenue. The eyebrow turns up more, her cheek is full, her right eye smiles brightly.

"I can look my mood without changing my expression," she says. "All I do is turn my head. Saves a lot of bother."



Send for folder describing the AYLMER Silverware Offer. Shows the many pieces of genuine Tudor Plate (oneida community) available. You use your AYLMER Soup Labels as part payment. Write for your free copy to-day.
CANADIAN CANNERS LIMITED, Dept. BI HAMILTON, ONT.

COLORFUL LIFE ONCE CANADIAN ENDED BY BOMB

Once a Prairie Court Clerk, Englishman Gained Fame and Fortune in South Africa and Australia

London, Dec. 5 (CP).—Hugh Sewell Kingdon, whose adventurous career carried him to the four quarters of the globe—and through three fortunes—is dead, victim of a Nazi air raid.

Notice of his death gained little attention in the London newspapers, although during his lifetime of some sixty years Kingdon was one of the empire's most romantic characters. Once controller of property valued later at £1,000,000 ($4,450,000), he was a humble clerk in a suburban town when killed by a bomb.

Canadians probably won't remember Kingdon but at the age of fifteen he was clerk to a court of summary jurisdiction in Saskatchewan. The following year he toiled as a reporter in Manitoba. Two years previously he had gone to Alaska in a gold rush.

Outside of his fellow countrymen, South Africans probably knew Kingdon best. He went there after leaving Canada to fight in the Boer war and stayed to become, at the age of twenty, one of the largest real estate men in the Transvaal.

South African Magnate.

Later he became right-hand man of an American insurance and theatrical magnate in South Africa and returned to England with a considerable fortune. He lost this in unfortunate deals.

Speculating again with the remnants of his wealth, he started an ambitious scheme for the emigration of British settlers to South African orange groves. Two successive droughts ruined the crops, the scheme crashed and Kingdon again was a poor man.

Still in England, he launched his biggest venture with a £5 ($22.25) note. He took an option on a row of Georgian houses in undeveloped Streatham Hill and inspired, designed and built an undertaking valued later at nearly £1,000,000 ($4,450,000). But he lost all his interest in the venture he created and for several years worked in a small office position.

Another of his lucrative exploits followed a sudden decision during a tour of the United States to buy the filming rights of a world championship fight. He took the film to Australia, carrying it by hand in a box, exhibited it throughout the Commonwealth and made £10,000 ($44,500) in ten weeks.

Kingdon was a colorful and sometimes flamboyant character. In his prosperous days he smoked twelve expensive cigars a day, one before breakfast, which consisted of whisky and cream. He professed socialism. Even in his palmiest days he enjoyed a game of darts in the tap room.

"ESTATE" COURSE AT GIRLS' SCHOOL

Morristown, N.J., Dec. 5 (CP).—They're teaching a new course at Miss Gill's School for Girls in the nearby Mendham hills—how to live on an estate. The lessons teach themselves. They consist of taking over and operating a mansion of thirty rooms and forty acres of land.

The home was that of the late John F. Dryden, life insurance executive. It was spared from a house wrecking crew at bequest of the school.

Young Folk Take To Square Dance

And With City People Flocking to Barn Dances Old Art Coming Back, Expert Says

Ithaca, N.Y., Dec. 5 (CP).—They are swinging their partners these days with more "do-see-do" than in many a year. The old-fashioned square dance is not only on the way back, experts are convinced, but its revival has taken on the proportions of a craze.

With the youngsters being the first to take the floor when the fiddle begins to sing, and the city folk flocking to barn dances so much that the dances are actually profitable, it appears that an old art form is being hauled out of mothballs and put to work.

What interests William M. Smith, Jr., of Cornell University's Department of Rural Sociology, is that the square dance is re-emerging in more modern attire than when it was tucked away.

"However," says Smith, "folk dances have always been adapted in music and steps to the needs of different times and places. Each community had, and still has, its favorite calls and steps and will argue with those who favor another caller or another type of dance."

Smith, prying curiously into what has caused the square dance to come back, has a theory forming that swing music caused the louping feet of dancers to fall back into the old, lusty patterns of rural terpsichore. He's not sure yet, and won't commit himself.

But he does know from his studies that the old-time dances are attracting more youngsters than ever before.

Nazis Use Brandy For Gasoline Pep

Occupied France Feels Pinch of German Heel With the Gestapo Found Everywhere

London, Dec. 5 (CP).—Seeking desperately for all possible resources, the Germans are using 60-year-old brandy in the cognac land of Charente to pep up gasoline for their bombers, a Frenchman said on arrival here from his home city of Bordeaux.

Since the beginning of July, even in Bordeaux, where once people lived on the fat of the land, food is becoming scarce, he said. Women of every class and degree of wealth line up in long queues each morning to be doled out what the Germans have not requisitioned.

"My countrymen are finding ways and means of slowing up production, of stopping supplies to the Germans," he added. "I know of many wagons loaded up in the south destined for occupied France which reach their destination empty."

The refugee said no part of France is unoccupied. There are Gestapo agents in civilian dress in every town and hamlet. "In the cafes, trains or trams you feel their ears and eyes everywhere."

Does Everybody Know This?

asks Mary Blake

A friend said, "Don't waste your advertising space telling about Carnation Milk for creaming coffee. Everybody knows that."

I wonder if everybody does know what a great difference using Carnation Milk makes to coffee—gives it a tempting, golden-brown colour—brings out the full, smooth, rich flavour. Try it!

What Carnation does for coffee, it does for all creaming—on cereals, in cream soups and sauces, in ice cream—in fact in every dish in which it is used.

The heat treatment and homogenization which make Carnation Milk safe and smoothly creamy also make it much more digestible as an infant food. Carnation is just whole milk with part of the natural water taken out; sterilized so it keeps on the pantry shelf indefinitely; homogenized to give every drop equal creamy smoothness; irradiated for extra "sunshine" vitamin D.

There are glorified recipes of all kinds in the beautifully illustrated deluxe Carnation Cook Book—15¢ (postpaid). Carnation Company Limited, Toronto, Ontario.

Making Coffee Better
Use good coffee. It will pay you in flavour. Use the correct grind. Many coffees now come in two grinds—"regular" for boiling or percolating; "drip" for drip or glass coffee makers. Use enough coffee—a heaping tablespoonful for each cup, and one for the pot. Boil or percolate about ten minutes. Drip coffee-makers time themselves. Do not let boiled coffee stand with grounds in it for any time. Cream with undiluted Carnation Milk.

For Real Economy!
FRY'S COCOA
403
Write for Recipe Book "Favourite Cocoa and Chocolate Recipes," sent Free. Fry-Cadbury Ltd., Montreal

IRRADIATED
Carnation Milk
A CANADIAN PRODUCT

LOBLAWS FINE FOODS for CHRISTMAS
QUALITY · PRICE · CLEANLINESS

PEEL
RAISINS
CURRANTS
NUTS
GLACE FRUITS
DATES
FIGS
SPICES
EXTRACTS

PEEL

Cut Mixed	½-lb. Tin or Pkg.	13¢
Cut Mixed	1-lb. Pkg.	24¢
Turned Down Caps—Mixed Lemon, Orange & Citron	lb.	30¢
Turned Down Caps Orange and Lemon	lb.	28¢
Turned Down Caps Citron Peel	lb.	33¢
Saxonia Cut Lemon or Orange 2	4-oz. Pkgs.	15¢
Saxonia Cut Citron Peel 2	3-oz. Pkgs.	15¢

RAISINS

Australian with Seeds Lexia Raisins	lb.	12¢
Australian Fancy Seeded Lexias	lb.	14¢
Australian Golden Sultana Raisins	lb.	16¢
South African Sultanas Bleached Raisins	lb.	18¢
Australian Recleaned Seedless Raisins	lb.	9¢
California Thompson Seedless Raisins	lb.	14¢
Australian Recleaned Currants 2	lbs.	25¢

SHELLED NUTS

Blanched ALMONDS	¼-lb.	18¢
WALNUTS	Pieces ½-lb.	20¢
BRAZILS	¼-lb. Pkg.	13¢
FILBERTS	¼-lb. Pkg.	12¢
PECANS	¼-lb. Pkg.	21¢
ALMONDS	¼-lb. Pkg.	14¢

NUTS IN SHELL

Fancy Polished BRAZILS	lb.	19¢
EXTRA Large Polished PECANS Papershell	lb.	21¢
Diamond Budded WALNUTS	lb.	24¢

LOBLAW'S SUPERIOR MIXED NUTS
A choice selection of Diamond Budded Walnuts, Large Papershell Pecans, Polished round Filberts, Large washed Brazils, Soft Shell Almonds...... lb. 19¢

LOBLAW'S Prepared Almond Paste	8-oz. Pkg.	19¢
Rowe's Almond Icing	1-lb. Tin	36¢

GLACE FRUITS

Saxonia Select Crystallized Ginger	3-oz. Pkg.	13¢
LIBERTY Brand Fancy Pineapple Twins	3-oz. Pkg.	13¢
Liberty Brand—Assorted Colours Pineapple Rings	Each	5¢
Red or Green Glace Cherries	¼-lb. Pkg.	10¢
Aylmer Assorted	¼-lb. Pkg.	9¢
Liberty Red Maraschino CHERRIES	3-oz. Bottle	9¢

MINCEMEAT

Home Made Style Mrs. Hamilton's	1-lb. Carton	15¢
Economy Brand	1-lb. Carton	12¢
Moist Mincemeat Happy Vale	2-lb. Tin	23¢

DATES

SAIR PITTED	1-lb. Pkg.	15¢
Karavan Stoneless	9-oz. Pkg.	16¢
Extra Selected Golden Hallowi 2	lb.	25¢

FIGS

Extra Fancy California Black Figs	lb.	19¢
Natural Genuine Smyrna Cooking Figs	lb.	15¢
Blue Ribbon Calimyrna Table Figs	8-oz. Pkg.	14¢
Blue Ribbon Black Layer Figs	8-oz. Pkg.	10¢

PRICES EFFECTIVE UNTIL SATURDAY NIGHT, Dec. 7. We reserve the right to limit quantities of all merchandise to family weekly requirements.

● Choice PRIME BEEF Roasts ●

SPECIAL LEAN BONELESS POT ROAST	lb.	15c
Special—Choice BONELESS RIB ROAST	lb.	27¢
Special—Fancy PORTERHOUSE ROAST	lb.	29¢
HEINZ LARGE SIZE DILL PICKLES 3 for		10¢
PURE RENDERED BEEF FAT	1-oz. Mould	5¢
PORK SHOULDERS PICNIC STYLE—HOCK OFF—FRESH	"Special" lb.	15¢
PORK BUTT ROASTS FRESH and LEAN	"Special" lb	19¢
Special—Fresh Meaty Spring LAMB LEGS	lb.	25¢

STORE HOURS:
8 A.M. to 6 P.M.
SATURDAY
8 A.M. to 11 P.M.

APPLES
ARE GOOD and GOOD FOR YOU!

EXTRA FANCY BRITISH COLUMBIA DELICIOUS APPLES	Jumbo Size, 72's	6 for 19c
SELECTED ONTARIO DOMESTIC GRADE GREENING APPLES	6-quart Basket	29c
SELECTED ONTARIO DOMESTIC GRADE McINTOSH RED APPLES	6-quart Basket	39c
SELECTED DOMESTIC GRADE SPY APPLES	4 lbs.	19c

SPECIAL—Freshly Cut Ontario No. 1 Grade Mushrooms lb. 25c

SELECTED QUALITY ONTARIO RUTABAGAS Per lb. 2c
WAXED YELLOW TURNIPS

NEW SEASON'S CALIFORNIA SEEDLESS NAVEL ORANGES
A choice of at least two sizes in every store—at the usual Loblaw Low Prices.

FRESH ARRIVAL FLORIDA JUICE ORANGES Med. size 288's, doz. 15c

Special—CLARK'S—In Chili Sauce Pork & Beans 2 20 Fl. oz. Tins 15¢
ROBINSON'S RASPBERRY or STRAWBERRY JAM With added pectin 2-lb. Jar 23¢

Attractive Biscuit FEATURES:
Special— Weston's Soda Wafers
GOLDEN BROWN 11-oz. Pkg. 14¢ PLAIN SODAS 16-oz. Large Pkg. 17¢
Special—McCORMICK'S BONNIE BRAE SHORTBREAD BISCUITS lb. 15¢
Average 44 to the pound.
Special—MANNING'S Biscuits Chocolate Aces Per lb. 19¢
A Tasty Chocolate-Coated Biscuit — Average 70 to pound.

LOBLAW'S ENGLISH Double-Filled CHRISTMAS CRACKERS

JOLLY-TYME
Each Cracker contains a Hat or Cap and Toy, Joke or Rhyme, and Snaps. BOX OF 12...... 57¢
MERRYMAKER
A More Elaborate Cracker containing a Crepe Hat or Cap and Toy, Joke or Rhyme, and Snaps. BOX OF 12 .... 99¢

LOBLAWS FAMOUS PLAIN or ICED CHRISTMAS CAKE

ICED		PLAIN
		1-lb. Cake	37¢
2-lb. Cake	79¢	2-lb. Cake	74¢
3-lb. Cake	$1.14	3-lb. Cake	$1.09
4-lb. Cake	$1.49	4-lb. Cake	$1.43

Loblaw's Famous CHRISTMAS Candy Mixture
A delightful assortment of hard candies.
2 lbs. 27c

FESTIVE Creams and Gums
2 lbs. 27c

ASSORTED CHOCOLATES 4-lb. Box 83¢
A delicious Family box of assorted Hard and Soft Centres. Exceptional value.

MINIATURE CHOCOLATES 2-lb. Box 53¢
A pleasing assortment of dainty little chocolates. Hard and Soft Centres. Average count 60 to the pound.

Brighten Up For CHRISTMAS
Lace Mazda Lamps
INSIDE FROSTED
25, 40, 60, 100 Watt.
Each .... 20¢
25 Watt Colored, Each .... 30¢
FLAME SHAPED Frosted or Colored, 25 Watt, Each 25¢

ONE GIFT that is always appreciated
A Food Hamper
Specially prepared with a good assortment of Christmas and staple foods.

Sliced or Unsliced COTTAGE Brand BREAD Brown or White 2 24-oz. Loaves 15¢

LOBLAW'S CHRISTMAS PUDDINGS
1 lb. without Bowl... 33¢
1 lb. with Bowl 39¢

ROBINSON'S ORANGE MARMALADE	2-lb. Jar	21¢
KELLOGG'S PEP 2	10-oz. Pkgs.	23¢
KELLOGG'S KRUMBLES 2	Pkgs	23¢
BEAVER Brand BONELESS CHICKEN	7-oz. Tin	21¢
Glenwood Bartlett PEARS	15 Fl. oz. Tin	12¢
STANDARD Quality PEAS	20 Fl. oz. Tin	8¢
SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR	44-oz. Pkg.	22¢
Shells or Ready Cut Bulk MACARONI	lb.	4¢
TIGER Brand Tomato CATSUP	26-oz. Large Bottle.	15¢
SUNSWEET PRUNES	1-lb. Pkg.	16¢
LIBBY'S EVAP. MILK	16-oz. Tall Tin..	7¢
Kellogg's ALL BRAN	10-oz. Pkg.	11¢
PEERLESS Brand Wheat Puffs 2 for	6-oz. Pkg.	13¢
AYLMER FANCY FRUITS for Salad	15 Fl. oz. Tin	19¢
BABBITT'S CLEANSER 2	Tins	9¢

Makes an Ideal CHRISTMAS GIFT
TWO YEAR OLD COLOURED BABY STILTON CHEESE $1.65
Cellophane Wrapped and Cartoned. 5½ lbs. or over EACH

It is a distinctive PLEASURE to serve LOBLAW'S
PRIDE of ARABIA COFFEE 39¢
Very Fine or Medium Ground — 1-lb. Bag
TWO-CUP COFFEE 1-lb. Bag 35¢
Very Fine or Medium Ground
TRUMPET COFFEE 31¢
Medium Ground—1-lb. Bag

LOBLAW GROCETERIAS CO. LIMITED
HEAD OFFICE, TORONTO.

Superintendent Dairy School Addresses Cheese Convention On "A Democratic Industry"

Following is text of address given by Mr. A. L. Gibson at Cheese Makers' Convention Wednesday morning.

Dairy conventions do not appeal to me as a suitable time for delivering a technical address on some phase of dairy science or manufacture. The classroom seems more appropriate for such an address when one's mind is not disturbed with other matters, and explanations and discussions may be freely made. I have therefore chosen the title of my address "A Democratic Industry" to discuss with you ideas which I think should be uppermost in our minds at this most critical period in the history of our country and empire if not the whole world.

Dairy Industry Democratic

When I speak of a Democratic Industry, I have in mind the Dairy Industry of Canada. At first I thought of the Cheese Industry only, but this branch is like all branches of the Dairy Industry so interdependent on the others, that we must consider the state of the whole tree first before dealing specifically with the branch we are most interested in.

In calling the Dairy Industry democratic, I am thinking of the important part it should play in the present war, whereby the fate of Democracy and all democratic institutions will be determined. Should the forces against Democracy, call them Totalitariansm, Nazism, Facism or any other ism, gain the mastery of this world by force, and since we last met a year ago they have gone a long way towards doing this, then we shall be no longer free to discuss any industry as democratic. It is my desire to endeavour to direct your thoughts to the tremendous obligation which rests upon everyone of us in maintaining our industry truly democratic and thereby playing our part in what must now be recognized as a life and death struggle of Canada and the British Empire.

Meaning of Democracy

Now I wonder if we are clear as to what we mean by Democracy. A dictionary definition states that it it is "Government by the people; a system of government in which the sovereign power of the state is vested in the people as a whole, and is exercised directly by them or their elected agents". The last three words of this definition seems to be to offer a loophole on the part of the individual to evade personal responsibility by passing it on to elected agents or in other words the government. Thus when adversity, mistakes and inefficiency result, we very conveniently place the blame on the government, council or whatever governing body it may be and evade personal responsibility.

Recently I listened to a talk by a prominent writer, in which he stated that "The Democratic Ideal is the noblest political vision yet given to man". Most Anglo Saxon people are of this belief. Hence the reason why many are willing of their own free will and accord to sacrifice their lives in fighting for such an ideal. Now an ideal is a standard or model of perfection which must always be striven for, though never completely attained. If man attained perfection, interest in life would soon fade away. The glory and fascination of human life is in striving to reach perfection no matter in what sphere it may be.

Indifference to Democratic Achievement

Possibly it is because of the inevitable progress made in striving to attain the Democratic ideal that we have become somewhat indifferent in the past twenty odd years. We have been content to muddle through, enjoying the liberties we have gained in terms of extra leisure, pleasure, and the comforts of modern inventions such as motor cars, radios, refrigerators etc. Not that we should deprive ourselves of these benefits to mankind, but we should ever remember that we are all under personal obligation to strive for further attainment to better the lot of future generations in the manner that our ancestors strove to make progress in this world for us.

Democratic Ideal and the Dairy Industry

With this democratic ideal in mind of striving to attain a model of perfection, let us consider how we are conducting the Dairy Industry. We have allowed this industry to become split up into many branches with a separate organization for each branch. All branches depend on the fundamental raw product of milk for their existence. Thus we may look upon milk as the root supporting the Dairy Industry tree. After many years of thorough investigation into the chemical composition, production, and food value of milk, it has become the general practice to pay for milk in this province, on a fat basis. To all who have studied the composition of milk and its variation this is obviously the most fair basis yet devised. Unfortunately, when it became compulsory to pay for milk on a fat basis about twenty years ago some branches of the industry were developed in greater proportion and prosperity to the others. Hence instead of the price for butter-fat being uniform to all producers of milk, the branches which could afford to pay more were free to do so. We all know that in peace time this condition handicapped the less fortunate branches and curtailed their milk supply almost to the point of ruining their business. This especially applied to the cheese branch and some people went so far as to say if the cheese business could not stand the pace and pay the price, it must cease to exist and be a glory of the past. As a result we are in a quandary today to know how to produce enough of those dairy products required to meet war time needs. This is due to the fact that a curtailed production in dairy products needed at home, may so unbalance prices for milk fat that the flow of milk will be away from the branches needing it most for war requirements.

In 1938, 55.1 per cent of the milk produced in Canada was absorbed in the manufacture of butter. In the spring of 1939 there was grave concern because a relatively small surplus caused a ruinous drop in the price of butter. Today, due to reduced production during the past summer, the tables show signs of turning. Unless butter production recovers this winter we can hardly look for an increased milk supply into our cheese factories next spring.

Time For Orderly System

Surely the time has come when this haphazard chaotic condition in the Dairy Industry should be changed into an orderly system. Such a condition is far from the model of perfection which is the vision of Democracy. It is rather the result of misused liberty, whereby each branch of our industry pursues its own way regardless of whether it works to the detriment of the whole and the strength of the nation. I firmly and most conscientiously believe that if Canadian dairymen, be they farmers, manufacturers of butter, cheese, powdered and condensed milk, or of the fluid milk trade, are to do their duty in meeting the present crisis they must work in unison as one body. We need a council of the most capable men available, representing every branch of the Dairy Industry who will think first and always in the national interest of all. Such a council would work out a scheme whereby milk fat would be paid for on a more uniform basis, commensurate with the cost of production, so that farmers would be equally satisfied to send their milk where in the national interests it was most needed. I feel sure that any government would welcome the advice and support of such a body in providing whatever legislation might be required.

Progress by Cheesemen

And now a word to the Cheesemen. You are to be congratulated on your efforts for the year 1940. Not only have you more than met the requirements asked for in the way of production but you have improved the quality of your product This improvement of quality has not been attained overnight. It is the result of striving to improve over a considerable period of time, and I think conventions such as this have played no small part. Often you have listened to very severe criticism, in fact I know of no group of dairymen that will accept censure with good grace as the cheesemen, especially when even in your bad years you made over 90 per cent first grade cheese. Your achievement has been made not by your own effort only, but with the co-operation of others. I believe that the cheese patrons are generally supplying better milk.

How to Maintain Quality of Milk

At any rate I know that the standard as judged by the Methylene Blue test is generally higher. Every cheesemaker should now have his own testing outfit and I hope the day will soon come when the Cheese Producers' Association will demand a standard of milk quality by the Methylene Blue Test from all cheese factory patrons. I am sure every farmer who has raised the quality of his milk by this test has found no hardship involved. The only way to maintain a good quality of milk is to require a definite standard by the Methylene Blue test from every patron. Tests should be made regularly, at least once a week and the patrons informed of their test. Otherwise patrons will soon become indifferent and we shall revert to the same condition which existed before the test was introduced.

You have also co-operated with your instructors, and I am sure that as the cheese makers and instructors continue to work in harmony, greater success will be attained.

No one will dispute that the large increase in the percentage of high scoring cheese has been due in no small measure to the on and two cent premium paid by the Federal Government for 93 and 94 score cheese respectively. Not only are the cheese makers quality conscious, but the patrons are equally interested. I hear more regarding the score of cheese now from the patrons of cheese factories than from the cheese makers. This payment on a quality basis must continue if we are to maintain this year's high standard whether it be by premium or otherwise.

Requirements for 1941

What of the coming season? It is going to require an even greater untiring effort to maintain the quality of 1940 and increase the quantity required overseas. If patrons, cheese makers, instructors and all concerned will keep the Democratic Ideal in mind we can look to the future with confidence. Should we however, abuse the liberty which Democracy allows us then we shall fail in our achievements and in our duty to mankind.

The production of enough cheese to meet the 1941 quota required under war conditions is a big problem, especially when we consider that our stocks in storage are much less than a year ago and loss by ocean transportation is increasingly hazardous. Can we increase our cheese milk production on such short notice without drawing milk from other branches of the Dairy Industry? I notice in the November number of the Dairy News Letter that New Zealand has created a Dairy Supply Control Order which prohibits the transfer of supplies from cheese factories. Few of our factories find it suitable to make cheese in the winter and we should aim to have an abundance of butter on hand by next spring so that all possible milk may be turned into the cheese factories. Milking cows are not created overnight. Can some of the surplus milk which goes to the cities be diverted to the cheese factories?

Unprofitable Cows Still Remain

Better feeding of our cows will help to keep up the milk supply and there is abundance of feed throughout this great Dominion. My knowledge of feeding cows however, tells me that you cannot convert a cow which produces 4,000 lbs of milk into one which produces 8,000 lbs. Notwithstanding that increased milk production per cow has been preached for the last fifty years in Canada, we still have many unprofitable boarders on our farms. How we have abused our liberty under Democracy by refusing to take heed of what was good for us.

With our stocks of cheese depleted it is likely that a variety of cheese will be required which will mature in a much shorter time. I believe there is justification in endeavouring to produce a modified hard pressed cheese which will mature to a nutritious food within three months. Typical cheddar cheese as you know, should be kept 12 months or longer before being consumed. We hope to try out investigations in our new Dairy Building relating to the production of this early maturing type of cheese.

Recently I listened to an address of a leading war correspondent, who had lived in France since the last war and up to the time when the Germans occupied that unfortunate country in the present conflict. In fact he only recently returned from the occupied territory. He started his address by the brief statement "that he conscientiously believed we would win this war". Then he gave us an insight into the power of Germany's military forces and tried to make his audience realize the magnitude of the task which lies before us in accomplishing what he had stated in his first sentence. Only a man with his experience could give us the true facts, and I wish I could tell the story as he told it.

Don't Realize Magnitude

I am afraid there are still a vast number of people in this country who have not yet realized the magnitude of the task which lies before us, if we are to win this war. The speaker I mentioned stated that after seeing the power of the German war machine overcoming Holland, Belgium and France in the space of a few days, he felt that the Maginot Line and any other fortification would not have stopped it. Nothing in the last war could compare with the speed and mechanized power of that onslaught. That powerful military machine is still intact and has not been beaten. In fact it does not know as yet the taste of defeat. Before this war is won, that mighty army has to be driven back into the country from which it came. Let us realize then the task which lies before us. If cheese is needed as the most concentrated and best food to supply to our soldiers, sailors, airmen and the people of Great Britain then let us not fail in seeing that it is sent over, not only according to the quota asked for, but in abundance, for we cannot tell what losses there may be in transportation. To do this, we must ever keep in mind the true democratic idea which is the noblest political vision yet given to man. With this ideal in view on the part of every cheesemaker, we can demonstrate an efficiency hitherto unknown. I believe the Cheese Branch of the Dairy Industry will accomplish all that is required, providing the necessary co-operation is obtained from the Dairy Industry as a whole.

Dairy School Course for 1941

The new Dairy Building at the Kemptville Agricultural School is now completed and opened to commence instruction and scientific services to the Dairymen of Eastern and Central Ontario.

Those who attended the opening on November 14th were highly pleased with the building and its equipment. There is promise of a record attendance and I would remind all Cheese Makers and Butter Makers to send in their application before it is too late. There is accommodation now for ladies to take the course and I hope the wives and daughters of cheese and butter makers will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Arden

Arden—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Newton spent Tuesday last week in Smiths Falls with the latter's sister Mrs. Ed. Hartwick.

Mrs. N. H. Gendron is spending some time with Mrs. B. R. Newton, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Greer, also Mr. and Mrs. C. Cassey of Flinton, spent Tuesday in Kingston.

Mr. Wm. Loyst of Henderson has returned home after spending a week with Mr. Robt. Loyst.

Mrs. George Thompson visited Mrs. Stanley Loyst recently.

Mr. E. Hughes of Napanee visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hughes, last week.

Mrs. Harold Keller and daughter Katherine have returned home after spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. Hilyard Walker at Toronto.

Mrs. Wm. Loyst and son, Lyle, have returned home after spending a week in Kingston where the latter had an operation in the hospital.

Mr. Hubert Wood and mother, Mrs. Miles Wood, also Mrs. Lina See called on friends in Napanee last week.

Mr. Joseph Gendron has returned home after spending two weeks with his daughter, Mrs. W. Kimberly, at Smiths Falls.

Mr. Bobby Loyst and Mr. Sam Whittle of Campbellford spent the week-end with friends here.

Mrs. C. W. Thornton spent Monday with her mother, Mrs. John Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Marshall visited their daughter, Mrs. J. W. Newton, Monday.

Mrs. Annie Parks, Bordenwood, is a guest at Mrs. Miles Woods'.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hartwick are spending some time with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hartwick, at Mountain Grove.

Miss Leita Knight of Elm Tree, spent Monday with Mrs. Sam Turcott.

Mr. Simeon Loyst spent Thursday with his son, Wm. Loyst.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnston has moved in one of Mr. Everett Scott's houses for the winter.

Mrs. Claude Nugent has moved to Kingston where Mr. Nugent has a job in the aluminum plant.

Mr. Roy Greer has secured a position in Kingston with the Department of Highways.

Mrs. Clayton Veley of Henderson is spending some time with her grandfather, Mr. Simeon Loyst.

Deepest sympathy is extended to Miss Marion Carey, teacher in Arden public school, in the loss of her mother who passed away here Friday. The remains were taken Monday to Omemee for burial.

Monday was township election day here. The following were elected for council members: Mr. Morris Newton, Mr. Ernest Hawley, Mr. John Dean and Mr. Nelson Scott. The Reeve, Mr. A. E. Hughes, was returned by acclamation.

The heavy fall of snow has left the roads in a bad condition.

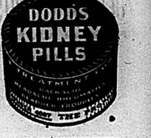
The many friends of Mr. Frank Mosier, who is ill in Kingston hospital, are pleased to hear he is much improved.

Mountain View

Mountain View—The Mountain View Young People held their meeting on Monday night in the Sunday School rooms. The meeting was opened with hymn 7, followed by prayer. Mr. Elmer Young read the Scripture lesson. It was decided to have the next meeting in two weeks' time. In the absence of the president, Mr. William Nightingale who is training at Peterborough, the vice-president, Mr. A. Harris, was in charge of the program. Miss Muriel Burkitt read the weekly issue of the club paper. Hymn 22 and the Benediction brought the meeting to a close. Games were played for a short time.

On Tuesday evening Misses Bernice and Eileen Minaker entertained the Vanity Girls Club. It was quite a stormy night, some of the girls were unable to be present. With Miss Helen Lough in charge a very instructive evening was spent in the club work. At the close the hostess served a delicious lunch.

Mrs. James Way also Miss Vera Way of Bowermans, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague and family.



It's Fun to Shop at BOWRA'S ELECTRIC & HARDWARE

32 pc. SEMI-ENGLISH PORCELAIN

Breakfast Set

Be patriotic this Christmas! Buy British! 32 pc. semi - porcelain breakfast set, attractive floral pattern. Well worth $7.50. 5.49

SPECIAL - Xmas TREE LIGHTS

Set of 8 bright colored lights, with cord and plug, complete .44

Outdoor Tree Lighting Set with 7 larger bulbs and long weatherproof cord and plug $1.59

PYREX GIFT SET

Here's a lovely thought! 10 of the most useful PYREX Glass Ovenware dishes in a handsome gift box. 1.90

CUSTARD CUP SET

8 dainty custard cups and a handy wire rack for convenience in baking and serving. Complete .87

Sleighs .39

Natural varnish finish, selected hardwood. Speedy steel runners. 26 inch size.

28 in. 50c
32 in. 55c
36 in. 75c

Steering Sleigh

The Canadian Flyer . . . flexible steering sleigh, sturdily built. Bright red steel runners .89

Toboggan

Made of tough Canadian Hardwood. With rope rail.

4 ft. 2.50
5 ft. 2.98
6 ft. 3.59
7 ft. 4.35

CHILD'S Snow Shovel

For building snowmen or cleaning sidewalks, here's a sturdy metal blade shovel at only .15

BARGAIN Cake Tins

Square type with loose bottoms.

Set of 3, Special .44

Bowra's Greatest Value!

FOR "HARD-TO-PLEASE" GIFT SEEKERS

TABLE LAMP

With Silk Shade and Bulb

Handsome pottery base in embossed designs — in many, many patterns for your selection. Beautiful silk shades to match. Complete with bulb. Good $6.00 value. AT BOWRA'S

3.95

Fascinating Novelty BED LAMPS

Silk bed lamps complete with cord, plug and socket. In Rose, Green, Ivory and Mauve. Save on this gift idea. 1.19

ELEC. TOASTER

A timely saving! Smartly styled — makes two slices of toast at the same time. Guaranteed element. (Less cord) Special 1.49

Sandwich TOASTER

A delightful gift suggestion for those who love to entertain. Makes delicious toasted sandwiches . . . also grills chops, sausages, etc. A REAL BUY AT 2.59

A SMALL DEPOSIT WILL HOLD ANY ITEM 'TIL CHRISTMAS

Give A PHILCO THIS CHRISTMAS

SPECIAL XMAS TERMS

The perfect gift for anyone on your list! There's a big-value 1941 Philco to suit every taste and to fit every Christmas Budget. Make this a merrier Christmas for someone you like . . . give a Philco. Don't wait . . . come in and make your selection now!

PHILCO 41K

This beautiful Philco is the perfect gift for all the family! And it's priced at least TWENTY DOLLARS below any other radio of similar quality. Seven Philco Tubes—stronger Overseas reception—built in aerial system—bigger system—push button tuning and an exceptionally beautiful cabinet.

109.50

BIG ALLOWANCE FOR YOUR OLD RADIO

$5. Puts A NEW PHILCO In Your Home

Balance arranged to suit your Budget over many, many months.

Save On Enamelled ROASTERS

Big sizes — holds a 9 lb. turkey, a 9 lb. roast or a pair of large chickens. Ivory trimmed with red or green. EXTRA SPECIAL 1.59

Use Your Phone — Fast, Free Delivery

BOWRA'S ELECTRIC & HARDWARE

210 Front St. Phone 820

SEE TIME COMING FOR RECOGNITION OF WOMEN'S UNITS

Pacific Coast M.P. Praises Canada's Auxiliary War Services Carrying on to Help Win the War

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (CP).—Women who are organizing themselves into voluntary service corps in Canada have a strong supporter in Howard C. Green, Conservative M.P. for Vancouver South.

Canada, he told The Canadian Press in an interview, is going to need every one of her trained women before the end of the war and the fact women have organized voluntary service corps without official encouragement is evidence of their vision.

That these women's units will be officially recognized in time appears a foregone conclusion to Mr. Green. "Public opinion will force it," he said. "And if the women wait until they are called upon it will only mean another period of waiting until they are trained."

Mr. Green said he personally had no prejudice against women in uniform adding, "as a matter of fact I think they look smart if it is a question of appearance—and to do their job the uniform is practical."

The Vancouver member was of the opinion that women had showed considerable gumption in going ahead with their organizing when they have been able to stand the gaff," he said. "I don't believe men could have 'taken it' as the women have."

Vancouver's Corps.

Mr. Green praised the intelligent leadership of the women's corps in Vancouver. It was one of the first Canadian women's emergency organizations in the present war.

There are four companies in the Vancouver corps of 1200 members. One company is clerical, its members being trained to handle all kinds of clerical work to release men from such tasks. Already some of the women in this group have done clerical work for the armed services.

The second group, said Mr. Green, is a transport company. These women have studied motor-mechanics, are expert drivers and are capable of repairing motor vehicles. "A mechanized war calls away skilled men and these women may be required to take charge of the arsenal," Mr. Green pointed out.

A third group in the Vancouver corps handles nursing and first aid. They have studied dietetics, mass buying and cooking. They are ready to drive ambulances and look after wounded. Special attention has been paid to the study of air raid precautions.

A fourth group is commissariat.

'A Young Airman Died For Order and Decency'

The author of this heart-stirring tribute to our flyers is a well-known English author of short stories, who writes regularly for such journals as the Daily Mail and Daily Sketch. His son, who met death in flying accident in Canada, was Wing Commander Grenville H. Shaw, R.A.F., who came to this country last January to assist in the training of the Empire airmen. He was killed with Flying Officer Donald Young, R.C.A.F., of Saint John, N.B., when a training 'plane crashed near Ottawa on September 27.

By CAPTAIN FRANK H. SHAW

I have lost my son. He did not die in the heat of a hard-fought battle against the Hun as he often expressed the wish to die, if death were to be his lot in this war. But he died for Britain none the less, testing an airplane in Canada to prove its value against the wanton slayers of our fellow-countrymen and women—children, too. He was anxious to perfect a 'plane to add to our supremacy in the air and cut through enemy formations, as he said, like a knife through butter.

He crashed—but his experiments have blazed a trail to victory.

It was only the other day the news came—starkly and suddenly; as bad news so often does strike.

We were very happy that day; a golden day, brimmed with good news of our air successes.

We'd taken a long country ramble, to see beautiful things which we might describe to this lad-pride of our elderly hearts; for, far away, he greatly desired to know how England stood—that England to which he had devoted his young manhood.

We returned home, brimful of fitness and beauty—and got the news. "The Air Ministry regrets ——."

* * *

To all parents who have lost their first-born, I, who have known pain, extend profound sympathy, and claim them as my kin.

My first reaction was: "What a pity he didn't die in action!"

Callous? I don't think so; that would have been a man's death; a hero's death; something to gild his memory with high pride.

To have been able to think: "He died that men might live!" would have been gratifying: in some sort a reward for the care bestowed in his formative years.

Here we have seen much rare beauty destroyed by enemy viciousness; and, watching shattered ruins of loveliness, I have said: "Right—our sons will avenge these crimes!"

Well, though one is dead, there are others alive, itching to do the work denied to me.

I remember how my son said, in September, 1938: "We have our targets taped—if he starts any funny business, he'll get it in the neck."

He then commanded Wellington bombers; to which Berlin was an easy target; and he was definitely disappointed when false peace came.

He expressed his disappointment by applying added zeal to the training of the very many young pilots that earlier crisis sent flocking into the R.A.F.

And as a result of that intensive training—he was a fearless pilot, known throughout the service as "one with plenty of guts"—his trainees made not such a bad job of the first raid on Kiel—his pupils dealt that blow and proved to the Hun that all his bombast and bounce couldn't keep Britain down.

He wasn't leading them that fight. Specialist in aero engineering as he was, they took him from his squadron on war's outbreak and appointed him engineering officer to the northern group—where his scope was widened.

He had trained men, now he must discover infallible machines and improve even on them.

* * *

I doubt if I can mourn him, now the first effect of shock is easing. He has crowded into his bare 33 years adventure, excitement, life, such as comes the way of few octogenarians.

He lived every minute of his life, for his capacity for happiness was immeasurable—so that others were happy, too.

It hurts to remember back through the years though. I remember when I first saw him; the thought in my mind was: "By God's good grace, that kid shall have everything I didn't have to make him glad."

He should, I determined, be spared the hardships and the early struggles.

We were good pals—with a crisp understanding of each other — our strengths and our weaknesses, we were infinitely tolerant of each other.

Many of his pupils died gloriously in hot action; he fretted that they would think he had deserted them in crisis, forgetting that he was a cog in a vast machine to be used to the nation's best advantage.

His work endured, though his presence went away.

How they adored him, those boys of heroic spirit. He could have led them blindfold through hell and out the other side, for he was a leader, though little more than a boy in years himself—a gay, laughter-loving knight-errant, but in his business as serious as an alchemist!

And then, as if determined to safeguard his qualities still more, authority sent him to Canada to take a big part in the Empire air training scheme.

He went with a scowl—like a crusader being sent to a close sanctuary when the war trumpets were sounding their most clamorous.

And there he died.

* * *

I worked hard to fulfill his destiny. I was able to give him much—and I delighted in that ability. It meant harder work, but it was cheerfully done.

I went to watch him fly—in pageants and the like—doing astounding aerobatics; I delighted to hear his fellows say: "Shaw can fly."

He had a permanent commission in no time. His future was assured—he'd found his bent.

Promotion came quickly — he went out to India as the youngest flight-lieutenant in the service; and he did well out there, in action against the frontier tribes. He wrote curt, happy letters.

He was no literary stylist; merely a man of action in his real element.

Presently he came home, to become the youngest of squadron-leaders. All my rosiest dreams were being fulfilled.

Personal vanity claimed him as my own son; had I not been the youngest extramaster of my generation?

There were no peaks he should not climb—and he was still our son, although he had collected a wife in his leisure!

"The future air-chief marshal," we hoped. Why not? He had the qualities.

He concentrated on Wellingtons. His outstanding desire was to drop a bomb on Hitler. Wellingtons could do it.

And when ambition approached fulfillment he was switched away to work of a more universal importance.

Made a wing-commander at his age, he went to Canada to try to find a solution to cold-weather engine trouble. He flew up into Hudson Bay country to do that.

* * *

So he died. Not in the hot fury of action; not yet aware of the ultimate victory sure to grow from his labors.

I hope it was quick; he deserved that from Fate. I think—I trust—that he looked on death as did John Buchan when he called it "the trivial business of dying."

So a young airman died—one of hundreds, one of the thousands who must die—each one a sacrifice—that order and decency may be restored to earth.

Thousands of parents feel and will feel as I feel today. I claim no sympathy. I share a wholesale sorrow.

The boy died well, and if he'd lived he might have existed in shattered torment, a broken man. He was spared that.

But—and every bereaved father will understand—why, why should a youngster like this be taken whilst I, old, no longer useful, am left?—Ottawa Journal.

GIVE FURS THIS CHRISTMAS

FUR COATS—FUR MUFFS JACKETS — HATS
SCARFS
ASHLEY FURS
294 Front St. Phone 2340
'WALK UPSTAIRS and SAVE'

Big Built-In FREEZING LOCKER IS LIKE A 2ND REFRIGERATOR FREE!

22 BELOW FREEZING

● It's built right in! Holds a bushel of ice cubes or 50 pounds of food! Now you can freeze foods at home! Makes meat tenderer! Keeps frozen foods for months! That's what the big Freezing Locker gives you extra in this new

STEWART WARNER
DUAL-TEMP REFRIGERATOR

MOIST-COLD protection, too—in the big upper compartment! Here sliced roast, cheese and left-overs stay moist—lettuce and celery stay crisp—without covering!

NEW STERILIZER RAY keeps food sweet and healthful longer! Kills bacteria, mold and "ice box" odor!

NO DEFROSTING—because there's no frost-collecting coils to steal natural juice and moisture from food!

EXTRA ROOMY! Nothing to cut shelves in two! Actually holds as much food as most refrigerators two sizes larger!

SEE IT TODAY AT HOME APPLIANCE STORE
Operated by Adams and Van Dusen Co.
191 Front St. Phone 1181
BELLEVILLE
PLUMBING, HEATING and AIR CONDITIONING SPECIALISTS

FOR ECONOMY, TRY MAXWELL HOUSE
SEE IF YOU DON'T GET MORE FLAVOUR—MORE RICH GOODNESS FROM EVERY POUND
VITA-FRESH MAXWELL HOUSE Coffee
MAXWELL HOUSE Coffee

IMPROVED BLEND —VACUUM PACKED
●
Roasted in Canada by a Special Process

DRIP GRIND—for Drip Pot and Glass Coffee-Makers
REGULAR GRIND — for Percolator or Boiled Coffee

MH-211

PRODUCED IN ONTARIO WEEK AT A&P

BUY WAR SAVING STAMPS AT A & P

Catsup	AYLMER	2 Btls.	23c
Corn Flakes	Sugar Crisp	3 Pkgs.	19c
Prunes	70-80's	2 lbs.	13c
Sardines	Pride of Fundy	Tin	11c
Peach Jam	Color and Pectin	32-oz. Jar	24c

★ GILT EDGE FLOUR
24-lb. Bag 73c 49-lb. Bag 1.39 98-lb. Bag 2.73

Prunes	40-50's	lb.	11c
Spaghetti	CATELLI	24-oz. Tin	11c
Chicken Haddies		Tin	15c
Bran Flakes	POST'S	Pkg.	10c
3 Minute Oats		Lge. Pkg.	23c

★ PURE JAM	ANN PAGE Straw. or Rasp.	32-oz. Jar	29c
★ APPLE JUICE	48-oz. Tin 17c	3 20-oz. Tins	25c
★ TOMATO SOUPS	Campbell's	2 10½-oz. Tins	17c
★ PEACHES	AYLMER Sliced or Halves	2 15-oz. Tins	23c
★ MARMALADE	Iona Orange & Grapefruit	32-oz. Jar	21c
★ TOMATO JUICE	A & P Choice	3 28-oz. Tins	25c
★ TOMATOES	A & P Fancy	2 28-oz. Tins	25c
★ SPAGHETTI	Heinz Cooked	2 16-oz. Tins	23c
★ DOMESTIC	or Easifirst Shortening	2 lbs.	25c
★ P & G SOAP	The White Naptha	3 Bars	11c
★ CORN FLAKES	QUAKER	3 Pkgs.	20c

★ Oxydol	Lge. Pkg. 21c	Giant Pkg.	59c
★ Lard	SUNNYFIELD PURE	2 lbs.	17c
★ Flour	Sunnyfield Pastry 5-lb. Bag 13c	24-lb. Bag	57c
★ Muffets	QUAKER	2 Pkgs.	17c
★ Corn	DEL MAIZ Cream Style	16-oz. Tin	10c
★ Beekist Honey		2-lb. Tin	30c
★ Beets	SMART'S Choice Whole	2 15-oz. Tins	19c
★ Tomatoes	AYLMER 2's Squat	3 Tins	25c
★ Peas	AYLMER 4 Sieve	2 2's Tins	19c
★ Tomato Juice	Campbell's or Libby's	2 20-oz. Tins	15c
★ Soap	WOODBURY'S Facial	2 Cakes	15c
★ Soap	JERGEN'S Carbolic	3 Cakes	14c
★ Ivory Snow		Pkg.	21c
★ Soups	HEINZ Asst.	2 16-oz. Tins	25c
★ Beets	AYLMER Fancy Rose Bud	16-oz. Tin	13c

A&P BREAD
SLICED OR UNSLICED

ANN PAGE WHITE WHOLE WHEAT CRACKED WHEAT
2 24-OZ. WRAPPED LOAVES 15c
ANN PAGE—OLD FASHIONED COOKIES .... 2 lbs. 25¢

A & P COFFEE

BOKAR COFFEE

FRESHLY GROUND
BOKAR VIGOROUS & WINEY 1-lb. Bag 39c
MILD & MELLOW
8 O'Clock 1-lb. Bag 35c
RICH & FULL-BODIED
Red Circle 1-lb. Bag 31c

★ PRODUCED IN ONTARIO

★ Plum Jam	E. D. Smith's Pure	2-lb. Jar	26c
★ Lux Soap	TOILET	3 Cakes	18c
★ Ketchup	HEINZ	2 14-oz. Btls.	35c
★ Ketchup	HEINZ	8-oz. Btl.	5c
★ Ivory Soap	3 Lge. Cakes 25c	Med. Cake	5c
★ Junket Powders		Pkg.	11c
Cox Gelatine		Pkg.	15c
★ Ginger Ale	Yukon Club (Contents)	3 30-oz. Btls.	25c
★ Lime Rickey	Yukon Club (Contents)	3 30-oz. Btls.	25c
Asparagus Tips	A & P Fancy	12-oz. Tin	15c

★ Spinach	Aylmer Choice	28-oz. Tin	9c
★ Tom. Soup	Libby's	Tin	7c
★ Peas	IONA 4 Sieve	2 20-oz. Tins	17c
★ Peas & Carrots	Aylmer	2 16-oz. Tins	23c
★ Tissue	Fastidia Cleansing	2 200's Pkg.	17c
★ Tissue	Fastidia Cleansing	500's Pkg.	21c

SALADA TEA SALE

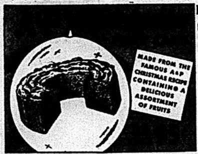
BLACK
BROWN LABEL	½-lb. Pkg.	39¢
YELLOW LABEL	½-lb. Pkg.	37¢
TEA BAGS	20's Pkg.	24¢

Robin Hood FLOUR

7-lb. Bag	25¢
24-lb. Bag	83¢
98-lb. Bag	3.19

★ MARMALADE	SHIRRIFF'S Good Morn.	32-oz. Jar	33c
★ RICE KRISPIES		Pkg.	12c
★ SODAS	CHRISTIE'S Premium	1-lb. Pkg.	18c
★ CLEANSER	BABBITT'S or CLASSIC	3 For	14c
★ CAKE FLOUR	SWANSDOWN	Pkg.	23c

Wax Beans	Iona Cut or Whole	3 20-oz. Tins	25c
Green Beans	Iona Cut	3 20-oz. Tins	25c



MADE FROM THE FAMOUS A&P CHRISTMAS RECIPE CONTAINING A DELICIOUS ASSORTMENT OF FRUITS

CHRISTMAS BAKING NEEDS

RAISINS	3 CROWN SEEDLESS	2 lbs.	19c
CURRANTS	RECLEANED	lb.	18c
SUGAR	ICING	2 lbs.	15c
COCOANUT	DESICCATED	lb.	17c
RAISINS	LEXIA	Pkg.	11c
PEEL	CUT MIXED	½-lb. Pkg.	13c
FIGS	PORTUGUESE COOKING	2 lbs.	23c
CHERRIES	GLACE	2 3-oz. Pkgs.	17c
ALMOND ICING	½ lb. Tin 15c	1-lb. Tin	24c

Peaches	A&P Choice	2 15-oz. Tins	25c
Old Cheese		lb.	23c
Mild Cheese		lb.	19c
Pears	IONA KEIFFER		9c
Spork	BURN'S	12-oz. Tin	29c
Chili Con Carne		Tin	19c
Kipper Snacks		2 Tins	11c
Chicken	Beaver Brand Boneless	½'s Tin	22c
Plums	Lombard Choice	3 15-oz. Tins	23c
Finnan Haddie		2 Tins	23c
Macaroni	and Spaghetti Bulk	2 lbs.	9c
Crabmeat	Canadian	½'s Tin	23c
Fruit Cocktail	AYLMER	16-oz. Tin	21c

FRESH FRUITS and VEGETABLES
ONTARIO GROWN APPLES

NO. 1 GRADE McINTOSH RED	Finest for EATING	6-Qt. Bask.	37c
DOMESTIC GRADE SPY	Excellent for COOKING	6-Qt. Bask.	33c
MUSHROOMS	Ontario Grown Fresh	Lb.	27c
CARROTS	Ontario Grown Tender, Washed, Coreless	3 lbs.	7c
TURNIPS	Ontario Grown No. 1 Waxed	2 lbs.	5c
CELERY HEARTS	Ontario Grown Fresh Crisp	2 bun.	23c
ORANGES	Florida Juicy 216's	Doz.	21c

A & P HIGH QUALITY GUARANTEED MEATS

STEAKS	Sirloin, Wing, Cube or Porterhouse	lb.	27c
ROASTS	Sirloin, Wing, Face, Rump or Porterhouse	lb.	27c
BONELESS ROUND	Steak or Roast	lb.	27c
BLADE ROAST	PRIME BEEF	lb.	18c
SHORT RIB ROAST		lb.	19c
Pork Shoulders	Fresh Shankless	lb.	15c
PORK BUTTS	FRESH	lb.	19c
Pork Shoulders	Smoked Boneless	lb.	25c
Pork Tenderloins	Choice	lb.	25c
FOWL	Large Boiling 4 to 5 lbs.	lb.	20c
Pork SAUSAGE	Burlington	lb.	19c
BACON	Breakfast Sliced, Rindless	lb.	29c

Purchases Limited to Family Weekly Requirements.

A&P SELF-SERVICE FOOD STORES
Owned and Operated by The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. Ltd.

PRICES IN EFFECT UNTIL DEC. 7

STOCK MARKETS

QUOTATIONS FURNISHED BY BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD.
J. R. Potts, Branch Manager.

Quotations at 2.00

MINES

Ajax 18
Aldermac 16
Anglo. Hur. 235
Augite 220
Bankfield 7 1-2
Beattie 112
Bidgood 12
Big Missouri 4 3-4
Bralorne 995
Broulan 82
Buffalo Ank. 430
Calgary and Ed. 146
Can. Malar. 53
Central Pat. 195
Chesterville 130
Coast Copper 130
Coniaurum 135
Dome 25
East Mal. 240
Falconbridge 226
Gillies L. 4 1-8
Gunnar 37
Hardrock 100
Home Oil 242
Hollinger 13
Howey 30
Hudson Bay 24 1-2
Kerr Add. 350
Kirk. Lake 100
Lapa Cad. 7 1-2
Lake Shore 19 1-2
Leitch 50
Little L. L. 375
Macassa 375
McIntyre 48 1-4
McLeod 233
McKenzie 117
Mining Corp. 84
Moneta 53
Nipissing 105
Obrien 112
Okalta 75
Omega 16
Paymaster 24
Pamour 140
Perron 175
Pend Oreille 175
Pickle Crow 295
Pioneer 212
Powell 105
Premier 90
Preston E. D. 315
Reno 15
Royalite 23 1-2
San Antonio 250
Sherritt G. 82
Siscoe 50
Sladen M. 42
Sud. Basin 140
Sullivan 34
Steep Rock 150
Sylvanite 260
T. Hughes 320
Tex. Can. Oil 128
Toburn 165
Ventures 290
W. Amulet 365
Wr. Hargreaves 710
U. Can. 216

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 158.
British American Oil 18.
Brewing Corporation 108.
Brazilian Traction 5¾.
Canada Bud Brewery 4¼.
Canada Cement 6.
Canada Dredge 98.
Can. Industrial Alcohol 185.
C.P.R. 5¼.
Canada Malting 38½.
Canada Car 8¾.
Cockshutt Plow 5¼.
Cons. Bakeries 14.
Con. Smelting 38½.
Dominion Foundries 23½.
Dominion Stores 5½.
Distillers Seagrams 25¾.
Fanny Farmer 26¾.
Ford "A" 16.
Gypsum 3½.
Imperial Oil 9¼.
International Nickel 34½.
Imperial Tobacco 13½.
Inter Petroleum 13⅛.
Loblaw 26¼.
Massey Harris 3⅛.
Montreal Power 28⅝.
McColl Frontenac 5¼.
Power Corporation 6⅛.
Price Bros. 12¼.
Steel of Canada 73.
Shawinigan 17¾.
Walkers 43.
Walkers Preferred 19½.
Walkerville Brewery 70.
C.P.A. 4½.

NEW YORK

American T and T 167.
Anaconda 27.
Bethlehem Steel 85¾.
Chrysler [illegible]
General Electric 32⅞.
General Motors 49⅜.
Inter. Telephone 2.
North American 16½.
Montgomery Ward 37¼.
Phillips Petroleum 39⅞.
Radio 4⅞.
Standard Oil of N.J. 33.
Standard Brands 6⅝.
U.S. Steel 67¼.
United Aircraft 42.
Vanadium 33.
Westinghouse 103½.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 5.— (CP)—Junior Gold stocks moved in volume in the early session of Toronto Stock Exchange today, boosting turnover for the first three hours to 272,000 shares. The gold group had a gain of .30 in the index at noon and the Base Metal and Industrial Shares were slightly lower.

Two Gold Juniors, Upper Canada and Cochenour Willans, traded in heavy volume and advanced 10 to 15 cents, the former registering a record high at $2.16. Naybob was active at an advance of a cent or two. In the Base Metals, Pend Oreille was lower by ten cents and Steep Rock slightly higher.

Industrials were dull. C.P.R. was in demand at a minor advance and three preferred issues, Canadian Car, Dominion Woollens and Goodyear were lower Home Oil firmed 3 cents to $2.43 and Calgary and Edmonton was up a cent to 1.46.

WALL STREET

New York, Dec. 5 AP)—Leading stocks slipped a notch or two in today's market after early attempts at a rally failed to get anywhere in particular.

Steels edged forward at the start, then backed away along with a number of other industrials. Dealings slowed and, near the fourth hour, more minus than plus signs some time.

Among stocks inclined to skid were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, General motors, Chrysler, Boeing, United Air Lines, Consolidated Edison, Standard Oil of N.J., Kennecott, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Loft, Eastman Kodak and Southern Railway.

Resistance was shown by American Smelting, Du Pont, Dow Chemical, Great Northern, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck.

In the Canadian section Dome Mines, Canadian Pacific and Hiram Walker slanted lower. Distillers Seagram and McIntyre steadied while Lake Shore Mines and, in the Bond Market, Canada 4s held unchanged.

Produce Markets

Toronto—Wholesale prices (Ontario Department of Agriculture) today were:

EGGS

A-large	.39-.40
A-medium	.38
A-pullets	.36-.37
Grade "B"	.35
Grade "C"	.28

BUTTER

Butter, No. 1	.32 1-4	.32 1-2
Butter, No. 2	.30 3-4	.31 3-4

Churning Cream, No. 1	.32
Churning Cream, No 2	.29

POULTRY

(Dressed)

Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.21
Chickens, Grade "A"—
Over 5 lbs.	.19
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.18
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.17
Fowl—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 lbs.	.12

(Live Poultry)

Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.15
Chickens—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.12
Fowl—
3 to 4 lbs.	.10
Over 5 lbs.	.12
4 to 5 lbs.	.11
Ducks—
5 lbs and over	.19
Under 5 lbs.	.18

Butter Rises to New Peak Prices

Toronto—Short available supplies occasioned a more pronounced increase in butter prices during yesterday's session of the Toronto open produce market. The Ontario product advanced ¾ to 1c a pound, establishing a new peak for the current year in trading that was restricted by the lightness of offerings.

Holders of storage butter were less inclined to offer yesterday in view of a tight supply situation in Canada indicated by the preliminary stock figures, and buyers readily absorbed available offerings at rising prices. Light offerings are being intensified at the present time by slower arrivals of fresh receipts, owing to snow-blocked country roads. No. 1 Ontario creamery solids sold yesterday all the way from 32c a pound to 32¾c a pound, with the market closing in the range of 32½c to 32¾c, at which level no supplies could have been obtained at the close.

Prints to the retail trade followed solids higher as top grades traded at 33½c to 34c a pound. Cream reflected the rising butter market by advancing to the range of 31c to 32c for No. 1 grade, on truck country points.

Improved demand enabled the egg market to maintain an even keel. The day's receipts cleared, with some sales of Government inspected shipments of grades "A" large, medium and pullets reported at 1c a dozen premium.

Montreal Produce:

Montreal, Dec. 5—Produce market prices here, as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

Butter: First grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 33c to 33½c; first grade solids, jobbing price, 32½c to 33c.

Eggs: Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 37c to 38c; A-medium, 33c to 34c; A-pullets, 32c to 33c; A-large original, 31c; B- original, 30c; C-original, 24½c. Receipts: 539 cases.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Dec. 5 (CP). — Prices were steady in all sections of the livestock market here today. Cattle trade was active. The holdover from Wednesday was 300 head of cattle.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle 300, calves 40, hogs 350, sheep and lambs 60.

Prices in the cattle section were: Weighty steers $8.25-$9.25, butcher steers and heifers $6-$8.25, butcher cows $4.25-$5.75, canners and cutters $3-$4, a few good bulls $5-$6.

Veal calves sold from $6.50 to $11.50 with one at $12.

Lambs sold at $9.75-$10 for good ewes and wethers with other grades at $8-$9.

The few sheep offered sold at $2-$5.

AXIS RAIDERS

(Continued from Page One)

Raiders ranged wide over Britain last night, dropping high explosive and incendiary bombs, but these attacks ended before midnight and casualties were few.

Nazi planes struck at the Midlands—both eastern and western sections—at London, at Southwestern England and at Wales. Two towns in the Midlands reported casualties.

In one of them, in the western Midlands, an undetermined number of persons was trapped in basement shelters when homes were destroyed. A church and a police station were reported hit.

Unoccupied School Hit

In London bombs struck an unoccupied school and a school for incurable children was destroyed.

Raiders lashed at a town in the eastern Midlands for four hours but damage was reported to have been light.

There was heavy anti-aircraft fire all through the Midlands and in the London area.

Bristol, hard-hit by 300 hammering German bombers Monday night, announced that with the help of emergency workers it had restored its transportation system almost to normal.

A Canadian Press correspondent reported smoke pouring from hundreds of factories still operating in the western port and manufacturing city. He added that ship appeared to be loading and unloading at the wharves without difficulty.

Shopping districts and slum areas were hardest hit and the city's chief problem was said to be that of getting workmen to factories and restoring telephone, electricity and similar services.

DIRECT

(Continued from Page One)

(Informed circles in Bucharest predicted that increased railroad, highway and pipeline construction to speed up the delivery of oil to Germany would result from the pact. Lack of adequate transportation facilities has been the principal bottle-neck in the delivery of Rumanian oil to the Reich, it was said.

Details of the British-Turkish agreement, which followed closely a commercial accord between Spain and Britain, were not made public but it was understood generally that the United Kingdom Commercial Corporation set up last April would play a big part in arranging sales and purchases.

At the same time, experts expected purchases under the agreement would run into millions of pounds sterling, with Turkey sending Britain mainly agricultural products in exchange for woolens, cottons, locomotives, wagons and munitions.

"Under the new arrangement," the Times declared, "Turkey will be free to develop her economy in co-operation with the British Empire. On our side we now effectively challenge the great German share of the Turkish market."

(In another Balkan development the semi-official paper Ulus in Ankara praised recent improvements in Turkish-Bulgarian relations and suggested that "certain injustices to Bulgaria" could be adjusted peacefully. This apparently referred to Bulgarian demands for an outlet to the Aegean Sea.)

THE 'INADEQUACY'

(Continued from Page One)

Endorsed Principle

Mr. Coldwell and Conservative House Leader Hanson endorsed the principle of the government's stiffening tax policy, although both had criticisms to make of details. John Blackmore, New Democracy leader, reiterated his group's stand for conscription of finance but agreed to support the Coldwell amendment because it was intended to provide interest-free money.

Both Mr. Hanson and Mr. Coldwell questioned the adequacy of the government's safeguards against price rises under the protection of the new import prohibitions and restrictions.

Mr. Hanson submitted the new measures were insufficient to maintain a necessary equilibrium in Canada's exchange relationship with the United States, in view of continuous heavy purchases of war supplies there.

Reaction Good

These measures, he suggested, might be only the "first dose" but he believed the reaction throughout the country had been good.

Because Canada had increased her purchases from the United States to such a large degree, he proposed that the government should ask the United States to review its trade pact with Canada so Canadian exports to the United States might be increased to facilitate paymen. for war supplies.

Mr. Hanson said he was willing to make "any sacrifices" to help Britain win the war but he asked whether government had considered, in admitting British cottons free, what the effect would be on Canadian textile mills such as the ones in his riding. He questioned what the ultimate effect of free admission of British bituminous coal would be on Nova Scotia's coal industry.

Preserve Fiscal Independence

He said he had toyed with the idea of suggesting that British, American and Canadian currencies be tied together in some way similar to that between British and French currencies before the fall of France. However, he believed Canada should preserve its fiscal independence.

"Therefore I reject that theory and suggest to the minister that if I have made the suggestion, he ought not even to toy with it," he said.

He did believe, however, that Canada should begin negotiations for loans from the United States—even though Canada's economic existence might be in jeopardy at the end of the war through debt owed to the United States.

Urged More Free List Goods

Mr. Coldwell declared that the relaxing of tariffs against British goods were "too timid and altogether ineffective." Canada could not keep out British goods and at the same time serve the British cause to the fullest extent, he said. He urged that more British goods be put on the free list.

As far as restricting imports from the United States was concerned, he believed embargo was preferable to increased tariffs. Higher prices merely deprived the people on the lowest economic levels of the listed goods, some of which were necessities and not luxuries. Persons with higher incomes would buy as before, merely paying higher prices.

Favors Compulsory Loan

In proposing his amendment favoring a compulsory loan, he submitted that when the young men of the country were being asked to offer their lives, wealth ought to be asked to give itself up to the same cause. His proposal would not be confiscation, he said, but merely a loan "to the country in her hour of need and repayable when the danger has passed away."

"I know that the proposal I am making will meet with a response from a large number of our people and I can say that because of an interesting experience I had this autumn," he said.

He said he spent considerable time with L. H. Hantelman, C.C.F. member of the Saskatchewan Legislature for Elrose riding which coincides roughly with the southern part of Rosetown-Biggar federal constituency.

Borrow Without Interest

Mr. Hantelman, was promoting the idea of a voluntary, interest-free loan and after talking to farmers and business men he estimated that $1,000,000 could be borrowed for war purposes, without interest, from farmers in Elrose riding, if the Government would accept wheat as the basis for such a loan.

"We want Canada's war effort to succeed," he affirmed. "We feel that under the leadership of those who now are leading the Allied cause there is no danger of betrayal." For many years, though, he had felt that the men leading France and Britain wanted to see a strong Hitler and a strong Mussolini as a barrier against the rise of leftist movements in Europe.

But the men now in control "will carry on until the last threat to our democratic institutions has been removed and destroyed, for undoubtedly the fight now is against those who would destroy human freedom. They fight not only against those who would destroy human freedom but they fight for a great extension of human freedom.

"Believing this, we want to see the burden of the war placed more equitably on the shoulders of our people and particularly those who are best able to bear the burden. We want this war waged in a democratic manner until Hitlerism, Fascism and dictatorships of all sorts and types have been removed from the earth."

Less Than Feared

Mr. Blackmore said the budget was "much less severe" than he had feared. He criticized it as a "budget of scarcity" which starved the goose that laid the golden egg.

The budget looked backward, failing to face the facts of today and tomorrow. "This is an age of plenty" he declared. "It is astonishing how few people seem to realize that the last war was fought in an age of scarcity while this war is being fought in an age of plenty."

This budget would tend to destroy production when vast quantities of money were being liberated into the avenues of trade and therefore had a tendency toward inflation.

He commended the budget for recognizing frankly the development of economic nationalism, a fact which Canadians needed to face courageously. He questioned why coal should be brought into Canada when this country had immeasurable deposits, men to mine them and available mining equipment.

BRITISH

(Continued from Page One)

a seemingly unconnected statement by Senator Walter George (Dem-Georgia) that United States industry should be placed on a 24-hour "war time" schedule if aid was to reach Britain quickly enough to be effective.

As Chairman of the important Senate Foreign Relations Committee, George is in a position to obtain confidential information on Britain's present position and his suggestion consequently caused speculation. He spoke only of material aid, and not of loans.

British Finances Excellent

Sir Frederick gave scant encouragement to speculation over loan possibilities when he arrived in New York yesterday by Clipper en route here.

Britain's financial condition, he reported, was "never stronger." Asked if he came to discuss credits, he replied, "that is a stage further on."

Senator Gerald Nye (Rep-North Dakota), who has registered opposition to any British loan, said today that Congress ought to have the facts first hand before it was called upon even to consider any relaxation in the present Johnson Act and the neutrality law, both of which prohibit loans to Britain—with one possible exception.

Only one way to get the information, Nye suggested, was to invite Sir Frederick or other British officials to appear before some Congressional Committee empowered to inquire into the situation.

Such a procedure would be decidedly unusual for available records show no precedent for officials of a foreign nation participating in an Congressional inquiry.

Although the financial note apparently was dominant, some well-informed sources did not rule out the possibility that the Morgenthau-Sir Frederick talks would have numerous other ramifications.

These sources said that it would be no surprise if merchant tonnage and planes figured incidentally. They pointed to Britain's need for shipping to replace her losses at sea, and her need for planes, both to meet the Nazi air attack at home and to strike at the Italians in the Mediterranean.

PREMET

(Continued from Page One)

area said: "Our troops have made further considerable advances and occupied additional important positions."

Another said that the Argirocastro radio station had been silent since last night shortly after it was officially stated in Athens that the Italians were withdrawing from Argirocastro toward Tepelini.

The Greeks announced capture of Premet on the central front.

Retreat to Tepelini

The taking of this town threatened entrapment of Italian forces at Argirocastro and northward in the valley of the Dryno River if the Greeks could push 20 miles on from Premet and take Tepelini.

A dispatch from the front said: "Our troops continued their rapid advance after the occupation of Premet and pursued the enemy, who is retreating directly to Tepelini. The Italians, despite desperate resistance, will not be able to hold.

"Much material was captured, including guns, machine guns, Howitzers, hand grenades and cartridges. The machine guns and Howitzers were immediately turned against the Italians."

The weather was said to favor co-operation of the Air Force with land forces. The British Air Force operating with the Greeks reported Fascist troops "retreating hurriedly" in the Tepelini-Kelsyre area were "successfully attacked by Royal Air Force bomber and fighter formations."

A "fierce battle" over Italian lines yesterday resulted in the shooting down of "a large number" of Italian planes, the R.A.F. reported. Greek sources were quoted as saying that the number of planes downed was believed to be 10.

R.A.F. Leader Tells Story

The leader of an R.A.F. formation which bombed Italian concentration centres in the Tepelini area said:-

"Over the frontier on a snow-covered mountain we saw groups of Greek troops. We met no enemy fighters, probably because ours were operating in the area at the time, but we ran into anti-aircraft fire.

"We dived on the town and saw clouds of dust and stones arise from around a bridge as our bombs dropped. We also hit a road and some buildings around which were gathered a lot of motor transports.

"Seeing the convoy on the road, we dropped a stick of bombs apparently attacking a road in the Greek lines, but their bombs burst on the mountain sides, doing no damage so far as I could see. I later saw what appeared to be a hot engagement going on between our fighters and the enemy."

The leader of another day-bombing formation said:-

"We went after enemy troop concentrations on the road at Kayayre. centrations on the road at Kelsyre. we went into action, although it was tricky work getting on the target.

"It meant diving down a narrow valley and swinging up again over a hill, but we managed it and dropped sticks on the road close to the junction. On the way back I saw a couple of Italian fighters, but they made no attempt to chase us."

The fall of Premet followed fierce fighting in which the Italians suffered heavy casualties and the loss of considerable equipment, the Greek High Command reported. More than 500 Fascist troops were said to have surrendered.

Premet is about 15 miles inside the Albanian frontier. Porto Edda, main Italian debarkation point in southern Albania, is about 30 miles to the southwest. Argirocastro, another important base, is about midway between the two towns.

The Greeks indicated that an announcement that their troops had entered Porto Eddo and Argirocastro might be expected at any time.

Retreating on North Front

The Italians also were reported to be retreating on the northern flank of the 100-mile battlefront, where the Greeks said their forces captured important mountain positions northwest of Pogradets in a drive toward Elbazani and the Albanian capital, Tirana. The exact point reached by the spearhead of the Greek advance in this sector was not disclosed.

Here, too, the Greek High Command said the Italians suffered heavy losses in men and equipment.

Capture of Premet was accomplished, the Greeks said, after they had driven the Italians from strong positions in the Frasheri mountain range, north of the town, from which they were able to dominate strategic passes.

A heavy artillery bombardment prepared the way for the Greek attack.

Assault Repulsed

The High Command said the Italians had resisted stubbornly and had launched a counter attack with tanks on both flanks of a Greek force driving up the highway toward Premet.

This assault was repulsed, however, a spokesman said, and the battle "ended in an Italian rout."

"Generally," the spokesman said, "the enemy is retreating from the places where he tried stubbornly to defend himself."

From Porto Edda the Italians were reported retiring along the Adriatic seacoast toward Chimara, some 25 miles to the northwest. The Fascist forces at Argirocastro were said to be withdrawing in a northwesterly direction toward Tepelini.

Italian reports that Greek troops had been beaten off all along the front were characterized by an army spokesman as "simply figments of the imagination for home consumption."

Position Very Difficult

Efforts of the Italian High Command to reorganize its forces in Albania have failed, this source declared, and predicted that "the position of the Italian army will become more and more difficult."

The Greek High Command said air operations against the Italians yesterday had been "very successful" and had been carried out without the loss of a single-plane. One Italian plane was reported downed.

Severe weather made the movements of ground forces difficult but the Greeks said they were following up their successes swiftly despite this handicap.

ROOSEVELT

(Continued from Page One)

Vital Necessity Now

"It was then an opportunity. It is now a vital necessity."

A commission, named by the United States and Canadian governments, now is making necessary preliminary surveys for the proposed project, and discussions leading toward a treaty covering the project's construction are under way between the two governments.

Emphasizing the need of the St. Lawrence project for defence, President Roosevelt declared:-

"The United States needs, tremendously needs, the power project which will form a link in the seaway to produce aluminum and more aluminum for the airplane program which will assure command of the air."

The President declared "selfish interests will tell you that I am cloaking this great project in National defence in order to gain an objective which has always been dear to me."

"But I tell you," he declared, "that it has always been dear to me because I recognized its vital importance to the people in peace and in war."

After delivering the President's message, Berle declared that Canadian power resources already are taxed to capacity for defence needs, and that more power is needed on the United States side of the St. Lawrence for the same urgent purpose. Specifically, he said, there is need for the manufacture of more aluminum at the plants at Massena, N.Y. and of more chemicals at the plants of Union Carbide and other companies in the St. Lawrence Valley area.

Need Cheap Power

The Presidential message described defence program "pressure" for "lots of cheap power".

He wrote in part: —

"What would we not give today, we who are responsible for the country's supreme defence effort, if the great St. Lawrence turbines were already in place, steadily revolving under the drive of St. Lawrence waters now running to waste, producing every hour of the day 1,000,000 horsepower to supply the expansion of our essential defence industries.

"Had this project been started in 1934, as we urged, it would now be completed and occupying a place with other great projects, such as the Tennessee Valley in the southeast, Boulder Dam in the southwest, and the Columbia River projects in the northwest, among the great National Defence assets of this continent.

"No one who has studied our National-Defence problems and the international situation can possibly fail to see the need for this project in the defence of the continent. . . . The world's merchant tonnage is diminishing at the rate of tens of thousands of tons a month. The distances which may be effectively covered by bombing planes are rapidly increasing.

"Seacoast shipyards are already overtaxed with uncompleted construction. Shipyards on the Great Lakes, with access to the ocean, yet close to the sources of supply of Labor, raw and finished materials, further removed from possible attack, may be a vital factor in successful defence of this continent. . .

"Opponents of the project have pointed out that it takes four years to build this seaway. They know, but fail to mention, that it takes at least that long to build a battleship. They also know that this project will cost the United States less than three battleships and that the power project will be entirely self-liquidating.

Must be Prepared

"We hope that the world situation may soon improve. But we are bound to be prepared for a long period of possible danger.

"The need for the seaway is coupled with an increasing demand for the power. Already our defence industries in the northeast have been required to import huge blocks of electric power from Canada. They are asking greater imports and Canada can agree to supply this power only temporarily. A new source of cheap power for national defence must be developed immediately.

"Along with its benefits to national defence, this project will contribute to the peacetime welfare of a multitude of laborers, small business men, home owners, and farmers, I said in 1936 and I say now, 'such a development as we propose to carry out in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence basin unquestionably will result in greater activity for all ports and transportation agencies. This has been the history of all new navigation projects and improvements directed to better commercial communication in this country and throughout the world. The fear that the seaway will result in injury on the lower Mississippi or to our Atlantic ports is groundless.'

MAKE YOUR Gift HER CHOICE

SERVICE FOR 8
34 PIECES IN ALL

$44.35
in tarnish proof chest.

DINNER SET DISHES
66 PIECE — SERVICE FOR 8
in the famous "Breath of Spring pattern.

$18.95

Stroud's

CREDIT TERMS IF DESIRED.

WE'VE RUNG THE BELL

What a surprise you'll get when you see the lovely gifts on our 25c to $1.00 tables. We can hardly wait for you to COME and LOOK.

GEORGE PAULEY

DRUGGIST Phone 105

Christmas Bedding Sale

PLAID FLANNELETTE SHEETS, 70 x 90 .... each 89c
COMFORTERS, Featherdown, covered in English down-proof covering with panel. light but warm. 66 x 72. Very special $4.98
ESMOND PLAID BLANKETS, sateen bound, 66 x 80 .... $1.89
COMFORTERS, Cotton filled, floral ticking, 66 x 72 .... $2.59
CRIB MATTRESSES, soft and thick $2.59
LAYER FELT MATTRESSES, for long wear, floral ticking. All sizes $6.95
MARSHALL INNER SPRING MATTRESSES, panel damask ticking, well made. All sizes $14.95
OTHER INNER SPRING MATTRESSES $11.95
WOOL BLANKETS — THROWS — MOTOR RUGS
EIDERDOWN BATHROBE, well tailored

SHOP EARLY—A Small Deposit Lays Away Any Article.
SUNWORTHY WALLPAPERS.
STILL TIME TO DECORATE BEFORE CHRISTMAS.

THOMPSON'S

296 FRONT STREET PHONE [illegible]

DID YOU SEE . . .
THOSE GARDEN FRESH
BIRDS EYE FROSTED FOODS?

FRUITS - VEGETABLES - FISH

Demonstrated at the Cooking School. THEY ARE REALLY GRAND and so reasonable in price, too Come in and see us at

1 MARKET LANE

SPENCER FRIGID LOCKERS

and let us explain our Refrigeration Locker Service

PHONE 2454

D5-2t

BAILEY'S

Weekly Specials

XXXX QUAKER FLOUR $2.70
24-Lb. Cotton QUAKER FLOUR 69c

Full Line of
PURITY FLOUR, CANADA CREAM, and ALBERTA ROSE

●

Mill Feeds:
BRAN — SHORTS — MIDDLINGS
BARLEY — CORN — OATS

●

WHEAT and MIXED SCRATCH FEEDS.
CORN KING MINERAL FEED

We also have Wheat, Corn, different grades of Mixed Scratch Feed, and a full line of Commercial Pioneer Feeds.

W. H. BAILEY

FLOURS and FEEDS

North Front St. at Evans. Phone 1962W

COUNTY COUNCIL ATTENDS BANQUET

Arranged Tour of Members to the Trenton Airport Called Off Due to Bad Weather

Deprived of their arranged tour of the Royal Canadian Air Force base at Trenton yesterday afternoon, by the inclemencies of the weather, members of the Hastings County Council, acting under the advice of Warden John L. Churcher, confined their afternoon session yesterday to a few minutes in preparation for the banquet of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association which culminated the three-day convention last night. The County Council attended in a body.

The proposed appointment of a hospital officer for the county met with the disapproval of the council. The practitioner duties would be to visit every hospital where county patients were receiving treatment and report to the various superintendents.

Reeve Roscoe Robson, Thurlow, stated that his municipality had had a medical officer for some time and he had seen no benefit derived by the township. A county or municipality hospital officer has no authority, all he can do is recommend.

Too Many Local Conditions

Dr. S. S. Lumb, Bancroft, told the council that in his opinion a hospital officer appointed to municipalities was a provincial appointment. "There are too many local conditions involved for a county doctor to take over the job," he said.

"No doctor in Hastings County would take the job to go to any hospital and quarrel with the rest of the medicos," he said.

No action was voted by the council.

Council did, however concur in a resolution forwarded by the Lennox and Addington County Council that the government remove the cost of forest fires and other conflagrations and bear the cost themselves. Prince Edward County Council's recommendation that relief recipients be deprived of their municipal franchise was received and filed.

Discussion regarding whether the county should burn coal or wood was met with a spirited response on the part of the northern reeves that wood was a product of the county and as such should be utilized. "We should be proud of the timberlands of Hastings," Warden Churcher said, "and in my opinion this county should find use for as much as possible." Following the discussion in which the majority of the reeves declared themselves in favor of wood, the warden expressed his pride in them by making such a decision.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Colorado"

"Colorado," Republic film which is now playing at the Capitol, presents Roy Rogers, cowboy favorite, in another fast action western drama with songs and music aplenty for good measure. The Republic film makes effective use of the highly dramatic situation of two brothers, widely separated as the poles in temperament and moral code, and pitted against each other to the death.

Rogers portrays the young intelligence officer in the Union army, sent to Denver to investigate various Indian uprisings and internal troubles which threaten the success of the Northern cause against the Secessionists.

Arriving at Denver, he is opposed by two serious complications. One is the fact that the very man behind the trouble he is bound by duty to quell is his blood brother. The other complication is a pretty girl who loves Roy but has, in turn, given her heart to the worthless brother.

George "Gabby" Hayes enacts the role of Roy's pal and partner in adventure, going with him to the western outpost, braving any and all dangers, including the possibilities that an amiable widow with a flair for cooking may enmesh him in matrimony.

The added feature, "Charlie Chan in Panama," the latest of the 20th Century-Fox series, featuring Sidney Toler as the matchless Earl Derr Biggers sleuth.

Jean Rogers heads an imposing supporting cast in this thrilling story, which sees Chan fighting to save the Panama Canal from a vicious plot to destroy "America's lifeline" and trap the fleet.

Others featured in the film are Lionel Atwill, Mary Nash, Sen Yung, Kane Richmond, Chris-Pin Martin, Lionel Royce, Helen Ericson and Jack La Rue, under the direction of Norman Foster. Sol M. Wurtzel was executive producer.

"Letter From Camp Borden"

"Letter From Camp Borden," the newest picture in the series of Canada Carries On, depicts life in Canada's great military camp.... All the excitement, humanity and spectacle of Canadian youth in training, also the News and "Tim Tyler's Luck."

AT THE BELLE

"North West Mounted Police"

Starring Gary Cooper and Madeleine Carroll, and boasting a supporting cast headed by a long list of stars including Paulette Goddard, Preston Foster, Robert Preston, Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman, George Bancroft, Walter Hampden, Lon Chaney, Jr., Cecil B. DeMille's production in technicolor of "North West Mounted Police" has been held over until Friday. Set in the period when Canada was threatened by a Civil War of its own as thousands of half-breeds revolted against the government, the picture relates a magnificent story of the courage which made the North West Mounted one of the most respected forces in the world. It tells the love stories of two Mounted Policemen—one in love with a gallant nurse, and the other fascinated by an Indian girl who is about as tame as a tiger. Thrilling incidents mark every reel of the film, as the police, aided by an equally gallant Texas Ranger, seek to quell the rebellion of the half-breeds. One startling climax is reached as fifty Mounted Police face thousands of half-breeds and a Gatling gun—and that's just one of the thrilling moments which mark this as a Cecil B. DeMille masterpiece.

A special extra attraction on the same program is "A Letter From Camp Borden," revealing life in Canada's great military camp . . . all the excitement . . . humanity and spectacle of Canadian youth in training.

"Third Finger, Left Hand"

"Third Finger, Left Hand," comical romance of a marriage mix-up, brings Myrna Loy teamed with Melvyn Douglas for the first time as the next feature attraction at the Belle. A rapid fire series of trials and tribulations that keep the audience in an uproarious mirth. It all starts when the sophisticated Myrna invents a mythical husband for business reasons. Douglas, itinerant landscape painter, learns of it, poses as the husband to the dismay of the helpless Myrna, and keeps her other suitors away. She gets even by plunging him into every comical scrape she can think of—but in the end they discover they've been in love all the time. Robert Z. Leonard put deft humor into his direction, and a clever cast includes Raymond Walburn, Lee Bowman, Bonita Granville, Felix Bressart, Donald Meek and Ann Morriss.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Kit Carson"

From the sarong of a South Seas island chief to the buckskin costumes of Kit Carson—all in a week—is the feat of Jon Hall, who starred in "South of Pago Pago" and who was signed by Producer Edward Small to fill the title role of "Kit Carson," the adventure romance now on view at the McCarthy theatre.

And how it all happened is another one of those incredulous Hollywood occurrences that enables a corps of nearly 400 correspondents to keep newspaper columns and magazines filled with increasing stories of life in the movie capital.

Hall gained stardom two years ago when he was picked from the ranks of unknowns and given the leading role in Samuel Goldwyn's great screen spectacle, "The Hurricane." But in the following two years, Hall did nothing, because Goldwyn did not consider that the right role had been presented. His period of idleness ended, however, when Producer Small asked to borrow Hall for a starring part in "South of Pago Pago," in which he shares acting honors with Victor McLaglen, Frances Farmer, Olympe Bradna, Gene Lockhart.

Near the end of shooting on "South of Pago Pago," and while Producer Small was making plans to film "Kit Carson," Hall appeared at the studio wearing a ten gallon hat and a semi-cowboy outfit. He had a late call for work that particular day and had spent the early morning hours horseback riding with his wife, Frances Langford.

As he and Small met near Hall's dressing bungalow, the producer was impressed by the sight of the handsome young star attired as a cowboy and it aroused his curiosity as to how he would look dressed as Kit Carson. That night, after the day's work on "South of Pago Pago" had been completed, Small made a test and when he showed it to his studio staff the next day there was a vivid clamor to have Hall in the role of Kit Carson.

Small lost no time and within a few hours he had made arrangements with Goldwyn to borrow Hall a second time. Hall, quite naturally, was overjoyed.

His only regret was that he had to start to work in "Kit Carson" exactly four days after he completed his role in "South of Pago Pago" and this necessitated his cancelling plans for a fishing trip off the coast of Mexico which he and Frances Langford had planned to enjoy in their big sailboat. Instead, he went far away to eastern Arizona, riding over the very trails which Kit Carson blazed a hundred years ago as he led the westward march of American civilisation.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking home from school with Shorty Judge and Lucky Leroy Shooster and Glasses Magee, and Puds Simkins was walking with Skinny Martin a little ways ahead of us, Shorty saying, That guy Puds is a heck of a guy, his berthday party is Sattiday and nobody's got a written invitation yet.

Sure, good night, a invitation's not legal unless it's written, Leroy Shooster said.

His father being a lawyer and Leroy always claiming he knows what's legal, and I said, Well G wissickers I think we ought to kind of five him a sort of a hint.

Wich we did, hurry up catching up to him, and me saying, High, Puds, how's your party doing?

It's doing swell, there's going to be a donkey game, and swell soovenirs for everybody, and lots of stuff, Puds said, and Shorty said, Have you done anything about the invitations yet, Puds?

Sure I have, I know exactly what I'm going to say on them, Puds said, and I said, Well jimminy, Puds, I mean G roozalem, it's only a few days to Sattiday and nobody hasn't got any yet.

Oh, they will, dont worry, I'm going to give them out any day now, Puds said, and Shorty said, Well I'm glad to hear it, because I've got a swell box of candy for a present for you, and if I dont get my invitation soon I'm libel to open the box and eat a few to be on the safe side.

Sure, Puds, that's a way I feel, I said. I'm not going to tell you what my present is, but it's something I wish I had myself, and if I don't get sure about about my invitation soon I'm libel to unwrapp it and use it to keep it from going to waist, and even if I break it a little I guess it can be fixed, I said, and Puds said, Well hay, keep your shirt on, I told you you'd get your invitations any minute now, didn't I?

Any minute sounding sooner than any day, and Puds went right in his house and when I went in for supper I found my invitation in the vestibule, and so did the other fellows in theirs.

SPECIAL !
PERSONAL CHRISTMAS CARDS
25 for $1.00
"With your name imprinted"
ORDER EARLY!
SILLS BOOK STORE
222 Front St. Phone 1829

Union Vale

Union Vale — The snow plow made its first appearance last week when the snow storm caused all roads to be impassable.

Only a few people were able to go to vote on Monday on account of the bad roads.

A number of the children here are confined to their homes with measles and chicken pox.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vincent and George were recent Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. M. Brummell at Warings Corners.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clowe spent last Sunday with relatives at Frankford.

Mrs. Clare Pearsall and Aileen spent the week-end in Peterborough.

Mrs. Maggie Riedell of Kingston spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. C. A. Vincent and Mr. Vincent.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pearsall and Leland were last Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. M. Brummell of Warings Corners.

Greetings
BRING THE CHILDREN!

SEE
The Big
SANTA CLAUS PARADE
in
BELLEVILLE
This SATURDAY
2.00 P.M.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS of Distinction . . .

AT THE Georgia Salon
GIFT HEADQUARTERS
It isn't a Mite too Early to Start
Your Christmas shopping — in fact it's the smart thing to do while choice is unlimited.
● FILMY SCARVES
● WOOLLEN GLOVES
● COSTUME JEWELLERY The Gift that is Different!
AN UNRIVALLED SELECTION
SKIRTS and SWEATERS
THE PERFECT COMPANIONS
1.98 and up
EACH
BLOUSES
DAY and NIGHT MAGIC MAKERS
● LINGERIE
● Tailored Pyjamas
HOSIERY
THE SUPREME GIFT!
A Gift of Long Wearability and Glamour — Fashion's Favourite Shades.
The GEORGIA SALON
AT OUR NEW LOCATION — 226 FRONT STREET

"WE NEVER SEEN A DOLLAR STRETCH SO FAR!"
"YOUR DOLLAR IS WORTH $125"
Watch Your Dollars S-T-R-E-T-C-H
DURING OUR RECORD-BREAKING
FURNITURE SALE
Drastic Reduction in Fine Quality KROEHLER Suites
BONA FIDE Savings!
1/4 1/3 1/2
FLOOR SAMPLES and ONE-OF-A-KIND
Come Early for Choice Selection

Yes, it's true. Your dollar actually stretches, goes farther and buys more during this great sale. Because, here you can buy fine nationally-famous KROEHLER suites at big savings—suites that ordinarily sell for $125 and $165 now only $88 and $119. Every suite is made with the famous KROEHLER 5 STAR CONSTRUCTION and that means long life, lasting satisfaction and correct styling. Come in tomorrow sure. Quantities are limited.
Prices Range from $69 to $249.50
The Family Gift!
KROEHLER
9-Piece
Living Room Outfit
Complete for $89.50
DAVENPORT
CLUB CHAIR
Rich Velour OCCASIONAL CHAIR
COFFEE TABLE
END TABLE
TABLE LAMP and SHADE
2 SILK CUSHIONS
$5.00 DOWN.
$1.00 WEEK
KROEHLER
Kroehler Reclining Chair
WITH OTTOMAN
Regular $29.50 for $19.95
500 GIFT SUGGESTIONS Visit Our Main Floor Gift Department.
New Percival Furniture Co.
302 Front Street Phone 2265
MAKE THIS A FURNITURE CHRISTMAS.

WOMEN'S FUR TRIMMED
MOTOR BOOTS
Black or Brown. All Heels. All Sizes.
$1.98
220 Front St.
YOU ARE INVITED TO LOOK OVER OUR SELECTION OF CHRISTMAS GIFTS WHILE IN BELLEVILLE WITHOUT OBLIGATION TO BUY.
REWARD
SHOE STORES
GIFT SLIPPERS
FOR HIM or FOR HER.
79c up
Belleville

LOST SUNRISE

by KATHLEEN NORRIS

INSTALMENT 1.

Kenthill at last, and the bus stopping at East and Market streets. The sleepy little California town, snuggled down among vineyards and orchards on Putah Creek, with Napa forty and Sacramento eighty miles distant, was one of the hardest places in the state to reach, somehow! Unless of course one had a car, as everyone did have these days. But Polly Henderson, assistant librarian in Sacramento's public library, had not yet risen to a financial position that justified the dignity of owning her own automobile, and had to travel by train and bus. Tugging at the heavy suitcase, she came finally to a familiar corner of the town and gave an audible sigh of relief. That was certainly Old Washburton house over there under the magnificent rise of foliage on elms and maples. The quiet village street was lined with great trees that took something from its air of general shabbiness and decay on this soft June morning. But the houses all said "poverty" as only old neglected houses can say it.

Polly panted her way to a certain gate, and went up a straggling path to the house, which was built of brick and had a fine spread of library and parlors on either side of the wide hall. The door was open now, and a girl crossing the hall with a newspaper bundle of dead flowers and rubbish and wet clipped flower stems stopped, gave a shrill scream of joy, set down her burden and flew at the arrival with open arms and wild kisses.

"Polly!" she shouted. And then to other members of the family unseen, "Mom! Kip! Polly's here!"

A stout beaming woman in a faded bungalow apron came out to greet her, accompanied by a staring boy of ten, and another girl—this one older than the first—had skimmed like a beautiful bird of paradise down the stairway and joined the excitement with more kissing, exclaiming and embracing.

"Well, here's our bride! Let me look at you," said Polly Henderson, holding the last arrival at arm's length. "Sheila, you're thin! But darn it, your looks still make me tired!"

At this they all laughed joyously and sympathetically, for Polly was of the sweet, lean, homely rugged type that never by any chance is rated as pretty, and Sheila Washburton, for every one of her twenty-seven years, had been the prettiest girl in any group she had happened to adorn.

"Oh, Polly," said the girl who had found her first, in a tone of fervent gratitude, "now you're here I really believe Sheila is going to get married tomorrow!"

They were all going upstairs now, helping to install the visitor in the guest room, anxious to give her the whole story at once. How surprised everyone had been when Link Baker and Sheila had quietly announced it, and how plans had been suddenly accelerated by his acceptance of the big litigation case out at the mine, and how Sheila had said first that she wanted to be married in slacks and a bandana, by old Judge Spencer, and how mother had been simply horrified and had insisted on a church wedding, and how it had gradually grown from a home wedding to a church wedding and from a going-away suit to white crepe satin and Grandmother Washburton's veil. . . .

Polly, listening and thrilled as she changed into something cool, could not hear enough. She had not been to the Washburton house for at least five years, but before that she had been a neighbor and Sheila's idol and closest friend. She had taken courses in library work and passed her civil-service examinations long before Sheila had, but for two years they had worked together in the Kenthill public library before Polly had been moved to Sacramento. Through the years they had kept in touch; seeing each other whenever Sheila went to Sacramento, and more than once going for a week-end or a brief holiday together. She had refused to be a bridesmaid, with Gwen and Maude Miller, but she was interested in every detail.

Sheila's mother, with a final warning that she wanted them to come downstairs on the stroke of half past twelve, because luncheon was eggs and they wouldn't wait, had departed, and Sheila's small cousin Kip had gone, too.

Gwen brought in the bridesmaid's dresses, very simple but as fresh and pretty, Polly said at once, as a June wedding deserved. "Miss Fuller's to be here all afternoon in case Maude's needs a little changing," Gwen explained eagerly. Aunt Phil sent Sheila two hundred and fifty dollars; wasn't that delish?"

"Everything's delish now," Sheila explained, with a patient smile for Polly.

"Oh, yes, we have that in the library, too," Polly answered; "this book is delish, and the other book isn't so delish. I suppose it'll pass like everything else."

"Like the miniature golf courses and putting mud on your face," Gwen supplied, with her own peculiar vitality and spirit. Polly looked at her sharply.

"Gwen, what have you done for yourself? You look sort of — picturesque," she said, hesitating for word. She glanced at Sheila. "Is she pretty, or am I mistaken?" she asked.

"Nobody's pretty with Sheila in the family," Gwen complained.

"I think my little sister's more than pretty," Sheila said. Gwen flushed with pleasure and shyness. "And she's pretty good to me!" Sheila went on. "I couldn't get married without Gwen. Lists and announcements and checking this and that, and counting plates and washing china and answering the telephone . . ."

"But it's the most fun I ever had!" Gwen protested.

"She's getting as much thrill out of it as . . ." Sheila began, when Gwen had left the room. She stopped short. Polly looked at her with a keen, gray-eyed gaze.

"You weren't going to say 'as I am'?"

"Well, if I was, that wasn't what I meant!" Sheila confessed, laughing. "I'm getting everything I ever wanted, and I've had some beaus in my day! Link's everything. He's handsome in that gawky, honest, Lincoln kind of way that's been the only kind of handsome I ever liked. That's why they call him 'Link'; everyone calls him Link. He's thirty-five, eight years older than I am, which mother says is perfect. He's a lawyer, you know, but somehow there's nothing stodgy about it. He was private secretary to the governor of the state while he was in law school, and he loves politics and making speeches! It sounds as if he might get into something thrilling some day, doesn't it? Washington perhaps, or maybe some consulate or mission, something like that. And then—this sounds silly, but Link's terribly good. Just old-fashioned good. I mean straight and square and serious and — well, everything! I've waited, and now I've got what I want. And I adore him!"

Tears came into her eyes. She laughed through them.

"What brought him to Kenthill, Sheila?"

"The big case at the Lone Star Mine. Link's representing the owners, and the prosecution is being carried on through the federal courts. Some case! If he wins it, he says himself it'll make him famous."

"Fun for Mrs. Lincoln Baker."

"His real name is James Gunther Baker. But even the papers, talking of the case, call him Link. I'd known him a week before I knew his real name. He's from a tremendously American family, Boston and Back Bay, and all that, but he took his law work out here. They all moved out to Sacramento about fifteen years ago. He's a junior member of a firm there, Cutler and McIntosh."

"He sounds our representative American. I see you in Washington giving lunches for senator's wives."

"I shouldn't wonder. Anyway, it'll be a career," Sheila said contentedly. "He's ambitious. . . . There's the lunch bell."

They were going downstairs now. Polly delayed her to say, "I'm amazed at Gwendolyn. She's grown up."

"Hasn't she? She's really a wonderful person, Gwen."

"And she's so good-looking, Sheila. Her mouth is perfectly fascinating. I never saw such white teeth and such red lips and such a brown skin. And her eyes, too—they've got so much expression."

"She's darling," Sheila said, almost absently.

"You couldn't call her pretty," Polly mused. "But what a—what a WOMAN she is! How old is Gwen? Twenty?"

"Twenty-two last week. Yes, I know what you mean, Polly. She's got force somehow—character. She really has character. She can talk to anyone. She even keeps dad in order."

"She was always like that. But she's got looks now."

"Yes, if ever there was an ugly duckling come to life, it's Gwen."

A tall man came in the opened front door as they descended the stairs, and Polly looked on with satisfaction and a little thrill as Sheila went into his arms. She heard their easy laughter.

"How do you do, Miss Henderson?" Link Baker said smilingly, as he was introduced. "I've heard more about you than about the cherry crop this month."

"Well, you can imagine what I've heard about YOU!" Polly answered, flustered and laughing.

Creased and battered shades were drawn in the dining-room, but still the air was hot, and the arrows of sunshine that pierced through the creaks and slits were blazing swords. But the eggs, scrambled with fresh tomatoes, were delicious; and tomorrow was Sheila's wedding day, after all the fact enough in itself to insure a sense of gala and gaiety in the circle.

The joyous, affectionate, talkative Washburtons, Polly thought, as she watched and listened. They had been like this years ago, sitting down ten or a dozen to every meal, chattering and noisy, teasing their stout placid mother, infinitely generous toward the gentle unsuccessful inventor who was their father, adoring each other through all their quarrels and arguments. A lonely child herself, her only sister much older, fatherless daughter of an almost silent mother, Polly had once loved the Washburton house as a place representing all that her own cramped young life lacked, all that it wanted.

She saw more clearly today. She reflected that there must have been plenty of bad management, of slipshod inefficiency, to reduce the once substantial family fortune to almost nothing; to force nineteen-year-old Peter junior to a job, rather than a college career; to put eager, handsome Gwen into an office position. The Washburtons had once been the town's great folk; the Washburton Memorial Library, Washburton street, Washburton bridge all attested it. A portrait of the first Peter Washburton hung in the court pioneer Peter, who had come to room at the City Hall — bearded, Peter, who had come to Sutter's Fort in a covered wagon in 1849.

Polly saw the stained old wallpaper, the ragged carpet, the nicked fine cups and plates. She saw Gwen leap for fresh bread; saw Peter scraping plates quite as a matter of course when the first course was finished. The second course more iced tea, a fresh bowl of cracked ice, another enormous bowl of cherries, and some cubes of stale ginger-bread.

They were ten today. Beside Peter senior—a— quiet, white-whiskered old man with dreaming eyes, who told Polly in an aside about the patents that were going to make him a rich man—and the ruddy, sturdy mistress of the house, there were Polly herself and Gwen, Peter junior, rather tired and tumbled from work at the mill, but with his black hair very slick and his face and hands clean, and a younger boy, Kip, the child of Mrs. Washburton's dead brother who had been a member of the family for several years. Then there were Miss Fuller, the dressmaker, silent, eyeglassed, pleasant; Link Baker; slim, capable, impatient little Aunt Sis, who was eternally attempting to bring the whole family, and her own lazy Washburon husband as well, up to her own standard of New England thrift and energy.

And finally, of course, there was Sheila, tomorrow's bride, and as beautiful in her flowered shirt and shabby old slacks as she would be even in her wedding finery tomorrow. Sheila at twenty-seven had hardly reached the zenith of her extraordinary beauty; it was not flashing beauty; there was nothing startling about it.

Today she was a little pale, but all the lovelier for that. Her hair, was of the same warm golden brown as her skin. But her eyes were purple-blue, and the deep fringes of her lashes and the clean line of her brows were almost black. The nose was straight, and fine and the scarlet mouth was small—too small, Sheila herself thought. "It gives me a pouty, spoiled sort of look," she said.

But, as always with rare young beauty, it was not the separate quality of feature that made Sheila's face irresistible in charm where another of the same sort might have been a blank. It was the infinitesimal gradations in the placing of the wide, innocent eyes; the length of cheekbone that gave a hint of austerity to the shape of her face; the cloud of gold-brown spun silk at the temples that lay so lightly against the gold-brown skin. And it was the intelligence that animated the whole; the flash of her eyes; the quick laughing speech that was characteristic of the Washburtons.

"Funny," Polly mused on, as the joyous noontide babel went on about her. "Funny that just sheer beauty should make such a difference in a woman's destiny! Not that Sheila hasn't more than beauty. But actually—actually—I shouldn't wonder if Gwen turned out to be the more interesting woman!"

And she looked at Gwen, who was managing affairs at her end of the table, managing them with a force and capability that Sheila never had shown, even in such trifling matters. Gwen was running the haphazard luncheon definitely and efficiently, and Polly presently discovered that she was running the wedding as well.

Presents and callers straggled in all through the afternoon. Great sheaves of white flowers arrived, sent from this neighboring garden or that; Miss Fuller's sewing machine never stopped buzzing. In the kitchen colored Tryrena Washington and her married daughter Goldina were working away among pyramids of plates, piles of napkins, boxes of food.

"No matter how much you think you've done in advance," Gwen said, panting, "Christmas and weddings are always a form of major convulsion!"

She stood, hands on hips, surveying the living-room. A disheveled gypsy, in a faded cotton blouse and old flannel slacks, yet Polly, looking at her, realized that someday Gwen Washburton would be called beautiful. Never pretty, never blooming or girlish or Junelike, no. She was not the type. She was tall, with wide shoulders and slim hips; her cloud of fine black hair was carelessly pushed back today; she wore it loose in careless curls with a deep black bang touching her black eyebrows. The deep-set eyes were fine, keen, intelligent, well-placed; her wide, sweet, mobile mouth was exquisite, and a perfect flash of white teeth showed dazzling in the even brown of her thin, rather long face when she smiled.

But, as with Sheila, it was in the contours of the face that the charm, a hidden and elusive charm, lay. The rather long cheek-modeling, the clean line of the chin and the hint of a cleft in its centre, the molding of the low forehead under its picturesque fringe, and the blunt tip to the nose all made Gwen a rather odd-looking, serious-looking little girl, but were all somehow attractive now. Polly watched her today as much as she did Sheila, and wondered what her thoughts were, and what her life here was.

"You'll be next, I suppose, Gwen?"

"Who? I? Don't fool yourself. I'm a born old maid."

Polly looked at her steadily, unsmiling, and Gwen flushed suddenly. She laughed defensively.

"Don't say things like that," Polly said. "No girl of—what are you? Twenty-two? No girl that age is a born old maid."

"You think every girl ought to marry?" Gwen was tired now; the afternoon had waned to a warm sunset; she was lying flat on her bed, resting for a few minutes before the supper preparations must begin and the whole group must file to church for a rehearsal. Into the big airy upper bedroom garden scents were drifting. The two women were alone.

"No," Polly said hesitantly. "I don't think that—quite. But I know that every woman, given the right circumstances, would marry at one time or another in her life."

"Given the right circumstances," Gwen echoed. "But Kenthill does not supply the right circumstances," she said. "What boys are here? I could name them on my right hand. Sheila had the pick of the lot. But they're all alike, just—men. Link's different. He's — exciting. Polly, you were engaged once, weren't you?" she added suddenly.

Over Polly's homely face, faded and tired at thirty-six, an old reminiscent look came, narrowing her eyes, causing her to catch her lower lip in her prominent front teeth.

"I was engaged to Frank Steele," she admitted slowly. "It was — heavens! — it was twelve years ago. It was just the time mama had her first stroke. I think," she went on, speaking half to herself now. "If I'd known mama was going on exactly the same for twelve years, except for that second little stroke, I'd have married. But everyone was against it—the doctor, and my sister Rita, and everyone. Everyone said, 'You can't possibly leave your poor mother, now,' and Rita was just going to have a baby. What with one thing and another it seemed as if I had to put it off, and then Frank was ordered away—he was a lieutenant, and within a year he was married to a girl at Cheyenne. All for the best, maybe!" Polly finished, with a philosophical laugh. "Mama needed me, really. Only, Gwen," added Polly, in a lower tone. "I'd hate to have you—I know it'll mean more responsibility for you with Sheila gone, and I would hate to have you feel . . ."

"I wouldn't really," Gwen assured her. "And I don't think mother would try to hold me if I really wanted to get married. But luckily, I don't. I'm—t—his is an awful thing to confess—but I've come to the conclusion that the growing pains I feel all over me are ambition. Isn't that revolting? But I mean—well, wanting to travel, and wanting to be an actress and wanting to write poetry, and wanting everything in general and nothing in particular. Isn't that ambition? Isn't . . ."

Interrupted by a persistent voice somewhere below stairs. Gwen, gathering her old kimono about her, fled to investigate, returning some moments later with boxes of newly arrived wedding presents, telephone messages, two telegrams and several letters.

"It's nearly six," she announced. "I'm nearly dead on my feet but mother wants me to get dinner because the Feltons and old Miss Cartwright are here admiring our decorations, and the rehearsal's at half past seven."

She had pulled a blue cotton apron over her head; now she hurried downstairs again and into the kitchen. Gwen flew at the manifold details when Sheila and Polly, Peter Washburton senior, Mrs. Washburton, Miss Fuller, Kip, two aunts and a boy cousin materialized for the meal, protesting that it was an outrage for company to stay in a house the night before a wedding, a great platter of browned hash and noodles was smoking on the table. Everyone fell to without formality.

"I feel like a dog, taking her away from you," Link seized a moment to say to Gwen at the church, when the rehearsal was over and the others had drifted away, except Polly and Sheila, who were deep in consultation with the organist. "Your father—he got me quite depressed today. He said he was afraid your mother's health would suffer and that it would mean a heavy burden for you. It seems his invention is just at the stage when it really absorbs his full attention, and he doesn't feel he can take a paying position until he gets it approved by the patent bureau in Washington."

Gwen's rueful laugh interrupted him.

"Link darling," she said, "I can't remember a time when dad's patent didn't need his full attention, especially when there's been good reason for him to do something else. He's always working either at the burglar alarm doorsill or the insect soap. He never does anything else. He never will.

They joined the others, and Sheila and Link loitered behind the group and were presently lost somewhere in the quiet country-town streets. Gwen was busy at home for an hour before going upstairs to bed. She looked out of her window and saw them down at the gate, under the lilacs and maples in the spring moonlight, talking, talking, with her head on his shoulder and his arm about her.

Sheila presently came in, her eyes stars. Gwen, by now established in bed and reading, watched her as she went dreamily about, creaming her fine ivory skin into even purer beauty.

Suddenly Sheila came over to Gwen's bed and dropped on her knees, her arm laid across her sister, and they talked for a while. Gwen was reiterating all her plans for the next day when Sheila said abruptly, "Gwen, there's something I wish hadn't happened."

Instantly Gwen was all attention.

"What, Sheila?"

"Oh, something . . ." Sheila said. Her look and her voice drifted into space. "Something that happened years ago—seven years ago," she began with a slight effort.

"Dad selling the Lyons street lot to the railway?"

"Oh, no, no, nothing like that!" Sheila laughed faintly, without mirth. "Something I did," she said hesitantly, frowning slightly.

"Something you did!" Gwen was made uneasy by her sister's tone rather than her words. "What could you do?" she asked incredulously.

"What every other fool girl does," Sheila answered bitterly, not looking at her. "What I'd give my life, now, not to have done!"

Gwen could find no words. She stared at her sister in silence.

"I fell in love with Tony Lamont," Sheila said flatly. Her eyes were fixed on space; it was as if she spoke to herself.

"But—but even if you did . . ." Gwen said, stammering, "even if you did—Sheila? Sheila!"

The last was a cry of loyalty, of protest and unbelief. Sheila had not spoken. But she had moved her eyes slowly to Gwen's eyes, and Gwen saw the look in them, and she knew.

(Copyright, 1939, by Kathleen Norris.)

(To be continued)

Six Are Cited For Brave Acts

Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 5 (CP). — Posthumous award of the Royal Canadian Humane Association's parchment certificate was announced here for Harold Duffet of Glace Bay, N.S., who, with Jeanette Moore, also of Glace Bay, rescued Leo Jackson from drowning at Glace Bay Lake July 29, 1940.

Four other Nova Scotians who received the award of the parchment certificate were:

Mrs. Marion C. Hayden and Harry Gray of New Glasgow, for assistance in the rescue of Jean Schurman from drowning at Black Point, N.S., July 18, 1939.

Baden Powell, Halifax, for the rescue of John Boutilier from his burning home at Halifax, May 4, 1940.

Otis Mosher, Lower La Have, N.S., for the rescue of William Creaser from a well at Lower La Have, May 16, 1940.

Pick Your GIFT IDEAS off the CHRISTMAS TREE

GIVE THEM SOMETHING TO WEAR

FOR MOTHER
A HANDBAG
Smartly styled . . . assorted leathers and fabrics in all new colors. A practical gift . . . a useful gift.
1.00

FOR SISTER
HOSIERY
First quality full fashioned hose. We'll gladly help you with her size and color.
79c

FOR DAD
TIES
All individually boxed . . . latest patterns . . . every tie a new one. See this marvelous selection!
25c up

FOR BROTHER
FINE SOX
Fine wool sox in all newest colors and patterns. A worth while gift to a worth while man. Buy several pairs at 39c

FOR WIFE
A Bed Jacket
Fluffy brushed rayon in all the soft pastel tones . . . a lovely gift . . . individually boxed.
1.00

FOR BABY
A Kimona Set
With booties to match . . . lovely warm sets . . . ideal for baby's gift. Pink or blue.
89c

FOR HUBBY
A Bathrobe
Warm eiderdown robes in neat patterns. . . . Colors of brown, grey, maroon, blue, etc. Full cut and styled right.
2.95

FOR WIFE
PYJAMAS
Butcher Boy or Cossack styles, in blue, pink, maize or white. Smartly styled and trimmed. Sizes small, medium or large.
1.00

FOR MOTHER
A House Dress
Just the thing for mother—new designs and styles in fast color washable house frocks. All colors in sizes 14 to 44.
1.00

FOR HUBBY
A SWEATER
Smart long sleeve pullovers in the honeycomb weave — green, grey, maroon, royal, black or white.
1.98

FOR DAD
A SHIRT
Sanforized, fast color. All new patterns and designs with smart fused collars. Sizes 14 to 16½.
1.00

FOR SWEETHEART
ROBES
Chenille type, quilted satin or striped satin, in every desirable style and color . . . don't miss this group from 2.95 up

FOR ANYONE
SLIPPERS
No matter who—they'll appreciate slippers — for men, women or children. All the smartest styles priced from
39c to 1.98

FOR BROTHER
PYJAMAS
Smart yarn cloth pyjamas for men. Warm striped fabrics, well made . . . always acceptable.
1.59

FOR SISTER
A SLIP
Smooth satin in white or tea rose, demurely feminine or smartly tailored. Sizes small, medium or large.
1.00

At LIPSON'S

DON'T LET IT HAPPEN AGAIN!

● Don't get caught without rubbers or overshoes. Our prices are lowest and our selection the largest. Check these items!

All Our Rubbers And Overshoes Are First Quality Guaranteed And Made in Canada.

Women's Fur Trimmed 1.98
First quality velvets in brown or black. All heels and sizes from 3½ to 8. Pair ....

Women's Rubber Overshoes 98c
Fleece-lined rubber overshoes, black or brown, all heels and sizes, two dome fasteners. Pair.........

Misses' 3-Buckle 1.35
Misses 3-buckle cashmerette, first quality. Sizes 11 to 2½. Pair..............................

Men's One-Buckle 1.09
Men's cashmerette one-buckle overshoes. Sizes 6 to 11. Pair ....

Men's Two-Buckle 1.67
Men's cashmerette two-buckle overshoes. Sizes 6 to 11. Pair ....

Men's Red Sole Mackinaw 1.35
Heavy work rubbers with bellows tongue and six eyelets. Guaranteed first quality. Special, pair...

EVERY OTHER POPULAR STYLE FOR MEN, WOMEN, OR CHILDREN AT EQUALLY LOW PRICES !

SHOP AND SAVE AT Lipson's "BELLEVILLE'S FAVORITE STORE"

BUDDY HELLYER MAKING GOOD FOR THE HORNETS

Toronto Leafs Probably Have Another Hockey Find in Montreal Right Winger

GETS FOUR POINTS

Scores Winning Goal After Assisting in Three Previous Tallies

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs may well have struck another hockey find in 20-year-old Buddy Hellyer, who is travelling the same stamping grounds as did Billy (The Kid) Taylor, Leafs' brilliant young forward.

A raw-boned right winger from Montreal, Hellyer was signed by Toronto after playing last year with the Dominion junior champions, Oshawa Generals—the team that Taylor starred with two seasons ago. Like Taylor, he was sent to the American League for experience and is more than holding his own.

A timely goal by the young winger last night did much to tighten up the standings in both sections of the American circuit. His fourth point of the game, it gives Pittsburgh Hornets a 5-4 overtime victory over the high-riding Springfield Indians.

The triumph—fourth straight for the Hornets—moved them to within two points of the idle Cleveland Barons, leading them in the league's western division. As New Haven Eagles defeated Indianapolis Capitals 3-0 in the only other game, Springfield's loss enabled the Eagles to climb within five points of the Indians leading the eastern section.

Indians Garner Three Goal Lead

At Pittsburgh, Springfield sprang into a 3-0 lead over the Hornets on goals by Fred Thurier, Fred Hunt and Glenn Brydson, who incidentally are running one-two-three in the league's individual scoring race. Hellyer helped Roubell get one of them back before the end of the first period.

After a scoreless second period, Hellyer and Roubell both combined to help Archambault score for the Hornets early in the next and then Hellyer again aided Archambault tie the count at 3-3. Steele scored for Pittsburgh and Thibeault for Springfield before the end of the period, with Hellyer taking Archambault's pass for the winning counter after 2:32 of the overtime.

A shutout performance by goalie Phil Stein, on loan to New Haven from Montreal Canadiens, helped the Eagles to their victory over Indianapolis. Speedy George Mantha put New Haven ahead with a first-period goal and Marcel Tremblay and Gus Mancuso increased the lead in the final frame.

DODGERS OBTAIN CATCHER M. OWEN FROM CARDINALS

MacPhail Gives Catcher Mancuso, a Pitcher and 75,000 in Cash for Brilliant Backstop

PENNANT FEVER

Brooklyn Has Paid Out Over $300,000 to Secure Pennant Club

Atlanta, Dec. 5—(AP)—The man with the money bags is in town, and if pennants can be purchased, Brooklyn's Daffy Dodgers will be in the world series next fall.

Larry MacPhail, the gent who likes to talk in six figures, has this 39th convention of the minor leagues in a Santa Claus mood. And money talks.

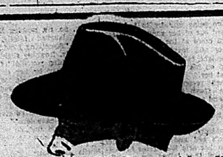
Yesterday the Dodgers tossed Catcher Gus Mancuso, a rookie pitcher and a wad of cash estimated at from $65,000 to $75,000 on the line in exchange for the St. Louis Cardinals' young catcher, Mickey Owen.

Today the man with pennant fever was in a huddle with Pittsburgh Pirates, dickering for Outfielder Debs Garms and willing to be talked to about anything else that can put the Dodgers ahead of the league.

MacPhail's deals now have cost the Brooklyn bankroll better than $300,000—still a good way behind Boston's "Angel" Tom Yawkey, but promising enough to make the National League feel Christmasy.

But where Yawkey tried unsuccessfully to buy a pennant-winner with gold-plated names, MacPhail is putting his cash on the line chiefly for young talent. With the exception of veteran Outfielder Joe Medwick, acquired from the Cardinals for $150,000, his deals have gambled on the future—$100,000 for the Phillies' pitcher, Kirby Higbe and yesterday's Mickey Owen buy.

The minors headed into the second day of their convention, but the majors still held baseball's attention with lineup-juggling sales and trades.



There's No Finer Gift Than an Adam Hat

Adam Hat Gift Certificates are now on Sale at Our Store, $3.85.
YOU GIVE THE CERTIFICATE.
HE SELECTS THE HAT.

MEAGHER'S

"ON TOP WHEN IT COMES TO HATS"

GENTLEMEN!

The GEORGIA SALON
WILL SOLVE YOUR
GIFT PROBLEMS.

226 Front Street

D3-5-7

Black Hawks Can Tie Wings For Second Place by Winning Home Game Against Detroit

Toronto Leafs Are Well Out in Front and Playing Smart Hockey

RANGERS COMING

Game of the Week Will be Played With Bruins in Toronto Saturday

(By The Canadian Press)

Take the National Hockey League race up until now and it has been Toronto Maple Leafs first and the rest nowhere.

That was the description once given to a horse race won by Man O' War and it seems an apt way to describe the manner in which the Leafs are running in front of their N.H.L. opposition.

Because the Leafs are fairly well out in front, and seem in no danger of being caught for some time, more than the usual amount of interest attaches to the battle going on for second place among Detroit Red Wings, Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins.

The Wings have the edge at present, with 12 points, while the Bruins are in third spot with 11 points and the Hawks in fourth position with 10. The Hawks, however, can jump into a tie with the Wings as the two clubs meet tonight at Chicago in one of two scheduled games. In the other Montreal Canadiens take on New York Rangers in Montreal.

Rangers, Canadiens, and New York Americans are also closely bunched, with only two points separating the fifth place Rangers and the last place Canadiens. Canadiens could gain a tie for the fifth spot, leaving Americans in the cellar, with a victory over Rangers.

Manager Mervyn (Red) Dutton of the Americans is engaged at present in viewing the talent in the American Hockey League in the hope that he can bolster his squad, which has been riddled by injuries. Dutton's injured men are Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty, Harvey Jackson, Pete Slobodian and Squee Allen.

Can't Carry This Mascot

Purdue has a football mascot to rank with the Army's mule and the Navy's goat. The Boilermakers have a locomotive for a mascot. Students and alumni consider it appropriate, if unwieldy, to the tradition of their teams.

The engine was built from funds contributed by students, alumni, and friends of the university. William H. Winterrowd, president of the Purdue Alumni Association and vice-president of a locomotive works, provided the superstructure, but the chassis was made elsewhere. When it was found the two parts didn't fit a local gear and tool company went to the rescue with adjustments.

NEWARK BEARS TO HELP YANKS

Thanks to their Newark farm club, the New York Yankees may find their greatest problem, pitching, solved partially when the 1941 season rolls around.

The Bears wound up a successful campaign, due chiefly to a half-dozen hurlers. The Bears took second place in the International League, trounced Baltimore in the final I.L. playoffs and then beat Louisville of the American Association in six games to win the little world series.

* * *

Steve Peek, who clinched the title for the Bears against Louisville, is one of the most likely hurlers due for promotion to the Yankees. George Washburn, Norman Branch, George Barley, Allen Gettel and Hank Borowy who learned his pitching at Fordham, are others set for a chance with the Yanks.

All six of these lads are young and ambitious. They've come a long way during the year under the capable tutelage of Johnny Neun, successor to Oscar Vitt as Newark manager.

Newark recently won its third little world series title in the four years they've competed with the American Association playoff winner. It was the first time the Bears won the series without first taking the International League title. Their conquest of the Colonials meant bonuses ranging from $700 to $1,000 to the players.

When you want Santa . . to do a real job . . . for a real "guy" You'll Find his gift at

Esquire FOR MEN

"WHAT MEN WEAR"

STREAMLINERS PRODUCE WIN FOR NEW COACH

London Looked Like New Machine in Defeating Niagara Falls 3-2

MARLBOROS WIN

Hamilton Suffers Second Defeat of Season by Losing to Toronto 8-7

(By The Canadian Press)

Perhaps it was a coincidence, but London Streamliners did something for Ernie Dinsmore last night they hadn't been able to do recently for Dr. Jerry Laflamme—they won a game.

It was Dinsmore's first night as coach since Dr. Laflamme was released and Streamliners looked like a completely renovated hockey team as they beat Niagara Falls Brights 3-1 for their second victory in 10 Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" games this season. The triumph took the play almost completely away from Toronto Marlboros 8-7 victory over Hamilton Dofascos in Toronto.

London hockey fans have been promised a new deal, and they now have received the first instalment, at least. Streamliners looked like a useful machine for the first time since they scored their other victory some weeks ago.

Pat Wilson scored the game's winning goal in the second period, after each club had scored twice in the first. Goalie Ernie Radiff was the hero of the third period, standing off a potent Niagara Falls attack that did everything but score.

Imlach Scores Winning Goal

Dunc Galbraith scored first in the first period on a play with Kowalski, but Hap Cooper tied the score on a pass from Bobby Walton. Then Ilo Marzo, on a double-passing play with Geddes and Galbraith, sent London ahead for a second time. Again the Brights equalized, this time on a solo by Walton. Wilson's goal in the second period was the pay-off counter.

George Imlach scored the goal that beat Hamilton on a pass from Eddie King late in the third period to break a 7-7 deadlock. Other Marlboro goals were scored by Ezeard, McNamara, Davidson, King, Shortt, Inglis and Shamlock. Woodward and Miocinivitch scored two goals each for Hamilton, with singles by Brady, Barlow and Shillington.

It was the second straight defeat for Hamilton, and hoisted Marlboros over Oshawa Generals into second place, one point back of Dofascos, who were unbeaten this season before their second last game.

Streamliners still rest in the league cellar, but after last night no one is so sure that they are resting, or that they'll stay there.

Intricate Names On Puck Rosters

The National Hockey League is getting to be a nightmare to proofreaders. Among the names now hard to spell are Hergesheimer and Gottselig of Chicago Black Hawks; Tony Graboski, of Montreal Canadiens; Slabodzian of New York Americans; Giesbrecht, of Detroit Red Wings; Shewchuk, of Boston, very frequently spelled, in error with an extra "C" in the last syllable. If Roy Bindernagel makes good some day with Boston Bruins, John Mariucci returns to Blackhawks, Art Herchenratter, of Indianapolis comes up to Red Wings, Bus Wycherly makes the grade with Americans, and Bill Juzda clicks with New York Rangers, everything will be just dandy for the proofreaders.

Stanford Cinderella Team Of Pacific Coast Football

By SAM JACKSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Palo Alto, Calif., Dec. 5 (AP).—A Cinderella story of football is being written this season, and its logical story book ending should take place in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day.

Its hero is Clark Daniel Shaughnessy, Stanford University's new coach. With the same players who in 1939 gave Stanford its most dismal, disastrous season in years, he mopped up on the Pacific coast conference.

Stanford defeated its old rival, California, last Saturday by a 13 to 7 score thus assuring a Rose Bowl appearance in as hectic a rise to football fame as has been witnessed along the west coast in years. The year 1940 will always be remembered at Stanford as the season they rose from rags to riches.

At the end of 1939, Stanford had had C. E. "Tiny" Thornhill as football coach for seven years. With his famous "vowing sophomores" he had won a conference championship and a Rose Bowl date three times, but recently things were going badly. Except for its final victory over Dartmouth, the Stanford team was unable to win a single game on its 1939 schedule.

From Chicago.

Thornhill was dismissed. About this time the University of Chicago, after a humiliating season of lop-sided losses, decided to discontinue football and Shaughnessy became a coach without a team. Stanford hired him.

Shaughnessy, 48, has been identified with football as either player or coach for thirty years. His reputation was made largely at Tulane and Loyola Universities in New Orleans.

Shaughnessy brought with him the T formation which the professional Chicago Bears use for offense, and ingly in coast football.

Quarterback Star.

Shaughnessy is coaching the Indians through a brilliant season, but which had been employed only sparthe man who does their thinking on the field as well as their most spectacular playing is quarterback Frankie Albert.

Because of his deadly passing, Albert is being mentioned in the same breath with the great Sammy Baugh. And his admirers believe that if he doesn't rate all-America at the end of this triumphant Stanford year, next season—he has another year of competition—he is sure to make the grade.

Albert is a left-handed passer and a left-foot kicker. When he's in the game—which is practically all of the time — he does Stanford's punting and goal kicking, in addition to calling the plays and handling the ball from centre in Shaughnessy's T formation.

Junior Hockey Passes Out Of Kenora and' Brandon

Many Big League Puck Stars Rose From West Loop Now Only a Memory

EVEN RINK CLOSED

Winnipeg, Dec. 5. — The league which gave icemen like Wally Stanowski, Turk Broda, Pete Langelle, Babe Pratt, Alf Pike, Bryan Hextall and Alex Shibicky—to mention only a few—to the National Hockey League, has run into a peck of trouble this fall. Right now, the two divisions of Manitoba's junior hockey league are in a precarious position.

Out of last year's powerful five-team south division, only three clubs are ready to face the barrier. The other two, Kenora's western junior champion Thistles and Brandon Elks have disbanded for the season. Meanwhile, four clubs from the north division faced a breach in the contract which last season bound their operations to Winnipeg's Olympic rink.

* * *

Financial arrangements proposed by the M.A.H.A. to govern operations of the north division this season have been rejected by the four teams — Elmwood Maple Leafs, St. Boniface Athletics, St. James Canadians and Canadian Ukrainian Athletic Club. The teams made known their intention to forego playing at the Olympic rink under the M.A.H.A.'s terms to a special association committee. No decision has been reached as yet.

Kenora's withdrawal from the south division after the greatest season in the little Ontario town's lengthy history was precipitated by the fact all except three of last year's players graduated from junior ranks.

Furthermore, the fact that approximately 500 of the town's citizens—potential fans—joined active service forces prompted the executive's belief that gates during the season would not be sufficient to offset expenses incurred in importing capable players.

* * * *

The Arena rink at Brandon became Manning Depot No. 2 for the Royal Canadian Air Force last summer and no steps were taken by hockey or business men there to construct a new home for their club. In fact only a $2,000 outdoor rink, built by a fraternal organization, will be used in Brandon this winter. It will accommodate minor hockey and pleasure skaters.

Thus two of Manitoba's—and perhaps western Canada's—most illustrious teams will be out of junior hockey for the first time in almost a decade. Kenora always was a power in the south division, winning the Manitoba title in 1934 with Babe Pratt the spark plug. Brandon reached the western final in 1938, losing to Edmonton Roamers, who, in turn, lost to Billy Taylor and Co., in the national final.

Planning to operate this season are Winnipeg Monarchs, Winnipeg Rangers and Portage Terriers, while Selkirk Fishermen, with whom Chicago's Paul Goodman played goal in his senior hockey days, may move into Kenora's vacated spot in the south group.

CONDITION MAIN FACTOR

Boulder, Colo., Dec. 5 (CP).—Ted Allen, who makes a living out of pitching horseshoes, says there's more to throwing ringers than just tossing the shoes. He is a player at exhibitions and fairs.

"You have to keep in good physical condition all the time," says the young man who claims an eight-year hold on the world's championship. He exercises for weeks before tournaments, pitching about 300 shoes a day.

"Y" Alleys

Ladies' Afternoon League

Aviators 4 points.
Mrs. J. Kerr	180	237	156—573
Mrs. Farrell	169	122	156—446
Mrs. Drumm	168	171	124—458
Mrs. Stan. Kerr	115	150	128—393
Mrs. Marvell	160	134	160—453
Total	791	805	724 2320
Busy Bees 0 points.
Mrs. J. Smith	136	104	163—403
Mrs. Fordyce	118	116	86—321
Mrs. Ross	182	175	120—477
Mrs. Diamond	162	174	157—493
Mrs. Scott	139	115	146—399
Total	739	686	670 2093
Happy Gang 0 points.
Mrs. Herrington	118	100	113—331
Mrs. F. Charlton	90	99	98—287
Mrs. Barr	50	78	97—225
Mrs. Lawrence	100	105	131—336
Mrs. Bray	163	96	117—376
Total	511	480	556 1547
Goodfellows 4 points.
Mrs. Jobson	112	89	88—289
Mrs. Storey	96	105	140—336
Mrs. Carscallen	89	126	137—351
Mrs. Chick	126	131	145—402
Mrs. Gharrie	153	87	142—382
Total	573	537	652 1762
Ladies' Evening League
Meads 4 points.
A. Schrieder	90	151	126—367
V. Sarley	98	191	145—416
G. Scriven	108	124	84—316
F. Reid	154	124	161—439
J. Doe	170	79	109—358
Total	620	669	625 1914
Old Maids 0 points.
V. Hopkins	33	70	55—158
E. White	118	44	67—229
P. Allin	110	122	143—375
E. Langabeer	106	145	91—342
M. Kelleher	165	111	162—438
Total	532	492	518 1542
Gang Busters 0 points.
N. Sprague	45	107	87—239
J. Redner	59	103	80—242
M. Adams	80	115	150—345
H. McLaughlin	116	93	75—284
J. Doe	48	100	—148
M. Jobson			134—134
Total	340	518	526 1392
Happy Gang 4 points.
D Peets	128	171	110—409
V. Jamieson	134	116	107—357
B. Horrigan	128	121	113—362
A. Peets	100	132	195—427
G. Carscallen	151	191	165—507
Total	641	731	690 2062

Recreation Alleys

Ladies' League

Modern 3 points: M. McGinness 488; M. Connell 351; T. Cole 465; H. McGinness 377; E. Connell 529—2210.

Met. 1 point: J. Muir 451; P. Rawson 470; M. Tufts 468; J. Doe 344; F. Doe 358—2091.

Guild 0 points: E. Clapp 426; D. Ferguson 323; A. Jeffery 437; J. Doe 319; J. Brown 349—1854.

Swift 4 points: H. McQuaid 585; B. Russell 501; V. Smith 353; E. Hall 395; M. Bentley 359—2193.

Happy Gang 0 points: D. Arnott 322; J. Lynch 370; E. Harvey 346; N. Sexsmith 329; F. Domenico 475—1882.

Reliance 4 points: E. Jobson 394; J. Farrell 550; E. Wilkins 415; V. Kerr 461; E. Cox 318—2262.

Major C League

Pepsi Cola 3 points: H. Salisbury 513; D. Huffman 444; J. Truaisch 540; G. Sinfield 669—2166.

Luckins 1 point: J. Hanna 439; A. Stewart 439; M. Callaghan 513; J. Wilkins 607—1998.

Bank of Montreal 4 points: Perdue 594; Berry 565; Kirkwood 417; Schaefer 495; Robertson 546—2617.

Shell 0 points: O. Gibson 496; R. Lewis 528; G. Marvell 460; A. Dafoe 530; J. Doe 379—2413.

R.C.A.F. 4 points: T. Fardella 525; E. Thomas 602; T. Harrison 505; J. Barrett 527; R. MacDougall 432—2651.

York Trading 0 points: Kuntze 439; Kincaid 442; Kincaid 355; Griffin 507; Donovan 517—2260.

Busy Holidays Ahead . . .

Time to dress up and GO PLACES in a New Tuxedo

Quick & Robertson
"CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY"

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with
Ken J. Colling

Received a letter from George Morden of Picton the other day. Mr. Morden is the guiding light of juvenile hockey in Prince Edward County, but apparently is running into difficulty in the organization of his little league this year. It seems the Wellington rink will not open for hockey this winter, as it is being utilized for military training purposes. In other years Mr. Morden operated a juvenile group of Picton, Wellington, Bloomfield and sometimes one other Prince Edward County team. With the Wellington rink closed two of the teams are "gone with the wind." Mr. Morden is desirous of sponsoring one team in Picton and entering it into a district league with clubs from Belleville and Trenton also competing. However, as the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association has already organized with four local teams playing at the Hume Arena, there is little possibility of this city entering into such a proposed district league.

While on the subject of juvenile hockey, it looks as though the local teen-aged association is losing some valuable time, now that the Hume Arena is slated to open within a matter of hours. It would appear as though the Juvenile Association could just about steal a march on the O. H. A. club by organizing and opening their league as soon as possible, thus giving the fans a taste of the great winter pastime before the senior clubs so much as get organized. The early bird always gets the worm, they say and here seems to be the opportune time for the juvenile hockey moguls to avail themselves of some good hockey weather and have the picture all to themselves, to say nothing of deriving some much - needed revenue. Coaches and managers have been named for the four local juvenile teams and all that is needed is a 48-hour period for registration and they could swing into hockey action late next week and possibly conclude the first half of their schedule before New Years.

Do you remember when champion jockey of the year, Ivan Parke rode five straight winners and a second at a Jefferson Park meet 17 years ago today. Parke finished the season with 173 wins from 718 mounts? The following year he went on to lead the field with 205 winners in 844 races.

The so-called "weaker sex" continue to topple the timber at the Recreation Alleys with amazing dexterity. In the Ladies' League the other night the "Just Us" quintette rolled 1109 in one game, a magnificent score for any girls' team. Here are the individual scores recorded: Florence Walden, 282; Marg. Hallam, 198; Jean Croft, 198; Ev Whalen, 244 and Bee Doolittle, 187.

Youse gals and guys can get the old blades out and sharpened ready for a whirl over the ice at the Hume Arena within a matter of a few hours. Night and day the attendants at the Arena have been flooding and a fine sheet of ice is ready for the skaters right now. No doubt the Arena will be open for skating over the week-end.

Some person is always trying to take the joy out of life. From south of the border comes a story that some person has invented an automatic umpire for the calling of balls and strikes in baseball. The machine operates on the principal of electric wave beams, which, when broken by the pitch, registers on a gadget on the scoreboard. Just how the fans and players will take to this robot umpire business is questionable, because the batter and pitcher will be shorn of that useful alibi employed when the human is calling 'em. For instance a batter will no longer be able to growl about the umps being blind as there's little satisfaction arguing with a mechanical device. However, when night ball was first introduced the moguls said it was "a passing fancy and would never last." Now it's in the majors for keeps. With the robot umpire, however, one of the fans' pet privileges would be taken away if they had no plate umpire to put on the pan and roast a deep brown. That is one of the features of baseball for a lot of folk and they are not likely to accept any mechanical substitute for the flesh and blood target they have been in the habit of gunning for all these years.

Owing to the snow-clogged roads and last night's blinding blizzard, the Belleville Reliance versus Kingston hockey game in the Van Horne Memorial Series was postponed. It was impossible for the Belleville sextette to make the trip to Kingston under the prevailing weather conditions. The Queen's versus Perth-Smith's Falls game of Monday night was postponed for the same reason, snow-filled roads. No doubt the Kingston moguls will play both of these postponed games on the same night when, and if ever, the snow abates and the highways are opened up.

Slowly news is leaking out of the Minor Leagues' convention at Atlanta, Ga. At last Larry McPhail pried Mickey Owen, good St. Louis catcher, from the Cardinals, but not before the Red Birds had obtained catcher Gus Mancuso and a bundle of "ironmen". The world champion Cincinnati Reds traded shortstop Bille Meyers to the Cubs for Jim Gleeson and Bobby Mattick.

President Ted Schwab dropped in this a.m. to say the juvenile puck heads would take registrations any day now....The Jo Jo Graboski-coached Glace Bay team is leading the Maritimes puck loop with seven for and five against....Both games were postponed in Kingston last night marking the first time in the history of the Van Horne series it has been necessary to postpone both halves of a scheduled double-header..Doc Prothe is back with the Phillies, but why we just can't imagine....Be prepared to welcome the Belleville junior puck-sters bedecked in gaudy-colored uniforms this season...."We hope to get away from drab colors and add a little oomph to the club's jerseys," quoth Prexy Bill Cook.

Dancing Steps Prove Aid to Basketballers

Des Moines, Dec. 5.—Bill Williams, Drake University's veteran basketball coach, has been doubling in the role of dancing master during the weeks preceding the start of the 1940-41 season.

Each day's practice of the Bulldog basketeers starts with a full hour of sliding, gliding and pivoting.

Williams said he got the idea from Sam Barry, basketball coach at the University of California, who has been using dancing steps for the past three seasons to develop grace, good timing and a flowing, liquid speed, helpful in winning games.

FOUGHT YEARS TO CLEAR NAME

Death of Former Officer of British Army Recalls Famous Incidents

London, Dec. 5 (CP).—Persistent but unsuccessful battler against the War Office in an effort to have his name cleared after a 34-year-old incident, Major William Augustus Adam has died. He was 75.

The tangled case began in 1906 when he and several other officers of the 5th Royal Irish Lancers were asked to resign their commissions. Although he was removed from the strength of the regiment, he was appointed a staff officer at the war office and held the position until 1910.

Major Adam contended the War Office took their action because of information lodged by an informer. Once he said he believed it had been reported to the War Office that he owed money to a woman and that was the reason for their action. He said he had a legal statement from the woman denying it.

He entered parliament as member for Woolwich in January, 1910, but was defeated at the election in December. He had raised in parliament the question of the officers having to resign and contended that fact and the revival of rumors concerning him caused him to lose his seat.

The story had a court angle when he brought a libel action against the late Sir Edward Ward, permanent secretary of the War Office, for publishing a letter about him and after a six day trial the jury awarded Major Adam £2,000 (in those days $9,720) damages. Appeal judges decided the occasion was privileged and he lost his £2,000. The House of Lords upheld the Court of Appeal.

Since 1910, Major Adam had brought his case to the notice of successive prime ministers and war ministers and it was raised in both houses of parlament but he never succeeded in having it reopened.

He said once: "I was engaged to the woman, a beautiful widow, but I had to break off the engagement when I became aware that she was an inebriate. Soon afterwards a rumor went round I owed her money and the rumor persisted, although I had a legal statement from her denying it."

Commends Canada's Soldier Education

United States Authority Here To Look Into Programme For War Services' Study

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (CP).—The way Dr. Morse Cartwright of New York views things, the United States is fortunate in having Canada next door to give the educational services of the United States a line on the best method of approach to soldier education.

Dr. Cartwright, director of adult education in New York has been in Ottawa conferring with the educational services branch of the Canadian Legion and studying textbooks and general administration of the educational services provided for men in the Canadian forces.

He said he was much impressed with Canada's system of soldier education and felt the dominion was providing an excellent example for a similar educational service in the United States where the army is undergoing vast expansion.

"The boys in our army are pretty much like those in the Canadian army," said Dr. Cartwright. "What will work for the Canadian soldiers will work for us and what won't work for them probably will also be a failure at home. Their needs and tastes are about the same."

Dr. Cartwright said he thought the legion's two-fold program—educational facilities that will make his lot better during the war and later during the post-war period—a practical and sensible arrangement.

Dr. Cartwright commended the recent decision of the Canadian general staff to appoint educational officers to co-operate with the Canadian Legion in functioning of the educational program.

The value of such studies in the army have a definite bearing upon morale and the development of democracy, he said. Democracy could only function among people who had a certain degree of knowledge and trained minds which made it possible for them to grasp the problems of their country and really govern themselves.

Dr. Cartwright suggested that one of the greatest post-war problems would be what to do with some 400,000 Nazi officers who had never had any training in democracy, never worked or been trained to work except in making the army a career—and had no knowledge of the kind of a world the allies would make.

AGED 17 MONTHS IS CAREER GIRL

New York Baby Has Charm, 13 Teeth and Earnings Piling Up Fast

New York, Dec. 5 (CP).—This will introduce Miss Elaine Altevogt, one of New York's most interesting career girls and just seventeen months old.

She is a model rapidly becoming famous.

You must have seen her—flaxen-haired and blue-eyed—smiling from the pages of your newspaper or magazine, showing what the well-dressed young person will wear and eat.

For Elaine, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Altevogt of New Hyde Park, L.I., has done a lot of work in her seventeen months. She has posed in the nude blowing bubbles in her bath and spooning porridge from a bowl. She has modelled the "last word" in fuzzy white snow suits and blue-ribboned Easter bonnets. And she has laughed and cried in the arms of model "mother" and "fathers" under camera lights.

She has done so well that she has her own trust fund. She also has a security number, a horoscope and thirteen teeth.

Unlike most career girls she hasn't a very extensive vocabulary. "Daddy", "mamma", "car", and "hello", are about the extent of her words and listeners have to use some imagination to recognize those.

Elaine's horoscope predicts a future as a movie star and she has had two interviews with representatives of movie companies. But, in spite of that, neither her father (an employe of the Bankers Trust in New York) nor her mother (a former music teacher) is much concerned about a movie career for her now.

Elaine herself isn't giving the future any thought. She's too busy with affairs of the present.

This career girl has a crowded daily program of bath, breakfast, outdoor play, lunch, nap, more play and dinner. Three or four times a week she drives into New York with her mother to pose in some photographer's studio.

In the writer's office the other day she investigated the ink on the desk, the rubber bands, the calendar and all the pictures, then settled down with a newspaper—held upside down. So her mother conducted the interview for her.

When the visit was ended the writer helped button her into her bright blue coat and said, "Goodbye. Come again."

"Hello," said Elaine, and went away with a smile.

Point Anne

Point Anne — The annual meeting of the L.O.L. 2599 Point Anne was held in the hall on Monday, Dec. 2nd. The officers for the coming year are as follows:

Past Master, Worshipful Bro. Walter Hull; Worshipful Master, Bro. A. B. Charlton; Deputy Master, Bro. John Logue; Chaplain, Bro. Geo. Carter; Recording Secretary and Financial Secretary, Bro. P. W. Akey; Treasurer, Bro. W. R. Juby; Marshal, Bro. W. Akey; 1st. Lecturer, Bro. W. G. Insley; 2nd. Lecturer, Bro. Harvey Scott; 1st. Committeeman, Bro. Murney Carter; Tyler, Bro. Chester Sheppard.

Corporal Geo. Ketcheson of Foxboro, who is District Master, was a visitor at the meeting. Mr. Ketcheson has donned the uniform of His Majesty's army since his last visit here. Following the election of officers and a short speech by the District Master, a bountiful lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed. Past Master Geo. Carter was in the chair for the election and installation of the 1941 officers.

Says It is Better To Bomb Oil After Hun Refines it

London, Dec. 5—(CP) — Hugh Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare, Wed., turmed "nonsense" suggestions advanced in some quarters that the Royal Air Force should bomb Rumanian oil wells.

He said oil at the Balkan source is in a crude state and therefore not highly inflammable.

It is better to wait, he said, until Germany has expended effort in transporting it to the Reich and money and labor in refining it, and then to bomb the combustible product.

AIR FORCE MEN CARRY RANK ON THEIR SLEEVES

Uniforms Distinctive and Badges Denote Various Stations and Duties of Air and Ground Crews

(This is one of a series on military uniforms in Canada and significance or lesser known rank badges.)

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (CP). — The air force, the youngest of the fighting services, is quite pleased with its uniforms. If you ask any airman how he likes his clothes he may grouse a bit about the tardiness of the new outfits coming through but he will claim his neat blue garb is smarter looking than the battle dress of the army or the wide pants and jumpers of the navy.

Although air force uniforms went through a period of evolution during and following the last war the present uniform was solidly established in Great Britain and Canada when the present war started and no material changes have been made since.

Like the men of the navy the men of the air force carry the story of their rank and station on their sleeves. If they are commissioned officers the blue bands around the sleeve cuffs of the blue uniforms tell their rank. If they are airmen or non-commissioned officers the blue bands around the sleeve cuffs of the blue uniforms tell their rank. If they are airmen or non-commissioned officers other marks on the sleeve indicate their rank and duties.

When a man enlists in the air force he is an aircraftaman. The first real step up the ladder makes him a leading aircraftaman and then he sports a white propeller on a dark patch sewn on his sleeve.

The next step up is the rank of corporal, which is indicated by two V-shaped stripes with the point downward. A sergeant wears three such stripes and a flight sergeant, which is a rank and doesn't necessarily involve ability to fly, wears three stripes and a crown. A warrant officer second class wears a crown and a warrant officer an adaptation of the Royal coat of arms.

When Wings Worn.

If a man is a qualified pilot, whether he be a commissioned officer or otherwise he wears the "wings", an embroidered badge with two wings, surmounted by a crown with the letters "R.C.A.F."

The wings are worn on the left breast just above the pocket. In the same place air observers, whatever their rank, wear the badge of their calling, a single wing attached to a large "O". Air gunners wear a single wing with the small letters "A" on it.

Pilots, air observers and air gunners are known in the force collectively as aircrew. The men training in the schools of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan for service overseas are all preparing for service as members of aircrews. To distinguish men training for aircrew from airmen doing ground duties the former are authorised to wear a small piece of white cloth at the front of their wedge caps.

This wedge cap is worn by all non commissioned personnel on all occasions but commissioned officers wear it only when they are on duty at air stations although they may wear it any time. On the street and at headquarters most commissioned officers wear a peak cap.

Officers of "air rank", air commodores and up, wear a double row of oak leaves in gilt on the peak of the cap and group captains wear a single row. Other officers wear a cap with a plain peak.

For summer wear the air force has a uniform of light khaki drill. In winter commissions dofficers wear a fur cap and other ranks wear a cap of heavy melton cloth in air force blue. It has big ear flaps which tie over the crown.

Guests In Training.

The Australian air force wears a dark blue uniform and Australian airmen now training in Canada can be distinguished from Canadian and British airmen by that. There is no difference between the garb of a Canadian airman and a British airman.

Officers and men of the Royal Norwegian Army Air Force in training at Toronto have forsaken the green uniforms worn in Norway. They have adopted the "air force blue" common to British air forces.

Rank markings, however, follow those of the British army rather than those of the air force, and rank designations are the same as those of the army. A silver stripe is substituted for the crown worn by British officers above the rank of captain. Lower ranks wear air force blue and are distinguished by a "Norway" badge on the sleeve.

The uniforms of the Royal Norwegian Naval Air Force, also in training in Canada, closely resemble the slacks and jumper of the British naval lower ranks, and the "fore-and-aft" and gold lace of Royal naval officers. Officers wear wings to distinguish them from their comrades in ships.

Red persale above the upper ring of a Norse officer's rank badge denotes a technician, and green percale is worn by non-commissioned officers. Students wear no distinguishing badges. Men of the Norwegian mercantile marine in the force for wartime service as mechanics wear chevrons.

Offers Five Dollars For Best Suggestion How Best to Live

Seattle, Dec. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Elle Russell, 72, has offered $5 to the person suggesting how best she could spend the remainder of her life.

"I was working on a yarn rug," she told interviewers, "when the realization came to me suddenly that my life was being wasted; that maybe I still could do something worthwhile.

"But what can I do. I don't like 'society.' I abhor bridge. I'm certainly not addicted to running about nights.

"I'm alone and don't know what to do with myself. And I certainly don't want to sit home and 'gather dust'."

"Don't think for a moment that I'm discouraged. It's just that I've been so busy raising my family that I haven't had time to think about interests for myself. Now my family is all gone."

Owning her own home and with enough income to live comfortably, Mrs. Russell added that "while I don't need money, an occupation that might help me earn a little might not be amiss. What I really want is to help others, and I wonder if someone could not suggest a way."

HEWART'S 18 YEARS

London, Dec. 5 (CP).—Lord Hewart, retiring Lord Chief Justice of England, has held the office for the record period of eighteen years.

TIN HATS IN FACTORY

London, Dec. 5 (CP).—Girls in some munitions factories have been issued with steel helmets, to be worn when the air raid alert is sounded or other warning of approaching enemy aircraft.

SOMEONE IN YOUR FAMILY WOULD APPRECIATE A Pair of Glasses FOR CHRISTMAS

EDWARDS EYESIGHT SECIALIST
"McCARTHY THEATRE BLDG."
BELLEVILLE - BELLEVILLE

GIFTS for EVERYONE ON YOUR LIST—at

I.D.A. ℞ DRUG STORES

Members of the INDEPENDENT DRUGGISTS' ALLIANCE

Here are some of the highlights from our stocks of smart, practical gift suggestions. There's a wide range to choose from — something for everyone on your gift list. Visit us this week-end and make your selection in convenient, friendly surroundings. Through co-operation, I.D.A. druggists offer you economy prices that make your money go farther. Plan now to settle your gift problems . . . and SAVE at your I.D.A. Drug Store.

English Lavender Gifts by YARDLEY Men's Sets $1.00 TO $2.75
YARDLEY Gifts for Ladies 55c to $3.25

She'll welcome a dainty gift of April Showers TOILETRIES by Cheramy
Perfume Star Package A reg. 50c perfume vial on a gold star 50c
Cologne 75c
Gift Sets 50c, 65c, $1.45
Dusting Powder in Gift Box .. $1.00

HUDNUT MARVELOUS GIFT SETS of Toiletries $1.30 $1.95

Hot Water Bottle guaranteed life 98c $1.39
STATIONERY in lovely gift boxes 29c 49c 89c
PINAUD'S Gifts for Men $1.00 $1.65
Thermos Bottles genuine Stronglas fillers $1.75 $3.50

Boxed Chocolates lb. 50c, 2 lbs. $1.
CANADA DRY Christmas carton of 3 family size or six 12-oz. size, plus deposit. 57c
VELVETTA Bath Salts 6 fragrances over 3 lbs to tin 59c
Lady Esther Gift Sets in beautiful boxes 25c, 50c, $1.
Wood's Bath Oil In choice of odours 35c, 60c, $1
BUBBLE BATH Bath luxury in gift pkgs. 50c, $1.00

EAGLE PEN and PENCIL Sets in gift boxes $1.19 $1.50

Gifts for Gentlemen by WILLIAMS
Shaving Cream, Lotion & Talc in a handsome box.. 98c
5-piece Set with guest sizes .. 49c
Vacuum Bottle, 15 ounce 98c
Leather Billfolds $1.00, $2.00
Eveready Flashlights $1, $1.50
Men's Brush & Comb Set .. $1.00

REVLON SETS
Lovely gifts of manicure beauty aids Illustrated $3.25; others 50c, 1.25 up

SCHICK SHAVER formerly $13.00 Now only $9.95
FACE - ELLE Gift pkge. of Tissue 39c & 79c
COMPACTS variety of styles 50c, 1.00, up
NOXZEMA GIFT of skin care aids 79c
WILKINSON English Razor Set $3.00

Rubberset SHAVING BRUSHES pure badger bristles $2.00 up

Wrigley's GUM 4 for 15c
Slip a few packages in every parcel you pack for the boys in the service—and in Christmas stockings. See the new "MERRY CHRISTMAS" carton of 4 5c pkges. — 2 Spearmint, Double Mint & Juicy Fruit — 15c.

BRITISH CONSOLS Costlier, milder tobaccos 50 for 60c
EXPORTS Finest Imported Virginia 50 for 60c
Players, Sweet Caps", Winchesters, Buckinghams, etc. Tins of 50—60c; 100s (Two 50s in pkge.) — $1.20.

DR. PLUMB PIPES $1.25

CUTEX MANICURE SETS delightful gifts. 35c to $3.00

SAVINGS BANK FREE—
You pay only for the blades at the regular price. 2.50
with the purchase of 50 Blue Gillette Blades
50 Blades in a book-shaped metal savings bank for the price of the blades alone.

PERSONALIZE XMAS CARDS or GIFTS
Make your Xmas gifts and cards personal this year. Print your portrait or favourite picture on handkerchiefs, scarfs, Xmas cards, stationery, etc. Or give a Sensichrome set itself — so simple a child can use it—no dark room required.
Sensichrome PHOTO SET NEW PRICE 89c

Special Assortment of CHRISTMAS CARDS
Box of 12, all different with envelopes, outstanding value 25c
Box of 18 superior cards with envelopes 49c
Christmas Seals, Tags, Envelopes, Twine, etc. 5c, 10c, 15c

Devon Shave Bowl - 29c, Kit Bowl & Lotion 45c
MENNEN'S SET Shaving needs for men contains $1.45 value 1.09
ROLLS RAZORS nickel & silver plated models 6.95, 8.95

ALWAYS POPULAR AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS—CAMERAS
Here's a Winner — THE NEW BROWNIE REFLEX
Easy to use .. smartly styled .. makes 12 pictures per roll of 127 film .. brilliant, full size reflex finder . . . braided carrying cord .. 6.75
OTHER CAMERAS SUITABLE FOR GIFTS—$1.25, $1.49, $3.75, $5.50, etc.

EVERYDAY NEEDS
ANACIN 22c, 43c, 69c, 98c
EX-LAX LAXATIVE 15c; 33c
BROMO-SELTZER 25c. 49c; 95c
DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD 49c
PINEX COMPOUND 35c
OVALTINE 38c; 58c; 98c
MULVENEY'S B-WELL .. 50c; $1.25
CLAPP'S BABY FOODS ....3 for 25c
FASTEETH POWDER 29c; 49c
DETTOL ANTISEPTIC 50c
MECCA OINTMENT .. 23c; 45c; 79c
HOLLYWOOD WAVE SET 15c
PRINCESS PAT ROUGE 55c

I. D. A. MEMBERS
Dolan's Phone 138
Doyle's Phone 326
Geen's Phone 131
Schryver's Phone 49
Pauley's Phone 105

THAT RUMOR ABOUT NASH WAS TRUE!
A New Kind of Car Enters the Low-Price Fields!

For The First Time
- ★ 30 to 35 Miles per Gallon of Gas in a Big Car!
- ★ Roomier than Many 1940 Cars Costing up to $200 More!
- ★ Flashing Pickup of New "Flying Scot" Engine!
- ★ A Coil Spring Ride on All Four Wheels!
- ★ New "Unitized" Steel Body—Safer, Quieter!
- ★ Improved Weather Eye Conditioned Air System . . . and Convertible Bed!
- ★ Overall Savings up to $100 a Year!

DeLuxe Four-Door Sedan Illustrated $1382

Good News! In the Face of Rising New Car Prices

TODAY—there's a new kind of car in the low price field—the 1941 Nash!

Little would you believe, as you look at the size of it—194 inches long—that it delivers 30 to 35 miles a gallon, to good drivers.

Powered by Nash's new "Flying Scot" Engine, it's the fleetest, smoothest "six" you ever drove!

You'll be delighted by the way it responds to the wheel and holds to the road. With Two-way Ball-bearing Steering and soft coil springs on all four wheels—it rides like a miracle in motion.

Its amazing quiet, its unusual roominess are due to a new kind of "unitized" construction. Frame and body are welded together. The front seat's almost five feet wide. The rear has ample space for Nash's big Convertible Bed.

Even the air you breathe is different—thanks to the new Weather Eye conditioned-air System.

See also the big, beautiful new Nash Ambassador Aeropowered Sixes and Eights—at your local dealer's. First public showing today!

The Nash Ambassador "600" ... the new low-price car. 6-cylinder Manifold-Sealed Engine. Six models.

The Aeropowered Nash Ambassador Six —105 HP . . . 6-cylinder Twin Ignition Valve-in-Head Engine. Six models.

The Aeropowered Nash Ambassador Eight—115 HP.. 8-cylinder Twin Ignition Valve-in-Head Engine. Five models.

*New 1941 prices begin in the low-price field—$1172 for a big Ambassador "600" Business Coupe. 4-Door Sedans as low as $1234. All prices, delivered here, include standard equipment and tax. Weather Eye, Fourth Speed Forward, Convertible Bed, Special Paint and White Side Wall Tires are optional, at slight extra cost.

As Low As $1172 Delivered Here

NASH DISTRIBUTOR
RIGGS MOTOR SALES
224 Pinnacle Street Phone 116

Go NASH AND SAVE MONEY EVERY MILE

Trend of Cheese Markets, Prior to and Immediately After War Began, Reviewed

H. L. Waters of Montreal Trades Assoc. Describes Difficulties That Were Faced by Exports When War Broke Out

U. K. ONLY IMPORTER

Text of address given by Mr. Waters at Cheesemakers' Convention:—

I feel it a privilege to have the opportunity of coming before you, representing the Montreal Provision Trades Association, and to bring you their greetings and best wishes for the continued success of your organization. The Trade in Montreal take a lively interest in the activities of Cheese Makers' Associations, realizing that on the efficiency of cheesemakers depends to a great extent the quality of the cheese made. In earlier years opportunity for contact among makers was limited, in fact, there was almost a feeling of exclusiveness, but the Cheese Makers' Associations have provided oportunities for contact and discussion of mutual problems which have let to greater efficiency in the work, and among younger makers particularly has helped to broaden and expand their skill in their profession.

It may be of some interest to trace briefly the trend of the cheese markets prior to the outbreak of war and immediately thereafter.

During 1938, war clouds were very heavy over Europe and this condition of anxiety was reflected in general business. Cheese was no exception and markets were irregular with exporters having a difficult time. A considerable quantity of cold-stored cheese was unsold at the close of navigation, and the mild open fall produced a greatly increased fall make. The stock position became progressively unfavorable, aided by an increased Australian production, and at 1st April, 1939 excess stocks were estimated at 150,000 boxes. The 1939 season market opened depressed with New Zealand cheese which had been pegged at 60/ dropping to 48/—49/—after the removal of the peg. The season was some two weeks late and at the lower prices demand improved, New Zealand working back to 61/—. In May, Canadian cheese held from the 1938 season were selling at 65/— equivalent to 13 cents. By June the political uncertainty in Europe was again a dominating factor in the markets, making buyers hesitant and trading increasingly difficult, until finally what the world had been fearing and dreading came to pass when on September 3rd, war was declared.

After some hesitancy buying was resumed, and during fall and winter, prices advanced progressively until 19 1-8 cents was reached in January. Freight space was difficult to obtain and War Risk Insurance somewhat complicated until the British Government coverage was established. There was no actual control over cheese prices in the United Kingdom as was the case with butter, but what was known as standstill prices were in force, these were spot prices designed to maintain consumer costs as close to the pre-war levels as posible, but c.i.f. prices were not fixed. They were only agreed prices and had no legal support. The standstill price as its inception was 64/—which was gradually advanced to 78/—in December, but somehow the c.i.f. market always seemed a jump ahead of the standstill price, and in February reached 109/—but buyers then began to realize some kind of control was imminent, and this proved to be the high point. In March the importation of foods was brought under a licensing system and import licenses were not granted for Cheddar Cheese over 80/—seaboard shipment, or 77/6 Montreal shipment, March make, this being equivalent to about 14.164 Montreal.

The next development was the publication of the Order-in-Council covering the agreement between the British and Canadian Governments for shipment of 35,000 long tons (78,400,000 lbs.) of cheese at a basic price of 14 cents f.a.s. or f.o.b. cars Montreal, and also the constitution of the Dairy Products Board. Recently the new contract has been announced covering 50,000 long tons (112,000,000 lbs.) at a basic price of 14.4 cents f.a.s.

Montreal Centre of Trade

Since the inception of the export of cheese from Canada some sixty years ago, the export trade has been largely centered in Montreal and all facilities have been provided there by the exporters for the handling, carrying and shipping of cheese, under proper conditions.

The Exporters at Montreal have unquestionably been a vital factor in developing and improving markets for the industry. Through their connections overseas and continuous effort to develop new markets in other countries, they have played a very important part in furthering the export of Canadian cheese.

It can be said that these exporters have provided a regular market through all these years for the producers' product, and whether conditions were good or bad, the producer has always been able to sell his output, receiving prompt payment with the consequent elimination of market risks to him. Even when markets were weakest and sales slow, the exporters would always be on hand to buy the offerings at fair prices, and active competition has always assured the producer of full market value.

Operating under the direction of the Dairy Products Board, weekly tenders of cheese are made for export to the United Kingdom at the agreement price.

The element of selling risk having been eliminated, some interests entered into the country markets during the past season for substantially larger quantities of cheese than they formerly bought or exported. This action resulted in prices at these markets being raised in many instances to a level where the margin was insufficient to cover the cost of properly handling the cheese in order to have them delivered to the ships in proper condition and at the required temperature. As the Ministry of Food is now the only buyer of cheese for the United Kingdom, it is reasonable to expect that cheese should be tendered to the dairy products board by exporting firms, whose normal sales outlets have been temporarily closed by the war and on a quantity basis properly related to their former activities.

These organizations built up over the years to provide the proper facilities for handling export cheese are a necessary unit in the industry and when the war ends (which please God may be soon) the producer will again require buyers who are prepared to take the market risks so as to provide him with a regular outlet for his product.

The recent forward steps taken by the industry under the "Cheese Factories Improvement Act" have resulted in greater care being given to cheese before shipment from the factory and it is all the more essential that this care be continued at all stages throughout and it is, therefore, necessary as stated above that cheese should be handled through channels which provide the facilities for proper storage and handling.

Fortunate in Having a Market

I cannot express any opinion on the justice to the producers of the 14c price or the new contract price of 14.4c. The producers have had difficult times and should be entitled to a price which will give them some profit over their cost of production, but it must be borne in mind that, with other markets for Dairy Products eliminated by war, it would be impossible to find an outlet unless Britain was willing to take all the surplus produced. In considering prices one very important fact must be considered. During the 1914/18 war credits were available and money could be freely borrowed on the international markets, but now international credits are unobtainable and countries must finance themselves by internal loans and higher taxation, and provide the necessary exchange (either by having previously accumulated it or by the sale of securities, goods or services) to finance their purchases in other countries and so it is not a question of willingness to pay prices asked but the ability to provide the necessary exchange for payment of goods, that governs purchases. Inflation was one of the most terrible results of the last war and Governments now seem determined to resist this evil by all means in their power and if it can be avoided the post war readjustment will be much more orderly.

When European countries fell to the Invader, it represented to Britain a loss of very large quantities of dairy products, especially butter, which had normaly been imported from these countries. Import of butter having been about 225,000 tons yearly from these countries, out of a total import of 475,000 tons.

It may be of interest to note here that Britain's total imports of butter from 1914 to 1918 declined from 313,000 to 70,000 tons. Serious doubts arose how Britain could maintain her rations in the face of this loss but war demonstrates on how much less food than normal a country, under controlled war conditions, can maintain itself and still have sufficient, this being accomplished partly by the use of substitutes, by actually reducing consumption and by the elimination of waste.

Reserves in Storage

Britain had fortified herself with enormous reserves of other essential fats and is maintaining a ration of 6 oz. fat per week (in any proportion, but not exceeding 2 oz. butter.) The margarine is an excellent product containing the necessary vitamin factors and sells at /5d to /9d per lb. compared to 1s/7d for butter. The improved quality and larger consumption of margarine may cause a serious post war problem for butter exporting countries. Cheese has not so far been rationed but maximum prices are fixed, the retail price being 1/1 per lb.

The whole system of British Food Control, while publicly criticised in some respects, is a marvelous organization with a yearly turnover of more than two and a half billion dollars, a staff of 23,000, distributed in 17 main divisions and 15,000 sub-divisions. The system is scientifically based on the required nourishment of the people balanced with the supplies of the different foods available. While all foods are not rationed, there is an import licensing control of practically all foodstuffs and the Government can, therefore, control the use of freight space to the best advantage. In allotting space for the import of foods, the energy yielding value in thousands of calories per cubic foot of shipping space is a factor taken into consideration. On this basis the principal foods are rated thus: Butter 145, Fats and Tallow 118, Sugar 83, Cheese 56, Bulk Wheat 56, Dried Fruits 55, Bacon 39, Frozen Beef 26, Eggs in shell 12. Food values are also considered and the priority list is stated to be: 1—Wheat; 2—Dairy Products; 3—Fresh Meats; 4—Bacon and Cured Meats; 5—Fish, Canned and Frozen; 6—Poultry and Eggs; 7—Canned Fruits; 8—Canned Vegetables; 9—Fresh Fruits.

Need Increase in Production

The recent announcement of the new contract covering 112 million lbs. of cheese will necessitate a considerable increase in production. The increase amounts to 15,000 long tons, which is the same amount by which New Zealand undertook to increase production under their new contract, which was renewed in September at the same prices as the previous contract. So far this season, New Zealand has shown record all time production the figures being:

Three months August/October

	Cheese		Butter
	1940	1939	1940	1939
Tons	22960	14340	36689	28815

With the realization of their national duty, which the producers have shown since the outbreak of war, it is not to be doubted that the call for increased production will be fully answered. Britain is intensifying her efforts to increase home production of all foodstuffs, and it is interesting to note the volume produced there on the relatively small areas available for cultivation. The latest figures available are 1934-6.

	Imports %total	Home Prod. % total	Rep. Prod. People million
Wheat, flour	76	24	11
Meats	50	50	23
Sugar	72	28	12
Milk	—	100	45
Butter	91	9	4
Cheese	72	28	12
Potatoes ...	4	96	43
Fruit	68	32	14
Eggs	44	56	26

These figures have since been greatly exceeded.

New Conditions Will Arise At End of War

The Dairy Industry faces changed conditions now under a war regulated world. When the war ends entirely new conditions will arise but the underlying natural laws on which all commodity markets are based will still be there and will still rule. In the background will be the consumer upon whom the whole structure of markets is founded—if the consumer cannot or will not buy the goods at the price offered they simply cannot be sold. The consumer in the final analysis regulates prices, and elasticity of demand depends, not only upon price and the possibility of substitution of some other food, but also upon consumers ability to buy, and the greatest problem of the post war era will be to adjust supply to demand. Probably with so many countries out of production, and so many people having been deprived of sufficient food or sufficient variety of food there will be no problem of demand immediately, but in time countries will return to their former volume of production and will do this as speedily as possible, so it is not difficult to foresee in a few years after peace returns many problems arising for the producing and exporting countries. It would be well that this be kept in mind.

Domestic Consumption

In closing, may I say a few words on this subject. While under the stress of war it loses much of its importance, there is an angle which may be considered. I refer to the consumption of the more fancy types of European cheese.

On the subject of diet much has yet to be learned but in the art of dining, we have inherited the wisdom of centuries, this art being based upon very ancient tradition of the proper choice of the foods we eat and drink.

Cheese has been called "The poor man's blessing—the connoisseur's delight." Except for a few unfortunates who find cheese indigestible, the old adage continues true that "Cheese digests everything except itself, and bread digests cheese," perhaps therein lies the virtue of the Englishman's lunch—bread, cheese and beer, and these provide a simple feast, satisfying hunger and thirst and supplying nourishment at low cost and justifying the phrase "the poor man's blessing."

"The connoisseur's delight" is a much broader subject. The general description of fancy cheese covers a wide range from the mild and almost frail and innocuous dairy cream cheese to the outspoken Port de Salut (Oka) and the vigorous Limburger and I think we should include in the list of fancy cheese the best fully-matured Canadian Cheddar.

Tastes in cheese are entirely individual, what one person may like another may think unpleasant. To some the more pronounced flavors would be repulsive while to another the flavor leaves in its trail a lovely lingering sensation in the palate of the fortunate diner to whom it surrenders its ghost.

There are about one hundred and fifty varieties of cheese, but in general it may be said that each cheese exporting country has a cheese for which it is famous. To mention some, Cheddar and Stilton from England, Dunlop from Scotland, Caerphilly from Wales, Gouda from Holland, Edam from the Netherlands, Roquefort from France, Parmesan from Italy and Emmenthaler or Swiss Cheese from Switzerland which some wag described as Switzerland's gift to Scotland, because the elegant large holes of which it is largely composed, do not weigh anything and, therefore, do not have to be paid for.

In normal times, there is a certain amount of these types of cheese imported but it is unlikely that any will arrive during the war and therein may lie an opportunity for Canada to build for the future an expansion in domestic consumption. If these "connoisseurs" can be supplied with the very best Canadian Cheddar matured to the degree where the full bouquet and nutty flavour (nutty seems to be the only word to describe the true Cheddar flavour) are pronounced, will there not be the likelihood that they will continue to favour this type even after their old favorites again become available?

It is a question whether the consumption of cheese in Canada can be greatly increased purely as a food product, except at the expense of other protein foods, meat and eggs, of which we are already large consumers, but it would seem that as a relish or dessert the use of matured cheese can be broadened and with many true cheese lovers deprived of their imported favorites, the best matured Canadian Cheese may win new friends—let us hope so.

"No Medicine Ever Helped Me Like Syntona Did", He Says

Tells of Grand Relief From Rheumatic Pains and Constipation After Years of Suffering. Ankle was so Sore He Couldn't Walk on it.

When a medicine has merited the hearty endorsements of reputable men and women that Syntona has, it would surely be a mistake if others who suffer similarly did not give it a fair trial. Syntona is a liquid medicine made from pure herbal extracts that have long been known for their medicinal value. It contains no harmful drugs or depressors.

Taken before meals, it mixes with the food you eat and promotes proper assimiliation of food for energy and resistance and it rids the system of excess acids and irritating waste matter that are often the real cause of headaches, rheumatic pains, nervousness, sleeplessness, stomach trouble, and tired, rundown feeling. Mr. Robert C. Cox, Lynden, Ont., is another well known man who is pleased with the results he got from Syntona, and here is what he reports:

"For several years I have been troubled with constipation and no matter what remedies I used I just kept getting worse until I developed a rheumatic condition all through the muscles. I had my ankle sprained many years ago and it was left weak so the pains troubled me worst in that joint. It got so sore and stiff I couldn't walk on it at all.

"It was only a few weeks ago that I was persuaded to try Syntona and I am happy to say that in that short time it has given me great relief. My bowels have become regular, the inflammation in my ankle has receded to where I can get around easily and the rheumatic pains have gone from the rest of my body entirely."

All who suffer are cordially invited to put Syntona to the test. It has helped hundreds here and you, too, may receive these priceless benefits. For sale in Belleville by DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

MR. ROBERT C. COX

N. Z. CONTACTS PACIFIC ISLES

Southern Dominion Arranges Closer Ties With Free France Possessions

Auckland, N.Z., Dec. 5 (CP).—The decision of the French possessions of Noumea and Tahiti to rally to the cause of General de Gaulle and Free France has resulted in closer ties with British possessions in the Pacific.

Following a plebiscite in Tahiti, Moorea and the Paumoto Archipelago which resulted in an overwhelming vote in favor of General de Gaulle—5564 votes to 18 for the Vichy government—the New Zealand government on behalf of other governments of the British Commonwealth made contact with the new administration.

This was done through a highly placed government officer. He visited Tahiti, where he found the new governor, M. Edmond Mansard, in office, assisted by members of the late governor's privy council, who had been largely responsible for the decision to support the Free French movement.

The governor and his advisers appeared to be firmly in control of the situation and to have the support of the great bulk of the population. Their co-operation with the New Zealand representative was most cordial.

It is intended that New Zealand, as closest neighbor of French Oceania, shall maintain contact with the territory. Prime Minister Fraser of New Zealand, stressed that French Oceania was not in any way merely a British protectorate under the supervision of New Zealand. French Oceania was being administered under the authority of General de Gaulle, Mr. Fraser said, through his appointee, and was freely and of its own desire, co-operating with the British Commonwealth in the present struggle.

Efforts are being made in New Zealand to increase trade with Noumea (New Caledonia) and shipping companies are making contact with exporters and importers in the French possession.

The bulk of New Caledonia's substantial nickel ore output will probably go to the United States.

Spain Shortens Leisured Hours

Madrid, Dec. 5 (CP).—The government has decided, in order to economize on coal and electricity, to make the leisurely Spanish people change their established habits of keeping late hours.

The decision, to date limited to a brief announcement that hours will be changed to rearrange the time people eat, work, go to the theatre and sit in cafes, brought widespread public speculation.

Spanish life is now geared much later than life in the rest of Europe. Most office work is done in the afternoon and evening. Spaniards eat luncheon at 2:30 or 3 p.m., dine around 10:30 and go to the theatre at 11. They usually are in their favorite cafes at 2 or 3 a.m.

SHOW BOYS HOW TO FIX MOTORS

Women's Service Corps Invades U.S. Camps Getting Practice in Mechanics

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 5 (CP).—Lug wrenches and pliers are replacing powder puffs as the American silk stocking army goes on the march.

Throughout the United States young women, eager to aid in national defence, are joining the National Service League Motor Corps, a volunteer organization that would drive ambulances and act as mechanics in case of war or a dire emergency.

The Tacoma unit was the first to get actual experience. While soldiers, shocked at seeing young, attractive women in overseas caps in their camp, watched bug-eyed, corps members worked on army ambulances at Camp Murray where the National Guard's 41st Division is having a year's training.

The idea of training Uncle Sam's young women to drive ambulances and be ready for non-combatant service originated with Miss Harriet Virginia of California, who was an ambulance driver overseas during the First Great War.

Although the girls will be prepared for overseas or hemispheric service, Miss Virginia — ranked as a "Lieutenant-Colonel" in the motor corps—states this as the organization's aim:

"In times of national emergency or local stress, earthquake or fire, invasion or bombing attack, the members of the corps will jump into their uniforms and go to their stations. They will be trained and disciplined, and they will hold the respect of the local police and military forces, and the public at large.

Christmas Cards With Courtesies

Writer Gives Timely Suggestions on Form and Content

Toronto, Dec. 5 (CP).—If sending Christmas cards is a burden, perhaps you're sending too many, says a writer on "Common Courtesy". After all Christmas cards should be limited to greetings for friends.

How you sign your name is up to you. To your closest friends, you may want to pen your nick-name. Husbands and wives, usually sign their names "Mary and Joe Baker". It is correct to sign "Mary and Joe" for greetings to intimate friends.

More formal engraved cards, especially those for acquaintances and business associates, may have formally engraved names: "Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stanley Baker". That goes for bachelor boys and girls too.

When you receive unexpected cards, be gracious in thanking the senders—not apologetic for failing to send them one.

B. P. Asphalt Tile Floorings

for Hospitals; Office Buildings; Churches; Apartment Houses and Hotels; Schools; Colleges and Residences. For modern taste in decorations and freedom from laborious housekeeping, colorful, warm, resilient B. P. Tile Floorings are specified for Hall and Vestibule, Living Room, Dining Room, Library, Sun Porch, Recreation Room, Kitchen, Bathroom.

ARTHUR A. SILLS

285 Colemen Street - - - - - - - - Phone 1584

APPROVED FLOORING CONTRACTOR.

CONGER LEHIGH
COAL

It's Going to be a Nice Warm Winter

in homes that are heated with Lehigh Valley Coal

Easy to hold down in mild spells, but quick to the rescue when the bottom drops out of the thermometer! This extra hard Lehigh Valley Anthracite will save you dollars too!

CONGER-LEHIGH COAL COMPANY, LTD.

142 Bridge St. E. R. E. ORR, Asst. Mgr. Phone 148

N26-D5-12-19-26

CHRISTMAS TAPS AT YOUR DOOR!

RED & WHITE Food Stores

16 MORE SHOPPING DAYS

Such a lot of things to do and such a short time before Christmas—but one thing that will help is the rapid service of your Red & White Store—so use the telephone freely for quality foods at low prices.

LIBBY'S—AUSTRALIAN
FRUITS FOR SALADS 16 oz. Tin 24c

SPECIAL OFFER
DAVIS GELATINE 8 oz. Pkg. 49c
A Recipe Book Free with Each 8 oz. pkg.

RED & WHITE BRAND
GREEN PEAS Choice Ungraded 2 tins 19c

JUST ARRIVED
SMYRNA EATING FIGS ½ lb. Pkgs. 15c

RED & WHITE BRAND
MATCHES Everyone a Strike 3 boxes 27c

McCORMICK'S FRESH
DIXIE BAR BISCUITS lb. 15c

TEA-BISK Makes light tea buscuits in a few minutes 33c

TODDY Chocolate flavoured food beverage ½ lb. tin 25c

COWAN'S COCOA ½ lb. 17c

JACOB'S—DELICIOUS
CRANBERRY SAUCE 32 oz. Jar 29c

LIBBY'S—8 OZ. BOTTLES
HOLIDAY PACK OLIVES Stuffed and Queen's Asst. 23c

SPECIAL—A NEW PKG. A-1
NEWPORT FLUFFS Every pkg. contains a Fruit Juice Glass 19c

EXTRA SPECIAL
Swift's SILVER LEAF PURE LARD 2 lbs. 19c

FRESH SALTED PEANUTS 2 lbs. 25c

For tasty, wholesome, easily prepared desserts use DURHAM CORN STARCH 10c

RED & WHITE COFFEE 1 lb. tins 53c

Ivory Snow A Paring knife for 1c with each large pkg. 24c

Sunlight Soap 5 bars 27c

Flusho A necessity in every bathroom 21c

HAWES Floor Wax 1-lb. tin 45c

INFANTS DELIGHT Toilet Soap 3 for .14

LEARN HOW YOU CAN GET Beautiful "Form-Fitted" SILK STOCKINGS Mercerized reinforcement at toe, sole and heel for longer wear. FOR ONLY 35c and Quaker Oats Box Top Take advantage of this amazing opportunity to save up to 40% on silk stockings now!

Ask for Quaker Oats 1941 Silk Stocking Club Certificate With Delicious QUAKER OATS PKG. 19c

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Willing are spending a few days in Toronto.

On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. George Swenor, Point Anne's oldest couple, are celebrating their fifty-third wedding anniversary. Mr. Swenor is ninety-one years of age.

Mr. Tilden Donihee was in Cornwall on Saturday to attend the funeral of his father, Mr. J. B. Donihee.

Mr. F. H. Henry, 176 Charles Street, is in Kingston General Hospital, undergoing X-ray treatment.

Mrs. John R. Pound is seriously ill at her home, Third of Thurlow.

Mrs. M. P. Duff, Mrs. Wardner, Mrs. Mifflin and Mrs. Wynne were among those who assisted at the Milestone Tea held at Tabernacle Church on Tuesday afternoon.

Red, white and blue decorations arranged with artistic effect made a lovely setting for the afternoon tea and sale of work held in St. Thomas Parish House yesterday by Mrs. C. F. Lyall's group. The guests were received by Mrs. Lyall and Mrs. R. Keele was treasurer for the afternoon. The tea table was charming with its centrepiece of white 'mums and red, white and blue tapers. Mrs. Trevor Grout and Mrs. George N. Gorman poured tea. Mrs. Wilson was in charge of the tea table and those who assisted in serving were Misses Margaret and Joan Blakslee, Mrs. D. Marshall, Mrs. M. Davison and Mrs. Roger Porter. Grouped about the room were tables of interesting wares, each presenting a pretty picture with clever decorations. Mrs. C. Payne, Mrs. H. Jones and Mrs. R. Gibson were in charge of the aprons Mrs. R. A. Pringle and Mrs. M. Mars, the baby table, Mrs. H. Alford the white elephant booth, Mrs. A. E. Purdy, Mrs. Jeffery and Mrs. G. Miller, the home cooking Miss Erie Grout and Mrs. W. Hurst and Mrs Austin Walters and Miss Helen Chant, the fancy work. A splendid crowd attended during the afternoon and the group realized a large sum through the enjoyable affair.

WEDDINGS

MITCHELL—McCARTHY

Quietly solemnized in Ottawa, at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, was the marriage of Geraldine Mary McCarthy, daughter of Mrs. McCarthy and the late W. J. McCarthy, to Squadron Leader Eric Martin Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mitchell, of Wolfville, N.S. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Florence McCarthy, and Flight Lieutenant Joseph Stevenson of Trenton, was best man.

The bride wore a costume of storm blue with a small matching hat and gardenias. Over her costume she wore a black caracul coat.

The bridesmaid was in green with a black hat, black accessories and wore pink roses.

A small reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother. Later the couple left for Montreal en route to the Laurentians. They will take up residence in Belleville.

Flight Lieutenant and Mrs. Joseph Stevenson of Trenton, were out-of-town guests.

W.C.A. NOTES

The Women's Christian Association held the regular meeting in the Hospital Board Room on Tuesday, December 3rd., with the President, Mrs. V. Blakslee, in the chair. Mrs. Thompson was appointed lady on duty at the home for the month of December.

The donations for November:—Belleville Golf Club, box of raisin bread; Baptist Church, Sunday School papers; A friend, magazines.

Services for November were taken each week by the Salvation Army and the first Sunday of every month.

FAMOUS FOR HEALTH and FLAVOUR

EDWARDSBURG CROWN BRAND PURE CORN SYRUP

Eat Crown Brand daily. It's Canada's [illegible]

Boys- FREE!

THE CANADA STARCH COMPANY LIMITED

McNABB'S

Choose Her GIFT From our Large Assortment

Santa Says

Housecoats
Satin 2.98 up
Baby Chenille 4.98
Bunny Puff 4.98
Also
FLANNEL, DUVETYNE and QUILTED.

SLIPS
SATIN - TAFFETA, Lace-Trimmed, and Others.
1.00 up

HOSIERY
GOTHAM GOLD STRIPE HOSE.
69c up

GOWNS
SATIN and HARVEY WOODS RAYON
1.98 up

PYJAMAS
Flannelette 1.98
Satin 2.98 up

PANTIES
Satin 1.00
Rayon 59c up

Dance Sets
Satin 1.59 up

SKIRTS
WOOL, also SKATING SKIRTS
2.98 up

Sweaters
Largest Variety of All Wool PULLOVERS
2.98 up

The J. A. McNabb Ltd.
254 FRONT STREET

Community Club Of Cannifton Has Social Evening

Cannifton Community Club met at the home of Mrs. W. Thomas where a social evening was held in aid of the Telegram War Victims Fund. The sum of $25 was realized from euchre held and donations from many friends included a bridge set, which was sent to the club by friends from the U.S.A. Tickets were sold on same, the lucky ticket being drawn by Edith Carmichael and won by Mrs. Woodcock. Mrs. Matthews received the pair of bath towels donated by Miss Mary Carmichael of Belleville; Mrs. Matthews donated a Christmas pudding which was won by Mrs. Bedell. An apron donated by Miss Jones was won by Mrs. McHugh; Pineapple, donor Mrs. Thomas, received by Mrs. Palmer. Euchre prizes were as follows:—Ladies' 1st, Mrs. Lywood; 2nd, Mrs. Bedell; 3rd Mrs. Van Allen; Men,—1st Mrs. Rosevear; 2nd E. Carmichael; 3rd J. Rosevear. Lone hands A. Palmer.

Door prizes donated by Coca Cola, Belleville by Ralph Downey were won by Florence Sharpe and George Plumpton.

The evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

"Gala Night" at Trianon Attracts Large Audience

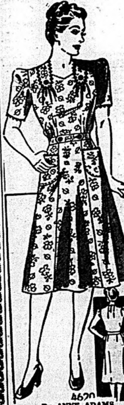
The "Gala Night" at the Trianon Ballroom Wednesday evening under the auspices of St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E., proved exactly what its name promised, a gala night for all who attended. And Belleville turned out in large numbers to support the program which was arranged to benefit the C.A.S.F. Mrs. E. Lang, on behalf of the Chapter, welcomed those present. Music for dancing was provided by the R.C.A.F. thirteen-piece orchestra.

The floor show which was a feature of the evening's program was received with keen appreciation as the group of talented artists presented an entertainment of a high standard, and took great pleasure in giving their services for this patriotic effort. Under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Ashley, the program consisted of dances by her pupils, vocal and instrumental numbers. Ronnie Donavon opened the entertainment with a vocal solo "I am a Canadian". Barbara Donavon contributed an eccentric tap and Mary Pigeon an accordion solo.

Little Joy Mumby, Stirling, a five year old, captured all hearts with her brisk military tap. Ronnie Donavon was heard in a solo "Sidewalk Waltz" and danced a waltz clog. Other soloists were Billie Ruth Marsh who sang "Maybe" and "Careless" and Jackie Marsh whose numbers were "Sierra Sue" and "I Love You Truly". Joan Marsh presented a novelty tap, and Elda Pigeon, a gypsy dance with accordion accompaniment played by Mary and Mafalda Pigeon. Gwendolyn Doyle in a rhythm tap and Barbara Donavon in a sailor's hornpipe with taps concluded a fine program. Tommy Mason acted as master of ceremonies and Mrs. William Warham played the piano accompaniment.

Cotton Dress Has Novel Yoke

Pattern 4620



By ANNE ADAMS

Modern women look their prettiest all the time, even when spending a day at home. An easy accomplishment, too, when a smart Anne Adams frock like Pattern 4620 is yours for the easy making. There's a decorative touch in the novelty-shaped yokes that are so becoming, especially with button and ric-rac trim. They're useful as well, for they keep the bodice fullness just where it's needed most, helped by well-placed darts above the waistline. A double buttoning gives extra style to the belt; optional pockets are attractive; the skirt panel has slimming lines. Choose a gay cotton for this dress; on the short sleeved style you may have the yokes and pockets in bright contrast. An easy-to-make, useful frock!

Pattern 4620 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 1-4 yards 35-inch fabric and 2 1-4 yards ric-rac.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Send your order to The Ontario Intelligencer Pattern Department, 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

Final Session of Cooking School Brings Fine Program to Homemakers

Mrs. Erie Denyes, Plainfield, was the happiest woman at the Cooking School Wednesday afternoon, when the final session brought her the major prize of the three days, the handsome Rogers Radio, Mrs. Denyes' program number being the winning number. The prize donated by Eaton and Ross was the envy of the entire audience and was the last article drawn for at the school, all previous winners and visitors of any of the sessions being eligible whether they were present yesterday or not. Mrs. Denyes was in the audience and claimed her prize, to the applause of all present.

The drawing brought to a close the sessions on Canadian Cookery conducted with such success at the McCarthy Theatre this week by Mrs. Madeline Day.

Healthful Meals

For her final program Mrs. Day had a collection of fine recipes to demonstrate and in their preparation discussed all the latest news as well as the principles involved in expert cookery. She impressed on her audience that the basis of good health was a well balanced diet and stressed the fact that the success of the family's endeavours in the world of business rested to a great extent on the meals perpared by the homemaker. Nutritious meals resulted in healthy bodies and minds keen to do the day's work efficiently while poorly cooked meals, planned with no attention to food values were responsible for broken health, lost energy and inability to cope with the daily duties.

More and more the women of today were realizing the grave responsibility that was theirs and striving to study diet. Mrs. Day showed how healthful foods may be varied so that the family never gets tired of them.

Baked ham, spice cake, orange tarts, paddy bundles were the appetizing foods prepared, while the audience followed each step with careful attention. Feeling very much at home the visitors chatted back and forth with the lecturer, Mrs. Day, who answered all questions and solved many perplexing problems that had been troubling the homemakers.

Frosted Foods Appeal

An item that proved especially appealing to the audience was the demonstration of Birds' Eye Frosted Foods, now obtainable in Belleville at the plant of Spencer's Frigid Lockers, 1 Market Lane. It seemed incredible to the ladies that there would be available in the dead of winter absolutely fresh fruit and vegetables, kept in their prime by this frosting process and procurable at the same price as paid in summer time. But there they were, whole fresh strawberries in a shortcake, corn on the cob, fresh peas beans, just as though picked from the garden. The "Oh's" and "Ah's" that were heard when these foods were demonstrated showed the delight of the audience at this new miracle of modern science. Mrs. Day discussed the preparation of these foods, the fruits ready to be served after defrosting, the vegetables ready for the saucepan without the preparation that summertime vegetables require.

Latest innovations in kitchen equipment, their use and care were discussed by Mrs. Day, and at the conclusion of her talk she expressed sincere appreciation for the wonderful reception given her by the ladies of Belleville whom it was a delight to meet. Many stayed afterwards to chat with her and to talk over special problems of their own.

At the conclusion of the program following prizes were presented:

Cake, Miss Phyllis Rosevear, N. Front Street.

Cake, Mrs. D. Corey, North Front Street.

Double Boiler, Mrs. F. Aitchison, Dundas East.

Coffee Maker, Mrs. W. Frawley, Dundas Street.

Cake, Mrs. W. Coulby, John St.

Cookery, Mrs. W. N. Anderson, Highland Ave.; Agnes Gallagher, Pinnacle St.; Mrs. E. Feeney, Victoria Ave.

Food hampers, Mrs. Ronald Waite, N. Front St.; Doris Kerr, Alexander St.; Laura Hanna, R. R. No 4, Belleville.

Rinso, Mrs. A. Pope, 4 Moira St.

Food Hamper, Mrs Herbert Fox, R.R. 1, Corbyville; Mrs. J. Culhane, Front Street; Mrs Maude Holley, Frank St.; Mrs. J. B. Freeman, Cedar Street, Mrs. G. L. Johnson, Front St.; Mrs. J. W. Flatt, Bridge Street; Mrs. T. R. Dolan, Church St; Mrs. Chas. Dolan, Alexander St.; Mrs. Arthur Summer, N. James St.; Mrs. W. H. Osborne, Mrs Florence Harris, Sidney St.; Mrs. J. Tilley, Alexander St.; Miss Vera Gray, Burnham St.; Mrs. L. G. Fozard, Bridge St. E.; Mrs. E. Lynch, West Moira St.; Mrs. Orville Crowe, Pine St.; Mrs. Ross Bush, Pine St.; Mrs. W. H. Arthurs, Brassey St.; Mrs. T. Morell, Foster Avenue; Mrs. M. E. Routley, Murney St.; Mrs. Earl Stevens, N. Front Street; Mrs. G. Brockhurst, Hillside St.

Cookery, Mrs. F. B. Sprung, 169 John Street.

Cake, Mrs. Walter Waite, Strachan Street

Cookery, Mrs. R. Woodley, 28 Ridley Ave.; Mrs. A. C. Combes, 220 Coleman St.; Mrs. F. E. Sparks, Willard St.

Christmas Cake, Mrs. J. A. Whalen, Moira St. West.

Cake, Mrs. Ross Bateman, George St.

Rogers Radio—Mrs. Erie Denyes, Plainfield, Ont.

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

INTERESTING and expansive astral influences may predicate a day of advancement, promotion and gratification in all departments of living, with many factors contributing to success and enjoyment both in business and private affairs. Work, industry, fidelity, merit, approbation and substantial recognition from those in power and finances should be put on a secure basis. In social, domestic and affectional relations a similar beneficial and solid state of affairs is assured. Be alert to petty intrigues or duplicities in intimate affairs.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a progressive, productive and fortunate year, with all affairs under an expansive,warming and productive direction. Industry, faithfulness, and practical ambitions are under promise of success with cooperation of influential personages, who assist in solidifying the position and possessions. Private affiliations also have promise of much gratification, pleasures and cherished fulfillments, probably romantic.

A child born on this day will have good all round abilities and talents, with much sincerity, soundness and ambition as well as many refinements, ideals and high aspirations. It should reach a secure and esteemed place in life.

A new landing net for fish is mounted on a metal frame made in two parts that fold together against a fish to facilitate handling.

New Under-arm Cream Deodorant safely Stops Perspiration

1. Does not rot dresses, does not irritate skin.
2. No waiting to dry. Can be used right after shaving.
3. Instantly stops perspiration for 1 to 3 days. Removes odor from perspiration.
4. A pure, white, greaseless, stainless vanishing cream.
5. Arrid has been awarded the Approval Seal of the American Institute of Laundering for being harmless to fabrics.

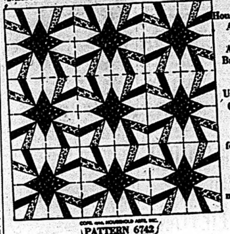
25 MILLION jars of Arrid have been sold. Try a jar today!

ARRID

39¢ a jar At all stores selling toilet goods (also in 10¢ and 59¢ jars)

Jon Hall, Ward Bond and Harold Huber are the hardy and fearless scouts trekking through the wild Indian country in this scene from Edward Small's "Kit Carson," the roaring adventure romance which is now showing at the McCarthy Theatre.

Made of But Three Simple Patches



PATTERN 6742

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Use Up Odds and Ends for this Quilt

Grandmother's Prize

You'd never believe it to look at it, but this quilt, Grandmother's Prize is made of but three pattern pieces, and all in scraps except the background. Pattern 6742 contains the Block Chart; carefully drawn pattern pieces; directions for cutting, sewing and finishing; yardage chart; illustration of quilt; color schemes.

To obtain this pattern send twenty cents in coins (20c) (stamps cannot be accepted) to The Ontario Intelligencer Arts Dept., 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

Nellie Smith Annual PRE-CHRISTMAS Dress Sale

STARTS FRIDAY MORNING

December 6

EVERY GARMENT GREATLY REDUCED IN THIS LONG-AWAITED SALE!

A splendid opportunity to enable you to purchase before Christmas —the Festive Season when Gay affairs make new clothes imperative—and too, what better Christmas Gift than a new dress?

A SPECIAL GROUP of DRESSES 10.00
Priced Especially for This Sale

Nellie Smith
KRESGE BLDG.
PHONE 1282

Quality Gifts AT NO Increase In Prices BUY NOW!

SANDWICH GRILL
Unusual attractiveness and sound construction. Grids are of durable cast aluminum. Handsome chrome finish.
7.95 and 4.95

TURNOVER TOASTER
Enclosed sides retain heat — save current and money. Both sides automatically lowered, or raised by single operation. Chrome finish inside and out.
4.40

ADJUSTOMATIC STREAMLINE IRON
Light weight and balanced design saves time and effort. Adjustable heat for all fabrics. Most copied iron in the world.
9.95

DELUXE COFFEE MAKER
Wide mouth for easy cleaning. May be used for heating soups, custards, vegetables, sauces, etc. Utility lid fits both sections. 10-cup.
8.95

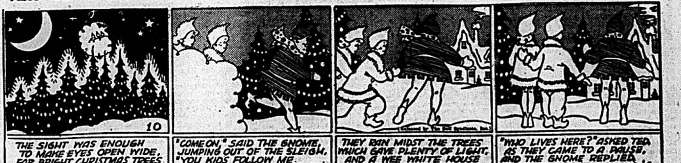
THE HOME OF WESTINGHOUSE.
DAVIDS ELECTRIC SHOP
340 FRONT STREET
OPEN EVENINGS.

Wife Preservers

Mildew on automobile upholstery may be removed by first brushing off as much as you can. Then sponge with soap solution to which you have added ammonia.

A VISIT TO SANTA CLAUS—The Wee White House

By GEOFF HAYES



10
THE SIGHT WAS ENOUGH TO MAKE EYES OPEN WIDE, FOR BRIGHT CHRISTMAS TREES GREW UP ON EVERY SIDE.
"COME ON," SAID THE GNOME, JUMPING OUT OF THE SLEIGH, "YOU KIDS FOLLOW ME AND I'LL SHOW YOU THE WAY!"
(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
THEY RAN MIDST THE TREES WHICH GAVE PLENTY OF LIGHT, AND A WEE WHITE HOUSE SOON CAME INTO SIGHT.
"WHO LIVES HERE?" ASKED TED AS THEY CAME TO A PAUSE, AND THE GNOME REPLIED "A MISTER SANTA CLAUS!"

BRITISH HOUSE REJECTS MOTION TO 'SEEK PEACE'

3 Independent Labor Party Members' Proposal Defeated by 341 to 4

ATTLEE ATTACKS MOTION

Lord Privy Seal Says This Debate Was One Which Would Probably Not be Tolerated in Any Other Country at War

London, Dec. 5.—(CP)—A silent disapproving House of Commons rejected by an overwhelming vote of 341 to 4 a motion by three members of the Independent Labor Party today that Britain state her war aims and seek peace, "if necessary in a spirit of compromise", because, they argued, "there is no certainty of a great military victory".

The vote followed quickly the presentation of the motion by John McGovern, Campbell Stephen and James Maxton, all from Glasgow.

Prime Minister Churchill was absent as the Three Leftists demanded that Britain's war aims be stated and called for "restoration of freedom in each country, the establishment of a new social order which would mean the end of German, British and other Imperialism and provide a decent home and standard of life for each family in every country of the world."

"No opportunity should be lost to end the war", contended Mr. McGovern, "if necessary in a spirit of compromise".

The four members voting for the motion were Mr. Maxton, Dr. Alfred Satler, Labor, William Gallacher, Communist, and David Kirkwood, Labor. McGovern and Stephen were named tellers, hence could not vote.

Attlee Denounces Motion

Clement Attlee, Lord Privy Seal, replying to the motion for the government, was interrupted by frequent cheers as he delivered an impassioned denunciation of "the fundamental fallacy" of the suggestion "that on one side is this terrible war and on other side all the beauties of peace".

"The alternative is not war and peace; it is war and what kind of peace", said Mr. Attlee, who as leader of the Labor Party is a leading member of the National Government headed by Prime Minister Churchill.

"Probably this debate is one which would not be tolerated in any other country at war", Mr. Attlee said. "No doubt use will be made of it. But I believe it will show our strength".

Frequently assailing Mr. Maxton, who is leader of the Independent Labor Party, Mr. Attlee said:—

"If it comes to a conference and if Hitler refuses to listen to what is called the voice of reason and says he prefers his scheme and rejects the honorable member's idea of liberty and social justice, will the Honorable Member fight or give way?"

Mr. Maxton's retort that the question was "hypothetical" was greeted with laughter.

"Our aim is to try to establish a world of peace of free peoples", Mr. Attlee said. "We cannot lay down the law to the rest of the world and we do not want to. We can only say 'here is our way of life'.

"The best way in which we can advocate our principles is by striving to live more and more in accordance with the principles of social justice and liberty and by setting an example to the rest of the world".

McGovern's Attitude.

Mr. McGovern presented his motion in the form of an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the Throne opening the new parliament. The Independent Labor members represent the only nominal opposition to the government.

Mr. McGovern said, "We backed a policy of appeasement because we believed that anything was better than what would happen in war."

He received the only cheers evoked by his statement when he asserted he believed the late Neville Chamberlain "will have a much bigger place in history than he has at the moment."

"Do not let us be misled by statements about fighting for freedom, fighting for democracy, the kind of democracy that refuses to allow Sir Hugh Roberton, who is a pacifist, to sing on the wireless, the kind of democracy that denies what you say you want for Czechs, Greeks, Poles or other nations," Mr. McGovern said.

He concluded that a sympathetic statement of war aims would evoke "response over the heads of politicians from the people of Germany."

Mr. Stephen, seconding the statement, said that "if peace is to be based on justice and equality the time for a conference is now, because the military situation is one in which the parties are fairly evenly balanced".

"It may be said," he continued, "that Germany is occupying a position of military superiority, but it would appear to be counter-balanced by the tremendous potential resources of the British Empire, along with the promised material assistance of the United States.

"The time has come when Britain would make a great moral gesture to the world and offer peace to the other side on a basis of justice to all people."

Stephen's Proposal.

Mr. Stephen proposed a two-fold basis for a peace conference:

1. "Acceptance by the contending parties of the restoration of freedom in all countries.

2. "Both parties to put all their material resources which they are willing to devote to war into a common pool to bring about a new civilization in the world."

James Griffiths, Labor, said everyone would welcome a real peace, but, he said, "the choice is not peace or war but capitulation or survival."

Sir Percy Harris, Liberal, said the government should "take the first opportunity of stating its aims not because we are defeated or defeatists but because we are winning for Britain a new place in the world."

A Conservative view was expressed by Henry Brooke who said "the war must go on to victory". He declared Mr. McGovern "would advocate for the whole western world to surrender to slavery and devils".

Italy Promises Arabic Countries 'Sympathy' of Axis

Rome, Dec. 5.—(AP) — Italy promised the Arabic countries today the "sympathy" of the Axis in their "fight for independence".

An Italian government statement was broadcast in Arabic in response to what the announcer said were British charges that Italy and Germany intended to occupy and dominate the Arabic countries.

"The Italian Government confirms", the statement said, "that it always has been animated by sentiments of friendship for the Arabs, whom it wants to see prosper and occupy a place among the peoples of the earth corresponding to their natural and historic importance, that it has constantly followed their fight for independence with interest and for the achievement of this aim the Arabic countries also can count in the future on the full sympathy of Italy".

$35,000,000,000 REQUIRED TO COMPLETE PLAN

Preparedness Plan Will Take Five Years for Completion

REDUCE RELIEF

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP).—An expenditure of $35,000,000,000 during the next five years would be required, it was estimated today, to carry out the United States preparedness program as now formulated.

This sum is double the amount of appropriations and authorizations made thus far by congress for military defence.

The $35,000,000,000 estimate, the first from official sources projecting defence plans that far into the future, was made by a committee of economists in a report entitled "the impact of the war and the defence program of agriculture."

The report stated that it was possible to make only "rough" estimates of the probable magnitude of the defence program at this time. It added however, that "additional unfavorable developments" in the world political situation might result in the projection of an "even more ambitious program".

The report was prepared for the agriculture department's program board for use in drafting future farm-aid programs.

It estimated calendar year expenditures for defence purposes for the next five years as follows: 1941, $,-500,000,000; 1942, $9,000,000,000; 1943, $7,500,000,000; 1944, $6,000,000,000, and 1945, $5,000,000,000.

The report said that the effect of the defence expenditures upon industrial activity and prices depends to a considerable extent upon how the program is financed.

The economists predicted that the defence spending together with enlargement of military forces would reduce the nation's unemployment rolls by about one-half between 1940 and 1942.

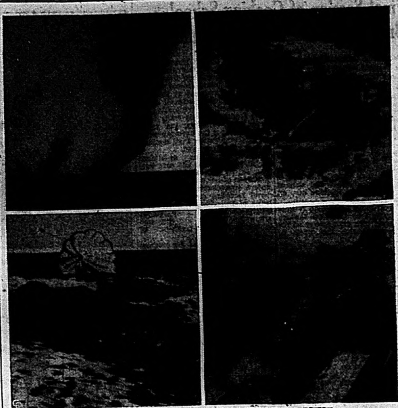
Discussing its probable effects on agriculture, they said the indicated increase in purchasing power would be reflected in higher prices for most farm products, particularly meats, some fruits, dairy products, poultry products and truck crops. They added, however, that probable advances in farm wages and in costs of materials and equipment used in production of farm products may be so great as to offset most of the rise in farm income.

500,000 Employees In Aircraft Industry By June of Next Year

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—United States factories turning out aviation equipment will have about 500,000 employees on their payrolls when the current plant expansion programs are completed next June, a spokesman for the industry reported today.

Other sources estimated that factory forces of that size could make possible the production of more than 350 aircraft a week, more than 18,000 a year.

In the first general survey of progress made public by a non-governmental agency since the new aircraft factory construction program was inaugurated, John H. Jouett said that plane makers had expanded their payrolls from 60,-000 shop employees in first January to 164,920 today.



DRAMA MARKS RESCUE OF ITALIAN AIRMAN BY BRITISH

These four pictures show the rescue of an Italian airman, who bailed out, in the Mediterranean, after his plane was shot out from under him, by anti-aircraft batteries of an English naval squadron. TO LEFT, we witness the earthward plunge in a line of smoke, of the wrecked Italian plane, while LOWER LEFT the parachute of the aviator floats on the water. UPPER RIGHT the aviator waves his hand to his rescuers as they draw near, and LOWER RIGHT, a wave breaks over the Italian, who is none-the-worse for his experience, as he is being hauled aboard the rescue vessel. A whaler from a British destroyer went to the rescue.

PARENT AL PRIDE

Apparently so that her five-weeks-old calf would look its best for visitors to the international live stock show at Chicago, "Red Augusta," two-year-old Shorthorn, did a bit of grooming in her own way.

Leopold Justified for Action Taken Say Military Experts

85-Page Booklet Released on the Surrender of the Belgian Army

LETTERS PUBLISHED

New York, Dec. 5 (CP)—Surrender of King Leopold of the Belgians last May 28, which cut off the British Expeditionary Force and forced the retreat to Dunkirk, not only was justified by the military situation but was the only possible thing he could have done, military, naval and diplomatic observers write in a booklet published today.

The 85-page booklet, entitled "The Belgian Campaign and the Surrender of the Belgian Army—May 10-28, 1940," is published by the Belgian-American Educational Foundation. Former President Herbert Hoover is Chairman of the Foundation and writes the introductory summary of, and comment upon, the documents and memoranda contained in the pamphlet.

These documents include brief articles by Paul Van Zeeland, former Prime Minister of Belgium; Frans Van Cauwelaert, President of the Belgian Chamber of Deputies; W. Hallam Tuck, Vice President of the Belgian American Educational Foundation; an unsigned memorandum on the meeting last May between Cardinal Van Roey, Archbishop of Malines, Belgium, and King Leopold; an outline of the Belgian campaign, contributed by Senator Paul Gronacher of the Belgian army; a memorandum of a talk with Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, British Liaison Officer with King Leopold, and numerous documents.

The documents include the already published letter of King Leopold to Pope Pius explaining the reasons for the Belgian capitulation. A summary of the operations of the Belgian army by Major Gen. F. P. O. Michiels, Chief of the Belgian General Staff; statements by John Cudahy, Joseph E. Davies, Dave Hennen Morris and William Phillips, former United States Ambassadors to Belgium, and statements by Lieut. Col. Robert Duncan Brown, and others.

Nearly all of the papers deal directly with the Belgian campaign, and come to the same conclusion, the under the circumstances the surrender of the Belgian army was inevitable, and that Britain and France, contrary to published assertions at the time, had had ample warning of what King Leopold felt forced to do.

The comment of Colonel Brown, the United States military attache, compresses into a few sentences the theme of the pamphlet:

"The German army in May, 1940, supported by immense air power, drove west into Holland, Belgium and France, quickly conquered Holland and broke the hinge of allied defence at Sedan. The Sedan break-through compelled the retreat of all northern allied main forces and separated the British and Belgian forces from the French main forces. A French counter-attack against the German spearhead aimed at Abbeville might have re-established the situation, but this counter-attack never developed.

"The Belgian army fought doggedly on successive retreat positions, and at least found themselves completely cut off with their backs to the sea. Their artillery had fought with extreme brilliancy, their large units were well led. However, they were cut off and they had virtually no air power or anti-aircraft artillery protection against German air might.

"The Belgian King's capitulation May 28 was the only thing King Leopold could do. Those who say otherwise didn't see the fighting and they didn't see the German Air Force. I saw both."

A Gallant Struggle

The booklet presents a picture of a gallant struggle against hopeless odds.

The perilous situation in which the Belgian army and the French and British forces in Belgium found themselves after the great break through on the French ninth army front at Sedan is clearly portrayed. What followed was a rapidly mountain catastrophe, 40,000 casualties in two days, inadequate liaison between the allied armies, disorganization and chaos, complete German mastery of the air, air attacks upon armies and civilians constantly constricted into a smaller and smaller space shortage of water, complete lack of ammunition for some guns, inadequate food and supplies, exhausted men and finally, in the last days of the Battle of Flanders:

Ride in Britain's New Cruiser Tanks Gives One Real Thrill

By ROSS MUNRO,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Somewhere in England, Dec. 5—(CP)—For a spine-thrilling ride, climb into one of Britain's new cruiser tanks—the fastest in the world—and hurtle down a bumpy hill.

It has the breath-taking quality of a bob-sled taking a hair-pin turn on one runner, umpteen times the noise of a subway express and the jolts of an ancient car on a Canadian lumber trail.

At a demonstration of these latest tanks this reporter stood in the wireless operator's position, leaning out of the open turret beside the tank commander and drove in a down-hill charge manoeuvre.

Flanked by other tanks, the squadron staged a modern "charge of the light brigade" that would put the old cavalry to shame.

The gunner in our crew was Sgt. H. A. Scott of Winnipeg. In another tank was Sgt. W. J. Trump, also of Winnipeg. These and other Canadians throughout the armored units are carrying out responsible duties.

The tanks nosed over the crest of the hill in file and at the signal of the commander our leading tank spurted forward and lurched down a steep incline.

"Push your foot down and make her move," the commander shouted through the loudspeaker to the driver. A cloud of dust swept over the turret from the whirling caterpillar treads.

Suddenly Sgt. Scott swung the gun turret in simulated firing action and the whole world turned turtle like the sensation you get in a snap-the-whip in a midway.

Then the turret whipped back into forward position and in a smashing finale the target was hypothetically demolished.

We counted our body bruises. Sgt. Scott grinned up from the bottom of the tank, apparently unshaken. "I used to be a heavyweight wrestler in our west," was his dry comment.

HIGHWAY CREWS LABOR TO CLEAR ONTARIO ROADS

Hope to Get Highways Partially Opened Before More Snow Falls

COLD WAVE DUE

(By The Canadian Press)

A small army of workmen struggled to clear Ontario's highways and byroads in the aftermath of the latest blizzard in winter's early attack today, forewarned that another cold snap—the fourth in 10 days—is due to strike the province tonight.

The story was pretty much the same throughout the province, experiencing its heaviest snowfalls for this time of the season in 20 years. Huge drifts were piled on the secondary roads while even the main arteries of traffic were difficult to negotiate.

The southern part of the province was hit hardest by the blizzard that raged Tuesday night and Wednesday, forcing Trans-Canada Air Lines to cancel their eastern flights during the day, closing many rural schools because pupils could not get over the roads, blocking deliveries of food supplies to isolated villages.

"There's not much chance of a thaw at any time this week," J. P. O'Donnell, chief forecaster at the Meteorological Bureau, said. "There will be some light snow in Toronto and possibly moderate snowfalls in some other section of Southern Ontario."

Sunshine and higher temperatures prevailed over the province today, with the mercury at 22 above in Toronto, 13 above in Ottawa and 24 above at London early in the day.

Northern Ontario enjoyed clear weather although temperatures were lower than in other parts of the province, ranging not far above zero. All roads in the North Bay district were open and in good condition.

Highways around Guelph were also clear today although the going was a little rough in places. Around Brantford country roads were open but heavy and slippery, as were city streets in several sections of the province.

Roads Fairly Good

Highways around Peterborough were also in fairly good shape today.

In the Stratford area, Department of Highways plough crews began to make headway against the snowdrifts through which they battled all night. Bus schedules, cancelled yesterday, were resumed this morning. It was not known at department headquarters in Stratford, however, if all district roads had been opened.

Provincial highways in the Owen Sound area were opened to motor traffic today but travelling conditions were reported to be heavy. Concession and county roads, however were good only for cutter and sleigh traffic.

In the Niagara Peninsula, Fort Erie reported that diminishing winds and rising temperatures had broken the three-day blizzard which engulfed the area. Highways and railroad yards were being cleared.

Brockville and Cornwall in the eastern part of the province reported rising temperatures. Main highways in Brockville were reported as only passable but main roads around Cornwall were said to be in good condition. Light snow fell during last night and this morning around Brockville.

The majority of provincial highways around Kitchener were reported to be passable for motor traffic, but many county roads are still blocked.

Aircraftman Killed In Plane Collision

Toronto, Dec. 5—(CP)— Leading Aircraftman Thomas F. C. Lucas was killed and his instructor, E. L. Baxter, was seriously injured today when two airplanes collided in the air as they were approaching for a landing at the No. 1 elementary flying training centre of the Royal Canadian Air Force at Malton, northwest of Toronto.

The two planes were in the air, each with an instructor and student pilot. Temporary Sergeant Ellis L. Taylor and his pupil, Leading Aircraftsman John E. Hockey, in the second machine, were not injured.

Squadron Leader Dave Harding said it was the first serious accident at the Malton training centre. "We don't know how it came about," he added, "but there will probably be a court of inquiry to ascertain the cause."

WEYGAND REPORTED BACK IN ALGIERS

Vichy, France, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Gen. Maxime Weygand, Commander in French North Africa, was reported to have returned today to his Algiers headquarters after a prolonged inspection tour in Morocco.

CANCELS $15,000 IN DEBTS

Woodstock, Ill., Dec. 5 (AP). — Needy patients in debt to Dr. Thomas Brand won't feel embarrassed when meeting him on the street now. The doctor cancelled their bills yesterday, notifying them in a newspaper advertisement that it was "my Christmas donation to deserving humanity." Dr. Brand figures the "donation" at $15,000. His gesture doesn't apply to his wealthy patients who haven't paid their bills."

OBITUARY

JAMES HOWES
(Formerly of Roslin)

Relatives here have received word of the death at Nipawin, Sask., of James Howes, who some years ago resided at Roslin in Hastings County. Twenty-one years ago he went to Western Canada and made his home there since that time. Old friends here will regret to learn of his death.

Surviving him are seven daughters and four sons, all residing in the Province of Saskatchewan. His wife died some years ago. In this district he leaves five brothers and five sisters, they are: Mrs. Joseph Demarsh, Miss Sarah Howes, and Mrs. Nelson Cousins, all of Belleville; Mrs. Henry Gerow, Corbyville, and Mrs. Warner Symons, Cobourg; Messrs. Richard Howes, Roslin; Frank and Herbert Howes, both of Corbyville; Robert Howes, Belleville and William Howes, Onward, Sask.

BRITISH EMPIRE, BACKED BY U. S., CANNOT FAIL

Lady Astor Praises Young Americans in Eagle Squadron of R.A.F.

'I KNEW THEY'D COME'

London, Dec. 5 — (CP) — In a speech to the Eagle Squadron of American volunteers in the Royal Air Force, Viscountess Astor declared today that the 'British Empire, backed by the United States, cannot fail."

The American-born member of parliament predicted that the same 30 American volunteers now training for active service alongside British fliers would be followed by "thousands of others."

"America should know that this is really the greatest hour of trial in the history of the English speaking people," said Lady Astor. "They may not know it, but it's their turn next."

Turning to the young Americans, organized into a volunteer air force by Col. Charles Sweeny, Lady Astor exclaimed:

"I knew they would come. Thousands of young Americans are longing to get into this war. It is right that they should.

"As Sherman said, war is hell, but it is more terrible that the civilization we think is based on Christianity should fail."

Capt. H. H. Balfour, Under-Secretary for Air, also spoke to the volunteers at a luncheon, saying: "We hope your squadron will be followed by the formation of other squadrons impelled by the same motives and imbued with the same ideals."

Facing New Phase Of War Says Capt. H. H. Balfour

London, Dec. 5—(CP)—Capt. H. H. Balfour, Under-Secretary for Air, told the volunteer American Eagles of the Royal Air Force in a luncheon speech today that "We hope your squadron will be followed by the formation of other squadrons impelled by the same motives and imbued with the same ideals."

He told the fliers they could be "ambassadors as well as airmen by spreading throughout the United States a first-hand picture of what Britain was doing and feeling about the war with Germany.

Turning to the Battle of Britain, Capt. Balfour said:

"We are facing a new phase of the war in the concentrated attacks night after night on munition and industrial centres. We must face the fact that front line war for the factory is here. We must and do accept the challenge which it entailed."

Canadian Bacon Liked in Britain

An East Coast Canadian Port, Dec. 5 (CP).—Bacon from Canada is pleasing the English palate, but the other half of the inseparable breakfast combination is mighty scarce at the British table, according to housewives arriving here from Britain.

"Eggs are worth their weight in gold," declared one woman who came here yesterday. Another said she had not seen an egg for weeks. A third claimed eggs were almost impossible to buy unless one knew a farmer.

Told that Canada had this year shipped more than 10,000,000 dozen eggs to the United Kingdom, against a normal year's export of 1,000,000 dozen, they hazarded a guess that the British ministry of food was probably holding the eggs in storage.

But, even lacking the eggs, the Canadian bacon stands ace-high with the Britons. "It's not like what we had in the last war," said an old soldier. "After 1918 I didn't touch bacon for ten years."

GOLDEN FLEECE

Bucharest, Dec. 5 (AP)—This is a modern story of the Golden Fleece. Rumanian customs officials became suspicious of blood on a flock of sheep some Bulgarian peasants were taking out of Rumania and Dobruja now part of Bulgaria. Investigation showed hides had been cut, gold inserted under the skin, and the cuts sewed up. Some sheep wore gold bells around their necks, others had gold pieces hidden by long wool. The Bulgarians were arrested.

COUNTY COUNCIL FAVORS ABOLITION OF GRAND JURY

Members Also Favor Reduction of Petit Juries to Six Men

COSTS TOO HIGH

Hastings County Council went on official record today as being unanimously in favor of the abolition of grand juries and of reduction of petit juries to six men from the traditional twelve. A resolution to this effect was endorsed by the body at the morning session and copies will be forwarded to other county councils of the province for endorsation and to the Minister of Justice.

The resolution followed an animated discussion which arose from a verbal report of costs of administration of justice during the past eleven months given by Chairman William J. Davis, Bangor.

Members challenged the usefulness of a grand jury. "These men are appointed to inspect buildings of the county and outside the county jurisdiction and are permitted to bring in recommendations after the buildings have been inspected many times yearly by a government inspector," Reeve Davis said. "In my opinion, the grand jury has outlived its usefulness."

Pure Waste of Money

The high cost of the recent supreme court session which amounted to $3,000 with more accounts yet to be paid was proof enough that a six-man jury was necessary, another member pointed out. A civil case heard in the recent sittings cost the county $200 per day for five days after which it was taken out of the jury's hands and settled out of court, he said. "Just a pure waste of taxpayers' monies. This case might have been settled before the hearing as well as after this ridiculous expense had been incurred," another remarked.

"The council as a body should go on record and express its feelings to the proper authorities that these excessive costs be cut and cut well," Reeve Davis added.

Salaries Questioned

The question of salaries drew the information from Chairman of Administration of Justice Davis that the Sheriff was paid by the department, while the Crown Attorney received a salary up to five thousand dollars a year from the department and anything in excess was a percentage derived from his work.

Reeve Charles Rush, Hungerford, told the council that the costs of this department were twice in Hastings County as in any of her adjoining counties. He believed the heavy cost was due to overlapping and urged the resolution to abolish the grand jury and to reduce the petit jury to six men.

Given Three-Month Term in Reformatory

Wilmot Maybee, Rawdon Township farmer, was sentenced to serve three months in the Ontario Reformatory by Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in the County Police Court when he appeared for sentence. One week ago Maybee pleaded guilty to a charge of contributing to the moral delinquency of the home of Mrs. Mary Munroe, a neighbor. An additional three months indeterminate was also added to the term, His Worship decreed.

Mrs. Mary Munroe, the other person contributary to the charge of moral delinquency, was sentenced to three months in the common jail. Mrs. Munroe and Maybee resided in adjoining parts of a doublehouse at Wellman's Corners.

Robert Pringle, local barrister, appeared on behalf of the accused persons and sought clemency on behalf of the woman. "Such cases are man's fault and man's responsibility as woman's weakness is usually taken advantage of," suggested Mr. Pringle on Mrs. Munroe's behalf.

Tag Delinquent Cases

Ten residents of Thurlow Township received summonses charging them with failure to purchase their 1940 township dog tag. The charges were referred by Bruce Martin, township treasurer. Several paid the minimum fine and costs while four completely ignored the summons to court.

"Bring those delinquents into next week's court if you have to do so by warrant," ordered Magistrate Butler.

Pleads Guilty to Careless Driving

Arthur Twiddy, Trenton, paid $5.00 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of careless driving which was preferred by Motorcycle Patrolman C. E. Siple, while two other H.T.A. cases were enlarged for one week at the request of Robert McCullough, local barrister, who appeared on their behalf.

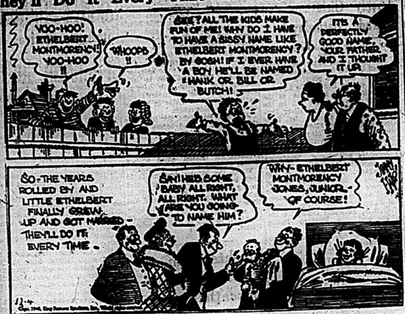
Inspector T. D. Ruston of the Children's Aid Society, presented a petition to make the children of Mrs. Munroe, previously convicted, wards of the C.A.S. The petition was dealt with favorably.

LITTLE DAMAGE CAUSED BY FIRE

A chimney fire at the Front St. apartment of Mr. J. Diamond caused the fire department a short run on Wednesday. Aside from enamel being burned off stove pipes, however, no damage was caused.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo



YOO-HOO! ETHELBERT MONTMORENCY! YOO-HOO !!
WHOOPS !!
SEE? ALL THE KIDS MAKE FUN OF ME! WHY DO I HAVE TO HAVE A SISSY NAME LIKE ETHELBERT MONTMORENCY? BY GOSH! IF I EVER HAVE A BOY HE'LL BE NAMED HANK OR BILL OR BUTCH!
IT'S A PERFECTLY GOOD NAME. YOUR FATHER AND I THOUGHT IT UP.
SO-THE YEARS ROLLED BY AND LITTLE ETHELBERT FINALLY GREW UP AND GOT MARRIED- THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME-
SAY! HE'S SOME BABY ALL RIGHT, ALL RIGHT. WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO NAME HIM?
WHY-ETHELBERT MONTMORENCY JONES, JUNIOR- OF COURSE!
JIMMY HATLO
12-4
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

ELECTRIC RAZORS—

NO EXTRA TAX
WHILE OUR STOCK LASTS

REMINGTON RAND 11.95
REMINGTON NEW DOUBLE HEAD Shaves in Half the Time. $17.95
SCHICK CAPTAIN $9.95
SCHICK COLONEL $12.95

COME IN AND TRY THEM.

DOLAN
THE DRUGGIST
Phone 138

Mountain View

Mr. George Neal, Veteran Guard at Petawawa spent a few days last week at his home here.

Miss Shirley Cross of Christian St. was a Wednesday caller with her aunt, Mrs. Clarence Sprague.

Mrs. Percy Lough of Burrs spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. George Lough and family.

Miss Ciella Lauder of Belleville spent the past week with Miss Muriel Burkitt.

Mr. Everett Minaker spent a few days last week with relatives in Toronto.

Mrs. Jay Sprague entertained a number of children to supper on Tuesday night the occasion was her daughter Eleanor's birthday.

Some from this neighborhood attended the Roblins Mills Girls' Club Dance in Ameliasburg on Thursday evening.

Miss Doris Minaker of Belleville spent the past week with her sister Bernice Minaker.

Miss Gladys Hickerson spent the week-end with friends in Belleville.

Miss Nora Sprague of Belleville spent the week-end at the home of Mr. J. G. Spragre.

Owing to the blocked roads there was no Sunday school or church here on Sunday.

Miss Doris Black of Belleville spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Black.

The Mountain View Women's Institute held a rummage sale at the Y.M.C.A. in Belleville on Saturday afternoon. A good sum was made for their War Emergency Work.

Queensboro

Miss Josephine Barry, Madoc, spent Saturday and Sunday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Spencer, Consecon, spent a day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Groves.

The Anglican Ladies Guild held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Thos. Christie on Thursday afternoon, November 28th., with a goodly number present.

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Pepper, Tweed, were in the village on Thursday afternoon attending the Guild meeting.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

CANADA TO NEED WOMEN FOR LAND SAYS ORGANIZER

Leader of Groups Active During Past Season Finds No Prejudice Against Canadian Girl Farmhands

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (CP).—A goodly number of Canadian women want a national women's land army in the belief that before this war is over women trained to handle farm duties are going to be needed as never before.

"They want to be prepared before the call comes," Mrs. Walcot said here in an interview. "There's going to be a labor shortage which may bring this call sooner than we expect."

In Ottawa to interview government officials Mrs. Walcot said she had 175 girls in Toronto organized to form the nucleus of a land army. "The women are eager and there's absolutely no prejudice among farmers against female farmhands," said the Toronto woman, an instructress in the Women's Land Army in England during the First Great War.

One official had told her that women could only be used in a very limited capacity. Bristling but smart in her khaki Canadian Women's Service Force uniform, Mrs. Walcot asked how. The official said, "Do you think any of your girls would be prepared to clean out a stable and haul manure?"

"I answered, 'Yes, indeed'," said Mrs. Walcot.

Busy In Britain.

Mrs. Walcot claims to have handled every sort of job a farm can produce. Today, she said, there are nearly 10,000 British girls running tractors and managing farms and doing every sort of agricultural labor.

"If they can, we can," said Mrs. Walcot. "Think of the jobs the women did who lived on the early Canadian homesteads?"

Not discouraged by lack of official recognition, Mrs. Walcot made a tour of some Ontario farms and discovered "men wanted" signs in many places. Farmers told her no men had applied so she gathered eight members of the C.W.S.F. and took them to a farmer to pick tomatoes. The farmer next door asked her for fifteen pickers and another came to her for ten more.

Her little force of 175 girls in the summer and fall was divided into two groups. Some lived in Toronto and the others near Clarkson, Ont., about eighteen miles from Toronto. The city girls were picked up by truck every day at 7:15 a.m. and taken to the country to work on farms. They returned home at 6 p.m.

Those living at Clarkson were quartered in a large house that was loaned them. Twenty girls were under a "non-commissioned officer" and a soldier's wife as a voluntary housekeeper.

Routine began with morning bell at 6:30. Girls went out to farms, picking, doing domestic work and helping in any way possible. In the evening they had drill, route march or recreation and lights out was sounded at 10:30 p.m.

Drawn mostly from the unemployed Mrs. Walcot said her girls were formerly waitresses, stenographers, domestic servants, clerks, manicurists and even models. They were nearly all city-bred but are delighted to work and live in the country.

For work the girls wore dark blue overalls with shoulder straps, white shirts, blue 'kerchiefs on their heads and red C.W.S.F. armbands.

"The work is given dignity and the girls feel in addition to earning a living they are doing a national service," said Mrs. Walcot.

Train Leaders In Youth Work

Leeds, England, Dec. 5 (CP).—To provide teachers for youth groups in factories, girls' societies and girls' clubs a training scheme has been started in several North of England towns. Volunteers enrol for the position. If, after a probationary period of five weeks they are satisfactory, they will have a lesson for twenty weeks throughout the winter in dancing, physical training and indoor games.

GIVE TEACHERS MORE LATITUDE

Edmonton, Dec. 5 (CP).—John W. Barnett, former president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, favors remorm in Canada's educational methods. In an interview here he urged a decrease in regimentation caused by standardized curriculums and examinations. He thought the teachers should be allowed to experiment with courses of studies, to gauge and encourage particular talents in their scholars.

THINKS IT'S BEST TO KNOW ANSWERS

Canada's Woman M.P. Finds House Helpful but Fast at "Catching You Up"

By GLADYS ARNOLD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (CP).—Criticism doesn't phase Canada's lone woman member of the House of Commons, Mrs. Dorise Nielsen, though she admits that she thinks members have shown her more patience and courtesy than they might have had she not been a woman. She was returned at the general election on March 26.

At the same time the Unity member for North Battleford is not as timid as the first time she took her seat in the green chamber last May.

"I've learned to have all the evidence for what I say right with me," she said. "They're fast at catching you up and you've got to have the answer all ready."

Last session, after her maiden speech, Agriculture Minister Gardiner took her to task on some points. "Mr. Gardiner gave me a good 'razzing' but I believe he meant well," she said.

Home On the Range.

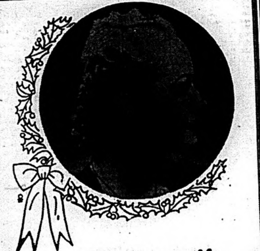
Three pictures on the wall facing her desk in her room in the parliament buildings recall her Saskatchewan constituency. One is an enlarged photograph of a trail through the forest near Lake Waskesiu. Mrs. Nielsen calls it "The Road To the Future". Two others are Prince Albert snow scenes.

"Any criticism directed at what I am expressing I consider to be directed at the people I represent," Mrs. Nielsen said, adding that she travelled 5,000 miles during the past summer through her constituency to find out what her electors wanted her to do.

Mrs. Nielsen's main worries just now are "freedom of speech" and what she terms a growing feeling in the west that agriculture is being asked to bear more than it can in the war effort.

In spite of her twelve years in Saskatchewan's outlands to which she came from England as Dorise Webber, slim, energetic and a school teacher, she is very much the Englishwoman still.

Her three children, Christine, 11, Sally, 9, and John, 5, are at home at Spiritwood, Sask., but will come to Ottawa to join Mrs. Nielsen after Christmas.



His nicest gift . . .

Greet him on Christmas with your hair beautifully sculptured into a flattering new hair style. He'll be so proud of you . . . you'll be the prettiest thing around the Christmas tree!

Phone 1243 for Appointment!

Ramsay Beauty Salon
31 BRIDGE ST. E.
PHONE 1243

Don't Forget That Boy 'Overseas'

Christmas Won't be a Canadian Christmas Without,
HANNAH'S
FRUIT CAKES
PLUM PUDDINGS
and
SCOTCH
SHORTBREAD
MAIL IT NOW!

We Specialize in WEDDING and BIRTHDAY CAKES.

HANNAH'S BAKERY
A. G. HANNAH & SON
334 Front Street
Phone 95

Christmas Festival Continues on Friday and Saturday DECEMBER 6th-7th

Magic Silk Hosiery
1.00 Pair

3 THREAD FOR STREET AND AFTERNOON WEAR.
2 THREAD FOR EVENING WEAR.

- New on the market yet already strong favorites.
- Sheer as a cobweb yet with amazing stamina.
- Deftly knitted on a new 54-gauge machine.
- All Silk feet specially constructed to give extra wear.
- Glamorous new Winter shades—

TABASCO — TROPICANA — PERUVIA — JOYOUS.

MAGIC — THE PERFECT GIFT STOCKING

"BABY" CHENILLE
HOUSE COATS
4.95

An ideal Christmas Gift—cosy and practical yet glamorous-looking. The name "Baby" denotes the fine close pile of the Chenille. See the rich colourings in these handsome Housecoats.

WOOLETTE
PYJAMAS
1.98 Suit

The lady who receives a pair of these lovely cozy Pyjamas is lucky indeed. Bright, new, modern, 1940 pattern Woolette made in up-to-the-minute styles. BE SURE TO SEE THEM!

Small—Medium—Large

MEN'S WOOL
Scarf and Glove Sets
1.98

The colours are Maroon, Yellow, Khaki and white.

GORDON
SATIN SLIPS
1.98 Each

For a lady who deserves something specially nice these 'Gordon' Bias-cut Satin Slips are so smartly tailored, so expertly made that they are bound to please. Beautifully embroidery adds to their loveliness. Tearose and White. Sizes 34 to 42.

MEN'S TIES
50c Each

A man appreciates Ties given him for Christmas if they are the sort he would choose for himself. See this handsome assortment and choose from "man" selected patterns and colours in new stripes, checks, and all-over patterns.

LINEN
GUEST TOWELS
SIZE 21" x 13"
49c Each

Dainty little Guest Towels in pastel Linen shades with contrasting colour embroidery, specially priced for our Christmas Festival. Always an acceptable Gift.

MEN'S SPUN RAYON
SCARVES
1.00

The menfolk will like these handsome "masculine" looking Scarves in their pleasing Persian or Dot designs . . . rich-looking fabrics, expertly made.

SATIN and BUNNY SUEDE
HOUSE COATS
4.95
5.95
7.95
9.95

HOUSECOATS . . . for evenings at home. Satins and Bunny Suedes, with fitted bodices, full skirts, some embroidered.

CHATTERBOX
AMERICAN BEAUTY
TURQUOISE POWDER
ROSE

MEN'S LINED
CAPE GLOVES
1.59

Men's gloves, warmly lined, dome style, strongly sewn, in black only. Sizes 8½ to 10.

Santa Claus Day Saturday
DECEMBER 7th.

Specials Worth Coming Many Miles For

Women's Winter Hose
89c

Fine quality Silk and Wool Hose with ribbed top in Winter shades of Beige Taupe, Rosadore and Gunmetal. Sizes 8½ to 10½. PAIR ....

HAND EMBROIDERED
WOOL GLOVES
49c

Misses' and Women's wool gloves in colors of maroon, royal, white and black with neatly embroidered patterns on back. A truly warm glove at a low price. PAIR ....

Boy's GOLF SOCKS
35c

Just the thing for these cold days, boys' heavy socks, knit from Grey and brown heather yarn with fancy turnback cuffs. Sizes 8½ to 10½. Pair

PERKY PARKAS
1.00

Made of all wool materials, warmly lined, fur-trimmed. In colors of Scarlet, Royal, Green and White.

Organdie Gift Aprons
1.00

Attractive Gift Aprons, made of white organdie, with coloured Dots and Rosebud patterns, trimmed with wide frills, braids, pockets and ties.

Brightly Colored
TOWELS
22-inch by 42-inch
49c Each

Towels in colours that will flood a dark room with sunshine, in fact, make an old bathroom look like new. Towels that are famous for absorbency, for softness, and for lasting loveliness. Lovely florals and plaids in colours which will delight the eye. Sharply underpriced for ous Christmas Festvial.

Rayon Breakfast Clothes
98c

Rayon Cloths in smart floral and Mexican patterns, hemmed ready for use. A limited quantity at this price. BE EARLY!

Kimona and Bootee Set
1.00 Per Set

FOR COLD MORNING COMFORT!

Cold mornings the Little Tot will be proud to appear in one of these cunning little Kimona and Bootee Sets. They come in Pink and Blue and have smart shell trimming with silk cord belt. White collars make them very attractive.

JUMBO FLANNELETTE
BLANKETS
2.15

Heavy quality White Flannelette Blankets (70" x 90"), whipped singly. Buy your needs now.

WALKER STORES, LIMITED
BELLEVILLE

Feeding People of Great Britain Under Wartime Conditions Described to Cheesemakers

Ministry of Food Began Active Operations When War Was Declared

IMPORTANCE OF MILK

"The people of Britain are asking for cheese, we must not fail them," declared Dr. William Allan, Agriculture Commissioner for Canada in England, as he spoke at the concluding session of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association Convention here on Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Allan, only recently returned from England where he experienced the results of indiscriminate enemy bombing action, gave members and visitors a comprehensive picture of conditions now existent in the Old Country and told in detail the efforts of the United Kingdom in their endeavor to, as much as possible, attain self-sufficiency in food production. Dr. Allan chose as the topic of his address, "Feeding the People of Britain in War Time." His address follows:

Realization in 1938

With the crisis of September, 1938, came the unwelcome realization to most of Britain's peace-loving people that war was inevitable, and that full preparations must be made without delay for the approaching catastrophe. This charged perspective affected the whole life of the nation—for the free and individualistic operations, so characteristic of Britain's business and British people, could no longer be left to proceed undirected and uncontrolled.

Anticipating the needs of war time, as far as possible, new Ministries were formed to undertake many essential functions, and existing Ministries were given additional responsibilities. The relative importance of the nation's diversified needs had to be determined, and plans of operation were made in keeping with these decisions. Of the important new Ministries that resulted, the three Ministries of Food, Supply and Shipping are probably of the greatest importance to Canadian agriculture, although the increased significance of the Treasury in every phase of Britain's trade with other countries is inescapable.

Detailed Planning Inevitable

While the importance of food in carrying on the war is readily conceded, this is only one of the many essentials and other requirements are frequently of greater concern to the Government for sometimes 'guns' are far more essential than 'butter'. Everything produced within the country, or brought in from other countries, must justify its place in the general war program. This means that comprehensive and detailed planning is inevitable.

The Ministry of Food commenced its active operations when war was declared. Its general form and composition had been carefully decided on beforehand. It included permanent civil servants accustomed to governmental administration, and also outstanding men from each of the many groups specializing in food distribution to ensure that the necessary knowledge and experience would be available to undertake the urgent responsibilities. The duty of this Ministry is to feed all the people of Britain adequately, uniformly and efficiently, and considerable success has attended their efforts, for the people continue well-nourished and in good health, and their morale is excellent.

Importance of Food Production

Foods produced at home are much more valuable to Britain in war time than those that have to be bought elsewhere and carried long distances at great risk. Goods near at hand are easy to buy; their production can be controlled within fairly definite limits; and the powers delegated to those responsible for the production program are wide enough to force farmers to co-operate even where the inducements of the established prices are insufficient. The withholding of foods and supplies from farmers seeking them for carrying on unwanted operations is decidedly effective when combined with unfavourable prices.

Importance of Milk

The greatest stress is laid on the production of milk for fluid consumption, and practically all of the supply goes into these channels. Cream is definitely considered a luxury and is not now obtainable.

Potatoes are second in importance in the official scheme and this year's crop in Britain is more than is needed for human consumption. Next come beef and mutton,—to make full use of the pastures and to constitute a reserve of meat on the hoof. Cereals follow in importance and increased production is encouraged in various ways. Pigs and poultry rank low in their priority list, and restrictions on feed for these animals are in operation.

The disposal of all important farm products is definitely under the control of the Government. To market livestock for slaughter at least twelve days notice must be given by the farmer, who must await instructions regarding the time and place of delivery for official grading and slaughter. The Ministry of Food thereupon takes over the meat at prices set for the particular grade, to be used as required for the rationed supply.

Imported Foods Controlled

Imported foods, during the war, must be considered as supplementary to domestic production to fit the plan of the Ministry of Foods. It is misleading for outsiders to assume they can tell better than the British officials what is needed. It is also misleading to assume that prices paid in Britain for home-produced farm products will have any relationship to the prices of similar commodities imported from other countries.

All imported foods are officially controlled—and many are directly imported by the Ministry of Food. Only foodstuffs that are officially approved may be imported into Britain, and the amounts allocated are related to the actual needs of the country as determined by this Ministry.

The Ministry of Food submits its recommendations for approval as an integral part of the general war programme of the government, and no progress is possible until this authorization is obtained. Furthermore, nothing can be done without the sanction of the Treasury, which provides the foreign exchange necessary for these operations. The Ministry of Shipping must also give assurance that the space needed for carrying the commodities to Britain can be provided.

Essential Foods

The imported foods considered most essential are wheat, dairy products, fresh meats, cured meats and fish. Of these Canada supplies a very large proportion of wheat; a considerable quantity of the cheese and condensed milk; none of the fresh meat; and the bulk of the bacon. A large part of the frozen and canned fish used in Britain is also sent from Canada.

There are also other foods which are officially rated non-essential under war conditions, which were formerly important in our trade with Britain, for which only a small import business is provided. Some commodities are definitely unwanted by Britain under present conditions, regardless of our opinions as to their value as the other commodities more urgently needed already take the available funds and shipping.

To meet the needs of Britain's rationing programme the foods available must be abundant, relatively cheap, concentrated, storable and not difficult to handle. Where similar products originate in different parts of the Empire, uniform contracts must be designed to avoid discrimination.

Physical Difficulties in War Time

Under present conditions many physical difficulties arise which would never be experienced in peace time. The dislocation of normal shipping has diverted commodities to ports where the usual facilities for handling and storage are not available, consequently considerable transportation overland is inevitable for which adequate equipment is lacking. War has also disorganized the normal distribution within Britain; closed important markets, and necessitated the establishment of regional depots, etc., to fit in with the various rationing programmes. The personnel of long-established peacetime agencies of distribution has been drawn on very heavily for war services of every kind, and in addition the voluntary work at night and in emergencies add heavy loads to those remaining with the agencies. Evacuation of important groups of people from danger areas has also brought serious complications, and in addition the black-out and the air raids have introduced severe difficulties to distribution. Notwithstanding these obstacles and hardships, food is reaching the consumers with remarkable regularity, adequately, in fair variety and is not unduly enhanced in price.

Canada's co-operation in and contributions to the present struggle are highly significant for all parts of the war programme, and our efforts are very greatly appreciated by Britain. Notwithstanding the terrific experiences which are now virtually her daily routine, she is steadfastly preparing for whatever may be necessary, together with the other parts of the British Commonwealth of Nations, its allies and friends, to win this tremendous and all-important fight for freedom.

Policy With Regard To China Remains Unchanged Says Soviet

Moscow, Dec. 5—(AP)—Tass, official Russian News Agency, reported today the Russian Government had informed Tokyo that its "policy with regard to China" remains unchanged by Japanese recognition of the Chinese regime at Nanking headed by Wang Ching-Wei.

Tass said Russian Ambassador Smetanin had called at the Japanese Foreign Office yesterday and delivered the following statement on behalf of his government:

"The Soviet Government notes the statement of the Japanese Government to the effect that an article of agreement has been concluded between Japan and Wang Ching-Wei not directed in any against the U.S.S.R. and that it will not affect Japan's desire to adjust her relations with the U.S.S.R.

"On its part the Soviet Government desires to state that the policy of the Soviet Union with regard to China remains without change."

The Japanese statement referred to by Smetanin, Tass said, was delivered to the Russian ambassador last Sunday by Japanese Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs Chuichi Ohashi.

Ohashi explained, the News Agency added, that "article three in this agreement concerning the struggle added communism was not directed in any way against the U.S.S.R. and that said article follows from purely internal condition."

British Seamen Tell of Exciting Adventures Following Torpedoings

By DOUGLAS HOW

An East Coast Canadian Port, Dec. 5 (CP)—Yarns that dripped of the drama of wartime seas came today from hundreds of merchant seamen, survivors of the torpedoings that are striking at Britain's mercantile shipping.

The merchant seamen completed the first leg of their journey to various American ports with their arrival here aboard a British liner that crossed the Atlantic in ten days without threat from the enemy. They will man vessels Britain has obtained to bolster the ranks of her depleted sea units.

Their tales were of the danger that rides every wave of the Atlantic of today.

They jealously guarded their names, but they slowly revealed the grim details of their adventures.

Machine-Gun Survivors

These were some of the men and the tales they unfolded:

A stocky skipper told of a four-and-a-half-day spell in a lifeboat on the open Atlantic. "We were about 150 miles from England," he recounted, "when they got our 9,500-ton freighter. It was pitch dark the night of Oct. 13 when three submarines popped onto the surface. One of them fired a torpedo that sank the ship in just six and a half minutes."

Other seamen said German machine guns fired on the thirty-eight survivors as they leaped into their lifeboats.

Twenty-one men were in the lifeboat with the captain when they heard an almost perfect English voice yell across the water, demanding to know the name of the sinking ship and her destination. Searchlights played on them from three directions.

"That was all he wanted to know," the British skipper went on. "No, he didn't make any offer to help us."

That was a Sunday. They drifted for two days, until on Tuesday night a Sunderland flying boat appeared overhead and dropped rations and medical supplies. Then they drifted for another two days.

Rescued by Plane

Finally, on Thursday, another Sunderland showed up and came down to make a landing. When it took off again, the entire group of twenty-two was aboard.

That's the story of a real veteran of the seas. He was torpedoed twice in the first Great War.

Here's one related by an officer who gave up a career as an insurance salesman to go into the marine service. He was serving aboard the 7,800-ton freighter Dalcairn as she plowed along in convoy in the pitch blackness of the night of Sept. 21. She was heading for Britain and was about 300 miles off Ireland.

Suddenly submarines struck, at least two of them, possibly a nest. The officer said ten vessels plunged to the bottom before the U-boats withdrew into the darkness.

Within six minutes the ex-insuranceman saw his ship slip under the waves. Not a man lost, and that, all agreed, was a tribute to the weekly emergency drills insisted on by the captain. There was neither panic nor hesitation as they took to their lifeboats.

They drifted for four hours before joining scores of other survivors aboard a warship. The story-teller estimated that 160 men all told clambered aboard the rescue ship. Loss of life in the sinkings, he believed, would be about 180.

Starved on Warship

Once aboard the warship, though, their ordeal was just beginning. That ship, on a special mission, had already been on rations for three days. Living up to naval tradition her skipper refused to return to port without fulfilling his job as long as there was food aboard—any food.

It was six days later that they reached England, half-starved after surviving on tea and biscuits.

The steward, who also lived through that experience, thus survived sinking number two. He was aboard the 7,800-ton freighter Dalryan—of the same line—when she struck a magnetic mine off the Thames Estuary about a year ago.

Shore lifeboats put out and prevented any loss of life.

A lanky, blond engineer declined to narrate the story of the sinking of the freighter Dalveen a torpedoing of which, other seamen said, he was the sole survivor. They said he clung to wreckage until a rescue boat reached his side.

Those were just a few of the tales these men could tell of the past. Of the future, they had just one message: "We've got a job to do. Let's get on with it."

Travelling with them were about 100 persons. The men were civilian officials coming to this continent on various duties for the British Government. The others were their wives and children.

HANDBILLS might be just the "shot in the arm" that your business needs. Call 98, and ask for a representative to call — you'll be surprised at the first class job that The Ontario Intelligencer can do for you at very little expense.

Ontario Intelligencer Job Printing

One-Tenth of Cent Per Pound Premium Asked on Cheese Grading 94 Pts. or Over Concluding Session of Cheesemakers' Convention Forward Resolutions to Federal Gov't.

O. BOISVERT SPEAKS

A resolution, asking that the Dominion Government grant to Canadian cheesemakers a premium of one-tenth of a cent per pound on all cheese scoring 94 points or over, with the said premium to be given separate from that paid the cheese patrons, was passed at the concluding session of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association Convention, held here on Wednesday afternoon.

Other resolutions passed during the afternoon included a request that cheesemakers be enabled to take a short course or "refresher" course in cheesemaking every year before the regular season opens.

They also went on record as urging that the Dominion Government retain in full force the "Cheese and Cheese Factory Improvement Act," under the provisions of which, cheese companies wishing to install cool curing rooms, amalgamate two or more factories, and change their hoops and presses, may receive direct financial assistance to the extent of fifty percent of the cost of new material and labour employed in such projects. It is the opinion of the association that the record-breaking improvement in the quality of cheese manufactured this year was due almost directly to the operation of the provisions of this act.

In a final resolution passed by the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, it was urged that the government continue the bonusing of high scoring cheese. It was felt that such action would undoubtedly increase the amount of cheese made in Canada—a point not to be lost sight of in time of war.

Speakers for the afternoon included Thos. J. Hicks, Senior Dairy Produce Grader, Montreal, who gave a detailed report on 1940 grading; Mr. J. F. Singleton, Associate Director of Marketing Services, Dairy Products, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa; Dr. William Allan, Agriculture Commissioner for Canada in England, who delivered a paper on the feeding of British people during war time, and Mr. Oscar Boisvert, Inspector General, Dairy Branch, Department of Agriculture, Province of Quebec.

History of Cheese Production Revealed

Mr. Boisvert opened his address by asking if Canada produced enough cheese to comply with the demands of the home market as well as to fulfill the demand of the United Kingdom, and if not, what proportion of the Canadian milk production must go to cheese manufacturing and how shall it be applied on a practical basis throughout the Dominion.

The speaker reviewed the production history of cheese in Canada, stating that the peak had been reached during the years of 1900-1910 but since then had collapsed, with the number of cheese factories decreasing in favour of butter plants. During the present season, however, as the result of consistent propaganda, the production of cheese in the province of Quebec has been increased by 26 percent, he said.

During the past few years there had been an endeavour throughout the province of Quebec to specialize dairy districts into either the manufacturing of butter or cheese, in accordance to the adaptability and conditions of each particular district. "We of the dairy industry, in the past, have been directing our dairying activities individually, as provinces, without ever giving a thought to the joint market effect of a surplus, nor its manner of disposal, nor have we given much thought to the general effect produced throughout Canada by such a situation. Today, we must bear in mind post-war effects," stated Mr. Boisvert. "If cheese factories are organized indiscriminantly here, there and everywhere, without due regard to stabilization of production, troubles will inevitably ensue." Mr. Boisvert suggested that it might be possible to so distribute the manufacture of our principle dairy products throughout Canada, wherever districts and conditions are favourable to such production in order to eliminate post-war effects.

In conclusion Mr. Boisvert reiterated his appreciation of the beneficial policy as established by the Federal Government in favour of "The Cheese Factory Improvement Act," which along with the premium paid for quality cheese has done much towards awakening the enthusiasm and ambition of both the producers and the cheesemakers," he said.

Morris Rose Chosen President

Officers for the 1941 season as elected for the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, include Mr. Morris Rose as President, replacing Mr. S. J. Anderson, of Melrose, whose term of office expires with the culmination of the convention. Vice-President for the forthcoming year will be Mr. Leslie Shillinglaw. Directors are John Finnegan, H. S. Channell, S. Anderson and Everett Reed. Auditors are John Hall and J. M. Wilkinson.

Grotesque Dragons, Toyland Characters, Beautiful Floats and Lovely Girls Will Feature Santa's Parade Saturday

There will be grotesque dragons, gaily caparisoned soldiers, clowns, pretty girls, birds, animals, huge blocks and all the color and life that go with such an event in the Grand Santa Claus parade that will be held here on Saturday afternoon starting at two p.m. (D.S.T.)

There will be bands of all descriptions, music, mirth and melody and above all Old Santa himself will be here with all his droll humor and good nature.

There will be all kinds of funny things, floats that beggar description, cars of all vintages and funny people who will bring all the spirit of the gay festive season in a continuity of colorful motion that will eclipse anything of its kind ever seen in this city.

Final details and the inevitable wrinkles that crop up with the planning of such an affair were successfully ironed out at a special meeting of the Santa Claus Committee held in the Y.M.C.A. last night under the chairmanship of Morley Wyman. Each phase of the parade was represented and present indications point to one of the most successful Yuletide events ever held here.

Seventy-five people representing sixty-three characters of all descriptions will take part. Huge doll's heads, those of the favorite characters in the comic strips, animals, toys and whatnot will be here. The Belleville Municipal Band, and that of the Collegiate Institute will provide the Christmas melodies with a possibility of the skirling pipes of the Belleville Kilties Band joining in.

Car Used by Royal Couple to be Here

Merchants and other representatives of the city have entered wholeheartedly into the plan. A colorful feature of the local angle and one that brings back memories of the glorious days of peace will be the handsome maroon and silver limousine used in Canada by King George and Queen Elizabeth during their visit here in May 1939. The Boyce Company, Trudeau's, Riggs, Quinte and Belleville Motor Car Companies will have handsome cars, decorated in the last word in the parade. The Reid Dairy will have two of its wagons as will the Montrose Dairy. Floats will be decorated and supplied by the Stewart-Warner Co., the York Trading, Y.M.C.A. Belleville Collegiate Institute and the Foxboro Public School.

The Quinte Skating Club will be represented by twelve colorful skaters; the Belle Theatre will have a float as will the Walker Hardware Co. And last but not least will be Old Santa himself.

The whole will be a colorful panorama of music and mirth that will officially usher in the Yuletide season here.

The parade will form up near Foundry Street, and the participants will dress in St. Michael's Academy. Starting from Foundry Street the parade will wend its way down Front Street to Bridge Street, east on Bridge to Pinnacle Street and south on Pinnacle to Dundas Street and west on Dundas to Front to the original starting point.

The parade will move off sharply at two o'clock in the afternoon.

Motorist Escapes Injuries After Driving Car into Side of Train

G. Reid, Thomasburg, Did Not See Moving Train Because of Snow Storm

CAR WRECKED

When he drove his motor car directly into the side of a moving Canadian National freight train at the Corbyville railway crossing, 31-year-old Gerald Reid of Thomasburg, narrowly escaped serious injuries, if not fatal ones, early Wednesday evening.

Mr. Reid was returning home from Belleville and was fortunately driving at an exceeding moderate rate of speed. Owing to the heavy blizzard and driving gale, visibility was nil as he approached the Corbyville C.N.R. crossing on Highway No. 37. Before he realized his difficulty the front of his motor car had collided with a south bound C.N.R. freight train. Fortunately the force of the impact hurled the Reid car backwards and to the right where it rolled over twice into the south ditch.

The motor car was completely wrecked, while Mr. Reid miraculously escaped without serious injury as he only complained of a minor neck ailment, he told Provincial Constables Charles Siple and A. Grayling, who investigated.

Police stated that when the motor car drove into the side of the freight train the force of the impact had apparently lifted the front end of the automobile until it rolled over into the ditch a scant few feet from the speeding train. The crew of the train knew nothing of the incident at the time.

The accident occurred at 6.40 p.m. Wednesday evening.

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows were starting over to the empty lot to have fun with my filtball, and I said, G, good night, what's this knott in my hankerchiff for? My mother told me to be sure and do something, and that's what I went and tied this knott for, so I wouldn't forget, and now I forgot, I said.

Aw come on, you can remember later, Puds Simkins said, and I said, Nothing doing, I'm not going to catch heck if I can help it. Why dont you fellows try to help me remember, maybe it was something that'll only take a couple of minutes or something, I said.

Well how do you expect us to remember something we never knew? Skinny Martin said, and Lucky Leroy Shooster said, Sure, let's save time by us taking the football over awhile and you can come over later.

Sure, we'll be warming it up, Glasses Magee said, and I said, Nothing doing, wherever I and this football go we go together.

The result being they tried to think of things to remind me, Puds saying, Maybe she wanted you to get something at the store, and if she did you can stop in on our way passed and tell them to send it, so that wont take long.

Maybe she just wanted you to be sure and be home in time for dinner, and if that's all it is you can worry about it later, Leroy said, and Glasses Magee said, Maybe she just wants you to remember not to get run over or anything.

None of them sounding right, so I went back in the house to find out for sure, saying, Hay ma, what did you tell me to tie this knott in my hankerchiff for? and ma saying, Oh that was something 3 days ago for land sakes, that's ancient water under the dam.

Being good news, and I went out again saying, It's okay, fellows, it's all done and they said, What was it? and I said, Oh, something personel.

CANADIAN TROOPS OVERSEAS EAGER TO GET AT FOE

Men Are Also Facing Winter With Greater Contentment Than Year Ago

INTENSIVE TRAINING

Edwin S. Johnson, former Canadian Press War Correspondent who opens a National speaking tour today (Thursday) at Calgary, writes in the following story of the eagerness of Canadian troops in England to engage the enemy. Mr. Johnson shortly will take up the new post of Canadian Press Military Correspondent in Ottawa.

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Calgary, Dec. 5 (CP)—Morale superbly high and health sound, Canada's army of Overseas warriors has launched upon a program of intensive winter training, ready the while for any call, whether to help repel an attempted invasion or to engage the enemy in some other theatre of war. Recent dispatches from London suggest that if the Canadians leave they may go to the Near East.

With majority of the units housed in warm, comfortable billets the men are facing the winter with a feeling of greater contentment than a year ago. But throughout the entire force there is the same contagious eagerness and almost restless urge for action.

At present part of the 1st Division, regarded as one of the most proficient and best equipped fighting units in the United Kingdom, is manning a vital sector of the country's coast defence line. Other units are engaged on special training exercises which for the first time place greater stress on offensive tactics than defensive.

Would Like Chance at Italians

Whether the Canadians are to be employed in some other theatre of activity is a secret known only to the High Command. Nothing would please the Canadians so much as an opportunity of testing their mettle in battle.

As a cocky Winnipeg infantryman remarked just before I took leave of them: "Why don't they shoot us off to Egypt or Greece? If they'd only give us a chance we'd clean up those Wops in a couple of shakes."

It is this waiting without ever seeing a sign of the enemy that is the cause of whatever grumbling exists among the men. They have been assured, however, by the commander, Lt.-General. A. G. L. McNaughton, that their chance will come in due time.

"We are never losing sight of carrying the war to the enemy," he told me. "At the moment we are being entrusted with a vital job of defence, but we are also preparing for the day when the initiative will pass into our hands. Then we shall strike with all we have at the right time and where the blow will produce the most telling results.

"We are constantly growing stronger in manpower and resources, and every morning when we check up on the situation we feel that we are substantially stronger than the day before."

Amazed at Londoners

Officers and men who have visited the metropolis have expressed amazement in finding the civilian population in such high spirits in face of incessant hammering from the raiders.

"Believe it or not I have seen people reading books and newspapers on top of buses while bombs were crashing nearby and they never bat an eyelash," a Toronto youth remarked on his return from a week-end trip to the capital.

With two other companions he had toured through the raid-torn areas and marvelled that so little damage was visible. He also remarked on the abundance and variety of food available in London hotels and restaurants.

And well he might, for here is a sample meal he had before taking off for camp: Cocktails, native oysters, soup, pheasant, assorted vegetables, fruit salad, cheese and crackers, all chased down with a liberal amount of French wine.

Today the biggest problem is to keep boredom from gaining root among the men. Every effort is being bent towards that end but little is being said about the possible role the Canadians may be called on to play in the immediate future.

A Cross-Section Of Empire's Fighting Strength Arrives

An East Coast Canadian Port, Dec. 5 (CP)—Men representing a cross-section of the Empire's fighting strength by sea and air and on the government service front spread out from there today through Canada and the United States to take up new duties that brought them across an ocean.

Ships arriving from Britain yesterday had brought British seamen to man replacements for the merchant marine, enough Royal Air Force men to fill two complete flying training schools and tars to run over-age destroyers obtained from the United States. Hundreds of men were in each category.

Government officials made up another class, coming on various duties for the British government. Some were bound for the United States. And the ship carrying the civilians brought another group—just plain refugees.

Many Canadians were among the R.A.F. men, largest body of that force to reach this point. They were bound for Ontario and Manitoba, and they headed west today by special train.

Scores of youths of the R.A.F. volunteer reserve were in the group, ready to be trained for combat service. The flying fighters were garnered from the ends of the Empire.

Many of the merchant seamen, here en route to many North American ports to take over vessels that will keep Britain's sea trade operating, were survivors of torpedoings. One skipper said he was one of a group of 22 men, left adrift at sea when their vessel sunk, who were picked up and flown to land in a huge Sunderland flying boat.

Liechtenstein Hopes to Remain Unscathed

Vaduz, Liechtenstein —(AP)— The tiny principality of Liechtenstein, wedged in between Austria and Switzerland on the upper Rhine, is optimistic enough to think it can survive the war unscathed and untouched.

Liechtenstein comprises an area of 65 square miles, has a population of about 11,000. Vaduz, its capital, has 1,715 inhabitants.

Somehow Prince Franz Joseph, the ruler, and his prime minister, Dr. Joseph Hoop, are confident their principality will not share the fate of Poland, Norway, Denmark, Belgium, Holland, Rumania and Greece.

Their hopes rest on the following considerations:—

1. Personal relationships between Prince Franz Joseph and leading personalities of the Nazi Regime are cordial.
2. A truce has been arranged between the two political parties of the principality, the Civic (Conservative) Party and the Patriotic Union, the latter with Nazi leanings.
3. German anti-Semitism has been met by legislation restricting Jewish influence in the principality.

In order to bar trouble, the government at the beginning of last summer forbade all political meetings of any kind. As a concession to the Patriotic Union, several representatives of that party were given political berths.

Economically, the little country has been hard hit by the war. By treaty it is incorporated in the Swiss customs territory. Hence, just as Switzerland is in a bad way economically, so Liechtenstein is bound to be.

The cost of living has risen steadily— as much as 40 per cent, economists estimate. Food rationing has become necessary.

Replaceable screwdriver bits of five different sizes fit a new tool holder intended for use with case hardened screws.

Sapper Cramb Commended for Bravery Shown

By ROSS MUNRO,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Somewhere in England, Dec. 5—(CP) — Sapper T. J. C. (Tommy) Cramb of Toronto, member of the Royal Canadian Engineers, has been commended, along with Trooper C. Knight of a British tank regiment, for bravery shown when they were in charge of a lorry carrying high-explosives during an air raid.

An account of the incident appeared in Corps Orders and Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Corps Commander, directed that an entry be made in the Men's Conduct Sheet.

Cramb was riding with Knight, who was driving, on a lorry carrying 1,500 pounds of high explosives. The lorry was moving through a thickly populated area when the district was attacked by enemy aircraft.

The two soldiers realized the danger in which their load placed the neighborhood and drove on. One bomb exploded close to their vehicle; debris flew past and Cramb was thrown across the gear levers. Knight managed to keep control of the truck and they went on into the country before stopping to examine the damage.

The order said: "The action of these men in continuing their way without regard to their own safety in spite of the effect of a bomb explosion is highly commended."

FIX UP NOW FOR WINTER

ROOFING
We carry a complete supply of all types of roofing and insulation.

MILLWORK
Whether you wish to replace worn-out millwork or install new storm windows, this is the place to come.

LUMBER
We have what you need for every purpose . . and at prices that are really reasonable.

INSULATION

THE HOUSTON COMPANY LIMITED
ST. PAUL ST. PHONE 1477

Dairy Produce Agreements Between Canada and U.K. Reviewed by J. F. Singleton

Following is text of address given by Mr. Singleton at the Convention of Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association on Wednesday.

Following the outbreak of war the Government of the United Kingdom adopted the policy in so far as possible of purchasing requirements of various products through agreements between the Government of the United Kingdom and the Governments of the supplying countries and shortly after the outbreak of war the Government of the United Kingdom entered into agreements with New Zealand and Australia for the purchase of their exportable surpluses of cheese and butter. Canada's cheese-producing season was then drawing to a close and no agreement between the Governments of the United Kingdom and Canada for the purchase of Canada's cheese was entered into at that time. The Canadian market for cheese was uncontrolled and the British Ministry of Food permitted dealers in the United Kingdom to purchase and import Canadian cheese for private account. The price of cheese in Canada at the outbreak of war was approximately 11 cents per pound and from that time onward there was for several months a general upward trend in price, the high point being reached in the month of February during which month the average price at Montreal was 19 1-4 cents, following which prices declined throughout March and April. The high prices prevailing throughout the winter of 1939-1940 induced heavier feeding of concentrates. The weather during the fall months was exceptionally favorable for the manufacture of cheese and as a result factories generally operated until a later date than usual and a much greater number of factories operated during the entire winter than is usually the case. Some factories which closed down in December and would not ordinarily have reopened until early April reopened in January and continued manufacturing cheese throughout the remainder of the winter. As a result of these conditions the volume of cheese manufactured during the winter months of 1939-1940 was greater than normal.

Negotiations Opened

During the past winter negotiations were opened by the British Government with the Canadian Government for the purchase of Canada's exportable surplus of cheese during the remainder of the year 1940. On the 23rd May, 1940, an agreement was reached by the two Governments for the purchase by the Government of the United Kingdom of Canada's exportable surplus of cheese made down to the 30th November up to a maximum of 78,400,000 pounds. Under the terms of this agreement the price for First Grade cheese on board ship Montreal was 14 cents lb. with prices of Second and Third Grades 1-2 cent and 1 cent per pound respectively, less, all cheese to be white and unwaxed. Other provisions of the agreement dealt with terms of payment, etc., and it was agreed that the Government of Canada would establish an agency or board to undertake the export of the available surplus of cheese in accordance with the terms of the understanding between the two Governments. By Order in Council of 23rd May, 1940, the Canadian Government gave formal assent to the understanding and another Order in Council of the same date established a Dairy Products Board of which the personnel is Mr. Joseph Felix Desmarais of the Cooperative Federee de Quebec, Montreal, Mr. John Freeman, Manager, Lovell & Christmas (Canada) Limited, Montreal, both of whom serve without remuneration, and the speaker. The Board does not deal in any way with matters of policy as between the two Governments. The Board opened an office in Montreal of which Mr. Freeman is in immediate charge and to the work of which he devotes practically full time, and as already stated serving without remuneration.

Diversion Limited

Reference has already been made to the high prices paid for cheese during the past winter. These high prices for cheese and information that the British Ministry of Food required cheese from Canada influenced milk producers to divert from the manufacture of butter to the manufacture of cheese where such diversion was practicable and the particular type of farming which was followed prompted such diversion. The extent to which such diversion can occur is, however, limited since in those districts where cheese factories to which diversion may occur, are most numerous, creameries are least numerous. In that part of Ontario served by the Eastern Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, namely the counties of Leeds, Lanark, Renfrew and the counties lying east of these three, there are according to the latest report of Dairy Factories 406 cheese factories which produce 55 per cent. of the total cheese produced in all Ontario, and in the same area there are 58 creameries which produce only 10.8 per cent of the butter produced in all Ontario. In Central Ontario, that is in Frontenac and the counties lying between Frontenac and Toronto, there are 170 cheese factories producing 25.7 per cent. of Ontario's cheese production, and 51 creameries producing 14.2 per cent. of the butter. That is, in Eastern Ontario there are 576 cheese factories producing 80.7 per cent. of the cheese produced in all Ontario and 109 creameries producing 25 per cent. of the butter. In Western Ontario there are 76 cheese factories producing only 19 per cent. of the cheese produced in Ontario and 214 creameries producing 72.2 per cent. of the butter produced in Ontario. The remainder of the cheese and butter produced in Ontario is produced in the districts of the north. It is apparent, therefore, that such diversion as did occur, must have occurred largely in Eastern Ontario to a lesser extent Central Ontario, and to a still lesser extent in Western Ontario.

U. K. Wanted More Cheese

Shortly after the agreement with the British Ministry of Food was consummated, the Ministry of Food expressed a desire to secure the greatest possible quantity of cheese from Canada and agreed to purchase the entire quantity available for export no matter how great it might be. A monthly schedule of shipments had been arranged for the 78,400,000 pounds and in view of the desire of the Ministry of Food to secure the greatest possible quantity of cheese from Canada it is gratifying to be able to report that quantities exported each month have exceeded the schedule fixed in the original agreement. Production of cheese during the first ten months of the year is reported as 132,415,000 pounds which is 15 per cent. greater than during the same months of the previous year. The increase in production in Ontario during these months was 11.4 per cent. as compared with increases of 25.3 per cent. in Prince Edward Island, 20.5 per cent. in New Brunswick, 23.5 per cent in Quebec, 30.6 per cent. in Manitoba, 13.7 per cent. in Saskatchewan and 20.7 per cent. in Alberta.

It is very improbable that production of cheese during the coming winter will be as great as during the past winter.

On the 19th of June an Order of the Board was published in the Canada Gazette in accordance with which each person or firm exporting cheese was required to secure from the Board an export cheese licence.

The agreement between the Governments of Canada and the United Kingdom provides that unless it can be shown that the quality of the cheese when shipped from Montreal is not in accordance with the quality as indicated by the grade certificate no claim shall be made against the Canadian exporter on account of alleged defective quality on arrival in the United Kingdom. This means that cheese should be of quality as indicated by the grade certificates and in proper condition when loaded on board ship. It was found early in June that some cheese were being exported from Canada at temperatures which were altogether too high. This is a matter which had been receiving study by the Department of Agriculture for some two years and in view of the obligations to the British Ministry of Food an Order was issued by the Board on the 19th June in accordance with which all shipments of cheese for export through the Board to the United Kingdom must be at a temperature not in excess of 60 degrees. This Order of the Board was enforced through the Cargo Inspectors on the docks engaged by the Department of Agriculture for the purpose of checking condition of perishable products when exported from Canada. Following issuance of the Order exporters were advised of the requirement and obliged to observe it, otherwise export of the cheese was not permitted. Some few weeks ago cheese were being shipped at temperatures which were altogether too low especially as the cheese were in all probability required for early consumption. The Board therefore fixed 50 degrees as the minimum temperature at which cheese of current receipt would be accepted for export. This requirement of 50 degrees minimum temperature was enforced by Cargo Inspectors in a manner similar to the enforcement of the requirement of the maximum temperature of 60 degrees except that the temperatures were determined in the warehouses of the exporters rather than on the docks.

Arrange for Shipment

The use of marine space is directed by the Controller of Transport and since the Board was constituted on the 23rd May down to the 23rd November the Board has arranged for the shipment of 1,009,553 boxes of cheese. This is equivalent to approximately 91,000,000 pounds of cheese or to 12,600,000 pounds more cheese than the maximum quantity originally arranged for by the Governments of the United Kingdom and Canada. The original agreement, as already stated, covered the exportable surplus of cheese produced to the 30th November, 1940, and it is expected that the total quantity of cheese exported from the make down to the end of November will be approximately 92,000,000 pounds. As a basis of comparison the quantity of cheese exported to the United Kingdom during the first ten months of the calendar year 1940 amounted to 90,826,700 pounds as compared with 60,964,200 pounds exported during the same ten months of the previous year, an increase of approximately 50 per cent.

Exports Limited

In order to conserve supplies of cheese for the Ministry of Food, the Board has taken action to restrict exports of cheese to non-Empire countries. By an Order of the Board published in the Canada Gazette of the 12th July, 1940, it was provided that no company or individual might export cheese outside Canada without permission from the Board. Later the Board ruled that applications for permission to export to non-Empire countries cheese made prior to the 1st April, 1940, would be approved, and with the exception of cheese in sizes known as Daisies, Stiltons or half-Stiltons the export to non-Empire countries of Cheddar cheese made after the 1st April, 1940 would not be permitted.

Marine shiping space has been generally available as required and there has been little reason for complaint concerning delayed shipment.

More recently the agreement with the Ministry of Food has been extended to include cheese made down to the 31st March, 1941, and the export movement of whatever surplus may be available will continue via the winter ports throughout the winter months. As already stated, it is anticipated that production of cheese during the current winter will not be as great as during the previous winter and it is impossible to now make any very reliable forecast as to what will be the amount of total exports during the year ending March, 1941.

New Agreement

An agreement has also been entered into for the export to the United Kingdom of Canada's exportable surplus of cheese produced during the year commencing the 1st April, 1941. The general terms of the agreement are similar to those of the previous agreement but Canada is undertaking to supply during the year commencing April next a minimum of 50,000 long tons or 112,000,000 pound of cheese and the Ministry of Food will be prepared to purchase any additional quantity which may be available. The basic price for cheese made after the 31st March, 1941, will be advanced to 14.4 cents per pound f.o.b. ship or f.o.b. cars Montreal for shipment through the winter ports; that is 14.4 cents for First Grade cheese with Second and Third Grades 1-2 and 1 cent respectively, less. It will be noted that the advanced price, namely 14.4 cents per pound for First Grade cheese applies to cheese made after 31st March, 1941. That is the date of manufacture, rather than the date of shipment determines the price and nothing can be gained by withholding cheese for shipment after 31st March next. Also, makers should not ship March and April made cheese in the same shipment.

While this agreement to supply 112,000,000 pounds of cheese during the year commencing April next, provides for the export of 33,600,000 more cheese than provided for in the first agreement, it will possibly be an increase of only 12,000,000 pounds to 15,000,000 pounds over the quantity which will have been exported during the year ending March next.

Evaporated Milk

Negotiations between the Governments of the United Kingdom and Canada resulted in an agreement being reached during the latter part of June whereby the British Ministry of Food was to purchase 300,000 cases of evaporated milk (48 one-pound tins of milk British standard, per case) at $3.75 per case on board ship, Canadian sea board. Following completion of this understanding arrangements on behalf of the British Ministry of Food were made by the Dairy Products Board for the purchase and export of this quantity of milk. During the latter part of September arrangements were completed for the purchase by the Ministry of Food of a further 150,000 cases and since that time a third understanding has been reached for the purchase of an additional quantity of evaporated milk. The quantity desired under this third undertaking is 600,000 cases and it now appears that only about one-half of this quantity will be available. The price has remained unchanged at $3.75 on board ship, Canadian sea board.

While no agreement has been entered into with respect to purchase of milk for delivery after the 31st March 1941, the Ministry of Food has expressed willingness to purchase 1,000,000 cases at $3.75 per case on board ship, Canadian sea board.

Butter

As previously stated the British Ministry of Food arranged shortly after the outbreak of war for the purchase of the exportable surpluses of butter from New Zealand and Australia. This original agreement with the two Dominions covered the exportable surpluses produced to the 31st July, 1940, and the agreement has since been renewed for the purchase of exportable surpluses produced to the 31st July, 1941. The United Kingdom has not been depending on Canada for a supply of butter although willing to purchase butter from Canada not required for domestic consumption at a price comparable with that paid for butter purchased from New Zealand and Australia, provided such purchase does not result in reducing the quantity of cheese available for export. At the 1st August 1940, stocks of butter in Canada were about 4,000,000 pounds greater than at the 1st August 1939 and from the stocks on hand the 1st August 1939 more than 1,000,000 pounds were exported to the United Kingdom. As no export movement of butter to the United Kingdom was anticipated this year the surplus over and above the stocks of a year ago was actually in excess of 5,000,000 pounds at the 1st of August. This had a depressing effect on the market and whether or not it is due to the depressed market the volume of production of creamery butter during September and October 1940, was considerably under that of a year ago. Stocks of butter in storage and transit at the 1st November, 1940, were 4,418,000 pounds less than at the 1st November 1939, and distribution in Canada during the first ten months of the year was 9,511,000 pounds greater than a year ago. Since mid-August the general trend of the market has been upwards. It is apparent that the quantity of butter produced in Canada during the past season has not been as great as now seems necessary to carry us through to another season of full production.

U.K. Will Take More Dairy Produce

The arrangement between the Governments of Canada and the United Kingdom provides for the supply to the United Kingdom during the year commencing April next of approximately 15,000,000 pounds more cheese than will have been supplied during the year ending March next. Further, the United Kingdom desires to receive from Canada during the year commencing April next 1,000,000 cases of evaporated milk, a quantity 35 to 40 per cent. greater than the quantity which will be exported during the year ending March, 1941. But at 1st November, 1940, stocks in Canada of evaporated milk of Canadian standard were heavy and it appears that with the same quantity of milk used for evaporating purposes in 1941 as in 1940, it should be possible to supply 1,000,000 cases of evaporated milk of British standard to the British Ministry of Food and still have adequate stocks for domestic consumption. However if any considerable increase in domestic consumption occurs, this would not be the case.

To produce 15,000,000 pounds more cheese will require more than 172,500,000 pounds additional milk. (11.5 pounds milk to produce 1 pound of cheese).

If 10,000,000 pound more butter are required during 1941 further additional milk to the extent of 234,000,000 pounds would be necessary. (23.4 pounds of milk to produce 1 pound of butter).

That is 406,500,000 pounds more milk will be required to increase cheese production by 15,000,000 pounds and to increase butter production by 10,000,000 pounds. Whether 10,000,000 pounds increase in butter production is sufficient to meet Canadian requirements during 1941 is as yet unknown. The figure is used simply for illustrative purposes.

In any case it is quite clear that 500,000,000 pounds increase in milk production during 1941 over that of 1940 can be used advantageously for increased production of cheese and butter. Total milk production in Canada is approximately 16,000,000,000 pounds per annum, and 500,000,000 pounds increase is equivalent to an increase of 3.1 per cent. This calculation does not include any provision for increase of milk for other purposes such as for fluid consumption, manufacture of dried milk, ice cream, etc.

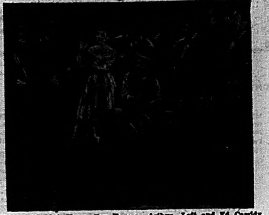
Ottawa, December 2, 1940.

New Axis Parley Expected at Munich Say Berne Sources

Berne, Dec. 5 (AP)—Diplomatic sources here reported today that another Axis conference is imminent—this time at Munich with Foreign Minister Ribbentrop of Germany, Foreign Minister Ciano of Italy and Vice-Premier Laval of France the chief participants.

The conference is expected to clarify the French position toward the Axis.

The Swiss Telegraphic Agency reported under a Paris date line that Marshall Petain had given an interview to the weekly "La Gerbe" saying that Laval was soon going to Germany to meet Ribbentrop and that he "will certainly bring some advantages back with him."



George "Gabby" Hayes, Roy Rogers, Arthur Loft and Ed Cassidy are the principal characters in this scene from the historical western, "Colorado," now showing at the Capitol with the added attraction, "Charlie Chan in Panama."

Daily Mail Advocates Bombing of Civilians In German Reich

London, Dec. 5.—(CP)—Reversal of the British policy to refrain from bombing civilians was advocated editorially today by the Daily Mail.

Stating that the Germans now have abandoned all pretence that their bombers are after military objectives, and that their declared aim is to break the spirit of this country, the paper said "Britain cannot ignore this challenge. The time has come when the British Government should reconsider their policy in this matter".

Smashing of German resources is still of the first importance, it added, and reprisals are a waste of military effort but "if civilian endurance is to be made the test of victory or defeat we cannot afford to have the odds stacked against our own people".

"The handicap is too great", the editorial concluded. "If the Nazis insist upon using terror bombing as a weapon of war then we must use it, too".

CICERI'S

Owing to our large number of deliveries we kindly ask our customers to cooperate with us in having their orders in previous to the delivery hours listed below, thereby ensuring the quickest possible delivery of all orders.
LEAVE STORE 8.30 A.M. — 9.30 A.M. — 11 A.M. — 2.00 P.M. — 4.00 P.M. — 5 P.M.
SATURDAY LAST DELIVERY 7:30 P.M.

COUNTRY KIST PEAS 3 16 oz. tins 25c
ALL VEGETABLE Shortening lb. print 11c
STANDARD QUALITY TOMATOES 28-oz. tin Size: 10c
VACUUM CLEANED CURRANTS Sterilized 2 Lbs. 25c

SECOND Grade Creamery BUTTER One Pound Print 32c

Mother Parker's TEA ½ lb. Lead Package 31c

CHRISTMAS CANDY SATIN MIX 2 lbs. 25c
Howe's Chocolate DROPS 2 lbs. 29c

Concentrated Super-suds, large pkg. 19c
1 Giant Cake Palmolive Soap 1c
ALL FOR 20c

EWING'S EXTRACT VANILLA 8 oz. 19c
FLAVORING EXTRACT ALMOND 2 oz. 10c
AUSTRALIAN SEEDLESS RAISINS 2 lbs. 21c
FREE-O-SEED LEXIA RAISINS 2 12 oz. pkgs. 29c

Your "XMAS CAKE NEEDS"
VALENCIA ALMONDS ¼ lb. 15c
CALIFORNIA BLEACHED RAISINS lb. 18c
GLACED CHERRIES ¼ lb. 11c
CUT MIXED PEEL lb. 25c

FRESH FRUITS and VEGETABLES
NEW SHIPMENT NAVEL ORANGES
344's doz. 18c
220's doz. 25c
176's doz. 31c
LARGE CELERY STALKS 2 for 15c
P.E.I. POTATOES 75 lb. bag 97c
SEEDLESS size 126's GRAPEFRUIT 6 for 25c
LARGE ICEBERG LETTUCE 10c a Head

COME HERE for Quality MEATS
Shank off Pork Shoulders lb. 14c
Regular Fresh Pork Hams lb. 19c
PORK CHOPS . . . lb. 18c
STEAKS OR ROASTS ROUND, SIRLOIN or WING lb 22c
Fresh Pork Tenderloin lb. 27c
Fresh Pork Spare Ribs 2 lb. 29c
Schneider's Bacon Squares 2 lb. 29c
Select Sliced Breakfast Bacon lb. 26c
Choice Blade or Thick Rib Roast lb. 18c

WON'T POP BE SURPRISED WHEN HE FINDS UPSTAIRS AS WARM AS DOWNSTAIRS — HE DOESN'T KNOW WE HAD THE HOUSE INSULATED WITH SUPERSEAL WOOL THIS MORNING
FRISE

YES!.. AND HE'LL BE PLEASED, TOO, WHEN HE FINDS HOW MUCH HE SAVES ON FUEL BILLS WITH SUPERSEAL Insulating WOOL
Sold by
NATIONAL ROOFING & INSULATING COMPANY
319 Front Street - - Belleville.
Just Telephone 2490 for Free Estimate.
Evening Phone 1350R

Follow the Christmas Bargains in the
Ontario Intelligencer
3 MONTHS SUBSCRIPTION (By Mail—Canada Only) $1.00 Subscribe NOW

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO
START MY SUBSCRIPTION IMMEDIATELY. I ENCLOSE ONE DOLLAR FOR THREE MONTHS.

Name ______________________

R.R. ______________ Town ______________

Please Print Plainly in Pencil.

Thousands of Little Salesmen at Your Service

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER WANT AD RATES

Minimum Charge for the first twenty words, per Insertion 30c
Two Insertions 60c
Three Insertions 75c
Over Twenty Word, 1½c per word per insertion.
Box number .... extra 10c
Copy accepted until 12.30 noon on day of publication.
Telephone 99.

AUTO FINANCE

AUTO LOANS
REFINANCING

On terms and at rates which you will find suitable to your requirements. Your car is a quick and gilt-edge asset for borrowing. Only the owner signs. Deal with confidence with the largest company of its kind in Canada.

D. H. MARSHALL
17 Bridge St. E. Phone 1073
Representing
CAMPBELL AUTO FINANCE
Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa

Business Directory

W. A. WATSON
ARCHITECT
Kresge Building.
(Formerly 28 Bridge Street E.)
N15-tf

MINERAL BATHS

MINERAL BATHS AND MASSAGE The finest treatment for Neuritis, Arthritis, Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Colds, etc. Separate parlors for Ladies and Gentlemen. Graduate Nurse. Registered Masseur. Phone 1132. "THE HEALTH INSTITUTE" 231 William St. Belleville

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist Mineral Fume Baths with oil and alcohol rub; coagulation of tonsils. Radioclast examination, manipulative surgery and suction treatment for sinus conditions. 238 Coleman St., Belleville. Phone 900. Lady attendant.

H. R. and VERA B. PITCHER, Spd. Chiropractors, and Drugless Therapists. Adjustments, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment. Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations. Coagulation of Tonsils and Electrical Treatments 42½ Bridge St., East, Belleville, Ont. Phone 1274.

INSURANCE

The thought of Fire loses half its Terrors when you're protected with our Fire Insurance.

SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
LIFE and FIRE INSURANCE
249½ Front St. Phone 492

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1154W

Need Money for Christmas?

If you need money for the Christmas Season . . . and you want it quickly . . . remember we loan on Household effects or Automobiles.

QUINTE FINANCE and SECURITIES LIMITED
168 Front St. Phone 168
BELLEVILLE

Screen Clock

BELLE THEATRE TIMES
NORTHWEST MOUNTED POLICE
Gary Cooper, Madeleine Carroll, Robert Preston
2.45 — 7.00 — 9.23

McCARTHY THEATRE TIMES
KIT CARSON
Jon Hall — Lynn Bari
2.00 — 7.30 — 9.40

CAPITOL THEATRE TIMES
COLORADO
Roy Rogers, George (Gabby) Hayes
7.30 — 10.15
CHARLIE CHAN IN PANAMA
Sidney Toler, Jean Rogers
8.50

WANTED

FURNISHED THREE OR FOUR room apartment. Conveniences. Write Box X, Ontario Intelligencer. D5-1t

CAPABLE GIRL FOR STORE AND office work. Write giving full particulars to Box E, Ontario Intelligencer. D5-1t

3 OR 4 ROOM APARTMENT FURnished near Albert College. Phone 530. D5-2t

SALES HELP — DID YOU EVER sell aluminum ware or farm implements? Are you satisfied with your income, if not and you can qualify we have a salaried position for you. Write Box P, Ontario Intelligencer. D5-1t

TWO UNFURNISHED OR PARTly furnished rooms, preferably heated, by permanent tenant in business. Write Box 11, Ontario Intelligencer. D4-3t

LADY BOOKKEEPER, EXPERIence not essential. Apply between 12 and 1.30 and 5 and 6. Singer Sewing Machine Co., 40 E. Bridge St. D4-2t

4 OR 5 ROOMS OR SMALL house, unfurnished. Apply H. Bourgeau, Trudeau Motor Sales. D4-2t

GIRL TO ASSIST WITH HOUSE work. Apply Mrs. Gray, 100 West Bridge. D3-3t

WIDOW, ENERGETIC, UNENcumbered desires position as housekeeper for elderly gentleman in return for comfortable home. Small remuneration. Box 8, Ontario Intelligencer. D3-3t

TO EXCHANGE SPRING MATtresses for new or used feathers. Write Box A, Ontario Intelligencer. D2-4t

DEALERS WANTED

DISTRIBUTE 200 FAMILEX NEcessities from door to door. There is a big demand for toilet articles, medicines, alimentary products, cleaners, etc. Sell for guaranteed satisfaction or money refunded. Reap profits with your first sales. Increase your list of customers every day. Try this independent business without RISK. FOR DETAILS, COMMUNICATE WITH G. ST. GEORGE, 570 St. Clement Street, Montreal. N31-28D5-12-19-26

LOST

BROWN BROADTAIL MUFF. Finder will receive reward by returning to Woodley's Fur Store. D4-3t

BUSINESS LINERS

FULLER BRUSHES make useful Christmas Gifts. Phone 744J for illustrated catalogue. Dick Terry, 257 Bleecker Ave. D3-3t

Little Benny's Note Book

Last night I had a fierse dream and I woke up on account of pop shaking me, saying, It's all right, young fellow, it's all over, you're awake now.

Where am I? I said, and pop said, You're safe and sound in your own bed, where the dooce did you think you were?

That's just it, nowheres, I said. Jimminy, pop, what a dream. I dreamed I was in the mdidle of a river swimming against the current, and I had to swim all my might to keep from going backwards instead of fallwards, and every time I turned around to swim with the current instead of against it the current turned around too, so it was impossible, and all of a sudden I found out the current was current jelly and that's what made it so thick and hard to swim against, and by that time I was so tired I was exhawsted, and I thought what's a use, and just as I was sinking for the 3rd and last time I started to fall down a big empty hole, and down at the bottom was nothing but big mirrers, and I looked into one and I didn't see myself, and I quick looked into the rest of them and I still wasn't anywheres in site, so G wizzickers, pop, no wonder I didn't know where I was when you woke me up, I said.

That was a tuff dream, I admit, pop said. But speaking about a nasty fall, once when I was your age I dreamed I was falling down a hole so deep all the events of my passed life flashed before my mind's eye, and even then I was only half way down, so all the events of my brother's passed life flashed before my mind's eye, and suddenly I saw a vast crowd of strangers at the bottom of the hole watching 4 boys holding a net to catch me in, and I owed a cent to evry one of those boys and they were provided with a legal document authorizing them to rip off my pidjammers in front of all those people unless I payed them immeeditly, and I didn't have a cent in my pidjammers, so you see there are tuffer dreams than yours, he said.

The result being I went back to sleep feeling partly lucky.

When you run a wanted ad tomorrow —

THOUSANDS OF LITTLE SALESMEN TELL YOUR STORY —INEXPENSIVELY.

PHONE Your Ad to 99

TO LET

3 UNFURNISHED ROOMS WITH bath, private entrance Available December 9. Apply 36 Evans St. D5-3t

BRICK BUNGALOW. EAST Belleville. Parlor, dining room, kitchen, breakfast room, three bedrooms, built in bath-tub, closet, pedestal wash basin, cellar, furnace, fire-place, hardwood floors, garden, double garage. Possession at once. Chancey Ashley. D5-7

HEATED, FURNISHED BEDroom or bed sitting room. East Hill. Phone 973J. D3-3t

EIGHT ROOM HOUSE ON HERchimer Ave. Apply W. C. Wilson, corner of Bridge and Herchimer. D4-3t

SMALL BUNGALOW, HOT WAter heating, hardwood floors. Adults only. Apply 306 Front St. D3-3t

156 BRIDGE STREET EAST — near Charles Street, desirable semi-detached brick house —living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, den, bath, hot air heating, two coal fireplaces, hardwood floors, garage. Available February 1st. Inspection by appointment. Exclusive agents, Belleville Locators, George N. Gorman, Prop., 166 Front St., Phone 99, House Phone 687. N26-tf

176 BLEECKER AVENUE, SOUTH of Bridge Street; brick house, situated in attractive grounds; large living room with coal fireplace, dining room with coal fireplace, kitchen, wired for range, 4 bedrooms and bath, hardwood floors, full basement, new hot air heating plant, double garage, interior of house newly decorated throughout. This is a very desirable residence. Exclusive agents Belleville Locators, Geo. N. Gorman, Prop. 166 Front Street, Phone 99. House phone 687. N22-tf

CHRISTMAS CARDS
TO SUIT EVERYONE.
25c - 50c - $1.00
SCHRYVER'S PHARMACY
PHONE 49

FOR SALE

GIRL'S RUST WINTER COAT, beaver trim. Size 14. Good condition. Phone 693W. D5-3t

HEAVY DUTY TIRE CHAINS. Slightly used. 18x5.25. Phone 1199W. D5-2t

LADY'S BLUE WINTER COAT, size 14, Grey Lamb trim. Excellent condition. Apt. 3, Zeller's Building. D5-1t

STOVE, CIRCULATOR HEATER (furnacette), practically new. Reasonable price. Phone 386. D4-3t

FIVE ROOMED HOUSE, HOT AIR furnace, good cellar, sun porch, garage, between Cannifton and Corbyville. Apply Jay Campbell, Cannifton. D4-3t

BOY'S LEATHER JACKET, SIZE twelve years; skates and boots, man's, size 6; lady's, size 5; girl's size 2. Apply 179 William St., evenings 6 - 8. D3-3t

SOFT WOOD SLABS, 4 CORD load, $18.00; also body soft wood. For particulars write H. C. Lloyd, Phone Belleville 1222. D3-6t

BEATTY WASHER, USED, $15.00. David Electric Shop, 340 Front St. N20-tf

NOTICE

SIDNEY CONSERVATIVES

Annual meeting to be held at Wallbridge, Friday, December 6, 8 p.m. Program consisting of speakers and local talent. Refreshments.

FRANK J. WOOD, Sec.-Treas.
D2-4

NOTICE

Annual meeting of the Melrose Cheese Company will be held in Town Hall, Melrose, December 9, 1940, at 1 p.m. All business of the Company to be transacted.

WM. McLAREN, President.
D2-5

AUCTION SALE POSTPONED

On account of snow till Wednesday, December 11, Lot 18, Con. 3. Tyendinaga, R. C. English, owner. Heavy horses young cows, alfalfa hay, grain, large list of machinery.

NORMAN MONTGOMERY, Auctioneer, 163 William St., Phone 1170. D5-6-9

One of two love stories in Cecil B. DeMille's technicolor epic "North West Mounted Police," which has been held over at the Belle until Friday, is the romance between Preston Foster and lovely Madeleine Carroll. Gary Cooper and Robert Preston a e seen in leading roles.

BIRTHS

WOODCOCK—At St. Joseph's Hospital, Sudbury, on November 25, 1940, to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Woodcock, (nee Vera Johnson), a daughter, (Stillborn). D5-1t

JONES—In Belleville General Hospital, on Wednesday, December 4th, 1940, to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Jones, a daughter. D5-1t

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Dora Fisher and relatives wish to thank friends and neighbours, Rebekahs, Mr. F. Martin and helpers, and all those who sent floral remembrances, kind acts, expressions of sympathy and condolence during the recent bereavement of sister-in-law, Mrs. Susie Thompson. D5-1t

WE STRONGLY ADVISE IMMEDIATE PURCHASE of

CONNOR WASHERS
FRIGIDAIRE REFRIGERATORS
and
RANGES

A few left at Old price.
SMALL DOWN PAYMENT.
EASY TERMS.

WALKER HARDWARE COMPANY LIMITED.
248 - 250 Front St.
D4-4t

BELLEVILLE LOCATORS

Own Your Own Home!

TALK IT OVER! THEN SEE

Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, Prop.
Licensed and Registered Real Estate Brokers and Associate Members of The Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards.
166 FRONT ST. Opp. City Hall

WOOD FOR SALE
HARDWOOD — SOFT and MIXED WOOD.
PHONE 63R31
O31-tf

ROUND TRIP
BARGAIN FARES
DEC. 6-7-8
from BELLEVILLE to

TORONTO	$ 2.85
Chatham	$ 7.35
Goderich	$ 6.10
Hamilton	$ 3.85
Owen Sound	$ 5.85
Parry Sound	$ 3.75
Schreiber	$ 19.70
Sudbury	$ 9.25

and many intermediate points
For train service, return limits, etc., consult agents. Ask for handbill.
POOL TRAIN SERVICE.
CANADIAN PACIFIC CANADIAN NATIONAL
N30-D3-5

Dorothy Gray

Blustery Weather Lotion

Special Big Bottle $1.00

DOUBLE USUAL $1 SIZE
LIMITED TIME

Luxury—in double-size bottle! Grand for hands, face, and body. Helps guard your skin against chapping and redness—while you ski, skate and face the snow and wind. Not sticky. A flattering powder base—a soothing body rub.

A lovely array of DOROTHY GRAY preparations — Perfect for the Feminine Members on your Christmas List!

LATTIMER'S
DRUG STORE
PHONE 67

A Gift—
THAT IS USEFUL
THE NEW
INFRA-RAY ELECTRIC PAD
3.95 4.95 5.95 6.95
Drop in and let us explain the way this new pad works.
SELDON'S
DRUG STORE
Phone 11 Opp. McCarthy

WHEN YOU THINK of NUTS
THINK OF US.
GEORGIA NUT SHOP
229 Front Street

KEN SMITH'S
TAXI
HEATED BUICK CARS
PHONE 1550
Office: 356 FRONT STREET.
Opposite Belle Theatre
D5-3t

HAVE YOUR OLD FLOORS
Sanded and Finished LIKE NEW
for CHRISTMAS
BY EXPERTS with NEW DUSTLESS SANDER
Special new finish guaranteed 3 years not to mark or scratch and also waterproof.
ANY USEFUL ARTICLE ACCEPTED AS PART PAYMENT.
— Free Estimate —
Phone 1770

BEEF — PORK — CHICKENS — LAMB
OYSTERS ● SALMON ● FILLETS ● FISH ● KIPPERS ● HADDIES ● OYSTERS ● SALMON ● FILLETS ● FISH
PRIME ● YOUNG ● BEEF ● TASTY ● TENDER ● STEAKS ● ROASTS ● PRIME ● YOUNG ● BEEF

Phone 500 207 Front St.

LUCKINS MEATS

Tasty Tender Meats

WEEK-END BEST BUYS AT THIS SEASON

Luckins Small Pork Sausage 2 lb. 35c
They're a big steady seller because the quality is always high grade and uniform

SPECIAL—
Friday Only
CASH AND CARRY VALUES
Ham Pork Roast Whole or Half lb. 18c
Sirloin Steak lb. 20c

SPECIAL—SATURDAY CASH & CARRY
Pot Roast 12½c

SWEET PICKLED, PIECE
Side Pork lb. 17c
YOUNG RIND ON ROAST
Pork Loins lb. 19c
FRESH CUT YOUNG
Pork Shldrs. lb. 14c
Bacon Squares 13½c
Bologna 12½c
BY THE PIECE
SLICED
Bacon lb. 25c

FISH
Fresh Chilled Fillets of Cod!
Haddock!
Sole!
Halibut!
Salmon St.
Kippers.
Siscoes
Sm. Fillet
Finn. Haddie
Oysters

SAUSAGE MEAT 2 lbs. 25c STEWING VEAL

PRIME BLADE ROAST BEEF	SHOULDER PORK CHOPS	ROLLED RIB ROASTS
16c	17½c	23c

LUCKINS LITTLE PORK SAUSAGE .... 2 lb. 35c

SNOW CLEANING

CITY BY-LAW No. 1126 REQUIRES THAT:

1. Every person owning or occupying premises on Front Street, Bridge Street or Victoria Avenue shall remove and keep removed all snow and ice from the roofs of said premises.
2. Every person owning or occupying premises in the City of Belleville shall remove all snow and ice from the sidewalks adjoining said premises before TEN O'CLOCK EACH MORNING. If snow or ice is so frozen that it cannot be removed, sand, ashes or some other suitable substance shall be strewn upon such sidewalks by every such person.
3. No person shall deposit upon the streets any snow, ice or dirt taken from any alley, yard or cellar.

FREE SAND IS AVAILABLE BY TELEPHONING 195.

CHARLES A. MOTT,
City Engineer.
D3-5

Wm. J. Harrison

Extends His Sincere Thanks
For the Support
Given Him at the polls for

BOARD of EDUCATION

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Dec. 5 —(AP)— Scooperade: Billy Herman, Arkie Vaughan and Eddie Miller are being tagged as the next big shots to figure in baseball deals at Atlanta.

x x x

Atlanta special:
Hark, hark, the dogs do bark,
As misery and pain fill the town,
For a baseball meet is tough on feet
From hours of standing around;
So let us toast, with brimming cups,
Atlanta's "Week of Aching Pups."

x x x

Pitcher Dizzy Trout of the Tigers expects to wear glasses next season . . . If Judge Landis doesn't announce he intends to step out of the picture, in tonight's speech, Clark Griffith is expected to leave a move to renew his contract for another five years.

Chitter chatter:
Andre Lenglet, the French heavyweight, who fought here some years back, lost part of a foot in the war . . . Christy Walsh, who made a reputation on Broadway as manager of Babe Ruth, then as sports director of the World's Fair, will quit the Big Town and go into business in Los Angeles . . . C. C. (Crip) Hall, Arkansas Secretary of State, recently made his 21st consecutive pep talk at his 21st consecutive Arkansas University homecoming rally.

x x x

Observation ward:
One of the applications for Doc Prothro's job with the Phillies was a Dartmouth college student who asserted he'd take the job for experience only.

Here's DOROTHY LAMOUR caring for delicate priceless skin
LUX TOILET SOAP

PARAMOUNT STAR

"Lux Toilet Soap is a wonderful aid to the loveliness that wins Romance," says this popular star. "Screen stars use it regularly." Make this gentle soap your daily beauty care, help keep your skin smooth, appealing.

The Soap with the Whipped Cream Lather

9 out of 10 Screen Stars use it

PICTURES AID IN TRAINING MODERN FORCE

Stills as Well as Movies Used in Instruction of Troops in Canadian Camps and Overseas

By GLADYS ARNOLD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (CP). — Motion pictures are playing a prominent part in the training of Canada's armed forces and copies of 57 new films soon will be made available to men training all over the dominion.

These pictures, received by the Defence Department from the British War Office, will bring to Canada's soldiers in training centres and units the latest developments in tactics and explanations of recent changes or improvements in war weapons.

Instruction in this manner is not new. It was introduced in the Canadian army more than fifteen years ago. It has been adopted by the American army and has long been the practice in the British army. A recent despatch from London said that British film studios are preparing large numbers of special reels and that cinemas all over the country will help in training Britain's army this winter.

Lectures overseas will be given during black-out hours, according to the London Daily Mail. The object, the paper said, "is to turn out an immensely bigger army by next spring ready for all eventualities when British forces may be in a position to take the offensive."

Since Canadian troops were first instructed through motion pictures the number of machines and films have steadily increased. "Nothing is more popular with the troops," an official at defence headquarters told The Canadian Press. "They like the idea and find it a simple and ever-interesting way to absorb instruction."

A new development is the "film slide", and the Canadian army is using this method more and more for giving soldiers information on details of weapons and machines. About 150 still pictures are developed on a roll of film and used as slides.

One set of 35 films describes the details of a mechanical vehicle and here the slide is better than a movie because a movie goes too rapidly for a student to catch the detail, an official said.

Fine Medium.

With such equipment a lecturer may spend a whole lesson on one or two pictures. On the other hand, for showing tactics or machines in action, the moving picture is a better medium. "The two are complimentary and with them the Canadian army is getting a first class insight into all the different guns and weapons and the machinery of war," the spokesman said.

Many of the first films which came to Canada from the British war office now are obsolete. Weapons have changed and mechanised warfare has made changes in tactics necessary. "These films are just like textbooks," the defence department authority said. "Time changes them and we are obliged to renew and replace them."

The British War Office provides the "master film" in most cases. Copies are made here for use in Canadian camps. They deal with signalling, describe the details and operation of tanks, guns of all kind, "rapid wiring of defensive positions", "preparation of village for defence", "evacuation of wounded' and a vast variety of other subjects.

Animated Cartoon.

For teaching tactics, such as troops in attack or defence it is often necessary to make frequent use of the animated cartoon type of picture in which the positions of weapons and men are represented diagonally on a map. These shots are worked into the complete film at points where the actual picture of the ground does not show sufficient detail to be comprehensive. Naturally if men and weapons are carefully concealed as they should be nothing but a "close up" would disclose the position. It is necessary therefore to resort to the diagram to fill the complete picture.

The Canadian army also makes some of its own films dealing with different subjects. Some of those made in Canada cover training at the Petawawa, Camp Borden and Connaught Ranges, dealing with artillery, engineering, use of the rifle, grenade, Vickers and Bren gun and protection against gas.

There are more than 150 reels of pictures with sufficient copies of each to permit this type of instruction to be given to all Canadian troops training in Canada.

Queensboro

Queensboro—Mollie James has returned to her home after spending some weeks with relatives at Stoco.

The United Church Ladies Aid held their November meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Thompson on Thursday afternoon with an attendance of fourteen. The meeting was in charge of the president. The Scripture was read by Mrs. John Moore. A bountiful lunch was served at the close of the meeting by the hostess and her assistant hostesses.

Mr. Charles Bailey of Roslin was in the village on Wednesday.

The Queensboro L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. held their annual "At Home" in the Orange Hall on Friday evening. A good crowd was in attendance considering the storm and condition of the roads. A short program was given with Mr. Fred Sager as chairman. Lunch was served and the evening was spent in dancing to music furnished by Mr. Alex Hunter and others from Bannockburn.

The annual business meetings of Madoc and Queensboro Cheese factories were held on Saturday afternoon.

At Queensboro on Thursday, November 28th., to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Barry, a son.

Pte. Ed. Lapalm, Camp Borden, spent the week-end in the village.

All church services in the village were cancelled on Sunday on account of the condition of the roads. About thirteen inches of snow fell here on the level over the week-end.

RADIO PROGRAMS

(Daylight Saving Time)

THURSDAY, DEC. 5.

5.00—School of the Air—CBL
7.00—Questions of the Hour—CBL
7.30—Paul Sullivan Reviews the News—WABC
8.00—Fred Waring in Pleasure Time—WEAF, WGY
8.15—Lanny Ross—WABC, CFRB
8.30—They Shall Not Pass—CBL
8.30—Bob Crosby's Orch.—WEAF, WGY
8.30—Vox Pop; Parks and Wally—WABC, WGR
9.00—Ask-It-Basket with Ed East—WABC, WGR
9.00—Meditation—CBL
9.00—Coffee Time; Fanny Brice (Baby Snooks); Dick Powell; Mary Martin—WEAF, WGY
9.00—Horace Heidt's Orch.—WJZ, WHAM
9.30—Meditation—CBL
9.30—In Chicago Tonight—WOR
9.30—Strange As It Seems—WGR, WABC
9.30—The Aldrich Family—WEAF
9.30—Fame and Fortune, Quiz Program—WJZ, WHAM
10.00 — Major.. Bowes — WABC, CFRB
10.00—Music Hall, Bing Crosby M.C. and comedian; Music Maids; Ken Carpenter announcer—WEAF, CBL
10.00—News; America's Town Meeting of the Air Discussion—WJZ
11.00—Rudy Vallee program—WGY WEAF
11.00—Glenn Miller's Orch.—WJR, WABC
11.15—Britain Speaks—CBL, CBO
11.15—Choose Up Sides—WABC
11.30—Magnolia Blossoms—WJZ
11.30—Chicago Symphony Orch.—WGN
11.30—Musical Americana: Raymond Paige's Orch.—WEAF, WGY
11.30—BBC Newsreel—CBL
12.30—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WABC
1.00—News; Fats Waller's Orch.—WJZ, WHAM

FRIDAY, DEC. 6.

9.00—At the Console—CBL
10.00—News; Food Facts and Food Fashions—CBL
1.30—Farm Broadcast—CBL
2.45—Pops Concert—CBL
3.00—Music Appreciation Hour; Dr. Walter Damrosch, cond.—WJZ
3.30—News; Music of the Empire—CBL
7.30—Paul Sullivan Edits the News WHAM
8.00—Fred Waring in Pleasure Time—WEAF, WGY
8.15—Lanny Ross, tenor—WABC, WGR
8.30—Al Pearce's Gang — WABC, WGR
8.30—Toronto Symphony Band—CBL
8.30—Alec Templeton Time; Ray Noble's Orch.; Pat O'Malley, M.C.—WEAF, WHAM
9.00—Kate Smith Prgm.; News—WABC, WGR, CFRB
9.00—Concert with Lucille Manners, quartet, Frank Black's Orch.—WEAF, WBEN, CBL
9.30—Death Valley Days—WJZ, WHAM
9.30—Information Please; Quiz
10.00—Waltz Time—WEAF, CBL
10.00—Johnny Presents — WABC, WGR
10.00—Gang Busters, crime drama—WJZ
10.30—Canadian Theatre of the Air—CBL
10.30—Everyman's Theatre, dramas by Arch Oboler—WEAF, WGY
10.30—Playhouse—WABC
11.15—Britain Speaks—CBL
12.30—Salute to Byrd Expedition—WEAF

RADIO DIRECTORY

CANADIAN STATIONS

CFRC—Kingston	1510
CBL—Toronto	840
CBO—Ottawa	880
CBW—Windsor	600
CBY—Toronto	1420
CFCF—Montreal	600
CFRB—Toronto	690
CHML—Hamilton	1010
CKCL—Toronto	580
CKOC—Hamilton	1120
CKTB—St. Catharines	1200

UNITED STATES STATIONS

KDKA—Pittsburg	980
WABC—New York	860
WBEN—Buffalo	900
WGY—Schenectady	790
WHAM—Rochester	1150
WEAF—New York	660
WENR—Chicago	870
WGR—Buffalo	550
WBBM—Chicago	770

A Word to the Wise

This Christmas Season, business will be heavier than in many years.

To enjoy the opportunity of shopping from a larger selection . . . the moral is to

Shop Early

LI'L ABNER — Oh, Ev'ry Day Is Ladie's Day Fo' Me ! ! By Al Capp

TH-THET BOULDER IS BLOCKIN' TH' WAY AH DRAPPED IN—AN' THAR'S NO OTHER WAY OUT!!?
THAR SHO' IS, SON—
BUT YO' WONT WANTA USE IT—JEST AS AH NEVAH WOULD! LOOK ROUN' THAR!!
A GAL!!—A-A-HOW LONG—H-HOW LONG SHE BIN THAR?—
JEST AS LONG AS AH HAS!—AH GOT LOST IN HYAR ON SADIE HAWKINS DAY, 1906!—SUSIE SKONKBLOSSOM THAR—WERE AFTER ME!!—AH HID IN HYAR—FO' AH DUNNO HOW LONG——AH'VE LOST ALL TRACK O' TIME!!
WHAT DAY IS THIS!?
GULP!! SADIE HAWKINS DAY!—1940!

BLONDIE — How Clam-Diggers Are Made By Chic Young

I DREAMED I WAS AT A BIG CLAM-BAKE—THERE WERE PILES OF STEAMING CLAMS—GEE, THEY WERE GOOD!
I WISH YOU WOULDN'T WASTE YOUR TIME DREAMING SUCH SILLY STUFF
NOW, I'M SO HUNGRY I CAN'T GET BACK TO SLEEP
GO DOWN AND FIX YOURSELF A SANDWICH —THERE ARE LOADS OF GOOD THINGS TO EAT IN THE ICE-BOX HAVE WE ANY CLAMS?
NO, DEAR
WHY DON'T WE EVER HAVE ANY CLAMS IN THIS HOUSE?

POP — Smashing the Ego By J. Millar Watt

WHO SHALL I TELL HIM WANTS TO SEE HIM?
A SELF-MADE MAN!
YOU PROBABLY DON'T REMEMBER ME! THIRTY YEARS AGO WHEN I WAS ON MY UPPERS YOU GAVE ME A MESSAGE TO CARRY!
WELL! —
WHERE'S THE ANSWER?
12-5

TILLIE THE TOILER — A Perfect Example By Russ Westover

ARE YOU TRYING TO MAKE FUN OF ME?
WELL, YOU WERE TALKING ABOUT GETTING UNDER THE SKINS OF YOUR CHARACTERS—
—AND THEN YOU LANDED UNDER A COAT OF RACCOON SKINS...WHY SHOULDN'T I ASK IF YOUR CHARACTERS ARE RACCOONS? HEH-HEH
STUPID...I MEANT I NEEDED TO GET UNDER THE SKINS OF HUMAN BEINGS
WELL, YOU CAN LEARN HOW HERE
JUST OBSERVE HOW I SEEM TO HAVE GOTTEN UNDER YOUR S...
12-5
RUSS WESTOVER

FLASH GORDON

A GUARD HALTS FLASH'S TRUCK-TRAIN AT THE RAY-GUARDED GATE OF THE SEAPORT. "HALT! SHOW YOUR PASS!"
FIERRO LEAPS OUT, GROWLING, "I'LL SHOW YOU OUR PASS....!"
"THAT DUMB STUNT SOUNDED A CITY-WIDE ALARM," FLASH WARNS. "LET ME HANDLE THINGS AFTER THIS!"

BRINGING UP FATHER — By George McManus

MY BROTHER—JIM'S STUDYIN' TO PLAY THE TUBA—HE'LL BE THE ENVY OF EVERYONE IN HIS NEIGHBORHOOD—
YOU MEAN THE ENEMY OF EVERYONE—I DIDN'T KNOW HE'D EVER GO TO THE TROUBLE OF LIFTING ANYTHING—LET ALONE PLAY ON IT—WHICH IS WORK FOR HIM—I'LL CALL ON HIM—
FOR SALE
FOR SALE
FOR RENT
FOR SALE
FOR SALE
FOR RENT
BY GOLLY—HE HASN'T ANY FRIENDS OR ENEMIES NOW—12-5

TIPPIE AND "CAP" STUBBS — By Edwina

CAP! MARY MARG'RET'S ON TH' 'PHONE —
HELLO! NO, I CAN'T, I'M TOO BIZZY! G'BYE!
MY LAND! YOU MIGHT BE POLITE.
AW, WELL, WHAT ELSE WAS THERE TO SAY?
CAP—IT'S ISABELLE.
NO, I CAN'T! 'CUZ I'M BIZZY, THAT'S WHY!—
MY LAND! SOME DAY YOU'LL WISH SOMEBODY WOULD CALL YOU UP!
WELL, A FELLA HAS TOO MUCH TO DO TO BE ANSWERING TH' 'PHONE ALL TH' TIME!
12-5

C.D.S. The friendly Christmas Store

Santa Claus Parade CANDY SPECIAL

Celebrating Santa's Arrival Saturday.—Here's a half pound Christmas box as a special treat! Caramels, Kisses, three suckers—all wrapped separately, and a transparent bag of mixed candies. C.D.S. Special Price:

½ LB. PACKAGE

10c

— Main floor, right

Christmas Stockings

Kiddies always look for Christmas stockings—buy at the C.D.S. where the assortment is complete. Each stocking filled with assorted novelties. Priced, each

10c to 1.00

CREAM OVALS

lb. 15c

BUTTER DROPS

lb. 16c

Nut Filled SATINS

lb. 16c

Feature! CANDY SPECIAL

Chocolate GLOBES

lb. 19c

Christmas Cards

"POPULAR" BOX—of 12 Cards for 25c

"ECONOMY" BOX—of 21 Cards for 39c

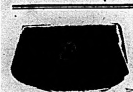
"EDGAR GUEST" SERIES, 12 Assorted Cards 75c

The Silverware Gift

If it's something in silverware, be sure and see the smart assortment at the C.D.S. Butter Dishes, Relish Dishes, Casseroles, Bon-Bon Dishes, Cocktail Shakers, Tea Services, etc. In gleaming silver plate. Smartly shaped and designed. Prices: EACH or SET

1.00 to 14.95



GIVE "HER" A

Handbag this Year

Select from our fine selection of smart bags. Smooth and grained leathers, in a host of styles; as Pouch, Zipper Types, etc. In wine, black, navy, brown, green, red, etc. In new novel shapes. Prices: Each

1.95 to 4.95

WOMEN'S BOXED

Linen Hankies

Lovely quality linen hankies, neatly put up three to the box. Some plain, some with embroidery work.

Box 39c

Another Big 2-day Special Sale Women's Full Fashioned SILK HOSIERY

(Substandards of Higher Priced Lines.)

2 pairs for 1.10

pair 57c

Another of those feature specials in fine quality real silk hosiery, in an excellent selection of lovely costume shades, and at real money saving prices! Substandards of higher priced lines, so you can easily appreciate the value you are offered at this special low price. Buy them by the half dozen — buy for months ahead! Real silk, in 3 and 4 thread chiffon as well as 6 thread service weight, full fashioned, too, for ankle flattery. Shop for them early Friday morning.

Main floor, right.

TOY
HEADQUARTERS

Complete Electric Train Set

Boys will be pleased no end to get such a smart outfit as this for Christmas! Set includes: 1 complete electric train set; Station with lifting gate; 1 set of "Tootsie" Army Toys, and choice of one of the following items: Electric Floodlight; Electric Searchlight; Electric Caution Signal; Electric Crossing Signal; Electric Lamp Post. The complete set, only

11.95

"War Scenes" Jig Saw Puzzles

EPICS of the WAR
JIGSAW PUZZLE

Made with authentic scenes of the present war approved by the British Minister of Information. Each scene contains about 200 interlocking pieces, of heavy board. Sketched by War Artists and Illustrators. Size about 14" x 10". Please order by number.

(1) First air attack on a British Convoy ends in German disaster.

(2) R.A.F. reconnaissance planes beat off German fighters.

(3) Navy drives off Nazi bombers.

(4) British Expeditionary Force moves up to the front.

Each 25c

Rocking Chairs

The right size for the small tot, strongly made of hardwood, in natural varnish finish. A toy that should last for years with care. Each

1.25

Kindergarten Sets

Table and chairs, strongly made and reinforced. Choice of two colour schemes, red and black, or blue and cream. Set

2.98

Hand Sleighs

Strong hardwood sleighs with round steel runners and supports. In green and natural finish. Each

1.49

Eatonia Yama Cloth PYJAMAS

Real sleeping comfort in these soft yama cloth pyjamas for women. Mannish tailored style, with roomy trousers, and with "flexi-belt." Colors: blue, wine, green or rose, on light colored grounds. Sizes 32 to 44. Eatonia Value, suit 2.00

LOVELY GOWNS

Styles to suit even the most fastidious woman—of lovely rayon and satin or Bemberg rayon yarns, in ice blue, tearose, turquoise and white. Smartly tailored or the more feminine types with lace trimmings. A wide choice of styles. Each 2.98

SMART GIFT IDEAS AT $1.00

SLIPS—
Bias cut and fitted bodice top styles, of rayon satin and rayon suede (finished) taffeta, tailored or lace trimmed. In white or tearose. Sizes 32-40. Ea. 1.00

WOMEN'S GOWNS—
Smooth celasuede (trade name) rayon or rayon suede (finished) taffeta gowns, smartly finished with fagotting or laces. Small, medium and large. In white and pretty pastels. Sizes small, medium and large. Each 1.00

JUST ARRIVED! NEW "JANTZEN"

Sweaters

Beautiful all wool sweaters in several smart styles, for misses. Included are Angoras, fine kid mohair and botany wool affairs, with short sleeves, round or crew necks. Plain and ribbed knits, some with cable stitch. In rose, white, chicory brown, Vernon green, Victorian blue, as well as pretty pastel tints. Sizes 14 to 20. Each .... 2.95 and 3.95

Eatonia WOOL FLANNEL

Housecoats

In two smart styles, one with full length zipper from throat to knees, the other in wraparound style. Both with patch pockets and long sleeves. All wool flannel and an ideal selection for "Her" gift this year. In rose, royal blue, wine or navy. Sizes 14 to 20. and 38 to 44. Eatonia value, each 7.50

MISSES'

Skating Skirts

Velveteen and cotton corduroy skirts, lined with cotton plaid fabric. Side zipper closing. In red, green or royal blue. Sizes 14 to 20. Each 3.98

From the Furniture Dep't.

Solid Walnut Tea Wagons

Solid walnut, beautifully grained and finished, this tea wagon comes with glass tray top, and is in two-shelf style, with silverware drawer. Heavy rubber tires on wheels. Special feature, at 15.95

— Second floor

Table Lamp with Shade

Lamp has glass vase type standard, in rose, green or ivory, complete with parchment paper shade, to harmonize. About 14 inches high. Complete at 1.25

Telephone Sets

Smartly designed telephone sets of table and chair—included are both walnut finished birch and solid walnut outfits. Priced, set .... 5.95 to 18.50

— Second floor

Men's Boxed Neckwear

Fine quality, well made gift ties of rayon, and rayon and silk and all silk. Cotton or wool lining — in a wide range of colors and patterns. Boxed, each 29c to 1.00

Boxed Novelties

FOR MEN AND BOYS

Boys' Bow Ties, each	25c
Boys' Four-in-Hand Ties, each	25c
Boys' Tie and Brace Set	75c
Men's Handkerchief and Tie Set	75c
Men's Muffler and Tie Set	1.39

MEN'S

Broadcloth Pyjamas

Choose men's gifts from this fine assortment of pyjamas. We offer excellent choice of patterns, colors and quality of materials. Plain and fancy patterns in convertible collar style. Sizes 36 to 44. Suit 1.79 to 2.50

Cotton Lace Cloths

Imported Scotch cotton lace cloths, in a handsome design, about 70" x 70" in size. In soft ecru tone. They make ideal gifts.

each 3.25

Irish Linen Cloths

Heavy crash linen cloths, about 50" x 50" — in cream ground with yellow, green, or red checks. Excellent quality. Splendid value

each 1.00

Terry Towels

Soft, absorbent cotton Terry Towels—in colors of rose, blue, green or yellow. Excellent quality, size about 20" x 40".

pair 69c

Children's Goloshes

Rubber overshoes, in black or brown, with neat two dome fastener. Warmly fleeced lined, too. Sizes 6 to 3.

Pair 89c

MISSES'

D'Orsay Slippers

D'Orsay style slippers, of soft wine colored leathers, with curbstone toe and wood Dutch Boy heel. Soles of soft padded leather. Sizes 11 to 2.

Pair 89c

Children's Slippers

Warm, natural sheepskin slippers, with fleece inside. Turned-down cuff style. Sizes 11 to 2.

Pair 69c

Chromium Plated Ware

New—modern style kitchen utensils, that are quick heating and very efficient.

Double Boiler,	each 2.98
2-quart Saucepans	each 1.29
4-quart Covered Saucepans	each 1.98

Skate and Boot Outfits

Excellent quality boots, in approved style, fitted to popular style tube skates. You save money buying them in outfits as listed below.

Youths' sizes, 3-4-5	set 3.19
Men's Sizes, 6 to 11	set 3.59
Misses' sizes, 5-6-7	set 3.45

SPECIAL! 3-PIECE

Dresser Sets

Mirror, Brush and Comb—comprise the set. Specially priced for thrifty shoppers, Friday and Saturday. In lovely rayon satin lined box, in gold color finish. Others with Cameo effects on the back. Limited quantity. Special, the set

1.89

— Main floor, centre

New! NUT Jewelry

Bracelets, necklaces, and belts. They're new and different! Splendid for gifts, too! Pecans, Brazil Nuts, etc., make these smart pieces and they really are cleverly made. To see them is to really appreciate how smart they are. Priced, each

49c

FAMOUS "TRACK" BRAND

Skis

Full dome maple skis, beautifully finished and complete with "Track" cable binding, with downpull attachment. 6', 6½' and 7' sizes. Pair 7.95

Luggage

MAKES A SMART GIFT.

No matter whether for a man or woman, luggage is always acceptable as a gift. See our smart stock of luggage, including tweed fabric cases for women. Priced, SET

9.00 to 14.50

MEN'S LEATHER GLADSTONE BAGS, each .... 9.75 to 15.95

—Basement

Only 16 Shopping Days to Christmas

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES

Probabilities

Increasing southerly to westerly winds; partly cloudy and milder today and Saturday with light snow or rain in some districts.

The Ontario Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1940

Temperatures

	Max.	Min.
Today	18	19.1b
Year Ago	30	25.8

Weather—Snowing.

* *

GREEKS CAPTURE PORTO EDDA, ARGIROCASTRO

ARMED CRUISER MEETS A GERMAN RAIDER

Phillips Shows U. S. British 'Balance Sheet'

Both Porto Edda And Argirocastro Now Aflame

Greek Advance Threatens to Cut Line of Italian Retreat

Bitolj, Jugoslavia, Dec. 6 (AP)—Dispatches reaching the Yugoslav border said Greek troops occupied Argirocastro, Albania, about noon today after heavy fighting and took more than 1,000 prisoners.

A number of heavy cannon, machine guns and other war material were reported captured by the Greeks as they swept into that former base of the Italians in Southwestern Albania.

Athens, Dec. 6 —(AP)— An official announcement said today Greek troops have occupied Porto Edda, one of the Italian army's main bases in southern Albania.

The fall of Argirastro, another important Italian military base 15 miles northeast of Porto Edda, was expected at any moment, the Greek High Command said.

Greek troops also were reported advancing rapidly westward from Premet on the central Albanian Front, where the mountain pass of Klisoura is about 10 miles west of Premet.

Reports from the front previously had said that both Porto Edda and Argirocastro were aflame and Greek leaders expressed belief retreating Italian troops had set fire to equipment and supplies to keep them from falling into the hands of the Greek army.

The Greek High Command, in a terse communique, declared its armies were moving forward along the entire 100-mile front in Albania extending from the Adriatic Sea to

(Continued on Page Eleven)

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Dec. 6 (CP). — Light snowfalls have occurred in many parts of Ontario where it is becoming milder. It has been mild in Alberta and southwest Saskatchewan and higher temperature has prevailed in other districts of the west.

PLACE:	8 a.m.	High Yest'dy	Low During Night
Vancouver	44	51	39
Victoria	45	48	44
Calgary	28	48	28
Edmonton	28	39	28
Winnipeg	21	17	16
Sault Ste. Marie .	25	15	11
Toronto	17	24	11
Ottawa	—15	19	—17
Quebec	—	16	—
Halifax	32	44	32
Detroit	27	23	19
New York	22	34	21
Miami	61	76	59
Los Angeles	58	78	57

Why The Weather?

Forecasting the weather! The weather forecaster of today is a physicist with an analytical mind; he uses an elaborate technique which has been evolving with the science for many years. This technique is roughly as follows: First he studies and analyzes the latest weather maps and charts to learn the present state of the atmosphere. Then he compares his findings with past data and determines how much all the elements on his charts, which he calls fronts, cyclones, air masses, etc., have changed and how much they have moved. From these studies he further estimates how fast and how much the elements will change and move during the next forecast period. He then formulates his forecast to be promulgated to the critical public.

TAX AND TARIFF BILLS PUSHED TO GET ADJOURNMENT

Possibility Parliament Will Complete Work to Adjourn Friday Night

AMENDMENTS LOST

(By Carl Reinke)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 6—(CP)—Through sharp opposition criticism of many of its practical details, the government's emergency tax and tariff program was being pushed today—with the obvious intent of almost immediate adjournment for the Christmas recess. Some believed parliament would complete its present work late tonight and then adjourn to February 17.

Moving with gradually increasing speed after a month's casual debate on the government's general record, the House of Commons yesterday gave first and second reading to the first of Finance Minister Ilsley's two measures designed primarily to conserve exchange.

That one, amending the special war revenue act by imposition of 25 per cent excise taxes on a wide range of household appliances and increasing automobile taxes, was taken up after the House defeated 145-19 a co-operative commonwealth Federation Amendment call-

(Continued on Page Five)

R.A.F. Drops Leaflets In Italy Showing Damage to Duce's Fleet

London, Dec. 6 (CP).—Royal Air Force planes which bombed the northern Italian industrial city of Turin Wednesday night also dropped leaflets of photographs showing the damage done Fascist warships in Taranto harbor by British bombers three weeks ago, an official announcement said today.

Registrar Draws $7,000

Ottawa, Dec. 6 —(CP)— Paul Leduc, former Ontario Minister of Mines, receives a salary of $7,500 a year as Registrar of the Supreme Court of Canada, according to an answer given in the House of Commons Thursday to a question from Gordon Fraser, Conservative-Peterborough West.

James F. Smellie, the previous Registrar, received $6,000 a year before his retirement and now receives $1,200 a year as superannuation.

Mr. Leduc resigned as Mines Minister to accept the Supreme Court post.

GEN. P. BADOGLIO RESIGNS AS CHIEF OF ITALIAN STAFF

No Explanation Given Beyond Statement Resignation "On His Own Request"

IN PAST 15 YEARS

Possibility Marshal Being Made Scapegoat for Italian Rout in Greece

Rome, Dec. 6 (AP)—Marshal Pietro Badoglio has resigned as Chief of the Italian General Staff, it was announced officially today.

No explanation was given beyond a statement that the resignation was "on his own request."

(This could be taken as an indication that Badoglio has stepped down in protest against political interference with the army. It had been widely reported that the ill-prepared invasion of Greece was a hastily-devised enterprise of Fascist politicians confident the Greeks would not fight.

(Another possibility was that Badoglio is being made the scapegoat of the Italian rout in Greece).

During the Greek campaign Badoglio's name rarely has been mentioned, although he was second only to Mussolini in the High Command.

Roberto Farinacci, Fascist leader, criticized him, however, in the newspaper Regime Fascista Nov 23, declaring victory in Greece was certain despite "some improvidence and untimeliness on the part of the head of the General Staff."

Refuse Comment

Berlin, Dec. 6 (AP)—Informed German quarters declined comment today on the resignation of the Italian Chief of Staff, Marshal Pietro Badoglio, except to remark that Badoglio's successor, Gen. Ugo Cavallero, is a "great organizer."

Badoglio remained in the background at the start of the Ethiopian campaign in 1936, but when Marshal Emilio De Bono's campaign slackened Mussolini sent Badoglio into command.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Bulgarians Close Rumania Frontier

Bucharest, Dec. 6.— (AP)—The Bulgarians have closed their frontier, it was learned in official circles here tonight.

The explanation given here was that Bulgaria had decided that the entire number of emigres allowed to enter Southern Dobruja (Bulgaria) under the Craiova agreement already had crossed into Bulgaria

(This was the agreement by which Southern Dobruja was returned to Bulgaria from Rumania.)

Meanwhile new concentrations of Rumanian reservists were called up.

Ankara, Dec. 6.— (AP)— The Turkish radio said tonight that "it is indicated" Germany has promised to return to Rumania some of the territory she has lost recently. The comment was not expanded, but it appeared the radio was warning Bulgaria she might lose Southern Dobruja.

Average Citizen Must Put Whole Effort into Struggle-Beatty

Toronto, Dec. 6 (CP)—Sir Edward Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said in an address last night that the British people must apply discipline to stop persons from saying just what they like while the nation is fighting for liberty.

Sir Edward addressed the Men's Association of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. He defended the right of the government to say to anyone:-

"You can think what you like, but you must not voice your thought if it is going to prevent the mobilization of our resources for war."

He expressed the opinion that the average citizen was not putting his or her whole effort into the struggle. He said that in this he had no criticism for any person or group. It was just that the average citizen did not realize the seriousness of the situation.

"And by average citizen and general public," he said, "I mean you and I. Our government at Ottawa will be the leaders, but on our acceptance of their effort depends the ultimate outcome of this war."

No Questions of Policy Discussed by Officials British, U.S. Treasuries

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP). — Sir Frederick Phillips, Under-Secretary of the British Treasury, said today after a conference with Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau that he was giving the United States "a balance sheet on the state of our resources and the cost of supplies in the United States".

The British representative conferred with Morgenthau for more than an hour.

Sir Frederick said, however, that he talked only facts with Morgenthau and "we didn't discuss any questions of policy."

He indicated there were many questions yet to be discussed and that he was preparing several studies over the week-end before returning to talk to Morgenthau on Monday.

He said afterwards he had not been asked yet to talk with any administrative or legislative leaders of the government besides the treasury.

Asked about suggestions that Britain might sell some of her West Indian islands to the United States to get more cash for war purposes, Sir Frederick said promptly: "That's outside of my scope. I deal only in financial matters".

Visit Follows Return of Lothian.

His visit followed close on the return to the United States of the Marquess of Lothian, British ambassador. Lord Lothian said after arrival that Britain was nearing the end of her financial resources for purchases in the United States, and might soon need financial, as well as material help.

Before the discussions at the treasury began, Senator Gerald Nye (Rep.-North Dakota) said that he and a group of colleagues were ready to oppose any attempt to extend financial aid to Britain.

Nye told reporters that this opposition bloc would base its fight on the contention that loans to Britain "mean actual entry into war". He predicted that a proposal for loans would be accompanied by one for "American naval convoy of British supplies".

(Continued on Page Eleven)

DRUMHEAD COURT MARTIAL DECREED BY ANTONESCU

Quick Execution Promised Rumanians Who "Rebel Against the Army"

CLASH PREDICTED

Maros Vasarhely, Hungary, Dec. 6—(AP) — Rumanian Premier Ion Antonescue decreed a drumhead court martial today for Rumanians who "rebel against the army," with quick execution to follow conviction according to reports reaching this border city.

The step, taken as refugees streamed into this town from Rumania with predictions that the army and the Iron Guard were approaching an open clash, was said to have been designed to strengthen the military in the event of such conflict.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

GALES BATTER OCEAN SHIPPING

Five Ships in Distress in North Atlantic Call for Assistance

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—Heavy gales and battering seas continued to harass shipping today in the North Atlantic near the area where raiders have been active.

Two more vessels sent calls for assistance overnight, making a total of five in distress in less than 24 hours.

The 5,990-ton Empire Thunder, British freighter launched recently at Sunderland radioed for help last night, reporting her "main engine disabled" 47 miles west of Scapa Flow.

A short time later, another British freighter, the 2,482-ton Newchwang, radioed that she required "immediate assistance" approximately 700 miles west of Scotland.

During the day yesterday, distress signals were intercepted from the 4,295-ton Greek vegetable oil tanker Taygetos, the 3,775-ton British steamship Waltwick and the 4,330-ton Greek freighter Aghia Eirini.

The Aghia Eirini sent a second SOS nearly 11 hours after her first call.

It said, "strong gale broke left life boat; other parts missed; sea water rushing inside engine room." Nothing more was heard from her.

U.S. STATE DEPT TAKING ACTION IN WOMAN'S CASE

Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan Absent From Her Work in Paris After Trip to German Prison

STATEMENT GIVEN

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)— The United States State Department said today appropriate action is being taken in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan, mysteriously absent from her work at the American Embassy in Paris after a German-escorted trip to the Cherche Midi prison.

(The Washington Post said it had learned Mrs. Deegan was charged with conniving to help British officers escape from German-occupied France.)

Mrs. Deegan, an employee of the Embassy since June 16, 1936, is a native of Biltmore, N.C., and was said to be a granddaughter of a former United States Senator from North Carolina. Jeter C. Pritchard

The State Department announcement:-

"The Department of State has received a report from the American Embassy in Paris concerning the detention by German police of Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan, a clerk in the American Embassy.

"Paris is under a military government.

Called at Apartment

"On the mornnig of Dec. 1, two German civilians, presumably members of the German Secret Police, called at the apartment of Mrs. Deegan and invited her to go to the Cherche Midi prison to visit one or more British prisoners.

"This was the second time within a week that Mrs. Deegan had been invited by German authorities to visit acquaintances at the Cherche Midi prison.

"On Dec. 1, she accompanied the officers. Later in the day she returned under escort to her apartment to obtain warm clothing.

"In the evening a friend of hers received a message from an unspecified source that she was comfortably lodged and that while it would be impossible for her to be at the embassy for work on Dec. 2, she would doubtless report for duty on Dec. 3.

"Mrs. Deegan did not report for work on the morning of Dec. 3.

TO SET TRIAL DATE SOON

Vichy, Dec. 6 (AP).—The Supreme Court will fix the day for the "war guilt" trial of former premiers Leon Blum and Edouard Daladier "as soon as possible", it was announced today. Informed sources said the trials probably would begin next month.

GERMAN ATTACKS LAST NIGHT NOT ON LARGE SCALE

London Had Two Night Alerts but Raiders Left Before Midnight

SOME CASUALTIES

South Coast Town Sustained Full Force of Three-Hour Nazi Raid

London, Dec. 6.—(CP) — German raiders launched their main attack of the night on a south coast town and the government said "a number of people were killed and a number injured".

London had two night alerts but raiders there and over the remainder of Britain left shortly after midnight.

The attacks never were "on a large scale", the communique said but high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped on the south coast town.

"The fires which broke out were soon extinguished but damage was done to a church, houses, shops and other buildings", the communique said.

An Air Raid warden in the town said the number of casualties was held down because the residents fled to shelters early and remained until the raiders passed.

Some houses were smashed in London but the government said the attack on the capital was "a light one and bombs were dropped at a few points only". A few casualties, some fatal, were reported.

Bombs also fell in southeast England and East Anglia.

Three-Hour Raid

A South Coast Town in England, Dec. 6 (CP)—Waves of German planes sneaking in from the sea showered heavy demolition and fire bombs on this town last night in a slashing, three-hour raid which killed a number of people and left a large number homeless.

(The German high command claimed the town of Portsmouth.)

The full extent of casualties was not determined immediately, as workers still were digging into the debris of wrecked homes for possible victims when dawn came. Officials said the number, however, was "fewer than might be expected considering the severity of the attack."

The raid was concentrated on the civilian population. Many of those whose homes were splintered were given temporary shelter in schools and other public buildings.

A tremendous anti-aircraft barrage kept the bombers at great height, but the first waves dropped flares which guided the subsequent formations to their target.

Take Cover Quickly

Casualties were reduced because the people, from experience in previous raids, took cover quickly. Working class dwellings were among the hardest hit.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Parliamentary Secretaries May Be Named for Ministers of Crown

Ottawa, Dec. 6 (CP).—A statement by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the Commons that steps should be taken to provide the ministers with more time to deal with pressing problems during the war has revived here proposals that parliamentary secretaries be named.

Speaking in the Commons last night the Prime Minister said, "In our public service we are fortunate in having the very best expert advice in many of our departments, but for ministers to have a chance even to confer with the members of their staffs at a time like this, and to do so in any careful detail, requires some time and opportunity.

"And if parliament, when we resume, is to go on sitting from Monday to Friday I think we shall have to consider at that time how we can make a division of Labor which will at least afford more opportunity than has been available in ordinary times, to enable the ministry to get through, in this time of war, the dressing problems which arise not only from day to day, but from hour to hour."

At Westminster the cabinet ministers have the assistance of parliamentary secretaries. Each is a member of parliament who makes a study of a particular department and is able, in the Commons, to take the place of the head of that department in dealing with questions concerning it when the minister is absent.

Carnarvon Castle Slightly Damaged Says Admiralty

Communique States Damage Sustained by The Raider is Not Known as Battle Fought at Long Range

London, Dec. 6 —(CP)— The Admiralty announced today that the British armed merchant cruiser Carnarvon Castle had met a German raider in an engagement in the south Atlantic yesterday but said full details are not available.

The communique said the 20,122-ton British merchant cruiser received "slight damage" and it was not known what damage was inflicted on the German ship.

"It was clear that the action was fought at long range," the communique said. "The raider was fast and heavily armed and disguised as a merchant ship."

The communique said:—

"The armed merchant cruiser H.M.S. Carnarvon Castle (Capt. H.N.M. Hardy, D.S.O., R.N.) was in action yesterday with a fast and heavily armed German raider disguised as a merchant ship in the south Atlantic.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Nazi Broadcasts Indicate Anxiety Over U.S. Aid to Britain

Princeton, N.J., Dec. 6 AP)—German radio broadcasts indicate increased anxiety and rising hostility in that country towards the United States because of American aid to Great Britain, the Princeton University listening centre reports.

Harold N. Graves, Jr., Director of the powerful 24-hour-a-day receiving station which listens to and analyzes Nazi broadcasts writers in the school magazine that Germany is devoting as much air time to propagandizing the United States as to efforts to undermine British morale.

EMBROIDERERS MAKE BEST TIME FUSES

New York, Dec. 6—(AP)—Women are outdoing the men in the skilled task of making time fuses for shells. C. R. Dooley, in charge of training for industry on the National Defence Council, told the American Society of Mechanical Engineers that the almost ideal fuse makers were women from the embroidery industry.

SWISS PROTEST

Berne, Dec. 6 (AP).—The Swiss federal council again has ordered the Swiss minister in London to protest against alleged violations of Switzerland's frontiers by Royal Air Force bombers. British planes flew over the Jura mountains and Geneva on Wednesday night, the Swiss charged. Turin, in northern Italy, was bombed by the R.A.F. the same night.

Major C. G. Hepburn Appointed Assistant Protestant Chaplain

(By Ross Munro)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Somewhere in England Dec. 6.—(CP)—Col. G. A. Wells, Principal Protestant Chaplain of the Canadian Active Service Force, has announced appointment of Maj. C. G. Hepburn of Ottawa, as his assistant.

Maj. Hepburn succeeds Lt.-Col. H. A. Kent of Kingston, Ont., who is returning to Canada. Maj. W. G. McLean of Winnipeg, replaces Maj. Hepburn as Principal Protestant Chaplain of the 2nd Division.

Col. Wells also said Maj. H. P. Charters of Toronto, assistant to the Senior Chaplain of the First Division, is returning to Canada because of his health.

Col. Wells in civilian life Anglican Bishop of Cariboo, has been in England for a month and visited every Canadian unit, including the Royal Canadian Air Force squadrons. He held confirmations in two divisions.

"I have a strong conviction that the working out of policies of the Chaplain service among Canadian troops must be left largely to authorities in the field", he said. "I am convinced the policy of limiting the age of chaplains appointed for overseas service to 50 years is sound.

"There will be no exceptions to this rule".

Santi Quaranta Renamed Porto Edda In Honor of Daughter Of Benito Mussolini

Athens, Dec. 6. — (AP)—Porto Edda, captured today by the Greek army is in Albania. It is principal sea gateway into Southern Albania and ranks among that country's first four seaports. Known for more than 2,000 years as Santi Quaranta—"Forty Saints"—it was re-named Porto Edda in honor of Mussolini's daughter, Countess Edda Ciano, in June, 1939, after the Italian occupation of Albania.

During its more than twenty centuries Port Edda was at various times a Phoenician seaport, a Byzantine outpost, a Turkish military garrison and a Venetian stronghold, but it became significant in modern times only with the outbreak of the First Great War. Between 1915 and 1918, it was turned into a naval base for Italian operations and was one of the guard posts from which Allied ships were able to enforce the blockade against Austria when that central power was bottled up in the Adriatic.

Porto Edda is less than ten miles northeast of the Island of Corfu, and is about 85 miles east of the heel of the Italian foot. While only small vessels can tie up at its wharves, the Port is on a deep, protected bay which affords anchorage to large ships.

The old name of the town was derived from an ancient Byzantine monastery where, according to legend, forty monks lived.

Coming Events

RUMMAGE SALE, SATURDAY, December 7, at 7 p.m., in Christ Church Parish Hall. Auspices Minerva Chapter, No. 138. D6

SALVATION ARMY, PINNACLE Street Citadel, Christmas Tree, also play, "The Empty Room," Friday, December 13th., 8 p.m. Admission 15c. D6-11

CHRISTMAS CONCERT VICtoria Avenue Baptist Sunday School, Friday, December 6, 8 p.m. Offering. D5-2t

CHRISTMAS CARDS WITH ENVELOPES
20¢ a dozen to 35c Each
SPLENDID SELECTION. MODERATE PRICES.
GEEN'S OPEN EVENINGS

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

DEP'T. COMMENDED ON CONDITION OF STREETS

Much favorable comment on the splendid condition of Belleville streets and roadways is being heard about the city from appreciative residents and visitors as well who fully realise the tremendous task of snow removal with which the Public Works Department has been confronted. Out of town visitors are especially loud in their praise of the results accomplished. The Public Works Department are to be complimented on the results they have accomplished in view of the fact that laborers and trucks have been at a premium since the arrival of the snow.

SHORT CIRCUIT CAUSE OF RUN

A short circuit in the electric wires of a refrigerator at the home of Miss Clare Wallbridge, 183 George Street caused the local fire brigade a run to that address during the afternoon on Thursday. Aside from burned wires in the refrigerator, however, no appreciable damage was caused

Police Radio Tests Reported Satisfactory

In an effort to establish a police radio hook-up throughout Eastern Ontario, the Belleville police radio station C.J.R., broadcast a test message to the newly-installed police radio receiver in Trenton last night. Sergeant Arthur Booth broadcast the test and later by long distance telephone the Trenton police revealed the reception on their receiver had been satisfactory.

The Trenton police installed a one-way police radio into the police cruiser cars early this week. The police broadcasting equipment in Trenton has not been installed as yet. Last night's test was the second attempt on the part of Sergeant Booth to establish an all-Eastern Ontario police radio hook-up.

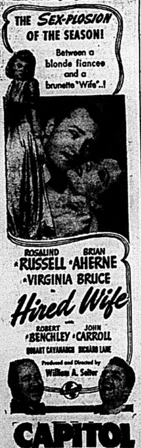
On Tuesday last the Kingston and Brockville police radios interchanged messages, which were picked up in Belleville by Sergeant Booth. No attempt at that time to broadcast from the local police radio station, C.J.R., was made, but next week Sergeant Booth hopes to broadcast over the local hook-up in an effort to establish police contact with Trenton, Kingston and Brockville police. If successful the venture will be an innovation towards the slowing up of crime in Eastern Ontario.

It Pays to Buy at The Rexall Store.
The Ideal Gift for Him!
WATERMAN 100 Year
PEN and PENCIL SETS
NEW IN DESIGN and having new features and guaranteed for One Hundred Years.
Sets from $12.25 to $15.00
McKEOWN'S DRUG STORE
271 Front St. Phone 135

26 YEARS IN BUSINESS
CAMPBELL AUTO BODY and PAINT SHOP
BODY and FENDER REPAIRS
327 Coleman St. Phone 777

PALMIST
HAND WRITING ANALYSIS. and PALM READING and CARDS.
HANDWRITING BY MAIL
PROF. CYBELLE
211 Coleman Street.
N5-1m

—STARTING—
SUNDAY MIDNITE
After 12.05 A.M.
Two Weeks at The Imperial Theatre, Toronto, to accommodate the laughing crowds!



THE SEX-PLOSION OF THE SEASON!
Between a blonde fiancee and a brunette 'Wife'..!
ROSALIND RUSSELL
BRIAN AHERNE
VIRGINIA BRUCE
in Hired Wife
with
ROBERT BENCHLEY
JOHN CARROLL
HOBART CAVANAUGH RICHARD LANE
Produced and Directed by William A. Seiter

CAPITOL

1940 Licence Plates To Be Collected For Red Cross

A plan for the salvaging of 1940 license plates by the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society was announced today by the Honourable Mitchell F. Hepburn, Prime Minister of Ontario. Mr. Hepburn pointed out that if all or nearly all the 1940 plates were recovered, the Red Cross funds would benefit by a substantial sum and almost three hundred tons of scrap steel would be made available for war purposes.

"I hope the motorists of Ontario will co-operate whole-heartedly," said Mr. Hepburn. "This arrangement gives them an opportunity to render effective aid in two ways and at no cost to themselves. Three hundred tons of steel would be an important aid to the war industries and the cash derived from the sale of the metal will be effectively used by the Red Cross. In the present emergency, when steel mills are working to capacity we must avoid waste of material and I am sure that motorists will support this worthwhile undertaking."

It is understood that the Red Cross Society's plan for the salvaging of the old plates has been made possible by the co-operation of Imperial Oil Limited and the members of the Automotive Transport Association. All Imperial Oil service stations will act as collecting depots for the plates and Automotive Transport Association members have agreed to transport the collected plates to the steel mills. Both operations are being conducted without charge.

Sir John Latham at Hong Kong

Hong Kong, Dec. 6 (CP)—Australia's first Minister to Japan, Sir John Latham, arrived here today en route to Tokyo. He was met by British officials and Seki Yano, Japanese Consul General.

Adults Mat. 20c Eve. 25c
CAPITOL
MATINEE SATURDAY
A PLOT SO DARING IT ASTOUNDS EVEN CHAN!
"CHARLIE CHAN IN PANAMA"
with SIDNEY TOLER
Compete Shows at 2.45 - 7 - 9
"A LETTER FROM CAMP BORDEN" Life in Canada's Military Camp.
Added Feature! "COLORADO" ROY ROGERS GEORGE HAYES
NEWS — 8th. Chapter "TIM TYLER'S LUCK"
THE IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFT!
THEATRE TICKETS In Gift Envelopes Now on Sale

DID YOU SEE . . .
THOSE GARDEN FRESH BIRDS EYE FROSTED FOODS?
FRUITS - VEGETABLES - FISH
Demonstrated at the Cooking School. THEY ARE REALLY GRAND and so reasonable in price, too Come in and see us at
1 MARKET LANE
SPENCER FRIGID LOCKERS
and let us explain our Refrigeration Locker Service
PHONE 2454
D5-2t

HOW LONG IS A DAY?
Laugh with "It's a Fact" hilarious and informative
SEE PAGE TWO SATURDAY

BRITISH EMPIRE
Christmas Cards
LATEST BOOKS
and
BEAUTIFUL GIFTS
at THE Quinte Book Shop
"CHILDREN'S BOOKS A SPECIALTY"

OBITUARY

MRS. ARCHIBALD THOMPSON (Madoc)

The funeral of the late Mrs. Archibald Thompson, formerly Mary Jane McCoy and one of Madoc's oldest and most esteemed residents took place from Trinity United Church, Madoc, on Thursday afternoon.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Alfred Poulter, assisted by the Rev. George Nickle, Toronto. The pall bearers who were all nephews of the late Mrs. Thompson were Messrs. Carl McCoy, Dearwood McCoy, Raeburn McCoy, George Ketcheson, Robert Burnside, Ted Muffitt.

Interment was made in Lakeview Cemetery.

On Mar. 30, 1852, the late Mrs. Thompson was born of the parents, the late John McCoy and Jane Allen at the original McCoy homestead, Hazzard's Corners, being the eldest of nine children.

On January 3, 1872, Mary Jane McCoy became the bride of Archibald Thompson. There was then established a home embracing the staunch Christian qualities which radiated to those known intimately and less so. Qualities of leadership shown in the church, school, and political field by the late Mr. Thompson coupled with the pleasing, gentle characteristics of his wife won for them the admiration of a wide circle of friends. Places of residence during this union were Elzevir and Madoc Townships and Madoc Village. Mr. Thompson's death occurred on Nov. 8, 1919.

In religion the faith of the Methodist church was devoutly followed by Mrs. Thompson. She served as an interested Sunday school teacher of teen-age girls for seven years, and president of the Women's Missionary Society of which she was a life member. In daily life true principles were maintained in conjunction with charming whimsicalness.

The children of the family were Charles who lived on the homestead at Madoc Township and who died November, 1938; Ida, Mrs. S. S. Ashley of Madoc who for many years lovingly administered to her mother; Jennie, deceased 1898; John, formerly of Fort Worth, Tex., who died December 1938; Percival of Edmonton, Alta.; Dora, Mrs. Stewart McNeil, formerly of Stavely, Alta., who died 1919; Stanley of Fort Worth, Tex.; Tillie, Mrs. (Rev.) S. Morton, Belleville; Annie May, deceased 1892.

One sister, Mrs. Chas. E. Muffitt of Coe Hill, fifteen grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren also mourn her loss.

GERMANS SEEK TO CAST RIDICULE

Berlin, Dec. 6 (AP).—Authorized German quarters sought to ridicule today the peace move by three British Independent Labor members in the House of Commons yesterday as "pre-arranged work" which they asserted was on the same level as "Lord Lothian's gloom campaign in the United States".

These sources said they saw it "pretty dark for the English parliament." The point to the "trick means" as seen in official German eyes was not disclosed.

THE
Sunbeam Shavemaster
GIVES THE CLOSEST SHAVE.
Regular $18.75 Model.
SPECIAL MODEL for 60 Cycle A.C.
$8.75
SCHRYVER'S PHARMACY
PHONE 49 — WE DELIVER

PICTURE FRAMING
PROMPT SERVICE
WORK GUARANTEED
SILLS BOOK STORE
232 Front St. Phone 1829
D4-6

GRAND OPENING
HUME ARENA
SATURDAY NIGHT
PUBLIC SKATING
8.30 P.M. to 10.30 P.M.
●
PRICES FOR SKATING:
Afternoons and Week Nights
ADULTS 25c. CHILDREN 15c
SATURDAY NIGHTS 25c
Children not permitted to skate Saturday nights, except opening night. Price 15c.
●
SEASON TICKETS NOW ON SALE — ARENA OFFICE.
3 p.m. till 6 P.M. and 7.30 P.M. till 9.00 P.M. Phone 686
ADULTS $4.00
STUDENTS $3.00
CHILDREN $2.00

ITALIAN CLAIMS DENIED

Athens, Dec. 6 (AP).—The Greek Admiralty denied today as "a fantastic invention" the Italian claim yesterday that the Fascist submarine Delfino sank a Greek destroyer Nov. 29 in the Aegean Sea.

The announcement said the Italians took credit for a "non-existant exploit" and that Greek destroyer forces are intact.

AIR-CONDITIONED
McCARTHY
THE SHOW PLACE OF BELLEVILLE.
SUNDAY AFTER MIDNIGHT
12.05 A.M.
ALSO:
MON. — TUES. — WED.
DAILY ...... 2.30: 7.10: 9.10 P.M.
"MEIN KAMPF-MY CRIMES"
STARTLING EXPOSÉ OF THE NAZIS ..... THE FILM THE WAR HAS FREED FOR ALL TO SEE!
SUPPRESSED UNTIL NOW
THE STORY HITLER WROTE. WHICH HE THOUGHT WOULD NEVER BE SHOWN.
THE PICTURE YOU WILL REMEMBER FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE.

BOYS and GIRLS!
KRESGE'S
SANTA CLAUS
will be at the McCARTHY THEATRE
Saturday Afternoon
WITH A FREE GIFT FOR ALL.
Supplied by the S. S. Kresge Company.
NOTE: SATURDAY MATINEE PERFORMANCE STARTS 3 P.M.
D5-6

DON'T WAIT
Used Car prices are lower now than they will be next Spring. There is a better selection now. New model announcements are bringing in choice ones, and you need a good car to stand safely and economically for Winter driving. Drop in now, don't wait, get satisfaction and value here.
'39 CHEVROLET SEDAN
'38 CHEVROLET COACH
'34 FORD COACH
'32 OLDSMOBILE SEDAN
'27 CHEVROLET COACH
'36 STUDEBAKER SEDAN
'38 CHEVROLET PICK-UP
'39 PONTIAC SEDAN
'36 PLYMOUTH COUPE
J. B. BOYCE
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE
SALES — SERVICE
SUNOCO SERVICE STATION
Front St. Phone 794
D5-3t

Red Caps
BREAK-UP COLDS
GET THE ORIGINAL ALL-RED CAPSULES
25c
DOLAN
THE DRUGGIST

KENNETH BIRD IS WOR. MASTER

Officers of The Belleville Lodge for Coming Year Elected

The annual election of officers of the Belleville Lodge, No. 123, A.F. & A.M., G.R.C., was held in the Masonic Temple last evening when Wor. Bro. Kenneth Bird was voted into the principal office of the lodge.

During the banquet which followed the election of officers Adjutant Charlong, of the Salvation Army, was the principal speaker of the evening. Miss Charlong spoke on the wonders and beauty of Bermuda. It was later revealed that Adjutant Charlong was the first woman to address the Masonic brethren at a lodge meeting in this city.

The election of officers for the Belleville Lodge, No. 123, A.F. & A.M., resulted as follows:—

I.P.M.—Wor. Bro. E. Fairman
Wor. Master—Kenneth Bird
S. W.—Rev. Bro. J. Semple
J. W.—C. W. Bird
Chaplain—Wm. Hart
Treasurer—R.W. Bro. R. A. Backus
Secretary—C. D. Crosby
Organist—W. P. Youdale.

Other lodge officials will be appointed to office.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
The McCARTHY THEATRE
MATINEE SATURDAY
Starts
3 p.m.
To allow everyone to witness Belleville's Santa Claus Street Parade which starts at 2 p.m.
D5-6

H. HERRINGTON ACQUITTED OF RECKLESS DRIVING

Charge Against E. A. Kellaway for Same Offence Withdrawn by Crown After Verdict is Given

JURY OUT 4 HOURS

A verdict of not guilty was returned in favour of 18-year-old Hubert Herrington late Thursday evening after a petit jury had deliberated six hours. Herrington was charged with dangerous driving in the present sittings of the County Court held before His Honor Judge Reynolds of Kingston. The charge arose out of a motor accident which occurred near Millbridge on Highway No. 62 on August 17th last and resulted in the death of Mrs. Jessie Allore, of Trenton.

Following the verdict in the Herrington hearing, Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson immediately moved for the withdrawal of a similar charge preferred against Edward A. Kellaway, local fruit merchant and owner of the truck which Herrington was driving at the time of the accident. Herrington and Kellaway had originally been arraigned on a joint charge of dangerous driving when the proceedings opened on Tuesday. E. O. Butler, local barrister who defended Herrington, moved for separate trials and his request was substantiated by the court.

Charges Reduced

The original charges were that of manslaughter, but had been reduced by a Grand Jury at the recent sittings of the Supreme Court and then reverted to a lower court. It was alleged by the Crown that Mrs. Allore came to her death in a motor car driven by William McPhee of this city. McPhee sustained severe injuries and was not able to appear as a Crown witness in the case concluded last night, however.

Defence witnesses called by E. Ormonde Butler yesterday, contradicted Crown witnesses regarding skid marks on the highway and distances, which were also testified previously in the court. Both Herrington, testifying on his own behalf, and Mr. Kellaway, owner and passenger in the truck, swore their vehicle was on its own side of the highway and that the lighter motor car had passed the front of the truck and had veered into the rear of the truck platform. Mr. Kellaway said that the accident had happened at the brow of a knoll on Highway No. 62 and at least 50 feet from the point where Provincial Constable Stanley Palmateer had fixed the point of impact.

Jury Out Four Hours

After a deliberation of four hours the jury returned to say there was a disagreement; His Honor Judge Reynolds instructed the jury to return to their room and endeavor to arrive at a conclusive decision. They returned less than two hours later with their finding of not guilty. Mr. Herrington was most ably defended by E. Ormonde Butler.

Presbyterian Young People to Hold Conference Here

Held for the first time in Belleville a conference of the young people of four presbyteries of the Presbyterian Church will open in St. Andrew's Church on Saturday evening with a banquet at seven o'clock. Delegates will be present from the Lanark and Renfrew, Brockville, Kingston and Peterborough Presbyteries and it is expected that about one hundred will attend.

The program will be in charge of the Provincial Executive which is as follows: Honorary President, Ernest M[illegible]le, Toronto; Past President, John Stephens; President, Daniel Firth, Saugeen; 1st Vice-President, Charles Cunningham, Guelph. 2nd Vice-President, Norman Young, London; Secretary, Mary McGeorge, Chatham; Recording Secretary, Winnifred Allen, London; Treasurer, Gordon Hamill; Conveners, Worship, Molly McIntyre, Toronto; Service, William Lawson, Hamilton; Fellowship, Helen Pellow, Peterborough; Director of Leadership Training, Elsie Thompson, Editor of Dominion magazine "The Front Line"; William Bodden, Toronto.

On Sunday morning there will be a Communion Service for the delegates and at two-thirty the delegates will meet in discussion groups. At seven o'clock there will be a rally, open to the public. All sessions will be held in St. Andrew's Church. The conference is very fortunate in having as guest soloist Miss Molly McIntyre, Worship convener, who is a gifted young singer.

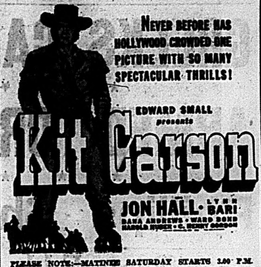
Arrangements for the conference and billeting of the delegates have been made by the local group whose officers are Dr. Boudreau, Presbytery representative; Past President, Clare Thain, Harold; President, Robert Kidd, Belleville; 1st Vice-President, Helen Fitchett, Stirling; 2nd Vice-President, Jim Browning, Belleville; Secretary, Marion Martin, Trenton; Treasurer, David Campbell, Picton; Fellowship Convener, Kathleen Crerar, Belleville; Worship Convener, Douglas Blue, Belleville; Reporter, Katherine Williamson, Belleville; executive members, Bill Hawthorne, Madoc; John White, Roslin.

BAN LIFTED

London, Dec. 6 (CP).—An official ban on pleasure trips to English coastal areas, ordered last summer at the height of the invasion danger, was lifted from some sections today.

The restrictions originally barred holiday visitors from the entire east and southeast coasts. The home security ministry's announcement today reduced the restricted areas to a strip about five miles deep in Norfolk, Suffolk and Essex, and all Kent except its London area, Orpington, Seven Oaks and Tonbridge.

AIR CONDITIONED
McCARTHY
THE SHOW PLACE OF BELLEVILLE
DAILY .... 3.00: 7.10: 9.10 P.M.
Tonight and Saturday



NEVER BEFORE HAS HOLLYWOOD CROWDED ONE PICTURE WITH SO MANY SPECTACULAR THRILLS!
EDWARD SMALL presents
Kit Carson
JON HALL
LYNN BARI
DANA ANDREWS • WARD BOND
HAROLD HUBER • C. HENRY GORDON

PLEASE NOTE:—MATINEE SATURDAY STARTS 3.00 P.M. to Allow Everyone to Witness Belleville's Santa Claus Street Parade, which starts at 2 P.M.

POLICE COURT

The general public heard little in today's session of police court heard before His Worship Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., as the majority of cases listed for trial were held in camera.

An amicable agreement and restitution were completed in the magistrate's chambers regarding a case of the destruction of property, which occurred at a local restaurant recently. The parties responsible are said to have completed satisfactory arrangements for the restoring of the damaged property and the charges were withdrawn by Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson. However, the parties implicated paid fines after admitting drunkenness.

A case of non-support was to have been heard, but the defendant in the matter failed to appear. A bench warrant was issued for his apprehension.

T. D. Ruston, Inspector of the Children's Aid Society, arraigned a small boy into Juvenile Court on a charge of being incorrigible. The boy has been found sleeping in parked automobiles by police officers on several occasions recently. Inspector Ruston applied to have the youngster admitted to the Bowmanville Boys' Training School. He was committed by the court and later taken to Bowmanville by Mr. Ruston.

Lucky Belleville . . . There's Such Romantic Fun Coming Tomorrow!
MATINEE SATURDAY Starts 2.45 p.m.

SHE MADE HER BED... BUT DIDN'T WANT TO LIE IN IT!
It's no crime for a girl to invent an imaginary husband... but it's mighty embarrassing when a total stranger turns up and claims he's "it!"
starring Myrna LOY with Melvyn DOUGLAS
"THIRD FINGER, LEFT HAND"
RAYMOND WALBURN • LEE BOWMAN
BONITA GRANVILLE • FELIX BRESSART
—MORE!—
COMICOLOR CARTOON
B-E-L-L-E NEWSREEL
SATURDAY MAT.: A Thrilling Chapter, "THE GREEN HORNET" Serial.
KEEP CANADA LAUGHING
BELLE

SAT. MATINEE—NEW FREE COMIC BOOKS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS
Ends Tonight—NORTHWEST MOUNTED POLICE, in Color

CANADIAN WARRIORS TAKE TO SKIS; USE TACTICS LEARNED FROM FINNS

These troops are amongst the first Canadian soldiers to attend Canada's new ski school which opened this week at Ottawa. Expert skiers, already, the students will be schooled in fighting tactics learned from the Finns in their campaign against the mechanized forces of Russia. Lieut. Frank Reiffenstein, well-known Montreal skier, RIGHT, is a member of the school's instructing staff. With their packs bundled on their skis, LEFT, ski troops can progress with surprising rapidity while on their stomachs. The great advantage of these tactics is the small target the troops present to any lurking enemy.

Wrightman entertained a number of friends at their home on Thursday evening. Guests were present from Trenton, Frankford and Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White spent Tuesday, November 26th with Mrs. George Stone, Sidney, on the occasion of Mrs. White's birthday.

The ground is covered with a mantle of snow as one of the heaviest snow storms paid this vicinity a surprise visit. This is early in the season for such a heavy fall of snow and is an early reminder of the winter months ahead.

Marmora

Marmora—St. Paul's Laymen's Association held its regular meeting in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening with R. G. Winters, president, in the chair. Due to the snowstorm and heavy roads the attendance was somewhat decreased. The speaker who was to have addressed the gathering on "The Royal Navy" namely, Dave Bradford of Belleville, sent notification in the afternoon of his inability to be present so an improvised program had to be then arranged. The meeting opened with the National Anthem and prayer which was taken by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell. In the business session Rural Dean Caldwell gave reports of the annual Deaneries Association meeting in Bancroft on October 9, and the banquet in St. James Hall, Kingston, on November 25th which was addressed by Bishop Sherman of Calgary. The Association will attend St. Paul's Church in a body next Sunday evening. A short descriptive talk on Bristol with the showing of pictures of principle features of the city was given by W. J. Cottrell, secretary-treasurer. Members then enjoyed a euchre contest in which honors went to Andy Cavanaugh. Choice refreshments were served at the close.

Miss A. V. Foley spent the weekend in Ottawa.

Mr. Thomas E. Pritchard spent the weekend in Toronto.

Mr. Bill Sala of Oshawa visited Deloro friends on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hart jr. spent the weekend in Toronto.

Mr. Bill Smith of Hamilton was a visitor to Deloro on Sunday.

Mr. William Simmons has returned to his home in Deloro after spending a few week in Toronto.

Mr. Bert Kouri spent the weekend in Toronto.

Two Vessels Report Steering Gear Gone

New York, Dec. 6—(AP) — Two vessels—one saying she was without steering gear in battering seas—radioed for aid from out of the North Atlantic Thursday.

The first cry for assistance, picked up by Mackay Radio, came from the 4,295-ton Greek Steamship Taygetos at about 4.15 a.m. E.D.T. She asked immediate assistance. The cause of her distress was not given and her position was unclear, although it appeared to be somewhere off the British coast.

More than five hours later— at 9.35 a.m. E.D.T. — the British steamship Saltwick radioed she was in distress about 700 miles off the coast of Scotland, and asked immediate aid.

In an SOS heard by Mackay, the 360-foot, 3,775-ton Saltwick said her steering gear was gone and that "battering seas" were breaking over her.

Canada's 1940 potato crop is estimated at 42,058,000 cwt., an increase of 16 per cent over last year's production.

HARDLY A PAIN AT 78

She Feels Like 48

Aches and pains are not inevitable in old age. When they do come, there is always a cause for them. Here is a little lesson on growing old, by a woman of 78:—

"For the last five years I have taken Kruschen Salts and I tell you truthfully I could not live without them. I am 78 years old. I have hardly a pain in my body, and I feel almost as young as I did at 48. I give the credit to Kruschen Salts. No one will believe my age."

—(Mrs.) C. M.

Most people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually they start the Kruschen habit. Then, probably for the first time in years, they start getting rid every day of all waste matter from the system. They begin to feel energetic and happy. In a word, they've got that "Kruschen Feeling."

DIES AFTER SHOVELLING WALK

Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 6. —(CP)— After sh[illegible] in front of his home here, John C. [illegible], 60, [illegible] and churchman, collapsed on entering the house and died a few minutes later.

He had been connected with the Dominion Glass Company here for 37 years and came to Hamilton from Toronto in 1915. Since that time he had also been clerk of the session at Westminster Presbyterian church.

Industrial employment in Canada on October 1 according to statements from 12,304 firms was 1,235,705 persons as compared with 1,186,786 in October a year ago.

Bishop Lyons Visits Parish Of Roslin

Roslin — On Sunday evening, Nov. 24th, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, the Right Rev. John Lyons of Kingston, visited the Roslin Parish, and administered the right of confirmation to six candidates which were presented by the Rector, Rev. F. C. Beazer. The Bishop also dedicated a prayer book and veil for use in the church.

Bishop Lyons based his sermon on a portion of the General Thanksgiving "We bless Thee for our creation, preservation, and all the blessings of this life; but above all for Thine inestimable love in the redemption of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ, for the means of grace, and for the hope of glory."

Bishop Lyons referred to the day of National Thanksgiving, which is observed each year and one which we are called upon to give thanks to God for our blessings. "A day of National Thanksgiving is a recognition of God in these days, when we must believe and we must be prepared to give ourselves even unto death for the right. Our conflict is with a nation which does not believe in God. Shouldn't we as a Canadian people be thankful for our lot in this country, when we think of conditions in the Motherland at the present time?

First: the material or temporal things but above all for spiritual blessings. We are prone to place emphasis on the first; not so likely to place them on spiritual or main things. In looking forward to Christmas, how many are thinking about the spiritual, or are we putting the emphasis on the family life.

"Christianity" is challenged in this conflict if the totalitarian powers win there will be no Church. One thing we are fighting for is Christianity. Jesus Christ is a reality, Jesus is a historic person, Born, Died, and Rose again. These are facts recorded in history. We may not believe, or deny them, nevertheless they are facts."

Bishop Lyons also spoke of the Missionary work of the Church and of the need of more support on the part of the Church in Canada, in order that the Mother Church in the old land might be relieved of the help which she has given so generously to the Church in Canada throughout past years.

In speaking to the candidates, the Bishop said confirmation is a completion of baptism. "What are you being confirmed for? By our lives good or bad we are missionaries. The Church is here to help us but it cannot unless we make it our experience. The Church stands here as a silent witness to the eternal. Worship brings you into closer fellowship with God. Do not neglect your communion. Being imperfect we need all the grace that we through the Church can get."

Dr. H. E. Welsh and Mrs. Welsh spent a recent week end in Toronto.

The Woman's Association held a very successful bazaar and tea in the Church hall on Wednesday afternoon. The hall was attractively decorated and also the various booths, where fancy work, novelties, aprons and candy were displayed, and these found a ready sale to eager purchasers. At the close of the afternoon the guests were invited to the tea tables where dainty refreshments were served.

Rev. F. C. Beazer, Mrs. Beazer, and Mrs. Clare spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Cotton in Stirling.

Mrs. W. Gillespie is ill with pneumonia. Her sister, Miss Blanch Reid is staying with her.

A number from here attended the funeral of the late Robert Campbell which was held in Belleville on Tuesday morning.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Beazer, Mrs. A. Bates and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Coulter of Moneymore spent Monday in Kingston and attended meetings addressed by the Bishop of Calgary, chairman of the apportionment fund.

A number from here are attending short courses in agriculture which are being held in Tweed through the month of December.

2nd Thurlow

2nd Thurlow—Miss Lorena Haight is accompanying Miss Bernice Robinson at some of the schools to practice for the Christmas concerts.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Milligan and Barry and Misses Muriel Johnson, Mary Kidd, Elsie and Annie Lazaruik spent Sunday with Mrs. Lazaruik and Bill.

Miss Doris Atkins had the misfortune to cut her finger, requiring three stitches to close the wound.

Miss Bernice Robinson called on Miss Lorena Haight on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. D. Atkins and Ronald spent Wednesday with her mother Mrs. A. Barnum.

Several from this line attended the Oyster Supper at Shannonville Orange Hall on Wednesday night.

Mrs. Ray Milligan and Barrie spent a few days last week with her mother, Mrs. Lazaruik.

Mrs. A. Greatrix and Mrs. Snider called on Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Treverton and Mr. and Mrs. Orval Beer, 3rd line on Tuesday afternoon.

Miss I. Spencer had tea and spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. D. Atkins on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bush and Mr. and Mrs. K. Bush and Betty Wellman and Sidney spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. Mitchell.

Mrs. W. Gray Sr. pieced and quilted a quilt which she donated to the Neighbors' Aid to be used for war work.

Mrs. Archer, Belleville, spent Thursday with Mrs. F. Mitchell and Mrs. Gummer.

Messrs Manly and Donald Mitchell spent Sunday recently with their grand parents Mr. and Mrs. W. Donaldson, Belleville.

Mr. Donald Whalen and Miss K. Whalen, Reg. N., Toronto, spent the week end at the home of their parents Mr. and Mrs. D. Whalen.

Mrs. F. Mitchell, Mrs. H. Grills, Miss Lorena Haight and Mrs. D. Atkins attended the afternoon tea at the Tabernacle Church on Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Lorena Haight called on Miss Doris Atkins Wednesday evening.

Mr. D. Whalen who has been with the Telegraph Company at St. Catharines for some time is transferred to Oshawa.

GENERAL WEYGAND PROVES MYSTERIOUS FIGURE

Gen. Maxime Weygand, who has become the "mystery man" of Europe, is shown here chatting with Mohammedan students and professors during a visit to a Medersah (university) at Fez. With Weygand is Gen. Nogues, RIGHT. Weygand made his trip to Africa from Vichy for the purpose of "combating" the De Gaulle Free French influence, but rumors persist that Weygand, irked by Axis demands upon France, may be considering joining forces with De Gaulle.

Madoc Junction

Madoc Jct.—On Thursday of last week Mrs. Nelson Stapley underwent a serious operation at Belleville Hospital. Her friends will be pleased to know that she is doing nicely.

Relatives here received word on Saturday that Mr. Alfred Clarke had passed away quite suddenly at his home in Aurora. He is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Clarke and had spent his boyhood in this neighborhood. Friends here extend sympathy to the bereaved family.

Mrs. Robert Lake of Stirling is spending some time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Stapley.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stapley and Donna were guests at Mr. and Mrs. Warren Harlow's Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Embury Hough and Bobby of Halloway spent the tea hour on Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. George Eggleton's.

Mr. John Ketcheson is quite ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Hiram Ashley.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Waterfall and Mr. Ralph Stapley spent Monday evening at Mr. and Mrs. C. Fitchett's.

Mr. Nathan Clarke attended the funeral of the late Mr. Alfred Clarke which was held at Aurora on Tuesday.

Owing to the snow storm there was no service at Eggleton Church on Sunday last. On Monday the men were busy snow ploughing the roads.

6th Tyendinaga

6th Tyendinaga — A heavy fall of snow came to this section the last few days and sleighs and cutters have made their appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie and Joy spent Sunday with Mrs. V. Bradshaw and family, 3rd. line.

Mr. Percy Lancaster and family visited friends at Crookston recently.

Residents welcome Mr. and Mrs. Wannamaker and family to the community.

The pupils at Moults School have started practising for their annual Christmas tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Treverton attended the O.R.E.C. convention at Melrose last week.

Allan's Mills

Allan Mills — Mr. and Mrs. S. Meiklejohn and Rev. and Mrs. Harding visited Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McKeown on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wellman spent Friday with Mrs. D. Wellman.

Rev. Mr. Harding preached his farewell sermon on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Les. McKeown were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKeown.

Mr. Ralph Richardson, teacher in S. S. No. 14, is training the pupils for a Christmas concert.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wellman spent Monday with friends in Peterboro.

The roads in this vicinity are very bad owing to the depth of snow that has fallen in the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stiles spent the week end with friends in Stirling.

Mr. Bert Anderson of Madoc has been engaged as cheese-maker at Maple Leaf for next year.

Born — To Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Haggerty (nee Elsie Lain) on Saturday, Nov. 30, a daughter in Belleville General Hospital.

Moira

Moira—The regular meeting of the Moira Young People was held in the vestry on Monday evening with a good attendance. The President Mr. W. Farrell opened the meeting with a sing-song followed by prayer. Minutes of the last meeting were read and roll call responded to.

The fourth convener, Mrs. Albert Clare, then took charge of the rest of the meeting which was social night. A hymn was sung and Scripture lesson read by Mrs. Wes Farrell. A reading was given by Douglas Thompson. The topic on "Social Customs of other Countries" was given by Mrs. Joe Williams. The Mizpah Benediction was pronounced and then a contest and games of Chinese checkers were indulged in until time for lunch. It was decided due to the Christmas concert to postpone the next meeting.

Mrs. Roy Holgate spent a day recently with Mrs. Frank Emerson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McInroy and family took dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Herity.

Miss Doris Farrel has gone to Belleville for a time.

Rawdon

Rawdon—Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell and Douglas attended the Holstein Fresian banquet in Stirling Thursday evening. Douglas was the recipient of a prize.

Mrs. Frank Smith spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Curry, Consecon.

Mrs. Sarah McKeown is holidaying with her daughter Mrs. Will Morrow at Peterborough.

Mrs. Edgar McKeown entertained fourteen ladies on Wednesday to a Red Cross sewing bee when a layette was completed also some children's blouses. At the supper hour several of the men came and enjoyed a delicious hot supper. Thirty people enjoyed the meal and a social evening.

Misses Muriel and Doris Sine attended a shower on Tuesday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. Delbert Sine in honor of the Misses Annie and Viola Sine who were Saturday brides.

A few from Mount Pleasant attended the funeral of Mrs. Robert Lamb, Stirling, on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McAdam and family, Mr. Robert Melville and family attended the High School commencement at Campbellford which was held on Thursday, Friday and Monday evenings. Miss Lois McAdam took part in the program and sang in a number of choruses.

Mrs. Emma Semmers is holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. James Watson and other relatives in Seymour.

Miss Doris Sine spent several days with Mrs. Delbert Sine and Mrs. Neil Sine and was a waitress for the Stapley-Sine and Grills-Sine nuptials on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Watson, Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Ruttan, Trent River, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jeffs and attended the play Friday evening.

Mrs. Will Heath, Bethel, spent a few days last week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McKeown.

Mr. Lester Hay underwent treatments in Belleville Hospital last week and his mother Mrs. John Hay spent the week in the city.

Miss Lila Andrews, Bonarlaw, has been holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sine and other friends.

Messrs Frank and Milford

TODAY'S TEMPERATURE 28°
TOMORROW'S WEATHER
Cloudy Colder check battery oil anti-freeze
COLD WEATHER CAR STARTING
Exide
BATTERIES
RECHARGES
RENTALS

Cold weather deals batteries a DOUBLE BLOW

Nobody knows better than an Exide dealer the "one-two" punch that cold weather lands on a battery. Not content with merely lowering its efficiency, cold weather piles on the work it has to do.

With his new, scientific Starting Power Indicator, your Exide dealer can show you this double action. See it work; you'll be eager then to have him test your battery on his Sure-Start Tester, an instrument that's as revealing as an X-ray. This amazing instrument tells you straight from the shoulder whether you need a "re-charge", a new battery, or whether you're all set for winter... this service is free to all motorists.

If you want to be sure of sure-fire starting from now on, regardless of weather, see the man who is equipped to promise it. He is your Exide dealer. Look for the daily weather forecast at his gas pump.

EXIDE BATTERIES OF CANADA LIMITED
153 DUFFERIN STREET TORONTO

(Copyright, 1940, by Exide Batteries of Canada Limited)

Exide
HYCAP

WHEN IT'S AN Exide YOU START

EXIDE BATTERY SERVICE MAY BE OBTAINED FROM THE FOLLOWING DEALERS:
City Battery Service, Coleman & Bridge Sts.
J. P. Clarke Serv. Stn. 144 Dundas St.
Grills' Garage, 85 Moira St. W.
Moxam & Wood, 65 Dundas St. E.
Riggs Motor Sales, 224 Pinnacle St.
All British American Oil Stations
All McColl-Frontenac Stations.

DISTRICT DEALERS
Bloomfield Garage, Bloomfield.
Fred Wright's Garage, Brighton.
C. H. Davidson & Son, Campbellford
H. L. Gardner, Foxboro.
C. D. Purcell, Frankford.
F. H. Nayler, Madoc.
Murray's Garage, Marmora.
Grindrod Auto Elec., Picton.
Reg. McKeown, Springbrook.
McIntosh & Wells, Stirling
Huffman's Serv. Stn., Trenton
E. W. Jones, Tweed.
LeSage Motors, Tweed.
Louis Rashotte Garage, Tweed
F. Harris, Wellington.
All British American Oil Stations
All McColl-Frontenac Stations.

2 Foundry Street
GARAGE SUPPLY CO. LTD.
EXIDE WHOLESALER
Belleville, Ont.

RENOVATE... INSULATE... Build
Alexander MURRAY AND COMPANY LIMITED
BUILT-UP ROOFS · SHINGLES · INSULATED SIDINGS
DONNACONA INSULATING & HARD BOARD, ETC., ETC.
INSIST ON THESE PRODUCTS FROM YOUR LOCAL DEALER

STOP Scratching Relieve Itch Fast —or Money Back

For quick relief from itching of eczema, pimples, athlete's foot, scales, scabies, rashes and other externally caused skin troubles, use world-famous, cooling, antiseptic, liquid D. D. D. Prescription. Greaseless, stainless. Soothes irritation and quickly stops intense itching. 35c trial bottle proves it, or money back. Ask your druggist today for D. D. D. PRESCRIPTION.

THE
ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

CHRISTMAS APPROACHES

Signs are not wanting that Christmas is drawing near. Snow and colder weather have ushered in wintry conditions, the public is buying gifts and the shops are veritable emporiums of Santa Claus Land. The holiday mood is on the people and will manifest itself more and more as the days pass.

As this season comes the people feel that much is owing to the business men who make possible with the co-operation of the buying public celebrations of Yuletide in a manner which is satisfying in the light of the importance of Christmas in the life of the world.

Christmas entertainments are beginning. These perennial events create joy for the youngsters who reap the greatest harvest of merriment and joy at Yuletide for they are full of excitement as they plan for the celebration, as they practise for the Christmas trees and get ready to make their debut on the entertainment stage. It is a time when child voices are raised in hymns and songs of characteristic fervor, when children join in merry dances and drills and when the tiny actors and actresses play their part in tableaux.

In the hearts of citizens there is a stirring which always manifests itself at this time of year, because Christmas is characteristically the festival in which "the other person" is not forgotten. It is more selfless than any other season. Men and women in churches and in various social and philanthropic organizations are planning for remembrances for those who are in less fortunate circumstances through illness or age or otherwise, for they know that a Christmas cannot be truly observed when someone is forgotten in the joy of the time.

In these days of war, thoughts are tinged with seriousness as the people are engaged in the war effort which should absorb the utmost attention in the support of every activity and enterprise which furthers Canada's contribution to the defence of the Empire. Friends in Britain, Canadian soldiers overseas and in the camps in Canada are in the minds of their friends and the people generally who will endeavor to create as much merriment and happiness as possible for those in the war zone or in the military establishments in Canada. Plans for holiday leaves have been laid so that soldiers in Canada will be able, many of them, to go to their homes for the celebration of Christmas and New Year's. Christmas will be remembered in the camps.

AS DAVID WITH HIS SLING SLEW GOLIATH

One of the most graphic descriptions of the Greek successes in the war forced on her by Italy came from Home Secretary Herbert Morrison who yesterday praised the "extraordinary valor of the Greeks who had given the Allied cause its first major land victory." He saw this as a timely reminder that "courage, brains and inflexible determination can upset the calculations of a bully as swiftly, as unexpectedly and as thoroughly as David with his sling overthrew the clanking champion of the Philistines."

Everyone knows the story of the shepherd lad David, one day to be King of Israel, who slew Goliath with a pebble. Goliath, the braggart, loaded down with his armor, was scornful of the boy with the sling. But young David had something the bully in armor did not have. He had intelligence and shrewdness. He knew he could not meet the giant in the giant's style of fighting so he used his brains and he used courage for in stepping out before the rival armies he ran a risk. But his unerring skill learned because he had to defend his flock of sheep from wild beasts had prepared him for this opportunity.

Greece, one of the smaller states, has indicated to the world that freedom breeds heroes who will dare danger, use their intelligence and their sense of freedom. Like David, the Greeks knew their resources which are those of a high intelligence and courage and staunch fortitude. Goliath was no match against the young shepherd and the Italian war machine has been as cumbersome as the overloaded giant Philistine was centuries ago. Hence the Greek victories and the Italian disasters.

The spirit of the Greeks goes farther than present day achievements. They have done what will achieve victory and "greater triumphs," Mr. Morrison said.

The lad David was noble-minded and Goliath was a pampered mammoth. Fascist Italy has been fed on the lure of conquest and has had the bad example of false victories in Ethiopia and in the seizing of Albania two years ago. Then too Mussolini misjudged and dashed into war against the Greeks. The result has been a series of defeats for him.

The Greeks, fired by the sense of freedom, knowing what the Italian ultimatum meant, resisted the enemy. They have not followed false ideals, but are sustained by the noblest sentiment of liberty. Like David they have struck.

And like David, they have paved the way for "still greater triumphs."

BEARDED NOW

Sir Oswald Mosley's hirsute growth was revealed, recently, when the imprisoned British Fascist leader was permitted to attend a court hearing of a libel suit he instituted against a London newspaper which is said to have claimed he received special privileges in the internment camp. The case was later settled out of court. Mosley raised the beard since he was taken into custody.

Newest Notes of Science

Science News Service

Crossword puzzles are being used in a Massachusetts school to teach children spelling and grammar and to enlarge their vocabularies.

Approximately 1500 miles of new railways have been constructed in Manchuria in three years to bring the total mileage to about 7400.

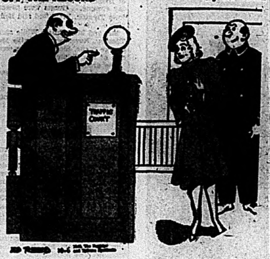
Made of a translucent plastic, a new darning egg contains an electric light bulb fed by a battery in its handle to illuminate its work.

A new radio resistance unit is marked with a red dot that turns brown when the resistor is loaded 25 per cent beyond its rated capacity.

A tilting head that can be mounted on any tripod has been invented to enable a camera to be aimed at any angle from vertical to horizontal.

OFF THE RECORD

By ED REED



"Five dollars or five less shopping days till Christmas."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

DEC. 6th., 1920.

Mr. Howard Preston of Port Hope has succeeded the late Mr. E. M. Fisk, at the Union Depot or south station of the C.N.R. in this city. The new agent is well and favorably known.

At the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association in Toronto the delegates from this district were as follows: Belleville, Ed. Thomas; Cobourg, A. J. Plunkett; Kingston, J. P. Fleming, H. M. Swaby and Dr. J. Jordan; Peterboro, Rev. Father Costello; Trenton, Ted Lee.

Division Court was held to day with Judge Deroche and Judge Wills presiding.

The December session of the County Council will open here to morrow with Mr. Morden Sills, presiding. The affairs of the year will be disposed of at this final session.

30 YEARS AGO

DEC. 6th., 1910.

The members of the Law Association of Hastings County tendered a banquet at Hotel Quinte last evening to Sir Glenholme Falconbridge, Chief Justice of the King's Bench. The President, Col. W. N. Ponton, K. C., presided. In proposing and responding to the various toasts the following delivered addresses: Mr. E. Guss Porter, K. C.; Mr. W. S. Morden, K. C.; Mr. J. P. Wills, K. C.; Mr. F. E. O'Flynn; Mr. J. J. B. Flint; Mr. T. A. O'Rourke. Contributions to the enjoyment of the evening in song and story were made by Mr. W. J. Diamond, Mr. W. Carnew, Mr. W. C. Mikel, Mr. P. McL. Forin, Mr. John Williams, Mr. M. Wright and Sheriff Morrison.

Mr. T. A. McGinnis was in Kingston yesterday.

Mr. W. E. Schuster returned after a trip to the Old Country.

40 YEARS AGO

DEC. 6th., 1900.

At the annual meeting of the Ameliasburg Conservative Association the following officers were elected: President, W. W. Anderson; Vice Presidents, — Capt. W. Weese, H. M. Weese, William Oster, David Robinson and Albert Crosby; Secretary, D. R. Wannamaker; Treasurer, Hiram Adams; Auditors, W. E. Anderson and A. R. Ashton.

Christmas is coming; you can feel it in the air; you can see it in the shop windows; you can tell it by the awful condition of the streets, which always about this time of year, makes the lot of the poor horse a sad one. And this will be the last Christmas of the 19th. century — shouldn't something be done to celebrate it?

Citizens are favorably impressed with the appearance of the new street cars.

50 YEARS AGO

DEC. 6th., 1890.

The country roads are in a bad condition and as a consequence there was a small market yesterday.

The magic lantern entertainment provided for the members of Bleecker Street Sunday School last evening by Mr. C. Rathman and Mr. J. Wensley was highly appreciated.

The Rev. Dr. Parsons of Knox Church, Toronto, will occupy the pulpit at both services in John Street Presbyterian Church, on Sunday next.

The Rev. M. W. Maclean, Minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, will preach at anniversary services in Napanee on Sunday.

The river is frozen over for a considerable distance above the foot bridge.

What's the Answer

BY THE ACE CAMERAMAN

(Distributed by the King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

1.—A furring plane is used by a (a) furrier; (b) a carpenter; (c) aviator? Do you know which?

2.—In 1834, a secret society was organized in Ireland among the tenantry. What did they call themselves?

3.—True or false? Cassio is a character in Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar".

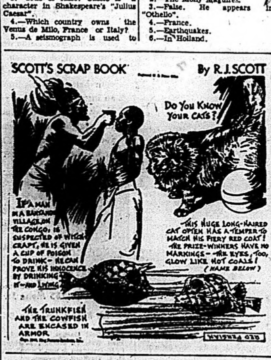
4.—Which country owns the Venus de Milo, France or Italy?

5.—A seismograph is used to record (a) electricity; (b) heat; (c) earthquakes?

6.—In what country has the Kaiser Wilhelm III lived in exile since the World War of 1918?

Answers

1.—Carpenter.
2.—The Molly Maguires.
3.—False. He appears in "Othello".
4.—France.
5.—Earthquakes.
6.—In Holland.



SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK
By R.J.SCOTT
DO YOU KNOW YOUR CATS?
IF A MAN IN A BANTANDU VILLAGE ON THE CONGO, IS SUSPECTED OF WITCHCRAFT, HE IS GIVEN A CUP OF POISON TO DRINK — HE CAN PROVE HIS INNOCENCE BY DRINKING IT — AND LIVING
THIS HUGE LONG-HAIRED CAT OFTEN HAS A TEMPER TO MATCH HIS FIERY RED COAT! THE PRIZE-WINNERS HAVE NO MARKINGS — THE EYES, TOO, GLOW LIKE HOT COALS! (NAME BELOW)
THE TRUNKFISH AND THE COWFISH ARE ENCASED IN ARMOR

Henry Ford, Idealist, At Odds With Himself

"What's the good of war It's no good at all. A bunch of crooks and sharps make the wars. I'm against it all, have nothing to do with it", said Henry Ford that October morning sitting on the horse-hair sofa in the old replanted Oldham Inn at Dearborn, his native place; now the centre of the world's biggest motor works which he has created.

"But didn't I see your people driving piles for a building to make 4,000 Pratt-Whitney engines for warplanes?" I asked. "That's the plant", said Mr. Ford with a hard twinkle; "I've got an alibi." He would not discuss the matter except to say two things about his refusal to make the Rolls Royce engines, of which two-thirds of the output were to go to the British. He said that "that man" (Mr. Roosevelt) wanted to go on making war and get everything going his way. "I'm against helping him do that", said Mr. Ford. "And another reason is that I don't like the Rolls engine—I've got a better one." Mr. Ford, however, was wearing (a friend said for the first time) a Willkie button. But Willkie was for all aid to Britain — was he with Willkie in that? Mr. Ford shook his head. "War is all wrong. You could get around a table and settle the whole thing."

I suggested that that was the beginning of the trouble. The British believed in peace so thoroughly that they got around a table in Munich, and then Hitler broke the agreement they made there and seized Czecho-Slovakia and then invaded the other countries. Could anyone sit around a table with a man who never kept his agreements? Would Mr. Ford sit around a table if the Communists seized his works? He replied that he had never seen a real Communist and was doubtful if there was one. He had seen plenty that called themselves Communists. Later he remarked that you had to have a big defence power so that you could knock together the heads of the fellows who were making all the trouble, but later he doubted defence too.

Mr. Ford, like many another idealist, was clearly at odds with himself under the pressure of the shattering events in Europe and the menace of the Nazi power that was against everything (except perhaps mechanization) that he himself cares for.

He did not conceal his liking for England and spoke of America as the "big brother". We had the same language and everything.

I had said something about the strong, hefty-looking workmen on the assembly line at his Rouge River works, and he replied that the men at Dagenham, in England, ("the biggest factory in the world under one roof") were every bit as good, healthy, upstanding men —"all in one model too—English". But what seemed recurring to his mind was the mechanical organization and ability of the German people. "When the Germans left Belgium and France after the last war", he said, "they had improved the working there by 25 percent, in the method and plan of the factories." He returned to the point once or twice and said that "War was the best worse thing that can happen". But he hated it. The English people didn't work hard enough. The Americans didn't work as hard as they should either.

I accused him of forming his opinion, as so many distinguished Americans did, from Mayfair dinner tables—had he ever been to the Clyde where they made ships that the world knew about, or Leeds and Brandford, where they made the woollens that all Americans wanted to buy; had he ever visited Manchester apart from his own works there? Mr. Ford admitted that he had never been in Scotland or Leeds and Brandford, and that he hadn't seen much of Manchester, but he insisted that he had seen a lot of England and he had visited plenty of farms and some of them were very good.

He had sat next to Churchill at a dinner at Sir Philip Sassoon's house in London; there were a lot of people there, and he had asked Churchill, "Why don't you work the land?" It was in 1930. Churchill said that they couldn't raise enough food, they had to buy their food and make things to sell to other people, and that kind of talk.

"I told him they should raise their own food," he said. "The next day I went to find a farm, to buy it and prove it. I bought one for about a million dollars. Boreham, it was called, out of London. It was an old mansion place about three square miles of land, some of it swampy. And we raised food and made it pay from the first year. It's going on now; the girls are running it. I don't say they can't farm in England—I saw some fine farms—but they're too small."

Mr. Ford would advance outrageous propositions and sit back to see how you took them, and he would propound ideas about the Jews and about the press that left one speechless. "You can't believe anything in the papers; maybe some of it's the truth, but not the whole of it", he said. While confident that Hitler was "a dub, just a dub"— he hinted darkly about people behind Hitler.

One couldn't be sure how seriously these theories were held. The best he would say about the Jews was that you couldn't do without them. "The Gentiles wouldn't work if the Jews weren't here." Like many another he had entertained his mind with ideas about having lived before. The whole thing that mattered was what experience we brought from a former life and what we gathered in this life to pass on to help ourselves and other people on to a next life. It's the sum of what we carry on from one generation to another that makes experience the thing.

As we passed on to a lighter vein, I asked if in a future incarnation he would not be bothered making old-fashioned things like motor cars and would concentrate on airplanes. He said he didn't know anything about that or what he would be like in another life. "The only thing is", said Henry Ford, "that I'd like to be sure of getting the same wife."

But although holding himself aloof from the Ford workshops in producing the 4,000 Pratt-Whitney warplane engines, the piles for which are now being driven a mile or two away, Mr. Ford is working with his characteristic concentration on a civil airplane of a new type. He intimated that it would have a gyroscope that would take it up and land in, say, the floorspace of that small inn, go right away and so save all the power wasted on rising and landing. The engines would be in the wings and a lot of the exhaust would be saved. It would have a lot of new points. He was working on models.

The Ford Peace Ship. We came to that at last as an instance how a man gathers lasting experiences. He recalled Miss Jane Addams and the idea of the Peace Ship in the last war to get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas. There were 25 or 26 women on board, and a lot of discussion. They got to Denmark and the newspaper folk came on board and they talked and talked. The result of all this was that Mr. Ford got an idea of forces and schemers he did not know of behind the war; so he left the ship and went back to America. He had had 100 days of it all. It cost him $400,000, but the experience was worth it.

His face in repose has that remote look that we call ascetic and is seen frequently in religious people. It is the expression of the rare will-power that can produce periods of complete mental concentration, an expression one would recall well on the faces of Arthur Keith, the great anthropologist, and John Buchan, the writer.

He is still a great force in the industry of the world. Will he ultimately turn his genius and that industry to the aid of democracy in its peril? I said my say and we shook hands.

"You're hide-bound", said Henry Ford and he added after a pause—"maybe I'm hide-bound too."—Ottawa Journal.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

James W. Barton, M.D.

A School Which Helps Epileptics

There is no denying the fact that there are a great many epileptic children who present a problem to parents and teachers.

Fortunately, some epileptic children by increasing their fat foods and decreasing their starch foods, are able to keep fairly free of attacks; also by taking regular doses of phenobarbital or other quieting drugs. These drugs, however, often keep the child too quiet, stupid in fact, and the work of the school teacher is made more difficult.

As most epileptic children are too bright to be put in homes for mental defectives, yet their attacks may upset their own school life and that of others, the Detroit public school system in 1934 started "A Social and Medical Study of Epilepsy" which resulted in the establishment of a special school for epileptics. Home teaching had been tried, but it was found most important that the child be taken from home surroundings into a school and normal social life.

Before the school for epileptics was opened, a study was made of 200 children and those found suitable were placed in this special school on the outskirts of Detroit.

In describing this school, Dr. O P. Kimball, Cleveland, in the Merck Report, states, "The location was ideal as it afforded these children opportunities for recreation and play which they could not have in a crowded city. The special school was set up with facilities for home life, school and medical clinic for fifty children. Classes were kept small so that individual attention could be given. A special teacher for recreation after school hours and a day and night nurse were provided. Regular wholesome meals were provided with in-between feedings for undernourished children.

Recreation under special instructors, play, hiking trips, base ball, out-of-doors setting up exercises, skating in winter and gardening in the spring provided sufficient exercise and opportunities for learning to live together.

Instead of having more attacks because they were kept together it was found that the first group of forty boys together from Monday morning to Friday evening, had fifty per cent fewer attacks per day at school than they had at home over the week-end.

What results were obtained by this special school? Over a five year period, twenty per cent were able to go back to their regular school after being free of attacks for over a year. All the children improved mentally and physically and got a real understanding of themselves and the conditions under which they must live.

Canada's Fighting Man is Seen In All Phases of Military Life

Film 'Letter From Camp Borden,' Running at Belleville Theatres, Reveals Evolution of Soldier From Civilian—Sham Battle is One of Highlights

The evolution of Canada's fighting man, the best in the Empire, from the time he doffs his civilian clothes until he becomes an important cog in the Dominion's military machine, is graphically portrayed in all the training phases in the picture, "A Letter From Camp Borden" the latest in the "Canada Carries On" series, provided for public information by the Government. The film is being shown today at the Belle Theatre and today and Saturday at the Capitol.

The picture is vitally interesting from start to finish and shows Canada's sturdy manhood adapting himself to the rigors of military training. From the time the raw recruit lays aside his civilian clothes until he marches proudly along the highways with his comrades, a trained soldier, the film unfolds the story of the transplanting of the nation's manhood from civil life to that of the army.

All Phases of Training

The Canadian "Tommy Atkins" is seen in all phases of military life and training. Tanks, machine guns, signal corps, all branches of mechanized transportation and equipment provide a source of training that is shown in the finest detail in the film. "Tommy's" life in barracks, on the parade ground, undergoing inspection in the mess-hall and the canteen, and at night at his recreation is finely pictured, and brings home a highly informative and educational insight into the life of the civilian soldiers of the Dominion.

Highlighting the film is the sham battle that brings out to the full the results of weeks and months of intensive training. The infantry and machine-gunners perfectly camouflaged in their nests in open ground; the rumbling tanks that plunge through woods, streams and over fences and other objects like a huge caterpillar; the Bren guns and the motorcycle corps; the transportation of the troops by mechanized equipment as they move to the attack or advance are but part of a film that is as informative as it is enjoyable. The scenes of the evening concert and the soldier artists and their respective abilities show a side of military life that is seldom seen outside the barracks.

But above all the film pictures the fine morale and fighting spirit of the Canadian soldiers, and the splendid type of men who have laid aside their civilian environment to take up arms in defence of the country and Empire. It shows Young Canada at its best, and is a picture which should be seen by all.—G.H.C.

The War Today

By GUY RHOADES

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New evidence of Italian failure in the war appeared today with the resignation of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Chief of the Italian Staff for the last 15 years and presumably fed up with the poor support the sagging Italian economic system could give him.

Badoglio, a skilful soldier, who managed the difficult Ethiopian campaign against dreadful geographical hazards and a resolute, if ill-armed people, never has been a friend of Fascism He took command of the Italian army at Mussolini's request despite the fact he was no party member. His resignation today was not forced, it was accepted.

Badoglio was succeeded by Gen. Ugo Cavallero, formerly Commander of the Italian forces in East Africa. Cavallero's accession was not expected to produce the utmost confidence, considering the stagnation of the Italian forces under his former command.

Suffer Further Punishment

While the 69-year-old Badoglio retired the Italians suffered further punishment in Albania at the hands of the Greeks and British. Athens reports said they had fired two of the most important towns in their newly "liberated" territory, Porto Edda, named for Mussolini's senior daughter, and Argirocastro. Their intention presumably was to prevent large stores of provisions from falling into Greek hands. Seemingly they had not the means nor spirit to carry the supplies with them while they fled.

While the Greeks drove the Italians toward the Adriatic Sea, a new situation appeared boiling up in Rumania. Refugees swarming across the Hungarian border in such volume that authorities closed the frontier. Some sources predicted fighting between the army and the Iron Guard was imminent.

Reports were current Germany had promised Rumania she would recover Northern Dobruja, which Germany already gave to Bulgaria around the time when King Carol surrendered his throne.

Nothing but Grief

The Nazis appear to have sown a mess of dragon's teeth in Rumania, and they seem to have nothing but grief since they went in there. At the moment the pro-Nazi Iron Guard has stirred ominous opposition of the Rumanian army which wanted no part of the Nazis in the first place.

Germany, of course, might be able to command the situation, as she has a large army already planted in Rumania, in addition to the thousands of "tourists" who entered on behalf of the fifth column many months ago.

If Germany should seek to return to Rumania part of her territory already given away under Axis pressure she might run into opposition from Bulgaria. It was conspicuous yesterday that a Turkish newspaper editorially praised Bulgaria and referred to her as Turkey's "friend" of long standing, in sharp contrast to attitude several weeks ago when the Turkish Press was talking of entering the war if Bulgaria attacked Greece.

Axis Knows Now Britons in War To Bitter End

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—The House of Commons' stern rejection of any form of peace gesture toward Britain's Nazi-Fascist foes deserves front rank in the war news for many reasons.

Not the least is the repercussion that smashing 341-to-4 disavowal of appeasement sentiment may have on the shaping of United States policy for expanding aid to Britain.

The peace gesture issue was raised by a trio of Labor Leftists in Parliament. It served, however, to arm Prime Minister Churchill's War Ministry with an emphatic new vote of confidence approving aggressive prosecution of the war. The Churchill Ministry obviously welcomed the test, which it probably could have dodged or diverted, and the outcome served a double purpose.

Grim Notification

It sent a new and grim notification to Berlin and Rome that British public will to fight it out to the bitter end is unshaken. It also sounded a positive assurance to Washington that there is no appeasement sentiment of consequence in Great Britain with which American policy makers need reckon.

Mr. Churchill's Parliamentary Deputy, Clement Attlee, struck that note in debate. No other Government at war would permit such a debate at all, he said. That Axis propagandists would attempt to use it as evidence of waning British war morale, is to be expected also, he went on, adding:

"But I believe it will show our strength."

It did on the vote. It also confirmed previous indications that British political spokesmen believe the war, as a result of developments in Greece and Albania, has turned a vital corner in Britain's favor.

That faint echo of the dead-and-echoing with demands for a knock-out blow at Italy to crack the German-Italian Axis. It can be assessed definitely by the vote yardstick, however, as meaning that Britons believe they have already achieved victory in a fight for mere survival and envision ultimate complete victory.

Offensive Against Italy

Even advocates of the peace gesture based their plea on the contention that Britain has proved her ability to survive. That was their springboard for demanding a statement of British war aims as a means of starting peace negotiations.

As the House thumbed down the peace gesture proposal in London, the Greeks were enlarging their victories in Albania. The last Italain operating bases in Southern Albania were toppling if not already in Greek hands.

Authorized British leaders have stated that they have made "a clean breast" to Washington of Britain's present situation, military and economic, in connection with requests for more American aid. It is doubtful that included any definite revelation of British hopes of launching soon a major offensive against Italy. There have been many intimations, however, that it is primarily to step up preparations to take the offensive in the East and not for defensive purposes in Britain that pressure is being exerted on Washington to speed up war deliveries.

Britain also has revealed that she is rapidly converting the mountainous Greek island of Crete into another Mediterranean Gibraltar. Its greatest value, however, would be as a base of offensive operations against Italian forces in Egypt or against Italy direct.

Multiple disks in a new motor operated machine cause 480 flexible fingers to massage scalps, removing loose hair, scale and dandruff.

The Japanese government will subsidize the study and experimental manufacture of machine tools not now being produced in that country.

Maintenance and Construction Costs of Hastings County Roads During 1940 Given to Council

Superintendent Langlois Recommends Higher Salaries to be Paid

BUY SNOW PLOW

Maintenance and construction costs of the 280 miles of Hastings County roads and bridges system amounted to $77,000 in 1940, Road Superintendent W. L. Langlois' report to the council revealed today. Of this amount approximately $8,000 was spent in new construction of the one and one-half miles of paving on the Belleville-Madoc Road.

The report carried a recommendation that wages of labor and trucks be raised for at least the coming year, in view of the scarcity of men, and many more lucrative jobs made available through war conditions.

Proposed expenditure for the year was roughly $91,000 but this amount was reduced by the Department of Highways to $75,000. An additional grant of $3,500 was made later for the purpose of paving the county road in Frankford to the Bata plant, but as subsidy would not be paid on this amount unless the committee spent only $71,000, it was felt the work could not be done this year.

Snow Removal Cost Higher

Snow removal costs, which included the purchase of one carload of snowfence amounted to $10,500 last year. This with the purchase of a new power grader at a cost of $5,400 less a trade-in allowance of $600 made it essential for a rigid conservation of funds, the report stated. This in particular, when the policy of continuing to construct pavement on the Madoc road seemed advisable. Considerable maintenance work which otherwise should have been done, was foregone to pay off the entire cost of the Madoc road paving project.

A new snow-plow has been purchased at a cost of $680 and this will be mounted on the new power grader. This unit will keep open some forty miles of the county road system, and in addition it will be held in reserve for those parts of the system which may become blocked by bad storms.

Approximately $11,000 was spent in dust-laying material and the actual work. This treated 65 3-4 miles of road at a cost of $165 per mile. 9,788 gallons of bituminous dust-layer was bought. Calcium Chloride and oil were also used. Total crushed material placed on the system was roughly 9,329 cubic yards.

Pave New Road

Reduced appropriations resulted in a considerable reduction of resurfacing yardage, the report revealed. This mileage, however, will have to be treated in 1941 if it is to carry its usual traffic in safety.

The new paving on the Madoc road which extends northerly approximately 1 1-2 miles and is 18 feet wide, cost 52 cents per square yard or actually $7,832. Two and one-half miles of the 1932 paving on this road extending northerly from West Huntingdon, was sealed at a cost of 6 1-3 cents per square yard, or $1,668. Half a mile of the old pavement in Tweed was sealed at a cost of $317. Total pavement patching on all hard surfaced roads amounted to $280.85. Other construction work included projects done on the Minto road, the Sulphide road, Malone road, Frankford road and that near Hoard's Station. A metal arch was constructed on the Coe Hill road to replace an old narrow timber bridge which was in a dangerous condition. The cost was $390.

The 225 foot steel bridge at Moira Lake was scraped and repainted at a cost of 92 cents per lineal foot. The 200 foot bridge in Tweed was refloored while minor repairs to various bridge floors and approaches were carried out. Several steel bridges will have to be repainted in 1941.

New Guard Rail Posts

New guard rail posts to mark the end of culverts were erected on twenty additional miles of roads as were 50 road signs. The report recommended that more guard rail posts be erected at high fills and sharp corners even if funds will not permit the placing of cable on them at the present time.

The carload of fence previously mentioned, which contained 12,000 feet has been erected, but many parts of the county have insufficient snowfence in spite of the purchase. Tenders have been called for trucks to do snow plowing and the contracts will be let shortly.

The major part of the afternoon session yesterday was taken up with the perennial question of indigent hospitalization accounts. Mr. Gordon Friesen, Belleville General Hospital administrator, who with the Hospital Board's legal adviser, Robert W. Pringle, were in attendance, and both addressed the council briefly prior to the discussions of the many outstanding accounts.

Patriotic Fund Disbursements

Approximately eleven thousand dollars of the $18,282.00 representing one mill of the county rate, assessed in June for the purpose of raising money for patriotic purposes, have been disbursed to the various war charities, Chairman George West of the Patriotic Fund Committee told the council. Three thousand dollars has been given to the Red Cross Society, two thousand of which had been sent direct to Red Cross headquarters in Toronto and the remaining one thousand distributed at the rate of one hundred dollars each to registered branches of the society in Hastings County.

Amounts of $1,250 each had been presented to the Knights of Columbus Huts and the Salvation Army while the Y.M.C.A. charities had benefited to the amount of $2,500. The second Battalion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment had been given a grant of $250 while cigarettes to various amounts had been sent to members of the H. and P. E. Regiment now in England with the Canadian army.

The remaining amount, Chairman West said, is being held in readiness for an emergency, owing to the fact that no further monies will be available before the June, 1941, session.

Nearly eight million dozen of Canadian eggs were exported during the first nine months of 1940, principally to the United Kingdom. In the corresponding nine months of 1939 exports of eggs amounted to 703,000 dozen.

Weighing only 15 pounds, a hydraulic starter using oil compresser with a hand pump has been developed for starting the motors of light airplanes.

A woman living near Shenandoah, Iowa, has developed a method for making oil paintings on cobwebs, which are preserved between sheets of glass.

Eddie Guerin, First Man to Escape From Devil's Island, Dies a Pauper

Manchester, England, Dec. 6. — (CP)—A pauper's grave was dug last night for Eddie Guerin and in it will repose the shadowy symbol of the theme he often preached but failed to heed through at least 60 of his 80 years:—

"Crime doesn't pay".

The incorrigible jail-bird and one time consort of "Chicago May" ran the gamut of crime from purse-snatching and pocket-picking, to safe-blowing and bank robbery and won his greatest notoriety 35 years ago as the first man to escape from the French penal colony at Devil's Island.

He died in poverty Tuesday in Lancashire County Hospital.

The police of the United States and of Europe now can mark his bulging dossiers "closed".

Eddie Guerin was born "Fox", but where he picked up his alias is as little known as the place of his birth. He was reputed to be the "black sheep" of a respectable Chicago family, but he once escaped extradition to France by swearing that he was a British subject, born on a British ship at sea.

Certain it is that one of his earliest recorded big-time jobs was the $10,000 robbery of a Galesburg, Ill., bank in 1882. Chicago police already knew him as a pickpocket of great skill, and he first fled to England after wounding a Chicago detective named Tom Threehorn.

Guerin soon was followed here by a friend, blond May Vivienne Churchill, who won notoriety as "Chicago May" when she "worked" the Midway crowds at Chicago's 1893 World's Fair.

Accused of a Variety of Crimes

Accused of a variety of crimes, Guerin finally caught one of the toughest raps of all—a sentence to the French Guiana penal colony of Devil's Island for robbing the American Express Office in Paris of $50,000.

In 1905 he escaped, reputedly with funds supplied by Chicago May. Six convict companions died of starvation in the Carribbean, but Guerin got to England.

"The first man to escape from Devil's Island", he was marked thenceforward, and often whined that the sensational story pursued him "like a ghost".

By 1907 he fell out with Chicago May, and she and a male friend were sent to prison for shooting him. May is reported to have died 11 years ago.

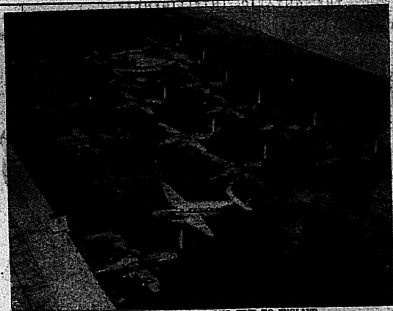
The diverse record of Guerin's crimes lengthened with the years, though he is reported to have found time to marry and raise a family of four in England. Family needs may explain why he descended in 1935 to stealing a pair of stockings, which cost him a new prison term.

In 1936, he got an unexpected windfall, claiming one-fifth of the $67,000 estate of a half-sister, Mrs. Harriet A. Mitchell, wife of a Chicago broker. He is said to have received $3,500, but whether he ever got the remainder is not known.

Age and affluence did not mend Guerin's ways, though he periodically wrote his memoirs, always on the "crime doesn't pay" theme.

Finally, two years ago, he was picked up for loitering "with criminal intent" in a London Post Office, and the magistrate banished him from the city for three years.

He came to the West of England, where he died.



BOMBERS ON LAST LAP OF LONG TRIP TO ENGLAND

This unusual air view, made at Floyd Bennett airport in New York, indicates how the production of bombing planes for Great Britain is progressing. These planes all have landed in New York within the last few days, having been flown from factories in California, and are to be dismantled for shipment. The camouflaged single-tail planes are Douglas DB7A bombers and the camouflaged two-tail ships are Lockheed Hudson bombers. The uncamouflaged plane in FOREGROUND is a Lockheed Lodestar, to be used in commercial airline service in South Africa.

TAX AND TARIFF

(Continued from Page One)

ing for a compulsory interest-free loan. Five Conservatives voted with the C.C.F. and New Democracy groups.

After giving second reading to the War Revenue Act, the house left that measure for final consideration until today and took up in detail most of the War Exchange Conservation Act, which provides for prohibition of certain imports from non-sterling countries, the licensing of other import items from the same sources, and the relaxing of tariffs against many British items.

Public to be Protected

Mr. Ilsley agreed with a suggestion that the government could have introduced these measures under the sweeping authority of the War Measures Act but, because of their vital nature, but said they were brought into the house "out of respect for parliament". Conservative House Leader Hanson welcomed this return to the "supremacy of parliament".

The Finance Minister assured the House that the interests of the public would be protected and the consumer not be exploited under the embargo of certain commodity imports.

"If there is any profiteering out of this we shall hear of it and we shall do something about it", he promised.

"There is such a thing as public opinion in this country, and there is such a thing as patriotism in this country, such a thing as a sense of decency and a sense of responsibility on the part of the government of the country, and all these things work together at a time like this".

When he was Minister of National Revenue he found most taxpayers were "honest and decent", Mr. Ilsley said. His department then had trouble with only five per cent of the payers of sales tax, for instance.

The senate met twice yesterday but only momentarily each time because it had not yet received completed legislation from the Commons. The Upper Chamber will meet again today at 5 p.m. E.D.T. when it is expected the Commons will have disposed of the first of the two measures.

C. C. F. Fearful

In advocating the compulsory-loan amendment, Angus MacInnis (CCF Vancouver East) reminded the House that it had unanimously approved the National Resources Mobilization Act under which the Government could require persons "to place themselves, their services and their property, at the disposal of His Majesty in the right of Canada." It's purpose was to provide for the effective mobilization of the resources of this country both human and material.

When the Act was adopted the C.C.F. were fearful it would be applied only to human resources and not to wealth. "What has transpired since that Act was passed last June is sufficient proof that we were wise in taking heed of our past experience," he said.

Young men called up for compulsory military training wondered why they were called up when no attempt had been made to "take the wealth of people who have been bleeding this country since the last war and even during the last war."

People to whom this country had been kind should be called upon now to give up their wealth in defence of their country "without waiting until the country in its extremity will have to give them higher interest or higher wages for their money."

There were 40,001 people in Canada at Oct. 31, 1939, with Savings Bank Accounts of $5,000 to $25,000; 2,757 with accounts of $25,000 to $100,000 and 626 with accounts of more than $100,000.

Only One Purpose

On the other hand, some government employees breakfasted on a cigarette and coffee.

"This is not good enough for people who are saving civilization", Mr. MacInnis declared. "We must place new values on those things we are trying to save, on the things we consider worthwhile. We must place a greater value on human life, on human welfare and on human happiness than is placed upon the large bank accounts which have been accumulated over the years by certain people in favored positions".

Mr. Ilsley emphasized that the measures taken together had only one purpose, the conservation of Foreign Exchange. Such taxation measures as were proposed were incidental.

Continued admission of American fresh fruits and vegetables, as expected, brought considerable criticism from Conservative ranks. Hon. Grote Stirling (Con. Yale) thought it "incredible" that the United States should insist on Canada keeping the market open, especially when Canada needed its American credits for greater war purchases.

The 25 per cent excise on household appliances such as electric stoves and washing machines was opposed from all opposition groups, but Mr. Ilsley observed good arguments would be advanced for the exempting of practically all items listed. He stressed that these were not necessarily considered luxuries, but were commodities which require labor and materials which could be used for war purposes.

Could Import From Empire

That being the case, A. M. Nicholson (CCF Mackenzie) asked if some control should not be exercised over advertising which persuaded the public to buy such things—when the Government was trying to discourage their purchase.

Mr. Ilsley said a great many of the articles, imports of which are to be banned, could be imported from Empire countries.

He said that the completely banned items amounted to $52,840,000 in last year's imports and those to be admitted decreasingly under licence amounted to $71,150,000. Revenue loss there would be $12,000,000 in customs duties and $5,000,000 in War Exchange Tax.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F., Acting House Leader, proposed fixing prices as of Dec. 2, the day the new embargoes and restrictions went into effect. As had been done in Britain, he suggested that manufacturers desiring to raise prices should have to obtain permission first, not have them reviewed afterward.

John Blackmore, new Democracy leader, said that on the whole price rises had been justified from the producers' standpoint, though painful to the consumer. Before long there would have to be an adjustment on behalf of the consumer.

"HELL BOX" OF WAR

A German bomb turned this London printing works into a veritable "hell box," a newspaper term used to denote a place where discarded type is dumped. Here, believing that victims are trapped, British soldiers hurriedly attack the ruins after the bombing.

Drink
Coca-Cola
Delicious and Refreshing

CHEESE BOARD

Only fourteen factories were represented on the Belleville Cheese Board on Thursday evening, offering a total of 491 cheese for sale, of which 366 were colored and 125 were white. All were sold, with white being bought at 13 1-2 cents and colored at 14 cents. Buyers, Hunter and McCreary took the board.

Thursday evening's meeting marks the close of the Belleville Cheese Board for 1940 as it was moved for adjournment for the season, with the meetings to resume next spring at the call of the chair. The factories represented at last night's meeting were:

	W.	C.
Central		47
Sidney		70
Wooler		50
Sidney T. H.		35
Cloverdale	42
Mountain	30
Moira Valley	17
Quinte	23
Rogers		30
Stirling		26
Roblin		42
Shamrock	13
Ben Gill		32

Eastern Ontario Cheese Boards

Campbellford, Ont., Dec. 6—(CP) — Boarded today 1,108 boxes of cheese, 114 boxes white sold at 13 11-16 cents; 994 boxes colored sold at 14 5-16 cents. Board closed for season.

Belleville—(CP)—Boarded today 491 boxes cheese, 125 boxes white sold at 13 1-2 cents; 366 colored sold at 14 cents. Board closed for season.

Cornwall — (CP)—Boarded 118 white, 467 colored. White sold at 13 7-16 cents colored at 13 9-16c.

Kemptville—(CP)—Boarded 236 boxes white, 507 colored. White sold at 13 1-2c colored at 13 9-16c.

Delta, Ont. — (CP) — Boarded 1,162 boxes white, 445 colored. White sold at 13 1-2 cents, colored at 14 3-16 cents.

Vankleek Hill, Ont. — (CP) — Boarded 488 boxes white, 125 colored. White sold at 13 9-16 cents, colored at 14 cents.

Casselman, Ont.—(CP)—Boarded 315 boxes white, 17 colored., White sold at 13 1-2 cents, colored at 13 3-4 cents.

New York Times Opposes Development Of St. Lawrence Project

New York, Dec. 6 —(CP)— The New York Times, in a lengthy editorial opposing development of the St. Lawrence River seaway and power project, outlined today several reasons why it said deepening of the seaway is not needed.

Saying that the "power aspect of the St. Lawrence project will bear even less scrutiny," the Times declared President Roosevelt is using the project as a "high card in the diplomatic poker game which he is playing with Canada." It added:—

"Despite the cry for more power that goes up from Ontario, Canada needs no St. Lawrence plants. Ontario's requirements are met until 1942 by the purchase of power from Quebec plants now in construction on the Ottawa River . . . will be ready by that year. About 300,000 horsepower at peak load can be obtained from De Cew Falls on the Welland Canal, and Quebec can build plants and supply all the power that Eastern Canada needs."

Leather footwear production in Canada during the first nine months of 1940 totalled 19,454,317 pairs compared with 17,905,207 pairs in the corresponding period of 1939.

Dana Andrews and Lynn Bari who are featured with Jon Hall in the adventure epic of the year, "Kit Carson," which is now playing at the McCarthy Theatre.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN POUND

(Thurlow Township)

Mrs. John Pound died suddenly in the 3rd Concession of Thurlow Township, late on Thursday evening, December 5th.

The late Mrs. Pound was born 78 years ago in Tudor Township, Hastings County. Prior to her marriage she was Miss Annie Lois Hazard, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Hazard. For some years she resided in the township where she was born and for the past thirty-five years she made her home in Thurlow Township. In religion she was a member of the United Church at Cannifton and in the community she was highly respected. In connection with the church she was a member of the Women's Missionary Society.

Surviving her are her husband, Mr. John Pound; two daughters, Mrs. C. A. Grenley, Toronto, and Miss Grace Pound, Trenton; four sons, Mr. Frank Pound, Thurlow Township; Mr. George Pound in the Province of Saskatchewan; Mr. Harry Pound, Thurlow Township, and Mr. Roy Pound at home; one sister, Miss Martha Hazard, Trenton.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

ELIZABETH J. GOODFELLOW

(Tyendinaga Township)

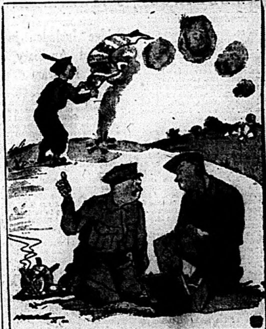
After an illness of six weeks' duration, Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Goodfellow, widow of William Goodfellow, Sr., and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Carter, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Alford, in the 8th concession of Tyendinaga Township, near Roslin, on Thursday evening, Dec. 5th.

The late Mrs. Goodfellow, who was in her 82nd year was born in Tyendinaga Township and resided there all her life. In religion she was a member of St. Paul's Anglican Church at Roslin and was highly esteemed.

Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. James Colden, Roslin; Mrs. W. H. Alford, Tyendinaga Township; two sons, Mr. John Goodfellow, and Mr. George Goodfellow, both of Roslin. Her husband died eleven years ago.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

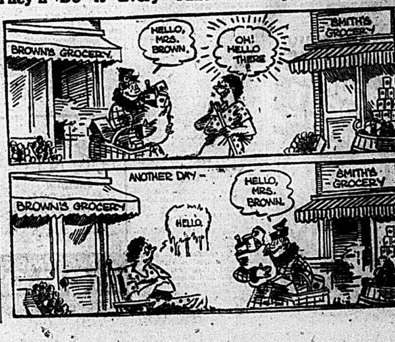
CUTS and BRUISES
Mentholatum quickly soothes injury and promotes healing. Tubes and jars, 30c.
MENTHOLATUM



"That recruit from out West is awful stubborn."

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo



FOUNTAIN PENS ENGRAVED FREE
IT ADDS A NICE TOUCH TO THE GIFT.
●
PARKER, WATERMAN, SHEAFFER
$1.25 to $17.50
●
ELECTRIC RAZORS: REMINGTON SCHICK.
●
DRESSERWARE
MEN'S SETS
KODAKS
●
SEE OUR WINDOWS.
See Our Large Stock Inside.
DOLAN
THE DRUGGIST
Phone 128

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Tilley have arrived in Orlando, Florida, for the season.

Miss Mary Ferguson, Ottawa, National Supervisor of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada, was in the city yesterday visiting the local district.

Mrs. W. Thornton has received word that her sister, Mrs. McCullough is a patient in hospital in Toronto, suffering from a fractured hip and wrist.

The many friends of Mrs. John Kikes are today congratulating her at her home, 140 William Street, the occasion being her name day, St. Nicholas Day. Greeks all over the world are celebrating this great Saint's Day.

Mrs. P. Szastkiw entertained at a delightfully arranged kitchen shower held at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. S. Jackson, Albert Street, in honor of Miss Myrtle Lancaster, bride-to-be. Games were enjoyed by the guests and Miss Lancaster was presented with a gaily decorated basket of useful and lovely gifts, found under a large bell from which hung colored streamers. Dainty refreshments were served.

The weekly meeting of Christ Church A.Y.P.A. on Wednesday opened with a hymn and prayer. After the business of the evening was finished the remainder of the time was devoted to a musical program. Community singing was led by Rev. G. G. Wright, and Miss Dorothy Croft, with Ray Lennox as accompanist. Violin selections were given by Les Lennox, accompanied by Ray Lennox, and a piano solo by Miss Dorothy Croft. The enjoyable evening was brought to a close with the National Anthem.

The Torch Club at the local Y.M.C.A. held another "Co-educational" night last night. A group of about 30 members and their girl friends attended a Theatre performance in a body, and returned to the Y where refreshments were served and a program of dancing completed the evening. Among those present were Misses Jean Wannamaker, Meribeth Stobie, June Crosby, Mary Lou Lazier, Jean Everett, Marian Diamond, Marian James, Jean Anderson, Norma Smith, Margaret Maher, Phyllis Dickens Doris Gardner, Mrs. F. Chick, Messrs. Ben Ogilvie, Clark James, Frank Foley, Les Pickering, Herb Correll, Bob Knox, Roddy Cameron, Jack Carefoot, Douglas Lattimer, Rae Lancaster, Glen Robertson, Gord McClelland, George Dudgeon and Ed. Shortt.

WEDDINGS

ARMSTRONG—CARROLL

In St. Francis de Sales Church, at Smiths Falls, the Very Rev. J. T. Hanley officiating the marriage took place of Anna Elizabeth Carroll, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Carroll, to Howard M. Armstrong, son of William Armstrong and the late Mrs. Armstrong of Belleville. The bride was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Francis Carroll, while Mr. Carroll attended the groom.

GLOVER—DEMOREST

A quiet but pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized at 8 p.m. on Tuesday evening, December 3rd., in Canterbury Chapel, Trenton, by Rev. J. L. Hutchinson, pastor of St. George's Anglican Church, when Mary Jean Demorest, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Demorest of Frankford, became the bride of William Luke Glover, son of Mrs. W. Glover and the late Mr. Glover of Trenton.

The bride looked charming in a gown of soldier blue triple sheer, her only ornament a heirloom gold locket watch and a corsage of "True Love" roses and fern.

She was attended by Miss Eileen MacMullen, of Stirling, wearing a dark frock of Miracle crepe with gold trimming and a corsage of red roses and fern.

Mr. Sid Demorest, Frankford, brother of the bride, attended the groom.

The bride's mother wore a crepe frock of Empire blue and the groom's mother, Royal Blue crepe, and their corsages were pink and white carnations and fern.

Immediately after the ceremony the guests repaired to the home of the groom's mother, where a buffet reception for the newlyweds was served, with about twenty-five immediate relatives and friends in attendance. The home was decorated in a colour scheme of pink and white.

Later in the evening a number of the groom's friends called at the home to extend their best wishes and the newlyweds were the recipients of a large number of lovely gifts.

The occasion was the thirty-eighth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents and also the birthday of the groom's mother.

The young couple will reside in Trenton.

NIGHT COUGHS due to colds . . . eased without "dosing". Rub on VICKS VAPORUB
APPROVED BY 2 GENERATIONS

Ask for BEE HIVE
Patented POURING SPOUT ON EVERY TIN!
BEE HIVE GOLDEN CORN SYRUP

Joins in Plan to Help British War Guests At Christmas Time

Far-reaching efforts of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire in Canada will encompass yet another humanitarian work, a communication from Canadian headquarters revealed at a meeting of the Argyll Chapter, I.O.D.E. yesterday.

Approved by the British and Canadian governments, Canadian members of the various branches which cover the Dominion from coast to coast, will be asked to contribute an individual amount to a Christmas fund for mothers of British war guests who are now in Canada with their children. The fund will afford temporary financial relief from certain inconveniences due to Foreign Exchange regulations.

Members of the local chapter made their contributions yesterday and any person outside the organizations may contribute by sending their donations to Mrs. G. M. Miller, Phone 555.

The Argyll Chapter also decided during the business part of the meeting to engage in their regular Christmas activities of supplying six families with Christmas boxes, while the inmates of Old People's Home will have their annual turkey dinner with all the "trimmin's" on New Year's Day, thanks to the generosity of the Chapter.

Several cartons were forwarded to headquarters of the I.O.D.E. while supplies were also sent to the hospital of the Royal Canadian Air Force Base at Trenton.

Appreciation of the generosity of the public in attending the Chapter, bazaar and bridge held last week, was expressed by members. The sum of $170 was realized from this function.

Bridge Included in Hospital Auxiliary Dance Program

Disappointment on the part of a large number of bridge-lovers of the city, expressed following a recent decisions of the Women's Auxiliary of the Belleville General Hospital not to sponsor bridge at the forthcoming annual Hospital Ball being held in the Trianon on December 27, caused a reconsideration of the decision at a special meeting of the Auxiliary held last night.

Members accordingly decided to sponsor the popular winter game which will be held in the rooms on the ground floor of the Y.M.C.A. Players will be able to retire to the Trianon ballroom following the games where luncheon will be served.

In response to many requests as to why the facilities of the Belleville Collegiate Institute are not being utilized for the function, the Auxiliary explained that due to the fact that the date, December 27, is so close to Christmas Day, the shortness of time would not permit of suitable decorations and other work which the function entails.

Plans for what is expected to be one of the most brilliant social functions of the year are going on apace and present indications point to an affair that will outshine any of the previous ones.

Tickets for the bridge may be obtained from Mrs. John McIntosh. The popular bingo and other games which met with so much success at the 1939 affair will again be in evidence. Tickets for the ball will be obtainable from any member of the Auxiliary.

BRIDGE STREET W.A.

Bridge Street W.A meeting was held Friday afternoon, at three o'clock with Mrs. Hyde in the chair and Mrs. May and Mrs. Semple's unit in charge.

Soft music was played by Miss Brown. Hymn 55 was sung, Joy to the World. Secretary's report was read and adopted. A discussion as to purchase of a gas stove took place and motion carried to purchase same.

Treasurer's report was read and approved. Nominating committee then brought in the slate of officers for 1941.

The slate was accepted and a vote of thanks was expressed for the organization by Mrs. Hyde. Mrs. May then took charge. Hymn 50 was sung.

Mrs. Fanning gave the Bible lesson and prayer. Mrs. Houston and Mrs. Rollins gave a piano duet. Mrs. Ralph Morden gave a very humorous reading. A vocal solo, "The Hunter's Song" was rendered by Mrs. K. Bird accompanied by Miss L. Riggs. Hymn 54 was sung and the Mizpah benediction. Mrs. May invited all the ladies to stay and enjoy a cup of tea and a social half hour.

Your Hair Is No. 1 on Beauty List

Benita Granville drinks water with a lemon slice.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Many women who wouldn't miss the weekly shampoo for a king's ransom are negligent in the care of the tools they use to groom and burnish their curly locks. Combs and brushes bearing hirsute ravelings, not any too clean. The idea is rather unattractive, don't you think? The fastidious woman, fastidious in this respect, is the exception, not the rule, we regret to report. As for the members of the grumpy sex, a man is a busy bather, slips on a clean shirt every morning, but did you ever know him to wash his comb or brush? This may have something to do with bald pates. Drs. Morris Moore and Roy Kile of St. Louis, who discovered the germ that causes dandruff, recommend extreme cleanliness of hair and scalp.

Hairbrushes Harbor Germs

As old tooth brushes harbor germs, so may the bristles of a hairbrush contain bacteria that destroy the papillae from which hair shafts emerge. No doubt there are many undiscovered bugs that are responsible for falling tresses and scalp disorders. Play safe by using soap suds freely, keeping toilet articles clean. A famous scalp specialist has announced that combs and brushes should be used only once, then dipped in an antiseptic solution.

Dandruff is a menace because it forms a convenient tenement for germs, germesses and little germlets. It should be fought tooth and nail.

Your Daily Quota of Water

How many glasses of water one needs a day cannot be definitely determined. If liquids are taken with meals, if foods are eaten that have a high water content, one can get along with three or four glasses.

A large percentage of the body consists of fluids, so fluids are necessary for well being. Plenty of water taken each day will often change the character of a skin that is harsh and dry, bringing smoothness of surface and a refined texture.

Two glasses of water taken before breakfast have been known to correct stubborn cases of constipation.

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

SORE THROAT

A sore throat is a warning signal. The body gives us warning signals in a variety of ways, and if only we will pay attention to them and employ the proper measures, we can avoid a great many sicknesses or check diseases before they reach a serious stage.

We are in the sore throat season now, and a sore throat in a child, or an adult, should always be regarded as a symptom of acute infection. The first thing to do is for the sufferer to go to bed. Relaxation and rest are the first weapons to use in building up resistance to oncoming infection. A sore throat is commonly the beginning of an ordinary cold, although it is often caused by digestive disorders, but there is always the danger that it is the first stage of something as serious as scarlet fever or diphtheria.

When I was called to the phone to prescribe for a child with sore throat, I make a point of going to attend the child in person. I think I may have saved a few lives by doing this, for I found numerous cases of sore throat verging on dangerous ailments, and I was able to attend to them before they reached the crucial stage. If by using a tongue-depresser or teaspoon handle you have confirmed that your child has an inflamed throat, I advise you to consult a physician without delay.

In the meantime, an inflamed throat can be given relief by heat, and by that I mean hot drinks. Hot lemonade is good, so is hot tea, milk or anything else hot that the patient desires. As you apply heat within, it is a good idea to apply cold without—cold compresses placed on the neck, for example.

I'm not convinced that gargling does a great deal of good, though sometimes a hot salt or soda gargle seems to give some relief. But don't gargle too much, for you may irritate the already irritated throat, it is necessary for the sufferer to throw his head far back and allow the fluid to flow back as far as it can go without being swallowed. This can be painful and may be injurious.

It is also wise to be careful about throat swabbing. In fact, if any swabbing needs to be done, I would leave it to a doctor or experienced nurse. Some one who is inexpert at it can do a lot of harm, for the child or adult.
swabbing may injure the membranes and spread the infection. I'm inclined to believe swabbing should be avoided in nearly all cases, whether

The use of tobacco should be stopped, of course, while the adult's throat is sore. Rest of the throat, and of the body as a whole, is very desirable and necessary.

COMMUNIST LEAFLETS FOUND

Lisbon, Dec. 6 (AP)—Several packages of Communist leaflets printed in the Spanish language in the United States were reported today found aboard the American export liner Excalibur. It was reported that two unidentified members of the crew were arrested when they tried to hand the packages to the crew of the Spanish freighter Celta, also in the harbor here.

First Aid to Colds
Always have a box of Dominion C.B.Q. Tablets handy. Their triple action checks colds, fights the infection at its source. Quick and dependable. Be sure to look for the traffic policeman on the little red box.
STOP
DOMINION C.B.Q. TABLETS

O. S. D. Bazaar A Fine Success

Sale of Work and Program by Students Delight Visitors

Beautifully executed decorations made a lovely background for the annual bazaar held Thursday afternoon at the Ontario School for the Deaf with proceeds for the pupils' benefit fund and the Red Cross. Two pages in smart costumes opened the doors to the guests and a realistic snowman pointed the way to the auditorium. Along the corridors posters by the students illustrating the various features of the bazaar were greatly admired for their originality and the skill with which they were painted. They were the work of the art class of which Miss Cass is director and her students were also responsible for the decorations which gave the auditorium its Christmas air.

Masses of evergreens alternating with large candles, of cardboard, adorned the walls and at intervals plaques of angels with outstretched wings against a silvery background added to the beauty of the arrangements. The art students and their teacher were congratulated for the success of their efforts. Christmas decorations, cleverly designed, and gift wrapping paper, hand blocked, also done by art students were sold yesterday.

Senior girls, under the direction of Miss H. Waite had prepared a display of towels, aprons, toy dogs, bath sets, shopping bags which found ready sale while the junior girls in charge of Miss M. Leacock offered shopping bags, towels, pajamas, aprons and many other useful and dainty pieces.

Christmas cake baked by the boys who are taking the baking course taught by Mr. Fred Cook, was sold, the boys in charge wearing the smart white baker's costumes. Cookies and candy made by the girls of the household science department. These girls, under the leadership of their teacher, Miss K. Daly, served afternoon tea to the guests. The tea table was beautiful with its centrepiece of gleaming red candles, at each side of which was a Christmas tree in the form of a candle. Mrs. C. B. McGuire, Miss C. Ford, Mrs. A. Wannamaker, Miss C. Maloney, Miss F. Fitzgerald, and Miss L. Carroll poured tea. Miss E. Panter and Miss L. Burnside acted as hostesses. The stage was used as a tea room and was marked with large cathedral candles, the handiwork of the art class. Miss Daly's students were tea assistants and were very attentive to the wants of the guests serving dainty refreshments prepared by the class.

At intervals throughout the afternoon a program of dances and selections by the Rhythm band provided excellent entertainment for the guests. Pupils trained by Miss H. Keeler and costumed in colorful array, presented the intricate dances with ease and skill. The Rhythm band, which has been in charge of Mr. Alec Gordon, pleased the audience with their fine performance. Mr. Gordon acted as accompanist for the dances which were as follows:

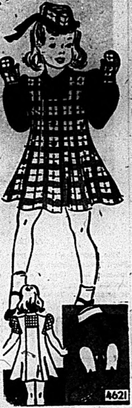
Junior dances—(a) Dance of the Christmas Doll; (b) Song of the Sower; (c) Baby Tap Dance; Band Selection— 3A; Vineyard Frolic — 2A; Tap Routines; Lullaby Ballet; Polka; Bo-Peep Dance—2A; Gavotte; Band Selection —3A; Tap Routines; Minuet; Gypsy Dance; Irish Lilt; Highland Schottische; Zorongo; Band Selection —3A; Tap Routines.

In welcoming the guests, Mr. W. J. Morrison, superintendent of the school, explained that the bazaar demonstrated the work being carried on in the classrooms as part of the school curriculum. The proceeds were to be contributed to the Red Cross and to the pupils' benefit fund. This fund was for the assistance of pupils whose parents found it impossible to send them tickets to come home for Christmas or even to provide Christmas gifts. Some children came from homes where conditions were so difficult that they lacked necessary clothing. These children were cared for, from the fund which was administered by a committee of teachers. There are 301 children in attendance this year, and two hundred of them will be at the school for Christmas.

A proportion of the results of the bazaar will be donated to Red Cross work in which the children take a keen interest. At present the boys and girls are intent on the collection of waste paper which they bring down to the city each week. The response of the citizens yesterday will be of great assistance in the worthwhile work that is carried on at the school.

Bright Ensemble For Kiddies

By ANNE ADAMS



Pattern 4621

Even the smallest Christmas "belle" will clap her hands for joy when she receives this delightful ensemble by Anne Adams, Pattern 4621, as a holiday gift. There are four pieces in all: a cap, a jumper, a blouse and mittens. The princess jumper is in easy, "dress-herself" front-buttoning style. See how the well-shaped straps are cut in one with the side panels. The pretty blouse may have long or short sleeves. You might attach the little mittens to a ribbon or cord so that they won't play hide-and-go-seek with your youngster. And do use a gay ribbon all around the edge of the Scotch cap, letting it form streamers behind. The jumpers, mittens and cap look bright and smart in a "hoot mon" plaid wool!

Pattern 4621 is available in children's sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 6, blouse, takes 1 1-4 yards 39-inch fabric; jumper, cap and mittens, 1 1-8 yards 54-inch fabric.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Send your order to The Ontario Intelligencer Pattern Department, 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, December 7
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

SWIFT MOVING events, of a sudden and surprising nature, may be expected from the rule of interesting planets. In all directions a more than lively tempo is assured, with travel, removal, all sorts of new interests and adventures, which may demand rearranged programs, fresh associates and environs. All pertaining to writings, publication, inventions, patents and correspondence should prosper.

Those whose birthday it is may not be surprised if the year unfolds some rather sudden, mysterious, surprising and bewildering experiences. Affairs should move swiftly and with dramatic thrill, possibly, in absolutely new and unforeseen directions. Travel and change, new associations and interests.

A child born on this day will have great versatility, talent, possibly to the point of genius. Perhaps with pen, brush, voice or drama, with skill in invention, discovery of psychic leading to some brilliant achievement.

CANON BUTLER DIES IN OTTAWA

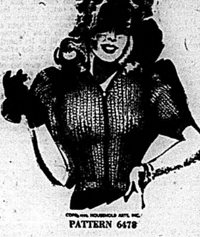
Ottawa, Dec. 6—(CP) — Canon William A. E. Butler, former rector of St. Matthias Anglican Church, died suddenly at his home yesterday. He was 66.

Canon Butler spent all his life in Ottawa diocese and in 1934 was made Canon of Christ Church Cathedral. He retired in 1936.

The ever welcome Donald Meek enlivens the fun in "Third Finger, Left Hand," featuring Myrna Loy and Melvyn Douglas, the romantic comedy coming next to the Belle.

Knit This Over One Week-End

Household Arts by Alice Brooks



COPR. 1940, HOUSEHOLD ARTS, INC.

Jiffy Knit Blouse Done on Large Needles

PATTERN 6478

Large knitting needles — jumbo wool and in just one week-end you can prove your skill as a jiffy-knitter by wearing this practical blouse. Pattern 6478 contains instructions for blouse and a plain skirt in sizes 12-14 and 16-18; illustrations of it and stitches; materials needed.

To obtain this pattern send twenty cents in coins (20c) (stamps cannot be accepted) to The Ontario Intelligencer Household Arts Dept., 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

Marriage Bells For Deanna Next Summer

Hollywood, Dec. 6.— (AP)— For Deanna Durbin, the girl who saved a studio, and Vaughn Paul, a young fellow whose ambition is to own one, it will be wedding bells next summer.

A year of speculation by gossip writers, who have reported them engaged and even married, was climaxed yesterday by the formal announcement from Deanna's mother, Mrs. James Durbin. Deanna delightedly showed friends a bright new diamond.

Since the young singing star began accepting unchaperoned dates two years ago, she has been seen at parties and previews with no one but Paul.

Both the actress, who was 19 two days ago, and the ambitious 25-year-old associate producer say it was "first love"—which incidentally was the title of one of Deanna's eight successful pictures. They met on the set of her first, "Three Smart Girls", four years ago.

Paul, Hollywood-born, was just out of the University of Southern California. He had spent his vacations working as a studio mail clerk. His one desire was to be a movie executive. He prevailed upon his father, Al Paul, Universal's general production manager, to give him a job as a second assistant director.

Deanna, born Edna Mae in Winnipeg, was a star and instant success in her debut. Experts say her voice was perfectly developed when she was 14. When "Three Smart Girls" was filmed, Universal was in the midst of financial troubles. The picture cost $300,000; netted over $1,500,000. Universal's troubles were ended and Deanna became its fair-haired favorite. Her salary since has climbed steadily from $250 to $5,000 a week.

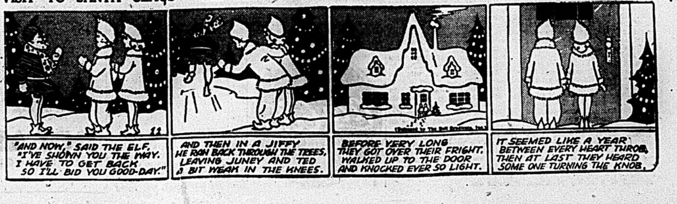
REPRESENTATIVE FORCED OUT

Honolulu, Dec. 5 (AP).—Eugene M. Cannon, president of the Latter Day Saints Mission at Tahiti, said on his arrival today that inhabitants of the French island possession "rose up wrathfully against the vacillating Vichy government Sept. 2" and forced Gov. Chastenet de Gery, Vichy representative, to resign.

It's the fleecy softness
PUREX Super Crepe TISSUE
IT'S FLEECY!
IT'S SOFT!
IT'S PUREX!
THE SAFER BATHROOM TISSUE

A VISIT TO SANTA CLAUS— The Knob Turns

By GEOFF HAYES



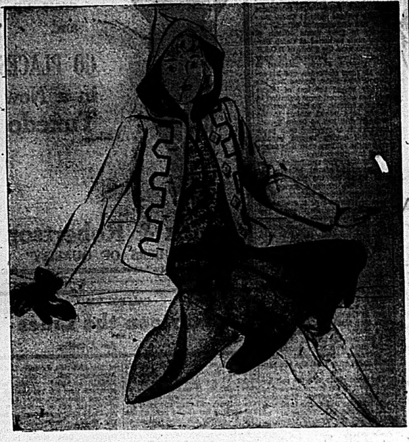
"AND NOW," SAID THE ELF, "I'VE SHOWN YOU THE WAY. I HAVE TO GET BACK SO I'LL BID YOU GOOD-DAY."
AND THEN IN A JIFFY HE RAN BACK THROUGH THE TREES, LEAVING JUNEY AND TED A BIT WEAK IN THE KNEES.
BEFORE VERY LONG THEY GOT OVER THEIR FRIGHT, WALKED UP TO THE DOOR AND KNOCKED EVER SO LIGHT.
IT SEEMED LIKE A YEAR BETWEEN EVERY HEART THROB, THEN AT LAST THEY HEARD SOME ONE TURNING THE KNOB.

- APPETIZING SCHOOL LUNCHES
- HOW TO STORE CLOTHES SAFELY
- DR. CLENDENING'S HEALTH ARTICLES

A PAGE FOR WOMEN

- SAFETY RULES IN THE HOME
- FASHION'S LATEST NEWS
- PLANS FOR INDIVIDUAL HOME

PERFECT FOR THE SNOW GIRL



By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE WINTER sports scene yearly grows more popular, colorful and generally exciting, as everybody, from Grandmother to Sister Sue, goes in for skiing, skating and building snow-men.

Designers have leaped nobly into the breach, and present this year winter sports clothes more dashing, colorful and becoming than ever before.

If you are one of those red-blooded gals who love the ice and snow, you'll go for the modern Eskimo outfit sketched below, as warm and practical as it is gay and young.

The young lady seated on the igloo (or something) wears a turtle-neck sweater and cadet-blue skirt, cut in the approved circular manner for skating. Her smart weskit is of Indian design, with colors rampant, and on top of it all she wears a hooded culak. Wool socks, mittens and skates of course complete the costume.

Safety Is Keynote of New Homes

By ELEANOR ROSS

TODAY homes are founded upon a feeling of security, and the up-to-date house of 1940 is planned and constructed with this idea in mind. The electric fuse plays an essential part in assuring security in the household, because it acts as a safety valve or buffer against dangerous overloads and short circuits in the electrical wiring.

The Danger

For instance, if a short circuit occurred on a lamp cord lying on the living room floor under a rug, and instead of being stopped immediately it continued to burn, under some circumstances, it could cause a complete conflagration.

The average well made fuse, approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories, costs only a few cents and under normal conditions it serves a household for a long time. Statistics disclose that the average American home uses less than two plug fuses per year.

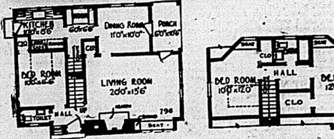
Easily Controlled

Architects are providing more convenience in the average household than ever before, and residences now being erected have modern fuse panels on the kitchen wall or some other accessible spot. After a fuse has done its job by blowing and thus eliminating a dangerous condition, it is simple and safe procedure to install a new one.

Many householders keep a spare supply of fuses on hand, but if no supply of fuses on hand, but if no extra fuses are in the home when needed they can always be obtained, day and night, at grocery, hardware and drug stores.

A Modern Nursery Story

National Plan Service, Inc., Chicago



The floor plans of this house are particularly suited to a growing family. The bedroom upstairs with the dormer window is large enough to accommodate a nurse and a young baby, the other upstairs room is ideal for one or two older children and the master bedroom downstairs is perfect for father and mother.

Fashion Defines Crisp Young Waistlines

● In a season of definitely adult, even blase elegance, one house has chosen to create a collection of Fresh youthfulness and casual simplicity.

The rich, lavish gold and jewel embroidery, siren and slinky black peekaboo gowns and clinging Renaissance dignity of other collections is ignored here in favor of school girl touches such as large decorated buttons, childish necklines, belts of wide red cotton tape tied in a knot at the waist, "delicious pink" fluffy tulle or chaste white and silver metal brocade for glamorous evening gowns.

There is a period influence, but it is an entirely new one — the wholesome and lovely charm of the young girls in the painting of the Dutch master, Vermeer. From this inspiration evening gowns have been designed featuring an overbodice (a tight fitting bodice resembling a jacket moulded to the waist and then flaring out into a peplum), and coats with full peasant skirts and close fitting tops fastened with large flat buttons.

• • •

Soft, drapable fabrics used in a decisive way make silhouettes with crisp young waistlines, short slender skirts for daytime and full billowing skirts for evening. Very often two fabrics are combined into one dress such as wool and velvet, lace and velvet, metal brocade and tulle, slipper satin and silk jersey.

A new approach to the shall-it-be-lower waistline problem is achieved here by marking the line at the natural waist in front, but bringing it down in a swooping curve to just above the hips at the back. Skirts are usually straight and gathered onto this line, giving gracious back fullness. Deep unpressed pleats are another favorite feature.

All-black, which invariably predominates in the wardrobe of an ultra smart woman is naturally foremost in this collection. Interest is often achieved by the use of dull and shiny black together. Notable is an evening gown of black lace with a very low and alluring decolletage. Over its full gathered skirt of lace is tied a full length overskirt (separate from the dress) of black velvet open down the front with deep turned-back fold at either side edged in a lace ruffle.

• • •

Earth brown and cocoa brown, sometimes combined with light clear colors such as turquoise blue, the gamut of the startling fuschia shades, the deep Victorian green of Scarlet O'Hara's portiere dress, a luminous cadet blue and navy blue are the colors most prominently used in the collection. Lames are used extensively but in light young colors such as "delicious pink", pale blue and white rather than in brilliant shades or heavy gold.

Soup Answers the School Lunch Problem

By BETSY NEWMAN

A GOOD hot, nourishing dish for the children's lunch is a necessity during school days. Soup is one answer and there are many others, including macaroni and cheese or macaroni with chipped beef, made after today's recipe. Oak Hill potatoes is another good dish.

Today's Menu

Macaroni with Chipped Beef
Celery and Apple Salad Jam
Whole or Cracked Wheat Bread and Butter
Milk

• • •

Macaroni with Chipped Beef

1-2 package macaroni, 1-4 lb. sliced dried beef, 4 tbs. butter, 3 tbsp. flour, Sprinkling of pepper or paprika, 2 cups milk, 1 cup croutons.

Cook macaroni according to directions found on package. Tear beef in pieces; melt butter in pan, add beef and cook until light brown. (This process may be omitted and the beef added directly to the white sauce after it has been torn in shreds). Take from fire and sprinkle flour and pepped over beef, blending well, then add milk gradually, stirring to keep from lumping, then put over low heat and cool until mixture thickens and boils. This may be baked for a short time with breadcrumbs sprinkled on top, or may be served on hot platter covered with croutons. Croutons are bread cubes fried in butter until brown, or toasted.

Oak Hill Potatoes

• • •

4 cold boiled potatoes, 6 hard-cooked eggs, Salt and pepper, 2 cups thin white sauce, 2 cups milk, 4 tbsp. flour, 1 tsp. salt, Dash of pepper or paprika.

Dice potatoes and eggs. Make white sauce by melting butter in pan, add flour, mix smooth, then gradually add milk, stirring constantly, cook until smooth and thick and season with salt and pepper, Pour over diced potatoes and eggs in baking dish, sprinkle crumbs on top and bake until crumbs are brown.

Carrot Marmalade

• • •

4 cups chopped carrots, water to cover, 2 lemons, 1 orange, 4 cups sugar.

Put carrots through food grinder and cook in water to cover until water is absorbed. Grind orange and lemon and add to carrots with sugar. Boil 1 1-2 hours, put in jelly glasses and seal.

Hypertension — After Forty

Facts You Should Know About High Blood Pressure

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Every generation has to learn anew about high blood pressure. It is a late generation, but just as much as the baby has to learn about walking, and the young people about love, the fifth and sixth decade comes to the personal individual problem of high blood pressure. And to each individual it comes as a distinct surprise: he may have heard about it a long way off—more and more frequently after he passes thirty, but it never comes home to him until one day he finds out he has it.

A Mild Ailment

The first reaction is likely to be extreme depression, followed by a frantic effort to find some treatment—something to do about it. But really it is a very mild disease in most instances — hardly a disease at all—a physiological condition — no more a disease than gray hair. And if it weren't for life insurance examinations and annual health audits, for which we hear so much praise, a man might carry his high blood pressure for twenty-five years and never know he had it — so symptomless and harmless it is. Nor is it rare—about 70 per cent of those over the age of fifty have some degree of it.

I have been reviewing some recent studies in the medical literature on high blood pressure, but before we come to them let us put down some of the fundamental facts. Blood pressure is just what the name implies — the pressure the blood is under in going through the blood vessels—usually we apply it to the pressure in the arteries which carry the blood from the heart to the extremities. The pressure in the veins—venous pressure—is not easily measured.

Two Forces

The arterial blood pressure is maintained by two forces — the contraction or beat of the heart and the pressure exerted by the elasticity of the artery wall. Compare it to the stream coming out of a rubber hose — the stream is maintained steady first by the water pressure from the main, and then by the pressure of the rubber hose on the fluid within. When the hose gets hardened — when the arteries get thickened in the aging process — the force from behind has to be higher to maintain a steady stream — and you have to have a steady stream of blood to maintain life. So the blood pressure goes up. The heart not only contracts (systole) but dilates (diastole) so you have two points of blood pressure — systolic and diastolic. In general, the normal blood pressure is 120 systolic, 80 diastolic.

The question of what is a normal pressure is one which is not entirely settled, despite all the figures that have been collected. If a man has an occasional blood pressure of 140 systolic, does that mean that he will later develop continuous high blood pressure — the state known as hypertension? This question has been studied by Dr. Edgar A. Hines, Jr., at the Mayo Clinic, in follow-up examinations of a number of cases. In general, it may be said that in people with a systolic pressure over 140 and a diastolic pressure over 85 at the age of forty, it means that in ten or twenty years, about 80 per cent have permanent high blood pressure — hypertension. But this, as you notice, takes ten or twenty years, and it may be another ten before symptoms or disability appear.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. M. C.— "(1) Please tell me something about adhesions. Can they be cured without an operation? (2) Does hard work and exercise aggravate them? I was operated on for appendicitis twenty-two years ago. (3) Would I help the pain by wearing a corset all the time to hold it tight?"

Answer — Adhesions, in spite of gossip to the contrary, are seldom the cause of abdominal pain. If they are really present, operation is about the worst thing that can be done for them. Operations make adhesions. Hard work and exercise are good for them. Wearing a corset may relieve the strain to some extent. The chances are if you are troubled with abdominal pain, twenty-two years after an appendicitis operation, you probably have something else.

Bag Clothes For Safety

By ALICE DENHOFF

NOWADAYS it's practically impossible to sneak past a closet shop without stopping to admire and envy; and no wonder. With the moving season just over, the shops are showing closet interiors that are the last word in beauty and efficiency. There are delightful though bewildering collections of bags, boxes, and ribbon straps, plus plenty of quilted chintz or satin to make up luxurious ensembles. Most of us have functional closets, but they can be attractive too.

Oiled Silk Bags

If you do not want matching bags for all purposes, nave a few oiled silk bags, which wear so well. Use these for garments that are to be stored away for some time. From time to time go over jars with hand vacuum or brush, put in oiled silk take a piece of paper tape with gummed edge and seal down bag.

Transparent hatboxes are a new innovation though many people are sticking to hat stands with oil silk or chintz covers. With the new hatboxes the contents can be seen at a glance but if shelf room is a premium in your clothes closet then get one of those metal hat stands and fasten it inside the closet door.

"Weather Conditioned"

If you have trouble in getting the children to pick up and put away their toys, try having a "slicking up" party. If everyone co-operates in the "party" there may be special "treat" for the crowd once a week. The mention of this treat is quite apt to start the slicking up process going, and the play space will be cleared in record time.

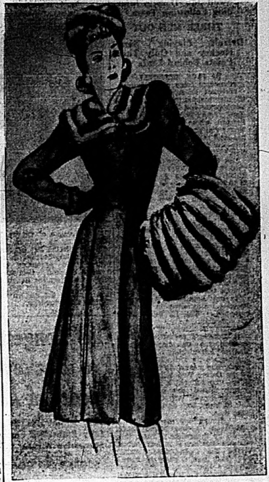
Instead of piling dinner plates atop each other in the china closet, stand them on edge in one of the new racks of rubber-covered wire. They occupy much less space and are less likely to get chipped in handling.

NEATNESS HINTS

● One collection in which many dresses were covered with museum piece hand beading or embroidery, an experimental note was struck by the padded "weather-conditioned" dress, a one-piece flaring street dress of black quilted satin with a zipper front, designed to be worn with a fur scarf and no coat on winter days.

A prophecy was seen in the use of Trompe L'oeil (fool the eye) embroidery, one simple navy blue wool street dress having a watch and chain with dangling fobs and red, white and blue ribbons embroidered so realistically on the shoulder that it looks as if it could be picked off.

Redcoat Brigade



By PRUNELLA WOOD

DRESSMAKER coats, lavishly fur-trimmed ,emerge in daring colors this season, as women seek gaiety in dress to combat the growing tragedy that shatters most of the world.

If you're tired of that old black coat, why not buy a red one, just for a change. You'll find it can be worn over a surprising number of dresses, and that it will make you feel young and gay.

The new winter coats show fitted lines, that close-to-the-ribs look, broad shoulders and slim lines with concealed skirt fulness.

Muffs, the bigger the better, are everywhere, replacing fur trimming on sleeves.

Coats have a more tailored air, and furs are luxurious.

The smart coat sketched is of a light, bright scarlet velours, with a square collar and huge muff of Australian opossum. The lines are straight and severely tailored, fitted about the ribs slightly flared as to skirt.

The double-breasted fastening is new and has a slightly military flavor. And the muff will prove a bulwark against wintry winds, as well as a striking finishing touch to a striking winter outfit.

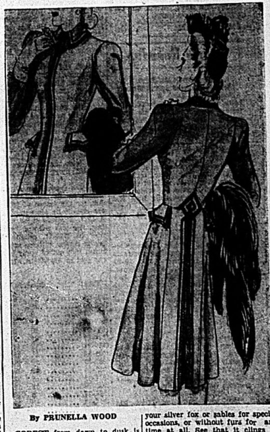
Australian opossum is a flattering, long-wearing fur, that is finding growing favor on the winter coat scene.

You'll find it fun to step out of your black winter uniform for a change, and go in for color in a big way. These days it's smart to join the red-coats.

● Sophisticated elegance is the keynote of all this season's showings. Conscious and deliberate lavishness, prompted by woman's instinct to get a lift from beautiful and elaborate clothes in troubled times, has produced costumes that are miracles of craftsmanship and lovely detail.

Two truths emerge from the fashion picture these collections paint. This will be a year for a clothes budget, not for budget clothes. Second, attics will have to come back, for no woman will ever throw such dresses away.

News in Braid



By PRUNELLA WOOD

CORECT from dawn to dusk is the new braid-trimmed coat of black or navy, with lines as crisp as a November morning, courage as high as the R.A.F. Wear it with your silver fox or sables for special occasions, or without furs for any time at all. See that it clings to your ribs and that its skirt has the correct and artful flare. You'll find it the five-star feature of your wardrobe.

Rangers, Riddled by Injuries, Defeat Canadiens 3-2 While Red Wings Win in Chicago 5-1

Frankie Boucher Doing Swell Job Despite Injury Jinx Following Team

THREE MEN OUT

Detroit Playing Smart Hockey and Only Three Points Behind Leafs

By JACK MITCHELL,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Foremost among candidates for the man making the best of a tough assignment—and handling it ably—stands Frank Boucher of New York Rangers, whose task of filling the managerial shoes of Lester Patrick has been made no easier by the injury-jinx riddling the ranks of his club.

The famous centre of the Boucher-Bun Cook-Bill Cook line, which scored more than 500 goals in 10 National Hockey League years with the Rangers, succeeded his former mentor to the helm this season when Patrick decided to stick to "front-office" duties. That he has handled the job without criticism is a tribute in itself.

For one thing, the standard of Ranger teams set by Patrick is a high one to live up to and that standard was made even higher when the New York Club started the season with the same roster that won the Stanley Cup last time. Injuries too have struck hard and often but Boucher still has the Rangers rolling along in their accustomed position for this time of the campaign.

Despite the absence of three key men, Boucher's reshuffled line-up defeated the Canadidens 3-2 in Montreal last night to climb into a fourth-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks, who meanwhile were beaten 5-1 by Detroit Red Wings. Dutch Hiller, who suffered a gashed foot recently missed the game along with ice-general Art Coulter and Alex Shibicky, both on the shelf for some time.

Always Slow Starting

Although Toronto Maple Leafs are off by themselves in front, the Rangers now are only four points behind the second-place Detroit team and have a game in hand. Always a slow starting club, they are in almost the identical position of last season before a mid-year drive saw them finish only a point out of first place.

The Colville brothers, Neil and Mac, bore the brunt of the battle for the Rangers. Both combined to help Lynn Patrick tie the count at 1-1 after Canadiens opened the scoring and then Mac fed Neil a pass that put New York in front. Phil Watson helped Bryan Hextall score the winning counter in the final frame after Montreal had knotted the battle again.

The Canadiens opened the scoring at 2:30 of the initial frame when Charlie Sands sent Murph Chamberlain in alone on Goalie Dave Kerr but Rangers took a 2-1 lead before the end of the period. Montreal got its second goal by rookie Jack Adams in the middle period of the game, watched by a slim crowd of about 5,000.

At Chicago, in the only other game, Detroit ran up three goals in the opening session to trounce the Black Hawks before a crowd of 7,567. Beaten only by Toronto this season, the Red Wings got the tallies on unassisted forays by Eddie Wares, Jimmy Orlando and Alex Motter in that order.

In the second period, the Red Wings made it 4-0 when Mud Bruneteau took passes from Syd Howe and Sid Abel to beat Goalie Paul Goodman easily. A goal by George Allen in the final frame while Detroit was shorthanded averted a shutout but Howe got this one back before the game ended.

defeat by Detroit.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—Joe Louis will train in a New York gym for the first time when he begins work for Red Burman. Previously he always has gone to New Jersey or nearby fight camps.

Our research department has been at it again.... It has discovered that the Smiths had it all over the Browns, Whites, etc., on major college elevens...... There were 23 Smiths; 13 Browns, six Whites, five Greens, two Grays, one Blue and one Black...... P.S. Also, there were two Smythes, both at Amherst.

Quick Look Around

Giants and Yanks haven't renewed their broadcasting contracts yet and it's no better than 50-50 that they will...... Petey Sarron, former featherweight champ, has been called to the colors and leaves with his regiment for a Florida camp...... Chicago is the new winter headquarters for old Jack Johnson, the former heavyweight champion.

Today's Guest Star

Lynn C. Doyle, Philadelphia, Even Bulletin: "Sports interests quickly shifted from navy's conquest to the annual baseball meeting...... Just another reverse play—from the sea to Atlanta"

My, my, how Joe Louis has branched out.... First he takes the political stump.... Now he'll spread culture as a speaker before the Junior Book Fair of New England ......But the Messrs. Al McCoy., Red Burman, et cet mustn't let that fool them.

IN HOSPITAL

Dave Sprague of Ottawa Rough Riders is in an Ottawa hospital with an infected left leg resulting from an injury received in a game with Toronto Argonauts Oct. 19. Sprague scored Ottawa's lone touchdown when the Rough Riders defeated Balmy Beach 8-2 in the first game of the eastern Canada football championships.

Has Longest Pro Hockey Record of All

Hooley Smith Has Successfully Embarked on 17th Successive N.H.L. Season

SCORED 209 GOALS

If Reginald J. 'Hooley" Smith completes the present National League season with New York Americans, as well as he might do, he will have set an all-time record for longevity. For Smith is now in his seventeenth season, longer than any professional player ever performed before. He has already shaded the longevity record of Aurel Joliat, who played sixteen seasons with Montreal Canadiens.

There are one or two similarities in the records of Smith and Joliat. One is that both came into the big tent directly from amateur teams, and made good.

Another is that neither ever played for minor league teams. Joliat hung up his skates when he was through. Smith declares he will do the same.

* * *

Not only has Smith set, already, a modern durability record in the National Hockey League. He will be shooting at other records. One of these is participation in his thirteenth play-off series, a record which he started in 1925-26 with Ottawa, and the 300-goal mark, in league games, which he should accomplish handily, for in his long career to date he has scored 198 goals in league play alone. He is over the 200-mark in league and play-off goals combined.

Another mark which Sfith likely will pass, even though not aiming that way, is the 1,000 minute total for penalties. He has served 999 minutes already in league games. So his advent into the 1,000 minute division should not take long.

* * *

Smith the durable is the last of the famous "3-S" line that was a feature of Montreal Maroons. Nels Stewart, compiling over 500 points in his hockey lifetime, has retired from the game, this time permanently. He was lured back last campaign, in mid-season, to add six goals to his record, but now he is through. Babe Siebert was drowned over a year ago. But Smith carries on, playing with his fourth N. H. L. team, as he wears the star-spangled livery of Americans.

* * *

He was fresh from Olympic triumphs as he joined the Ottawa club, for the season of 1924-25. He was bought by Maroons for $22,500 in 1927, a record price up to that time. He was released by Maroons prior to 1926-27, caught on with Boston Bruins, suffered injury which forced him out of many games and was sold to Americans. His record:

Year:	Goals	Ass.	Pts.	Pen. in Min.
1924-25	10	3	13	81
1925-26	16	9	25	53
1926-27	9	6	15	125
1927-28	14	5	19	72
1928-29	10	9	19	120
1929-30	21	9	30	83
1930-31	12	14	26	68
1931-32	11	33	44	49
1932-33	20	21	41	66
1933-34	18	19	37	58
1934-35	5	22	27	41
1935-36	19	19	38	75
1936-37	8	10	18	36
1937-38	10	10	20	23
1938-39	8	11	19	18
1939-40	7	8	15	31
TOTAL	198	208	406	999
PLAY OFFS ...	11	8	19	109
TOTALS	209	216	425	1108

CARDS PITCHER, BOB BOWMAN GOES TO N.Y. GIANTS

Billy Terry Paid $50,000 for Hurler and Two Other Deals in Making

MAY SELL DANNING

Two Sent to Hollywood for Option on Shortstop With That Club

Atlanta, Dec. 6 —(AP)— Don't think Larry MacPhail's flatbush frolics are going unnoticed in Manhattan.

Brooklyn's president caught the spotlight here at the 39th annual minor league convention when he opened his Dodger moneybags for player talent. But today it was the New York Giants' turn to rattle the blue chips.

In a sudden move last night, they dropped an estimated $50,000 in the bucket to buy pitcher Bob Bowman from St. Louis Cardinals—and Giant officials hinted manager Bill Terry was down to the shirt-sleeve stage on a couple of other sizeable deals.

While Terry remained inaccessible in his hotel room, lobby speculation was pegged on two possibilities:—

1. That the Giants would seek to send catcher Harry Danning to Chicago Cubs in exchange for outfielder Hank Leiber and a pitcher —possibly Claude Passeau.

2 That the Giants would swap infielder Nick Witek for Cincinnati's fastball pitcher, Whitey Moore.

There was no indication that either deal would materialize, and some sources predicted Terry would take no final action until the Major League conclave in Chicago next week.

Complete Two Deals

The Giants completed two deals early today with Minor League clubs. One sends pitcher Harold Vandenberg to Rochester of the International League in what may have been an outgrowth of New York's trading with Cardinals.

In the other deal, Giants sent both outfielder John Dickshot and pitcher Roy Joiner from the Jersey City farm to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League for an option on Joe Hoover, a shortstop, who will remain at Hollywood during the 1941 season.

Brooklyn, which gave catcher Gus Mancuso, a rookie pitcher and better than $65,000 cash for catcher Mickey Owen of the Cardinals, was said to be still in a dickering mood but with no immediate trade on the fire.

In the American League the only trade talk came from the direction of Washington Senators who were mildly interested in pitcher Cletus (Boots) Poffenberger, eccentric former Dodger, who won 26 games for Nashville in the Southern Association last summer.

Billy Myer was renamed to manage the Kansas City club of the American Association.

BOWLING SCORES

Recreation Alleys

Ladies' League

The Stooges, 2 Points—D. Rowbotham, 480; H. Richardson, 304; M. Rowbotham, 323; O, Fraleck, 449; N. Corneal, 447. Total 2003.

Lockermakers, 2 Points—B. Marsh 361; C. Burgers, 341; M. Anderson, 397; O. Wilson, 417; J. Blaind, 478. Total 1994.

Corbins, 3 Points — B. Martin, 466; M. Jenkinson, 445; A. Hughes, 509; B. Edison, 456; O. Haslip, 367. Total 2245.

C.D.S., 1 Point—M. Cafman, 339; G. Ervine, 325; E. Adams, 492; F. Fletcher, 412; H. Smith, 358. Total 1962.

Corby, 3 Points—E. Carmichael, 620; P. Downey, 406; R. Shepherd, 324; P. Sharpe, 568; J. Doe, 237. Total 2201.

South Wind, 1 Point—I. Colden, 479; H. Richardson, 425; D. Strad, 386; J. Carter, 237; C. Dracup, 343. Total 1871.

C.N.R. League

Wreckers, 0 Points — W. White, 429; F. Chapman, 589; B. Theobold, 479; J. Graham, 466; G. Donohue, 585. Total 2528.

Signals, 4 Points—R. Claney, 498; C. Meens, 542; F. Hitchison, 586; H. Bawden, 715; W. Brown, 455. Total 2796.

Major "A"

Meade Johnston, 2 Points — C. Jeffery, 613; C, Bryant, 556; W. Dennis, 499; E. Colbourne, 541; R. Miles, 587. Total 2916.

Deacon Sportwear, 2 Points—D. Adams, 564; J. Semark, 295; J. Callaghan, 512; D. Tobe, 365; T. Holway, 684; D. Gariepy, 428. Total 2886.

Belleville Golf, 3 Points — P. Drumm, 644; E. Barlow, 702; T. Hughes, 672; A. Little, 748; J. Legault, 612. Total 3432.

Tip Top, 1 Point — J. Bennett, 588; J. Fitzpatrick, 543; N. Hallam, 492; H. Morris, 612; N. Wilbur, 697. Total 3211.

Sargent, 0 Points — G. Darvell, 543; H. Ryan, 517; A. Whalen, 592; C. Shappee, 492; G. Anderson, 624. Total 2766.

Corby, 4 Points — S. Robinson, 534; R. Arnott, 777; W. Jackson, 578; W. Kiser, 674; H. Robinson, 558. Total 3241.

He didnt!

He got sox, ties, shirts and a lot of doo-dads—but he didn't get the one gift every man hopes to get—a ROLLS RAZOR.

He did!

He got the A No. 1 Christmas Gift for a man—the life-long shaving instrument that gives a man all-day FACE-FRESHNESS—a ROLLS RAZOR.

THE PERFECT XMAS GIFT TO ALL MEN OF ALL AGES

6.95 AND UP

Every Soldier Should Get One

● Give a self-stropping, self-honing ROLLS RAZOR to that man of yours in the army. It's complete! No blades to buy! Almost an essential to the man on active service! 1-40

ROLLS RAZOR

STROPS ITSELF — HONES ITSELF — PAYS FOR ITSELF

NIGHT OF UPSETS REGISTERED IN AMERICAN LOOP

Springfield Indians Defeated for Second Straight Time 4-3

BISONS WIN ONE

Second-Place Club in the Eastern Division Taken by Tailenders of Western Section

(By The Canadian Press)

It would seem stretching things a little to term two straight losses a "losing streak"—but not in the case of Springfield Indians. In two games, the Indians have suffered as many defeats as they previously had in 15 American Hockey League starts.

The third-place Hershey Bears of the loop's western section defeated Eddie Shore's team 4-3 last night for Springfield's second loss in as many games. The result still left the Indians with a clear margin of five points at the top of the eastern section standing, however.

It was a night of upsets. In two other games, the last place Buffalo Bisons of the western section turned in a 5-1 victory over New Haven Eagles, second-place club in the eastern section, and the cellar-dwelling Providence Reds of the eastern division snapped a four-game losing streak to whip Indianapolis Capitals 4-1.

At Hershey, a goal by Terry Reardon with about three minutes remaining in the final session broke a 3-3 deadlock and gave the Bears the victory over Springfield. Bruce and McCreavy both aided in the tally, Reardon's second of the game.

Indians Go Ahead

The teams previously had come out of each period all square. Howard Mackie scored in the first minute of the opening period for Hershey, but Springfield went ahead on counters by Norm Schultz and Rhys Thomson, only to have Harry Frost even the count. In the second frame Fred Thurier scored for Springfield and Reardon bagged his first goal for Hershey.

New Haven missed a chance to close in on the Indians at Buffalo meanwhile. The Bisons sprang into a 2-0 lead in the second period on goals by Lorin Mercer and Jack Toupin, both coming on perfect passes of Chuck Shannon, and increased it on Morrie Rimstad's counter in the third frame.

After Tony Graboski had bagged the Eagles' only goal at 13:02 of the final frame, Buffalo stretched their lead on a brace of tallies within 14 seconds. Jack Toupin got the first and Tony Hemmerling the other.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Syd Howe, veteran Detroit winger, moved into a tie with Bryan Hextall of New York Rangers for second place among the National Hockey League's individual point-scorers last night. Howe picked up a goal and an assist as Detroit defeated Chicago, 5-1, while Hextall tallied once in the Rangers' 3-2 win over Montreal Canadiens, both gaining on the leading Bill Cowley of Boston when the Bruins were idle. Phil Watson of Rangers gained an assist to hold fourth place while George Allen, Chicago, scored a goal to move into a six-way tie for the next position.

The Leaders	G.	A.	Pts.
Cowley, Boston	5	10	15
Hextall, Rangers	6	7	13
Howe, Detroit	5	8	13
Watson, Rangers	3	9	12
Goldup, Toronto	7	3	10
Drillon, Toronto	6	4	10
R. Conacher, Boston ..	6	4	10
Allen, Chicago	6	4	10
Apps, Toronto	5	5	10
Wiseman, Boston	5	5	10

N.H.L. Stars

(By The Canadian Press)

Neil and Mac Colville, Rangers, who picked up two points in the Rangers' 3-2 victory over Canadiens, Neil getting a goal and an assist and brother Mac bagging two assists.

Jack Adams, Canadiens, who got one of his team's goals in their loss to Rangers in Montreal and was brilliant defensively.

Syd Howe, Detroit, who scored one goal and aided in another as the Red Wings walloped Chicago Black Hawks, 5-1.

George Allen, Chicago, whose third-period goal averted a shutout against the Black Hawks in their

Hockey Scores

National League

Detroit 5; Chicago 1.
Rangers 3; Canadiens 2.

American League

Buffalo 5; New Haven 1.
Providence 4; Indianapolis 1.
Hershey 4; Springfield 3.

American Association

St. Paul 4; Minneapolis 3.
Kansas City 3; Tulsa 1.

Cape Breton Senior

Glace Bay 5; Sydney 3.

Manitoba Junior

Winnipeg Rangers 4; Portage La Prairie 3.

Saskatchewan Senior

Saskatoon 6; Moose Jaw 6.

NEW GAME IS DEVELOPED FOR CANADA'S ARMY

Known as "Borden Ball" the Game is Exceedingly Fast Throughout

USE RUGBY BALL

Borden Ball, a new game which has been successfully introduced among various units at Camp Borden, was demonstrated officially recently to forty sports officers of army units stationed at Camp Borden who were the guests of R.C.A.F. sports officers. Developed by Andy Ley, Y.M.C.A. director attached to the air force at Borden, and his assistant Glen Ruby, Borden Ball has already passed the test of league and has attracted some attention in Toronto schools. To date, however, it has been played mainly in the R.C.A.F. drill hall at Camp Borden although it is regarded as a game that will quickly become popular among the soldiers once it is introduced in other centres.

Exceedingly fast and full of action the game is played between six man teams but the pace requires frequent replacements during the two fifteen minute periods. Each team is composed of a goalie, two defencemen and three forwards. The field or floor surface is approximately the size of a standard hockey rink, and the goals placed at each end, within a five yard semi-circular crease, are similar to hockey and lacrosse goals. The ball used is a standard rugby football which is passed from one player to another until it is thrown at the goal from outside the crease.

Rules Are Simple.

Rules are kept simple and boil down to the "three three's." (1) No more than three steps may be taken by a player carrying the ball. (2) The ball may not be held by a player for more than three seconds. (3) A defensive player must remain three yards away from the ball carrier.

The game starts with the ball being thrown to the centre forward of one team by the referee. The other team gets the ball at the beginning of the second half. There are no offsides but the team in possession loses the ball for violation of the 'three three's", on an incomplete pass or if the ball goes out of bounds. Penalty shots are given if a defensive player does not maintain a three yard distance from the ball carrier or if a defensive player steps inside of the crease. If an offensive player steps within the crease he loses possession of the ball and the goal, if scored, is cancelled.

Andy Ley and Glen Ruby, the Y.M.C.A. men attached to the R. C. A. F. at Camp Borden, are credited with developing the game under the name of Olympic Handball and have successfully operated a league among the airmen, as part of their work in sports activities. As Borden Ball, the game is expected to spread very quickly in the C.A.S.F. following its official introduction to the sports officers.

Little Benny's Note Book

I came home from school and started to throw my books in the house, and there were noises in the front room like ladies playing bridge.

Wich they were including ma, and I peeked in, thinking, Hay, heck.

Meaning a box of candy about half empty already and looking like the box I bought to take a present to Puds Simkins's berthday party tomorrow, and I said, Hay, ma, ma, can you come out here in the hall a minute for a second?

Now Benny, never mind, it's quite all right, I'm playing bridge, I'll see you later, ma said.

Sounding gilty, and I ran up stairs 3 at a time to my room and sure enough the box of candy wasn't there, and I ran down again saying, Hay ma, cant you come out just a half a second, I want to see you.

Oh deer, excuse me, ladies, just a moment, I'm afraid he has something on his mind, ma said.

And she came out and I said, Holey smokes, ma, you're using up Puds's present, and the party is tomorrow night, jimminy Chrissmas ma, G roozalem, that's a heck of a note.

Shh, shh, not so loud, what will the ladies think? ma said, and I said, Well good night, ma, what will Puds Simkins think? I cant go and hand him a half a box of candy and maybe less, I said.

Shh, dont shout, I had to have the bridge game here very unexpectedly and I didn't have a thing to offer the ladies, ma said. You can get Puds another box, there's a half a doller up on my dressing table, you can use that, now shh, she said.

And she went, saying, Sorry for the interruption, ladies, I think I pass, yes, pass, and I went up and got the 50 cents and bought Puds a swell box of mix carmels for 40, and I'm still thinking up good arguments to argue ma into leaving me keep the other 10.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By the Associated Press)

New Haven, Conn.—Henry Morenz, 187, New York, knocked out Phil Brubaker, 190, Van Nuys, Calif. (2).

Waterbury, Conn.—Doug Marsh, 144, Montreal outpointed Francesco Montanari, 146 1-2, Italy (8).

Busy Holidays Ahead . . .

Time to dress up and

GO PLACES in a New Tuxedo

Quick & Robertson

"CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY"

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with
Ken J. Colling

See where the roof of the old Cobourg band-box rink collapsed under the weight of the recent snows. Maybe it was a blessing in disguise and fortunately no person was injured, although the manager was making ice at the time of the cave-in. Maybe the good citizens of Cobourg will rise to the occasion and erect a more modern rink next year. However, in the meantime it looks as though the Cobourg pucksters may have to utilise the Port Hope rink for their O.H.A. campaign. The Cobourg juniors, sponsored by the Cobourg Kinsmen Club are grouped with the Belleville kids this year and speaking of the Holway-coached sextette we hear that President Bill Cook is quite concerned about the future of his squad. It seems that students at the Belleville Collegiate are going in for Interscholastic puck chasing in a big way this season and will not be associated with junior O.H.A. activities. On the other hand Prexy Cook was promised assistance from the R.C.A.F., as Group Captain T. A. Lawrence agreed to let all teen age players under his command play junior "B" hockey in Belleville. Coach Holway hopes there are a trio of players equal to Jimmie Gathercol of last year's Flyer seniors, who was but 18 years of age.

The Peterboro Hockey Club met the other night and the meeting was interspersed with good and bad news alike. For instance Coach Frank Buckland, who has done much towards the success of the puck-chasing business in the Lift-Lock City for the past few years, announced his retirement from the game as he says he hasn't the time to devote to hockey. Hockey in this district lost much when Frank Buckland passed into retirement. However, Frank suggested that Jim Ellis, veteran Peterboro defenceman, be named in his stead. Ellis was always a steadying influence with the Petes and is an ardent student of the game. His coaching qualities will have to be proven, however. Big burly Archie Weir was again named coach of the Peterboro juniors for 1941. Incidentally the O.H.A. ruled that Drake Jopling and Don Crowe, who were transferred by the C.G.E. to Toronto to further their engineering course, would be eligible to play for the Liftlock seniors this season. Of course we imagine if Crowe and Jopling play in Peterboro, they will not be permitted even mercantile rights in Toronto.

Down Birmingham, Alabama way 16-year-old Luverene Wise has been adding dash and color to the local high school football squad for the past two years. Actually Luverene has been going in as a substitute to place-kick and pitch forward passes for converts and with surprising success. Miss Wise liked it—the boys like it, and—now it can be told—so did the coaches, as can be proven in the fact that Miss Wise was given honorable mention as quarterback when the coaches selected their all-state secondary school team recently. It's too bad Coach Eddie Schrieder didn't have a lassie at the B.C.I. with such football qualities, he could have surely used her in Bowmanville this year.

Do you remember when the lure of cash proved too much for the time-honored agreement against broadcasting among New York's three major league baseball clubs two years ago today when a sponsor's bid, reported to be $75,000 caused Larry MacPhail to abrogate the 14-year pact and announce that Brooklyn Dodgers would broadcast all their games, at home and away, for the next two seasons.

Taking full advantage of the weather conditions, the executive of the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association will convene at the Y.M.C.A. on Monday evening next, at which time the registration of all teen aged boys, under the age of 18 years, will be received. Teen aged lads desirous of playing hockey should either attend Monday night's meeting or contact Secretary Dick Beare in the meantime as it is the desire of the Association to endeavour opening their schedule one week from tonight. "We have everything in readiness, uniforms, equipment and all that is needed is to have the boys of the community co-operate in the filing of registrations to assure the earliest opening of hockey ever recorded in Belleville," stated President Ted Schwab today as he pointed out there would only be a limited time in which registrations would be accepted. (Ed note to B.C.I. senior Interscholastic pucksters—Here's an opportunity to try out your material for that good hockey team you boys anticipate next February.")

Coach Bun Cook, of the Providence Reds, says he's in favour of the old "cow bell" system for referees rather than the present-day "traffic cop" whistle method. We're inclined to agree with Mr. Cook and for more reasons than one. First the whistle business is a Quebec innovation and secondly when excitement runs high and cheering is lusty, neither the fans nor the players can hear the "peep peep" of a tin whistle. In the old days when O.H.A. referees put on a "Swiss bell ringing act" to halt plays or restore order, every person in the rink could hear the loud tolling of the bell even above the din and the roar of an excited crowd. When excitement runs high and the cheering of thousands of voices rings through the rink rafters we have seen innumerable occasions when present-day referees have sounded their whistles, but to no avail as the shrill peep of a tin whistle could not be heard above the tumult of the crowd. Therefore we agree with Coach Bun Cook and say—"give us the old-fashioned bell-ringing referee."

Sport Slants — Paul (Little Poison) Waner was given his outright release from the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday .... Waner ammassed lifetime batting average of .343 in his 15 years with the Buccaneers.... With so much winter weather stabbing us in the face, there isn't much talk of the return game between Balmy Beach and Ottawa Saturday.. Snow and cold weather has forced both the Balmies and the Ottawa "toughies" indoors for practice this week ....Only 15 000 seats will be available to the public for the Rose Bowl game, despite the fact the Pasadena grid bowl holds 90,000 souls.... The remainder of the seats are given over to the two colleges participating, Nebraska and Stanford.... It is estimated that over 10,000 fans will accompany the Huskies from the middle west.... Additional note to ambitious teen aged lads—"get your registration for juvenile hockey in early, fellows."

N.H.L. Leaders

(By The Canadian Press)

Standing—Toronto, won 9, lost 2, drawn 0, points 18.

Points—Cowley, Boston, 5 goals, 10 assists, 15 points.

Goals—Goldup, Toronto, 7.

Assists—Cowley, Boston, 10.

Penalties—Orlando, Detroit, 24 minutes.

Shutouts — Mowers, Detroit; Broda, Toronto; Brimsek, Boston; Goodman, Chicago and Robertson, Americans, 1 each.

Thousands of Little Salesmen at Your Service

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER WANT AD RATES

Minimum Charge for the first twenty words, per insertion	30c
Two Insertions	60c
Three Insertions	75c
Over Twenty Word, 1½c per word per insertion.
Box number	extra 10c

Copy accepted until 12.30 noon on day of publication.

Telephone 99.

AUTO FINANCE

AUTO LOANS REFINANCING

On terms and at rates which you will find suitable to your requirements. Your car is a quick and gilt-edge asset for borrowing. Only the owner signs. Deal with confidence with the largest company of its kind in Canada.

D. H. MARSHALL
Bridge St. E. Phone 1873
Representing
CAMPBELL AUTO FINANCE
Windsor. Hamilton. Toronto. Ottawa

Business Directory

W. A. WATSON
ARCHITECT
Kresge Building.
(Formerly 28 Bridge Street E.)
N15-tf

MINERAL BATHS

MINERAL BATHS AND MASSAGE The finest treatment for Neuritis, Arthritis, Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Colds, etc. Separate parlors for Ladies and Gentlemen. Graduate Nurse. Registered Masseur. Phone 1132. "THE HEALTH INSTITUTE" 231 William St. Belleville

CHIROPRACTOR

E. A. WYATT, Ph.C., Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist Mineral Fume Baths with oil and alcohol rub; coagulation of tonsils. Radioclast examination, manipulative surgery and suction treatment for sinus conditions. 288 Coleman St., Belleville. Phone 900. Lady attendant.

H. R. and VERA E. PITCHER, Sp.C. Chiropractors, and Drugless Therapists, Adjustments, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment. Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations. Coagulation of Tonsils and Electrical Treatments. 421½ Bridge St. East, Belleville, Ont. Phone 1274.

INSURANCE

The thought of Fire loses half its Terrors when you're protected with our Fire Insurance.

SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
LIFE and FIRE INSURANCE
249½ Front St. Phone 492

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
273 Front St. Phone 1164W

Need Money for Christmas?

If you need money for the Christmas Season . . . and you want it quickly . . . remember we loan on Household effects or Automobiles.

QUINTE FINANCE
and
SECURITIES LIMITED
168 Front St. Phone 168
BELLEVILLE

Screen Clock

BELLE THEATRE TIMES
NORTHWEST MOUNTED POLICE
Gary Cooper, Madeleine Carroll, Robert Preston
2.45 — 7.00 — 9.23

McCARTHY THEATRE TIMES
KIT CARSON
Jon Hall — Lynn Bari
3.00 — 7.30 — 9.40

CAPITOL THEATRE TIMES
COLORADO
Roy Rogers, George (Gabby) Hayes
7.30 — 10.15
CHARLIE CHAN IN PANAMA
Sidney Toler, Jean Rogers
8.50

WANTED GIRL for Bookkeeping Position

Having complete course in Bookkeeping and Stenography. Experience not necessary. Permanent position. Applications kept strictly confidential. Employment to commence January 1st. Immediate request for interviews. Our staff knows of this advertisement.

WRITE: BOX "Y"
Ontario Intelligencer.

WANTED

EXPERIENCED MAID FOR GENERAL housework. References required. Apply Mrs. G. A. Freeman, 230 E. Bridge St. D6-2t

BOARD AND ROOM FOR YOUNG married couple with 7 months' old child. Write Box 3, Ontario Intelligencer. D6

EXPERIENCED SERVICE STATION attendant. Write stating age and experience to Box K, Ontario Intelligencer. D6-2t

AT ONCE, GIRL FOR GENERAL housework. Phone 2535W or call between 7 and 8 p.m. at 201 Charles St. D6-2t

3 OR 4 ROOM APARTMENT FURNISHED near Albert College. Phone 530. D5-2t

TWO UNFURNISHED OR PARTLY furnished rooms, preferably heated, by permanent tenant in business. Write Box 11, Ontario Intelligencer. D4-3t

LOST

DOG—BLACK TERRIER, TINY white spot on breast. Answers to "Nigger." Reward. Phone J. E. DeVault, 16 W. Bridge St. D6

Bancroft

Bancroft, Dec. 6—Mr. E. W. Watson, of Harcourt, was operated on for appendicitis in the Red Cross Hospital Bancroft, Monday. Dr. S. S. Lumb was the attending surgeon.

Dr. Sadler of Combermere, made a professional call in Bancroft Monday afternoon.

The Canadian National Railways operated a snowplough into Bancroft Monday evening on their branch line from Trenton. This is much earlier than in other years.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Walker were honoured with a miscellaneous shower on Monday evening by the members of St. John's Anglican Church. The evening was spent in games following which was served a very tasty lunch. Mrs. Walker thanked her many friends for the lovely gifts that had been presented to her.

Warden J. L. Churcher for Hastings County along with the Reeves from the northern part of the county motored to Belleville on Tuesday of this week to attend the County Council.

The temperature in Bancroft registered 23 below zero Tuesday morning as reported from Mr. H. M. Price and the Forestry Branch, two official authorities.

Mr. William Moxam a resident of Bancroft Village passed away at his home early Tuesday morning following a lengthy illness.

Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Lumb motored to Belleville Wednesday morning. Dr. Lumb, Reeve of the village will attend the County Council session.

William McKenzie, a resident of Paudash Lake, had the misfortune of having his car take fire Monday evening on Highway No. 28 about six miles west of Bancroft. The car was partially destroyed but was covered by insurance.

Miss Sadie Davis, of Maple Leaf, is spending this week in Belleville while her brothers W. J. Davis and J. H. Davis, Reeves of Bangor and McClure and Monteagle and Herschel Townships, are attending County Council.

Several trucks are in Bancroft this week from Western Ontario loading Christmas trees for resale in the various cities.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Moore of Emo have taken up residence in Bancroft in the home recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Deyell. Mr. Moore acting in the capacity of instrument man for the Department of Highways in the Fort Francis district was transferred to the Bancroft division.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of letting these conditions become chronic. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hem-Roid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk a chronic pile condition when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

When you run a want ad tomorrow —

THOUSANDS OF LITTLE SALESMEN TELL YOUR STORY —INEXPENSIVELY.

PHONE Your Ad to 99

TO LET

TWO OR THREE UNFURNISHED unheated rooms, ground floor, pleasant, centrally located. Reasonable, 12 Everett St. D6

UNFURNISHED FOUR ROOM Apartment, furnished three room bath flat. Apply 84 Yeoman St. D6-3t

FURNISHED, WELL HEATED room, grill privileges if desired. Adults. Apply 274 John St. D6

3 UNFURNISHED ROOMS WITH bath, private entrance Available December 9. Apply 36 Evans St. D5-3t

EIGHT ROOM HOUSE ON HERCHIMER Ave. Apply W. C. Wilson, corner of Bridge and Herchimer. D4-3t

156 BRIDGE STREET EAST — near Charles Street, desirable semi-detached brick house —living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, den, bath, hot air heating, two coal fireplaces, hardwood floors, garage. Available February 1st. Inspection by appointment. Exclusive agents, Belleville Locators, George N. Gorman, Prop., 166 Front St., Phone 99, House Phone 687. N26-tf

176 BLEECKER AVENUE, SOUTH of Bridge Street; brick house, situated in attractive grounds; large living room with coal fireplace, dining room with coal fireplace, kitchen, wired for range, 4 bedrooms and bath, hardwood floors, full basement, new hot air heating plant, double garage, interior of house newly decorated throughout. This is a very desirable residence. Exclusive agents Belleville Locators, Geo. N. Gorman, Prop. 166 Front Street, Phone 99. House phone 687. N22-tf

FOR SALE

CHILD'S TRICYCLE, LARGE size, good condition, also skates, size 1. 139 George St. D6

PAIR LADY'S SKATES, NEARLY new, size 6. Child's Lloyd Loom Rocking Chair in good condition. Apply 43 Harriett St. D6

NAVY PRAM, GOOD CONDITION, cheap. Phone 1809M. D6

HUDSON SEAL COAT, BEST quality, newly lined, size 38-40. Cheap for cash. Box 13, Ontario Intelligencer. D6-3t

'37 FORD COUPE, WITH HEATER, perfect condition throughout. Privately owned. $425. Phone 2416. D6-3t

GIRL'S RUST WINTER COAT, beaver trim. Size 14. Good condition. Phone 693W. D5-3t

HEAVY DUTY TIRE CHAINS. Slightly used. 18x5.25. Phone 1199W. D6-2t

FIVE ROOMED HOUSE, HOT AIR furnace, good cellar, sun porch, garage, between Cannifton and Corbyville. Apply Jay Campbell, Cannifton. D4-3t

SOFT WOOD SLABS, 4 CORD load, $18.00; also body soft wood. For particulars write H. C. Lloyd, Phone Belleville 1222. D3-6t

BEATTY WASHER, USED, $15.00. David Electric Shop, 340 Front St. N20-tf

AUCTION SALE POSTPONED

On account of snow till Wednesday, December 11, Lot 18, Con. 3. Tyendinaga, R. C. English, owner. Heavy horses young cows, alfalfa hay, grain, large list of machinery.

NORMAN MONTGOMERY, Auctioneer, 163 William St., Phone 1170. D5-6-9

GUTHRIE TO CONTINUE AS CHIEF

Toronto, Dec. 6—(CP) — Police Chief George S. Guthrie will continue indefinitely as head of Toronto Police according to a decision yesterday of the Police Commission. He was appointed to the post when Chief D. C. Draper left for service overseas and reached the retirement age last week.

He was born at Perth, Ont., and was a graduate of the University of Toronto. Dr. William Butler of North Bay, Ont., is a son.

One of two love stories in Cecil B. DeMille's technicolor epic, "North West Mounted Police," now at the Belle, is the romance between Robert Preston and Paulette Goddard.

Tempo of R.A.F. Offensive Rising

(By R. N. WALLING.)

London, Dec. 6 (CP-Reuters).—Outwardly a scene of rural peace, East Anglia is one of the most powerful sections of Britain's air offensive, and is growing in power weekly.

Behind road barriers, which more obviously than anything else mark airdromes that fit so deeply into this flat region, I have gathered evidence to support these conclusions:

1. Before the weather cut down both R.A.F. and German activity. Britain on some October nights sent almost as many bombers over Germany as Germany sent on the average over Britain in September.

2. By next spring—and possibly on fine nights before then — there should be in service types of aircraft whose bomb loads will be far heavier, perhaps three or four times, than those now in use.

With more aircraft of all types flowing in from British and American factories, this last point shows that the promise of the Prime Minister that the bombing of Germany will reach hitherto-undreamed-of force is within sight of fulfilment.

So many planes have been over Berlin on at least one occasion that pilots were instructed to keep to a left-hand turn round the German capital to avoid collision.

Twenty and thirty different targets, widely separated and each attracting a score or more planes, were not uncommon for the R.A.F. on autumn nights.

A squadron leader who had made fifteen bombing flights over enemy territory told me he has flown over a "procession" of fires to Berlin from the Dutch coast, each being "worried" by its quota of planes, both on the way over and on the way back.

Heavier bombs are being carried more often now to enemy targets, particularly when the maximum effect from blasts is desired to shatter huge buildings. Some have been taken to military objectives in the centre of Berlin.

FORMER C.P.R. OFFICIAL DIES

Montreal, Dec. 6 (CP). — A. D. MacTier, former vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and donor of the MacTier Cup for eastern Canada English rugby supremacy, died here today.

WE STRONGLY ADVISE IMMEDIATE PURCHASE of

CONNOR WASHERS FRIGIDAIRE REFRIGERATORS and RANGES

A few left at Old price.
SMALL DOWN PAYMENT.
EASY TERMS.

WALKER HARDWARE COMPANY LIMITED.
248 - 250 Front St.
D4-4t

BELLEVILLE LOCATORS

Own Your Own Home!

TALK IT OVER! THEN SEE

Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, Prop.
Licensed and Registered Real Estate Brokers and Associate Members of The Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards.
166 FRONT ST. Opp. City Hall

KEN SMITH'S
TAXI
HEATED BUICK CARS
PHONE 1550
Office: 356 FRONT STREET.
Opposite Belle Theatre
D5-3t

HIGHEST CASH PRICES PAID for RAW FURS, HIDES and DEER SKINS by H. YANOVER
129 S. JOHN ST. Phone 1479
D5,10,12,17,19,24,26

GUARANTEED SERVICE — what does it mean? Simply that The Ontario Intelligencer GUARANTEES a job done perfectly at the time and price agreed upon. If you've had much experience in printing, you'll appreciate what this means. We stick by our word!

PHONE 99
Ontario Intelligencer Job Printing

BALLOON IN SWITZERLAND

Solothurn, Switzerland, Dec. 6 (AP).—A British barrage balloon landed near here in the Swiss Jura mountain foothills today. A second balloon swept high over the area toward Lake Constance.

(German anti-aircraft gunners shot down a drifting British barrage balloon over Vienna yesterday.)

BIRTHS

FRITZ—On Wednesday, December 4, 1940, to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fritz, 85 West Bridge St., a daughter, Margaret Anne. D6

DEATHS

GOODFELLOW — In Tyendinaga Township, on Thursday, Dec. 5, 1940, Elizabeth Jane Carter, widow of the late William Goodfellow, Sr., in her 82nd. year.

The funeral will be held from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Alford, 8th. Concession Tyendinaga Township, on Sunday, Dec. 8th., 1940, at 2.00 p.m. (Standard Time) to St. Paul's Anglican Church, Roslin, for service at 2.30 p.m. (Standard Time.)

Interment St. Paul's Cemetery. D6

POUND—In Thurlow Township on Thursday, December 5th, 1940, Annie Lois Hazard, beloved wife of John Pound, aged 78 years.

The funeral will be held from her late residence, Third Concession Thurlow Township, on Saturday, December 7th., 1940, at 1.30 P.M. (Standard Time) to Cannifton United Church for service at 2.00 P.M. (Standard Time.)

Interment Elmwood Cemetery. D6

WESSEL—At Wooler, Northumberland County, on Thursday, December 5th., 1940, C. P. Wessel.

The funeral will take place from his late residence on Sunday afternoon, December 8th., at 1.30 o'clock (Standard Time).

Interment Evergreen Cemetery. D6

Report 'Icing' Before Crash

Chicago, Dec. 6 (AP).—An eyewitness told a coroner's jury yesterday that "icing conditions" prevailed at the time of a United Air Lines plane crash that resulted in eight deaths.

While the witness, Policeman T. F. O'Hara, was relating his account of last night's tragedy, eight survivors were being treated in hospitals. The stewardess, Florence M. Little of Chicago, was reported to be in a "very critical" state.

O'Hara, testifying at the inquest before a jury composed of six aviation experts, said that he was in the radio control tower of the Chicago Municipal Airport, approximately two blocks from the vacant lot where the mainliner fell.

He reported that he saw the plane approaching a runway for a landing at what he judged was a normal attitude of about 150 feet.

"It seemed to make a left turn with the nose down and go into the ground," he added. "There was a flash as the ship fell." He figured the "flash" occurred when the liner struck electric power lines.

O'Hara testified that earlier the pilot had asked for landing instructions and that the control tower operator had advised a west landing due to "icing conditions".

Grounds of Windsor Castle Damaged By Three Bombs

London, Dec. 6 (CP)—It was disclosed today that three bombs fell in the grounds of Windsor Castle in a recent air raid.

One bomb fell on the golf course, another close to the tennis courts and a third—an oil bomb—fell on the royal household bowling green and quickly burned itself out.

Some damage was done to the royal lodge but no casualties were reported. Bombs which also fell on Windsor town resulted in little damage.

Windows and the roof of a nursing home were badly damaged when a bomb fell in the middle of a street. None of the patients were hurt seriously.

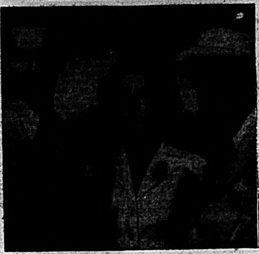
THREE MEN SOUGHT

London, Ont., Dec. 6—(CP)—Police said they are looking for three men in military uniform who took Harry Smith of Strathroy district for a ride in their car late yesterday and robbed him of $190.

HELP FOR KIDNEYS OR MONEY BACK

Gin Pills are sold on a "satisfaction or money back basis". If you're not entirely satisfied with their help your money will be refunded.

Regular size, 40 Pills Large size, 80 Pills
(In the U.S. ask for "Gino Pills")
308



A scene from "Charlie Chan in Panama." (Left to Right), Kane Richmond, Jean Rogers and Sidney Toler (as Chan) in the 20th Century-Fox film now showing at the Capitol and on the same program "Colorado," with Roy Rogers.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Colorado"

"Colorado", a gripping new western from the Republic lot made its local bow at the Capitol Theatre and chalked up another feather in the cap of Roy Rogers, singing cowboy star who, in a relatively brief space of time, has vaulted into the top ranks of the screen cowboys.

Rogers, the young and good looking ranch lad who got his first boost in the entertainment world playing with the popular "Sons of the Pioneers" orchestra, is at his best in the current role of the Pinkerton detective of Civil War days who is sent to Denver to investigate subversive activities on the part of agents of the Confederate army.

George "Gabby" Hayes, the lovable bearded comedian who furnishes comedy relief for all the Rogers pictures, again garners his good measure of laughs in "Colorado". He portrays Roy's pal and side-kick who journeys to Denver with him to protect him—first of all—from designing women, and then from peril at the hands of Indians, Confederate spies, avalanches, and natural disasters of all kinds. The added feature is

"Charlie Chan in Panama"

A highly timely story about a fiendish plot against the Panama Canal, "America's lifeline", this 20th Century-Fox film gives Charlie Chan his most interesting case. The famous Earl Derr Biggers sleuth is out this time to prevent an act of sabotage on the Canal, the purpose of which is to bottle up the United States Fleet. Chan encounters an opponent worthy of his mettle and the conclusion is a real thrill and surprise when he uncovers the culprit. Entertaining both for its mystery and timely values.

"Letter From Camp Borden"

"Letter from Camp Borden", the newest picture in the series of Canada Carries On, depicts life in Canada's great military camp . . .

All the excitement, humanity and spectacle of Canadian youth in training, also the News and "Tim Tyler's Luck".

AT THE McCARTHY

"Kit Carson"

The Saturday matinee at the McCarthy will not start until after the big Santa Claus parade which is being held in Belleville tomorrow afternoon.

Featured tomorrow is the outstanding adventure epic of the year Edward Small's "Kit Carson," starring Jon Hall and Lynn Bari, plus excellent short subjects and a personal appearance of Santa Claus on the McCarthy stage.

KING'S BROTHER ESCAPES

London, Dec. 6 (CP).—The Duke of Gloucester escaped injury recently when German planes dropped bombs near his party on a military visit, it was announced today. No one in the party was hurt.

AT THE BELLE

"Third Finger, Left Hand"

Myrna Loy, teamed for the first time with Melvyn Douglas, abandons her role as the "perfect wife" to keep the man who made Garbo laugh in continuous hot water in "Third Finger, Left Hand" hilarious story of a romantic mix-up, coming next to the Belle theatre.

Miss Loy plays a magazine editor who, because her boss' wife is jealous, invents a mythical husband whom she's supposed to be trying to find to get a divorce. The deception is perfect until Douglas, who has learned about it and is in love with her, blandly shows up and assumes the role of the missing spouse. Her family likes him. She doesn't—and proceeds to keep him in all manner of trials and tribulations. She scandalizes Niagara Falls on their "honeymoon." Her attorney plans ways and means of getting her a divorce so that he can carry her himself. And all three start towards Reno together. But after all the laugh-packed troubles they go through, Myrna and Melvyn find they've really been in love with each other all along.

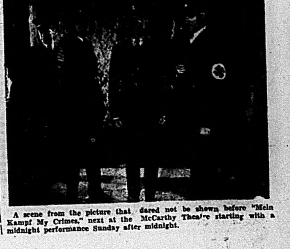
Robert Z. Leonard, director of "New Moon," "Pride and Prejudice," "Maytime" and many other outstanding hits, directed. John M. Considine, Jr., producer of "Boys Town" and "Edison, the Man," produced.

The cast includes Lee Bowman, latest discovery in leading men, as the attorney. Raymond Walburn is seen as Miss Loy's father. Donald Meek, eccentric apiarist and detective in the Nick Carter series, plays an equally eccentric and comical art dealer. Felix Bressart, of "Ninotchka" and "Shop Around the Corner" fame, adds more laughs to the situations as the art editor who helps Myrna in her deceptions. Bonita Granville, erstwhile child actress, plays her first sub-deb role as Miss Loy's very active younger sister, Ann Morriss and other featured players unite to keep the comedy pot boiling at full steam.

A funny comicolor cartoon "Bookworm Turns" and an interesting newsreel precede the feature. On the weekend matinee a gripping chapter of "The Green Hornet" serial will be exhibited and a new issue of comic books will be distributed free to each boy and girl.

"North West Mounted Police"

Cecil B. DeMille's "North West Mounted Police" a stirring motion picture story of the gallantry and bravery with which a small force of the Mounted faced thousands of murdersome half-breeds in what amounted to Canada's Civil War, is now ending a highly successful week's engagement at the Belle, starring Madeleine Carroll and Gary Cooper, and featuring a host of other stars including Preston Foster, Robert Preston, Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman, George Bancroft, Lon Chaney, Jr., Walter Hampden and thousands of others. Filmed in technicolor—it is the first picture in which DeMille has employed color throughout.



A scene from the picture that dared not be shown before "Mein Kampf My Crimes," next at the McCarthy Theatre starting with a midnight performance Sunday after midnight.

LOST SUNRISE

by KATHLEEN NORRIS

INSTALMENT 2

There was a long silence, then Sheila said, almost with an air of weariness, of indifference, "I was madly in love with Tony Lamont."

"In the office?" Gwen presently asked in a whisper.

"Well, that was where I first knew him, of course. I was working there, just as a clerk, but I was studying to pass my civil-service exams as a librarian. I did some research in the files for him. I thought he was wonderful, of course, I was twenty. After that I saw him now and then, and he was always wonderful. Dressed for golf or tennis, you know and coming in just for a moment on hot Saturday mornings, brown as an Indian."

"He was married then, Sheila."

"Oh, of course. He was thirty-three, I suppose. He'd been married about eight years to Rita Raymond. They had Rand and Margot—it was before Rand's accident. He was seven.

"For weeks—months, I suppose—we just looked at each other. He'd come in on some little bit of business, speak to someone else, and give me one look as he went out. I'd live on that look for days—dream of it nights.

"Well, just before Christmas they sent me into his office. He had asked for me; I found that out later. He wanted a stenographer on a case he had had me work on before, and he knew I understood it. One afternoon when I stayed late we got talking, and I told him I was taking my library exams in March, and that I wanted a position in a library. He said then that his aunt was on the board of the library in Sacramento and she would do all she could for me if I passed. He was terribly kind and so interested; of course he seemed to me such a big person to be interested in me!

"Well, on Christmas Eve he came in with a book, and said he'd like to give it to me; it was one of his favorite. He'd written my name in it, but I cut that page out and brought the book home and nobody noticed it. It's there—there in that bookcase. "Far Away and Long Ago" by Hudson."

"Yes, I know. I read it," Gwen said with a dry mouth.

"Afterward, when I said I'd liked it, he said he would like so much to travel in queer places, and I said I'd always wanted to see the pampas of South America, and Buenos Aires. He laughed and said, "Why South America with so many other places to see? Then he told me that he was not happy, that he and his wife had decided to separate when the children were old enough for boarding school. Margot was about five then, and Rand seven. He said that she was not happy as his wife, wouldn't be happy as any man's wife, that she hadn't wanted the children. She sang, Rita did, you know. Used to sing at concerts and go into San Francisco for lessons from Alesso. He said they'd had separate rooms since Margot had been born, and that he was the loneliest and most defeated man alive.

"I can't tell you, Gwen, how hearing that from a man you like—oh, like terribly!—affects you. He was so handsome and so serious, and he told all this in a philosophical sort of way, not whining. Just—just that at it made him jealous to have me talk of my mother, and how happy we all were at home, because he'd never had anything like that in his life.

"Then—quite suddenly, we knew that we liked each other horribly, hopelessly. We didn't say much. It was all—almost businesslike. Just, 'You know how it is with me, Sheila. I'm terribly sorry," and perhaps my saying, 'Oh yes, I know,' and then sitting there in the office shaking for hours. When I had a bad cold he put a little box of tables on my desk with a card that said 'Plenty of orange juice, plenty of water, not much else.' I have that card yet.

"I don't know why I'm telling you this, Gwen. God knows I hate remembering it all, and the fool I was!"

"Don't then!" Gwen said in a whisper.

"I have to," Sheila answered restlessly, her narrowed eyes far away. "Well, then I took my library finals, in March, and passed. And—if you remember?—almost immediately, without my applying, I had a card from this Mrs. Paul Marshall—that was his aunt—sayink that application could be filed at such-and-such a date. I filled out the card and got the Sacramento appointment.

"Well, I hadn't been in the library three days when Tony came in. He was often in Sacramento. He congratulated me on my job, and he said he was sending me a present. He'd given me things before—perfumes and books and candy and flowers, and once gloves, and once or twice theatre tickets—things like that; things any girl feels she can take from a man."

"Not a married man!" Gwen said quickly.

"Yes, I know," Sheila said simply, and for a moment there was silence.

"Was this such a special present?" the younger sister presently asked, ending it.

"Was—? Oh yes, the present. Yes, it was an exquisite coat. My black coat, with the fur."

"But Mother thought you—I thought you——"

"You thought I bought it on the instalment plan. I know you did. No, nor the blue velvet dress Mother loved so. Nor the rose-point collar."

"Oh, Sheila!" Gwen whispered.

"Yes, I know. But he loved to give me things; I couldn't stop him. It made him so—so terribly happy to have little lunches and talk." Sheila said. "He never—he never suggested anything more, until one day we were suddenly talking about his divorce. He said yes, there would have to be the solution.

"I simply went up in the air. I wouldn't hear of it! It meant scandal and talk, and breaking Mother's heart. We had a terrible discussion which left me almost fainting, and I went back to the library not knowing what was going on. For two or three days I was in a daze. The telephone made me jump; every step in the library made me jump. And when the hours went by and the hours went by, and there was no message, I knew, that I simply had to see him again—I couldn't live without one more talk, just one more. And after that I'd be sensible and try to forget him, and never see him again."

"That was all in Sacramento?"

"Oh, yes. I was alone, Perhaps if I'd been home—Well, anyway, in May we had terrific rains. Rain slashed against the library windows. I had a line of school children filing up to the desk when I saw Tony. He was sitting in a big leather chair near the door; he had on a light raincoat that was spattered, and his hair was spattered too.

"I began to tremble. I didn't dare look again. I was going to hear his voice again, to have a chance to talk to him again. That was all that mattered. It was half past five, and I left the desk.

"'Got your raincoat and rubbers?' he said, and I said yes. 'Then come on,' he said, 'we'll walk.' That was all. We walked out together, and it was heaven.

"We didn't talk much. But I knew he was as happy as I was. After a while he said, (Nearly seven) Let's eat. How'd you like to get dinner?' I said, 'Where?' He said we'd buy it first, and we bought—oh, ridiculous things. Sweet butter and caviar and crackers and a little fat steak and asparagus and everything. Then we got into a cab and went—not very far—to a four-apartment house, and he quite naturally unlocked one apartment, and everything was there. Flowers, and a fire laid; he said he'd had a Japanese boy there all afternoon; that he came so often to Sacramento it paid him to have a little place of his own.

"He wasn't affectionate; there was nothing scary about it. He acted as if he was just an adventure, and I felt that way, too, that it was all fun. I didn't feel, sentimental or nervous.

"Tony's a marvelous cook; he was plastering mustard on the steak and making coffee in no time. The table was set by the fire, and we were terribly happy. We were so deliciously alone, and for the first time! Tony asked me if I'd like to go to a picture, and I laughed in his face, and he laughed, too. There wasn't any picture in the world that would tempt me away from that fire and from our talk. Quite suddenly, about ten, he jumped up and said he must take me home. And oh, Gwen, but I was happy that night! Happier than I ever will be again, as long as I live!"

"Ah, Sheila, don't say that!"

"It's true. Not that," Sheila assured her sister, smiling, "not that I don't expect to have plenty of happiness in my life. Children and travel—and Link, who is the finest man I ever knew. But that sort of happiness won't come again. Trusting Tony, and feeling that we could have so much and yet be so safe! Confident in myself. I was equal—more than equal—to this situation that so many women had made such a failure! I could manage men, even when they worshipped me. And it would all come back to me—I lay awake all night—how much he did worship me.

"The next Sunday but one I wired mother that I had to stay at the library and couldn't get home for Sunday night and told Mrs. Keane that I was going home as usual. That was all there was to it. In my mind I said that I'd be back at the boarding house that Sunday night, of course. And even if I didn't come home I knew I could send Tony off to the hotel, so there was nothing to worry about.

"Well, Tony and I took our lunch off into the country and had a wonderful day. And when I was all tired and dusty and sunburned he said that he had had a little supper sent in to the apartment—cold chicken and stuffed eggs and a salad. Why wouldn't I come and freshen up there? We could have a bite of supper, and talk as we had talked before.

"I don't know why, but I didn't suggest his going to a hotel. I didn't suggest anything.

"And it was only that summer, June—when we'd had perhaps five or six of those little stolen suppers—that the blow came. Little Rand was all smashed up in a motor wreck. Of course his mother wasn't hurt and Margot wasn't hurt. If Tony's wife had been killed! But it was his boy who needed him. Tony lived for eleven weeks in the hospital, and then took him to Arizona, and when I saw Tony again, I had been offered a better job here. We met almost like strangers, we talked like strangers. How was the poor little boy, and how was I, and was it true that I was to be librarian here?"

"I remember when you did come in September, Sheila, you were so ill. You couldn't eat anything. Auto-intoxication, remember?"

"That wasn't auto-intoxication. That was heartbreak. Or, no, it wasn't hearbreak," Sheila said slowly. Her lips were trembling, her face wet with tears. Gwen held tightly to her hand; there seemed to be nothing to say.

"It's selfishness to have told you this," Sheila presently said. "I don't know why I did. Except perhaps that I wanted you to tell me that you think I was right not to tell Link. I want to be absolutely honest with Link, Gwen, I want to begin that way. But this isn't anyone's business but my own—don't you agree with me? I'm not prying into Link's past life; I'm taking him for what he is today."

"But Sheila, he knows—Tony Lamont knows. What if he ever—?"

"Oh, but no man, especially if he's a gentleman, and proud, like Tony, would ever tell a story like that," Sheila said confidently. "No, that part of it's safe enough. I wrote him very carefully; I never signed my letters. Are you sorry I told you, darling?" she finished in sudden compunction. "Would you rather I hadn't? It seemed to me it would be easier if somebody knew."

"No, no, I'm glad to know," Gwen said slowly. She was trembling inwardly, but Sheila mustn't see it; not on this last night at home; this wedding eve.

(Copyright, 1939)
(By Kathleen Norris)

(TO BE CONTINUED)

RADIO PROGRAMS

(Daylight Saving Time)

FRIDAY, DEC. 6.

7.30—Paul Sullivan Edits the News WHAM
8.00—Fred Waring in Pleasure Time—WEAF, WGY
8.15—Lanny Ross, tenor—WABC, WGR
8.30—Al Pearce's Gang—WABC, WGR
8.30—Toronto Symphony Band—CBL
8.30—Alec Templeton Time; Ray Noble's Orch.; Pat O'Malley, M.C.—WEAF, WHAM
9.00—Kate Smith Prgm.; News—WABC, WGR, CFRB
9.00—Concert with Lucille Manners, quartet, Frank Black's Orch.—WEAF, WBEN, CBL
9.30—Death Valley Days—WJZ, WHAM
9.30—Information Please; Quiz
10.00—Waltz Time—WEAF, CBL
10.00—Johnny Presents—WABC, WGR
10.00—Gang Busters, crime drama—WJZ
10.30—Canadian Theatre of the Air—CBL
10.30—Everyman's Theatre, dramas by Arch Oboler—WEAF, WGY
10.30—Playhouse—WABC
11.15—Britain Speaks—CBL
12.30—Salute to Byrd Expedition—WEAF

SATURDAY, DEC. 7.

8.00—News—CBL
9.00—At the Console—CBL
9.30—Dick Leibert, organist—WJZ, CBL
10.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ, CBL
12.00—News; Cincinnati Conservatory of Music—WABC, CFRB
2.30—Luncheon at the Waldorf—WJZ, WHAM
6.00—Tommy Dorsey's Orchestra—WEAF, CBL
6.00—The World Is Yours—WEAF
7.00—Questions of the Hour—CBL
7.15—N.H.L. Hockey Players—CBL
7.30—Religion in the News—WEAF
7.30—Recital Series—CBL
7.45—The World Today—WABC, WJR
7.45—Canada and Latin American Relations—CBL
8.00—People's Platform—WABC, WGR
8.30—Gay Nineties Revue—WABC, WGR
8.30—Share the Wealth—CBO, CBL
8.45—H. V. Kaltenborn, news—WEAF, WHAM
9.00—Hockey: Boston vs. Leafs—CBL
9.00—Your Marriage Club—WABC WGR
9.00—Playhouse, drama—WEAF, WBEN
9.15—Man and the World—WJZ
9.30—Truth or Consequences—WEAF, WGY
9.30—Wayne King's Orchestra—WABC, WGR
10.00—Your Hit Parade—WABC, WGR
10.00—Song of Your Life—WJZ
10.00—Nat'l Barn Dance—WEAF, WBEN
10.30—News; Symphony Orch.—WJZ, WHAM
10.45—Saturday Night Serenade—WJR, WGR
11.00—Chicago Theater of the Air—WOR, WGN
11.00—Symphony Orch.—WJZ, CBL
11.00—Uncle Ezra—WEAF, WGY
11.15—Public Affairs—WABC
12.30—California Melodies—WOR
1.00—News; Glen Miller's Orch.—WJZ

RADIO DIRECTORY

CANADIAN STATIONS

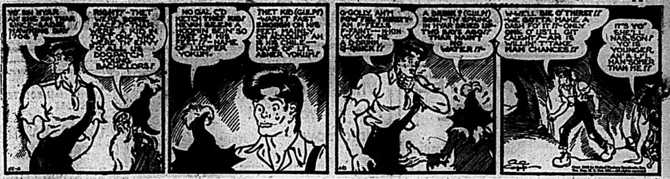
CFRC—Kingston	1510
CBL—Toronto	840
CBO—Ottawa	880
CBW—Windsor	[illegible]
CBY—Toronto	1420
CFCF—Montreal	600
CFRB—Toronto	690
CHML—Hamilton	1010
CKCL—Toronto	580
CKOC—Hamilton	1120
CKTB—St. Catharines	1200

UNITED STATES STATIONS

KDKA—Pittsburg	980
WABC—New York	860
WBEN—Buffalo	900
WGY—Schenectady	790
WHAM—Rochester	1150
WEAF—New York	660
WENR—Chicago	870
WGR—Buffalo	550
WBBM—Chicago	770

L'I'L ABNER — Fools Rush Out

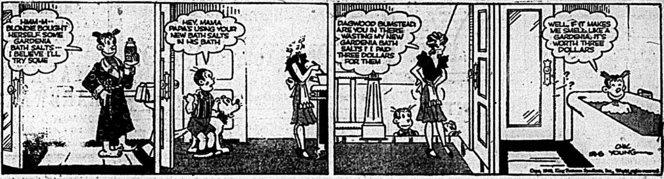
By Al Capp



YO' BIN HYAR AN' SHE BIN THAR SINCE—SADIE HAWKINS DAY 1706?
RIGHT!—THET WERE SOME RACE!!—THAR WERE A KID IN THET ONE WHO WERE TH' ENVY O' ALL US DOGPATCH YOUNG BACHELORS!
NO GAL C'D KETCH THET KID! NEVAH SEEN A HOOMIN BEIN' SO FAST ON HIS FEET!!—NAME OF LUCIFER YOKUM.
THET KID (GULP!) —WARN'T FAST ENOUGH ON HIS FEET, MAINLY ON ACCOUNT AH IS HIS CHILE—NAME OF LI'L ABNER YOKUM!
G-GOLLY, AH'M POW'FUL THIRSTY—AH F-FEELS F-FAINT—K-KIN YO' GIVE ME A D-DRINK, Q-QUICK!!
A DRINK? (GULP!) SON!—TH' SPRING IN HYAR DRIED UP TWO DAYS AGO!! THAR HAIN'T NO WATER!!—
W-WE'LL DIE O' THIRST!! —WE GOTTA MAKE A DASH FO' IT!!—ONLY ONE O' US'LL GIT CAUGHT!—AH IS WILLIN' T' TAKE MAH CHANCES!!
IT'S YO' SHE'LL NAB, SON! YO' IS YOUNGER, AN' A LI'L HAN'SOMER THAN ME!!
12-6

BLONDIE — Double Dare

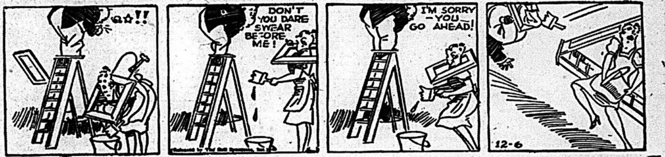
By Chic Young



HMM-M-- BLONDIE BOUGHT HERSELF SOME GARDENIA BATH SALTS--- I BELIEVE I'LL TRY SOME
HEY, MAMA PAPA'S USING YOUR NEW BATH SALTS IN HIS BATH
DAGWOOD BUMSTEAD ARE YOU IN THERE WASTING MY NEW GARDENIA BATH SALTS? I PAID THREE DOLLARS FOR THEM
WELL, IF IT MAKES ME SMELL LIKE A GARDENIA, IT'S WORTH THREE DOLLARS
?
?
12-6 CHIC YOUNG

POP — Ladies First

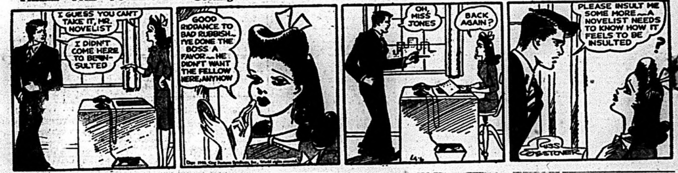
By J. Millar Watt



!!
DON'T YOU DARE SWEAR BEFORE ME!
I'M SORRY —YOU— GO AHEAD!
12-6

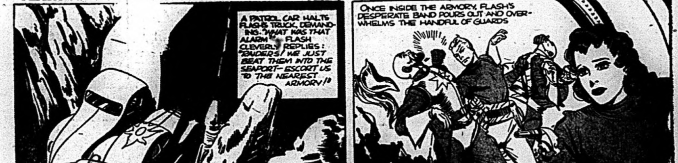
TILLIE THE TOILER — Getting the "Feel" Of It!

By Russ Westover



I GUESS YOU CAN'T TAKE IT, MR. NOVELIST
I DIDN'T COME HERE TO BE IN-SULTED
GOOD RIDDANCE TO BAD RUBBISH... I'VE DONE THE BOSS A FAVOR... HE DIDN'T WANT THE FELLOW HERE, ANYHOW
OH, MISS JONES
BACK AGAIN?
PLEASE INSULT ME SOME MORE ... A NOVELIST NEEDS TO KNOW HOW IT FEELS TO BE INSULTED
?
RUSS WESTOVER

FLASH GORDON



A PATROL CAR HALTS FLASH'S TRUCK, DEMANDING: "WHAT WAS THAT ALARM?" FLASH CLEVERLY REPLIES: "RAIDERS! WE JUST BEAT THEM INTO THE SEAPORT—ESCORT US TO THE NEAREST ARMORY!"
ONCE INSIDE THE ARMORY, FLASH'S DESPERATE BAND POURS OUT AND OVERWHELMS THE HANDFUL OF GUARDS 12-6

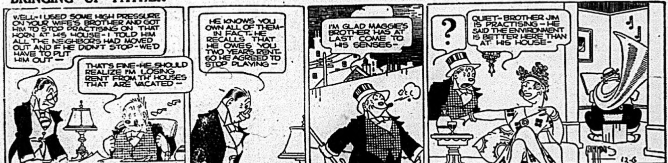
BRINGING UP FATHER —

By George McManus



WELL-I USED SOME HIGH PRESSURE ON YOUR WIFE'S BROTHER AND GOT HIM TO STOP PRACTISING ON THAT HORN AT HIS HOUSE-I TOLD HIM ALL THE NEIGHBORS HAD MOVED OUT AND IF HE DIDN'T STOP-WE'D HAVE TO PUT HIM OUT—
THAT'S FINE-HE SHOULD REALIZE I'M LOSING RENT FROM TH' HOUSES THAT ARE VACATED—
HE KNOWS YOU OWN ALL OF THEM—IN FACT-HE RECALLS THAT HE OWES YOU TWO YEARS RENT-SO HE AGREED TO STOP PLAYING—
I'M GLAD MAGGIE'S BROTHER HAS AT LAST COME TO HIS SENSES—
?
QUIET-BROTHER JIM IS PRACTISING—HE SAID THE ENVIRONMENT IS BETTER HERE THAN AT HIS HOUSE—12-6

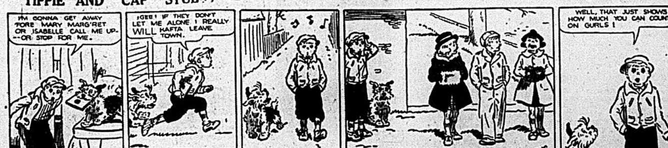
TIPPIE AND "CAP" STUBBS —

By Edwina



I'M GONNA GET AWAY 'FORE MARY MARG'RET OR ISABELLE CALL ME UP--OR STOP FOR ME.
GEE! IF THEY DON'T LET ME ALONE I REALLY WILL HAFTA LEAVE TOWN.
WELL, THAT JUST SHOWS HOW MUCH YOU CAN COUNT ON GURLS!
12-6

STOCK MARKETS

QUOTATIONS FURNISHED BY BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD,
J. R. Foote, Branch Manager.

Quotations at 2.00.

MINES

Ajax 20
Aldermac 15
Anglo Hur. 260
Aunor 210
Bankfield 7 1-2
Beattie 117
Bidgood 11 1-8
Big Missouri 5 1-4
Bralorne 10 1-8
Broulan 85
Buffalo Ank. 445
Calgary and Ed. 147
Can. Malar 51
Central Pat. 183
Chesterville 127
Coast Copper 135
Coniaurum 165
Dome 24 1-2
East Mal 265
Falconbridge 328
Gillies L. 4
Gunnar 36
Hardrock 108
Home Oil 343
Hollinger 13
Howey 20
Hudson Bay 26
Kerr Add 360
Kirk. Lake 90
Lapa Cad 7 1-2
Lake Shore 18 7-8
Leitch 53
Little L. L. 210
Macassa 375
McIntyre 48 3-4
McLeod 230
McKenzie 119
Mining Corp. 78
Moneta 52
Nipissing 105
Obrien 111
Okalta 70
Omega 18
Paymaster 24
Pamour 139
Perron 175
Pend Oreille 175
Pickle Crow 295
Pioneer 215
Powell 105
Premier 85
Preston E. D. 320
Reno 14
Royalite 23 1-2
San Antonio 255
Sherritt G. 80
Siscoe 49
Sladen M. 41 1-2
Sud. Basin 125
Sullivan 60
Steep Rock 145
Sylvanite 253
T. Hughes 320
Tex. Can Oil 120
Toburn 150
Ventures 290
W. Amulet 325
Wr. Hargreaves 715
U. Can. 211

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 157 1-2
B. A. Oil 18 1-4
Brewing Corp. 105
Braz. Trac. 50
Can. Bud Brewery 4 1-2
Can. Cement 6 1-8
Can. Dredge 17 1-4
Can. Ind. Alcohol 185
C.P.R. 5 1-4
Can. Malting 36 3-4
Can. Vinegar 7 1-4
Canada Car 8 3-8
Cockshutt Plow 5
Cons. Bakeries 13 3-4
Con. Smelting 38 3-4
Dominion Foundries 23 3-4
Dominion Stores 5 1-2
Dist. Seagrams 26 1-2
Fanny Farmer 26 1-2
Ford "A" 16
Gypsum 3 1-2
Imp. Oil 9 1-2
Int. Nickel 34 1-2
Inter. Pet. 13 1-8
Imp. Tobacco 13 1-2
Loblaw 26 1-2
Massey Harris 3 1-8
Mont. Power 28 7-8
McColl-Frontenac 5 1-8
Power Corp. 7 1-2
Price Bros. 12 1-2
Steel of Canada 73
Shawinigan 17 3-4
Walker's 43
Walker's Pfd 18 1-2
Walkerville Brewery 70
C.P.A. 4 1-4

NEW YORK

American T and T 167⅛.
Anaconda 27⅛.
Bethlehem Steel 86¼.
Chrysler 75⅝.
General Electric 32⅞.
General Motors 49⅝.
Inter. Telephone 1⅝.
North American 16½.
Montgomery Ward 37¼.
Phillips Petroleum 39⅝.
Radio 4⅝.
Standard Oil of N.J. 33.
Standard Brands 6⅜.
U. S. Steel 68¼.
United Aircraft 42⅝.
Vanadium 33.
Westinghouse 103¼.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 6. — (CP)—Base Metals and Western Oil stocks were steady in the average on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds were a bit higher while Industrials worked narrowly lower.

Senior Oils displayed heaviness in the early afternoon and miscellaneous Industrials boarded more losses than gains.

Steep Rock was lower and Nickel higher. Strong spots in the Golds were Upper Canada, Preston, Kerr-Addison, Cochenour Willans and Senator Rouyn.

Western Oils, including Home and Calgary and Edmonton, remained steady and Acme Gas was weaker around 12.

WALL STREET

New York, Dec. 6 (AP). — The stock market today acted as though it might be bracing itself for a rally but buying generally was indifferent.

A little early bidding for steels, rails and selected specialties propped the list. But many leaders continued to falter and, near the fourth hour, mild irregularity persisted. Dealings were slack throughout.

Stocks attracting support at times included U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, J. I. Case, Boeing, Glenn Martin, American Telephone, Anaconda, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Standard Oil of N.J. and J. C. Penney.

Dome and Lake Shore Mines, in the Canadian section, dipped fractions. Canadian Pacific and Hiram Walker held unchanged while Canada 4s, in the bond market, fell back a full point.

Atlantic and Pacific Company Employees To Share in Christmas Bonus

Additional compensation, totaling one million, five hundred thousand dollars to be paid before Christmas, has been voted employees of the great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, according to J. A. Hartford, President.

All employees with six months or more service, including part-time workers, will participate in the additional pay. Executives do not share in the distribution.

Similar compensation was voted the company's employees last year.

L. W. Beebe, General Manager of the Canadian organization, announces that the Canadian employees of this company will participate in a distribution of approximately twenty-five thousand dollars.

NO QUESTIONS

(Continued from Page One)

Morgenthau said the British financial expert was seeing him, not to make a loan request, but to present factual information on the condition of British finances and the extent of resources which are available for purchasing American supplies.

Stage Further On

Sir Frederick dismissed the question of a request for credits by saying: "That is a stage further on."

As the financial talks opened, the feeling on Capitol Hill was that the whole question of assisting Britain by credits or cash eventually would be brought up before Congress in some way or other. Some thought that a request for approval of a loan would touch off the fireworks. Others thought that the anti-loan forces might take the initiative with a drive to plug any possible loopholes in existing laws barring such assistance to Britain.

At any rate, the financial aid to Britain question already was being discussed as the headline battle awaiting the new Congress which convenes Jan. 3.

Recent assertions by Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones that Britain constitute a "good risk" drew some fire on the Senate floor yesterday. Senator Robt. Taft (Rep. Ohio) termed such statements "nonsense," and Senator Champ Clark (Dem. Missouri) professed to be "very much startled" that Jones would say such a thing.

Senator Nye's prediction today that American convoys would be proposed for British shipping found no apparent support in administration circles. As far as could be learned, officials were giving little consideration to such an idea.

Weekly Livestock Report

Toronto, Dec. 6 (CP)—In a general price advance on the Livestock Market here this week cattle gained 25 to 50 cents cwt, calves were up 50 cents, hogs up 15 cents, lambs up 25 cents and sheep were slightly stronger.

Heavy snowfalls held down deliveries of supplies of all classes.

Holdover from last week was 700 cattle but there were no cattle of any account left this week. Weighty steers sold at $7.25 to $9.25. Butcher steers and heifers were $6 to $8.50 with boners selling at $4.25 to $5.50. Butcher bulls brought $5 to $6 and bolognas sold at $4.25 to $5. Fed calves were mostly $9 to $10.50. Stockers moved slowly $4.50 to $8.50. Milkers and springers sold steady at $50 to $95 each with top prices paid for forward Holstein springers.

Calves closed at $11 to $12 for choice vealers with common heavies downward to $6.50. Grassers were $4.50 to $5.50.

Hogs gained 15 cents, closing at $10.90 dressedweight with a few going out of town at $11. The live price was generally $8.15. Sows sold dressed at $4.75 to $5.50.

Lambs were 25 cents up at $9.75 to $10 for good ewes and wethers and at $8.75 to $9 for heavies. A few culls and mediums sold at $6 to $9.50. Small lots of Southdowns sold at $10.50 to $10.75. Sheep ranged from $2 for culls up to $5.50 for the best light ewes.

This week:

Weekly summary:

	Cattle	Calves	Hogs	Sheep and Lambs
	5,219	1,203	3,454	2,769
Last week:	5,725	2,299	4,724	5,327
1940 to date:	278,668	142,031	217,466	136,858
1939 to date:	280,053	135,996	238,837	150,833
This week 1939:	3,804	1,645	5,100	1,871

Produce Markets

Toronto—Wholesale prices (Ontario Department of Agriculture) today were:

EGGS
A-large	.36-.39
A-medium	.37-.38
A-pullets	.35-.36
Grade "B"	.35
Grade "C"	.26
BUTTER
Butter, No. 1	.33½
Butter, No. 2	.31½-.32
Churning Cream, No. 1	.32
Churning Cream, No 2	.29
POULTRY (Dressed)
Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.21
Chickens, Grade "A"—
Over 5 lbs.	.18
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.18
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.17
Fowl—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 lbs.	.12
(Live Poultry)
Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs	.18
Chickens—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.12
Fowl—
3 to 4 lbs.	.10
Over 5 lbs.	.12
4 to 5 lbs.	.11
Ducks—
5 lbs and over	.19
Under 5 lbs.	.18

Butter Prices Hit Two-Year High

Toronto — Limited offerings continued to force butter prices higher on the Toronto open produce market yesterday. The first grade Ontario product reached the best level since February, 1938, while fresh eggs declined slightly.

Trading was not heavy on the butter market because of prevailing small supplies and the fact that many buyers were not willing to pay the further advanced prices. Business was at a standstill in the morning session, but later No. 1 grade Ontario creamery solids moved through wholesale channels at 32½c a pound, with some sales reported at 33c. The bulk of the day's sales was transacted at the lower price. Offerings were available at both figures at the close of the market. Prints sold to the retail trade at the increased quotations of 34c to 34½c a pound.

After a steady opening, top grades eased on the egg market. Fresh receipts, which were enough for local demand, cleared well.

Montreal Produce:

Montreal, Dec. 6 — Produce market prices here, as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

Butter: First grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 33½c-34c; first grade solids, jobbing price, 33c-33½c.

Eggs: Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 37c; A-medium, 33c; A-pullets, 32c; A-large, original, 31c-32c; B-original, 30c; C-original, 25c. Receipts, 366 cases.

DRUMHEAD COURT

(Continued from Page One)

The government also was said to have forbidden the display of flags on automobiles, which would make it impossible for the Iron Guard thus to display its emblem.

The refugees pictured Rumania as a land of continuing anarchy.

Premier Ion Antonescue, they said, apparently was unable to reconcile warring factions of the guard, which exacted bloody revenge last week for the slaying two years ago of their founder, Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, and had therefore determined to use the army in ruling the nation.

Heavy Troop Movements

The refugees said there were heavy troop concentrations in strategic Rumanian cities. Bucharest dispatches reported the army had called a large number of reserves to the colors.

Germany, it was understood here, was backing Antonescue and reports said the German army already stationed in Rumanian oil fields was to be swelled by four new divisions (about 60,000 men).

The fleeing Rumanians said hundreds of persons had fled by boat for Turkey, in addition to those swarming into Hungary. Among those awaiting permission to enter this country, it was reported, were Juliu Maniu and Alexander Vaida-Voevod, former premiers and peasant party leaders.

Bulgaria closed her Rumanian frontier last night in a move seen here as apparently an effort to stem the tide of fleeing Rumanians and to avoid possible disorders.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Dec. 6 (CP)—Prices were unchanged at bacon-hog markets at Barrie, Brantford, Hull, Peterborough and Stratford today.

Dressedweight: Barrie $10.85, Brantford $10.35 plus transportation, Hull $10.30, Peterborough $10.35 plus transportation, Stratford $10.25 plus transportation.

GERMAN ATTACKS

(Continued from Page One)

One bomb fell just outside a movie theatre and 50 of the 200 persons inside were trapped in a balcony by collapsing walls, but later were rescued. The operator was killed.

An incendiary bomb burned the interior of a nurses' home. The nurses, after moving patients from the nearby hospital, attacked the flames with hand pumps. At another hospital nurses saved patients by smothering flames which threatened to reach serious proportions.

The fire bombs started blazes in many areas, but air raid services brought most of them under control. Damage to private property, however, was extensive.

CARNARVON

(Continued from Page One)

"Full details are not yet available but from available reports it is clear that the action was fought at a long range, the enemy raider which was a ship of considerable speed not accepting closer action.

"There was heavy firing on both sides during the engagement and a considerable amount of ammunition was expended as H.M.S. Carnarvon Castle gave chase to the enemy.

"H.M.S. Carnarvon Castle received slight damage and there were some casualties. The next of kin will be informed as soon as possible. It is not yet known what damage was inflicted on the enemy raider and she was last reported to be steaming north at high speed away from the scene of action."

Cruising Speed is 18 Knots

Buenos Aires, Dec. 6 (AP)—The 20,122-ton merchant cruiser Carnarvon Castle, which according to a London announcement today has engaged a German raider in the South Atlantic, sailed from Victoria, Brazil, five days ago. She has a cruising speed of 18 knots.

The Carnarvon Castle halted the Brazilian coastal steamship Itape 18 miles off shore Nov. 30 and removed 22 Germans.

Other British merchant cruisers known to have been in South Atlantic waters recently are the 22,575 Queen of Bermuda and the Alcantara, 22,209 tons, which was damaged in a clash with a German raider off the Brazilian coast July 28.

Ship Seeking Repairs

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 6 (AP)—Carnarvon Castle, damaged yesterday in battle with a German raider, was expected to reach this harbor next Monday—apparently seeking repairs.

It was learned authoritatively that the Uruguayan Government had granted permission for the British armed merchant cruiser to enter. Informed sources placed the scene of the battle 1,000 miles northeast of Montevideo.

Informed quarters in London said the distance was about 700 miles northeast of Montevideo.

Naval sources expressed belief that the British ship had to break off the engagement when the German raider outdistanced her and that the fact the Carnarvon Castle is putting into port indicated another warship is taking up the chase.

Berlin, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The High Command reported today that British and German Auxiliary cruisers have met in battle in the South Atlantic and claimed that the British ship was severely damaged.

(There was no immediate comment available in London.)

The date of the reported engagement was not given.

A special communique said:

"In the South Atlantic an engagement took place between German and British Auxiliary cruisers. In the course of the engagement the British war vessel was severely damaged."

BOTH PORTO EDDA

(Continued from Page One)

the Yugoslav border.

Gains of "great strategic importance" were claimed by the Greeks on the central front, where their troops were said to be pushing westward from Premet toward Tepelini, 30 miles inside Albania.

This advance threatened to cut the line of retreat for Italian forces reported falling back from Argirocastro, which is situated about 15 miles southwest of Premet.

Greek columns were said to be driving on Argiracastro from both the south and east.

A Greek spokesman said reports from the front indicated a "persistent" Italian retreat from Porto Edda on the Adriatic coast, some 15 miles southeast of Argiracastro.

On the northern wing of the front the Greeks said the last Italian troops had been dislodged from mountain positions in the Pogradets area and that the Greek advance was continuing toward Elbasani. Italian losses in this area were described as heavy and the Greeks said they had captured more than 500 prisoners.

(Reports from Yugoslavia, which also told of continued Greek advances toward Elbasani, placed the numbes of Italians taken prisoner at 1,500.)

The Greeks estimated they already had seized more than $8,000,000 worth of equipment abandoned by the retreating Italians. More than 500 machine-guns were said to be among the loot.

Italian warplanes were reported to have bombed the Greek island of Corfu again yesterday but damage was officially described as slight.

Control THE SPASMS OF Whooping Cough with BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

Picton and District

FINAL MEETING OF 1940 COUNCIL SEES ARGUMENT

Deputy Reeve Makes Charge but Matter is Fully Explained

COUNTY ROADS OPEN

Picton—The final meeting of the Town Council for 1940 saw members review the year's work and a couple of arguments arose. Deputy Reeve Ralph Warren charged that Reeve H. S. Colliver had used relief to aid him in the recent election. He stated that the reeve had given a man on relief coal.

Reeve Colliver and Mayor McKibbon explained the matter, stating that the coal was granted when the man presented a statement from a local doctor stating the urgency of the case. Granting of this coal had no connection with votes, the Reeve claimed.

Mayor McKibbon said only three families had been taken on relief during the campaign and there had been no requests for special orders, as might easily have been the case.

Council decided the town will observe Boxing Day, Dec. 26, as a holiday. Colored lights will be erected on Main Street. Objection to use of Hydro power in this way in war time was countered with the reply of Councillor C. McGibbon that Picton had to follow the lead of other centres in decorating.

Licence Junk Yards

It was decided to licence junk yards in order to have control over them. There had been complaints over some established in town.

A letter was read in which the Federal Government offered up to $4,000 if the road to the Bombing and Gunnery School was improved. Council took no action, stating it was a county matter. Reeve Colliver reviewed the recent developments of the road situation, when a contract had been let to the lowest tenderer. Government engineers had insisted the contract be let to a tenderer whose price was $1,700 higher and County Council had dropped the matter.

Most of Roads Open

Most of the county roads are now open but Highway No. 33 from Trenton to Picton is still blocked between Consecon and Hillier. Thursday Picton had only one mail and that came by way of Belleville. Consecon and Hillier Village and rural routes had no mail at all. Snow plows are working night and day but complaints are heard regarding lack of provincial plows on their highway. Picton to Belleville Highway is passable though heavy.

J. O. Herity, Belleville, will be guest speaker at a banquet given by Mayor McKibbon at the Royal Hotel Friday night.

Traffic at Standstill

Snow-blocked roads have brought motor traffic almost to a standstill in all parts of Prince Edward County.

A blizzard all day yesterday filled roads as rapidly as they were opened by the snow plows and it was decided to discontinue this work until the strong wind died down. "Everything is blocked and blocked good," County Road Engineer John B. Dunkley stated. "One snow plow was kept busy yesterday trying to clear a road for a gasoline truck and a bread truck which were snow-bound on the Demorestville road. There were many cars abandoned and the occupants forced to walk miles home.

Attendance Affected

School attendance was affected. Wellington Consolidated School did not expect to hold classes today and none were held Monday or Tuesday, Reeve J. H. Rutter stated. The school busses were unable to cover the routes. Many students at Picton Collegiate were forced to stay in town all night as were several travellers and some from rural areas who came in early in the day but found roads blocked at night.

Drifting snow made it difficult to distinguish the road from the ditch and many cars found themselves in difficulties as a result.

Picton had only one mail yesterday, it arriving hours late in the morning. The rural routes out of Picton had no mail yesterday and some none this week as mail couriers could not get to town.

The temperature was around 20 degrees above zero all day but early in the morning fell as low as 17 below according to the official weather recorder.

It is not believed there will be a scarcity of food in rural areas, many housewives are baking their own bread. Business in Picton is at a standstill.

Students Quarantined

Thirty - five R.C.A.F. students at Picton Bombing and Gunnery School are quarantined as a result of a case of small pox at the training centre. Medical Officer of Health, Dr. D. S. Lighthall stated the case was a mild one. Those in the same area of the camp are quarantined in the guard house and expect to be there sixteen days. Most of them have been vaccinated so that an epidemic is considered unlikely.

The students quartered in another part of the camp and who had not come in contact with the affected man, who is isolated in the centre's hospital, have not been quarantined. There are about 150 students at the centre.

No Police Court Held

Owing to a heavy snow storm, and roads filled in, in many places, there was no police court held here on Wednesday.

O. W. Torrence charged with assault causing grevious bodily harm, and several facing less serious charges will appear before Magistrate Butler of Belleville on Friday afternoon. Judgment in the case of Pierce Jones charged with assault causing actual bodily harm will be given when Magistrate Garvin, who heard the case, can return to Picton.

Entertains For Guild

Mrs. Francis Owens, Paul Street entertained the members of her group of the Guild, at her home on Tuesday evening. There were five tables of bridge with the lovely favour going to Miss Frances Pierce. Later delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her sister Mrs. Spetsinger, Mrs. Howard Walmsley and Miss F. Pierce.

Late Miss Mary McCormick

Many friends attended the funeral of Miss Mary McCormick in St. Gregory's Church on Monday morning. The deceased who had reached an advanced age, passed away at her home at Glenora on Saturday. She was held in high esteem in her neighborhood, and by a wide circle of friends in Picton. Surviving are a sister Miss Susie McCormick, and a brother Michael McCormick at home, and a niece Mrs. Gerald McCaw of Picton. Rev. Fr. J. A. Meehan sang the requiem mass, and interment was made in Mount Olivet cemetery.

The Christmas spirit prevaded the kindergarten on Wednesday evening, when a Christmas program was put on by the H. & S. Club, with the President Mrs. F. Webster in the chair. Following the singing of "O Canada" several Christmas carols were sung by the members, with Mrs. Case Walters at the piano. Mrs. Frank Kemsley gave a paper on World Citizenship. A play in costume "Christmas in Many Lands" was cleverly presented by a number of pupils from Mr. Walters' room of York Street School.

Mrs. Brown gave a very fine paper on the origin and classification of carols.

The choir boys of the Anglican Church sang two Christmas carols with Miss E. Holmes at the piano and John Webster, Jimmy Rose and Douglas Manlow taking the solo parts.

Misses Betty Nourse and Joan Rutter gave short explanations of the carols "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen" and "Good King Wenceslas" which were sung in fine harmony by the pupils of Mrs. Todd's room.

The mother's choir with Mrs. J. H. Walmsley at the piano, sang two carols "Sleep Lovely Child" and "The Holly and Ivy," in three parts. As more than one hundred dollars for the Milk Fund was realized from community teas last year, it was decided to repeat these in January. Candy canes from a gay Christmas tree were distributed to the children at the close of the program.

GEN. P. BADOGLIO

(Continued from Page One)

Rewarded With Title

He gained victory over the Ethiopians and was rewarded with the title of Duke of Addis Ababa and named Viceroy of Ethiopia. He was showered with honors upon his return to Rome.

In the Ethiopian campaign he settled an account that had rankled in his memory since 1896 when, as a young officer of 25, he witnessed the Italian army's humiliating defeat at Aduwa.

Badoglio was born in Piedmont Province on Sept. 28, 1871, the son of a farmer. He was attracted to military life and attended the military academy at Turin.

He is married and the father of one child, a daughter.

Not in Sympathy With Rule

London, Dec. 6 (CP)—Military circles today said that the resignation of Marshal Pietro Badoglio as Italian Chief of Staff had deprived Italy of one of its most experienced commanders and "one who apparently was not in sympathy with the military policy now being pursued by the Fascist Government."

Some military sources expressed the opinion that Badoglio had been "sacked" as a scapegoat for Italian military reverses or "because he is opposed to the attitude of the party organization."

In Post For 15 Years

Badoglio had been Chief of the General Staff for 15 years and was highly regarded as a soldier.

He was replaced by Gen. Ugo Cavallero, until recently commander of Italian forces in East Africa.

Cavallero, who is 60 years old, nine years younger than Badoglio, first fought in the Libyan war of 1912-1913.

At the beginning of the first Great War he served as an aide to the army Chief of Staff and later was named Chief of Operations in the High Command. In this office he was credited with playing an important part in reorganizing Italian defences on the Piave after the Caporetto disaster and directing the campaign which led to the final Italian victory of Vittorio Veneto.

Joined Fascists After War

Badoglio, whom Mussolini called upon to vanquish Ethiopia when the Italian campaign bogged down, did not join the Fascists party until he had sealed his triumph over Haile Selassie's empire.

Chief of staff when the blackshirts marched on Rome, Badoglio was reposted to have assured King Victor Emmanuel that he could, if ordered, disperse Mussolini's men with a single regiment.

But the king decided to invite Mussolini to form a government and Badoglio offered no opposition to the regime.

Soon after Mussolini assumed power he sent Badoglio to Brazil as ambassador, Badoglio receiving the diplomatic appointment, it was believed at the time, because he was too strong with the army and too popular with the people to dismiss altogether.

Called Back to Italy

His position as Italy's foremost soldier was so strong, however, that Mussolini called him back to direct reorganization of the Italian war machine in 1926.

Badoglio first marched to battle as an artillery lieutenant against Ethiopia in 1896 and fought against Turkey in 1911-12. Entering the first Great War as a lieutenant-colonel, he later advanced to the rank of lieutenant-general.

When he was appointed governor of Libya in 1929, he undertook the suppression of a native rebellion.

By JOHN EVANS
(Associated Press Chief of Foreign Service)

A Significant Sign

Italy's sudden retirement of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, known as her best soldier, looks like a significant sign.

Defeats in the Greek campaign may be the immediate reason for Mussolini to change his chief of the General Staff, but soldiers who know the two men and the country will read more than that into it.

Badoglio, first of all, has stood head and shoulders above all military men in Italy.

The Italian marshal who directed land, sea and air operations, never was an ardent Fascist. He joined the party only after his conquest of Ethiopia in 1935-1936.

Since the First Great War Badoglio has been rated Italy's best strategist and his civic courage equalled his military prowess.

Sent For General

When Marshal Emilio De Bono slowed down in his Ethiopian campaign, Mussolini sent for Badoglio. At that time there was a current of anti-Fascism and some discontent with the war. Il Duce was applauded widely then and later for his willingness to honor and trust Badoglio whose refusal to label himself a Fascist hampered the party movement.

Badoglio, it was known, took command in Ethiopia only when Mussolini gave him an absolutely free hand, with the King's full approval and with the understanding that the Black Shirt Fascist soldiers should be part of the regular army with no favoritism because they were party members. After the Italian victory, Badoglio and Mussolini knew each other better and the marshal joined the Fascist party as his contribution to Italian harmony.

May Be a Break

Badoglio's withdrawal at this crucial time, therefore, appears to be a break between him and Mussolini, a sign of dissatisfaction with Italy's part in the war. It may even mean that Badoglio pulled out because he is discontented and wishes to have nothing more to do with the present war against his old British allies on the side of Germany, against which he fought.

In the Italian mind, as elsewhere Badoglio's removal from control hardly can do less than diminish confidence. It is true that Italian confidence in the army has been shaken by the Greek triumphs yet the Italian has an explanation for that.

Italy didn't expect the Greeks to fight and they didn't expect Britain ot get into action in Greece in any big way. They counted on mere occupation of certain disputed territory, with only perfunctory if any resistance. Therefore, they blame the government and the army only for a mistake in political judgment and laxness in military preparation.

Badoglio's disappearance as Chief Commander is something else to people who know Italy. To them it seems an open break that makes them wonder if the root of the trouble is deep and serious.

TICK' EM OFF
OUR 25c to $1 GIFT TABLES will sure make it a painless process.
COME and LOOK!
GEORGE PAULEY
DRUGGIST Phone 105

FREE
Limited number of COOKING SCHOOL RECIPES left over from Norge Cooking School held at The McCarthy Theatre. While they last, FREE to those wishing a copy.
SALES SERVICE
EATON & ROSS
McCARTHY THEATRE BUILDING
325 FRONT STREET PHONE 468

Greetings
BRING THE CHILDREN!
SEE The Big SANTA CLAUS PARADE in BELLEVILLE This SATURDAY 2.00 P.M.

BRITAIN'S HEALTH BETTER THAN IN FIRST GREAT WAR

This Record Obtained Despite Broken Sleep and Long Hours in Cold Air Raid Shelters

NO TYPHOID

London, Dec. 6 (CP)—Britain's health is better now than at any time during the First Great War—even better than in peacetime in some cases—despite broken sleep and long hours in cold air raid shelters, Health Ministry officials said today.

So far there has been no evidence, it was said, to show grounds for the British Medical Journal's dark prophecy months ago that "unless measures are promptly taken....we can foresee this winter a state of affairs in respect to infectious diseases which may prove more devastating than the Blitzkrieg."

Health Ministry figures show that up to Oct. 15 there were only seven deaths in London from infantile paralysis—lower than the peacetime death rate—and only six from typhoid fever.

There were 17,871 cases of diphtheria in all major towns up to Oct. 15 as compared with 17,785 in 1939; 614 cases of typhoid and paratyphoid against 1,181 cases in 1939 and 30,295 cases of scarlet fever against 22,191 cases in 1939.

Cerebro spinal fever, which increases in wartime due to concentration of population, is "not a major problem" because of the excellent results of sulfanilimide treatment, the Ministry declared.

No Cases of Typhoid

Not a single case of typhoid resulting from bombed water mains has been reported, it continued, due to the vigilance of 30 public health laboratories.

There is a seasonal upturn in measles but infectious diseases which were expected to take a heavy toll in crowded shelters were forestalled by better sanitary facilities, by the creation of 125 medical shelterposts where a doctor and nurse are in constant attendance, and by placing 200 more doctors and 150 nurses on call at all times, the Ministry asserted.

Liberal use of gargles, disinfectants and gauze masks has cut the toll of infectious diseases, it was said, and even the lowly "cootie" is getting rough treatment.

Mobile units sent into areas which lack proper facilities are combatting venereal diseases. The rate of increase in such diseases is less than it was last year, they added.

Shock Cases Few

Bomb shock cases were said to be "surprisingly few." One shelter reported that out of 1,000 cases received only 15 had psychological disorders.

Sir Alan Anderson, a director of the Bank of England, told a meeting of the Hospital Savings Association recently that "apparently the people are too occupied now to be ill."

Bunks which have been recommended to keep persons from sleeping too close to each other in air raid shelters are being installed.

Miss Ellen Wilkinson, parliamentary secretary for the Ministry of Home Security, told Commons yesterday that up to November 27, bunks for 109,200 persons had been installed and 99,300 more had been delivered and would be erected soon.

Even the death toll from bombs has shown a decline. There were 5,003 reported killed in London in September and 4,751 in October. Officials estimated that November's figure would show a further decline of 75 per cent.

Police Blotter

Royal Canadian Mounted Police seized an American automobile, which had apparently been abandoned in a Shannonville garage, on Thursday. The vehicle was impounded and sold under the Canada Customs Act. The vehicle had been left in the garage by a man, who gave his name as Donald Wil-two months ago. Willard not only lard of Rutland, Vermont, nearly failed to return for his property, but all correspondence sent to his given address was returned. The vehicle was disposed of by the R.C.M.P. under Federal regulations.

Sergeant H. E. Thompson, of the O.P.P., apprehended one Carl E. Ellis of Trent Bridge, Ont., on a charge of fraud yesterday. Ellis is alleged by the authorities to have obtained taxi service in a fraudulent manner.

No arrests being necessary in Belleville yesterday, the cell block was available for five transients who appeared for shelter last night. Chief Kidd revealed today there had been a marked decrease in the number of transients seeking lodgings in Belleville this autumn.

MAC'S
SMOKES
Get Your Week-end
SMOKES
MAGAZINES, and CANDY
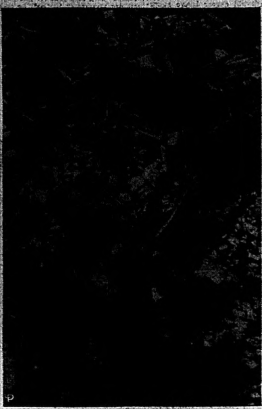
at MAC'S
Belle Theatre
Building,
345 Front Street



BLOCK OF LONDON OFFICE BUILDINGS RAZED

Soldiers, police and members of the pioneer corps, are pictured as they worked over a wrecked office building in London, searching for men and girls who were trapped, when Hitler's Luftwaffe, recently, bombed and laid waste an entire London block of office buildings. The air-raid took place during the day and many employees were entombed in their underground shelters.

Signalman Leslie Thatcher Getting Restless for More Action

(By ROSS MUNRO)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Somewhere in England, Dec. 6 (CP)—Signalman Leslie Thatcher has seen more action in this war than anyone else in the ranks of the Canadian Active Service Force but he's getting restless again for more fighting and is trying to get transferred to the Royal Air Force as an air gunner or to a counter-espionage unit.

"I can't take this waiting-around business," he said.

"I'm out for some more excitement, somewhere, somehow."

Excitement certainly was his fare earlier this year when he fought with the International Brigade against the Russians in Finland and then went to Norway to fight with the Norwegian army against the Nazi invaders.

At first glance Thatcher is just an enthusiastic wiry kid like hundreds of others among the Canadian troops. But watch him spring to attention with a salute as smart as an Imperial and listen to his confident, decisive talk and there is the mark of a veteran about this blond youth of 20 who won three decorations for valour, one with the Finns and two with the Norwegians.

Left Without Permission

His saga of adventure has one blot on it—he left the Signals for the Scandinavian wars without permission. It's a cardinal sin in the army but his fighting record was so good that he was pardoned after being court-martialled on his return to England.

Thatcher became an expert skier in the twisting trails of the Gatineau Hills north of Ottawa and in Finland he was with the ghost patrols of skiers who harried Russian columns for weeks. From Finland he moved to Norway and after taking part in several important engagements was captured by the Germans and imprisoned in Oslo. Then he escaped with some British soldiers.

"We shot our way out of that prison," said Thatcher, relating his story as calmly as if it were a practice manoeuvre with the Canucks in England. "The Nazis foolishly failed to search us completely and we carried revolvers in our knee-high Russian boots which they didn't take away from us. After we got out, we wandered about for a while and then were evacuated by a British destroyer."

Now Thatcher is back with the Signals, filled with a soldier of fortune's zeal for another scrap.

Damage in Industrial Sections Of Midlands Reported as Negligible

By H. TAYLOR HENRY

Birmingham, England, Dec. 6 (AP)—Bombing damage to Britain's industrial West Midlands as a whole apparently has been almost negligible.

The area is so vast and so teeming with blast furnaces, factories and plants of all sorts that even if the Germans completely knocked down one of the industrial sections of Birmingham itself, the damage still would be slight.

Birmingham proper has been hit—and hit hard—but except for its satelite neighbor, Coventry, eighteen miles away, most of the Midland industrial centres have not even been threatened, so far as I could see today.

Birmingham possibly has suffered even worse than Coventry from waves of night raiders. A big church has been blasted, hotels blown out and great stores, including some of the best in England, damaged.

But on the surface it is less apparent, for Birmingham is big and sprawling and modern.

While the heart of middle-aged Coventry and eighteenth century Bristol burned out, most of Birmingham's modern buildings stand.

Some of her big buildings are reduced to shells, however, others have been sheered half away, and rows of houses and small shops have been blasted.

At a rough estimate, the city has 10,000 to 15,000 homeless, and an equal number whose jobs have been destroyed. This is from a population of well over 1,000,000.

Transportation rapidly is being restored to normal. There is no scarcity of food. In front of the bombed and burned Central Market today I saw plentiful supplies of meat, fish and fresh vegetables on hucksters' carts.

Night raiders have concentrated on the business and shopping districts. In workers' homes which surround these sections the heaviest casualties have occurred. People are going about their work as normally as possible under the conditions.

During my tour of the town today raiders were reported in the area, but nowhere did I see a rush for shelters, although the bomb-bursting sound of 'whump, whump' could be heard in the distance.

A normal pall of smoke hung over the city from its many industries. Workers' bicycle racks and parking lots at most factories in the area surrounding the city were full.

Brigade Commanders For Fourth Division Named by Dep't

Ottawa, Dec. 6 (CP).—Two battalion commanders from overseas and a veteran militia officer have been appointed to command the three infantry brigades of the 4th Division, Hon. C. G. Power, acting Minister of National Defence announced today.

Continuing the practice of recalling officers who went overseas with the 1st Division for key posts in the other divisions organized in Canada, Lt.-Col. J. R. Stevenson of Vancouver, is recalled from the command of the Seaforth Highlanders to lead the 10th Brigade and Lt.-Col. Vernon Hodson of Toronto, who led the Royal Canadian Regiment overseas is given command of the 12th Brigade.

Command of the 11th Brigade goes to Col. Alan M. Thomas of Toronto, formerly in command of the 6th (Reserve) Infantry Brigade. All three officers will assume the rank of Brigadier on taking over their brigades.

ALCATRAZ SEETHS WITH UNREST, CONVICTS GUARDED

Warden and Officials Look for Break in Weather to End Watchfulness

FEAR ESCAPES

San Francisco, Dec. 6 (AP)—Warden James A. Johnston and his corps of guards waited hopefully on fog-bound Alcatraz Island today for a break in the weather to end their strained watchfulness over 300 criminals, worst in the United States.

For two nights and a day—since one of the year's heaviest fogs rolled in Wednesday afternoon—all of the convicts have been kept locked in their cells.

Authorities feared escape attempts or some possible violence among the inmates, keyed up by a convict killing and a prisoners' strike.

Although the general lock-up obviated any escapes—such as the still unsolved 1937 disappearance of convicts Ralph Roe and Ted Cole from Alcatraz during a heavy fog — the tension persisted.

Convicts Pace the Floor

Idle convicts in the long, shiny steel cages, paced the floors. Outside the prison, fog horns bellowed the ships' bells and whistles and other navigational aids sounded a continuous din on San Francisco Bay.

Warden Johnston said sleep anywhere on the island was difficult.

Fog and the consequent confinement of prisoners to their cells delayed a showdown in the strike which started Wednesday when 12 of the hundred prisoners in the laundry balked on the job, complaining the work was too heavy. The Alcatraz laundry cleans linen from arriving United States army and navy transports.

The Alcatraz slaying occurred earlier in the week when Rufus McCain, one of the convicts, was stabbed fatally by Henri Young, a bank robber. Young is in solitary confinement pending an investigation.

AGED MAN SAYS HE WAS ROBBED

Claims He Was Jumped Upon as He Entered Home Last Night and Robbed

Waterford, Ont., Dec. 6 (CP)—Only a few hours after he had allegedly attacked and robbed an 80-year-old man at the latter's home, Russell Wier, 20, Waterford, was arrested early today by night constable C. A. Bowman in a restaurant at Waterford.

Eben Gilbert, who resides by himself in a residence near the outskirts of the village, was reported to have been robbed of approximately $35 when he was jumped upon by an assailant as he entered his home last night. Gilbert told police he was knocked to the floor and the thief, taking money from a pocket, ran from the house. Gilbert was not injured by the attack and was able to go to a neighbor's home from where he telephoned police at Waterford.

County Constable Clare Tench, Waterford, said Wier was in possession of $30.35 when arrested. He was lodged in the Waterford jail until later in the morning when he was taken to Norfolk county jail at Simcoe.

Wier will face a charge of theft when he appears in Simcoe Court.

Observatory at Greenwich Damaged In Recent Raid

Graves of Ancient Scottish Kings at Hollyrood House Disturbed by Bombs

London, Dec. 6.—(CP)—Greenwich observatory was damaged in a recent air raid, but the famous time ball continues to function, it was disclosed today.

The revolving globe, the observatory clock and parts of the telescope room were damaged by high explosive and fire bombs.

One of the damaged sections was built in 1675 from designs by Sir Christopher Wren.

It was disclosed also that bones were blasted recently from graves of ancient Scottish kings and queens by bombs dropped on Edinburgh's Holyrood House. Windows of the palace were broken by bombs striking close to the ruins of the old chapel.

"The Ring," one of London's famous boxing halls, also was damaged. On Blackfriars Road, it was built in 1782 and originally was a chapel.

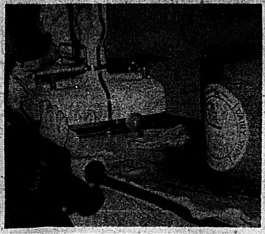
Greenwich observatory is situated on the prime meridian from which astronomers and geographers calculate their longitude and from where "Greenwich time" is telegraphed around the globe.

It was founded by Charles II in 1675 and is under control of the Admiralty. Its equipment includes numerous priceless astronomical instruments.

The observatory also possesses the 24-inch Newtonian reflector with which Lassell discovered the satellites of Uranus and Neptune.

Photographs of the sun are taken on every possible day and are stored for reference, forming a continuous sunspot record since 1873. A continuous record of the moon's position since the middle of the 18th century is contained in the astronomical observations, a publication started in 1750.

Magnetic and meteorological observations also have been carried on regularly there since 1838.



A "WEIGHTY" PROBLEM—PARDON THE PUN

"If I could only get it on that scale for a second," was perhaps the thought running through the mind of this boy as he attempts a guess on the weight of a large cheese. Public school pupils in Belleville and the Ontario School for the Deaf are each being given a guess. The contest was held in connection with the British Empire Dairy Show of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' association.

Bomb Splinters From Battle of Britain

By DOUGLAS AMARON,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The lights went up and the theatre manager announced that an air raid warning had sounded. No one moved.

"Do you really have to switch on the lights to tell us that?" came a query from the audience.

"Yes, Sir, it's the law," said the manager.

"Then be a good scout, old chap, switch off the lights and let's get on with the show," the voice came back.

The film being shown was "London Can Take It."

A temporary bridge with steel stanchions and timber facings and tops is being built over a large bomb crater in one of London's thoroughfares. When the bridge is completed it will carry two single lines of traffic over the crater and still leave room for repair work to continue underneath.

The pilot of a Messerschmitt 109 shot down by Spitfires at Birchington Kent, bailed out at 400 feet and lived to tell the tale. His fall was broken when he crashed into a leafy tree and he received only a cut face. Soldiers climbed the tree and brought him down.

Bert Smith received a night off from his duties as member of a stretcher party and went home to see his wife and two daughters. Raiders passed overhead and a bomb wrecked his own and several nearby houses. None of the Smith family was injured but Bert spent the rest of the night helping to extricate dead and wounded from the other houses.

'It Becomes Possible to Hope Fascist Empire May be Dummy, Canvas, Camouflage'-Morrison

Portsmouth, England, Dec. 6—(CP) — Citing British and Greek successes in the Mediterranean, Home Secretary Herbert Morrison said today in a speech here that "It becomes possible to hope that the Italian Fascist empire may be a dummy—all canvas and camouflage."

"Our own navy and air force, and now spectacular triumphs of the Greek army, have shown up weak spots in at least one of our enemies," Mr. Morrison declared.

But, he warned "feather-headed optimism" and "leaden-footed pessimism" re two dangers in Britain's path.

Six Reasons for Cheerfulness

He listed "six reasons for cheerfulness," including Italian reverses. Others were:

". . . The way we rose to the occasion with a tremendous spurt in factories and camps in meeting the biggest crisis in our history. . . . That our navy is powerful and has already established complete moral ascendancy over our Italian opponent. We are confident it will do the same with the subtler menace of the U-boat.

". . . That our R.A.F. has won one of the greatest and most decisive battles in the world's history by beating its far more numerous opponent out of the daylight skies so that millions of town dwellers go about their work in complete disregard of the boasted Luftwaffe, sitting on its bases 15 or 20 minutes away.

". . . That our army has within a few months multiplied many times over the strength of an island fortress and correspondingly reduced the chance that an invasion, if it came, might succeed.

". . . The splendid resistance put up by the civil defence force, including police and civil population, against the trials and terrors of air bombardment."

Four Recommended For Naturalization By Judge Cameron

Four petitions for Canadian naturalization were placed before His Honor Judge C. A. Cameron, County Judge for the County of Hastings, in his chambers at noon today. The parties seeking naturalization were personally presented by Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson and after examining the applicants, His Honor stated he would recommend all applications to the Dominion Government for consideration.

Two of the applicants were born in the United States of America, while the remaining two were natives of German-occupied countries in Europe, Holland and Czechoslovakia respectively. All four applicants stated they would be willing to take up arms at any time in the defence of Canada and the British Empire.

"You must always remember there are responsibilities as well as privileges in becoming a British subject," His Honor Judge Cameron counselled each applicant individually.

There had been five names entered for naturalization through the Crown Attorney's office, but one failed to answer to his name today. "According to his application papers this man resides at R.R. No. 6 in the Township of Marmora and it is quite possible the weather conditions may have held him up," suggested Crown Attorney Robertson. Another applicant, John Marton, told the court he resided north of Marmora, but had remained all week in Belleville in order to appear today. He added he likes Canada because "everybody is free and I can go when and where I please."

The list of applicants and their qualifications were:

John Marton, of Marmora, a wood-cutter by trade, who was born at Tosola, Czechoslovakia, in 1896, coming to Canada via the port of Halifax in April, 1927. He is a widower and resided in Oshawa before taking up his present residence in 1932.

Ezra Lockwood of Frankford, occupation, police constable, who was born in the State of Michigan in the United States of America in 1884. He came to Canada in 1902 via Sarnia and has resided in Frankford for the past 25 years. He is a married man with two children.

Willebrordus E. A. Beljaert, Marmora Township farmhand, who was born in Holland in the year 1902, coming to Canada via the port of Quebec, in May of 1927. Has resided in Marmora Township for the past eight years and is not married.

Lewis Ellwood Roseberry, of Belleville, manager, who was born in Freeport, Illinois, U.S.A., in the year 1912, coming to Canada via the port of Niagara Falls in July 1922. Is married and has three children, having resided at Point Anne and Belleville since arrival in this country.

104 BELOW ZERO AT ALTITUDE OF NINE MILES

Denver, Dec. 6 (AP)—A radio-equipped weather observation balloon reported a record low temperature of 104 degrees below zero at an altitude of nine miles above Denver yesterday. The previous record, at about the same level, was 101 degrees last Oct. 19. The day's maximum on the ground was 67 above zero.

COUNTY COUNCIL WILL NOT DETER DOM. WAR EFFORT

No Action Taken by Body on Simcoe Resolution for Federal Jurisdiction of Farm Labor

REPORTS HEARD

Paramount duty of the county councils of Ontario is not to place anything in the way, nor deter the government's efforts in helping to bring the war to a successful conclusion, Reeve G. B. Bedford, Rawdon, told the Hastings County Council today in presenting a motion that no action be taken on a resolution of Simcoe County Council petitioning the Federal Government to supply farm labor during hay and harvest time for the duration of the war.

The Simcoe body in its resolution felt that in view of shortage of harvest labor, the Dominion Government should be asked to supply the necessary man-power inasmuch as agricultural produce is one of the most important ingredients necessary in war time. At the same time, the resolution stated, the Simcoe body was not desirous of curtailing the country's war efforts.

"No Action"

The Federal Government is fully cognizant of the farm labor situation, Reeve Bedford stated, "I feel that nothing should be done to hinder the government's war efforts and it is the duty of every county council to see that no objects are placed in the government's way toward winning the war."

"Hastings County Council will not, I feel sure, do anything to hinder the nation's war efforts and I therefore move 'no action.' The motion carried unanimously.

Agricultural Report

The report of the Agricultural Advisory Council as read by Chairman Charles Rush, Hungerford, revealed that grants had been given of $150 to the Belleville Fair Board; $100 each to county boards holding fairs; $75 to junior extension work and $50 to an agricultural short course now being held in Tweed. A grant of $100 was also made to the Cheese Exhibition recently concluded in Belleville.

The report expressed regret that the board was forced to dispense with the public speaking contests this year. War measures had forced discontinuance of school fairs, but there was a possibility of oratorical contests being held next year.

The advisory council paid tribute to Agricultural Representative H. Linn Fair "whose untiring efforts in the agricultural field have been of benefit to all interested in these matters."

Auditors Appointed

The bylaw covering the appointment of county auditors caused a lengthy discussion with several applications being considered before final appointments were made. Messrs. E. C. Townsend and Stillman Gay were the successful applicants after Chairman Charles Rush, presiding over the Bylaws Committee, was forced to cast the deciding vote following a deadlock of the council.

Other bylaws which passed the second reading included those for deletion of portions of roads in the townships of Dungannon and Limerick; permission for the township of Wollaston to collect tax arrears and to sell certain lands for taxes; and to commit persons to the County House of Refuge.

Prior to the noon adjournment Reeve U. A. Hubbell, Faraday, stated that he would move, during the afternoon session, for snow-removal grants for the northern municipalities.

Request for a grant for the Victorian Order of Nurses, asked for in an appeal to council yesterday by Mr. H. B. Fetterley, was transferred to the Ways and Means Committee after the amount of the grant had been set at $50.00.

HUGH A. NEWALL IS SENT TO TRIAL

Proceedings Brief in Murder Charge in Toronto Police Court

Toronto, Dec 6 (CP)—Aircraftman Hugh Alexander Newall of the Royal Canadian Air Force was committed for trial today on a charge of murder in the "silk-stocking" slaying of his 22-year-old estranged wife, Aune, whose body was found on Toronto Island Oct. 6.

Magistrate F. C. Gullen committed Newall, 27, after a two-minute hearing today at which Defence Counsel G. C. Elgie said he believed that some witnesses he had been trying to locate would be available at the time of trial. The last remand in the case had been granted to allow Mr. Elgie time to find the witnesses.

Bombing Operations Cancelled

London, Dec. 6—(CP)—Offensive operations of British fliers yesterday included attacks on an electro-chemical factory at Eindhoven and airports at Rotterdam and Haamstede, all in the Netherlands, and the German submarine base at Lorient, France, the Air Ministry announced today.

Two British aircraft were lost in patrols.

Because of bad weather bombing operations last night were cancelled a communique said.

Collegiate News

Listening in: — Last Friday was the Sadie Hawkin's Tea Dance to which "we women" took "the men" (supposedly at any rate) at the Collegiate. To the music of the school orchestra which is led by Bill Boyle with Barry Christie at the traps and Lloyd Downey at the piano, and with Bruce Cronk, who puts a lot of "oomph" into the band in a brilliant, startling, amazing, astounding and astonishing (here our adjectives run out) red shirt complete with plaid tie, playing a coronet or something. Numerous members of the student body swirled and swayed in various intricate steps for several enjoyable hours under the apt supervision of Miss Wallen and Mr. Yerex.

Wednesday morning Mr. MacLaurin addressed an assembly of county students and War Saving Stamp representatives on our war effort and emphasized our need to help the fighting British.

In the afternoon Miss Grout addressed the senior girls on "Food For Health" and gave the second address in our first aid program.

All in all Wednesday was an eventful day for it was with astonished exclamations we perceived water gushing from three or four first-floor lockers. When the owners of said lockers were summoned and gingerly opened them, a veritable flood of water poured forth, covering most of one corridor with an inch or so of water. This incident enlivened our day considerably and was discussed enthusiastically. The words "the flood" were on everyone's lips, although this minor disaster lasted only about fifteen minutes.

The Christmas cards also arrived Wednesday and there was a rather humorous tale of how. The name on our science teacher's cards were misspelled "Budgeon" instead of "Dudgeon." The error was speedily rectified, however.

With thoughts of joy, we look forward to Christmas holidays which are only two weeks away; but with sadly different thoughts we look forward another week after that to exams. Need we say any more?

Harold Carruthers, a graduate of the Collegiate, a splendid baritone, sang "I Am a Canadian," a popular patriotic song, Thursday morning in assembly, after which we joined in.

"I Am a Canadian"

On the street, in the home,
In a crowd, or alone,
Shout wherever you may be,
I am a Canadian.
I am from the heart of me,
Rich or poor, young and old,
Let this message be told,
Shout wherever you may be
I am a Canadian.
I'm proud of my liberty.
In the factory, in the mill,
Thru each valley, from each hill,
Raise your voice and let's give
Canada a thrill.
On the farm, in the schools,
Let's have one set of rules,
Shout wherever you may be,
I am a Canadian,
I am every part of me.

KING DENIES NICKEL BEING SENT TO JAPAN

Tells House of Commons No Nickel Shipped to Japan in Last Week

Ottawa, Dec. 6.— (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King yesterday told the House of Commons he desired to "repudiate as strongly as possible" a statement attributed to Dr. Robert McClure of the International Red Cross, that as recently as last week Canadian nickel was shipped to Japan.

He read a telegram he had sent Dr. McClure asking him to provide evidence in support of his statement or to correct it publicly.

No Canadian Nickel had been shipped to Japan since January 2, 1940, and no scrap iron since a year ago last autumn, the Prime Minister said.

Reading a Toronto despatch of The Canadian Press which quoted Dr. McClure as saying in an address last night that Canadian nickle was being shipped to Japan as recently as last week, Mr. King suggested to the House the remarks were dangerous at a time when the international situation was so tense.

The question was raised by T. C. Douglas (C.C.F. Weyburn) who asked the Prime Minister to give assurance "this shameful traffic" would be stopped.

Dr. McClure was quoted as saying he had been picking Canadian scrap iron out of Chinese bodies for three years and expected that someone soon would be picking it out of British bodies. He indicated a belief Japan was preparing to attack Singapore.

Mr. King said he could not understand a man in high position using such language in commenting publicly on a situation so tense as that now existing.

WILL BE ASKED QUESTION

London, Dec. 6 (CP)—The First Lord of the Admiralty will be asked in a parliamentary question prepared by Oswald Lewis, Conservative, if he would consider "excluding (from British convoys) all ships bound to Eire (Ireland) until the government of Aire is prepared to afford facilities to the British navy that will make easier their work of protecting such convoys."

(Eire has taken a position of neutrality in the war and has refused use of her ports to the Royal Navy).

Probabilities

Lower Lake region: Strong southwest to northwest winds or moderate gales with occasional rain, somewhat colder tonight. Sunday, fresh to strong west and northwest winds; partly cloudy

The Ontario Intelligencer

Temperatures

	Max.	Min.
Today	33	22.5
One Year Ago	46	33.5

Weather—Rain.

 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO SATURDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1940

GREEKS ON HEELS OF RETREATING ITALIANS

* * *

GERMAN RAIDERS FOCUS ATTENTION ON BRISTOL

* * *

Another High Ranking Official Walks Out on Duce

Italian Troops In Full Flight Toward Tepeleni

Retreating Forces Reach Last Mountain Ridges Near Chimara, Tepeleni and Elbasani

Athens, Dec. 7 (AP)—Italian forces were reported today to have abandoned Argirocastro, leaving parts of the inland Albanian base in flames. Dispatches from the front said Greek troops advancing on Argirocastro from several directions had established contact preparatory to occupation.

The road between Porto Edda and Delvino and the road south of Argirocastro already are occupied by Greek forces, it was said. The High Command announced yesterday that Porto Edda, 15 miles southwest of Argirocastro and the main sea gateway to supply the Italians, had fallen.

3,000 Prisoners Taken

Dispatches from the front said at least 3,000 prisoners were captured yesterday, along with more than 100 Howitzers. The Howitzer was one of the Italians "principal weapons" in the attempt to invade Greece which the Greeks turned into a counter-invasion of Italian-held Albania.

Many prisoners, it was said, have been transported to Greek camps in the past four days by plane to facilitate their movement over the mountainous frontier region.

Greek units were reported advancing from Porto Edda with a new battlecry—"Tirana by Christmas!" Tirana is the Albanian capital.

Greek troops were reported striking full force at Italian units retreating across the last mountain ridges toward the Albanian foothill towns of Chimara, Tepelini and Elbasani.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Dec. 7 (CP).—Rain and snow have fallen in Ontario and it has become colder in the Lake Superior district. The weather has been fair and mild in Alberta and in Saskatchewan with snowflurries in Manitoba where it has become a little colder again.

PLACE:	8 a.m.	High Yest'dy	Low During Night
Vancouver	44	47	43
Victoria	47	47	45
Calgary	40	41	30
Edmonton	21	39	17
Winnipeg	10	27	7
Sault Ste. Marie	32	34	32
Toronto	40	36	35
Ottawa	12	4	3
Quebec	11	4	2
Halifax	15	31	13
Detroit	42	39	39
New York	39	34	29
Miami	62	77	59
Los Angeles	66	76	61

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Science Service Meteorologist

Cold weather! The lowest temperatures are found in high latitudes and in the interior of continents like Siberia or Antarctica. This is due principally to two reasons: First, because inside the Arctic or Antarctic circles, the winter nights are long, thus giving long periods to uninterrupted radiation, or loss of heat. Second, because cold air being dense is stable; it cannot rise and remains at low levels or is replaced by even colder air. So, as a rule, cold begets cold. These principles are well illustrated in our coldest regions, such as Antarctica, northeast Siberia, northern Canada, and Greenland.

HOUSE ADJOURNS UNTIL FEB. 17: TWO BILLS PASSED

Government Given Wide Powers to Prohibit or Licence Imports From Non-Essential Areas

TAX LUXURIES

(By C. R. Blackburn)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—(CP) — Parliamentarians were free today for a long recess, leaving the government with scores of suggestions for improving its prosecution of the war effort and bettering conditions for the Canadian people.

After adopting only two legislative measures, both concerned with the government's war emergency program for conservation of foreign exchange, the House of Commons adjourned last night until next February 17, subject to recall at any time in case of an emergency. The Senate adjourned until March 4.

The session, which opened November 7, was occupied almost entirely with a full dress debate on Canada's war effort. This had precedence over other business from November 12 to December 3 inclusive

Introduced by Ilsley

Last Monday the only Bills of the Fall sitting were introduced by Finance Minister Ilsley, debated Thursday and Friday in the House, and put through the Senate in a few minutes yesterday. They give the government wide powers to pro-

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Five Persons Hurt Near Almonte, Ont.

Almonte, Ont., Dec. 7.—(CP)—Five persons were in the hospital here suffering from injuries received when a creamery truck was in collison with an automobile driven by Dr. Joseph Teich of Carleton Place, Ont., about four miles west of here.

The injured, Dr. Teich, Harry Phillips, John Hurdis and Miss Ruby Robertson of Carleton Place and Mrs. G. McVean of Smiths Falls, Ont., all were passengers in Dr. Teich's automobile Police said the truck was driven by Stanley Tufts of Perth, Ont., who was uninjured.

Canada's Fighting Sons Overseas Can "Go to School" If They Like

By ROSS MUNRO

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Somewhere in England, Dec. 7 (CP).—Canada's fighting sons overseas can "go to school" here if they like. Plans for the new educational program, sponsored by Canadian Legion War Services, were outlined to leaders from every camp at a meeting at Corps headquarters.

Dr. E. A. Chatwin, prominent Saskatoon educationist who is the legion's director of educational services, has arrived in England and will have an office at Canadian military headquarters in London. He will be aided for a time by Col D. E. MacIntyre of Ottawa and formerly of Owen Sound, Ont., general manager of war servicese.

This new project has strong support of Lt.-Col. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the corps, in which the 1st Division and other Canadian troops are serving.

"This program is intended to assist our men in their military work as well as to aid them on their return to civil life when the war is over," he told The Canadian Press. "It is of such importance both for military and civil qualification of the men that I ask every formation commander to give every encouragement and help."

He emphasized that the "scheme is entirely on a voluntary basis and it is only intended for men who wish to undertake the work. Demand must come from the men themselves."

Survey of Needs Made

Survey of the troops' educational needs was made by J. B. Bickersteth, warden of Hart House, men's social centre at University of Toronto. His report, which received full approval of the corps commander, showed the wide demand among the troops for the program initiated by the legion.

Because the troops are dispersed

(Continued on Page Eleven)

GEN. DE VECCHI RESIGNS POST AS ISLAND GOVERNOR

Dodecanese Islands to be Commanded by Gen. Ettore Bastico

HELPED BENITO IN '22

De Vecchi is One of Two Remaining Quadrumvirs Who Led Blackshirts on Rome

Rome, Dec. 7 (CP)—Count Cesare Marie De Vecchi Di Val Cismon, one of the original big four of Italian Fascism, resigned his command in the Dodecanese Islands today in the second sensational retirement from Italy's war scene.

Gen. Ettore Bastico, 64-year-old commander of the motorized army of the Po, and veteran of the Fascist Blackshirts, was chosen by Mussolini to replace the 66-year-old Count, who had been civil and military Governor of the Aegean Islands since November, 1936.

Nothing was published in Rome on the resignation beyond this communique:-

"By Royal Decree which is to be signed, Brig-Gen. Cesare Maria De Vecchi Conte Di Val Cismon is giving up at his request the duty of commander of the forces of the Aegean and that of Governor. By Royal Decree, likewise to be signed, Ettore Bastico, General of the army,

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Only Three Ships Reported Sunk In Week of December 6

(By The Canadian Press)

Germany made a wide assortment of claims of merchant ships sunk in the week ending Dec. 6, but only three vessels totalling 11,471-tons—one British, one Greek and one Yugoslav—were reported definitely sunk in the period.

Five other British ships aggregating 24,426 tons reported by wireless that they were torpedoed in the North Atlantic several hundred miles west of Ireland, but it was not known whether they were actually sunk or managed to get away damaged.

The British Admiralty maintained its policy of giving out no information on individual ships. Its most recent summary, for the week ended Nov. 24, showed 87,975 tons of British, allied and neutral shipping had been sunk in that period, which was some 30,000 tons above the weekly average since the war began but well below the high of recent months—the 198,000 tons announced as sunk for the week of October 14-21.

British Bombers Turn Attention on German Air Bases in France

London, Dec. 7 (CP). — British bombers turned their attention last night to the Nazi air bases from which the German air force has been attacking London, Southampton, Bristol, Birmingham and other English cities, the Air Ministry announced today.

Royal Air Force planes roared over the bases in France and the Low Countries, dropping incendiary and high explosive bombs.

The attack began yesterday at nightfall and lasted until several hours past midnight, the ministry said.

The channel ports of Dunkerque, Calais and Boulogne were also bombed. Two British planes were lost.

Democracy in Canada Threatened By Economic and Financial Tyranny Charged by Woman M.P.

Mrs. Nielsen Also Attacks Defence of Canada Regulations in Speech at Toronto

FREEDOM JEOPARDIZED

Toronto, Dec. 7 —(CP)— Democracy in Canada is threatened by the government, under the Defence of Canada Regulations, and by "a new tyranny . . . of economic and financial control," in the opinion of Mrs. Dorise Nielsen, Unity member of Parliament for North Battleford.

Speaking here last night under auspices of the Toronto Youth Council and the Canadian Seamen's Union, Mrs. Nielsen continued attacks she had previously started in the House of Commons and on the public platform against the defence regulations and also charged "unprecedented" profiteering by munitions manufacturers.

"We have a government that is taking unto itself greater and greater and greater power and behind it is an advisory committee of men who are making unprecedented profits and who belong to the underworld."

Mrs. Nielsen said the advisory committee was made up of leading industrialists who, through interlocking directorates, controlled most of the industries in Canada.

"A new tyranny has arisen—a tyranny of economic and financial control which during the last decade has denied thousands of our people the right and the freedom to work and to eat."

She said freedom, justice and democracy were gone from Canada. The Defence of Canada Regulations had robbed Canadians of their democratic rights. Regulations were needed to protect the nation against sabotage but there were clauses in the defence regulations "calculated to protect a government which has taken unto itself almost dictatorial powers."

The government had even invaded the field of religion by banning the Jehovah's Witnesses sect, Mrs. Nielsen said she knew little about the sect but she believed the government had made a mistake banning it. Hitler had banned the Jehovah's Witnesses in Germany and then had gone on to ban other sects.

SECOND DIVISION HAS NEW SCHEME TO TRAIN OFFICERS

"Self - Contained Detachment Moves" Will Assist in Handling Men Without Senior Men

INGENUITY TESTED

By ROSS MUNRO

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Somewhere in England, Dec. 7 (CP).—The 2nd Canadian Division has introduced a new scheme called "self-contained detachment moves" to train its young officers in handling their platoons in the field without any assistance from senior men.

Every few days detachments of 25 to 26 men are ordered to take up a position for a night and a day in some specified area. The captain or subaltern in charge must make his reconnaissance and then move by lorry convoy to their new billets. The one rule of the game is that the officer must not pay for any billets, and by this means his ingenuity is tested.

The officer handles the entire administration of his camps while away from the division. He must look after the comfort and protection of his men as well as their discipline. The plan is becoming a real success.

The headquarters staff makes frequent check-ups on the detachments sent out and Lieut. William Ferguson of Winnipeg, aide-de-camp to Maj.-Gen. Victor W. Odlum, divisional commander, drops in on them without warning and reports back on selection of billets and the situation in the camp.

Typical Move Made.

A typical move was made by a detachment from a western artillery regiment. Under Capt. Lionel Clarke of Winnipeg, 33 men moved

(Continued on Page Eleven)

BERMUDA LAND OF PLENTY SINCE OUTBREAK OF WAR

Designation of Island as Base for Examining Ships Has Taken Up Labor Surplus

MANY TOURISTS

By FORD BAXTER

(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Hamilton, Bermuda, Dec. 7 (CP Cable)—An economic transformation wrought by war is being felt in Bermuda, the once-placid British colony that thrusts up from the Atlantic 500 miles from the United States coast.

War developments—notably the designation of Bermuda as a base for the examination of cargoes travelling between the U.S. and Europe—have cut into the labor surplus and brought in much revenue. Further, the establishment of U.S. defence bases here is expected to give a tremendous boost to the colony.

Likelihood is that there will not be enough Bermuda labor to go around when work on the bases starts in earnest. Sir Stanley Spurling, chairman of the Bermuda Labor Board, says only 67 persons are registered as unemployed.

This is in spite of the disbanding of a quasi-military labor corps organized at the outbreak of war to give work to the unemployed. The corps at one time had 350 men enrolled.

Good times have come to the island despite a big drop—caused by the war—in the tourist industry, once the colony's financial mainstay. But now passport requirements for Americans have been abrogated, and it is expected they will be returning in numbers, particularly in view of the U.S. defences here.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

ITALIAN FARMERS MUST STORE CROPS OR GO TO PRISON

Confiscation by Government Will Follow if Farmer Withholds Products From Storage

BILL IS PASSED

Government Also Orders "Great Impetus" in Production of War Materials

Rome, Dec. 7 (AP).—Imprisonment for a year and confiscation of his crops has been ordered for any Italian farmer who withholds his products from compulsory storage. The provision was adopted in a cabinet meeting four days ago, but announced only today.

"The basic importance of storage of agricultural products for supply of the armed forces and the civilian population requires this more severe exemplary suppression of any lack of discipline and comprehension of superior national necessities," said an official statement.

(If there has been any lack of farmer collaboration with Italy's efforts to mobilize her resources for war previous dispatches have not indicated it.)

War needs also impelled the government to order "greatest impetus" in production of war materials, particularly those for war industries, with mines to be worked to capacity The announcement said that penalties were provided against mine owners who failed to carry out the speed-up order.

HOLD ANOTHER NOMINATION

Perth, Ont., Dec. 7 (CP)—Perth held its second municipal nominations last night for Deputy Reeve and five municipal council posts. At the earlier nomination, only two councillors, John Pennett and Frank Cole, qualified. Mayor W. C. McLaren and Reeve W. A. Relyea were given acclamations.

The following were nominated last night:

Deputy Reeve: F. C. Conway, E. J. Lambert, C. Reinhart.

Councillor: R. C. Kirkham, W. W. Clement, R. Cordick, Robert F. Merrill, John Pennett, Walter Hogg, F. C. Conway.

EXPRESSED FRANK OPINIONS

London, Dec. 7—(CP) — Judge Hugh Charles Sowerby Dumas, one of London's best-known County Court judges, is dead. He was 74. Judge Dumas often expressed his personal opinions of people in trades in dispensing advice to litigants. "Laundries," he once declared, "seem to put a nail in a board put every buttonhole in the garment on the nail and pull."

Bomb-Proof Houses Being Built Will Have Heavy Concrete Roofs

By D. E. BURRITT

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 7—(CP)—The time may come when sounding of the air raid sirens will mean "duck into the kitchen" instead of "run for the shelter down the street."

For Britons are watching with interest the experiment of D. E. Gibson, Coventry city architect, who has designed plans for "bomb-proof" houses, 2,500 of which are under construction.

The homes, to be ready for occupancy within a month, will be two-storey, and will have concrete roofs and ceilings and will be so constructed as to reduce the effect of bomb blasts. Danger from incendiary bomb—a present threat to every building of inflammable construction—will be minimised as the bombs will not penetrate the heavy concrete roofs. Even doors will be made of asbestos-concrete composition. No wood will be used.

The seven-room houses will have miniature shelters, with walls 23 inches thick, built in the corner of the kitchen and also under the concrete stairways. Space will be left between the walls so "damp pockets" will be eliminated and will make heating of the buildings a comparatively simple task.

It is understood the Ministry of Home Security is giving consideration to the possibility of launching plans for mass construction of the houses. A house can be built to these specifications in three months at a cost of £6,00 (about $2,670.)

If the government decides to embark on large-scale construction, it is expected that first of the homes will be built in the London area and will be opened to working-class families who have been bombed out of previous residences.

City of Bristol Bears Brunt of German Attacks

Numerous Fires Set, Hospital and Many Buildings Damaged—London is Quiet

London, Dec. 7—(CP)—Bristol, one of Britain's chief west coast ports and the gateway through which many of her seaborne war supplies have been flowing into the industrial midlands, bore the brunt of German bombing attacks during the night, the Government reported today.

Numerous fires were set by the raiders and a hospital and many other buildings were damaged, a communique said. A number of persons were reported killed and injured.

A few bombs also were dropped in the southern part of England and in South Wales, a government communique said, but it added that for the most part German air activity over the island was "not on a heavy scale." No bombs were reported at all in London.

Cables Disrupted

(Cable communications of Western Union and commercial cable companies between New York and London were interrupted for several hours last night. Western Union reported when its lines were restored after an interruption of six hours and 15 minutes that the break was caused by "trouble in the vicinity of Bristol, England.")

"Many incendiary bombs were dropped and some serious fires started" in the town on the Bristol Channel, the communique asserted, but all were brought under control quickly. The raid ended before midnight.

Among the buildings reported hit were a church, a motion picture theatre and a furniture warehouse. The hospital reported bombed suffered many broken windows, but there were no casualties because the patients had been removed to the basement. Thirteen persons were trapped in a wrecked building and a rescue party struggled to save them.

Eight persons were killed by a bomb which struck a private shelter in a south coast town during the night. Circling over the town in a bright moonlight, the raiders showered incendiary and high explosive bombs over a wide area.

R.A.F. fighter shot down two Axis bombers in engagements today, it was learned officially.

SURVEY OF 1940 IN ARMY'S PART SHOWS PROGRESS

Review of Activities of Nation's Forces at Home and Overseas Indicates Advancement During the Year

N.P.A.M. ACTIVE

By FRANK FLAHERTY

Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Ottawa, Dec. 7 (CP)—Emphasis was laid on mobility and mechanization in Canada's military training program throughout 1940 in keeping with the trends of modern warfare.

The training program was necessarily limited to some extent by lack of equipment and accommodation for troops but towards the end of the year the latter deficiency was largely met and equipment was available in greater quantities.

The outstanding development of the year, however, was in connection with preliminary rather than advanced training for the army. This was the introduction of the compulsory principle under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

As the year opened military training was concerned almost wholly with the Canadian Active Service Force, the full-time soldiery now called the Active Army.

In the fall months of 1939 after the outbreak of war, two divisions were mobilized along with ancillary and coastal defence forces. The 1st Division was sent overseas in December, 1939, partly because available winter accommodation did not permit of its being concentrated in one place for advanced training in Canada.

That left the 2nd Division and some other units to carry on training throughout the winter of 1940 scattered across the country by units. In the spring camp accommodation for the 2nd division was provided and an intensive program of

(Continued on Page Eleven)

STRUCTURE ORGANIZED

Vichy, France, Dec. 7 —(AP)— The entire French agricultural structure was organized on a corporative basis in a decree signed today by Premier Philippe Petain.

Peasants are to be organized by families on a regional basis in government-guided agricultural corporations. The decree prohibits farm strikes or lockouts.

Regulations of the corporation are to apply to all persons in each district whose work is connected with farming or rural crafts.

Coming Events

SPECIAL—HOLLOWAY STREET Sunday School will re-enact their Christmas Concert, Monday evening at 8 p.m. "Mother Goose Play" and pageant "Pilgrims to Bethlehem." D7

HEAR R. E. WEMP OF THE British Israel World Federation speak in the Y.M.C.A., Monday, December 9 at 8 p.m. Subject: "The Writing on the Wall." D7-2t

AFTERNOON TEA AND HOME Cooking at the home of Mrs. (Rev.) G. G. Wright, 44 Everett Street, Tuesday, December 10, 3 to 6. Auspices of The Guild. D6

FOR MEMBERS OF THE WOMen's Canadian Club, Tuesday, evening, December 10, 8.15, lecture by Mrs. Nancy Pyper, "Famous People I Have Met." D7

Overseas Boxes with Address Labels
MUCH IMPROVED BOX 15c
GEEN'S PHONE 131

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

BREAD SCATTERED OVER HIGHWAY

Residents on Highland Avenue were indeed surprised early Saturday to find dozens of loaves of bread strewn along the street in front of their homes. As householders arose from a night of peaceful slumber and gazed out into the dawn, several rubbed their eyes, while still others remarked it "must be raining bread."

After more close scrutiny residents established the fact that the avenue was literally strewn with loaves of bread of all sizes and shapes. Mr. E. T. Cherry notified police authorities of the strange phenomenon and later P.C. Thomson arrived to gather up well over one hundred loaves of bread, which had apparently fallen off a wholesale bread delivery truck. The bread was taken to the police station for safe keeping.

WARKWORTH BOY INJURED BY CAR

Eleven-year-old Donald Shea of Warkworth, sustained a fractured arm and leg when struck by a motor car near his home Friday night. Later young Shea was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital, where Dr. G. H. Stoble reduced the fractures.

The lad, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Shea of Warkworth, was struck by a passing motor car when about to cross the street near his home. High snow banks blocked both the boy's and motorist's vision.

ALEX SIMPSON MOVED TO PEMBROKE

Alex Simpson, well known Belleville softball player, was notified by his employers on Saturday that he had been named as manager of the Imperial Oil Company's depot at Pembroke.

Mr. Simpson has been employed by the Imperial Oil Company for the past eleven years, coming to Belleville somewhat over two years ago. During his stay in this city Alex Simpson has made many friends, all of whom wish Alex bon voyage and good luck.

Mr. Simpson was employed by his company at Toronto, Kingston, Tweed and lastly Belleville before he was moved to Pembroke on Saturday. While in Belleville Mr. Simpson was one of the main cogs in the Corbys A.C. softball machine.

It Pays to Buy at The Rexall Store.

The Ideal Gift for Him!
WATERMAN
100 Year
PEN and PENCIL SETS
NEW IN DESIGN and having new features and guaranteed for One Hundred Years.
Sets from $12.25 to $15.00
McKEOWN'S
DRUG STORE
271 Front St. Phone 135

36 YEARS IN BUSINESS
CAMPBELL AUTO BODY
and
PAINT SHOP
BODY and FENDER REPAIRS
327 Coleman St. Phone 777

PALMIST
.HAND WRITING ANALYSIS.
and PALM READING
and CARDS.
HANDWRITING BY MAIL
PROF. CYBELLE
211 Coleman Street.
N5-1m

FRESH CRUMPETS
for WEEK-END
FRESH
SALTED CASHEWS
25c Box
GLAZED FRUITS and NUTS
Freshly Made Today.
DICKENS & SON

New Demands Made On French Indo-China

Chungking, China, Dec. 7—(AP) A dispatch from Kunming to the Chungking newspaper Ta Kung Pao said today the Japanese were reported to have made new major demands to the government of French Indo-China.

The dispatch declared it was learned authoritatively that these demands included immediate Japanese representation in all departments of the Indo-Chinese government and a voice for the Japanese army in the Indo-Chinese police system.

The colonial government was reported to have forwarded the demands to Vichy.

STARTS SUNDAY MIDNITE AFTER 12.05 a.m.
HIS Proposal WAS A Proposition!
It was a cold business deal... until his blonde fiancee and his brunette wife—turned on the heat!
ROSALIND RUSSELL BRIAN AHERNE VIRGINIA BRUCE in Hired Wife
with
ROBERT BENCHLEY JOHN CARROLL
Hobart CAVANAUGH Richard LANE
Produced and Directed by
WILLIAM A. SEITER
Also "TEEMING TREASURES" in Colour. CANVAS CAPERS
CAPITOL
— Ends Tonight —
CHARLIE CHAN IN PANAMA.
"COLORADO"

DON'T WAIT
Used Car prices are lower now than they will be next Spring. There is a better selection now. New model announcements are bringing in choice ones, and you need a good car to stand safely and economically for Winter driving. Drop in now, don't wait, get satisfaction and value here.
'38 CHEVROLET SEDAN
'38 CHEVROLET COACH
'36 FORD COACH
'33 OLDSMOBILE SEDAN
'37 CHEVROLET COACH
'36 STUDEBAKER SEDAN
'38 CHEVROLET PICK-UP
'39 PONTIAC SEDAN
'36 PLYMOUTH COUPE
J. B. BOYCE
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE
SALES — SERVICE
SUNOCO SERVICE STATION
Front St. Phone 798
D6-3t

ARTISTIC
Picture Framing
FRED B. HUDSON
168 Bleecker Ave., Belleville
D7-14-21

Mr. & Mrs. W. C. Hubbs To Celebrate 66th Anniversary, Monday

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hubbs, highly respected couple of Wellington, Ontario, will celebrate the 66th anniversary of their wedding at their home in the lakeside village on Monday. The "groom" is 89 years of age and his wife 86.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubbs were married in Brighton, December 9th., 1874, by the Rev. O. R. Lambly. Formerly Emma D. Pettit, a daughter of Sylvanus and Phoebe Pettit, Mrs. Hubbs was born on the third concession of Hillier. Her husband was born at Hubbs' Creek, a son of Abram and Eustacia Hubbs.

After residing on the farm for 16 years, Mr. and Mrs. Hubbs moved to Wellington where they remained for 16 years before going to Toronto for a lengthy period of time. Some time ago they returned to the village and have resided there since.

Both are valued members of the United Church and are still active. Mrs. Hubbs plays the piano as well as she did forty years ago, and does all her own housework. They have one son, Harold who resides in Toronto.

Two Brakemen Hurt at Kingston

G. Clapper, Phil Doran Are Injured When Load of Steel Rails Shifts

Two Belleville brakemen employed on the Canadian National Railways sustained ankle injuries while working at the Kingston C.N.R. junction Friday night. The injured men, George Clapper, College St., and Phil Doran, Chatham St., are in the Kingston General Hospital, suffering from badly lacerated ankles and possible minor fractures.

Clapper and Doran were employed as brakemen and switching cars at Kingston. The men were standing at one end of a car loaded with steel rails. When the slack of the train was taken up the sudden jerk shifted the load of rails with the result the ends of the steel rails pinned both Doran and Clapper. They were attended in Kingston by Dr. Cain.

OBITUARY

MARGARET ANNE FRITZ

Margaret Anne Fritz, age three days, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Raymond Fritz, died suddenly this Saturay morning at the residence of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Orr, 86 West Bridge Street.

The parents and grandparents will receive the sympathy of friends in their bereavement.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

FIVE HORSES DROWN IN RIVER

Shannonville, Dec. 7—(Special)—Five horses were drowned in the Salmon River here this week. Mr. Percy Reid lost four young colts and Mr. Archie Little one horse.

The animals had been released and were running at large over a grazing pasture on the south side of the river. It is believed the horses were attempting to cross the river on Thursday, when the ice proved too weak to hold the additional weight and broke through. The animals all drowned but the dead bodies were later recovered.

RACE HORSE OWNER DIES

Port Hope, Ont., Dec. 7 (CP) — L. G. Bennett, 83, race horse owner and driver, died at Port Hope General Hospital today. A familiar figure on many tracks in Canada, Mr. Bennett raced his own horses and was one of the oldest sulky drivers in the Dominion.

Yes We Sell McBrien Baggage
SEE OUR WINDOW DISPLAY.
— PRICES O.K. —
The Haines' Shoe House
214 FRONT STREET

Belleville Merchants Expect Yuletide Business Will Surpass Volume Done in Recent Years

Present indications point to a large volume of Christmas trade being done in the Belleville area during the 1940 Yuletide season and that it will greatly surpass that transacted in any one season for several years past, is the opinion being forwarded by city merchants. This is the consensus of opinion by the majority of merchants contacted and is particularly true of the heads of the larger stores who say that already the volume of business done indicates a great increase over last year and 1938.

Merchants report that as early as the first week in November, Christmas shoppers were starting to look for gifts intended for shipment overseas and that in general, Christmas shopping began one full week earlier than in other years. It is thought that the necessity of shopping early for overseas gifts made shoppers Christmas-minded and was responsible for the early starting date for Yuletide shopping.

The purchase of luxuries has definitely not been decreased by the war, at least not in the Belleville district, it is reported by merchants, with jewellers in particular doing an excellent business. All merchants report, however, that the war has definitely made purchasers "Empire-conscious" with a very marked trend toward the purchase of goods manufactured within the Empire being noted.

The greatly increased business indicated for the Yuletide season in the Belleville area is borne out by the fact that there has been a tremendous increase in the advertising lineage carried by the local daily newspaper.

Santa Claus Parade Postponed Until Wed. On Account of Rain

Owing to adverse weather conditions the Santa Claus Parade which was scheduled to take place Saturday afternoon, has been postponed until 2:p.m. Wednesday, December 11th. The parade committee were undecided until a late hour as to the advisability of holding the parade regardless of the rain, but at a special meeting called just before noon it was decided to postpone the parade until Wednesday.

J. A. McFee Says It's a Fact!
MOTHS DO NOT EAT CLOTHES!
Moths lay eggs which develop into larvae. These latter are the guilty culprits. They then change into pupae and form cocoons, from which later emerge the innocent moths. 1.—"Popular Fallacies"—A. S. E. Ackermann—3rd. Edition. 2.—"Encyclopedia Britannica"—11th. edition.
ALL DAYS ARE NOT 24 HOURS LONG!
Their length varies from about one minute less than 24 hours to about one minute more, depending on the time of the year. The mean solar day is 24 hours long 1.—"Handy Book of Curious Information"—William S. Walsh. 2.—"Popular Fallacies" A. S. E. Ackermann.
THE SKY IS NOT BLUE!
The blueness of the sky is due to the minute particles of dust suspended in the atmosphere. It is not space itself which is blue. 1.—"Popular Fallacies" —A. S. E. Ackermann. 2.—"Encyclopedia Britannica"—11th. Edition. 3.—Prof. John Tyndall, F.R.S.
FROSTBITE SHOULD NOT BE RUBBED WITH SNOW

And He Can Prove It!
(Proof Next Week)
No Patient can be dissatisfied at McFEE'S if we know it! Positively there can be no BETTER Service—and no better values.
J. A. McFEE
EXPERIENCED OPTOMETRIST
PHONE 26
BELLEVILLE ONT

RETURNING WAR HERO FOUND DEAD IN RAILWAY CAR

Cpl. Reynold Scott, of Medicine Hat, Alta., First Artillery Member to Shoot Nazi Bomber Out of Sky

IN CATEGORY "C"

Medicine Hat, Alta., Dec. 7—(CP)—Cpl. Paul Reynold Scott, 20-year-old Canadian hero last heard from in England where he was the first artillery member of the C.A.S.F. to shoot a German bomber out of the sky, died last month in a railway refrigerator car at Empress, Alberta.

Cpl. Scott, who wanted to be discharged from the army or transferred to the Royal Canadian Air Force where he could fulfil a lifelong ambition to fly apparently was discharged when a medical examination placed him in category "C" He was in civilian clothes when found November 21.

At the time of his death he was heading for his Port Coquitlam home in British Columbia to be with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Scott for Christmas.

The body of Cpl. Scott was identified today by his father who had read about two unidentified youths dying in a refrigerator car, apparently from carbon monoxide gas generated by charcoal burners used to heat the car. Cpl. Scott's body will be taken to New Westminster, B.C., for burial Monday.

How or why Cpt. Scott and the other victim, believed to be A. Scully, 18, Vancouver, came to be in the refrigerator car remained a mystery. The car, too, was scheduled to move to Saskatchewan instead of British Columbia.

Mrs. Scott said at her Port Coquitlam home near Vancouver that Paul had "always wanted to fly". "As long as I can remember he wanted to fly. When he joined the army more than a year ago it was in hope of sooner or later getting into the Air Force".

She said that a letter her son had written in London, England, arrived "only two days ago". Cpl. Scott stated in the letter that in his last medical examination he had been placed in category "C".

Mrs. Scott said her son was "in perfect physical condition" when he left home to enlist with the 108th Royal Canadian Artillery which went overseas last January.

Cpl. Scott, promoted to the rank of Corporal shortly before leaving for Canada, told in a letter home how he shot down the German bomber. He said he was on duty in a field in Britain when the bomber came over at low altitude with one of its engines not functioning and of how a burst of tracer bullets from his gun caught the airplane squarely.

The plane crashed a few hundred yards away with two dead Germans and five other Nazi seriously injured.

Sea Captain Describes German Sea Raider

By JOHN A. MOROSO

New York, Dec. 7—(AP)—A masquerading German sea raider prowling southern waters, laying hundreds of mines and capturing and sinking enemy merchantmen, is a rebuilt passenger liner—so large that she has been equipped for a three-year voyage.

This was told to the Associated Press today by Captain Cornelius Arundell, British skipper who was imprisoned on the vessel for sixty-four days after the raider sank his ship, the 5,207-ton Haxby, near Bermuda.

The German marauder leads a chameleon-like existence carrying elaborate "stage props" to change her appearance from day to day. She even is equipped with a telescopic funnel to change further her superstructure.

Captain Arundell, 49, who came here from England to command a United States freighter recently purchased by Britain, was bound by Admiralty secrecy not to identify the raider, her size, and other data but he did give this picture:

"She was a decent size man-of-war, much more than 10,000 tons. If you knew her name you would be surprised. Her skipper is a frigate captain, about 42 years old.

"She carried six guns, four of them broadside and other arms including a huge supply of mines.

"While I was aboard she changed her disguise from a Greek ship to a Brazilian, and then a Dutchman. Through special rebuilding and light steel plates she could change her entire superstructure in a short time. A telescopic funnel helps to do this.

"Her superstructure was constantly being repainted — in the morning it would be white and before night it would be buff. This gives you an idea of the huge crew she carried."

but acknowledged that it comprised more than 300 men.)

"She slipped out of Hamburg April 6 while the British Navy was rushing to Norway to fight the German invasion there. My ship was her first victim."

Disguised as Greek

En route from Greenock to Corpus Christi, Texas, last April, the Haxby sighted what appeared to be a Greek ship. A moment later the vessel crossed her bows and began firing without warning.

"They killed sixteen of my men, smashed the lifeboats and set the ship on fire before we abandoned her," said Captain Arundell.

The twenty-four survivors among the Haxby's crew were taken aboard the raider, which then laid mines off West Africa, met the Nazi tanker Winnetou at sea for refuelling and then proceeded to New Zealand, where 200 mines were dropped.

On June 18 the Britons were put aboard a captured Norwegian freighter, the Tropic Sea.

The Tropic Sea was scuttled seventy days later by her German prize crew when a British submarine accosted her off Bordeaux. The Britons were rescued by the submarine and taken to Gibraltar.

The submarine the Truant—was unable to accommodate the thirty-three Norwegian and thirty Germans aboard the Tropic Sea and left them in lifeboats with orders to remain where they were until flying boats arrived.

Listed as Dead

Fearing capture, the Germans fled and managed to reach Spain in lifeboats. The Norwegians were rescued the next day.

Back in England, Captain Arundell—long unheard from—was officially listed as dead and his "widow" has been receiving pension payments from the Government for three months, although she had refused to give up hope or to sign a death certificate.

"She told me later that she used to sit and look at my picture and it would say to her, 'Chin Up, I'm all right'," Arundell said. He returned home Oct. 4, six months after leaving Glasgow.

His one happy experience on the raider was his June 22 birthday.

"The prison officer gave me a carton of American cigarets, a tin of British cigarets and apologized for not being able to give me a bottle of whisky," he said.

The raider, he said, is not the one operating off South America, explaining that "ours was much larger."

Reeve Chas. Rush Presented With Silver Entree Set

Perhaps the most surprised member of the Hastings County Council a few minutes before it adjourned until the January session, Friday afternoon, was Reeve Charles Rush of Hungerford Township.

Out of a figurative blue sky, the popular Hungerford reeve was formally escorted to the warden's chair by Reeve George West of Madoc, where he was presented with a handsome silver entree dish after a brief presentation address by Warden J. L. Churcher.

The gift was a token of congratulation of the council to its first "benedict" in many years. Reeve Rush was married a few months ago.

In his remarks Warden Churcher told the blushing groom, that the gift was a symbol of the love and friendship coupled with the sincere wishes of the council for many years of happy married life. Reeve Rush, in an appropriate reply, thanked his council colleagues for the handsome gift on behalf of his wife and himself, and expressed his sincere appreciation of the fine co-operation and friendship which has characterized himself and the county body during the many years of their association.

AIR CONDITIONED McCARTHY THE SHOW PLACE OF BELLEVILLE
P-R-E-V-I-E-W
SUNDAY AFTER MIDNIGHT 12.05 A.M.
ALSO—
MONDAY — TUESDAY — WEDNESDAY
DAILY .... 2.30: 7.10: 9.10 p.m. REGULAR PRICES.
Daily Telegraph says—
"A TELLING INDICTMENT OF GERMAN PERFIDY AND BRUTALITY"
"MEIN KAMPF MY CRIMES"
STARTLING EXPOSE OF HITLER—THAT DARED NOT BE SHOWN BEFORE!
BECAUSE OF THIS MAN— MILLIONS MOURN
SEE THINGS YOU NEVER DREAMED POSSIBLE THIS SIDE OF HELL!
Extra
LATEST FOX NEWS EVENTS
"VARSITY VANITIES" — Musical Revue.
"ADVENTURES OF TOM THUMB" — Cartoon Hit
ENDS TONIGHT
THRILLS! EXCITEMENT! SPECTACLE!
"Kit Carson"
A SWELL SATURDAY EVENING SHOW.

Police Blotter

Rain, coupled with the sudden mild spell that swept over this district early Saturday, resulted in snow being loosened and falling from city roof tops. At the Keyes Supply building on Pinnacle Street early today hundreds of pounds of rain-soaked snow slid off the roof and crashed through the top of the company truck, that was parked at the side of the building. The top cab and hood of the vehicle were damaged, but fortunately no person was in the vehicle.

P.C. Evans found an automobile parked at the upper end of Front Street near the Victoria Avenue intersection, which was also partially buried beneath an avalanche of snow, which had fallen off the roof of a earby store. The officer had the motor car, which carried Ontario licence plates number 39-N-42, towed to a nearby garage. The top of the vehicle was only slightly damaged in this case, however.

Two inebriates and nine transients shared the cell block at the police station last night without further incident.

$700 FIRE LOSS AT WELLINGTON

Residence of Mrs. Alice Bush Partially Burned on Friday Afternoon

Believed to have started from a faulty electric plug in the kitchen, fire caused damage estimated at $700 to a residence owned by Mrs. Alice Bush, in Wellington, on Friday. The house was occupied by a family named Graham.

The flames ripped their way through the ceiling of the kitchen to the roof. Volunteer firemen augmented by villagers staged a successful fight against the flames and reduced the blaze before it had completely enveloped the house. It is believed the loss is covered by insurance.

Belle Theatre Joy Month
Once Again It IS JOY MONTH at the BELLE THEATRE
. . . and once again to add to your Joy and Happiness during the month of December, we are bringing to you the finest in motion picture entertainment. Hit-after-Hit, Week-after-Week, at Your favorite B-E-L-L-E Theatre.
TODAY & MONDAY
A LAUGH HIT!
Myrna LOY Melvyn DOUGLAS
"THIRD FINGER, LEFT HAND"
Added
COMICOLOR CARTOON
B-E-L-L-E NEWSREEL
Daily 2.30: 7.10: 9.10
TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 10-11—
Robt. Montgomery, Constance Cummings in "Haunted Honeymoon"
Edward G. Robinson, Edna Best in "A Dispatch from Reuters."
x x
THURSDAY and FRIDAY, DECEMBER 12-13—
Anne Shirley, James Ellison in "Anne of Windy Poplars."
George Sanders, Wendy Barrie in "The Saint Takes Over."
x x
SATURDAY and MONDAY, DECEMBER 14-16—
Don Ameche, Betty Grable, Charlotte Greenwood in "Down Argentine Way."—in Technicolor.
x x
TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 17-18—
Raymond Massey in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois".
Lynne Roberts, John McGuire, Guy Kibbee in 'Street of Memories."
x x
THURSDAY and FRIDAY, DECEMBER 19-20—
Tyrone Power, Linda Darnell in "Brigham Young, Frontiersman."
John Barrymore, Mary Beth Hughes in "The Great Profile."
x x
SATURDAY, MONDAY, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 21-23-24—
Fred MacMurray, Patricia Morrison, in "Rangers of Fortune."
"A Night at Earl Carroll's."
x x
WEDNESDAY, THURS., FRI., SAT'Y., DEC. 25-26-27-28—
Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy, in "Bitter Sweet," Noel Coward's musical romance, in gorgeous Technicolor.
x x
MONDAY and TUESDAY, DECEMBER 30-31—
Wallace Beery, Marjorie Main, Leo Carrillo in "Wyoming."
Jane Withers in 'Youth Will be Served."
x x
WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, JANUARY 1-2-3—
Claudette Colbert, Ray Milland, in the romantic comedy, "Arise My Love."
MAKE IT A B-E-L-L-E NEW YEAR'S EVE

DUKE OF WINDSOR PAYS TRIBUTE TO MERCHANT MARINE

'Arduous, Exacting and Hazardous Duty Required of Every Man in Service' He States

EPIC RECOUNTED

New York, Dec. 7.—(CP)—The Duke of Windsor, speaking as a sailor, paid tribute last night to the men of Britain's Merchant Marine who he said are mobilized in wartime "for the most arduous, exacting and hazardous duty".

From Nassau, the Bahamas, of which he is governor, His Royal Highness spoke on a broadcast program on which two British sailors who drifted 71 days in an open boat after their ship had been sunk by a German raider told of their epic voyage across the South Atlantic. With him at the microphone was the Duchess of Windsor.

The men were Robert Tapscott and Wilbert Widdicombe. Their ship, the British freighter Anglo Saxon, was sunk August 21. With five other men, Tapscott and Widdicombe escaped in an 18-foot rowboat, provisioned for only five days. Two of the seven men died of injuries and thirst. Three others dropped overside when they could no longer stand their sufferings. Widdicombe and Tapscott drifted for 71 days before reaching The Bahamas.

Moved by the men's recital of their voyage, the Duke consented to go on the air at the conclusion of the story. His Royal Highness said:

"This epic of the sea prompts me to pay a word of tribute to the men of the merchant navy and the fishing fleet, normally engaged in the great service of the seas in times of peace.

Have to Sweep Channels

"In war, they are mobilized for the most arduous, exacting and hazardous duty. Not only do they man the ships which supply Great Britain with her many vital supplies, but to them also is entrusted the task of sweeping the channels clear of mines in order that the merchant vessels may reach their various destinations.

"My generation of the merchant service performed the same work in the last conflict. And it was in recognition of those services that it was considered right and proper that among the honorable titles of Great Britain there should be a master of the merchant navy and fishing fleet.

"Maybe it was because I was raised as a sailor and that my war travels had brought me into close touch with the merchant marine that this title was conferred upon me as Prince of Wales. And I need hardly assure you how proud I was to be thus associated with so magnificent a profession. . . .

Profoundly Touched

"Now, I have been profoundly touched by reading of all that many Americans are doing toward relieving the suffering of those directly and indirectly engaged in this war. I feel I can assure those open-hearted and understanding folks that such inadequate words as gratitude and appreciation could not in anyway describe the encouragement that their various efforts must be bringing to the Hearts of the people of Great Britain at the present time. . . .

"The Duchess is with me here tonight as I am speaking to you. As an American she asks me to say how much pride and sympathetic interest she takes in these friendly activities and demonstrations of goodwill on the part of so many of her countrymen and countrywomen."

West Huntingdon

West Huntingdon—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson entertained the St. Andrew's Guild on Friday evening. There was a good attendance. Mrs. John McInroy conducted the worship service and was assisted by Mrs. Milton Shaw who read a portion of Scripture. Miss Margaret Wright took charge of the remaining portion of program. Margie Haggerty contributed a solo. Miss Bessie Fleming gave a talk on the work of the Bible Society. Muriel Thompson gave a piano solo. In the business period it was decided to send Miss Margaret Wright, Carl Rollins and Miss Jean Thompson as delegates to the conference to be held at Belleville in the near future. Mrs. John Wallace contributed a reading and National Anthem closed the meeting.

The autos are having a brief holiday due to the weather A number of social events have had to be cancelled and the church services on Sunday were not well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Haggerty, Jean and Jack were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Donnan attended the Grills-Sine and Stapley-Sine wedding on Saturday.

Mr. William Bray arrived home on Monday from Belleville General Hospital.

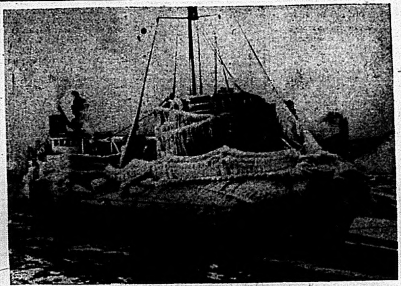
Mrs. Frank Hammond is visiting friends at Madoc this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Sarles were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. John Moorcroft.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex McFall of Madoc were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Donnan.

Mr. Keith Bray attended the cheese exhibition at Belleville this week.

Men of the pioneer corps, workers who with pickaxes and shovels, were working all night searching for men and women trapped in a razed block of London office buildings, are pictured receiving some first aid. Scores of workers were rescued from their debris covered shelters, by the civilian rescue squads, as a daylight aerial bombardment by Hitler's Luftwaffe, laid waste an entire city block, recently.



KING WINTER REIGNS ON THE GREAT LAKES

Some Great Lakes freighters still brave the ice and snow although the Great Lakes navigation season is officially closed. This is what the freighter South Park looked like as she docked at Detroit after wallowing through near-zero temperatures on Lake Erie.

Picton and District

Picton, Dec. 7.—A group of airmen arrived in town on Thursday to train at the local Bombing and Gunnery School.

The annual banquet with Mayor Nesbitt McGibbon as host was held Friday evening at the Royal Hotel. Among those present were members of the town council, town officials, ministers and many friends. The guest speaker was Mr. J. O. Herity of Belleville who, as usual, gave a fine address. His Honor Judge E. H. McLean presided as toast master. The toast to the municipal council was proposed by Dr. S. H. Roblin and responded to by Lindley B. Calnan. The toast to the host was proposed by Reeve Horace Colliver and Prof. Iva E. Martin with the mayor responding. Several vocal selections were given by Jack Elder, well known Scotch entertainer of Kingston.

Annual Bazaar Held.

The annual bazaar of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene was held in the parish hall Friday afternoon and was well attended despite the condition of the streets. The many visitors were welcomed by Mrs. George Haddon, president of the Guild. The display of home cooking sold well under the guidance of Mrs. Patterson Dever and Mrs. Byron Ryckman. The aprons were in charge of Mrs. Walter Thompson and the fancy work booth in charge of Mrs. H. B. Tully and Mrs. Maude Conway. The candy booth was in charge of Mrs. Clarence Rutter and Mrs. Lyle Robinson. Tea was served at small tables with Mrs. E. L. Bronskill, Mrs. William Tait, Mrs. W. H. Wilkins, Mrs. S. Snetsinger and Mrs. Thos. Walmsley in charge. There were several tea parties.

Miss Florence Barber entertained the choir of the United Church following practise Friday evening. A social time was spent.

Though there was quite a wind Friday evening the snow did not gdrift a great deal as it had been warmer during the day and the snow was stickier. Highway No. 33, Picton to Trenton, was opened by a snow plow and both highways 14 and 33 are now passable.

A member of the R.C.A.F. charged with committing grievous bodily harm was sent up for trial by Magistrate Butler here Friday.

Rosalind Russell and Brian Aherne co-starred with Virginia Bruce in Universal's romantic comedy "Hired Wife," coming next to the Capitol Theatre.

3rd. Sidney

3rd Sidney — The death of Mr. Fred Spafford, which occurred at the family residence, in the second concession of Sidney township on Saturday evening. November 30th, has brought deep sorrow to the immediate family and sincere feelings of regret to many friends. In his passing a man of fine Christian character, friendly disposition and pleasing personality has gone from this life.

He held the love and respect of the entire community in which he lived and revered memory of him will long be retained by those who knew him and enjoyed his friendship. He will be especially remembered by those who were under his guidance during the many years he was Superintendent of the Aiken's Sunday School where his influence has been felt throughout the years.

The sympathy of the entire district goes out to the family in their bereavement. The funeral service which was held at the home on Tuesday afternoon was largely attended by relatives and friends.

Aiken's Y.P.U. was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Saylor with the President Miss Clara Wilson presiding. The program was prepared by Mr. Douglas McPherson, with Donald Hubble in charge of the recreation. A reading was given by Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton and the topic "Two Disciples" by Mrs. Everett Hubble.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones on a birth of a daughter at the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday, Dec. 4th.

SOUNDER SOCIAL SYSTEM URGED BY I. MACKENZIE

Future Society Should be Built on Benefits of Mistakes of Past Says Pensions Minister

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—(CP)—A sounder social system based on a higher conception of public service was urged last night by Pensions Minister Mackenzie in the House of Commons as he reviewed the work of his department.

"I do not wish to condemn economic, monetary and social systems of the past," he said, "but surely our future society can be better built if we benefit from the mistakes of the past and preserve the fundamental principles which existed in the period which lies behind".

In all adversity lay great opportunity, he said, declaring his belief in "true and controlled capitalism"—simply man sharing in the benefits of nature".

"In other words", he said, "sweat and toil applied to the natural world. Men using their hands and their muscles to create natural wealth and industry, instead of, through idleness, enjoying the unearned increment of capital".

Has No Prejudice

He has no prejudice against men who through success and enterprise had accumulated some wealth but the rapidly-growing principle of living on the unearned increment of capital, instead of digging and providing capital to mankind, had been "one of the cardinal departures from fundamental principles, which, to say the least has caused distress, class distinction and unhappiness".

Mr. Mackenzie said he would be available to work with any member of parliament exploring ways of contributing to success in the terrible days ahead.

In his departmental review the Minister explained what was being done now to rehabilitate the ex-service men of this war.

About 20,000 men had been discharged from the armed services altogether, but many of these were persons who did some temporary guard duty in their own localities, he said.

About 1,000 men had been returned from overseas service, two-thirds of whom had been discharged into civil life involving special placements and welfare problems. To handle such work a Veterans' Welfare division had been set up in his department.

Cold, Stormy Weather Does Not Interfere With Training Schedule

Cold and stormy weather does not interfere with the training of men of the 22-year-old group who are now undergoing 30-days compulsory training at Peterborough, Brockville and Cornwall, in Military District No. 3, according to a news item in the Kingston Whig Standard.

According to information received at Military headquarters on Friday it was learned that the training of the 2,250 men is proceeding according to schedule. The men in the different training centres are divided into groups with some of the men attending lectures, which are given indoors, others are drilling on the parade grounds, while a third group take rifle drill and target practice indoors.

The large drill sheds, which are being built at the three training centres, are nearing completion. Once the men can be taken indoors the winter training will be pushed along. The men are being taken on long route marches and are standing up against the winter weather exceptionally well.

The 30-day training period will be completed Sunday, December 22. The actual training period will finish on Saturday, December 21, and the men will receive their second pay and will be permitted to leave for their homes.

The third group, which will be of the 23-year-old class, will report for training early in January with the expectation that the period of training may be extended so as to give the men a more thorough course.

Rain Adds to Hazards Of Walking, Motoring; Main Highways Slippery

Industrial, commercial and professional Belleville slipped, slithered, slued and slid on its way to their Saturday occupations. For the gentleman that controls the antics of the weather, proved himself as fickle as ever and during the night sent down a light drizzle of rain that converted hard frozen surfaces of highways and sidewalks into treacherous icy areas

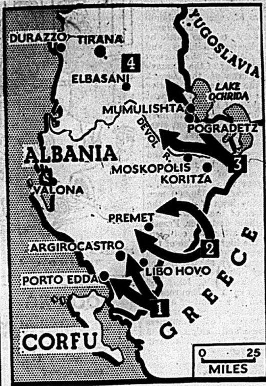
Trucks and motor cars spun dizzily at the various intersections as even chain-equipped wheels refused to secure a grip on the greasy roadways. One large truck whirled at least four times while attempting to negotiate the Bridge Street-Pinnacle Street intersection, but fortunately no other traffic was in the vicinity at the time and no damage was done.

Pedestrians half-skated, half-slid along the slippery ice-covered sidewalks. A few minor falls occurred but these proved to be more humorous than harmful.

Main highways are said to be in a treacherous condition and buses were reported to be well behind schedule. However, by mid-morning no accidents had been reported to the authorities.

The latest quirk of the weather marks practically the entire calendar for the week. Sub-zero temperatures, blizzards, gales, a spot of sunshine, and rain have contributed to a whirligig of atmospheric pantomime that has even the oldest veteran in the city a bit dizzy.

However, it's an ill wind that doesn't blow somebody some good. Farmers report that the ground is entirely devoid of frost in spite of the severe weather of the past few days. The thick carpet of snow has effectively kept away frost penetration, and the agriculturists state that should the snow remain for the winter prospects for a good crop of fall grains look bright.



ITALIANS ABANDON PORTO EDDA

Continuing to give ground before the relentless drive of the Greek forces, Italian troops are reported to be withdrawing from Porto Edda and Argirocastro (1). The Greeks were also reported to have cut to pieces one of Italy's picked battalions near Premet (2). In the north the Greeks are advancing through the Devol river valley (3), and past Mumlishta toward Elbasani (4), and Tirana.

Minesweepers in Mediterranean Help Fleet Perform Duties

By LARRY ALLEN.

Aboard a British Minesweeper off Egypt, Dec. (AP).—Britain's minesweeper squadron searched the waters along the Egyptian coast today, seeking to keep clear the pathways for the Mediterranean fleet hunting Italian warships.

British officers say the fleet of small ships, working like "Wirecutters", has been signally successful in clearing away high explosives dropped by Italian planes or sown by submarines.

Going aboard a minesweeper for the first time today, I found her riding like a roller coaster, her bow plunging in big dips and rolling from side to side.

The minesweeper shoved off as the first cold grey patches of dawn lighted the skies over silhouettes of the camouflaged warships in the harbor.

With the rising sun, the seamen got their minesweeping job under way, casting heavy strands of wire fanwise from starboard and portside. The wires were equipped with scissorlike cutters designed to sever moorings of cable mines, forcing them to the surface to be exploded by rifle shots.

For twelve hours I watched this patrol splash through the rolling sea, covering a twenty-five-mile area. In the wake of the squadron came large units of the British war-fleet, out for target practice.

With the minefields cleared, the sweeper headed slowly back toward Alexandria.

Most minesweepers, of 800 tons, are of first Great War vintage, without armor plating, and can make fourteen knots.

Their personnel is composed largely of boys 17 to 20 years old, who work hard and eat well. The cooks served meals whose tastiness compared well with those in a first-class hotel.

(In London the Admiralty on Thursday paid tribute to the "tenacity, courage and devotion to duty of our minesweeping forces."

("The enemy is using all manner of devices to prevent or hinder the sweeping of these mines," the Admiralty said in a bulletin announcing the loss of five minesweeping trawlers. "Although the success of these devices has been limited, and is likely to decrease, they have imposed losses upon our minesweeping forces.")

Bomb Splinters From Battle of Britain

By DOUGLAS AMARON

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Said a woman as she handed in a contribution to the Edinburgh War Weapons Week Fund:—"I have been saving this to divorce my husband but I think I can stick him better than I can Hitler. I'll deal with Hitler first."

A Swedish newspaperman tells this story supposed to be going the rounds in Berlin where anti-aircraft fire doesn't give citizens the protection they would like from R. A. F. bombs. Fritz was cautioned twice for blackout offences and when summoned a third time was sentenced to execution. As a special favor he asked to be shot by A. A. guns and three days before facing the firing squad died of pneumonia.

A bomb that demolished G. F. H. McCormick's home lifted his two children from their beds and flung them to the ceiling. Their night clothes became hitched to the rafters and they hung there uninjured until rescued by A.R.P. workers.

One-hundred residents of a Scottish mining village use the mine as an air raid shelter, sleeping in the pit 100 feet below the surface.

Lord Nuffield, the automobile manufacturer, arranged for free inoculation against colds and typhoid of the 25,000 workers in his factories. "Time lost at the factory is time given to the enemy," he said in a message to employees.

Birmingham Auxiliary firemen sent £34 (about $151) to Lord Beaverbrok, Minister of Aircraft production, "for the purchase of incendiary bombs."

Minto

Minto—Salem Y.P.U. was held on Thursday evening in the church with a good attendance. Miss Norma Sarles, President opened with community singing after which a hymn was sung and prayer was led by Rev. S. Delve. Miss Ethel Hagerman, Christian Culture Convener, took charge. Scripture lesson was read by Annis Johnson. Mrs. Frank McGee gave an interesting reading on the war in Britain and the bravery and courage of the English people. Ethel then called on Miss Alta Hanna to act as Major Bowes for an amateur program.

Mr. Morgan of Tweed, musical instructor was present and led in "There'll always be an England" followed by a reading by Miss Lela Johnston. Mac Sarles sang a solo. A reading by Miss Evelyn Cooke was followed by a duet by Elda and Margaret Mays. Mr. Delve then gave some accordian music. Mr J. B. Hagerman sang a solo. Collection was taken and the National Anthem closed this part of the program. Miss Hanna put on an alphabet contest and the Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

Miss Ethel Hagerman spent Saturday evening with Miss Norma Sarles.

A number from here attended the L.O.L. No. 409 social evening on Wednesday night at the 8th line hall. Progressive euchre and a short program was enjoyed. Lunch was served by the younger members of the Lodge.

Owing to the heavy snow storm Saturday night no church was held at Salem Sunday.

Mrs. Chas. Morgan is recovering after her recent illness.

Thomasburg

Thomasburg—Services in the village churches were withdrawn on Sunday owing to the recent snow storm, sideroads were closed for motor traffic. Sunday School was held in the United Church on Sunday morning with a small attendance.

The Anglican Woman's Auxiliary held their annual bazaar and chicken supper in the Oddfellow's Hall on Wednesday evening. The attendance was not as large as previous years but a delicious supper was served. The prize winners in the card game were Mrs. H. Kennedy and Mr. Everett Geen.

A large number attended the auction sale of farm stock and implements at Mr. Howard Porter's on Thursday.

On Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hill who were recently married were serenaded with a rousing charivari and the following evening friends and neighbors gathered at their home and presented them with two chairs.

Mrs. Clifford Adams underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils at Belleville one day last week.

Miss Eva Geen who is attending Stirling High School spent the week end at her home here.

Mr. Everett Geen, B. S. A. of Guelph is spending a short time at his home here.

The young boys and girls class of the United Church Sunday School with their teacher Mr. A. A. Richardson were entertained by the Tuxis Rangers of Bridge Street United Church on Friday evening.

Thomasburg I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 293 held their annual At Home and oyster supper on Friday evening. Owing to inclement weather conditions the gathering was not as large as usual but those present enjoyed the supper, which was followed by a program. The D.D.G.M., Mr. Harry Coulter acted as chairman, those taking part were Reverends A. S. Doggett, J. W MacDonald and F. C. Beazer; Mrs. Doggett, Miss Catherine Coulter and Messrs Everett, Stanley, Harold and Donald Geen. The Noble Grand, Mr. Archie Jones extended thanks to all who had assisted in the program. Miss Evelyn Reynolds was accompanist for the musical part of the program.

Mrs. Charles Pounder received the sad news that her sister Mrs. George Stapley had passed away at her home at St. Catharines. Interment was made at Campbellford on Wednesday.

Private Douglas Richardson of Halifax, N.S., is enjoying a two weeks leave at his home here.

Rev. F. C. Beazer, Mrs. Beazer, Mrs. Chas. Jeffrey, Mrs. Harry Coulter and Misses Emma Porter and Isobel Beatty of Christ Church Woman's Auxiliary were guests of St. James' Anglican Women's Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. G. Luffman at Tweed on Tuesday evening, when they were in charge of the program for the occasion.

Little Benny's Note Book

Everybody went to Puds Simkins's berthday party on account of everybody having been invited, being a lot of fun and excitement especially when the time came for ice cream and lemminade and cake, Pud's mother saying, Well now I think it would be nice if some of Charles little guests would make little speeches of congradulation, dont you all think that would be nice on the occasion of a berthday celebration?

Everybody claiming they thought it would, and Sid Hunt volunteered first, saying, Ladies and gentlemen, I congradulate Puds on his berthday and I'm sure he will have many more if he'll only start to eat less, beginning right now today even if it means less ice cream for him and more for us.

Wich we all clapped and cheered to prove we agreed with the sentiment, and Skinny Martin got up and made a speech, saying, Ladies and gentlemen, I offer 3 cheers for Puds's berthday and congradulate him on his good judgment getting born just in time to be about our age and make it possible for us to be the ones invited to his party.

The result being more clapping, and I got up and made one, saying, Ladies and gentlemen, let us all congradulate Puds on his berthday, and if anything serious is going to happen to him to prevent him from having the next one, let us all just forget the thought and enjoy the present.

The next one getting up being Mrs. Simkins again, looking kind of doubtfill and saying, Well now maybe that will do for the congradulations, and now I'll call on Charles himself to answer them.

Wich Puds did, saying, Ladies and gentlemen I assure you that you are all welcome to my berthday party, even the ones that didn't bring any present, be cause the old proverb says it's never too late to mend.

Being the end of the speeches.

A California traffic expert has worked out a chart to be mounted on an automobile instrument panel to show the safe speeds for night driving under various conditions.

THE
ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER
THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

THE KING VISITS BOMBED CITIES

His Majesty the King has visited centres which have been heavily bombed and has brought cheer to the people who resist the enemy as Britons know how to resist.

The British monarch is the true democrat. He mixes with the people, with the sufferers from air raids, with the firemen who battle the blazes started by the enemy bombs and incendiaries, with the soldiers, the sailors and airmen and he talks with those who can tell tales of heroism and steadfast loyalty to the task at hand.

His Majesty knows the heart of the people for no ruler has come to know his people better than King George Sixth and none has seen them in the testing time as he has seen them doing their very utmost. What he has seen of the men and women and children makes him proud to be the ruler of a race of people who possess such qualities as the Britons possess.

Both the King and the Queen have brought comfort and encouragement to the people who are doing their noblest to express the highest ideals of the race in time of national danger.

HEROIC DEEDS AT SEA

Books of history contain many a story of courage and endurance which once read can never be forgotten. But history is not all of the past. It is within touch of the present. Today in the world there are deeds of heroism which will live forever in British and Empire chronicles and the chronicles of Allied lands.

There is hardly a child but knows something of them, as the matchless valor and the endurance of those who have followed the sea catch the imagination of parents and children in the home as the stories are disclosed in the newspapers. Deeds of the sea should be remembered for they prove that the British seamen and sailors of today have all the sterling qualities which have been developed in a race which has opened up the world to progress through pioneering and the courage of those who follow the sea, in the navy and in merchant ships. It is a tribute to the moral worth of the people of today that they remember these acts and respond in their souls to these stories. Those who have performed these deeds are of the same flesh and blood as those who read their glorious record.

A booklet "The Bonds of Empire" sent out to all the teachers by the Navy League of Canada (Ontario Division) for Navy Week contains a section "Heroic Deeds at Sea" which tells some of the great events of this war. Boys and girls in the schools have been brought very close to the men who serve on the seas and who in this war have made names that will ring in the memory for endless generations.

They have learned of two types of courage, the one which is born of the sudden desperate, need, the clash in the heat of action when the blood is on fire and the spirit exalted and the other which is born of the need for endurance that must meet the dull wearing of routine, the steady sapping of unseen danger, the blank erosion of discomfort and privation.

The Royal Navy reveals these two qualities of courage. So do the other marine services.

There are related the stories of the Rawalpindi against the Deutschland; the story of the battle by the Exeter, Achilles and Ajax against the enemy; the boarding of the Altmark by the crew of the Cossack and the rescue of captive naval officers and seamen; the glory of Dunkirk, where air force, army and navy wrote a deed without rival in history as naval vessels, merchant ships and most nondescript craft, new and old, manned by citizens of all walks of life and by everyone who could sail a ship, rescued 330,000 men from the jaws of death; the heroism of the crew of the Canadian destroyer Fraser, sinking after a collision, with the high courage of the officers and crew of the rescuing ship at the risk of enemy undersea craft; of the Margaree's loss; of the loss of the Empress of Britain as a result of enemy submarine attack where as a result of dauntless courage and calmness 598 out of 643 persons aboard were saved.

NEW TREATIES ARE SIGNED

Two of the best manifestations of the appeal of Britain and of her resources and power on the sea and in world trade were seen this week in the signing of the economic treaty with Spain and the financial agreement with Turkey.

These mean much today as Adolf Hitler has been making every effort to force neutral nations into an Axis bloc, which he calls a "new order."

But the smaller nations outside of Hungary and Rumania and Slovakia which joined the Axis pact are very cautious — they avoid the lure of Hitler. They don't like his barter system in which he tries to get the better of them and to dominate their country.

The Anglo-Spanish treaty will develop trade between Britain and Spain and will give Spain a chance to proceed with her recovery from the civil war. Hitler wooed Spain, but it is very certain that he received no encouragement. The Anglo-Turkish treaty offers Turkey a profitable avenue and a sound economic base for her export trade. Britain has supplies she can sell to Turkey and Turkey has thereby a means of development.

British trade is fair. It does not seek to beguile as the Nazi German does. The Germans seek to barter and to penetrate the life of a country and to dominate it.

Nations like Bulgaria and Yugoslavia which have been resisting Hitler's demands will feel encouraged by these new treaties. These nations have felt the influence of the other great factor in the Mediterranean —the British and Greek victories over Italy.

Newest Notes of Science

Science News Service

The Portugese government will erect beacons at Lisbon and on the islands of Fayal and Pico for the safety of trans-Atlantic passenger airplanes.

An Oklahoma City physician has equipped his lawn mower with an electric motor, headlight and radio set, connected to a power outlet through a cord.

A liquid has been developed for cleaning and lubricating electric contact points without interfering with flow of current and that quenches sparking.

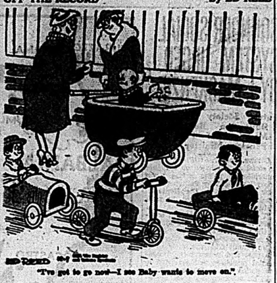
The first new species of bird discovered in the United States since 1919, a warbler, was found in West Virginia recently by a Bethany College student.

Typewriter ribbons have been invented of a special deep black color for accurate reproductions when typewritten manuscripts are to be copied by photography.

To increase the production of oilseeds in Rumania 450,000 hectares of land will be planted in sunflowers next year, compared with 12,000 hectares this year.

OFF THE RECORD

By ED REED



"I've got to go now—I see Baby wants to move on."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES
OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

DEC. 7th., 1920.

The Rev. R. C. Blagrave, former Rector of Christ Church here and of late Rector of St. Mark's Church, Toronto, has been appointed Vicar of St. John's Church, Peterboro. He will take over his new charge about the middle of January.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Chisholm, 37 Foster Avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary yesterday. They were married fifty years ago at the residence of the bride's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sharpe by the Rev. Amos Campbell. They resided for five years in Sidney Township and in the year 1875 they moved to Murray Township in Northumberland County. In the year 1900 they took up residence in Belleville and have made their home here since that time. Their many friends extend congratulations and trust that they will celebrate further anniversaries of the happy event.

The government of Belleville by commission and City Manager is definitely before the ratepayers and will be voted on at the coming municipal election.

30 YEARS AGO

DEC. 7th., 1910.

The annual meeting of Chapter 26 of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in connection with Christ Church parish was held last evening in the vestry of the church and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Director, David J. Batchelor; Vice Director, Joseph L. Simpson; Secretary-Treasurer, Edmund A. Carleton; Director of the Junior Chapter, George Hope; Vice Director, Arthur Bishop; Secretary-Treasurer, Herbert Varley.

Following are the officers of the local O. H. A. Intermediate team: President, R. Corby; Secretary-Treasurer, B. R. Burrows; Manager, Ernest Lang.

Mr. Frank Walsh is opening an open air skating rink on Moira Street. It is the only open air rink in the city and should be popular. First class dressing rooms have been provided.

40 YEARS AGO

DEC. 7th., 1900.

Among the veterans of '66 and '70 who turned out recently to welcome the boys home from the Boer War in South Africa, was Mr. James Woodley, Murney Street, and he was proudly wearing his Fenian Raid Medal. After the proceedings were over Mr. Woodley was deeply grieved to find that he had lost his medal. He searched for it, but to no purpose, and later he offered a reward of $10. for its return. The loss of the medal worried Mr. Woodley greatly; it was never out of his mind, and it was only natural that he should take to dreaming of it. At all events to make a long story short, he dreamed one night that his medal was under a certain plank in the sidewalk in front of the drill shed on Church Street, and that it was standing upon its edge just as it had slipped through the crack in the sidewalk. The following morning, bright and early, Mr. Woodley went to the spot he had dreamed of and saw what he took to be the same plank which he had seen in his dream. He went to the carpenter shop of Messrs. Alford & Lear and borrowed a crowbar with which he raised the plank, and just as sure as you are reading this paper he found his lost medal standing upon its edge just as he had seen it in his dream. And now, if any scientific gentleman in this locality has a few minutes to spare he will kindly drop around and explain what hidden forces guided Mr. Woodley's sleeping mind to where his medal was lying. As far as Mr. Woodley is concerned he is not worrying much about psychic problems. He has regained possession of his medal and means to take precious good care of it now, as he might not be able to dream so luckily again.

50 YEARS AGO

DEC. 7th., 1890.

The ice at the curling rink is in good condition and play was commenced this afternoon.

The famous actor, Lewis Morrison, will appear in the production of Faust at the opera house here on the evening of Dec. 16th.

The sleighing extends only a few miles into the country districts; this accounts for the number of wagons that come to town.

Mr. John Allen has commenced work on the sailing yacht Norah and will be engaged during the winter with work on this and other yachts and two dump scows.

Mr. H. K. Smith is attending a meeting of the Fish and Game Commission in Toronto.

What's the Answer

BY THE ACE CAMERAMAN

(Distributed by the King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

1.—Where did Theodore Roosevelt make his home?

2.—What measure of liquids is also used as a dry measure for corn?

3.—Name an important river of West Africa that is the only one navigable in all seasons by ocean-going boats.

4.—The appendix or supplement to a literary work is called the (a) epilogue; (b)) prologue; (c) monologue? Which would you say?

5.—Eucalyptus is (a) where the four horsemen came from; (b) a genus of trees; (c) a Greek God in mythology? Select one.

6.—The highest mountain in the world is one of the following: (a) Mount Everest; (b) Pike's Peak; (c) Mount Blanc?

Answers

1.—Oyster Bay, N.Y.
2.—The gallon.
3.—The Gambia River.
4.—Epilogue.
5.—A genus of trees.
6.—Mount Everest.

QUEER PEOPLE

Minneapolis Star Journal

America is the kind of a nation where a superintendent of parks (in Pueblo, Colo.) adjures park strollers not to steal nuts from the squirrels because it "destroys their sense of security for the winter."

It's the kind of a country where a motorist will try to beat you in the intersection but will stop and help you get your car out of a snowdrift.

If we Americans are slightly tetched or cantankerous at times, we have more than a trace of gallantry. We may complain in a restaurant that the soup's cold, but we leave a tip to mollify the waitress of our gruffness. Maybe the secret of our success is our good-natured tolerance of what seem to us to be the irrationalities of our neighbors. Let's not lose that!

Conquers All

The New Yorker

About three oclock one morning recently a tempestuous young man called up the girl he loves—a girl who an hour before had ordered him out of her apartment and out of her life—and pleaded with her to take him back. In the middle of his tears reprimands, and threats, the operator cut in with a request for five cents for another five minutes, plee-us. "I love this girl, and she's driving me crazy, operator," the young man said. "Deposit five cents, plee-us," the operator said. "But I haven't got five cents, and I love her," the young man said. There was a pause, and then the operator said, 'I will allow you another five minutes."

Speculation on Discord in War Policy of Rome

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON)

The unexplained "resignation" of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italy's No. 1 soldier, as Army Chief of Staff stirs conjecture. He stepped out or was forced out at a critical moment in the ill-starred campaign against Greece.

That hints at war policy discords at home to cap the army disaster in Albania. Even if there is a belated explanation that Badoglio's retirement was due to ill health or advanced age, that would not obscure the possibility of dissension at Rome. Only his assignment to field command against the Greeks could still speculation as to a grave policy split with his chief, Mussolini.

The veteran soldier may be a victim of Mussolini's need for a military scapegoat to clear his own skirts of blame for the Greek fiasco. It must be dawning on all Italy by now that her Axis partnership with Germany has led her to a disaster of incalculable consequences at home and abroad.

Old-School Soldier

Even if Badoglio got out merely to give a younger man the director generalship of Mussolini's campaign to "break Greece's back" at any cost the implication remains that he disapproves the methods selected.

The timing of operation to retrieve lost prestige against Greece could be the bone of contention. Badoglio is an old-school soldier, probably not greatly impressed by the Hitler military "daring" which Il Duce has so extravagantly eulogized.

London has rumbled for many days with portents of a major British offensive against Italy. The Fascist High Command, from Mussolini down, must have been losing sleep over that and the debacle in Greece.

Political and military exigencies well may be in sharp conflict in Rome's policy making. Italian armies in Egypt as well as Albania have been imperilled. The unfavorable impact of Greek victories on Axis politico-military manoeuvring in the Balkans is obvious. It is emphasized by Turkish and Bulgarian resistance, Russian tongue-in-cheek waiting for developments and Spanish aloofness from the Axis war orbit.

A policy split between Mussolini and Badoglio might turn on just when and how Mussolini's "break Greece's back" pledge is to be fulfilled. If the policy now to be pursued calls for immediate massing of a huge new army in Albania for a winter campaign Badgolio's successor will have his hands full.

Major Assault Difficult

Major military operations in the winter - gripped Greek - Albanian mountain region will not be easy for the Fascist Army which relies primarily on mechanized equipment. It is an almost roadless terrain at best. War havoc has further impeded large-scale operations and winter has added snows and flooded streams to Greek defences.

Even getting a huge new army to Albania will be a heavy job. All Albanian ports and sheltered beaches now are menaced by British-Greek bombers based close at hand. Italian embarkation ports across the Straits of Otranto also are under fire.

Badoglio was drafted to pick up the pieces of an almost stalled Italian attack in Ethiopia and made a job of it that cemented his previously doubtful relations with Mussolini. He did it, however, on his own terms and in his own way. He took his time and made road building a prime element of his campaign.

Why Hitler Failed To Build a Navy

By ADMIRAL SIR REGINALD BACON

It may seem remarkable that Hitler, who prepared Germany for war with such intense foresight and energy, should have omitted to build an adequate Navy, and thus failed to profit by the major lesson afforded by the Great War. It should have been apparent to him, and his advisers, that the real cause of the collapse of the Central Powers in 1918 was the stringent blockade of Germany by the allied fleets; yet, in 1939, he let himself in for a war of titanic magnitude with a navy absurdly smaller than the one which had proved inadequate to save German defeat in the Great War.

The reasons for this are, however, not difficult to detect if we bear in mind the fact that the Germans, broadly speaking, are not a seafaring race. German ideals and war policy are founded on the worst of the characteristics of Frederick the Great, all of whose campaigns were entirely land campaigns. Command of the sea and seafighting never affected him or his armies in the slightest degree. His military efforts were largely concentrated on robbing and humbling Austria. His seizure of Silesia led to the Seven Years War, in which he fought no less than twenty-three considerable land battles, while the only sea fighting that took place was between England and France, of which even a faint echo hardly reached the armies fighting in mid-Europe. This absence of naval activity applies also to the wars engineered by Bismarck. The Austrian war of 1866, commonly called the Seven Weeks War, was decided on land; the only sea fighting that took place was between the Italians and the Austrians, and in no way affected the Prussian army. The Franco-Prussian war, similarly, was entirely a land campaign in which the French fleet had no major role to play. The resultant accumulation of this one-sided experience led Germany, not unnaturally, to look on a navy as an expensive luxury and not a vital necessity. Hitler himself once called battleships "luxury toys of the democracies."

Sea Instinct is Hereditary

In the early nineties of last century a truer perception of the value of sea power was awakened in all countries, largely owing to the writings of Admiral Mahan, U.S.N. This coincided with a desire on the part of Germany for expansion; so colonies were acquired and her seaborne trade greatly expanded. Then in the early years of this century came the rapprochement between Great Britain and France, which brought vividly home to Germany the fact that, if her merchant fleet and colonies were to be protected in a future war, it was essential for her to have a strong navy. But what she did not appreciate, and has yet to learn, is that the strength of a navy should be assessed not only in terms of ships, but that the psychology of the officers and crews has to be reckoned with. Sea instinct is hereditary; it is also impossible to create traditions suddenly. Even in these days when ships may be looked on as mere machines floating on the water, differing from land machines mainly in shape and size, a seaman is a seaman still. His upbringing, his outlook on strategy and tactics, differ radically from that of those who fight ashore. The instincts of a German naval officer, both in the Great War and in that of today, are by no means the same as those of an officer in a navy as old-established as the British.

It is not easy to lay one's finger on the many slight differences between the two; one however stands out in bold relief. In the army the loss of material is looked on, more or less, as a disgrace. "Saving the guns" has always been a rallying cry; Colenso and Maiwand are instances. At sea it is a cardinal axiom that, in fighting, ships must be lost if victory is to be attained. A little thought will show how greatly this difference of outlook must affect the fighting of a naval action. Had the German fleet fought our Grand Fleet in January, 1915, they would have found it only two dreadnought battleships superior in number to their own. Want of sea instinct caused the German High Command to refuse to take the risk of losing ships, and so lost the best and only chance they ever had of winning the Great War.

Undoubtedly, this want of sea instinct also blurred the outlook of Hitler. He saw, or thought he saw, how the submarine campaign nearly won the Great War for Germany. It seemed that if numbers of boats could be progressively increased in the next war, the chance of mastery at sea would increase until it became a certainty. Moreover, small vessels even in large numbers, were cheaper and more easy to provide.

Treaty of Versailles

By the Treaty of Versailles Germany was denied the right to build large ships except to replace a few odd-class battleships which she had been allowed to keep to protect her shores in the Baltic. It was useless to try to build battleships on the sly, for this could not be done without attracting attention, and probably incurring strong action on the part of England and France. So she built a few submarines, which she was allowed to do, and also the so-called, "pocket battleships" Graf Spee, Deutschland and Admiral Scheer"; ships which could only have a very limited and special use, and which were quite useless for serious sea warfare. In fact the German Admiralty made the same mistake as that of which Italy has been guilty, namely, building special vessels which it was hoped might sneak about and sink larger warships or prey on sea commerce instead of building ships which could openly face the fleet of its opponent.

Aircraft vs. Battleships

There was at this time a world-wide but totally unjustifiable belief that aircraft were, infallibly able to sink battleships; and, in German naval circles, that the magnetic mine and submarine were capable of supplanting the battleships. It seemed, therefore, to Hitler and his advisers that, if the new mines and submarine could take the place of the battle fleet, there was no reason to attempt to rival Britain in battleship construction, especially when cheaper weapons could destroy those mammoths. Further, the aeroplane was useful in land fighting as well as at sea, so it was better to bank on machines which could play the double role.

Needless to say this was not the opinion of British naval officers. They know well the difficulties attending sea work; the difficulties of successful air attack on ships; they know the difficulties that submarines encounter in attacking convoys; and they know how those whose business is to live on deep waters have the knack of circumventing such attacks.

They have a firm belief that command of the sea must be gained and held by surface vessels, that the commerce of a country must be carried in ships above water, and that these ships are best attacked by surface vessels. They look on submerged craft and aircraft as useful auxiliaries to surface command but as a doubtful substitute for surface vessels.

The German leaders, Hitler, Goering, Goebbels and the like, had neither sea knowledge nor sea experience. Their eyes were focussed on war as carried out on land, and they hoped that their sea improvisations would fill the bill; moreover they were impatient to obtain results. Their war, to be successful, had to be won before Britain could rearm; so they did not dare to delay the commencement of hostilities in order to attempt to rival Britain's strength in battleships. Perhaps, starting as they perforce had to a long way in arrear, they may have seen that it was hopeless to try to overtake our numbers, and that it was highly improbable that we should allow them to carry out so ingenuous a program. In the view of British strategists this German contempt of sea power is one of the fallacies which will lead to Germany's defeat in this war as in the last.—Montreal Gazette.

Stewart Says—

With Eye on '44, How Can Willkie Make a Living?

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Canadian Columnist

Wendell Willkie

Washington — "How's Wendell Willkie to make a living from now until 1944?" politicians are asking.

Considering the annual $75,000 that he received for quite a while from Commonweath & Southern, it may seem as if he should have saved up, as he went along, enough to last him indefinitely. But everybody who's had any experience with an income knows how inevitably the recipient's expenses keep up with it. He just can't prevent it. I myself recall that, as an $18-a-week cub reporter, I felt richer than ever I have since then, although subsequently I've made a bit more than that. The rule may not apply on into the billionaire classification, but I fancy that it does up to and probably above the $75,000 line. Simply in the course of nature a big stipend's bill are correspondingly higher than a small one's. and it doesn't imply extravaganve in the former case, either.

Anyway, Wendell apparently isn't fixed to wag along for four years without a job—not if he's to be a Republican presidential factor in 1944. By going into complete political eclipse I presume he could stay off relief indefinitely, with what he's managed to hang on to out of his annual $75,000. He evidently doesn't propose to go into eclipse, though. His obvious notion's to remain a shining light on the 1944 G.O.P. horizon. That'll call for a sizeable wad of money.

At a dinner at Washington's National Press club, some time before the last campaign, I heard Wendell assess himself financially.

Spurns Big Offer

He said he had $30,000 in Commonwealth & Southern stock. He mentioned that he'd bought an Indiana farm occasionally, altogether five or six of them. He referred likewise to an offer he'd had of $150,000 yearly to join a New York law firm, but he didn't accept it, preferring Commonwealth & Southern on half as much. He didn't explain why, but it's immaterial; the $150,000 proposition, having been turned down, isn't a consideration in the argument as to his maintenance during the coming four-year period.

What's he to do? Wendell himself isn't inquiring, but politicians are.

Independently of all else, he must have a comfortable bank account, but the best guess is that it's inadequately to support a four-year presidential candidacy. Ditto the dividends on $30,000 worth of Commonwealth& Southern stock.

It's understood that Commonwealth & Southern would be glad to get him back on the basis of his original $75,000 per annum or even better than that, but his friends oppose it on the ground that it would re-link him with public utilities and completely queer him for 1944; the association handicapped him this year.

Then how about a hook-up with a big law firm?—like the one that wanted him at the $150,000 rate. His friends objected again. Their contention is that such a firm once more would identify him with Wall Street, which his management is so anxious to avoid having his name re-associated with.

Many of his well wishers think he ought to retire to one of his Indiana farms, pretending to cultivate the soil, but really devoting himself to writing for newspapers and magazines, to speech making and to numerous tours of the country, stirring up his kind of sentiment.

Others insist that a college presidency is the ideal job for him, also mixed with writing (he's a good writer), oratory and the general concoction of political medicine, like Glenn Frank.

But there's one main difficulty with both these agricultural and college presidential schemes.

Small Remuneration

Willkie, to carry on four years of effective missionary work, needs an exceedingly substantial income. Farming doesn't yield one. College presidents' salaries aren't imposing in comparison with public utility magnates'. Magazine and newspaper writers aren't overly remunerated. Speech making's returns aren't imposing. A lot of it has to be done gratis.

Wendell, in short, can finance himself handsomely as a public utility executive or a Wall Street lawyer, but either of those two jobs would finish him as a future presidential possibility. On the opposite hand, he could provide himself with a fine presidential build-up on a farm or in a college presidency and as a writer and a speech maker. But these are stunts he can't make enough money in.

The choice is one that puzzles his 1944 backers, and perhaps Wendell also.

TOO TALL

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP).—Daniel Harrell missed the draft by an inch and a quarter. United States army regulations says soldiers may be no taller than six feet six inches. Harrell is six feet, 7¼ inches.

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Melbourne, Dec. 7 (CP-Reuters).—Australia already is ahead of the air scheme schedule, Air Minister McEwen said in a broadcast. Australia's contract to supply 16,000 pilots, observers and air-gunenrs by March, 1943, is only a "sighting post" he added.

BLIND WOMAN SAVES FRIEND

Cincinnati, Dec. 7 (AP)—Severely burned, Mrs. Nola Fisher, 38, thanks Mrs. Amelia Bradford, 66, for saving her life. Mrs. Fisher's clothing ignited as she stood near a stove. Mrs. Bradford ripped off the flaming clothing and trampled it out. Both women are sightless.

LIVELY LINES

By Arthur L. Burke

Mussolini went to Greece,
Imbued with great ambition,
With Fascist ranks and armoured tanks,
And bombers in addition.

Mussolini flapped his wings,
And crowed for each occasion,
Said he: "I'll crack the Grecian back,
And conquer by invasion."

Mussolini's transports crossed
The narrow Adriatic,
"Go fight," said he, "for Italy,
My orders are emphatic."

They started for the mountain pass,
Without the least conception,
That fighting Greeks were in the peaks,
They got a hot reception.

If Mussolini wanted Greece
Across the mountains dripping,
The grease he got was boiling hot,
It started Mussi slipping.

Mussolini's Fascist troops,
In Grecian hills and regions,
Are in retreat, there's none can beat
These quick reversing legions.

Undaunted all, these fearless lads,
The sons of ancient Nero,
Each brave from Rome, is going home,
A Mussolini hero.

But Mussolini knows the art,
Of hitting and retiring,
His swift attack, at flying back,
All nations are admiring.

If Mussolini ever goes
Where fires are ne'er deleted,
When comes his turn, to fry and burn,
They'll find he has retreated.

SPECIAL GRANTS GIVEN TO NORTH TO REMOVE SNOW

Northern Councillors Ask for $100 for Each Municipality But Are Voted $75

OTHER GRANTS GIVEN

The question of special grants to the northern municipalities for snow-removal purposes which has long been the spark to set ablaze the argumentative fires between the "North" and "South" sections of the Hastings County Council lived up to its reputation at the closing sitting of the December session Friday afternoon.

Northern reeves showed a solid debating front following the motion by Reeve U. A. Hubbell, Faraday, requesting the grants of $100 to each of the seven northern municipalities. Cross-chamber debate followed and before the smoke of argument had cleared the north had won a victory, which while not entirely complete, will bring them grants of $75 for the purpose of keeping township roads open during the winter months.

But the "South" did not concede defeat without a struggle: It went down fighting and had the satisfaction of seeing its debates prove at least a bit fruitful in the final outcome.

The "North" used a powerful weapon. The consensus of debate was the fact that the roads and main arteries of the north along which flow unending streams of timber, pulp, and raw materials, vital to the Dominion's war efforts, must be kept open. The "South" contended that its residents got out in the winter time and helped clear the roads without expense to the municipality. The debate was waxing a bit fiery when Warden John L. Churcher suddenly put a quietus on the verbal proceedings by amending the motion for grants of $75.00. The suddenness of the strategy succeeded, and the "North" had won another victory.

More Economy

Reeve George West, Madoc, fired the opening gun in the "South's" retaliation to the Northern demands. "We have been growling about the high costs of justice in this county. We want to economize there, and we should economize along other lines so that the boys overseas can get the benefit of the monies saved. Municipalities should get out and do some work themselves. It's time some sacrifice was made," he said.

Reeve William Linn, fiery father of the Marmora council stated that "more money was going into the north than was going out of it. How are we going to run this county on a basis like that without raising the assessment?" he demanded.

There are no paved highways going through the north country, Reeve Caldwell, Carlow contended, like there are in the villages.

"It is nice for the county to be in a position to give these grants," Reeve William West, Stirling, argued, "but this council must study economy. I like the north as well as anyone, but it is time we were frank about these things."

It only meant keeping the main trails through the townships open so that people can get their mail and receive medical help if needed, Reeve Joe Davis, Mayo, stated. "It doesn't look fair to have these grants refused."

"One hundred dollars will not go very far towards keeping the roads clear," Warden Churcher said. "It must be remembered that people live in the north country and must get in and out, and so must doctors and other essential people."

"Want Our Own Back"

"It was the revenue of the north country in the old days that helped the south to become what it is," he reminded the council. "We are only asking for a part of what we gave you years ago. You will find as much activity in the north as anywhere and it is absolutely necessary that these roads be kept open. It means as much to the south as to the north."

"I suggest," the warden continued, "that these grants be made to keep these avenues open so that timber and raw materials can be got out in order to help win the war. Perhaps, when the glorious days of peace come, we shall be able to convince the provincial government that it is its duty to keep these roads open."

Reeve Charles Kerr, Tweed felt the villages were getting the "small end of the stick." They are paying for the roads while monies expended by the townships are subsidized 60 to 75 per cent. "You can't blame the villages for feeling that the grant hurts, and I think that they have something coming to them as well. I can't feel friendly towards these northern grants."

"Think of Britain"

Huntingdon has never paid a dollar for snow removal and doesn't intend to, Reeve Thomas Fleming of that municipality stated. "The snow will melt and grants look to me like wasted money. Think of Britain where women and children are digging themselves out of bricks and mortar and think of us who figure it is too much to get out and dig a little snow."

Ratepayers of the county should co-operate this year in a country where snow falls instead of bombs, Reeve Roscoe Robson, Thurlow declared. "Since this council has tried to economize in other directions I feel these grants should be reduced in view of the fact that this year they will be subsidized."

"We have a war on our hands," Wollaston's Reeve Charles Muffitt told the council, "and it's equally true that we must get raw materials out for the prosecution of the war. It is very essential that we must not allow these goods to pile up along the roadside, and I myself am making a special effort to keep the main roads open in order to get logs, pulpwood and other necessities 'out.' I appeal to you gentlemen to consider these grants."

South Has Problem Too

Conditions are no different in the south, Reeve Robson argued. "We in the south must keep our roads open but we don't have to pay our men for doing it. All sections here co-operate with us in this respect and the northern municipalities would not spend so much money if their ratepayers would turn in and help. The south has as big if not bigger road problems than has the north," he said.

"Farm commodities must be got out," retaliated Reeve Muffitt, "but there is a lot of difference between a few pounds of butter and a load of timber or pulpwood. Many of our people get out and help us, but our roads are not all pavement like some of those in the south."

Tyendinaga ratepayers demand that the roads be kept open in the winter, Reeve Stewart Dies of that municipality stated. "We spend two-thirds of our appropriation in the summer time, and the only way out for us is to assess an extra mill for the purpose."

Warden Churcher interrupted the debate at this point with an amendment for grants of $75 to each of the northern municipalities. The amendment carried.

Other grants made were: Victorian Order of Nurses, Belleville, $50, and $50 to the Short Course in Agriculture being held in Tweed. A number of institution accounts were paid which included a monthly account of $1,227.45 to the Children's Aid Society of Belleville. Members pointed out that Children's Aid here would cost the county nearly $20,000 this year, a substantial increase over costs of previous years.

Tribute to Warden

Members paid tribute to the fine co-operation and the upholding of the dignity of his office by the Warden in a motion read by Reeve Charles Rush. The body thanked its head for the fine associations and spirit of friendliness as well as the outstanding efficiency with which he has performed his duties.

In reply Warden Churcher stated that it had been a distinct pleasure to act as the warden of the county for 1940. "I have had a personal touch with all members of the council and many residents of Hastings, which I never had before," he said. "It has been a wonderful experience and I have tried to fill my office 100 per cent."

"It is impossible for a warden to carry out his duties without the wholehearted co-operation of his council and county officials," he continued. "To fight for something and get it, is one thing, but to have the co-operation of such a fine body of men has been wonderful."

"If I can be of any assistance to the council or any councillor next year, even at a sacrifice, I shall be glad to do it, in any effort to pay a little for the much you all have done for me. I thank you, gentlemen, a thousand times," the warden concluded.

Warden Churcher will return to county council in January, in his familiar seat as reeve of Dungannon township having recently received an acclamation which will inaugurate his tenth year as a county councillor.

The Council adjourned sine die at this point following the singing of the National Anthem.

Travel Bureau Granted $500,000 For Promotion Of Tourist Program

Toronto, Dec. 7 — (CP) —Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, told a meeting of Trade and Tourist officials here today that the Bureau has been granted $500,000 again this year for promotion of the Dominion's Tourist program.

Mr. Dolan was the main speaker at the morning session of the meeting called by Premier Hepburn under the chairmanship of D. R. Oliver, director of the Ontario Tourist Publicity Bureau. Mr. Hepburn attended the morning meeting and a luncheon.

Mr. Dolan told the 150 delegates, members of Tourist Associations, Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade from throughout the province, that the Dominion would undertake a heavy publicity campaign in which the provinces will co-operate.

He suggested that Canadians must emphasize to the people of the United States "who are concerned with the preservation of the American way of life" that under the present virtually one-way tourist travel they were helping Canada fight for their ideals of liberty and freedom.

Mr. Dolan warned that "we are going to be faced by an ever more-intensive Nazi campaign to influence United States travellers from coming to this country".

Reasons are Given

R. H. Tarr of Ottawa, representing the Foreign Exchange Control Board, told the meeting the government had placed the present exchange regulations in effect for the following reasons:

1.—A growing need to conserve American exchange which was accentuated by a severe drop in travel to Canada by Americans after the announcement of American requirements regarding passports and visas.

2.—There were indications that demand for United States funds by Canadian for travel purposes would have reached a very high figure due for the most part of the increased internal prosperity.

3.—It was a method of saving a large amount of United States funds, perhaps $75,000,000 annually, without imposing any monetary sacrifice on Canadians.

There had been some protests from Americans when the regulations went into effect, Mr. Tarr said, but these objections disappeared when they found out the reasons for the regulations.

WELFARE DIVISION FORMED

Ottawa, Dec. 7—(CP) — Establishment of a "Veterans' Welfare Division" in the Department of Pensions and National Health is provided for under an order-in-council tabled in the House of Commons Friday.

Its function will be to advise and assist former members of the forces in re-establishing themselves in civilian life, and to perform any other duties which may be assigned to it, relating to welfare of former members of the forces.

BRITISH COKE WILL BE SHIPPED TO UNITED STATES

Tonnage Will Assist the American Steel Industry Maintain Capacity Production

A FINE GESTURE

New York, Dec. 7 (CP).—The New York Times says today the British Iron and Steel Federation has completed plans to ship substantial tonnages of coke to the United States to maintain the American steel industry at close to capacity operation.

The newspaper says it has learned the shipments will be based "upon estimates that not less than 50,000 tons of coke will be required monthly", and if the situation warrants, the program will be expanded.

The Times says less than two weeks' supply of coke is available for the United States steel industry now and the plan to bring British coke to the American market "is regarded as of the utmost importance."

The Times says further:

"While the British Federation is a purchasing and sales organization for the highly integrated British steel industry, the coke supply from the United Kingdom is to be marketed through ordinary commercial channels, it was learned. The federation has charge of British purchases of all iron and steel products in the United States through the British Purchasing Commission.

Close Co-operation.

"The shipment of British coke to the United States may be interpreted as a further instance of the close co-operation among the steel industries of the United States, the United Kingdom and Canada, which have become increasingly interdependent as a result of the war. Gentlemen's agreements already exist through which the British have first call on all American export of steel and iron products. In particular, recent British imports of American pig iron have been vital to the steel industry of the United Kingdom.

Trial Shipments Due.

"Several trial shipments of British coke are due to arrive in American ports this month and the first lots may be here already, it was said. Considered from a purely shipping stand-point, the coke deliveries will be useful as ballast on westbound vessels, it was explained.

"The United States currently is delivering about 600,000 net tons of steel monthly to the United Kingdom and 120,000 net tons to Canada, which is considerably in excess of our shipments to these countries in any previous years. In addition, the United States is sending about 55,000 tons of coke to Canada each month.

"Two reasons are advanced for the shipment of British coke to the United States instead of directly to Canada. The first is that the United Kingdom builds up its dollar balances in the United States through exports to the market, while the Canadian government, by its sweeping embargo on imports on consumers goods, will have control over its own dollar balances. The second reason is geographical, in that American coke is readily accessible to Canada through the Buffalo, Michigan, Chicago and Ohio customs districts."

JUST AS HEALTHFUL

Ottawa, Dec. 7—(CP)—Canadian tomato juice is just as healthful as orange juice, Dr. H. A. Bruce, Conservative - Toronto - Parkdale, told the House of Commons Friday during discussion of measures to conserve foreign exchange.

Citing the results of a study by the Department of Paediatrics at the University of Toronto, he said that from 100 cubic centimetres of California orange juice 11.3 milligrams of vitamin C were obtained. From a similar amount of tomato juice, 6.9 milligrams were obtained.

One merely had to use a little more tomato juice, Dr. Bruce said.

Myrna Loy and Melvyn Douglas comprise the screen's latest battling romantic team. The two are seen together for the first time in "Third Finger, Left Hand," modern comedy of a woman so busy she has to "invent a husband." The laugh hit is now on the Belle screen.

Capital Closeups

By JOHN DAUPHINEE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Dec. 7—(CP)—Observers here are speculating on the possibility that manufacture of complete shells for the big guns of Britain's army and navy ultimately will become Canada's major duty in Empire production of war materials.

Last night it was disclosed that Munitions Minister Howe, when he visits the United Kingdom shortly, will discuss with British officials a division of production activities under which each country would concentrate on the class of production it can handle most effectively.

Lending weight to the widespread belief on Parliament Hill that expansion of Canada's shell-making industry can be expected as the war progresses is that fact that the Dominions was supplying a large proportion of the shells used by the Canadian and British forces at the end of the first Great War. During the whole war, 65,000,000 shells were sent overseas.

Laugh of the week: T. L. (Tommy) Church (Con. Toronto-Broadview) voted with the C.C.F. in support of a compulsory loan proposal ...his colleagues laughter drew attention to the error...Tommy wrote a note to speaker Glen, presumably for advice... When the vote was completed he announced his error and his vote was changed.

Second choice: Somebody brought into the house a picture intended to represent a girl being "lulled into a false sense of security" by a young man reading poetry...the chuckles spread from the Conservative ranks to the treasury benches... PS: The Conservatives claim the government is "lulling" the people into a false sense of security on war issues.

ODDS AND ENDS

Hon. Grote Stirling, Yale Conservative, sat down beside Resources Minister Crerar in the House for a chat...He probably felt at home...The seat beside Mr. Crerar normally is occupied by Defence Minister Ralston, now in England...Mr. Stirling held the Defence Portfolio in the Bennett administration.

New Democracy Leader John Blackmore's favorite neckwear is a wing-collar and gray cravat...Another wing-collar fan is Labor Minister McLarty, but he wears a bow tie.

Mrs. Lillie Beirne, the Australian feminist, called on Prime Minister Mackenzie King the other day ... She found that one of his election campaign speeches which she liked was based on one delivered by his grandfather, William Lyon Mackenzie...Mr. King can repeat the original from memory...Mrs. Beirne says she asked why Mr. King wasn't married "with so many fascinating and charming women as I have met in Canada"...The Prime Minister was "a bit disconcerted"...He acknowledged the charm of Canadian women but didn't give any excuses for his bachelorhood, Mrs. Beirne says.

The parliament buildings seem to have an appeal for soldiers on leave...There are a half-dozen around most of the time... One soldier visitor this week was Herman Trelle, former world wheat king from Wembley, Alta....He's serving with the Royal Canadian Engineers here.

Marmora

Marmora—Mrs. Harold Nayler has been visiting relatives in Foxboro for a few days

Reeve W. R. Linn and Reeve John A. Bell have been in attendance at County Council in Belleville this week.

Mrs. Ed McGarvey of Toronto is visiting her sister Mrs. William Gray.

Mr. Emerson McCormack has moved into the residence lately vacated by Mrs. Harry Phillips.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held in the Parish Hall on Thursday evening with the president, Mrs. A. B. Caldwell presiding over a good attendance. After the business period, Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell took the chair for the election of officers. The following were elected:

President, Mrs. John R. Hart.
Vice President, Mrs. Percy Gray.
Secretary, Miss G. Lumsden.
Treasurer, Mrs. R. E. Bonter.
Visiting Committee, Mrs. A. Eggleton, Convener, Mesdames W. Leonard, H. Melville and E. Brady.

Mrs. R. G. Winters was re-appointed convener of the Chancel Guild.

The financial statement of the Guild will be presented at the January meeting. Mrs. George Kerr was greeted by the members on her attendance at the meeting upon recovery from a recent serious illness. A vote of thanks was extended Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Pearce for valuable assistance given in the decoration of the interior of the hall. Rural Dean Caldwell closed the meeting with prayer.

St. Andrew's Women's Association held their regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon, December 2nd at the home of Mrs. M. Linton. The president, Mrs. W. J. Pack was in the chair and conducted the opening exercises and business period. Following the regular meeting, Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher conducted the annual election of officers which resulted as follows:

President, Miss Margaret Brown.
Vice President, Mrs. H. A. Burwash.
Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. J. Gordenier.
Financial Secretary, Mrs. F. Sweet.
Treasurer, Mrs. F. R. Wells.
Pianist, Mrs. H. W. Sabine.
Auditors, Mesdames E. C. Prentice and F. N. Marett.
Kitchen Committee, Mesdames W. E. Gould, S. Henry and T. Hannah.
Parsonage Committee, Mesdames E. C. Prentice, E. Gray, H. O. Loveless and the president.
Sick and Visiting Committee — Mesdames H. Connor, W. A. Sanderson and F. R. Wells.

Mrs. C. H. Buskard spent the week end in Toronto.

Inspector S. D. Randall, B.A., Inspector of High Schools made his annual visit to Marmora High School on Tuesday.

Mrs. Clara Hamilton has been visiting her sister Mrs. Frank Burkitt at Burrs for a couple of weeks.

Lance Corporal J. Darrah of Camp Borden spent the week end at his home here.

Mrs. C. A. Seaton is a patient in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough.

Mr. James Marett has obtained a position in Belleville.

Mr. T. E. Pritchard is in attendance at the Jury sittings of the County Court held in Belleville this week having been called as a juror.

Shannonville

Shannonville—Pte. Ronald Mayell, Ordinance Corp, Kingston, spent the week end the guest of his mother Mrs. Olive Mayell.

Pte. Fred Smith, Bowmanville, spent the week end at his home.

Mr. Jack MacDonald was a Sunday guest of Sergeant Carman Spencer and Mrs. Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs. William Conley and Hubert and Mr. Gerald Sager were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lorena, Oshawa.

Mr. Ross Fuller, Oshawa, spent the week end at his home.

Sergeant Carman Spencer, R. C. A. F. and Mrs. Spencer have returned to Ottawa after spending the past ten days guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Madeline Spencer and Ruth.

Sergeant Carmen Spencer and Mrs. Spencer, Miss Ruth Spencer, Mr. Douglas Kent and Mrs. Barney Parsons, Belleville, were Tuesday tea hour guests of Mrs. Kathleen Mills and family.

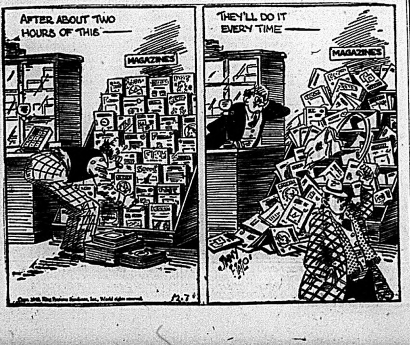
The many friends of Mr. Thomas Vivian, 2nd line, who is a patient in Belleville Hospital are pleased to hear he is recovering from his recent illness.

Pte. Fred Smith and Mrs. Smith spent Saturday in Kingston.

Mrs. B. Parson left Thursday for Halifax to join her husband.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo



AFTER ABOUT TWO HOURS OF THIS—
MAGAZINES
THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME—
MAGAZINES
JIMMY HATLO
12-7

GIFTS

SEE OUR WINDOWS.

KODAKS
COMPACTS
CUTEX SETS
YARDLEY SETS
VITA RAY SETS
MEN'S CASES
LADIES' CASES

Laura Secords

OUR RESERVE LIST IS OPEN NOW.

Make out your list now. Leave your order, and we hold them till Christmas.

60c — $1.00 — $1.50
$2.00 — $2.50

DOLAN
THE DRUGGIST
Phone 138

Could Churchill be Christian and Reject a Peace Proposal After So Much Slaughter?
WILL BE THE EVENING SUBJECT
at
EMMANUEL CHURCH
(FREE CHURCH OF ENGLAND) (Victoria Ave.)
MORNING PRAYER, 11 a.m. SABBATH SCHOOL [illegible] p.m.

CHURCH OF NAZARENE
Sunday, 11 a.m.—Preaching: REV. R. CANTREL, District Supt.
Communion. 7 p.m.—EVANGELISTIC. Preaching: Mrs. Mallory
Wednesday, 8.00 p.m.—PRAYER and PRAISE SERVICE.
Come and Bring Your Friends. REV. W. W. MALLORY, Pastor

ALLIANCE TABERNACLE
Cor. West Moira and Coleman Sts. REV. C. V. FREEMAN, Pastor
11.00 a.m.—"HAVE YE RECEIVED THE HOLY GHOST SINCE YE BELIEVED?" Including the testimonies of great men of the church who have
7.00 p.m.—"HIS NAME SHALL BE CALLED WONDERFUL!" Showing Seven Wonders of the Living Word.
10.00 a.m.—Sunday School.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY
(I.O.O.F TEMPLE, 271½ FRONT STREET)
SERVICE 11 a.m. SUNDAY SCHOOL 11.00 a.m.
Testimonial Meeting First Wednesday of Each Month at 8 p.m.
Subject: GOD THE ONLY CAUSE AND CREATOR
THE PUBLIC IS CORDIALLY INVITED TO ATTEND THESE SERVICES

BETHEL HALL
Corner Church and Station Streets
11.00 a.m.—REMEMBER THE LORD.
3.00 p.m.—School and Bible Class.
7.00 p.m.—GOSPEL SERVICE.
Speaker: MR. FRED PEER
WEDNESDAY, 8 p.m.—PRAYER MEETING.
FRIDAY, 7p.m.—Children's Meeting; also 8 p.m.—Young People.

Bridge Street United Church
REV. J. SEMPLE, B.A., S.T.B., Th.D., Minister
11.00 A.M.
HOLY COMMUNION
7.00 P.M.
SONS BUT NOT HEIRS.
THE TREND OF THE CHURCH.
A Review of the Book Published by Putnam's. Editor: Rev. A. J. Penney, Presbyterian Minister, Oyster Bay, New York
One of the most challenging books that has appeared on the subject of the Church in a decade.
2.30 p.m.—SUNDAY SCHOOL.
Alec Gordon, Organist. Leona Riggs, Choir Leader

TABERNACLE UNITED CHURCH
REV. D. T. McCLINTOCK
11.00 a.m.—REV. GEORGE W. MORRISON, B.A.
11.30 a.m.—Junior Congregation. Mrs. (Dr.) Branscombe.
2.30 p.m.—Sunday School.
2.30 p.m.—Communicants' Class.
7.00 p.m.—REV. GEORGE MORRISON, B.A.
Wednesday, 8 p.m.—Mid-Week Study, "The Atonement."
Organist and Choir Leader:—MRS. DUFF.

HOLLOWAY STREET UNITED CHURCH
REV. J. A. DILTS - - Minister
11.00 a.m.—False and True Tests of Discipleship.
7.00 p.m.—How a Divided Personality May Find Harmony.
"Practical Messages for People with Problems."
2.30 p.m.—SUNDAY SCHOOL.
Wm. Connor, organist. S. M. Anglin, choir leader

ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
REV. W. J. WALKER, B.A., B.D., Minister.
10.00 a.m.—Sunday School.
11.00 a.m.—THE GOD OF LIGHT.
7.00 p.m.—RALLY OF Y. P. S. of the Presbyteries of Peterborough and Kingston.
HAROLDE R. KITNEY, Organist and Choir Director.

EVANGEL TEMPLE
"A Warm Welcome Awaits You at Belleville's Evangelistic Centre"
Bridge West and Coleman Streets. E. N. O. KULBECK, Pastor
10 a.m. Sunday School. 11 a.m. Important Meeting for Christians.
7.30 p.m.—"SEEING THE FACE OF JESUS."
Live Congregational Singing. Bright Choruses. Orchestra.
Tuesday night—Prayer Meeting. Thursday Night—Bible Study.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND
CHURCH OF ST. THOMAS
Second Sunday in Advent. Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, Rector
8 a.m. Holy Communion; 11 a.m. Matins; 2.30 p.m. Sunday School; 7 p.m. Evensong.
Ernest Wheatly, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O., organist.

CHRIST CHURCH
Second Sunday in Advent. Rev. G. G. Wright, L.Th., Rector.
8 a.m.—Holy Communion.
11 a.m.—Morning Prayer.
Sermon—"Of the Last Four Things", JUDGMENT.
2.30 p.m.—Sunday Schools.
7.00 p.m.—Evensong.
Sermon—"God's Revelation of Himself—In Man."
George N. Maybee, Organist and Choirmaster

Victoria Avenue Baptist Church
Rev. Claude Troupe Olmstead, B.A., B.D., Minister
11.00 a.m.—NO MORE SACRIFICE
3.00 p.m.—SUNDAY SCHOOL.
7.00 p.m.—LIGHT IN THE DARKNESS
Music:—Mr. and Mrs. John W. Deacon.

PERSONALS

Mrs. R. J. Allin, Kingston, who has been guest of her daughter, Mrs. Herrington and Mr. Herringtone, has left to visit relatives in Detroit.

Mr. C. M. Aikins of Rossmore, has been confined to his home for over the past week with an attack of lumbago and an injured knee.

Mr. Harold Johnson is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Among the nurses who graduated from Ontario Hospital, Kingston, the graduation exercises of which were held yesterday afternoon were Misses Hazel Elizabeth Generoux, Queensboro, Stella Leontine O'Sullivan, Corbyville, and Leia Winifred Stinson, Consecon. Miss O'Sullivan won the Ontario Hospital, Kingston, prize for bedside nursing, while Miss Stinson was the recipient of the C. R. Wartman prize for the highest standing in theory.

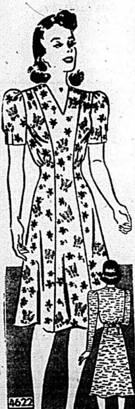
The C.G.I.T. of Bridge Street United Church held a successful afternoon tea and sale of home cooking in the Sunday School rooms of the church yesterday afternoon. White and blue, the C.G.I.T. colors, adorned the rooms, and the tea table, at which Mrs. James Semple poured. The girls in their C.G.I.T. uniforms assisted during the afternoon.

The annual Spinsters' Ball of the Cadet Rangers has become a popular institution in the city's social life and the event last evening showed that its appeal has not waned. The Trianon Ballroom was filled to capacity as the young ladies were "hosts" to their escorts and carried out the duties usually assigned to their partners. The guests were received by Mrs. Leo B. Riggs, Mrs. W. N. Ponton, Mrs. T. Aman, Miss Ivy Dickens, Miss Hilda Collier and Miss Jessie Tuite. The Commodores provided an excellent dance program, prizes being presented for the spot, birthday and lucky number program dances. Refreshments were served by the girls after which dancing continued.

HISTORY-MAKING fashions are part of the present sartorial season. Something new is a slender black crepe dinner dress made with white ermine collar and revers and white ermine buttons. Worn with a matching ermine coat.

Becoming, Year-'Round Style

By ANNE ADAMS



Pattern 4622

What a practical "find" this Anne Adams Pattern, 4622! It's so becoming and well-fitting that you will wear it all year 'round. First, in gay cotton, with short sleeves, it makes an at-home dress for now; wear it later as an out-of-doors spring style. Then, in smart wool, with long sleeves, it's perfect for street or under-coat wear. The long front panel makes you seem inches taller and slimmer. Darts give trim lines at your shoulders; pointed side waist-seams keep your waist smooth and trim. There's a smart half-belt that buckles in back, and you may choose long or short sleeves. For a gay effect, make the sleeves, the soft side-front bodice sections and the back bodice all in cheerful contrast.

Pattern 4622 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes 3 1-8 yards, 35-inch fabric.

Send Twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Send your order to The Ontario Intelligencer Pattern Department, 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

If the Years Begin to Show

Sonja Henie Keeps Fit with daily exercise

(By HELEN FOLLETT)

WOULDN'T it be grand if every middle-aged woman could find a painless method of removing the evidence of superfluous birthdays? Hateful that the years have to bring gray threads in the thatch, put turkey tracks around the eyes. The wheels of life turn all too fast, thinks the lady who has travelled into her fifties.

About the hair; she can accept the white shafts or she can dye 'em. If she dyes, let her seek professional attention so she will not be disappointed in the results. As for the wrinkles, she can check their progress by tapping a heavy cream into the flesh every night, having an ice friction once a day.

Too Much Middle

The biggest trouble is the middle aged figure which usually has more middle than it needs. At the arrival of the first extra inch a woman should do this exercise every day:

Lie flat on the back in bed, hands under the buttocks. Lift the legs slowly until one is almost standing on the back of one's neck; lower the leg slowly. Fifteen times. Rest, breathe deeply ten times, then at the leg lifting again. Ten minutes night and morning.

When you spot a hangnail do you bite it off? If so you are a bad girl, ought to be paddled. An open wound has a welcome sign out for bacteria, and an infected finger is no joke, let me tell you.

Soak the finger in warm soap suds until the flesh around the nail is soft. Run the orange wood stick under the cuticle, detaching it from the nail. Send the stick in tiny circles and be gentle. Lift the cuticle, don't push it back. Snip off the little shred with the curved needle point scissors, holding the ends toward the nail base.

If the cuticle is oiled at night, the orange wood stick used daily, no horrid hangnail will come into your life to make you miserable.

Clothing Makes The Toddler, Too

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Go to the infant's section of a good department store and look over the clothing for little children. Observe the simplicity of the garments. See how few the buttons—maybe none at all. How very large the buttons and roomy buttonholes. Some garments have zippers or loose elastic bands—all designed to make self-dressing by the young toddler easy; easy also for the father who learns to give the necessary help to the little child. And such clothes are usually inexpensive.

Stores Help Parents

The Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., makes available for organizations an exhibit of model garments for children. This exhibit and the facts of child development and their interpretation by child psychologists and home economists have influenced buyers of children's garments and they in turn the manufacturer.

Parent education has greatly modified the wants of parents in respect to little children's clothes and books and toys. Some of the forward - looking department stores have had experts conducting parent-child institutes, including discussion of child development, behavior and family relationships, and presenting as a part of this institute exhibits of books for parents and for children; toys, proper clothes and foods for infants and children. In a number of the larger cities I have lectured as professional director of such institutes myself, delivering the lectures and leading the open forums. One is astonished at the high type of persons and their high grade training, who direct departments of toys, books or clothing for children in these stores. The best department store is gradually becoming an effectual centre for adult education, especially parent education.

Let Children Choose

Back to clothes. Sensible mothers, as soon as children grow old enough, give them opportunities to help choose the garments purchased for them, and later let those children purchase, within a designated budget, their own clothes alone.

These children are not hampered at play by clothes meant for being dressed up; nor are they embarrassed by having to wear clothes noticeably different from those of their playmates. Nowadays the style of clothing has practically nothing to do with cost. Even when mothers make the garments of their toddlers an up-to-date pattern cost no more.

Slurs at Another's Clothes

Nevertheless, we need to train our children never to say or do a thing that would make another child feel embarrassed about his clothes. We succeed best at such training by our own example. Let us never be guilty of speaking slightingly of another's clothes or person, hoping that our children will practice this rule as a mark of civility and good breeding.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My girl sometimes plays sick in order to escape going to school; but I am not always sure whether she is sick or not.

A. Take her temperature. If she has fever call the doctor. If not, and she still insists she is sick, take her at her word. Put her to bed for all day with very little food and not much attention. Then see the teacher and try to find out the cause and, if possible, remove it.

Q. My boy eight years old will not come in from play when it is growing dark and I call to him.

A. Let him know he must come in immediately when the street lights come on, or at some other automatic signal. Then he can keep his face and not seem to be bossed. Perhaps he will tell the other children he is tired, wants to read the funnies, or must go to supper.

A scene from the feature "Mein Kampf—My Crimes," the true story of Adolf Hitler and a complete expose of Nazi terror, which opens next at the McCarthy Theatre.

Red Cross Notes

The Belleville Branch of the Red Cross reports the following shipments to Toronto of hospital supplies, knitted supplies and new refugee clothing during the month of November.

The Red Cross is most grateful for the support it received from the donations of money, hospital and knitted supplies and donations of refugee clothing contributed during November:

Knitted supplies:—96 scarves, 16 dozen pairs socks, 30 sweaters, 4 pairs seamen's socks, 12 steel helmet caps, 2 pairs trigger mitts, 21 pairs two-way mitts, 4 pairs broadcast wristlets, 5 turtleneck tuck-ins, 2 Balaclava caps, 9 helmets.

Donations of knitted supplies—Foxboro Red Cross workers; Holloway Red Cross Unit, Mrs. Marshall Bridge Street United Church Red Cross Unit, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Red Cross Unit, Miss Ida Thompson, Melrose Women's Institute Red Cross Auxiliary, Wallbridge Red Cross, Mrs. A. C. Locke, Georgia Salon, Miss J. McGie, Mrs. H. E. Fairfield, Point Anne Red Cross.

List of shipments to Canadian Red Cross Society—20 cartons containing hospital supplies: 24 pairs pyjamas, 12 sheets, 10 pillow cases, 12 surgical towels, 6 hospital gowns, 60 khaki hdkf., 12 face cloths; new refugee clothing: 205 sleepers, 10 pyjamas, 126 night gowns, 51 skirts, 35 quilts, 3 blankets, 8 dresses, 1? pairs bloomers.

N.B.— Voluntary expert sewers are greatly needed at once to assist in making 14 year old coats for English girls whose families have lost their warm clothing through German bombing. The work room is open on Tuesdays from 2 to 5.30 p.m. for this type of work.

Donations to Belleville Red Cross —November 6 to December 1, 1940—Money and Supplies—Foxboro Red Cross Unit, Stone Church Red Cross Unit, Holloway Red Cross Auxiliary, Melrose W. I. Red Cross Auxiliary, Mrs. Mac Walters' Group, Christ Church Group A, Mrs. T. Dredge, Mrs. J. Daniels, 158 James St.; Hospital and Refugee— Phillipston and Zion Church Red Cross, Wallbridge Red Cross Unit Auxiliary, Aikin's Red Cross Unit, Centenary Red Cross Unit, Wesley United Church Red Cross Unit, Bridge St. United Church Red Cross Unit, Kingston Road United Church Red Cross Unit, Stone Church Red Cross Unit, Emmanuel Church Red Cross Unit, Christ Church W.A. Red Cross Aux., Cannifton Red Cross Auxiliary, Baptist Church Red Cross Auxiliary, Presbyterian Church Red Cross Auxiliary, St. Thomas' W.A. Red Cross Auxiliary, Comrade Club Tabernacle Church, School for Leisure Tabernacle Church, Neighbors' Aid Red Cross Auxiliary, 2nd Line Thurlow, The Georgia Salon, Queen Alexandra School, (blankets).

N.B.—Any names omitted, regrets —Telephone 1948.

Santa Claus Pays Annual Visit to Well Baby Clinic

At no place in the city does Santa Claus receive such a royal welcome as he does at his annual visit to the V.O.N. Welfare Centre and his arrival there yesterday was no exception. From tiny infants who were dazed by the excitement about them to the little toddlers who greeted him with wide eyed eagerness and happy smiles.

Santa Claus himself was flying the banner of the V.O.N. and had presents and candy for everyone. His jovial manner made the little tots lose their shyness and when the gift-giving was over they swarmed out doors after him, while Miss Soutar, nurse-in-charge, took some colored movie pictures of the gay scene as well as some unexpected candid camera shots.

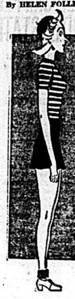
The nurses are again grateful to Mr. Brown for his kindness in assisting in the annual event.

After, Santa Claus' visit the regular work of the clinic was carried out, the special activity being the conclusion of the whooping cough serum by Dr. G. S. Cronk, M.O.H. Eighty-six pre-school age children have received this treatment. A cookie jar helped the work along a great deal, a cookie being quickly offered at the first jab of the needle.

THERE'S NEWS in the new prints, for many models feature much fine workmanship. A delightful afternoon frock in a big splashy black and white print is trimmed with black velvet scrolls fagotted into the bodice to form a shoulder yoke.

Stand UP for Beauty's Bow

By HELEN FOLLETT



This sketch shows correct posture for standing

HISTORIES of dress show us that the feminine shape has been distorted by waist pinching corsets, hip pads, bustles, hobble skirts, hoops and farthingales. Madame Fashion playing jokes, the little rascal! Now she is stern and sensible mothers says that natural lines are best, and will the pretty daughters please appear accordingly?

They must have firm, high breasts, waists as neat as a whistle graceful, small hips, straight legs and head balanced. All of which means that they are not to be royal gorges when the chocolate cake is passed, and that they must exercise and that, above everything else, they must carry themselves beautifully.

Watch Posture

The most perfect figure goes all to pieces if posture is poor. Hasn't snap or style. Makes the costliest, prettiest gown lose charm and character. Why girls and women don't pay more attention to the way they sit, walk and stand, your beauty reporter doesn't know.

Smart carriage makes for better health, keeps the abdominal muscles firm so the meal bag figure cannot develop.

Will the beauty class please make some good resolutions and stick to them?

Women of the Moose Donate Year's Supply Dressings to V.O.N.

Members of Belleville Chapter 435, Women of the Moose met in the Moose Auditorium on Tuesday evening. Mrs. C. St. Louis, Senior Regent, was the presiding officer. Important business matters were postponed until the next meeting owing to the fact that some members were unable to be present because of inclement weather conditions.

A donation of one year's supply of surgical dressings was voted to the Victorian Order of Nurses. The Sunshine prize donated by Mrs. B. Mossman, was won by Mrs. J. Chapman, graduate regent.

Christmas plans were completed for supper and entertainment in connection with the next chapter meeting. Mrs. G. Ritch, ritual chairman, reported on her committee. Mrs. E. McGinness on publicity and Mrs. Connell on the library paper.

Fashion Flashes

THE COUNTRY SCENE brings out handsome and colorful clothes. With her tweeds, one gal wears a long, full dashing cape of purple and blue mixture tweed lined with dark green velvet and bordered with muskrat. The cape is reversible.

JUST ABOUT the nicest evening coat glimpsed this season is a handsome full-length fitted model in bright red woollen with a high and snug collar, full-length stole and sleeve bands of black fox.

Several Donations Received by Library During Past Month

At the regular meeting of the Corby Public Library Board on Friday evening the following report was submitted by the Librarian, Miss Kathryn Gallagher:

"Total use of books for the month of November was 10,391 of which 6,782 were adult 2,966 children's books and 643 reference. New members totalled 106, which included 81 adults and 25 children. Thus for the first three months of the Fall season, we have gained 470 new members.

"During the month Miss Olive Delaney took charge of the Boys' and Girls' Department, an arrangement which is proving very satisfactory as the need was apparent for the service of a trained librarian in the ordering and cataloguing of children's books.

"I have been endeavouring to check our magazine stacks in the basement during the month, disposing of those in which the current affair material is now in book form The library has been asked for discarded books and magazines for the local boys in training at Petawawa as the officers are trying to establish a reading room and library for the men, particularly during the long winter months. Thus we may put to splendid use those discards for which the library has no further use.

"We are grateful this month for many generous donations: to Mr. F. Noyes for a gift of eleven books from his library, these include fiction and biography; to Mr. J. Berger for a Swedish grammar for reference use and to the Kresge Company for a large Santa Claus poster which we have placed over the fireplace in the Boys' and Girls' Library.

"Since this will be our last meeting of the year I wish to extend to the Board on behalf of myself and staff the greetings of the season.

"Respectfully submitted,
"Kathryn Gallagher, Librarian".

During the business of the meeting Miss Stewart Masson, a new member of the Board representing the Board of Education, was appointed to the Book Committee.

WEDDINGS

HEALEY—CASSIDY

On Wednesday, at nine o'clock, a pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Edmund's church, Stoco, by Rev. Father V. Meagher, P.P., when Stasia, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Cassidy, became the bride of Lawrence Stafford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Healey.

Stafford and Clement Cassidy, brothers of the bride, acted as acolytes. The wedding music was played by Miss Clara Mulroney and during the Nuptial Mass, Mr. Joseph Cassidy, cousin of the bride, was soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in a floor length gown of Flemish blue silk velvet, with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Monica Cassidy, in a gown of vintage silk velvet with matching accessories, and carrying a bouquet of pink rosebuds and lily-of-the-valley. Mr. Franklin Healey was his brother's groomsman.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of bride's parents. Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Sudbury. For travelling the bride wore soldier blue crepe with tweed sports coat and matching accessories.

Upon their return they will reside at Stoco.

Drawing Made to Aid War Savings Stamps Fund

With Mr. Howard J. Clarke making the drawing in the presence of the staff of St. Michael's Academy, the drawing took place Friday afternoon for a turkey donated by Mr. Wilkinson of Luckin's Meat Store, and won by Mr. H. Whalen, 221 Coleman Street, City; a ham donated by Ciceri Food Market, and won by Mrs. W. J. Keating, Campbellford; and five pounds of butter donated by Mr. Howard J. Clarke, Citizens' Dairy, and won by Dr. R. A. Flynn.

The proceeds of the draw are for St. Michael's War Savings Stamps Fund.

85,988 Christmas Gift Tickets Were Sold in Canada in 1939

FOLKS:

Here's a suggestion that may help you solve your Christmas problem—give BELLE Theatre tickets this Christmas!

Theatre tickets make an ideal gift, they're inexpensive, novel and practical, you can buy them in any quantity, large or small, depending entirely upon your personal needs, and they will be honored until June 28, 1941.

Should you be interested for your staff—and I might add, this is a wonderful solution for the employee problem—or for your personal friends, I would be glad to personally look after any number of reservations for you.

Christmas tickets answer the requirements of teachers, school and Sunday School, as prizes to leaders in their classes. We are selling tickets for children too.

Probably some Doctor or Patient has received special co-operation and service from an interne or nurses during the year, they will appreciate BELLE Theatre Christmas tickets in attractive gift envelopes.

Here is an ideal way to remember the delivery lads, from the butcher, or the baker, the newspaper boy. Make happy entertainment your gift this year and you will receive a WARM THANK YOU for it.

85,988 Christmas tickets were sold in Canada in 1939, proving the popularity of theatre tickets as an ideal Christmas gift, for it is a proven fact EVERYONE ENJOYS A GOOD SHOW!

Please let us serve you this Christmas season.
Thanking you,
Yours very truly,
GEORGE J. FORHAN.

P.S.—Santa suggests theatre thriftickets in handy booklets, good anytime. Thriftickets come in gay holiday gift envelopes.

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, December 8

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a very propitious and pleasant one, with the promise of lively and progressive events in the conventional affairs of the day, social, romantic and philanthropic. There may be particular impetus to intellectual forces, with some outstanding or remarkable discovery, invention or flash of genius or illumination, and this may have far reaching effect of deep or spiritual significance. Group work of a humanitarian nature thrives.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a lively and eventful year, with progress and pleasure as well. The intellect will be stimulated into strange fields or discovery or creative attainment in peculiar avenues of expression, amounting to illumination or inspiration of much significance.

A child born on this day will have some rare talent or inspiration which may lift it into a position of much high service for its fellows.

For Monday, December 9

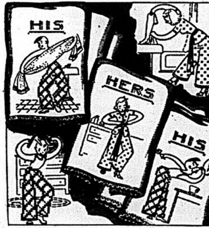
MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a very enterprising day, with much stirring in both a business and private connection. In fact the latter in a social, domestic and affectional activity is quite likely to relegate the more prosaic interests to the background. There may be surprises in store to stress romantic adventures and to heighten their thrills and enjoyments.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of exciting and perhaps thrilling experiences, with much commotion and pleasant excitement, social domestic and sentimental emotions are due for surprising denouements, with the sterner affairs pushed into the background, although it is a most auspicious time to seek advancement or favors from those in high places.

A child born on this day will be very energetic, enterprising and have fine creative and executive ability, with success promised in any cause it espouses.

CLIMBING UP THE LADDER of popularity is the suede suit that fits into the town picture too. A beauty is in green suede the long jacket collarless and trimmed with topaz jewel buttons and a leopard belt. Worn with gauntlet gloves of leopard.

Exclusively His or Hers is Gay Note



Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Bright Embroidery Quickly Done in Simple Stitches

COPR. 1940, HOUSEHOLD ARTS, INC.

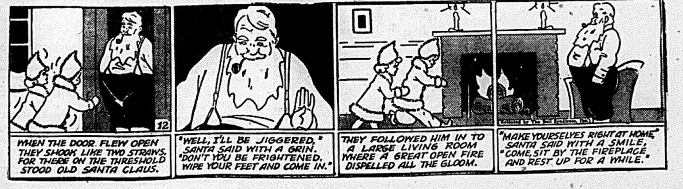
PATTERN 6848

Whether bride-to-be, newly-wed or established housewife these towels, embroidered in a jiffy, will delight her. What's more, embroidering each amusing motif will delight you. Pattern 6848 contains a transfer pattern of 6 motifs 5 x 7 3-4 inches; illustration of stitches; materials needed; color schemes.

To obtain this pattern send twenty cents in coins (20c) (stamps cannot be accepted) to The Ontario Intelligencer Household Arts Dept., 166 Front St., Belleville, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

A VISIT TO SANTA CLAUS—A Warm Welcome

By GEOFF HAYES



12
WHEN THE DOOR FLEW OPEN THEY SHOOK LIKE TWO STRAWS, FOR THERE ON THE THRESHOLD STOOD OLD SANTA CLAUS.
"WELL, I'LL BE JIGGERED," SANTA SAID WITH A GRIN. "DON'T YOU BE FRIGHTENED. WIPE YOUR FEET AND COME IN."
THEY FOLLOWED HIM IN TO A LARGE LIVING ROOM WHERE A GREAT OPEN FIRE DISPELLED ALL THE GLOOM.
"MAKE YOURSELVES RIGHT AT HOME," SANTA SAID WITH A SMILE, "COME, SIT BY THE FIREPLACE AND REST UP FOR A WHILE."

If Grandma Interferes With Baby

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

I have met some wonderful grand parents. An occasional one registers in my courses for parents at the University. The finest combination I have ever seen in class was that of a father and mother with the grandmother. Grandfather should have been there, too.

But you and I have known a good many grandparents who are problems to the child and to his parents. We know some grandparents who are ruining their grandchildren. Their motives are good, but the damage they are doing is stupendous none-the-less. Most difficulties with rearing children come when the grandparent or grandparents live in the growing family. they love the babies to death, and wait upon them too much.

Grandparents Must Not Interfere

They are inclined to interfere with the parent who attempts to discipline the very young child at the age when discipline is most effective. Then when the child that they have helped to spoil grows to the age of ten or fifteen years, saucy and disrespectful of the grandparents and all other adults of the family, these same grandparents are eternally scolding the children, and their parents in their childrens' presence for not having reared them well. They would have no hands laid upon the baby; but they want him beaten when he is too old to profit much from any kind of punishment.

We owe it to our parents to respect them and, if necessary, to care for them as long as they live. They cared for us. We also want our children to respect their grandparents. But so frequently grandparents literally teach their grandchildren disobedience.

Parents who put their children foremost in their plans will arrange to make it very clear to the grandparents that their presence in the home is welcome but that they should not interfere in any way with the upbringing of the children.

Attitudes Hard To Change

All sorts of complications may arise, particularly when the parents, unfortunately, are dependent economically upon the grandparents, or where one or both grandparents have for years assumed large responsibilities in the home. Attitudes and habits can't be changed by a mere decision. The longer they have been practiced and the older the person the less readily will they be modified. Even those grand parents who in good faith, pledge themselves to do or not to do certain things, will hardly be able to abide literally by their promises They are human just as you and I are human.

Of course, not nearly all grandparents in the home are disrupting child control. Some indeed are very helpful. But for a wise and skillful grandmother some of the most useful men and women of the world would never have been heard of.

PLAINFIELD W.M.S.

The November meeting of the Plainfield W.M.S. was held on November 20th 1940 at the home of Mrs. Fred Hall.

The President, Mrs. Harry McCreary presided.

Mrs. Arthur Hall had charge of the afternoon devotions and chose as the theme of her devotional talk the passage of scripture, "She Hath Done What She Could."

After the transacting of considerable business the third group leader Mrs. Frank Hodgen took charge.

The first part of the Study Book "Couriers of the Cross in China," was given by Mrs. George McKenzie, Mrs. Ed. Emerson, Miss Olive Hall and Miss Irene Hall and was an account of the life of Miss Minne Shipley. The latter part of the book. The life of Rev. W. B. Djang M.A., B.D, was given by Mrs. Hodgen.

The Mizpah Benediction and "God Save the King" closed the meeting.

Fashion Flashes

A DARK STORY tells the tale of the new lingerie, for many of the smartest models are in black. Black sheer with black Alencon type lace for the drawstring bosom and waistline inset is used for a nightgown that has seven yards of material at the hem. Double thickness of fabric to define the midriff.

BRIGHTEN UP your dark town clothes with a light hat. A new model is in dusty pink felt, the brim gathered and raised at the sides and back. Wide black grosgrain crown band. Pink veil with black dots.

MANY AND NOVEL are the headdress seen with dinner and evening things. With a severely draped red jersey gown, one woman chose a silver fox headdress with the fox head pointed down the forehead and coming from a diadem of fox. With it a huge two-skin muff.

THE TREK SOUTH will reveal colorful beach clothes. A swell play suit consisting of bra, shorts and hip-length loose coat is of linen in an hibiscus print in blue, violet, chartreuse and red on white.

GAY DOINGS after dark. With a simple black velvet suit one girl wears a draped turban of ribbed gold and black metal cloth with a long black Chantilly type lace veil.

MARKED FOR TRANSIT down south is a daytime dress of heavy white silk crepe done on casual shirtwaist lines with stitched and pleated skirt. Worn with a matching boxy coat embroidered in red, blue, violet and green.

SETTING OFF smart southern costumes are colorful accessories. A smart new handbag is of grosgrain, a big pouch fashioned in bands of grosgrain in chocolate, beige, orange-mahogany and off-white. Lined with beige leather.

Science and Pulchritude

Ann Rutherford applies m ascara to her long lashes

By HELEN FOLLETT

CHEMICALS do their share in helping women to fight the war for beauty's sake. Cosmetic laboratories are going full blast despite a crazy, troubled world. Our foremothers would be astonished if they could see what is being done for the sisters who have pulchritude worries.

Brown eye shadows and eyelash pencils are made of carbon. Certain chemicals are used for the removal of blemishes, though the X-ray is the usual medium employed to annihilate moles, warts.

Our old friend peroxide is the consolation of the lady whose golden crown has tarnished, and the original color is to be restored, peroxide and henna are combined in proper proportions. And, by the way, did you know that many synthetic redheads are appearing in the land?

The greatest blessing of all is the permanent wave. Only the older girls who wrestled with curling irons can appreciate it, realize that it means more to them than the vote. At first the hair was frizzy, then the finger wave went into action, and look you now at the lovely ringlets and rolls.

Perfumes have improved. Time was when a girl could have violet, heliotrope or rose. Now there are fascinating blends that tickle your nose and make you feel like a million dollars in cash-coin-spending-change.

• • •

Unpleasing jaw lines make a woman's face appear heavy. The jaw is a drop hinge, has the power of movement; every woman had better watch what she's doing with it.

Pulling down the lip corners bring saggy hammocks on either side of the jaw. Tissues lose tone lines form from nostrils downward; then the beauty jig is really up.

Clicking the teeth together brings hard lines. You know! The lady with the machine gun face.

If tissues have softened do tip-tapping with the finger ends that have been dipped in a heavy lubricating cream, then frisk around an ice cube.

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

VITAMIN D.

Vitamin D is what we commonly call the "Sunshine Vitamin," because the ultra violet rays of the sun manufactures it in the skin of anyone exposed to its rays. It is a vitamin that has come in for a tremendous lot of study in recent years because it has been found that a deficiency of it in a child is the cause of that very common disorder of the bones in children—rickets.

In rickets, which I am glad to say is gradually disappearing, the calcium the child gets in its food, isn't deposited on the bones as it should be. The result is that the boney skeleton remains soft and yielding, instead of developing hardness and firmness. Children who have rickets often suffer from bow-legs, and they may also show deformities of the chest and of the head.

Apparently the calcium in the diet cannot be utilized by the body unless it has Vitamin D present in the body also. For some years it had been noted that rickets were more common in winter than in summer. But it wasn't until about twenty years ago that the explanation was found—lack of Vitamin D.

The place that the sun's rays play in producing the vitamin was suspected for it was found that the disease is very rare in the tropics where there is plenty of sunshine all year around and where people don't have to bundle themselves up in overcoats and heavy clothing that keeps the sun from shining on their skin.

However, it was a bit confusing when it was found that amongst the Eskimos rickets was a rare disease also. And the Eskimos get relatively little sunshine. Then, it was noted that these Arctic dwellers eat large quantities of fish oils which in turn are rich in Vitamin D. That explained why they were ricket-free.

Today rickets is gradually disappearing from our catalogue of the diseases of childhood because cod-liver oil is widely used. The oils of other fish besides the cod contain the vitamin, but cod-liver oil remains the most common and most used source. Standards today require that every gram of cod-liver oil contain 85 units of Vitamin D and 600 units of Vitamin A. As a matter of fact, most of the oils on the market today contain several times that amount of Vitamin D. So two teaspoons of the oil taken daily is usually enough to keep any baby from developing rickets.

I am always advising people to take cod-liver oil so as to build up a resistance to colds as well as other infections. Now is a good time to tell of its running mates—fruit juice and tomato juice.

Both children and grown-ups need either fruit juice or tomato juice. In the southern part of this continent, I know that oranges and grape fruit will get the call, but farther north, especially up here where those fruits are comparatively expensive and tomatoes are plentiful, then tomato juice will be the one.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Loneliness Called Merely a Bad Habit

Loneliness is one of the commonest things in the world. Think it over, and see if you don't agree that it's merely a bad habit. Being alone doesn't make a person lonely. Having a warm heart and believing there's nothing to lavish that affection on causes loneliness. All lonely people are capable of love. That's the trouble with them. This unused love of theirs is like a constant ache, an unhealed sickness.

Did a lonely person ever confide in you? You understood, probably, that it was the need of love or, perhaps even more, the need of loving that made your friend unhappy. So you were kind at the time, but what you really believed was that nothing could be done.

All lonely people make the same strange mistake; each one believes that he or she is the only lonely, heartsore person in a world full of happiness and gayety.

Such a person says to himself: "Everybody else has a sweetheart or is married. In every other person's life, there's somebody who cares. No one is as lonely as I am."

If you live in the country, think for a moment that in the next town perhaps there's somebody who is saying the very same thing. In the city, where I suppose people are lonelier, there may be dozens of other lonely hearts in the same block, in the same apartment house.

It isn't true that the whole world loves and laughs, and that there's only here and there a single forlorn, neglected, love-hungry figure. The truth is that we hear the laughter of the happy lovers and share a little in their gayety and even feel the warmth of their love. But we don't hear the quiet lonely ones or even see them.

Loneliness is unnecessary. In the first place, lonely people believe they are unattractive, undeserving of love. Perhaps they had lost a sweetheart. They don't do anything about finding another person to love. They just wait, quivering, for the next blow of fate.

That's what I mean when I say that loneliness is a bad habit. All that lonely people need to do is to understand their own difficulty. Little by little they must try to be less shy and self-conscious.

They must remember that they are more likely to find a congenial friend or sweetheart among the quiet stayers-at-home than among the lively frequenters of dance halls.

In other words, all that is necessary is for lonely people to force their way out of their own unhappy shells and seek each other out. Let them look about and find each other. Let them make a good effort to forget their own unhappiness and find one of those countless shy spirits who have been making the same mistake of dramatizing their own loneliness.

Hearts need love as much as lungs need air.

Until you satisfy that need in yourself, your life will be a failure.

If you're an in-law — especially a mother-in-law — don't sympathize with both belligerents. Your child and the in-law child will get together at the first kiss, talk it over, and you'll find yourself in the dog-house with both.

Please don't, if your son's wife is sporting a new fur coat, tell with a sniff how you wore your old coat for three seasons after you were married, had it made over with artificial fur and wore it three more. This may account for any straying on the part of your own husband. Tell daughter-in-law she looks well in her fur coat, and mind your own business.

If you're a daughter-in-law, don't raise Cain if you discover that your husband is giving money to his old parents. They probably went without to help him get where he is today. He owes them something. Don't be a shrew. Remember the day will come when your children will marry and you might be thankful for a handout yourself.

Please don't, if you're a mother-in-law, try to bring up your grandchildren. You may have had a baker's dozen of your own, and the sight of an infant getting tomato juice or butter-milk may drive you nuts, but a good many babies survive the modern treatment just as they survived adults chewing up their food for them in bygone days.

Don't, if you're a father-in-law, grow eloquent on "a woman's place is in the home," if you happen to have a wage-earning daughter-in-law. The young people may have decided that she work for a year or two or until the stork flaps his wings, and they want to get a little ahead for that bungalow in the suburbs. Working wives, like modernistic furniture, may not appeal to the older generation, but they are here.

If you're an in-law, don't be too hard on the can and can-opener, and don't tell your daughter-in-law of the hours you spent boiling beans. Not that I'm advocating a daily diet from the can, but there are emergencies when they are convenient, and the modern woman can't afford to spend hours hanging over a cook-stove as our grandmothers did. She's a pretty dull companion if she does.

If you're young and happily married, please don't be too self-centered. Remember there are limits to the honeymoon, and if you neglect your relatives and friends too long after this blissful period, they may neglect you when you really need them. A marriage that is a closed corporation of two does not survive indefinitely.

People need in-laws and friends and the contacts these people bring them. Young marrieds need to go out and see how other people live, think and face this business called living. The monastic type which seeks seclusion does not do well in this gregarious world. Young people should join a church, a debating society, a bowling team, a choral group, a dramatic club if they have a passion for acting, or a dancing club that meets at least once in two weeks, or even a card club if they like to play cards. Anything that will keep them from preying on each other exclusively, like so much corrosive acid. "Wake up and live" might be your motto, and see how other people live, the postscript.

A Case of Bad Manners

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been dating, for a long time, a girl of the same age as I am, which is in our late twenties.

The other day I asked her if she'd like to go to a certain dance, to stop by for me and I'd gladly take her. She thought this was very rude of me, and gave me a good piece of her mind. But enjoying a bachelor's life, this was only another instance of what a married man may expect.

She lives only two and a half blocks from me and we would have to pass my house before arriving at the dance. I told her I would wait for her until 9:30 and if she was not there then I'd retire. She came at 9:30. We went to the dance, which was to close at one o'clock. However, I told her I'd stay until 12:30, and as she wasn't ready to go then, I just left her there.

Now she says I'm the worst mannered man that ever lived. Please tell me if I am wrong.

R.T.C.

After carefully reading this young man's letter, which is far too long to print, my conclusion is that he is unusually gifted with imagination, and should turn his attention toward writing fiction. If what he relates actually happened, I wonder that the girl went to the dance with him at all. He comes from a section of the country renowned for courtesy to women. I agree with the girl that he's not living up to local standards.

Marriage Not His Ambition

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going "steady" with a young man who is five years older than I am. My age is 18. He's wonderful to me, has given me a friendship ring, and tells me to remain true to him. I always have turned down other dates and don't go out with other boys. And now he tells me he is going to be an "old bachelor" and that he can't support a wife at the present. Do you think, since he feels this way, that he has a right to object to my going out with other boys, as long as he doesn't want to marry me?

Heartbroken

I'm afraid I can't admit that you are "heartbroken" at 18, or that you take the young man seriously when he says he intends to be an "old bachelor." He gave you a ring, which suggests that he may change his mind about remaining single at some future date. Why don't you consider him just as a friend, and that will make it fair to both of you to have other dates? Perhaps if his prospects brighten, he may reconsider remaining a bachelor.

Why Not Try Patience?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We've been married four years. I'm 23 and my wife is 21. My wife has left me three times, but I persuade her to return and we make another try at living together.

Every time she went away, I tried going out with other girls to forget about her, but never got any kick out of it. Now she has left me for the fourth time, but I'm not going to ask her to come back, unless she comes of her own free will. It's too hard on me to go through with it. And if she wants a divorce I won't stand in her way, even though it means I can't marry again.

I know time is a great healer of a broken heart, but goodness, how slow it is!

Unhappy

If you would both realize that life is not a novel, a movie or a fairy story, but a companionship, the responsibilities of which each must share equally, I think you would get along better. Evidently you love your wife very dearly. Why don't you give it one more trial, and each try to acquire a little more patience?

Annual Meeting of St. Andrew's Church Missionary Society

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Woman's Missionary Society and election of officers for 1941 was held in the S.S. rooms on Wednesday, December 4, at 3 p.m. Mrs. J. Fargey presiding.

After the usual devotional exercises of prayer and praise, the conveners of the different committees gave very splendid reports of the year's work.

Mrs. Vernon Weir took charge of the election of officers, which are as follows:

Honorary Presidents— Mrs. J. Tower, Mrs. W. J. Walker, Mrs. Morrice and Mrs. R. S. Graham.

President — Mrs. J. Fargey re-elected.

1st Vice President—Mrs. O. J. Reed.

2nd Vice President—Mrs. C. Baragar.

3rd Vice President—Mrs. H. Hill.

Secretary—Mrs. A. R. Cameron.

Treasurer—Mrs. P. Ranson.

Home Helper —Mrs. B. Beavis.

Library and Literature — Mrs. C. Baragar.

Glad Tidings —Mrs. A. Bell.

Flower Convener— Mrs. O. J. Reed.

Pianist—Mrs. W. Mantle.

Supplies Com.—Mrs. A. Baird, Miss H. Blair.

Welcome and Welfare—Mrs. D. Fleming, Mrs Fargey, Mrs. A. Moore and Mrs. Jas. Reid.

Birthday Secretary—Mrs. A. Bell

Mission Band Leader—Mrs. Vernon Weir.

Press Sec.—Mrs. Barlow.

The President closed with the benediction and Mrs. V. Weir and her group served a delicious cup of tea.

Crofton

Crofton—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Broadbridge and Helen and Mrs. Mintha Tompsett of Wellington spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Angus Ryckman. Mrs. Tompsett and Helen also called on Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crook and Ronald in the afternoon.

Corporal John Gray of Camp Borden spent Friday with his aunt Mrs. H. H. Parson and family and also called on old friends on this street.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Munroe of Frankford spent the tea hour on Saturday with his parents Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Munroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gilbert, Keith and Carl spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Helen Gilbert.

The Red Cross meeting was held at the home of Mrs. S. J. Munroe on Tuesday afternoon.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Prospective Bride's Problems

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in the afternoon between five and six o'clock. I have never been to an informal wedding, and I am entirely at sea about certain questions that have arisen. It is to be a very informal wedding, with only the families and intimate friends present.

1. May I wear a street-length dress? Carry a purse and gloves?

2. Do the groom and I walk down the aisle together, with our two attendants walking behind us? Or must my father give me in marriage as at a formal wedding?

3. Is it appropriate to have the organ play the wedding march at such an informal wedding? I would like to forego "Lohengrin" if it is correct to do so.

4. May I correctly send notes of invitation to those few I wish to invite to the wedding? Or must the invitations be the regular engraved or printed ones?

M. D.

1. For the informal wedding that you have planned, it would be correct for you to wear a street-length dress or a suit. Don't carry your purse or wear gloves during the ceremony; these aren't appropriate, and will only be in your way.

2. As the minister enters the church (probably from the vestry or other room at the front of the church), the groom and his best man follow him. If your father is to give you in marriage, you and he walk down the aisle together, preceded by your maid of honor.

To have your father give you in marriage does not depend on the degree of formality of the wedding. It depends on the requirement of the denomination of your church or on your own choice. But whenever possible, the bride gives this honor to her father.

3. It is not necessary for you to have music of any kind, unless you wish to.

4. It would be incorrect for you to have engraved or printed invitations for your informal wedding. Properly, you may either invite your guests verbally, or by notes written either by your mother, who will be the hostess of the occasion, or by you.

Tea-Bag

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What is the best procedure when one removes a tea-bag from one's tea cup?

2. Should one put sugar and cream in after-dinner coffee?

Reader.

1. Remove the tea-bag from your cup as carefully as you can, and place it on your saucer on the side nearest to you, so that it will be as inconspicuous as possible.

2. If sugar and cream are provided, it's a matter of taste whether or not you use them. Usually sugar is provided. Very often cream isn't served with after-dinner coffee; if it isn't provided, you'll have to struggle along without it.

No Compulsion to Exchange Gifts

"I don't want to give her a Christmas present this year. But it has always been our custom to exchange gifts, and I' msure that she is planning to send me a gift and will expect a gift from me. Do you think I should make an effort to send a gift this year?"

Every year, in the weeks just before Christmas, this question, in varrying forms, appears over and over again in my mail.

It is a very human and understandable question, for between Christmases, the circumstances of our lives sometimes change — our budgets, our social contacts, our points of view change.

If, for any one of a variety of reasons—the principal ones are usually a scant budget or a friendship not so thriving as it was—you have little or no enthusiasm to continue to give gifts to certain relatives or friends, it's far wiser and more honest to break the habit than to make an effort to give gifts to certain relatives or friends, it's far wiser and more honest to break the habit than to make an effort to give gifts that you really don't want to give or really can't afford.

It all depends, of course, on what our point of view is about a gift, whether we consider it as a thing having a certain material value, or something that has value because of the spirit of giving in it.

A friend who is really a friend will want you to give a gift if it is a burden to you. The greatest grace of a gift is that the giver gives it joyously and generously, prompted by no other motive except the wish to make the receiver happy.

It is true, as the Bible tells us, that "God loves a cheerful giver"; it is true, as the poet tells us, that, "The gift without the giver is bare"; and it is true, as the philosopher tells us, that "He gives only the worthless gift who gives from a sense of duty."

A Christmas card with a message of devoted friendship written on it will have more spiritual value than a handsome gift you didn't want to send. A Christmas letter can be a treasure of thoughtfulness, a gift of time and attention and devotion to your friend. Or such a small gift as a Christmas candle or a few sprigs of holly, sent with a warm-hearted message of affection, is more welcome to a right-thinking receiver than a methodically given present that misses the point of personal giving.

Food Gifts Make Excellent Christmas Presents

"Eat and be merry" is the theme song of an extremely popular type of Christmas present this year. Many smart and imaginative people are planning to send practical gifts of "provender" to show that at least one way to a heart is through the stomach.

Gifts af delicacies hit the spot in more ways than one. They answer the question of "What can I send as a gift to an entire family?" The children of a household will be enchanted with a box of various kinds of cookies or crackers. There are perfect food-gifts for hostesses. With certain types of foods we can make a bow to food enthusiasts of certain of our friends. These gifts can be assembled when we've put off our Christmas shopping till the last minute. These gifts can be wrapper so festively that their practical quality arrives all dressed up.

A box of appetizers or hors d'oeuvres, for example, will have a sure-fire welcome in any home — tins and boxes and bottles and jars of party provender, especially those for the four-to-seven occasions. Ready for our buying, too, are gaily-wrapped jars of jams and jellies. Perfect for the holiday and for holiday parties are boxes of all kinds of nuts, or packages of nuts prepared in various ways — unsalted pecans, sugared pecans, salted peanuts, glaced walnuts, and so forth. Or assorted packages of always-popular delicacies — boxes of plain or stuffed dates or figs or giant prunes, crystallized ginger, bright-colored candies, mints, white or colored or chocolate-covered; slices of preserved orange and grapefruit. The list of "goodies" is practically limitless.

You'll gain a fine reputation for discrimination and thoughtfulness if you send a collection of transparent boxes or jars or even small envelopes filled with herbs of various kinds to the woman who prides herself on discoveries in cooking. You might choose a collection of various kinds of cheeses for the cheese-connoisseur. For the tea-lover there are favorite blends of tea, traditionally packed; for the honey enthusiast there are bottles and jars of luscious honey; for the expert salad-maker you could assemble a group of several kinds of vinegar, mustard, a good brand of olive oil, two or three packages or jars of salad-herbs.

A "Jack Horner" collection might contain such "plums" as several cans of juices — tomato juice, red and yellow; grapefruit, grape, prune, pineapple, and so forth — jars of olives, green, ripe, or stuffed; jars of pickles and relishes, a box of pretzels, a box of potato chips, a package of tea and, for a gala note, a box of rock candy crystals to serve with tea or after-dinner coffee.

Still a favorite and welcome standby, especially when it is made from a cherished old family-recipe, is a fruit cake or a plum pudding or a box of home-made pastries or cookies iced with Christmas symbols. In the de luxe class is a smoked turkey! Always suitable is the basket of fruits, or the box of oranges and grapefruit, with or without the intriguing boxes and jars of surprises tucked in the basket.

TIPS FOR CHRISTMASTIME

In these pre-Christmas days, don't let your mind operate like a cash register! Keep the true Christmas up ..... and the dollar sign down.

COURTSY TIP

"Company manners" don't fool anybody. Usually they arent' sturdy enough to stand on their own feet —lack of experience makes them wobble!

Library Corner

(By K. G.)

Some interesting non-fiction volumes added to the Library shelves this week include:

Hambro, C. J. I Saw It Happen In Norway.

This is an eye-witness account of the invasion of Norway by Germany, written by the President of the Norwegian Parliament, who next to King Haakon, held the country's most important political position.

Farson, Negley. Behind God's Back.

The author of the popular "Way of a Transgressor" writes of modern Africa in his latest book, which covers a seven months' tour of the country.

Cronin, A. J. Jupiter Laughs.

Dr. Cronin has written for the theatre in his latest volume, a play based on the struggles of a young scientist with many obstacles in his path to success.

Thurber, James. Fables For Our Time.

The humor of Thurber is turned on war, peace, security, travel, ambition and a number of other things in these fables which will cause Aesop many an unhappy moment. Like the latter's fables these also point a moral but their counsel leads off in all directions.

Carr, W. G. Good Hunting.

The author of "By Guess and By God" that spirited chronicle of the Royal Navy in action, has added another chapter to his triumphs. This book contains excellent stories of heroism at sea, in ships, submarine, flotillas and in the Royal Naval Air Service.

Foxboro

Foxboro—Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Marshall spent a recent Sunday at Mrs. C. Hetherington's.

Friends extend sympathy to Miss Hazel Dafoe who is a patient in the General Hospital.

This section is visited with a very heavy mantle of snow, reminding us of winter with some of the evergreen trees presenting a very pretty scene. Some of the older residents say it is very unusual to have so much snow at this time of year.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Yorke of Belleville were tea hour guests on Sunday of Mr. W. Hodgen.

Mrs. Rose and Mr. G. McCoy of Belleville spent Wednesday evening at Mrs. Hetherington's.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scott spent a few days in Toronto where the latter remained for treatments.

Mrs. Jim Gowsell and sister, Mrs. Murphy returned home from Kingston after visiting relatives.

Owing to the adverse weather conditions the attendance at the Training School has been small but the lessons have been very instructive.

Messrs Murney Reynolds and J. W. Daniels are on the jury in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickett of Rosetown, Sask, are guests at Mr. J. G. Sills'.

AMERICAN FIREARMS HELPFUL TO BRITAIN 'S HOME GUARD

Mrs. Helen Parkins Gauntlett, executive secretary of the Americans-in-Britain outpost, is shown with an automatic pistol, received in a batch of firearms from the United States. Rifles, revolvers and ammunition, the first of hundreds of thousands, that have been collected from American homes to aid Britain, have arrived in England, where they are distributed to members of the home guard.

Leafs Can Increase Margin Over Other Teams in League By Defeating Boston Bruins

Kraut Line May be Tough to Handle Now They Have Started to Click

DETROIT BUSY

Will Play Canadiens in Montreal and Rangers in N.Y. Over Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Boston Bruins have been pushing themselves back into the National Hockey League limelight of late after a slow start and the only thing needed now to make their return to form "official" is for the famed Kraut kids to click in old-time fashion.

Last season, when the Bruins finished on top of the standing, the Krauts—Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer—wound up one, two, three in point scoring. This season the Bruins have managed to win four, lose three and tie three despite the fact their ace line has played a far from prominent part in the Boston scheme of things.

Undoubtedly the reason why the Krauts have been so slow to get under way was the fact that Dumart suffered an injury early in the season and was out of action for some time. But the strapping left winger is back in top shape again and it seems safe to predict that the Kraut point total, which stands at 12 points now with an equal number of goals and assists, is due to take a jump upwards.

See Action Twice

The Bruins will see action twice this week-end, playing tonight in Toronto against the flying Maple Leafs and tomorrow night in Chicago against the Black Hawks. It's a tough schedule, but the burly Bruins are well-equipped physically for such an ordeal.

One other team, Detroit Red Wings, plays twice during the weekend. The Wings, one of the season's big surprises, can consolidate further their already strong hold on second place as they play Montreal Canadiens, the last-place team, and New York's injury-riddled Rangers. Both are road games for the Detroiters.

The Toronto-Boston clash brings together the two highest scoring teams in the league, for the Leafs have tallied 37 times in winning nine games and losing only two in 11 starts and the Bruins have scored 34 goals in 10 games. However, the Bruins ran up 16 of their tallies in two recent games with the faltering New York Americans.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By the Associated Press)

Detroit — Abe Simon, 254, New York, outpointed Roscoe Toles, 201, Detroit, (10); Young Kid McCoy, 145, Detroit, outpointed Al Nettlow, 148, Detroit, (10).

Rochester, N.Y.—Mike Raffa, 128, Pittsburgh, outpointed Henry Smith 129, Rochester, (8).

New Britain, Conn. — Carl Dell, New York Welterweight, outpointed Ernest (Cat) Robinson, Jamaica, L. I., (10).

Hollywood, Calif.—Baby Arizmendi, 137 1-2, Los Angeles, outpointed George Latka, 135, San Jose, Calif., (10).

Highland Park, N.J. — Wild Bill McDowell, 152, Paterson, outpointed Gus Robinson, 150, Camden (6).

Philadelphia — Peck Graber, 140 1-2, Philadelphia, outpointed Danny Falco, 142 (8).

Cornwall Flyers Suffer First Loss On Home Ice

Cornwall, Ont., Dec. 7 (CP)—Montreal Royals moved to within a game of first place in the Quebec Senior Hockey League race here last night when they set back Cornwall Flyers 2-1. It was Cornwall's first loss of the season on home ice.

Royals built up an early two-goal lead, but needed every bit of their margin to hold off the stampeding Flyers in the final frame. With 2,500 fans in a frenzy throughout the period, Cornwall kept Royals bottled up inside their own blue-line, and only sterling work by Durnan in the Royals' nets saved the day for the Montreal team.

Buddy O'Connor bagged both Montreal goals, one in the first period and the other in the second.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Penn's Francis Reagan has been offered $5,000 by the Athletics, $7,500 by the Red Sox and has a promise from the Yankees they'll better any offer he gets. Tip: He is a Yankee rooter.... Horton Smith thinks British golf may never recover from the present war and that such shrines as St. Andrew's, Prestwick, Sandwich and Deal may go by the boards.... Some say the Giants sent Tony Cuccinello to Jersey City to appease Mayor Hague (who demanded Gabby Hartnett) but don't believe all you hear

Young Bob Sweeny, the wealthy playboy golfer, now flying with the Eagle Squadron of the Royal Air Force, has cabled friends here to rush—his golf clubs.

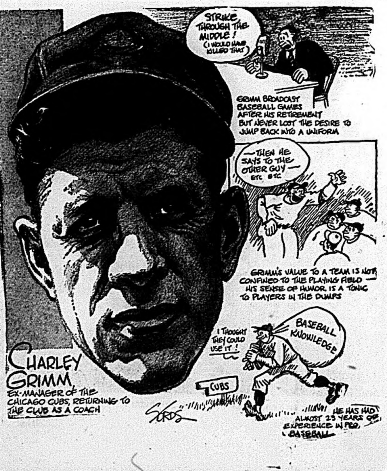
Ragtime News Review—

All the baseball addicts hate to see Paul Waner get the gate, and hope he lands another job that keeps him in the baseball mob, for it was not so long ago that he sat in the upper row He'd step up there and bust that ball and make the fielders climb the wall.... Boy, he could hit and that is why this Waner chap was quite a guy...... The Giants got partly off the spot by signing Master Melvin Ott, but in itself that's not enough, for New York fans are very tough...... Godoy again will tackle Joe, but why, is what we want to know..... And if you were to ask us, Bud, the judge's "fireworks" proved a dud.

WILL PILOT NORFOLK

Amsterdam, N.Y., Dec. 7—(AP)—Edwin Sawyer, manager of the Amsterdam Club of the Canadian-American Baseball League, will pilot Norfolk in the Piedmont League next year, Herbert Shuttleworth, Amsterdam President, announced yesterday.

In 1939, Sawyer's team won the league pennant and this year captured the playoffs.



STRIKE THROUGH THE MIDDLE! (I WOULD HAVE KILLED THAT)
GRIMM BROADCAST BASEBALL GAMES AFTER HIS RETIREMENT BUT NEVER LOST THE DESIRE TO JUMP BACK INTO A UNIFORM
—THEN HE SAYS TO THE OTHER GUY— ETC ETC
GRIMM'S VALUE TO A TEAM IS NOT CONFINED TO THE PLAYING FIELD — HIS SENSE OF HUMOR IS A TONIC TO PLAYERS IN THE DUMPS
I THOUGHT THEY COULD USE IT!
BASEBALL KNOWLEDGE
CUBS
HE HAS HAD ALMOST 25 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE IN PRO. BASEBALL
SORDS

CHARLEY GRIMM
EX-MANAGER OF THE CHICAGO CUBS, RETURNING TO THE CLUB AS A COACH

SWEET CAPORAL

Welcome Everywhere

In Gay Christmas Cartons of 50's, 100's, 200's

SWEET CAPORAL Cigarettes

"The purest form in which tobacco can be smoked."

NIAGARA BRIGHTS IN THIRD PLACE OF SENIOR RACE

Tied With Oshawa by Defeating St. Catharines 4 to 3

LONDON BEATEN

Mohawks Taken Into Camp by Port Colborne 3 to 1

(By The Canadian Press)

Niagara Falls Brights are only two pionts out of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior "A" series today, which proves that it doesn't take long to come back.

A few days ago the Brights were being overlooked by O.H.A. dopesters because they had lost three straight games and were down in fifth place. But last night at Niagara Falls the Brights came back to the stride that sent them unbeaten through the first seven games of their schedule this season, and beat St. Catharines Saints 4-3. Now they're tied for third place with Oshawa Generals, just one win off the pace set by Hamilton Dofascos.

Meanwhile, the slight bubble raised by London Mohawks with their victory over Niagara Falls earlier this week broke with a 3-1 defeat by Port Colborne. Mohawks beat Brights in their first game under Coach Ernie Dinsmore, but faded last night before Sailors' effective attack.

First Goal is Winner

Brights' Hazen McAndrew picked an opportune time to score his first goal of the season—the winner, in the third period. Hal Cooper, Steak Morrison, and Art Stuart counted the other Niagara Falls goal. Walter Dunk, Roy Heximer and Tom Forgie scored for St. Catharines.

St. Catharines dropped back into fifth place with the defeat, just two points ahead of Port Colborne, which advanced at the expense of the helpless Londoners.

Jimmy McKelvie scored the first goal against London in the first period. The second was fast and scoreless, but Port Colborne got two more in the third before London could score. Doug Runions and Art Thompson counted before Ilio Marzo replied with the only London goal.

The game didn't make any difference in the standings, with Port Colborne and London still running sixth and seventh respectively.

ROYAL RIFLES THIRD

Montreal, Dec. 7 CP)—Quebec Royal Rifles moved into undisputed possession of third place in the Quebec senior hockey league standings last night, when they came from behind to defeat Verdun Red Devils 5-3 in overtime.

The win left Rifles a game behind the second-place Montreal Royals, and a point ahead of Cornwall Flyers who lost to Royals at Cornwall.

Two goals, by Lee and Hamel, within a minute of each other in the overtime frame gave Rifles their victory. Before that they had twice come from behind to tie the game at 3-3 at the end of the third and send the contest into overtime.

BOWLING SCORES

"Y" Alleys

Ladies' Afternoon League

Y. Ladies, 0 Points—
Mrs. Boyd	113	124	91—328
Mrs. Cole	106	101	84—291
Mrs. Gilroy	101	100	75—276
Mrs. Price	184	127	95—406
Mrs. Shortt	104	90	74—268
Total			1589
Energetics, 4 Points—
Mrs. Windover	151	98	194—443
Mrs. Reid	169	152	128—449
Mrs. Cameron	135	128	130—393
Mrs. Bateman	121	114	124—359
Mrs. F. Charlton	153	114	159—426
Total			2070
Mayflowers, 4 Points—
Mrs. Beal	145	145	121—411
Mrs. Cross	187	148	173—508
Mrs. Johnston	170	157	164—491
Mrs. Ward	134	153	160—447
Mrs. R. Smith	159	121	168—448
Total			2305
Newcomers, 0 Points—
Mrs. Chick	148	146	149—437
Mrs. Johnston	61	94	61—216
Mrs. Garlepy	125	86	115—326
Mrs. Dewsberry	142	123	172—437
Total			1422

Registration for Juvenile Hockey Players is Called

Anticipating the earliest and longest hockey season in years the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association issued a call for the registration of players to be held at the Y.M.C.A. Monday evening next. Teen-aged boys under 18 years of age who are desirous of playing Canada's national winter pastime should apply in person at the Y.M.C.A. on Monday night prepared to sign registration cards, as the Association executive is planning to open their league schedule late next week.

Juvenile hockey was first introduced in Belleville through the efforts of the Ki-Y groups. Three years ago, however, the first Belleville juvenile to compete in the Ontario Juvenile Hockey Association was organized, although in previous years series had been played with Kingston juveniles by the winners of the city Ki-Y groups.

Sponsor Four Teams

Last year the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association came into being sponsoring four teams and providing all equipment and playing facilities. Uniforms resembling those worn by National Hockey League clubs were provided with the names of the clubs being as follows — Americans, Black Hawks, Les Canadiens and Maple Leafs.

League registration cards have been obtained and will be available at the "Y" on Monday night when the registration of players will be accepted. Following the registration the players will be grouped into four groups, which will compose the league. "Boys wanting to play juvenile hockey are urged to attend Monday night's meeting as the Association is planning to select the four teams as soon as possible in order to open our schedule by Dec. 13th," stated President Ted Schwab today.

Toronto Beaches Full of Confidence They Can Beat Riders

Ottawa, Dec. 7—(CP)—Six points behind the pace-setting Ottawa Rough Riders, Toronto Balmy Beaches were all set for the football scrap of the season today, and they weren't lacking confidence.

When Beaches came to town late last night, there wasn't a man in the crew who didn't think his team would take the eastern Canada title back with them to Toronto.

Football followers took Coach Alex Ponton's statement on tactics last night as indicative of his feelings on the matter. Ponton let it be known that last week's strategy used against Ottawa when Riders won 8-2 at Toronto was still good enough for him.

"We'd be foolish to change our style at this stage," one spokesman for the club said. "It was good enough to bring us this far and we'll depend on it to beat Ottawa."

In the Ottawa camp, even the usually pessimistic coach Ross Trimble put himself on a limb. "I'm confident we'll take the game and the title," he said, "but I'm looking for a real scrap."

Asked what strategy Riders would use today, Trimble said: "We're going out for points right from the start and we're going to get as many as we can."

Manager Jim McCaffrey is hoping for an attendance of 7,000 but Ottawa's zero weather has been a handicap in ticket-selling.

Hockey Scores

O.H.A. Senior Series

Niagara Falls 4; St. Catharines 3.
Port Colborne 3; London 1.

U.S. Eastern Amateur

Washington 4; New York 3.
Atlantic City 3; Boston 2.

Michigan-Ontario

Windsor 11; Muskegon 4.

Quebec Senior

Montreal Royals 2; Cornwall 1.
Quebec 5; Verdun 3.

Only Few Games Yet to Play In U. S. Football

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Only a scant handful of games remain to finish the 1940 United States collegiate football season today but several of the teams concerned will regard the season as successful if they can win.

First there's the Southern California-Notre Dame game, which is expected to draw 80,000 fans at Los Angeles. Before the campaign started they were hailed as a couple of great teams, but they failed to show many signs of greatness once it got under way. A final victory would do a lot to redeem their poor showings.

Of about equal importance is the Southern Methodist-Rice game. These teams have a tie with the great Texas Aggies for the Southwest Conference season as their stake.

Boston Red Sox To Help Oneonta

Atlanta, Dec. 7 (AP)—Boston Red Sox of the American League have completed arrangements for a working agreement with Oneonta, N.Y., of the Canadian-American Baseball League, Rev. Harold J. Martin, President of the Can.-Am., announced yesterday.

Utica, N.Y., another Canadian-American member, is expected to have a similar agreement with Buffalo, the league President said.

Father Martin later announced the New York Yankees had renewed their working agreement with Amsterdam, N.Y., while the New York Giants had agreed to help Rome, N.Y.

Wrestling Last Night

Philadelphia — Everett Marshall, 221, Ajunta, Colo., threw George Koverly, 227, Chicago, (16:30).

GENTLEMEN!

The GEORGIA SALON
WILL SOLVE YOUR
GIFT PROBLEMS.

226 Front Street

D3-5-7

AT THE DIAMOND EXCHANGE

Here are two of the baseball headliners who are attending the annual major and minor baseball meeting in Atlanta, Ga. This is the get-together of the diamond moguls at which players are bought, sold and exchanged. LEFT to RIGHT, Connie Mack manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, and Bill McKechnie, manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Busy Holidays Ahead . . .

Time to dress up and

GO PLACES in a New Tuxedo

Quick & Robertson
"CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY"

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with

Ken J. Colling

The elements of weather may have a large bearing on the results of today's Balmy Beach at Ottawa Canadian football final game. It is doubtful if a football game was ever played under such conditions, that is to say so much snow and practically sub-zero weather, which will have their effects on the play no doubt. On a fast dry field Alex Ponton's Bammies might have a chance, but today their only hope seems to be in the possibilities of fumbles by the Rough Riders, and with cold weather at hand there will be fumbles aplenty. We're not taking those Ottawa rumours of injuries to Sprague and Wadsworth too seriously, as the Rough Rider No. 1 and 2 tanks will roll out at Lansdowne Park this afternoon. With nothing to lose and everything to gain the Beaches will doubtless toss caution to the wild winds and may turn on a football blitzkrieg and pitch forward passes with reckless abandon. However, on the strength of their ground forces we'll have to string along with Ottawa and that's a break for the Bammies at least.

With the Hume Arena open and a splendid sheet of ice available for skating, the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association executive has launched an appeal for players to attend a registration meeting at the "Y" on Monday evening. Players will be registered and allotted to one of the four clubs composing the league and it is the hope of Secretary Dick Beare to draft a double schedule, which may open next Friday night. If the juvenile loop can swing into action next week it will mark the earliest hockey has been played in Belleville since the artificial ice plant was removed from the Hume Arena. It is expected the juvenile loop will adopt a 12-game schedule, which should be halfway completed before the O.H.A. schedule so much as swings into action. Herbie Morris, who played baseball and hockey in Toronto some years ago with success and who played one season with the Belleville Nationals, has agreed to coach one of the local juvenile squads. Herbie knows his hockey and will doubtless be a decided asset to the league in general.

Out in Peterboro they have struck upon a novel idea in which to finance their senior hockey club. Apparently the industrial firms in the Liftlock City are more interested in the sponsorship of a good hockey team than is the case in Belleville. Voluntary donations were sought and practically every industrial plant in the city of Peterborough responded with substantial cheques. They are not soliciting adds for a program, nor does the club make a canvass, everything is voluntary and it is surprising how the public, as well as the business men, have responded. Regarding the Petes organization program, Sports Columnist Fred Craig has this to say: "A season without a colorful hockey team would be a dead loss to many citizens. There is no need of that happening here. The material is available for a winning combination. All that is needed is enough sinews of war to meet the far-from-light expenses involved in a big group such as the senior Petes will contest this season. The club this year is making a direct appeal for support, instead of pestering the merchants and industrialists to contribute to program advertising. It is felt that the response will justify its decision."

Did you know that the most talked of legs off the musical stage belong to Jimmy Wilson, aged 42, recently named manager of the Chicago Cubs — and he thinks soccer football did the trick. Wilson's legs broke into the news when it became apparent that the Cincinnati Reds would have to pin their World Series hopes on the veteran coach's underpinnings.

Taped from ankles to thighs, the aging legs carried him through the whole series. He even chalked up a stolen base in one game. Now soccer fans—and Jimmy says he thinks so, too—say that the major league soccer Jimmy used to play for the Eries contributed much to the good condition of his legs in his baseball playing career.

Do you remember when Rocky Kansas, hard-hitting Buffalo lightweight, punched out a 15-round decision for the world title over Jimmy Goodrich at Buffalo 15 years ago tonight? He held the crown until July 3, 1926, when Sammy Mandell defeated him in 10 rounds at Chicago.

"The managerial changes made by the Cleveland Indians in the American League and by the Chicago Cubs in the National are consistent with the respective histories of those two clubs, as the Indians have had 14 men and the Cubs 15 at the helm in 40 years, starting with 1901," points out Martin J. Haley in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. "However, the records of the two teams on the field are in wide contrast under all those leaders, for, whereas the Cubs have won nine pennants in those 40 seasons, the Indians have won only one."

SPORT SLANTS — American football bows out of the picture, that is with the exception of the various bowl games on New Years Day, today headed by the Notre Dame at Southern California game. . . . Incidentally Rice College has had a good year and fades out by playing Southern Methodist. Doug. Bankier, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bankier is a member of the teaching faculty at Rice. . . . The exodus of New York Yankees started yesterday when Joe McCarthy sold Jake Powell to the San Francisco Seals. . . . Everybody except the Tigers is seeking to make deals, the lowly Browns even getting a brace of moundsmen from the Red Sox. . . . It was a year ago this week that the American League moguls legislated to handcuff the then-rampaging Yankees by introducing a no-trade clause against the winner of the league. . . . The act has boomeranged and hits the champion Detroit Tigers hard. . . . Watch for more big deals when the majors congregate at the Palmer House in Chicago next week. . . . A good old-fashioned feud, with limitless possibilities, has been hatched by the Yankees against the Detroit Tigers. . . . It seems it all started in the final days of the late campaign, when, after the Tigers had clinched the pennant, Del Baker pulled Bartell, Greenberg, Gehringer out of the lineup and the Bengals dropped 2 to 1 and 3 to 2 decisions to the Indians. The rub came in the fact that the Yanks might have glommed second-place money had Baker kept in his first-stringers. . . . Topping it all off, Baker wired Joe McCarthy, asking him for the low-down on how to pitch to the Cincy batters. McCarthy did not answer the telegram. . . . The Buddy Myer-to-Detroit report is frying again. It will have to be a waiver transaction in view of the non-trading rule. 'Tis said the Old Fox wants the equivalent of 20 grand for Buddy instead of the regulation $7,500 waiver price. . . . Doesn't seem to add up, but we shall see what we shall see. . . . Had Bucky Harris landed with Cleveland, he would have been the first manager in history to have bossed four clubs in the A. L.

Thousands of Little Salesmen at Your Service

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER WANT AD RATES

Minimum Charge for the first twenty words, per Insertion	20c
Two Insertions	60c
Three Insertions	75c
Over Twenty Word, 1½c per word per insertion.
Box number	extra 10c

Copy accepted until 12.30 noon on day of publication.
Telephone 99.

AUTO FINANCE

AUTO LOANS
REFINANCING

On terms and at rates which you will find suitable to your requirements. Your car is a quick and gilt-edge asset for borrowing. Only the owner signs. Deal with confidence with the largest company of its kind in Canada.

D. H. MARSHALL
17 Bridge St. E. Phone 1073
Representing
CAMPBELL AUTO FINANCE
Windsor. Hamilton. Toronto. Ottawa

Business Directory

W. A. WATSON
ARCHITECT
Kresge Building.
(Formerly 28 Bridge Street E.)
N15-tf

MINERAL BATHS

MINERAL BATHS AND MASSAGE The finest treatment for Neuritis, Arthritis, Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Colds, etc. Separate parlors for Ladies and Gentlemen. Graduate Nurse. Registered Masseur. Phone 1152. "THE HEALTH INSTITUTE" 231 William St. Belleville

CHIROPRACTOR

E. A. WYATT, Ph.C., Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist Mineral Fume Baths with oil and alcohol rub; coagulation of tonsils. Radioclast examination, manipulative surgery and suction treatment for sinus conditions. 288 Coleman St., Belleville. Phone 900. Lady attendant.

E. R. and VERA B. PITCHER, Sp.C. Chiropractors, and Drugless Therapists. Adjustments, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment. Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations. Coagulation of Tonsils and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St., East, Belleville, Ont. Phone 1274.

INSURANCE

The thought of Fire loses half its Terrors when you're protected with our Fire Insurance.

SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
LIFE and FIRE INSURANCE
249½ Front St. Phone 492

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile. Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1154W

Need Money for Christmas?

If you need money for the Christmas Season . . . and you want it quickly . . . remember we loan on Household effects or Automobiles.

QUINTE FINANCE
and
SECURITIES LIMITED
168 Front St. Phone 168
BELLEVILLE

Screen Clock

BELLE THEATRE TIMES
THIRD FINGER, LEFT HAND
Myrna Loy, Melvyn Douglas
2.50 — 7.30 — 9.35

McCARTHY THEATRE TIMES
KIT CARSON
Jon Hall — Lynn Bari
3.00 — 7.30 — 9.40

CAPITOL THEATRE TIMES
COLORADO
Roy Rogers, George (Gabby) Hayes
7.30 — 10.15
CHARLIE CHAN IN PANAMA
Sidney Toler, Jean Rogers
8.50

WANTED

LADY WANTED TO MAKE PERSONAL Greeting Cards, etc., at home, $5 per hundred. No experience necessary to start. Materials supplied. Permanent work spare time. Address Box 6, Ontario Intelligencer. D7

CAPABLE GIRL FOR GENERAL housework. Country girl preferred. Sleep in. Apply 158 Dufferin Ave. D7

UNFURNISHED STEAM HEATED 4 room apartment with bath, central location. Write Box H, Ontario Intelligencer. D7-2t

5 OR 6 ROOM MODERN HOUSE by January 1. Write Box B, Ontario Intelligencer. D7

EXPERIENCED MAID FOR GENERAL housework. References required. Apply Mrs. G. A. Freeman, 230 E. Bridge St. D6-2t

EXPERIENCED SERVICE STATION attendant. Write stating age and experience to Box K, Ontario Intelligencer. D6-2t

AT ONCE, GIRL FOR GENERAL housework. Phone 2535W or call between 7 and 8 p.m. at 201 Charles St. D6-2t

CASH EVERY WEEK! SELL UNIVERSALLY used RED TAG Nursery Stock full or part time. 1300 varieties. Samples and sales help, no investment required. Dominion Nurseries, Montreal.

AGENTS WANTED
IF YOU WANT TO START A business of your own and become independent, write today for the JITO Proposition. NO RISK UNDER THIRTY DAY TRIAL OFFER. The most complete line offered with FREE PRODUCTS for consumers. Start now to begin the new year right. WOMEN and MEN accepted. Apply at JITO, 1435 Montcalm, Montreal.
D4,7,9,11,14,16,18,21,23,26,28,30

MALE AND FEMALE HELP WANTED
NOW IS THE TIME TO QUALIFY for a Government job as Steno., Clerk, Postman, Customs Clerk, etc. Applications for next stenographers' exam to reach Ottawa, Dec. 20. Free Booklet and information from M.C.C. Schools Ltd., Toronto 10. D4,7,11,14

LADIES, YOUNG GIRLS WANTED MAKE FROM $10 TO $15 A WEEK by selling to an established clientele, relatives, and friends, well-known FAMILEX PRODUCTS. Everyone spends money for toilet articles, cooking requisites, cleaners, etc. Every FAMILEX customer is a SATISFIED CUSTOMER! Work 5 or 6 hours a day, benefit by our experience and you will succeed. NO RISK —profits assured by working. Let us help you. Write at once WITHOUT OBLIGATION, for our illustrated FREE catalogue to Miss St-George, 570 St. Clement Street, Montreal.
N16-23-30 D7-14-21

PERSONAL

YOU CAN RUN A HOME KINDERGARTEN with our help. Canadian Kindergarten Institute, Toronto 10, Ontario. f4-estf

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND OTHERS.

IN THE ESTATE OF SARAH ANN COOK, late of the Township of Thurlow, in the County of Hastings, widow, deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN pursuant to Statutes in that behalf that creditors and others having claims or demands against the estate of Sarah Ann Cook, late of the said Township of Thurlow, who died on or about the 11th. day of October 1940, are requested to forward their claims, duly proven to the Administrator of the said estate or to his undersigned solicitors on or before the 31st. day of December 1940.

AND NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that after the said date the Administrator will proceed to distribute the estate among the parties entitled having regard only to such claims of which he shall then have notice.

Dated at Belleville this 25th. day of November 1940.

JOHN M. REYNOLDS, Esq.,
R. R. Corbyville, Ont.
Administrator, by
Collins & Cushing,
219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.,
his Solicitors.

N30-D7-14-21.

JAW DISLOCATED BY SANDWICH

New York Dec. 7—(AP) — Sam Kava was injured by a sandwich. In an Italian restaurant he ordered a "Hero," (peppers, eggs, half a loaf of Italian bread) and went to work until his lower jaw protruded alarmingly. In hospital, his jaw was found to be dislocated.

WILL STORE FAMOUS WINDOW

Windsor, Dec. 7—(CP) — Public subscriptions, including that of "an anonymous Canadian in London," will enable arrangements to be made for removal of the west window of St. George's chapel of Windsor Castle. The dean had appealed for funds to permit removal of the beautiful window which will be stored in safety for the duration.

When you run a want ad tomorrow —

THOUSANDS OF LITTLE SALESMEN TELL YOUR STORY —INEXPENSIVELY.

PHONE Your Ad to 99

TO LET

TWO FRONT HOUSEKEEPING rooms, furnished or unfurnished. Write Box G, Ontario Intelligencer. D7

FURNISHED HEATED BEDROOM —gentleman preferred. Phone 1063. D7-3t

BRICK BUNGALOW, — EAST Belleville. Parlor, dining room, kitchen, breakfast room, three bedrooms, built-in bath tub, closet, pedestal wash basin, cellar, furnace, fireplace, hardwood floors, garden, double garage. Possession at once. Chancey Ashley. D5-7

UNFURNISHED FOUR ROOM Apartment, furnished three room bath flat. Apply 84 Yeoman St. D6-3t

156 BRIDGE STREET EAST — near Charles Street, desirable semi-detached brick house —living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, den, bath, hot air heating, two coal fireplaces, hardwood floors, garage. Available February 1st. Inspection by appointment. Exclusive agents, Belleville Locators, George N. Gorman, Prop., 166 Front St., Phone 99, House Phone 687. N26-tf

176 BLEECKER AVENUE, SOUTH of Bridge Street; brick house, situated in attractive grounds; large living room with coal fireplace, dining room with coal fireplace, kitchen, wired for range, 4 bedrooms and bath, hardwood floors, full basement, new hot air heating plant, double garage, interior of house newly decorated throughout. This is a very desirable residence. Exclusive agents Belleville Locators, Geo. N. Gorman, Prop. 166 Front Street, Phone 99. House phone 687. N22-tf of William Hough, Concession 4, Sidney, postponed until Wednesday, December 11th., at 10 o'clock. D7-9

AUCTION SALE

THAT BODY OF YOURS

James W. Barton, M.D.

You Can Prevent Diseases Which Run in Your Family

I was talking with a chap one day and when the subject of health came up, he stated that he had just finished reading a book and found that when he was born the condition of his body—glands, digestive apparatus, heart and bloodvessels, was determined for life and there was nothing he could do to change his tissues in any way. For that reason he was paying no attention to his health, what he ate, how much he slept, how much exercise he took, if any, and he believed he was feeling better than for some time past.

I told him that I thought he was wise to forget or think about his health because he had a narrow body, was underweight, and was very, very nervous. I told him that being a worrier (which he admitted might bring on nervous ailments such as stomach or intestinal ulcer, colitis and a neurosis of some kind such as believing he had some disease—heart, bloodvessels, kidneys— which could not bring on symptoms of these ailments but might actually cause the ailments themselves, as pointed out by Prof. W. P. Cannon, of Harvard.

The fact that he would stop worrying about his health would be of great help to him physically and mentally but did not mean, however, that because his "plasms" were fixed for him at birth he had to have heart disease, high blood pressure, tuberculosis, diabetes or other diseases with which his parents or grandparents suffered. By care as to avoiding infection (from diseased teeth, tonsils), by avoiding excitements and emotional disturbances, by getting plenty of rest and fresh air and not letting himself get overweight, he could prevent heart disease, high blood pressure, tuberculosis and diabetes, respectively. That was only four diseases that might naturally attack him because of his "plasms" present at birth. There were other diseases, equally dangerous, that could be prevented by taking some thought about his health.

It is true that what we start out with at birth can determine our general health and our length of life. However, the home in which we live, the office, story or factory in which we work, our food, rest, exercise, can greatly modify or shape these general trends we have inherited.

Whether we start out with a Ford body or a Rolls Royce, it requires care to make it do its best work.

"WORN OUT" AND WORRIED

Dragging around each day, unable to do housework — cranky with the children— feeling miserable. Blaming it on "nerves" when the kidneys may be out of order. When kidneys fail the system clogs with impurities. Headaches — backache, frequently follow. Dodd's Kidney Pills help clear the system, giving nature a chance to restore health and energy. Easy to take. Safe. 116

Dodd's Kidney Pills

FOR SALE

GREY BROADTAIL AND SQUIRREL fur coat, good condition. Phone 1881J. D7

CIRCULATING HEATER, $18; large glass cupboard, $12, both in good condition. Phone 1578. D7

DURANT COUPE, 4 CYLINDER, good condition. Antifreeze, starts easy. Nordheimer Piano, Mason-Risch. Several good used radios. Quinte Radio Shop, 330 Front St. D7-3t

GIRL'S MOTOR BOOTS, SIZE 3; skates, sizes 3 and 6; boy's horsehide coat, large size. Phone 2369W. D7

OR RENT, 5 ROOM COTTAGE, hardwood floors, garage, good well, two miles from Belleville on Highway. Apply 161 Albert St. D7-tf

SLIGHTLY USED GENERAL ELECTRIC range, first class condition. Low price for quick sale. Easy terms. Walker Hardware Co. Ltd., 248-250 Front St. D7-3t

PRACTICALLY NEW LADY'S English wool coat. Size 14. Apply 43 Sinclair St. D7

MAN'S BROWN PLAID OVERCOAT, size about 38; also girl's blue ski jacket size 12. Apply 31 Earl St. D7

HOCKEY SKATES AND BOOTS, size 5; pair of roller skates, all in good condition. Cheap. Mrs. Harry, near Filtration Plant. D7

HUDSON SEAL COAT, BEST quality, newly lined, size 38-40. Cheap for cash. Box 13, Ontario Intelligencer. D6-3t

'37 FORD COUPE, WITH HEATER, perfect condition throughout. Privately owned. $425. Phone 2416. D6-3t

GIRL'S RUST WINTER COAT, beaver trim. Size 14. Good condition. Phone 693W. D5-3t

SOFT WOOD SLABS, 4 CORD load, $18.00; also body soft wood. For particulars write H. C. Lloyd, Phone Belleville 1222. D3-6t

BEATTY WASHER, USED, $15.00. David Electric Shop, 340 Front St. N20-tf

LOST

BLACK, WHITE, AND TAN Hound, north of Cooper, Ontario. Finder notify Frank Spence. Moira. D7

DOG—BLACK TERRIER, TINY white spot on breast. Answers to 'Nigger.' Reward. Phone J. E. DeVault, 16 W. Bridge St. D7

NOTICE

Annual Meeting of Maple Leaf Cheese Company will be held at the factory on Saturday, December 14, at 1 o'clock. General transaction of business.

D7-11 W. S. STILES, Pres.

PAULEY'S
DRUG STORE
Open Sunday

WE STRONGLY ADVISE IMMEDIATE PURCHASE of
CONNOR WASHERS
FRIGIDAIRE REFRIGERATORS
and
RANGES
A few left at Old price.
SMALL DOWN PAYMENT.
EASY TERMS.
WALKER HARDWARE
COMPANY LIMITED.
248 - 250 Front St.
D4-4t

BELLEVILLE LOCATORS

Own Your Own Home!

TALK IT OVER! THEN SEE
Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, Prop.
Licensed and Registered Real Estate Brokers and Associate Members of The Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards.
166 FRONT ST. Opp. City Hall

KEN SMITH'S
TAXI
HEATED BUICK CARS
PHONE 1550
Office: 356 FRONT STREET.
Opposite Belle Theatre
D5-3t

GUARANTEED SERVICE — what does it mean? Simply that The Ontario Intelligencer GUARANTEES a job done perfectly at the time and price agreed upon. If you've had much experience in printing, you'll appreciate what this means. We stick by our word!

PHONE 99

Ontario Intelligencer Job Printing

774W

WHEN DEATH occurs at some distant point, we are in position to handle all details.

Belleville Burial Co.
27 Campbell St.

GRANT
FUNERAL HOME
68 North Front St. Belleville
PHONE 373

PERSONAL LOANS
For Winter Needs or Any Other Useful Purpose.
ONE YEAR TO REPAY
Apply to Nearest Branch of
THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE
MONTHLY DEPOSITS PROVIDE FOR REPAYMENT.

If You Borrow	You Receive	You make 12 Monthly Deposits of
$ 60	$ 55.87	$ 5
$ 96	$ 89.71	$ 8
$ 144	$ 134.80	$12
$ 192	$ 179.92	$16
$ 300	$ 280.94	$25
$ 492	$ [illegible]	$41
$1,068	$ 1,000.86	$89

Other Amounts at Proportionately Low Rates
Your Estate is Protected by Life Insurance Which the Bank Arranges.

FOR RAWLEIGH'S MEDICATED OINTMENT
and
RAWLEIGH'S PRODUCTS
GUS OLSSON
District Representative
257 JOHN ST. Phone 1183

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. T. W. Batherwick and family wish to extend their heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy and condolence extended to them by their friends and neighbors during the recent illness and death of a beloved wife and mother. D7

Mrs. Milton Fargey of Roslin and Mr. Clarence Campbell of Belleville, desire to express to their friends their sincere appreciation of the many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy extended to them during their recent bereavement and at the time of the funeral here of their brother, Robert Anson Campbell. D7

IN MEMORIAM

BELL—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mary Agnes Bell, who passed away, December 8, 1938.

Sweet memories will linger forever.
Time cannot change them it's true,
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.

—Sadly missed by Husband and Children. D7

BIRTHS

DICKIE — To Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dickie, 69 Octavia Street, on December 6, 1940, at the Belleville General Hospital, a daughter. D7

DEATHS

FRITZ—Suddenly in Belleville on Saturday, December 7th., 1940, Margaret Anne Fritz, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Raymond Fritz, age 3 days.

The funeral will take place from the residence of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Orr, 85 West Bridge Street, on Monday afternoon, December 9th., at 2 o'clock. Interment Belleville cemetery. D7

AT THE CAPITOL

"HIRED WIFE"

Making a comedy is the next best thing to taking a vacation for a dramatic actor—but for a comedian, making a comedy is just plain hard work.

This variance of opinion was gleaned from a trio of Hollywood's top-flight players — Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne and Robert Benchley.

Work Is Play.

To use their own words, Miss Russell and Aherne "played" in Universal's "Hired Wife", a fast moving comedy of a business marriage, coming next to the Capital. Benchley "worked" in the same film.

"While I started out in dramatic roles and have played far more of them than I have comedy parts, I have a lot more fun in a comedy," Rosalind declared. "A movie set usually reflects the spirit of the story and I don't like working in a deadly serious atmosphere. I like to laugh even during working hours."

Feels Like Kid.

Aherne seconded Rosalind's feelings on the subject. "Having just finished two very serious dramas, I feel like a kid just out of school," he remarked. "We get so used to wise-cracking before the camera that we carry on between scenes. Consequently everybody has a good time and I, for one, don't feel like I'm working at all."

But to funny-man Benchley it was a different story. "Humor is the hardest thing in the world to portray, either in acting or writing," he opined. "When I know everyone is expecting, sometimes daring me to make them laugh, I have cold chills all the time."

Are Co-Starred.

Miss Russell, Aherne and Virginia Bruce are co-starred in "Hired Wife" with Benchley heading the supporting cast made up of John Carroll, Hobart Cavanaugh, William Davidson, Richard Lane and Charles Smith.

Richard Connell and Gladys Lehman wrote the screenplay from an original story by George Beck. Milton Krasner was the photographer and the interesting settings were designed by Jack Otterson, Universal art director.

The picture was produced and directed by William Seiter, who recently guided Deanna Durbin in "It's a Date". Glenn Tryon was associate producer.

To complete their fast roaring comedy is shown "Teeming Treasures", the Canadian fishing industry in technicolor, also a "Comic Capers" comedy sport.

AT THE BELLE

"Third Finger, Left Hand"

Myrna Loy, "perfect wife" of the screen, and Melvyn Douglas, the man who made Garbo laugh in "Ninotchka", prove a brilliant team in "Third Finger, Left Hand", which is now on the Belle Screen.

The new comedy provides Miss Loy with a rampageous wife role and gives Douglas as many hilarious troubles as William Powell had in "I Love You Again" Miss Loy a fashion magazine editor, invents a fictious husband for business reasons, and Douglas, a landscape painter, arrives on the scene posing as the mythical spouse. She can't expose her deception, so takes it out by plunging the debonair Douglas into every comical trouble she can think of, even embarrassing him by scandalizing his home town folks with assumed vulgarity on their honeymoon. Her attorney, Lee Bowman, conspires to get her divorced so that he can marry her himself, and amid the laughable mix-up she and Douglas suddenly discover they've been in love with each other all along.

Miss Loy plays her role to the last comedy values as she heaps troubles on the head of Douglas, who gets laughs out of his tribulations as the victim of her pranks and pays her back in kind. Lee Bowman is a romantic figure as Suitor No. Two. Donald Meek as an eccentric art dealer adds to the comicalities, as does Felix Bressart, the elongated commissar on "Ninotchka", as Myrna's art editor and co-conspirator. Bonita Granville scores in a sub-deb role. Raymond Walburn, Halliwell Hobbes and Ann Morris are also effective. Robert Z. Leonard directed with a deft touch.

A funny comicolor cartoon, "Bookworm Turns", and the popular Belle Newsreel precede the feature attraction.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Mein Kampf—My Crimes"

Secret history of Germany under Hitler revealed with startling authenticity on screen "Mein Kampf" was a book that avowed to the world at large just what Adolf Hitler intended to do. Now comes a feature film—"My Crimes", which shows how he did it. It opens next at the McCarthy Theatre.

No studio-made fiction drama could convey the intense realism of this display of events which were the first rumblings of the present European earthquake, happenings which were headlines, the murders of Roehm and Von Schleicher, Dolfuss lying in agony for hours while his killers try vainly to get his agreement to a Nazi successor become a reality through this amazing film instead of something one reads about in newspapers. There is a fascination in this picture, born of actually witnessing events whose significance is thrown in ghastly relief by the war—the war that freed this film for the world to see.

This is no dreary repetition of old news; rather it is the first real sight we have had of world-shattering events.

The murder of Roehm and Schleicher, two known names among hundreds that disappeared in the first great Hitler purge, the sacking of homes, the ruthless extermination of all free thought and will, persecution that goads its victims to retaliate and furnish a pretext for the vast program that follows—all these, major tragedies in themselves, follow one another in stark procession.

There are scenes smuggled out of Germany of the Jewish persecution, smashed and daubed shop fronts, burning synagogues, a reconstruction of the sacking of Cardinal Innitzer's house that illuminated starkly the hooliganism that Hitler fostered "as a spontaneous expression of popular feeling."

Hate, cruelty, oppression, the parade can only head one way—to war. The film ends with an impressive picture of the allied war machine which is now ranged in the effort to rid Europe of the horrors to which this amazing film bears witness.

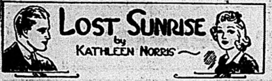
Fox News events, an excellent musical revue entitled "Varsity Vanities" and an amusing cartoon, "Adventures of Tom Thumb" will also be presented with the above feature, "Mein Kampf—My Crimes."

Pay Santa Claus In Cash

If you are wondering how to solve your Christmas Buying Problems . . . SEE US . . . NOW . . . and let us explain our friendly service.

CASH LOAN YOU GET	AMOUNT YOU PAY BACK EACH MONTH Including All Charges
	6 months loan	8 months loan	10 months loan	12 months loan	15 months loan
$ 50	$ 8.93	$ 6.83	$ 5.57	$4.73
100	17.85	13.65	11.13	9.46	$ 7.78
150	26.78	20.48	16.70	14.18	11.67
200	35.71	27.30	22.27	18.91	15.57
250	44.63	34.13	27.83	23.64	19.46
300	53.56	40.95	33.40	28.37	23.35
400	71.41	54.60	44.53	37.82	31.13
500	89.26	68.25	55.66	47.28	38.91

QUINTE FINANCE
AND SECURITIES LIMITED
168 Front St. BELLEVILLE Phone 168



LOST SUNRISE

by KATHLEEN NORRIS

INSTALMENT 3.

Fortunately for Gwen the wedding morning excitement began almost as soon as the June sun was up, and absorbed her, whether she would or no, until long after the actual ceremony.

The bride had been so lovely, the groom so obviously proud and happy, the company so harmonious, the dresses and flowers so successful that the first Washburton wedding in many years went off to a chorus of praise and enjoyment. Poor or rich, successful or failures, the Washburtons were numbered among the town's first families, and everyone, Nuttalls and Saunderses and Carters and other great folk from Crescent Manor all came and were cordial and familiar, calling Sheila's father "Peter" and Sheila's Aunt Sis "Isabel" and generally adding glamor to the gay scene.

The old house looked its best, too. Shabby, of course, but airy and spacious and elegant in its faded way, and the old silver and china were not to be eclipsed by any in town. The junior Peter was everywhere, handsome and not helpful and amusing, and the senior Peter behaved with dignity and charm. Uncle Elmer disappeared early from the scene and did not come back until discovered in the basement, where the drinkables had been stored, long after the last guest had disappeared.

Sheila came running downstairs in her brown silk at about two o'clock, and was snatched and kissed and passed, laughing and breathless, from hand to hand. Then Link got possession of her, and they raced down to the ribbon-trimmed car, in a storm of rice, and went around it to a quiet little car parked just on the other side, and so departed in gales of protest and merriment for their new home and their new life.

"And how perfect it would have been if only—if only—" Gwen's thoughts said over and over, as Gwen's voice said, "Yes, wasn't? . . . Wasn't she? But then she's always beautiful, Sheila. . . . Miss her? Oh, I began missing her days ago."

The company drifted away and as Gwen descended the stairs later in the afternoon, a man who had been standing in the open doorway, looking out into the shadowless, soft light of the garden and street, turned around and came toward her.

He was a squarely built man of something less than thirty with a rather square heavy face that somehow matched his wide shoulders and strong square hands. His thick curly hair, brushed back recentil with a wet brush, was black; he was dark-skinned, with a blunt-tipped nose and a strong wide mouth. But the eyes, framed in heavy brows and black lashes, were surprisingly blue, and rather contradicted the almost stern expression of his face. He did not smile as he came forward to shake hands. Gwen guided him into the living-room.

"Dick Latimer!" she said, pleased. "I didn't know you were in town! But what's the matter?"

The last phrase was added with concern, for his look had warned her that something was wrong.

"Nothing," he answered somewhat unsteadily. "I just thought—I came down yesterday—I thought I'd come in."

He spoke so confusedly that Gwen merely continued to regard him expectantly and anxiously and said nothing.

"How—how are you all?" he asked.

The Washburtons had known "the Latimer boy," or at least had known who the Latimers were, from the beginning of things. Gwen had always thought of Dick as awkward and uninteresting. But she did not remember him,she reflected, as being as bad as this. This was simply pathetic. What on earth was the matter with him?

"You came down yesterday?" she asked, making an effort to ignore his obvious agitation. "But then why—why didn't you come to Shelia's wedding? Dick, what's the matter? Is your mother ill?"

He looked at her, tried to speak, gulped. Then he walked quickly to the window, and Gwen, after watching him for a second, followed him there.

"Dick, what is it?"

"Oh, it's Sheila, it's always been Sheila!" he said grimly, between clenched teeth. For a moment Gwen stood perfectly still in amazement.

"What had I to offer her?" he said thickly, trying to laugh. "I've got a lot more intern years to do before I can marry! Even then I'll have to pay back a loan I got to help through medical school, and maybe mother to take care of. I'd have a swell chance at a girl like that!"

He was still staring out of the window, speaking as if he were talking to himself. Gwen, after a moment of stupefaction, sought desperately for words of comfort.

"Dick, I am sure she never knew! I never dreamed it!"

"What, that I liked Sheila?" he said gruffly. "How would you? I never told her. I used to go into the library and watch her, when I'd be home week-ends. I was taking my premedical work at Stanford then. She never looked at me. I was always borrowing books that I couldn't afford to buy, and she'd tell me I couldn't take them out three times in succession, and then she'd smile and say, "Well, perhaps this once we can stretch the rule a little!'"

"I can hear her" Gwen said, smiling.

"For three years I've thought about her. I've never thought about anyone else," the man said. "Every look—every word—

"Someone wrote my mother that she was going to marry Link Baker long before the wedding invitation came. I tried to stay away. I couldn't. I thought about her—laughing and happy and—"

He stopped again. Gwen did not speak.

"I got leave yesterday," Dick presently said. "I came over here and watched this house. Once I heard her speak; she came to the door to take a package in, but it was sort of dusky and the light was behind her, and I didn't see her."

"Oh, Dick, why didn't you come in!"

"And meet him?" Dick said. "Tell him I hope they'll be happy? Yes, I could have done that. I hope he knows how lucky he is! What has he done, to have her love him, and smile at him—

"I stayed over there, sitting on Tillman's fence, all night," he went on miserably. "She came down to the gate with him and stood there, talking. Then Peter came out, and walked home with Baker, I guess."

"You didn't stay up all night!"

"Yes, I did. I sat there, thinking about her, and that she'll have dinner with him alone somewhere tonight, and they'll talk, and he'll put his arm about her, and tell her what a good husband he's going to be to her. And what's he ever done, what's he done, to get HER?"

Bitter,. Who else had been bitter, just recently? Oh, Sheila. Now poor, pitiful Dick Latimer, of all people, was bitter!

"I was watching your house when dawn came this morning," Dick presently resumed. "I heard you all laughing. Then I walked downtown and had a cup of coffee. I didn't want to go to the church. I didn't know what to do—I took a long walk—"

He had been staring out of the window; now he turned and glanced at Gwen over his shoulder, and in that instant she felt as staggering a blow to mind and spirit as she could possibly have sustained in the flesh. Why—this man—Dick Latimer, whose mother had been a practical nurse taking cases here in town a few years ago—his voice—and his manner—and that look in his keen eyes — that casual look over his shoulder—

What was happening? She didn't know, except that nothing like it had ever happened to her before. She couldn't answer him, she couldn't speak, she could only stare stupidly.

"What is it, Gwen?" he asked, sharply, and his voice went through her like an electric shock, and her senses began to go slowly round and round. To have him say her name like that! "Gwen." So carelessly, so easily. "You're tired?" he said, putting his hand on her arm.

"No, no, I'm not tired," she answered, in dreamy faraway tones quite unlike her own. She would gather her wits together presently and make him come out to the kitchen and have something to eat. He mustn't know, of course; he was in love with Sheila. But she knew! She knew that whatever it meant to her life, whatever agony it was to cost her in days to come, the look in his eyes, the touch of his big gentle fingers, the tones of his concerned voice would be with her to her dying day.

He wanted her to go up to the hotel and have luncheon with him, but Gwen, still dazed and shaken, was not quite sufficiently confused to consent to that. Go to the hotel late in the afternoon, with the Washburton house still filled with wedding feast!

"You come right out to the kitchen, Dick. There are sandwiches enough to last into the middle of next week. . . . I adore you. Whatever—you've got, it's what I can't live without! Dick—Dick—" Gwen added in her thoughts. Pinwheels of gold and crimson and dazzling white were going off in every direction, and her legs felt weak. "I'm in love, I'm in love!" she thought, her teeth chattering.

"You're all in," Dick said, catching at her cold shaking hand as she put a selection of the sandwiches before him.

"You are the most wonderful person I've ever seen," Gwen said in her thoughts. Aloud she managed to enunciate at the same time, "Weddings are rather — exciting. Everyone's tired out and resting, except me. No, I don't want to go, I've been resting!" she protested hastily as he half rose to go. "Mother's lying down, and dad—I don't know where dad is, and Peter—I don't know where he went, but, she thought, "this is sheer imbecility, he'll think I'm the idiot member," but she could not seem to get command of herself. It was all too new, too thrilling. This big dark creature, so much a man already, so much a boy still, sitting here ravenously devouring food and drinking coffee—and herself one quiver of ecstatic discovery—

"Scrambled eggs, Dick?"

"No, this is perfect!" He had had nothing since early morning. He was really hungry. "I'm terribly sorry I came in and bellyached about this," he said repentantly. "I was a little giddy, I guess, and the whole thing seemed to get me down. I've loved her for a good many years, and it's been in the back of my mind that someday I'd get a scholarship or something, maybe go to the Mayos' or John Hopkins, and perhaps—I don't know, inherit some money from some relatives I have saw, and that then I could come for her. It—it sort of chokes me to think of her being Link's."

"It sort of chokes me, too," Gwen said simply.

He looked at her with narrowed eyes, as if he saw her for the first time.

"I'll bet it does."

"I'm crazy about her myself," Gwen said, her eyes watering.

"I guess everyone is. He's—all right, isn't he?" the man asked awkwardly.

"Link? He's magnificent."

"He's in politics, isn't he?"

"Oh no, no. He's a lawyer. But he's sort of in politics too, chairman of something." Gwen's voice steadied as she talked. "Anyway, he's sort of an expert on mining laws, and he's out there at the Lone Star Mine trying to settle a Pennsylvania claim, whatever it is."

"They'll live out at the mine?"

"For a while, anyway. But Judge Spencer was here for the wedding today, and he said that they want Link to run for Congress against Miller. He said the gambling scandal had pretty well finished Miller, and he said that if they could raise funds enough for a real campaign they'd send Link to Washington! Imagine, and he's only about thirty-five!"

"She'd like that," Dick said slowly, his eyes on Gwen's face.

"Well, I think anyone would! But of course that was just talk. If something like that doesn't happen, he's going to practice law in San Francisco. There's a firm there that has made him a wonderful offer. And Sheila's always wanted to live there; she loves the city."

Gwen suddenly began to shake again.

(Copyright, 1939, by Kathleen Norris.)

(To be continued)

RADIO PROGRAMS

(Daylight Saving Time)

SATURDAY, DEC 7.

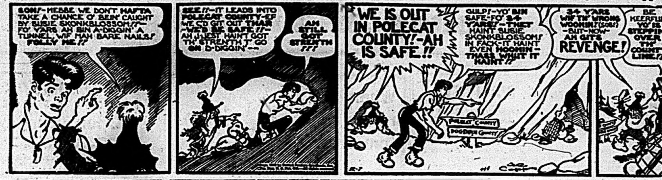
6.00—Tommy Dorsey's Orchestra—WEAF, CBL.
6.00—The World Is Yours—WEAF
7.00—Questions of the Hour—CBL
7.15—N.H.L. Hockey Players—CBL
7.30—Religion in the News—WEAF
7.30—Recital Series—CBL
7.45—The World Today—WABC, WJR
7.45—Canada and Latin American Relations—CBL
8.00—People's Platform — WABC, WGR
8.30—Gay Nineties Revue—WABC, WGR
8.30—Share the Wealth—CBO, CBL
8.45—H. V. Kaltenborn, news—WEAF, WHAM
9.00—Hockey: Boston vs. Leafs—CBL
9.00—Your Marriage Club—WABC WGR
9.00—Playhouse, drama — WEAF, WBEN
9.15—Man and the World—WJZ
9.30—Truth or Consequences — WEAF, WGY
9.30—Wayne King's Orchestra — WABC, WGR
10.00—Your Hit Parade—WABC, WGR
10.00—Song of Your Life—WJZ
10.00—Nat'l Barn Dance—WEAF, WBEN
10.30—News; Symphony Orch.—WJZ, WHAM
10.45—Saturday Night Serenade — WJR, WGR
11.00—Chicago Theater of the Air—WOR, WGN
11.00—Symphony Orch.—WJZ, CBL
11.00—Uncle Ezra—WEAF, WGY
11.15—Public Affairs—WABC
12.30—California Melodies—WOR
1.00—News; Glen Miller's Orch.—WJZ

SUNDAY, DEC. 8.

11.00—Church of the Air—WABC
11.30—N.Y.A. Symphony Orch.—WABC, CFRB
12.45—Ahead of the Headlines; News Analysis—WJZ
1.30—Salt Lake City Tabernacle—WABC, WGR
2.30—University of Chicago Round Table Discussions — WEAF, WGY
3.15—John Kirby's Orch.—WABC, WGR
4.00—Symphony Orch. — WABC, CFRB
5.00—National Vespers—WJZ
5.30—Music That Refreshes; John Charles Thomas, baritone, guest—WABC
6.00—Metropolitan Opera Auditions of the Air—WEAF, WGY
6.00—Design for Happiness; Chicago Women's Symphony Orchestra—WABC, WGR
6.30—Behind the Mike; Graham McNamee—WJZ, WHAM
6.30—Your Dream Has Come True—WEAF, WGY
6.45—BBC News—CBL
7.00—Double or Nothing; Quiz Prgm.—WOR, WGR
7.00—Silver Theatre, drama: Ronald Coleman in "Great Adventure"—WABC
7.30—Gene Autry's Melody Ranch—WABC
7.30—Beat the Band, quiz show; Ted Weems' Orchestra — WEAF, WGY, WHAM
8.00—Jack Benny — WEAF, CBL
8.00—Sunday Evening News of the World—WJZ
8.30—Let's Face the Facts—CBO, CBL
8.30—Band Wagon; Orrin Tucker and His Orchestra—WEAF, WGY
8.30—Screen Guild Theatre—WABC, WGR
8.30—Speak Up America, Quiz Prgm.—WJZ, WHAM
9.00—Helen Hayes Theatre—WABC
9.00—Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy — WEAF, WGY, CBL
9.00—Star Spangled Theatre—WJZ
10.00—Sunday Evening Hour — WABC, WGR
10.00—Manhattan Merry-Go-Round—WEAF, WBEN
10.00—Walter Winchell — WJZ, WHAM

LI'L ABNER — Inhoomin Woomin

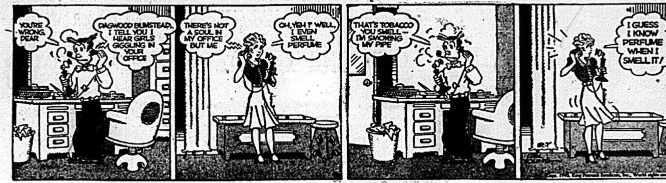
By Al Capp



SON!—MEBBE WE DON'T HAFTA TAKE A CHANCE O' BEIN' CAUGHT BY SUSIE SKONKBLOSSOM!!—FO' YARS AH BIN A-DIGGIN' A TUNNEL WIF MAH BARE NAILS! FOLLY ME!!
SEE!!—IT LEADS INTO POLECAT COUNTY—EF WE C'D GIT OUT THAR—WE'D BE SAFE!!—AH JEST HAIN'T GOT TH' STRENTH T' GO ON D-DIGGIN'—
AH STILL GOT STRENTH!!!
WE IS OUT IN POLECAT COUNTY!—AH IS SAFE!!
GULP!—YO' BIN SAFE FO' 34 YARS!—THET HAINT SUSIE SKONKBLOSSOM! IN FACK IT HAINT EVEN HOOMIN—THASS WHUT IT HAINT!!
34 YARS WIF TH' WRONG WOOMIN!(SOB!)—BUT—NOW—AH GITS REVENGE!
BE KEERFUL! YO' IS STEPPIN' OVER TH' COUNTY LINE!!
POLECAT COUNTY
DOGPATCH COUNTY

BLONDIE — The Telephone's A Wonderful Invention!

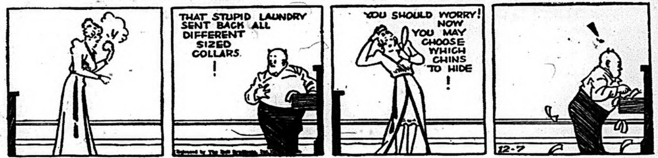
Bv Chic Young



YOU'RE WRONG, DEAR
DAGWOOD BUMSTEAD, I TELL YOU I HEAR GIRLS GIGGLING IN YOUR OFFICE
THERE'S NOT A SOUL IN MY OFFICE BUT ME
OH, YEH? WELL, I EVEN SMELL PERFUME
THAT'S TOBACCO YOU SMELL—I'M SMOKING MY PIPE
I GUESS I KNOW PERFUME WHEN I SMELL IT!

POP — Pop's Lucky, at That!

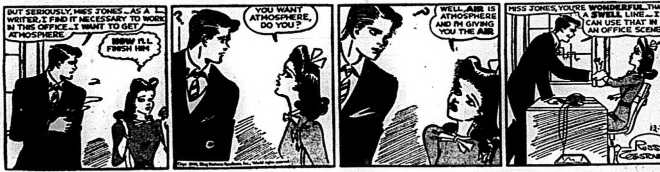
By J. Millar Watt



THAT STUPID LAUNDRY SENT BACK ALL DIFFERENT SIZED COLLARS.
!
YOU SHOULD WORRY! NOW YOU MAY CHOOSE WHICH CHINS TO HIDE
!
!
12-7

TILLIE THE TOILER — That's Realism!

By Russ Westover



BUT SERIOUSLY, MISS JONES—AS A WRITER, I FIND IT NECESSARY TO WORK IN THIS OFFICE—I WANT TO GET ATMOSPHERE
NOW I'LL FINISH HIM
YOU WANT ATMOSPHERE, DO YOU?
WELL, AIR IS ATMOSPHERE AND I'M GIVING YOU THE AIR
MISS JONES, YOU'RE WONDERFUL—THAT'S A SWELL LINE—I CAN USE THAT IN AN OFFICE SCENE 12-7
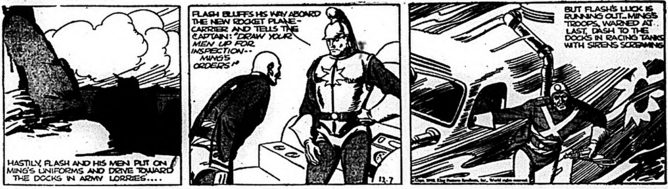
RUSS WESTOVER

FLASH GORDON



HASTILY, FLASH AND HIS MEN PUT ON MING'S UNIFORMS AND DRIVE TOWARD THE DOCKS IN ARMY LORRIES....
FLASH BLUFFS HIS WAY ABOARD THE NEW ROCKET PLANE-CARRIER AND TELLS THE CAPTAIN: "DRAW YOUR MEN UP FOR INSPECTION--MING'S ORDERS!"
BUT FLASH'S LUCK IS RUNNING OUT.. MING'S TROOPS, WARNED AT LAST, DASH TO THE DOCKS IN RACING TANKS WITH SIRENS SCREAMING 12-7

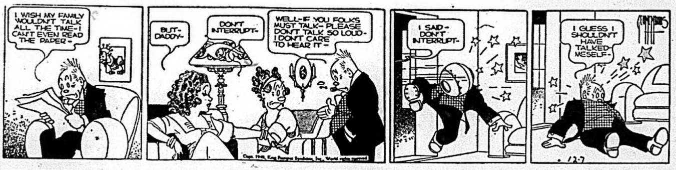
BRINGING UP FATHER —

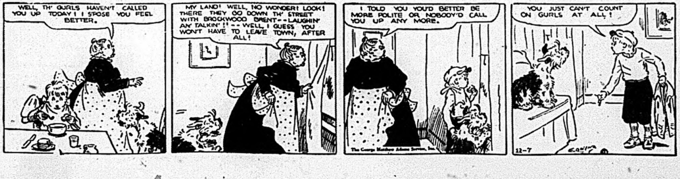
By George McManus



I WISH MY FAMILY WOULDN'T TALK ALL THE TIME—I CAN'T EVEN READ THE PAPER—
BUT—DADDY—
DON'T INTERRUPT—
WELL—IF YOU FOLKS MUST TALK—PLEASE DON'T TALK SO LOUD—I DON'T CARE TO HEAR IT—
I SAID—DON'T INTERRUPT—
I GUESS I SHOULDN'T HAVE TALKED MESELF—
12-7

TIPPIE AND "CAP" STUBBS —

By Edwina



WELL, TH' GURLS HAVEN'T CALLED YOU UP TODAY! I S'POSE YOU FEEL BETTER.
MY LAND! WELL, NO WONDER! LOOK! THERE THEY GO DOWN TH' STREET WITH BROCKWOOD BRENT--LAUGHIN' AN' TALKIN'!!--WELL, I GUESS YOU WON'T HAVE TO LEAVE TOWN, AFTER ALL!
I TOLD YOU YOU'D BETTER BE MORE POLITE OR NOBODY'D CALL YOU UP ANY MORE.
YOU JUST CAN'T COUNT ON GURLS AT ALL!
12-7

STOCK MARKETS

QUOTATIONS FURNISHED BY BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD.
J. R. Peets, Branch Manager.

(Quotations at 12.00)

MINES

Ajax 18
Aldermac 15
Anglo Hur. 235
Aunor 212
Bankfield 7½
Beattie 117
Bidgood 10¼
Big Missouri 5
Bralorne 10⅜
Broulan 85
Buffalo Ank. 455
Calgary and Ed. 145
Can. Malar. 51
Central Pat. 193
Chesterville 127
Coast Copper 100
Coniaurum 145
Dome 24½
Eldorado 36
East Mal. 235
Gillies L. 4
Gunnar 36
Hardrock 104
Home Oil 240
Hollinger 12⅞
Howey 30
Kerr. Add. 345
Kirkland Lake 101
Lapa Cad 7½
Lake Shore 19
Leitch 51
Little L.L. 207
Macassa 370
McIntyre 48½
McLeod 230
McKenzie 121
Mining Corp. 75
Moneta 52
Nipissing 103
O'Brien 112
Okalta 70
Omega 15
Paymaster 24
Pamour 139
Perron 172
Pend Oreille 178
Pickle Crow 295
Pioneer 212
Powell 108
Premier 88
Preston E.D. 320
Reno 13
Royalite 23½
San Antonio 262
Sherritt G. 82
Siscoe 49
Sladen M. 43
Sudbury Basin 126
Sullivan 61
Steep Rock 146
Sylvanite 257
Teck Hughes 325
Tex. Can. Oil 115
Toburn 155
Ventures 300
Waite Amulet 306
Wr. Hargreaves 715
U. C. 205

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 158.
British American Oil 18¼.
Brewing Corporation 1.10.
Brazilian Traction 5¼.
Canada Bud Brewery 4½.
Canada Cement 6.
Canada Dredge 17½.
Can. Industrial Alcohol 185.
C.P.R. 5¼.
Canada Malting 36¼.
Canada Vinegar 7¾.
Canada Car 8.
Cockshutt Plow 5½.
Cons. Bakeries 14.
Con Smelting 39.
Dominion Foundries 23½.
Dominion Stores 5½.
Distillers Seagrams 26⅞.
Fanny Farmer 27.
Ford "A" 16⅝.
Gypsum 3½.
Imperial Oil 9¼.
International Nickel 34½.
Inter. Petroleum 13.
Imperial Tobacco 14.
Loblaw 26½.
Massey Harris 3½.
Montreal Power 28¾.
McColl-Frontenac 5.
Power Corporation 7½.
Price Bros. 12.
Steel of Canada 73.
Shawinigan 17⅝.
Walkers 44.
Walkers Preferred 18¾.
Walkerville Brewery 75.
C.P.A. 4¼.

NEW YORK

American T and T 167⅞.
Anaconda 27½.
Bethlehem Steel 86⅝.
Chrysler 75⅝.
General Electric 33¼.
General Motors 49⅝.
Inter. Telephone 2.
Montgomery Ward 37½.
Phillips Petroleum 40.
Radio 5.
Standard Oil of N.J. 33½.
Standard Brands 6¼.
U.S. Steel 68⅝.
United Aircraft 42⅝.
Vanadium 33¼.
Westinghouse 103⅝.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 7 (CP)—Trades were scattered and turnover comparatively small on the Toronto Exchange in the final session of the week. Prices showed little net change from Friday's close.

The cheaper golds continued to supply the bulk of the turnover. Upper Canada climbed back to 2.10 for a gain of 5 cents and prices were up narrowly for Pickle Crow, O'Brien and Buffalo-Ankerite and Cariboo Gold Quartz firmed 15 cents to 2.25. In the base metals Ventures was firmed by 5 cents at 3.04 and Coast Copper lower by 25 cents at $1.

Losses widened to a point in the industrial list. Canadian Celanese and Goodyear Tire dropped a point and fractional losses appeared for United Steel and British American Oil. Bell Telephone firmed a point to 158 and Canadian Locomotive firmed 1 3-4 to 11. Walkers Common, Building Products, Consolidated Paper and Imperial Tobacco were among the strong spots.

Finish off Japan With $250,000,000 Says Dr. Lin Yutang

San Francisco, Dec. 6 (AP).—Dr. Lin Yutang, Chinese author, philosopher and educationist, said today the United States "instead of spending $5,000,000,000 for the construction of a superb navy, can give us just five per cent of that amount, and we'll finish off Japan."

"It's becoming steadily more apparent that aid to China is the cheapest way of defence in the Pacific for the United States—just as aid to Britain is your foremost defence in the Atlantic," he told interviewers.

"Japan joined the Rome-Berlin axis, of course, with the idea of scaring the United States into a 'hands off' policy—only to learn that your country doesn't scare easily. Just give us airplanes and other war materials and China will be more than able to settle this Japanese threat, once and for all."

China Winning War

Doctor Lin said China is winning the war in the Orient.

"The Japanese soldiers are becoming very demoralized, wondering why they are fighting.

"Japanese officers like the war, however. They are all getting rich on the graft and 'squeeze' in occupied territory.

"A lot is said and written about the Burma Road. Well, we're not dependent on that road.

"There are hundreds of little Burma Roads, each one representing a Japanese officer who is anxious to be bribed. We can smuggle anything into China—actually anything, and any place".

SIX SURVIVORS OF FREIGHTER SPEED TO HOMES

3 Members of Crew Still in Hospital After Drifting 21 Days in Open Lifeboat

HEROIC RESCUE

Halifax, Dec. 7—(CP)—Six survivors of the Canadian freighter Lisieux which foundered in a heavy gale off Newfoundland were speeding toward their homes in avrious parts of the Dominion today after passing through here.

Suffering from exposure as a result of drifting 21 days in an open lifeboat before being picked up by a Norwegian freigther, three more crew members are still in the hospital in Newfoundland. They are assistant cook Rene Savard, Debden, Sask.; assistant cook, Alentine McIntyre, Mount Stewart, P.E.I.; and Gordon Boehner, 16, Melville Cove, N.S.

Those heading for homes in New Brunswick, Central Canada and the West Coast are second engineer, Herbert Hibodeau, Chatham, N.B., wireless operator, George Schuthe, Vancouver; third engineer, Aurele Allard, Carleton, Que., able seaman, Reginald Mattison New Westminster, B.C., cook, T. M. Kiddie Verdun, Que.; and able seaman Allen Lyons Vancouver.

Rescue 'Most Magnificent'

Fourth Engineer William MacDonald of Halifax, remained here with several French members of the crew and Messboy Leland Mosher of Bayport, N.S.

MacDonald described the rescue as the "most magnificent piece of seamanship" he ever had seen.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Dec. 7—(CP)—Prices were unchanged at Hull and Stratford, Bacon - Hog Markets reporting early today.

Dressedweight: Hull $10.30, Stratford $10.25 plus transportation. Prices were unchanged at Chatham, liveweight $7.25, dressedweight $9.90.

Hogs Marketed in Belleville District

Some good lots of hogs marketed out of the Belleville district during the week of December 6th, 1940, are as follows:

		GRADE
		A	B			C
Name and Address:	No.	1	1	2	3	1	2	3	Premium
A. Dent, Belleville	8	6	2						$6.00
John Beatty, Foxboro	6	3	3						$3.00
John McColl, Frankford	5	5							$5.00
Geo. Burkett, Frankford	6	4	1			1			$3.00
W. Harder, Frankford	5	4	1						$4.00
J. A. Weese, Belleville	10	5	5						$5.00
S. R. Homan, Corbyville	5	4	1						$4.00
Mr. Embury, Corbyville	10	5	5						$5.00

Signed, W. M. GORDON,
Federal Dep't of Agriculture,
Canada Packers Limited,
Peterborough, Ont.

Produce Markets

Toronto—Wholesale prices (Ontario Department of Agriculture) today were:

EGGS
A-large	.38-.39
A-medium	.37-.38
A-pullets	.35-.36
Grade "B"	.35
Grade "C"	.28
BUTTER
Butter, No. 1	.32¾
Butter, No. 2	.31¾-.32
Churning Cream, No. 1	.32
Churning Cream, No 2	.29
POULTRY (Dressed)
Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.21
Chickens, Grade "A"—
Over 5 lbs.	.19
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.18
3 to 4 1-2 lbs.	.17
Fowl—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 lbs.	.13
(Live Poultry)
Broilers 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 lbs.	.15
Chickens—
Over 5 lbs.	.15
4 1-2 to 5 lbs.	.14
3 to 4 1-2 lbs	.12
Fowl:—
3 to 4 lbs	.10
Over 5 lbs.	.12
4 to 5 lbs.	.11
Ducks:—
5 lbs and over	.19
Under 5 lbs.	.18

Butter Prices Strong at 33c.

Toronto.—Ontario butter prices were boosted to the highest level in more than two years following publication of the nine cities' stock report that indicated the strongest Canadian supply position since the winter— of 1937-38 when the butter market hit an eight-year peak.

Holders offered sparingly from day to day and as these small quantities were snapped up fresh offerings could not be obtained except at advanced prices. Supplies were so light at times that they restricted the volume of business. Buying was on a smaller scale, but the market on first grade Ontario butter closed steady to firm 1 3-4 cents a pound higher on the week at 33 cents a pound. Prints to the retail trade moved upward in accordance with the increase in solids, top grades trading at 34 cents to 34 3-4 cents. Buyers also raised the price on churning cream from 31 cents to 32 cents for No. 1 grades on truck country points.

Weather conditions had little effect on deliveries of fresh receipts on the egg market during the week and supplies were ample to cover local needs. Top grades were easy in quiet trading early this week, but the tone improved as demand picked up. Although inspected shipments to Northern Ontario were light, a fair volume of eggs in carlots and l.c.l. shipments went forward to Eastern points.

Receipts of dressed poultry arrived in reduced volume as a result of the bad roads. Local demand was fair, particularly for heavy chickens and a good out-of-town inquiry from Eastern points was reported, the light supply retarded storing activities. Fowl were scarce.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, Dec. 7.—Produce market prices here as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

Butter — First-grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 33 1-2c to 34c; first-grade solids, jobbing price, 33c to 33 1-2c.

Eggs—Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 37c; A-medium, 33c to 34c; A-pullets, 32c to 33c; A-large original, 31c to 32c; B-original, 31c to 32c; B-original, 30c; C-original, 25c. Receipts: 503 cases.

Indo-China Border Towns Machine-Gunned

Hanoi, French Indo-China, Dec. 7 (AP)—The colonial government said today that two Indo-China border towns were machine-gunned by Thailanders (Siamese) yesterday.

A low-flying Thai plane sprayed the waterfront on Vientiane, important border town, with machine gun bullets, and Poipet was fired upon from across the Mekong River, the government said. No casualties were reported.

Indo-Chinese forces did not retaliate, the colonial authorities added. They said "many hundreds" of Communists had been arrested, meanwhile, in a drive against subversive elements in Indo-China.

Stop-the-War Candidate In English By-Election Turned Down Decisively

Northampton, England, Dec. 7—(CP Cable)—Gerard Summers, 38, Conservative, was elected to the House of Commons from Northampton in a by-election today, defeating W. S. Seamark, 37, local butcher running as a Stop-the-War candidate.

The vote was 16,587 to 1,167. In the 1935 general election Sir Mervyn Manningham-Buller, Conservative, polled 25,438 votes to 23,983 for R. T. Paget, Labor.

Mr. Seamark, who described himself as a Christian Pacifist, was the 10th Stop-the-War candidate to forfeit his deposit in by-elections since the war began.

Mr. Summers, after his election became known, said that "after having received cables direct from Canadian friends, I know how pleased they will be to learn of yet another instance of Britain's determination to fight on to victory."

HOUSE ADJOURNS

(Continued from Page One)

hibit or licence imports from non-sterling areas, tax luxuries and semi-essentials, and encourage export industry.

Final hours of the month's sitting were featured in both chambers by renewed opposition charges that the government has taken upon itself rights and powers which should be reserved for parliament.

Hanson Sounds Keynote

Conservative House Leader Hanson sounded the keynote of this complaint in the Commons. His comments were prompted by a section of the war exchange conservation act which empowers the government to relieve selected industries from taxation when by so doing exports can be encouraged to countries whose exchange is needed for war purposes.

Mr. Hanson also was critical of the power given the Revenue Minister to licence imports from non-sterling countries, claiming this was too great a responsibility for one man.

In the Senate, Conservative Leader Meighen condemned the section of the legislation which gave the government these extraordinary powers.

Questioned Procedure

He said it was a complete "abdication" of the rights of parliament. He was in accord with all the measures designed to conserve exchange but questioned the procedure adopted.

He followed the course of many Opposition members in the House in protesting failure of the government to include fruits and vegetables in the list of imports prohibited from non-sterling countries.

Finance Minister Ilsley, who piloted the measures through the House, had difficulty in maintaining in the minds of members the fact the measures were to meet a war emergency created by a scarcity of foreign exchange, needed to buy war requirements abroad.

Treat Every Case on Merits

With respect to the powers taken to assist certain industries to expand exports, he said it was impossible to present a specific formula because every case would have to be treated on its merits.

Where the measures might be considered to interfere with domestic interests, such as the failure to prohibit fresh fruits and vegetables, he emphasized it was not the purpose of the bills to help local producers but conserve exchange.

During the debate yesterday Mr. Hanson suggested that industries should not be "taxed to death" but permitted to build up reserves during the war boom so they could maintain employment if a depression followed the war.

Mr. Ilsley reminded the Conservative House leader that last June when heavy excess profits taxes were imposed he had advocated a 100 per cent. tax instead of the 75 per cent proposed and enacted.

He said the Government was not disposed to withdraw from the stand then taken that no enterprise would be permitted to build up profits and reserves because of wartime prosperity.

Miners Protest Removal

Members representing the coal mining districts of Alberta and the Maritimes protested the removal of duty on bituminous coal imported from the United Kingdom.

It was suggested that if this was done there should be some compensating restriction on coal imported from the United States.

The Prime Minister said the power development project now being studied by an international commission at the International Rapids in the St. Lawrence River near Cornwall, Ont., was so closely bound up with the deep seaway project envisaged in the earlier agreement that they could not be separated.

The project at the International Rapids contemplates a single stage development at Barnard Island with power houses on each side and a control dam above the power site.

Premier Makes Statement

Any property owners whose premises may be adversely or beneficially affected will be given an opportunity to be heard at the appropriate time, Mr. King said.

The Prime Minister made his statement in reply to a request from A. C. Casselman (Con. Grenville - Dundas) who asked for a statement in view of President Roosevelt's message on this subject made public at Detroit yesterday.

Mr. King recalled that the Niagara Falls Convention of 1929 and the larger Seaway Pact of 1932 had failed to gain approval of the United States Senate. It was then decided to combine the whole project in one agreement and active negotiations had been proceeding since last January.

Senator Dandurand then read to the Senate a statement made in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Mackenzie King concerning St. Lawrence power and waterways developments. Mr. King said that any agreement that might be reached by Canada and the United States would be submitted to the Dominion Parliament only after it had been approved "by the appropriate United States authorities."

APPOINTED AMBASSADOR

Tokyo, Dec. 7 (AP).—Kumatare Honda, former Japanese Ambassador to Germany and Turkey, today was appointed ambassador to the Wang Ching-Wei government of China in Nanking, succeeding Gen. Nobuyuki Abe.

Abe, a former premier took up his post as mabasador at Nanking last April.

CANADA'S

(Continued from Page One)

over such a large area, Bickersteth concluded that no central organization could hope to solve the problem and the educational effort must to a large extent be carried on by units themselves. Talks and instructions would be given to small groups of men in their own billet areas.

Educational officers will be appointed in each unit and will inaugurate a series of informal talks by members of the unit. Considerable responsibility for success of the program will fall on young officers. Padres also will assist.

Correspondence courses will be provided. Examinations will be written and credit certificates awarded which are recognized by Canadian schools and universities under an agreement worked out by the legion.

Instruction in Trades

Some formal classes possibly will be held but the wide dispersal, the blackout and lack of suitable accommodation will be big problems to surmount. Instruction in trades is planned, possibly at local technical schools.

Gen. McNaughton said trade schools in depots later will be available for such courses.

Col. W. Rae, overseas director of war services for the legion, said education eventually should be the responsibility of the army and any organization set up should be such as would be taken over by the army in due time.

A questionnaire is being distributed among the troops to determine details of their educational needs. The program will be developed on the basis of the replies.

ITALIAN TROOPS

(Continued from Page One)

Beyond these key towns the jumbled ridges through which the Greeks have driven their fierce counter-invasion of Albania drop away quickly to the coastal plain and lowlands along the Adriatic.

A government spokesman declared today that Greek advance units were pushing steadily beyond smoldering Porto Edda in fighting contact with the Italian rear guard which sought to cover the Fascist withdrawal up to the coastal road to Chimara, twenty miles north.

The Greeks made no immediate claim of capturing the artillery-battered Fascist base at Argirocastro, fifteen miles northeast of Porto Edda. The spokesman said, however, Italian forces there had suffered "heavy losses" and were in full flight toward Tepeleni, fifteen miles north, after "strong but fruitless resistance".

Drive a Spearhead.

The Greeks were said to be driving a spearhead toward Tepeleni from Premet, less than twenty miles east along the Viosa valley road.

The spokesman claimed other victories for Greek mountaineer regiments converging toward Elbasani, 25 miles from the Albanian capital of Tirana, along the Pogradetz-Elbasani road and up the Devol river valley northwest from Moskopolis.

(The official Turkish radio reported last night that the advancing Greeks had fired oil wells in the Devol valley, described as important sources of Italian supply.)

Vast Stores Found Hidden.

The Greeks reported that in addition to large quantities of supplies found undamaged by fires the retreating Italians were said to have started in Porto Edda, vast stores of war equipment and munitions had been discovered hidden underground at Koritza. This cache was said to include several thousand tons of equipment of which the Greeks declared 50 per cent could be used immediately against the Italians.

Greeks read with high interest of the replacement of Marshal Pietro Badoglio as chief of the Italian general staff, and a spokesman commented that the shift "does not create an encouraging atmosphere for the Italians, coming as it does in the midst of battle."

R.A.F. Scores Direct Hits

London, Dec. 7.— (CP)—Royal Air Force bombers were announced today to have made a new attack on Italian forces at the Albanian port of Valona and to have scored a direct hit on a munitions dump.

Clouds of black smoke billowed up from the port after the assault the Air Ministry Said. Bombs also exploded on an Italian motor truck concentration and on military buildings. All the British planes returned.

Counter-Attacks Claimed

Rome, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Italian counter-attacks were claimed today to have regained some of the positions from which Fascist forces were driven by the Greeks on the Albanian front.

The High Command said the Greeks continued to press strongly against the Italian left flank in the mountains west of Pogradetz, but described their operations in the Argirocastro sector on the other wing as limited to "local attacks".

The communique made no mention of Porto Edda, southwest of Argirocastro, announced in Athens as captured by the Greeks.

The High Command did not specify in what sector the Italians made the reported counter attacks The communique said only: "Our counter attacks have given us possession again of various positions".

START PROCEEDINGS

Bucharest, Rumania, Dec. 7—(AP)—Proceedings were started today against directors of the British-controlled Astra-Romano Oil Company charged with swindling the Rumanian Government of 2,000,000 lei through drilling wells allegedly infringing on state property.

All but one of the directors are Britons. They have left Rumania.

Eggs 2c. Lower On City Market

A steady downpour of rain which started in as a light drizzle at an early hour and continued with increased intensity throughout the morning was responsible for the smallest attendance of the season at the Saturday market. Residents from Prince Edward County in particular were unable to attend, due possibly to the fact that the mid-week snowstorm struck that area more severely than the district immediately north of Belleville.

Eggs slumped another two cents in price from last week's quotations, with Grade "A" large selling at 38c per dozen. Other grades were quoted at 35c and 32c per dozen. Butter remained at the same price, selling at 65c per two-pound roll. Although the quantity of fowl displayed was much less than usual, the quality was excellent with prices remaining at the usual figure of 25c per pound for chicken. Capons sold at 27c per pound with large well-finished birds being quoted at $1.65 for tops and ranging down to $1.00 each. Broilers sold at 80c and $1.00 per pair.

Only a scattered few vendors braved the outside market to cater to the equally few purchasers attending. Christmas trees were offered for the first time this season, reminding market-goers that the Yuletide season is right at hand. The trees, all of a small variety, sold at straight 25c each.

Vegetables remained steady with carrots, beets, turnips selling at 30c per peck. Parsnips were 40c, with potatoes selling at the usual price of $1.00 per 75-pound bag. Spy apples sold at 50c per peck or at $1.50 per hamper. Delicious were 50c per peck and Baldwins 35c. Cooking apples sold at $1.00 per hamper.

Pork by the quarter sold at 12c for fronts and 14c for hinds and 14c and 16c for light quarters Lamb by the quarter was 16c for fronts and 20c for hinds. Pickled pork sold at 18c for pieces and 20c sliced. Loin chops were 22c. Headcheese was 15c per pound and sausage 20c.

BERMUDA LAND

(Continued from Page One)

Looking to Canada

Bermuda is looking to Canada, as well, for more visitors. It hopes to get from the Dominion tourists who cannot now visit the dollar countries but may be permitted to travel in sterling areas.

Bermudians, too, are making every effort to give preference to Canadian-manufactured products. W. J. H. Trott, chairman of the Food Control Board, says: "This is only right, in the light of the contribution Canada is making to the Mother Country."

An indication of the economic trend is given in revenue figures presented to the Legislature. Last year, the finance committee estimated revenue of £226,426 (about $683,000.) Now, the estimate has risen by around 50 per cent.

Grateful for these developments, the colonial government is lending Britain £200,000 for 15 years free of interest and is to make further contributions annually as gifts.

SURVEY OF 1940

(Continued from Page One)

hut building was launched. When the 2nd Division moved overseas in the summer accommodation was available for the 3rd and 4th Divisions which were mobilized.

N.P.A.M. Activity

Early in the summer a recruiting campaign was launched to bring the Non-Permanent Active Militia now called the reserve army, up to full war strength so that it would serve as a reserve upon which active units could draw for recruits and reinforcements.

This campaign brought the militia up to some 112,000 men, of whom about 65,000 received two-weeks intensive training in camp.

Having attained this, voluntary recruiting for the reserve army was stopped and the compulsory scheme put into effect. Under this men were called into the reserve army by age classes, starting with age 21 and started their services with a period of 30 days in 39 training centres across the country.

More than 25,000 men were trained on the first call for Oct. 9, and more than 28,000 on the second, for Nov. 22.

The syllabus at the training centres includes march discipline, physical training, anti-gas training, rifle drill and musketry.

Training of C.A.S.F.

Overseas the 1st Division, after the fall of France, made its training conform to its probable responsibilities in the defence of Britain against a German invasion. The division practised extensively in rapid movement and extended operations. The 2nd Division on its arrival went through the same type of training and, to some extent the troops in Canada followed suit.

At Camp Borden the armored fighting vehicles training centre was organized as a nucleus of a possible Canadian tank division. An armored brigade was formed out of a number of mechanized cavalry and other units and the acquisition of some 200 old tanks from the United States made it possible for training of a larger number of men for tank duties to proceed.

Plans were made for training of troops in the use of skis during the present winter and the idea of parachute troops was considered as a possible development in preparation for an offensive stage in the war.

GEN. DE VECCHI

(Continued from Page One)

for war merits, has been named Governor of the Dodecanese and commander of those armed forces."

Closest Friend of Mussolini

This resignation followed that yesterday of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Chief of the Italian General Staff, who stepped out "on his own request."

De Vecchi, one of Mussolini's closest lieutenants, has held many posts of trust since, as a member of Il Duce's Quadumvir, he helped lead the "March on Rome" in 1922.

Only one other of the Quadrumvir—Gen. Emilio De Bono—is still a collaborator of Mussolini. He is Inspector General of the Italian forces overseas. The other two, Italo Balbo and Michele Bianchi, are dead.

De Vecchi's resignation, unlike Badoglio's, came as a surprise in Rome.

(The Dodecanese, lying between Turkey and Greece, are of considerable strategic importance, especially in the current Italian conflict with Greece.)

Awarded Grand Cross.

De Vecchi was appointed governor of the Dodecanese only a month after Mussolini made him governor of Rome.

He served as governor of Italian Somaliland from 1923 to 1928. In 1929 he was made Italian ambassador to the Holy See, first under the Lateran treaties of that year which ended the 59-year voluntary "imprisonment" of Popes within the Vatican.

He was awarded the Grand Cross of the Order of Pius IX by the Vatican in 1932 and held his ambassadorship until 1934, when he was made minister of education.

Prior to the march on Rome, he had served as president of the Fascist group in parliament. A permanent member of the Fascist council, he was given the title of count in 1925.

His successor, Gen. Bastico, was born in Bologna and was graduated from the war college in 1906 after serving as a subaltern in the 'Bersaglieri", plumed-hatted light infantry.

In the 1912 Italian-Turkish campaign, Bastico served as a balloon observer. He won a colonelcy and two decorations for valor in the first great war. He became a major general in 1932 and went to East Africa three years later as commander of Mussolini's pet division of Blackshirt fighters, known as the "Twenty third of March."

SECOND DIVISION

(Continued From Page One)

in their trucks for about 30 miles and went into billets selected by their captain in unused race course buildings.

They had hot and cold running water, red-hot stoves and clean sleeping and eating quarters. The whole detachment was enthusiastic about the new training scheme. After a night's sleep, they took physical training, went on a route march and in the afternoon moved in convoy through the surrounding countryside. Ferguson's report was quite favorable

Gnrs. John and Jim Robson of Winnipeg agreed with Gnr. E. Therrine of the same city that "the only trouble with this new training is that we don't stay out long enough; we would like a week at a time, for we get such a kick out of it."

Down at the cook house which was filled with the aroma of cooking stew, Gnrs. Art Arnold, Pete Fisher and Wally McLean, all Saskatoon, echoed the same sentiment.

"And you should see the lads eat," said Sgt. Jim Letham of Winnipeg. They did, too. The pot of stew disappeared like snow in an Alberta Chinook.

RCAF Pilot Believed Killed in Crash

Toronto, Dec. 7 (CP)—Training Command headquarters of the Royal Canadian Air Force here said a plane had fallen into a field in King Township, near Schomberg, 20 miles north of Toronto, today, and that at least one person, probably the pilot, was known to be dead.

Details were lacking but it was learned the plane was a Harvard Trainer from Camp Borden.

Weather conditions were poor today and visibility was low.

PRESENTING

An amazing array of Gifts for every taste (and purse.) Whether it's a 25c or a $10 one, we'll offer an adequate choice.

COME and LOOK!

GEORGE PAULEY
DRUGGIST Phone 105

Can Depend on Germans To Wage War Always In Most Brutal Fashion

Edmonton, Dec. 7 (CP)—Germans can be relied upon to wage the war "with the basest instincts of mankind," Edwin S. Johnson, former war correspondent with the Canadian Active Service Force for The Canadian Press, told the Edmonton Canadian Club at a luncheon Friday.

There is no difference between the German and the first Great War and the Nazis of today, said Mr. Johnson on a speaking tour before taking up his new post as military correspondent at Ottawa for The Canadian Press.

The two main problems before Great Britain were an effective solution for the night air raiders and the retention of the "lifeline" across the Atlantic, he stated.

Failure along both these lines would put Britain "in danger of a stalemate," but not defeat, as "we cannot be defeated," Mr. Johnson added.

Mr. Johnson said the east side of London was the hardest hit. "It is the most ghastly spectacle any human being ever set eyes on. Whole streets are reduced to heaps of rubble."

Mr. Johnson felt the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan which is turning out airmen at depots all across Canada, would provide "the turning point" in the war. Graduates of the plan and the blockade would combine to "soften up" the Germans, and eventually land forces would deliver the "knockout blow."

He said the Canadian troops who went to France last spring found hopeless confusion and no one around to give directions" The intelligence of the Canadian officers resulted in withdrawal with a minimum of losses.

Mr. Johnson told his listeners he had no official information, but he had been told £2,000,000,000 worth of equipment was lost by British forces in the withdrawal from the Continent.

Bound For Washington

Bound for Washington to straighten out dollar exchange "technicalities," Sir Frederick Philips, undersecretary of the British treasury, is shown as he arrived at New York on transatlantic clipper plane. Sir Frederick said that Britain was "able to stand" war cost of $45,000,000 a day.

U. S. Army Bomber Carries Woman Patient on Trip to Home in Chile

Miami, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP). — An over-water hop to Panama was laid out today for a United States army bomber speeding a former first lady of Chile to her native land in an effort to save her life.

Cause for cheer aboard the four-motored craft came from a report that Senora Carlos Davila, wife of the one-time President of Chile, withstood "remarkably well" a six-hour flight from New York yesterday.

As a result of President Roosevelt's intervention, Senora Davila is scheduled to arrive Monday at Santiago, Chile, where physicians say she has a chance to rally in the mild climate and familiar surroundings from a serious illness which two operations failed to cure.

Senora Davila used the plane's radio yesterday to thank Mr. Roosevelt for discarding precedent and arranging for an army bomber not only to take a woman aloft for the first time, but also to make the first flight to a foreign country with a civilian aboard.

Mr. Roosevelt placed the plane at the disposal of Davila last Wednesday when he learned physicians considered a trip by steamship or commercial plane too slow.

Davila was Chilean ambassador to the United States before he became chief executive.

Christmas Concerts

Holloway Street Sunday School

HOLLOWAY ST. Sunday School held their regular Christmas Concert last evening in the Sunday School rooms. They departed from the usual custom of each class or groups putting on a number and instead just had two main features, one a Mother Goose play for the youngsters four to nine and a cantata pageant "Pilgrims to Bethlehem" for the rest of the school. Both were excellently portrayed, the pupils taking their individual parts amazingly well. This, together with the costumes, and appropriate lighting effects, made it an entertainment well worth seeing.

The attendance well showed the interest in the concert because every chair and available standing space was taken, in fact such interest and enthusiasm was shown that the executive of the school decided to again have the pupils put on the concert Monday evening of next week.

The Mother Goose play was an adaptation of three different Mother Goose plays. It portrayed a visit to Mother Goose Island by Miss Bright, a school teacher and her pupils during the Christmas holidays. Luckily they arrived at the time when the Mother Goose children had planned a Christmas party for Mother Goose, so they all shared in the party. The parts taken were as follows: Mother Goose, Helen Brown; her family, Old King Cole, Ronald Thomas; Three Fiddlers, Keith Latchford, Bobby Sinfield and Ronald Guest; Little Boy Blue, Robert Reid; Jack Horner, Robert Howard; Little Bo Peep, Marion Atkinson; Simple Simon, Donald Rose; Queen of Hearts Joan Britton; Jack and Jill, Jim Calnan and Jean Cooper; Red Riding Hood, June Archer; Miss Muffett, Carolyn Ricketts; Tommy Tucker, Bobby Dobbs; Jack Spratt and His Wife, Billy Campbell and Doreen Matthews; Spirit of Christmas, Barbara Allen; Cross Patch, Jean Watson; Mistress Mary, Dorothy Sopha; Little Polly Flinders, Margaret Steed; Polly Put the Kettle On, Doris Daynard; Three Kittens, Jean Zebedee, Viola Archer and Marion Nevery; Tom, Tom the Piper's Son, Arnold Connolly; Miss Bright, Lois Liddle; Pupils, LeRoy, Murray Lennox, Shirley Day, Betty Sinfield, Barbara Rose; Trees, Jim Bray, Jim Britton, Chas. Delong; Flowers, Ruth Nevery, Maralyn Shoebridge, Barbara Brant, June Munn; Dolls, sixteen little tots, four and five years old.

The pageant, "Pilgrims to Bethlehem," illustrated a few of the types of pilgrims journeying to Bethlehem for the enrollment, young, mature or aged they were, bitter, worried, hopeless over the prospect of added burdens. Remembrance comforts them with the promise of the Messiah. Joseph, among others, comes. The shepherds encouraging him, are sure that he and Mary will find shelter. Night comes and with it the angel announcing the birth.

An interlude brings the return of the shepherds and pilgrims joyously singing the glad tidings.

The second scene is the nativity; very beautifully portrayed with Remembrance and the angel present. At the call of angel, pilgrims of today come. The children, the givers, the penitent, the seekers, youth, home, wisdom, talent and toil, with a final appeal to all to seek by faith the manger and to worship the Christ. The scenes throughout this pageant were beautiful. The main speaking parts were taken as follows: Remembrance, Marion Kilbank; Angel, Shirley Hitchon; Jared, Harry Denton; Ruth, Jean Sherry; Caleb, Frank Morton; Miriam, Gwen Burley; Lorah, Jean Scott; David, Lloyd Greatrix; Marah, Dorcas Hennessey; Joseph, Lloyd Downey; Mary, Ruth Olliphant; Shepherds, Dwight Dilts, Ross Green, Allen Green and Doug Denyes; Penitence, Barbara Lloyd; Captive, Rosslyn Robertson; Home, Marion Varley; Talent, Shirley Olliphant; Wisdom, Arnold Dilts; Toil, Ralph Greatrix; Youth, Jean Grills.

Besides these there were groups of Judean Maidens, Stars, Blossoms, Singing Children, Givers, Pilgrims and a choir.

During the pageant solos were sung by Joan Cafley, Dwight Dilts, Mr. Mortimer, Arnold Dilts and Rosslyn Robertson.

Although Santa wasn't expected, he arrived just before the evening closed and gave each teacher candies and oranges for their pupils.

Victoria Avenue Baptist Church

THE auditorium of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church was packed to capacity Friday evening when the Sunday School presented its annual Christmas entertainment. The efforts of the pupils attested to the painstaking coaching of their teachers and the audience was not slow in showing its appreciation of the many fine offerings on the programme.

The plays and drills by the intermediate and senior girls were cleverly done and the songs and recitations of the little tots which were interspersed throughout the long programme provoked spontaneous applause and merriment from the crowd. Deserving of especial praise are Miss Elsie Foreman, Miss Mary Cook, Miss Clare Hitchon, and Miss M. Payers for their capable direction of the little folk. The hard work of these ladies was amply repaid by the splendid performance of their pupils.

Following is the programme:

Carol, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing"; National Anthem; Opening Prayer, Rev. C. T. Olmstead; Chairman's Remarks, Allan Haw; Exercise, Christmas Broadcast, Announcer, Douglas Soule, Primary and Beginners; Opening Address, Jimmy Simpson; Welcome Committee and Chorus, "Singing Happy Christmas", Primary and Beginners; Drill and Chorus, Mrs. Lloyd's Class; Recitation, "A Trick on Santa," by Neddie Gray; Chorus, "Ring the Bells of Christmas," Primary and Beginners; Recitation, "My Daddy Says So," Marilyn Wright; Play, Mrs. Olmstead's Class; Trio and Chorus, "Glory to God", Soule Brothers and Primary and Beginners; Recitation, "Santa's Plight," Ralph Neal; Chorus, "Merry Christmas Bells," Mrs. Lloyd's Class; Play, Mrs. Stortt's; Class, "Christmas as You Like it"; Recitation, "Poor Santa Claus," Russell Soule; Exercise and Chorus, "Travel by a Star," Song, "Shine Christmas Light," Primary and Beginners; Recitation, "Precious Babies," Gloria Haw; Fun and Frolic on Christmas Eve, Primary and Beginners; Recitation, "Come Again," Alice Moore, Joyce Stortts, Joan Faulkner; Christmas Verse and Closing Prayer, Dear Father in Heaven; "O Little Town of Bethlehem," Primary and Beginners; Pantomime, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," Miss Nurse's Class; Play, Mrs. Franklin's Class, "The Guest at the Inn;" Benediction, Rev. C. T. Olmstead.

The War Today

By GUY RHOADES,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Re-arrangement of Italy's command in the unsuccessful war against Greece so far has brought no better results from the Italian viewpoint.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio, one of Italy's most distinguished soldiers, has been removed from command of the Italian army "at his own request" and has been replaced by Gen. Ugo Cavallero whose politics are more in keeping with Mussolini's doctrine. Count Cesare De Vecchi has quit as governor of the Dodecanese Islands.

The change of command, heralded by no trumpets in Rome, preceded by a few hours the collapse of the Italian defence at Porto Edda, one of the main Italian bases and an important debarkation point in "liberated" Albania. The town is named for Mussolini's eldest daughter, wife of Count Ciano who is reported in some circles to be next on the list of Italian official resignees.

The Duce's ill judgment in making war on Greece appeared increasingly likely to catch up with him as evidence mounted of Greek stout-heartedness and Italian lack of lust for battle.

Badoglio himself apparently lacked that lust, probably because his troops were inadequately supplied with the means to fight and, almost undoubtedly, were poor spirited as a consequence.

No one will doubt the toughness of the Greeks, but even bearing in mind their stout heartedness and the fact they were fighting for their homes, there is slight reason for Italy's sensational failure other than incompetence.

It appears from conversation in neutral countries that the hearts of the Greeks have been in the fight and the hearts of the Italians out of it.

A blazing-mad little waiter told your correspondent the other day: "The Wops are bombing Patras and I got a kid son there. I hope he's in the army."

An Italo-American cab driver said: "I would like to see Badoglio Premier of Italy so the people I came from can lead decent lives."

There is little doubt that the idea the Italians have been badly advised and badly led will be fostered. British propaganda officers would be thoroughly asleep if they did not seek to convey to the Italian people the sense that their government has let them down, as it undoubtedly has through sheer ineptitude.

Mussolini, a provincial journalist whom Badoglio once offered to defeat with one regiment, had a nice flare for drying pontine marshes and rebuilding historic sites, but as a successor to the Caesars he appears at the moment to have been a flop and a first rate embarrassment to his German friends across the Brenner Pass.

If Mussolini should collapse his failure might result largely from the nature of the people he seeks to rule. The ordinary good-natured Italian probably sees little reason for fighting the Greeks and the Italian soldier undoubtedly does not enjoy doing it.

He probably is fed up also with seeing the sudden eclipse of such popular persons as Italo Balbo, Marshal Di Bono and, now, Pietro Bagoglio and Count Cesare De Vecchi.

RHEUMATIC
Aches and Pains

If just one bottle of Ru-Ma does not show you the quick, easy way to get real relief from rheumatic aches and pains, it costs you nothing.

Don't suffer longer; try Ru-Ma today and if you are not pleased with the results your money will be refunded by J. S. McKeown. This is a generous offer to all rheumatic sufferers.

WILL HE REGAIN ALBANIAN THRONE ?

King Zog, deposed ruler of Albania, his wife, Queen Geraldine and their son, Crown Prince Alexander, pictured when they left their London residence for a stroll. Zog was dethroned when Italy's legions conquered his tiny kingdom at the time of the birth of the child. The world now sees a possibility of Zog regaining his throne if reported successes against Italians in Albania are concluded with the driving out of Fascist forces from the land.

November Activities Of St. Julien Chapter

There was a good attendance of officers and members of the St. Julien Chapter I.O.D.E. regular monthly business meeting. The Regent, Mrs. Neate in the chair.

The following reports show that the chapter has had another busy month. The treasurer, Mrs. Lang, reported on the Chapter's finances in both war and chapter accounts, and the auditors reported the books had been audited and found correct. The treasurer also reported that, after a rough estimate she found the chapter has raised, since the war was declared, well over $3000 for war work alone.

Mrs. Watkin, war convener, reported that the chapter and auxiliaries had turned in during the month, 68 pairs socks, 20 sweaters, 27 tuck-ins, 12 pairs mitts, 7 helmets, 6 scarfs. The following comforts have been distributed: 13 pairs of socks, 2 tuck-ins, 1 sweater, 1 pair mitts and 1 helmet to individual Belleville boys home on leave. To Capt. R. B. Cooper, Petawawa: 24 pairs mitts, 15 wristlets, 2 scarfs, 1 helmet and 1 tuck-in. Shipment to I.O.D.E. headquarters, Hamilton, to be forwarded to the bombed area of Britain: 11 quilts, a coat, vest and 1 sweater. On Nov. 9 a parcel containing 24 pairs socks and under separate cover, 4000 cigarettes were shipped to Base Post Office, Canada, addressed to Col. H. D. Graham, O.C. Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, overseas, to be distributed among the Belleville boys of his unit.

The Regent reported that nearly all the "Ditty Bags" for our Canadian sailors at both coasts, were ready to be packed and shipped. The following is a list of comforts furnished for these bags by the chapter; 91 pairs navy socks, 57 navy tuckins, 40 navy sweaters, 13 navy scarfs, 10 navy helmets, 7 pairs of wristlets, 2 pairs mitts and 1 Balaclava cap. There were 65 of these bags, and the chapter is very grateful to all donors who filled bags or contributed articles or money to buy contents for bags; also those who bought their own wool and knitted comforts for their own bags. Other donations to chapter: 5 beautiful quilts from the eighth concession of Tyendinaga Auxiliary Group of the I.O.D.E. This group of ladies organized for war work Nov. 6, and expressed a wish to become an auxiliary of the St. Julien Chapter I. O. D. E.

The Melrose W.I. are also very helpful with their donations in the past, and this month have donated two quilt throws and a nice lot of children's garments for the bombed areas of Britain. Mrs. Maybe of 72 Highland avenue donated two pretty quilt tops which she patched herself. There were several donations of money which are always thankfully received. Six new members joined the chapter in November. The $5 educational prize was presented to Mary Agnes Wilkinson of St. Michael's Academy. Mrs. Neate presenting it on behalf of the chapter. Gross receipts for rummage sale of Nov. 23 were $59.12. This amount was added to the chapter bank account by a unanimous vote on motion, as this account had become more or less depleted by the issue of the following cheques: $25 voted to Sea Cadet movement, $10 voted to endowment fund, wreath for cenotaph, etc. From the war account $50 was voted to the Navy League of Canada, in answer to a special plea.

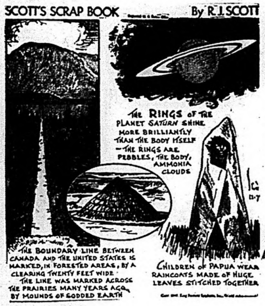
The sewing committee reported making children's cloth coats from material furnished by the local Red Cross.

The chapter wishes to express their grateful appreciation to Mr. Harold Carruthers and Mr. Syd. Samuels, managers of the Trianon Ballroom for the donation of their dance hall free of charge, also their courteous help preceding and during the dance. They also wish to thank the merchants who donated the advertisements which helped defray expenses of the programs and dance; Mrs. Lillian Ashley and her talented artists who put on the floor show.

St. Julien Chapter feels deeply indebted to Mrs. Ashley and her class as this is the second time they have given their services gratis and unsolicited. Thanks is also due Mr. F. G. Marsh for soliciting the advertisements, and the press for their co-operation at all times.

At a request by letter from I.O.D.E. headquarters, a hospitality convener was appointed by the Regent, namely Mrs. Arthur Simpson, Foster avenue.

The secretary also read a letter from headquarters in which the chapter was asked to contribute to a fund for temporary financial relief for British war guests and their children who are inconvenienced by foreign exchange regulations. This is embarrassing for our war guests who have to depend so much on their hosts. The Regent said she would take the matter up more fully at next Monday's meeting.



SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK
By R. J. SCOTT
THE RINGS OF THE PLANET SATURN SHINE MORE BRILLIANTLY THAN THE BODY ITSELF —THE RINGS ARE PEBBLES, THE BODY, AMMONIA CLOUDS
THE BOUNDARY LINE BETWEEN CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES IS MARKED, IN FORESTED AREAS, BY A CLEARING TWENTY FEET WIDE
THE LINE WAS MARKED ACROSS THE PRAIRIES MANY YEARS AGO BY MOUNDS OF SODDED EARTH
CHILDREN OF PAPUA WEAR RAINCOATS MADE OF HUGE LEAVES STITCHED TOGETHER 12-7

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK
By R. J. SCOTT
GRASS MUSTACHIOS ARE WORN BY THE RIVER TRIBESMEN OF NEW GUINEA, SINCE NATURE DOES NOT PROVIDE UPPER-LIP DECORATION OF SATISFACTORY SIZE — THE LONG BLADES ARE PUSHED BETWEEN THE DIVIDING CARTILAGES OF THEIR NOSES
DANIEL FREDERICK BAKEMAN WAS THE LAST REVOLUTIONARY WAR SOLDIER — HE DIED APRIL 5, 1869
DALARNA TOY HORSES WERE USED AS MONEY IN SWEDEN AS LATE AS 1900

AMERICANS SERVE IN BRITISH HOME GUARD

Yanks on the spot are these members of the British home guard. Residents in England when the war broke out they have enrolled into home guard units ready to fight off any invasion attempt. This photograph was made at recent manoeuvres under command of Gen. Wade Hayes, who was one of Pershing's generals in the last war.

ITALIAN BOMBER DOWNED BY ACK-ACKS

A British soldier is pictured looking over the remains of one of Il Duce's Fiat bombers, which was shot down by British anti-aircraft during a recent aerial attack on the southeast coast of England. During this day's attack, 26 enemy planes were brought down, 14 of them Italian.

DOWNED BOMBER DOWNS HOUSES

Wrecked itself in the crash this Nazi bomber demolished two houses into which it crashed after being shot down at a village in Kent. The Nazi pilot was killed in the crash, but his cargo of bombs did not explode. Wreckage of the plane is shown amid wreckage of the houses.

MARSHAL RESIGNS

Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian armies, and called "Italy's greatest living soldier," has resigned as chief of the general staff, it was announced in Rome. He is replaced by Gen. Ugo Cavalero, an obscure army veteran.

CRASH OF AIRLINER KILLS 6, INJURES 11

A general view of the airliner which crashed within a few hundred feet of the Chicago municipal airport, killing five persons and injuring 11 others. In-bound from Cleveland, the plane was about to land when it struck the top of a house, tearing off its motors and then spun around and hit some power lines. Heavy ice formation on the wings was thought to be the cause of the crash.

Probabilities

Lower Lake region: Cloudy and milder tonight and part of Tuesday with light snow or rain; somewhat colder again Tuesday night; strong south to southwest winds or moderate gales tonight, shifting to northwest late Tuesday.

The Ontario Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO MONDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1940

Temperatures

	Max.	Min.
Today	16	6
Year ago	44	35.5

Weather—Cloudy.

GREEKS HAMMER AT RETREATING ITALIANS

PROPERTY DAMAGE WIDESPREAD IN LONDON

British Capture 500 Italians In Egyptian Desert

Greeks Fight Way Toward Junction Town of Tepeleni

Argirocastro Taken And Retreating Italians Spurred Along by Greek Cavalry, Machine-Gunning From Airplanes

By MAX HARRELSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Athens, Dec. 9 (AP)—Fierce fighting beyond Argirocastro was reported today between Greece's advancing army and the Italian rearguard, strongly entrenched to cover the retreat of the main Fascist body to the north and west.

With Argirocastro, last of Italy's Southeast Albanian bases behind them, Greek soldiers launched into the new swift follow-up attack with cries of "On to Valona!"

Valona, next Albanian sea gateway for Italian supplies in the Greek path, is about 40 miles northwest of Argirocastro. About midway on that line lies Tepeleni, a road junction, toward which the Greeks are fighting from the East and South. Their goal, shouted as a battle slogan, is "Tirana by Christmas!" Tirana is Albania's capital.

Three-Day Celebration

Capture of Argirocastro yesterday, two days after the fall of Italy's southernmost Albanian port, Porto Edda, touched off a three-day celebration. Rather than by direct assault, it was disclosed, the inland base was occupied after it had been flanked from east and west, forcing the Italians to withdraw

(Continued on Page Eleven)

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Dec. 9—(CP)—The weather has been somewhat colder in Ontario over the week-end with light snow in many districts. Snowfalls have occurred in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, also light snow in some parts of Alberta where it continues comparatively mild.

PLACE:	8 a.m.	High Yest'dy	Low During Night
Vancouver	41	48	40
Victoria	40	50	38
Edmonton	33	36	32
Winnipeg	22	28	21
S. S. Marie	21	17	14
Toronto	26	30	25
Ottawa	—8	36	—9
Quebec	10	37	10
Halifax	43	52	40
Detroit	27	30	26
New York	30	47	30
Miami	58	80	58
Los Angeles	58	82	57

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Climatic change! Nearly everyone believes that the climate is changing, meaning that it is changing in our own time and generation. Some of the reasons given are that the winters are either more or less severe, that the rainfall is heavier or lighter, that the summers are cooler or warmer, or other data. There may be many facts that seem to indicate climatic change, but one is only justified in assuming that the climate is changing only after a careful analysis of all information. For instance, a region may have a few years of decreased rainfall that justifies the inhabitants in moving away, because there was barely enough moisture under normal conditions. This migration is not good evidence, because later on normal rainfall may again prevail.

TREASURY GETS BRITISH BALANCE SHEET AT PARLEY

Senator Adams Advocates Giving Britain 60 Per Cent of Planes Made in United States

SEN. NYE CRITICAL

Washington, Dec 9 (AP)—Sir Frederick Phillips, Under-Secretary of the British Treasury, cancelled an appointment he had at the United States Treasury today at which he had been expected to present a "balance sheet of British resources and the cost of supplies in the United States."

Sir Frederick told reporters after visiting Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Friday that he would present such a statement Monday.

Treasury officials said Sir Frederick apparently had not completed the data which he planned to present. They added that no new appointment had been made, but that they expected Sir Frederick tomorrow.

Meanwhile a fresh series of arguments for and against greater aid to Britain were advanced on Capitol Hill.

This debate—unofficial but spirited—proceeded with one eye on Sir Frederick's next meeting at the Treasury.

The agenda of the second meeting called for an examination of the British balance sheet, on which Sir Frederick worked over the week-end. The financial picture it discloses may determine the consideration to be accorded any future proposals involving cash or credit assistance.

(Continued on page 4)

JAPANESE AGENCY SAYS CHINESE POLICE SEIZE GOLD INGOTS

New York, Dec. 9—(AP)—Domei, Japanese News Agency, said in a broadcast today that Chinese police of the Nanking regime had boarded the British steamship Hsin Peking at Shanghai and seized gold ingots valued at $320,000.

It added that the gold was believed to have come from Tientsin. The Hsin Peking is a 2,104-ton vessel in the China coastal service. No reason for the seizure was given. Japan recognizes the Nanking regime as the Government of China.

ITALIAN NAVY FUNCTIONS UNDER NEW COMMAND

Admiral D. Cavagneri Resigns as Naval Chief of Staff and Two Appointments Made

AIR GENERALS KILLED

Overhauling of Italian War Machine Due as Much to Political as to Military Necessity

Rome, Dec 9 (AP)—The Italian Navy, as well as the army, functioned under new command today after a shake-up by which Mussolini apparently hopes to intensify the nation's war efforts.

Admiral Arturo Riccardi, 62, became Naval Chief of Staff and Undersecretary of the Navy—Mussolini holds the naval portfolio himself—following the resignation yesterday of Admiral Domenico Cavagnari. Admiral Angelo Jachino was given the title "Commander of the Fleet on the Sea," and Admiral Iningo Campione was made Vice-Chief of the Naval Staff.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

APPEAL MADE TO HELP GREEKS

Lord Mayor of London Asking for Funds to Help Dependents of Greek Soldiers

London, Dec. 9 (CP)—The Lord Mayor of London, Sir George Wilkinson, appealed to the British people in a broadcast last night to contribute to a fund to help families of Greek soldiers, the British Broadcasting Corporation said.

"We owe it to these men who are fighting so bravely that their families shall be properly cared for in their absence," the Lord Mayor said.

The BBC said an Anglo-Hellenic Committee has been set up in Athens to administer the fund. Gifts could be sent to the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House, London.

NOTHING BUT BANANAS

Pittsburgh, Dec 9 (AP)—It's bananas for breakfast, lunch and dinner for two-year-old Lucille Tielsch, who is suffering from celiac disease which renders her allergic to fats. For two months she has eaten an average of 100 pounds of bananas every 10 days. Physicians said for the next two years her diet will be largely bananas.

U. S. Defence Authorities Intensify Efforts to Speed Up on War Orders

Washington, Dec 9 (AP)—Roused to greater action by their increasingly grave apprehensions for the peace and security of the American continent, United States National Defence authorities are intensifying efforts to speed up production of all defence essentials to an 'all-out' wartime tempo.

High ranking officials disclosed today that—impelled by recent events in Europe and Asia—the major and urgent topics at the almost daily conferences of Cabinet and National Defence Commission members are speed and greatly expanded production of planes, ships and munitions.

Pushing the "speed up" program aggressively, administration officials now are also emphasizing the urgency and magnitude of the task of providing armed strength—for Britain, Greece, China and the American Republics as well as for the United States—at officially inspired round table discussions with industrial and labor leaders.

William S. Knudsen, Defence Production Chief, sounded the keynote of the production drive in an address last week at Detroit when he called on industry for "speed and more speed" in producing modern war weapons as the "best insurance to keep us out of war."

State Secretary Cordell Hull, War Secretary Henry Stimson, Navy Secretary Frank Knox, and Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau have been among the most outspoken, privately and publicly, in urging industry, labor and the average citizen to awaken to the need for accelerated production of war materials.

A new and powerful recruit joined them when Senator Walter George (Deb-Georgia), new chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee advocated round-the-clock production to step up plane, ship and munitions manufacture from a peacetime to a wartime pace.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

British Army Contacts Enemy 'On Broad Front' In Western Egypt

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 9 (AP)—British forces have made contact with the Italians "on a broad front" in the western Egyptian desert and have taken 500 prisoners in an engagement south of Sidi Barrani, the British African Command announced today.

This front has long been dormant, with the British Command preventing the Italians from driving further into Egypt from Sidi Barrani, 70 miles inside the western front.

The action was described as between British "advance elements" and the Italians.

The Italians, under Marshal Graziani, crossed the Libyan-Egyptian frontier last summer and marched along the coast to Sidi Barrani. From there they have made no important progress for the last three months.

British authorities declare they are ready for any Fascist offensive in Egypt if that is what Premier Mussolini's changes in the Italian High Command mean. The official statement did not indicate which side took the initiative, British or Italian.

Graziani Reluctant to Risk Offensive

So far apparently, Graziana has been reluctant to risk an offensive, with the necessity of moving supplies — especially water — over poor road communications, against Britain's well-organized transport system, including a railroad to their front lines.

Although superior to the British in manpower and material, observers say, the first months of the war in the Mediterranean have shown Italy lacking striking power.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

MANY NAZI BASES ON THE CONTINENT HEAVILY BOMBED

British Fliers Report Biggest Fire Seen During War Started at Duesseldorf

AIRDROMES ALSO HIT

London, Dec. 9 (CP)—A great fire was started by Royal Air Force night bombers among buildings between two of the dock basins in the German-held French port of Bordeaux, the Air Ministry News Service announced today.

This was part of far-flung British air attacks last night in which, the Air Ministry said, R.A.F. bombers raided industrial and military targets in the Duesseldorf area of Germany, the submarine base at the French Atlantic port of Lorient, the harbors of Bordeaux, Brest, Flushing, Dunkirk and Gravelines and "several enemy airdromes."

(Continued on Page Eleven)

SEES NO HOPE OF SETTLEMENT

Governor-General of French Indo-China Refers to Dispute With Thailand

Hanoi, French Indo-China, Dec. 9.—(AP)— Admiral Jean Decoux, governor-general, holds little hope of an imminent settlement of the border dispute with Thailand (Siam).

In an interview granted amid reports of mounting frontier hostilities, he said yesterday "the French attitude remains unchanged and no new grounds for conversations are being sought".

Despite military concessions to Japan in the north and her troubles with Thailand in the south and west, Indo-China intends to retain complete authority within her borders, he said.

In this connection he added that "Indo-China has not received any Japanese demands regarding south Indo-China".

Thailand has completed the evacuation of all her Nationals living in Indo-China and communications between the two countries are severed except for a cable link via Singapore.

Admiral Decoux said France's offer to put the border dispute in hands of a neutral commission was answered by Thailand's "rude radio, press and handbill campaign".

POLICE DISCLOSE LARGE-SCALE PLAN TO CAPTURE VOTE

Vote "Telegraphing" Thru Use of Bogus National Registration Cards Scheme to be Used

NUMBER ARRESTED

Montreal, Dec. 9 (CP)—Montreal electors chose a new mayor from nine candidates today, amid discussion of the last-minute wrecking of a large-scale plan for vote "telegraphing" through the use of bogus National Registration cards.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police disclosed the telegraphing scheme last night after they had raided a printing plant in nearby Verdun. Five men were arrested, two of them after police had found them in the committee-room of J. Adhemar Raynault, one of the mayoralty candidates. They were charged with being in possession of fake cards.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

REVIEWS BRITISH CONTRIBUTION

H. R. MacMillan of War Requirements Board Says Canada's Per Capita Contribution to War Effort Far Below Britain's

Toronto, Dec. 9 (CP)—H. R. MacMillan of Vancouver, Chairman of the War Requirements Board and President of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said today Canada's per capita contribution to the war effort is still much less than that in Great Britain because Canadians have not yet caught the spirit of the cause.

In a luncheon address to the Canadian Club here, Mr. MacMillan reviewed Britain's accomplishments and said that if Canadians were doing as much on a per capita comparison, Canada would have 550,000 men in uniform, would have 1,400,000 men working on munitions and would spend $12,000,000 per day on the war.

Canada's Assets Important

He said the public would not grasp for months the extent of Canada's war commitments, already involving immense factory extensions and in some cases industrialization of new areas. The fate of the British Commonwealth may yet turn on Canada's assets, he added, on the Dominion's bomb-free factories and the short haul to the firing line for munitions, planes, shells, guns, tanks, ships, food, metals and lumber.

BRITISH CRUISER INTERCEPTS NAZI SHIP NEAR CUBA

Freighter Idarwald Attempting to Run Blockade is Either Sunk or in British Hands

DISTRESS CALL HEARD

No Word From German Freighter, Rhein, Which Accompanied Idarwald in Dash From Tampico

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—The United States Navy Department said today the German freighter Idarwald was in possession of the British cruiser Diomede after an unsuccessful attempt to run the British blockade from Mexico.

Navy sources said the British warship seized the Idarwald after the crew of the German vessel had attempted to scuttle her.

Navy officials declined today to discuss any further details.

Havana, Cuba, Dec. 9.—(AP) — The 5,033-ton German freighter Idarwald, her attempt to run the British blockade a failure, either was in British hands today or at the bottom of the sea.

A British cruiser intercepted the Idarwald off the South Cuban Coast yesterday.

Conflicting reports, however, left in doubt the ultimate fate of the vessel, which sailed from Tampico, Mexico, Nov. 29, en route to Spain.

The Cuban Navy said the ship was reported sinking after being torpedoed, the crew escaping in small boats.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Split Between Fascists and Army Growing

(By J. F. Sanderson)

London, Dec. 9.—(CP) — Reports reaching London said today that there has been rioting within the last fortnight at Naples, Padua, Venice and Milan. Whether they are serious disorders or merely spontaneous protests is not known, but observers here believe they indicate the serious domestic situation being faced by Mussolini in Italy.

It is emphasized here that Italy is not lurching toward an imminent collapse. But the view is held in official circles that she is "getting groggy". There appears to be growing unrest and dissilusionment among the Italian people and if steady blows can be struck against her, Italy will reach the point within a measurable period where collapse will be unavoidable, qualified sources say.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Heavy Nazi Air Attacks Beat on London in Night

Nine Hospitals, Catholic Church, Ambulance Station Among Places Struck By Indiscriminate Bombing

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 9 (CP Cable)—London was subjected to more than 12 hours of pounding in a mass attack by German airplanes during the night which observers estimated to be one of the heaviest the capital has suffered yet.

Residents who listened hour after hour to the unbroken drone of the bombers, the thunder of the barrage, the high-pitched whistle of falling bombs, and the crump of the explosions agreed with the description of D.N.B., German News and Propaganda Agency, that it was "one of the most violent air attacks since the September raids."

From all parts of the world's biggest city today came reports of damage to buildings and casualties among citizens.

The attack, which ended a record raidless period, opened spectacularly. Tons of steel was hurtled into the sky by anti-aircraft gunners as the planes swept in from the Thames estuary.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

GEN. DE GAULLE HEARD OVER AIR

Appeals to All Free-Frenchmen to Re-enter War on Side of Britain

London, Dec. 9 (CP)—General Charles De Gaulle, leader of the Free French movement, said in a broadcast last night that "recent events have provided a fine opportunity for the French to re-enter the war and share in the final victory," the British Broadcasting Corporation reported.

"Action by the French armies in North Africa and Syria," Gen. De Gaulle said, "might turn the Italian defeat into a rout, and so gain for France a great triumph in the Mediterranean.

"In spite of the defeat by Germany, France is still alive. True France will repect all idea of co-operation with Germany."

Gen. De Gaulle ended his address, the BBC said, with this message to the armed forces of France:-

"Comrades in arms: Stand up and unite with the Free Frenchmen who are your vanguard. Let us march together on the paths of honor and duty."

U. S. COASTGUARD VESSELS ASSIST SEARCH FOR PLANE

Canadian Fairey Battle Bomber Disappears Over Lake Erie With Crew of Three

TOWING "DROGUE"

Fingal, Ont., Dec. 9 — (CP) — United States coastguard vessels set out from the American side of Lake Erie today to join in a search for a Fairey battle bomber of the Royal Canadian Air Force, which disappeared over the lake with its crew of three.

All available planes from the No. 4 Bombing and Gunnery School here, the bomber's base, and numerous Port Stanley fishing tugs were engaged in the search from the Canadian side.

Planes from the school cruised continuously over the area where the plane last was seen, flying low over the waters but without finding anything to confirm a growing fear that the bomber had plunged into the lake. Visibility over the lake was good.

Flying Officer L. A. Hood, a native of St. Joseph, Missouri, whose next-of-kin reside in Adrian, Mich., piloted the plane when it was last seen entering a cloud about a quarter of a mile offshore Sunday morning. Others in the plane were Ac. E. W. Bourne, of Oshawa, Ont., and Ac. John Henry McNally of Minaki, Ont.

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Many Wealthy Nazis Removed From Ruhr To Riviera, Report

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—A passenger who returned from France today on the United States export liner said many wealthy Germans had been removed from the Ruhr and other industrial sections of Germany to Southern France along the Riviera.

Georges Bally, Associate Professor of French at Vanderbilt University, said the removal apparently followed upon bombing of industrial Germany by the Royal Air Force.

New Subway Tunnel in New York Completed at Cost of $4,377 a Foot

New York, Dec. 9—(AP)—"Tunnel hogs" have completed a new subway under traffic-jammed Sixth Avenue after four years of digging.

The tunnel, to be formally opened next Sunday by Mayor La Guardia, crowns New York City's independent transit system, a $700,000,000 adventure in municipal ownership begun 19 years ago.

The new unit, a 2 1-4-mile sub-surface artery between West Fourth Street and 53rd Street, is one of the most expensive subways ever constructed. City-built, it cost $52,000,000—$4,377 a foot.

Chiefly responsible for the expense was the necessity of boring the tunnel through one of the busiest areas of Manhattan. This was done without interrupting traffic overhead or disturbing a complex network of earlier tunnels, steam pipes, water and gas mains, and heavy power cables.

The subway, which replaces the historic Sixth Ave. "El" torn down two years ago, is expected to carry 40,000,000 passengers a year, thus relieving pressure on present over-burdened mid-town traffic channels.

A feature is a 1,200-foot mezzanine corridor—one of the longest in the world—enabling pedestrians to walk underground from 34th to 42nd Streets.

The subway, ranging from 35 to 70 feet beneath the surface, adds substantially to the city's bomb-proof shelter facilities.

Coming Events

CARD PARTY, ST. GEORGE'S Sunday School, Station Street, Tuesday evening, 8.30. Good prizes. D9

SPECIAL! HOLLOWAY STREET Sunday School will re-enact their Christmas Concert tonight at 8 p.m. "Mother Goose Play" and pageant, "Pilgrims to Bethlehem." D9

COME TO I.O.O.F. DANCE IN Thomasburg Hall on Thursday, December 12. Music by Melody Makers. Proceeds for Red Cross. Lunch. Admission 35c. D9

GRADUATE NURSES' FIRST lecture in war emergency. Nurses' residence, Monday, December 9, 8 p.m. D9

EUCHRE AT THE IMPERIAL Club Rooms tonight, 8:30 p.m. Four prizes for ladies and four for gents. Everybody welcome. o21-eMtf

TUESDAY NIGHT, CARD PARTY, Conservative Club Rooms Usual prizes, monthly aggregate Admission 25c. Thursday afternoon for ladies. s30-emtf

HEAR R. E. WEMP OF THE British Israel World Federation speak in the Y.M.C.A., Monday, December 9 at 8 p.m. Subject: "The Writing on the Wall." D7-2t

Belleville Santa Claus Parade This Wednesday 2 p.m.

THE YEAR AROUND GIFT . . .
A MAGAZINE SUBSCRIPTION
Here's an easy way to simplify your Christmas shopping problems. Just drop in and send them a year's subscription to their favorite Magazine.
113 FRONT ST. THE JAMES TEXTS PHONE 892

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

BUMPS TAKEN OFF BY CITY GRADER

Practically all streets in the city are in fairly good condition today despite the fact that Saturday's rain softened the snow and ice allowing motor wheels to cut deep ruts into the streets. In an effort to alleviate this condition before freezing temperatures set in, the city snowplow and grader worked all Saturday night shoving the soft snow to the curb and today the main thoroughfares of Front and Bridge Streets are practically the routes to bear evidence of the rain over the week end. Traffic on these streets and automobiles parked along the curb hindered the equipment working on these streets before the subsequent freeze, resulting in its present rough condition.

SHOULD ORDER SAND EARLIER THAN NEEDED

The present icy condition of streets and sidewalks caused by Saturday's rain and the subsequent lowering of temperatures has occasioned a rush on the Department of Public works for sand by residents. It is pointed out by department officials, however, that there need be no such rush for sand if residents would only make their application before the icy period sets in and before the sand is actually needed for the streets and sidewalks.

"We were delivering sand to residents until midnight on Saturday", stated City Engineer, Charles Mott, on Monday morning, "and there need be no such rush if people would only order what sand they need ahead of time". Failure of residents to leave containers for sand after ordering also causes the department to waste much time, as Mr. Mott stated that on Saturday many people had ordered sand and then went out without leaving containers in which to put the sand.

BELLEVILLE FIREMEN SUBDUE DUMP BLAZE

A stiff wind blowing directly toward the Shell gasoline storage tanks at the waterfront caused Belleville firemen an anxious few moments on Saturday evening, when the city dump became ablaze with the flames shooting directly toward the big tanks. Prompt work by the department however, subdued the blaze before any damage resulted although many an anxious eye was cast upon the big tanks until the flames were extinguished.

Three other alarms, all for chimney blazes, were answered over the week-end without damage resulting in any of the cases. On Saturday firemen were called to the home of Mr. John G. Power of 308 Albert Street., on Sunday to the home of Mr. John Wellman at 20 Jones Street., and early on Monday morning to 271 William Street, where the chimney blazes in each case were extinguished without difficulty.

It Pays to Buy at The Rexall Store.
Adrienne Gift Creations
MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN EVER BEFORE!
$1.00 to $10.00
McKEOWN'S DRUG STORE
271 Front St. Phone 133

26 YEARS 121 BUSINESS
CAMPBELL AUTO BODY and PAINT SHOP
BODY and FENDER REPAIRS
327 Coleman St. Phone 777

FOUNTAIN PENS and SETS
ENGRAVED FREE
that sell at $2.50 or more.
IT TOPS OFF YOUR GIFT!
DOLAN THE DRUGGIST
PHONE 138

RETURNS FROM ENGLAND

With the famous scarlet patch and gold maple leaf of the First Canadian Division on his shoulders Private J. Reilly, Wellington, passed through the city today en route to his home in Wellington after serving overseas for some time. His face bears the scars of burns caused by the explosion of a bomb during the Canadian evacuation from France. He was invalided home a few weeks ago and is now awaiting discharge from the army. Reilly is one of seven brothers from the lakeside village who are now in the uniform of the Empire.

WHAT A KICK BELLEVILLE IS GETTING OUT OF THIS COMEDY RIOT . . .
OOPS You're next
.... For the greatest kick YOU ever got out of a picture in your whole life!
ROSALIND RUSSELL · BRIAN AHERNE
VIRGINIA BRUCE
Hired Wife
ROBERT BENCHLEY · JOHN CARROLL
Hobart CAVANAUGH Richard LANE
Hollywood's SMARTEST, GAYEST stars throw CAUTION and RESTRAINT to the winds ... in the SCREWIEST, WILDEST comedy masterpiece EVER produced!
Shown at 7.35 - 9.35
— SELECT SHORT SUBJECTS —
CAPITOL
THE IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFT! THEATRE TICKETS In Gift Envelopes Now on Sale!!

New POWDER Shades
Max Factor Hollywood
Lovely, color harmony shades, rich and warm in color tone, created by Max Factor ★ Hollywood to flatter the natural beauty of your skin.
65c, $1.15
Christmas Sets $2.95 to $7.20
GEEN'S
Phone 131

O.S.D. STUDENTS TOUR FRONT STREET STORES

Joy exemplified in their smiling faces, a class of the Ontario School for the Deaf was taken on a tour of the shops today. The children gleefully paraded through the toy sections expressing in many ways their delight at the Christmas exhibits and beauty of decorations. In one department store they were treated to hot dogs by the teacher in charge, climaxing an hour of sheer enjoyment.

UNEMPLOYMENT INCREASES LATELY

Unemployment figures for the city have increased during the past month with approximately 350 being registered at the local employment office. This constitutes a rise of roughly 100 persons, and according to officials is caused by the completion of various construction and other projects in the city and district.

Casual labor is available although there is still a distinct shortage of mechanics and other skilled labor.

COUNTY ROADS ARE NOW PASSABLE

Roads of the county system especially those north of the city are passable but careful driving is necessary, county officials stated today. The majority have been plowed, but the sudden drop in the temperature over the week-end has transformed the main arteries into rough roadways.

Main highways are clear and bare with the exception of towns and villages en route.

WORKMEN CLEAR STREETS OF ICE

Department of Public Works picks and shovels rang out in a clanking Front Street symphony today as workmen and trucks attacked the rock-like icy surface that covered the main thoroughfare to a depth of five inches. The rough corrugated surface constituted a dangerous hazard to motorist and pedestrian alike. Workmen broke up the ice and city trucks hauled it away from Front and Bridge Streets.

BOY HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

An unidentified boy had a narrow escape from injury today when he slipped and fell on the icy rough surface of the Front Street and Bridge Street intersection. As the youngster sprawled his length on the road a heavy truck that whirled around the corner barely missed his prostrate body. Spectators held their breaths as the wheels of the vehicle skimmed past the boy, who a second later arose unhurt and scampered down Bridge Street, apparently none the worse for the mishap.

GARTER SNAKE SEEN NEAR MARMORA

Marmora, (Special) — Though snow banks and snow crested land greet the eye everywhere locally, a relic of summer days was seen by a Marmora resident, Fred Mumby, on Friday. Taking down some of the poles of the disused power line to Cordova, he unearthed a 14-inch garter snake a short distance north of the village.

Mexico City Short Of Electric Power

Mexico City, Dec. 9 (AP)—Mexico City, the federal district and four surrounding states moved their clocks ahead one hour today from Central Standard Time as part of a campaign to save electricity.

Power consumption must be reduced at least 650,000 kilowatt hours, the government was advised by the Mexico City Light and Power Company, which serves the affected area, because sub-normal rainfall meant only limited water for power generators.

Besides the "electricity saving time" ordered by the Ministry of National Economy, electric advertising signs will be turned off at 10 p.m.; factories and mines will have their supply of current reduced from 10 to 20 per cent; and night shifts in government offices will be eliminated.

FEW ACCIDENTS IN THIS DISTRICT

Highways Are Slightly Better But Icy in Some Parts—Motorists Drive Carefully

Ice - covered highways and deep icy ruts on city streets proved sufficient warning to motorists of the Belleville area to proceed with caution over the past week-end. Despite the hazardous driving conditions which prevailed, not a single serious motor accident was reported to police authorities over the week-end.

Motorcycle Patrolman C. E. Siple, who patrols east of Belleville, reported that No. 2 Highway in that direction was in fair condition with ice in some spots. "Sensing the danger of fast driving, motorists proceeded at a very low rate of speed in that direction with the result that only the odd vehicle skidded into the ditches with no serious results," stated Constable Siple today.

Given Warning

Following an accident near the R.C.A.F. base during which an aircraftman was struck while walking on the highway Saturday night, Motorcycle Patrolman J. H. Hatch issued a warning against this practice. "Walking on the highway at this particular time of the year is exceedingly poor practice. Motorists cannot see the form of a person against the dirty snow especially where debris and snow have been piled alongside of the highway by the department snow ploughs," stated Constable Hatch as he warned persons against walking on the highway, especially in the vicinity of the R.C.A.F. base, where there is a sidewalk for that purpose.

Hamilton Resident Dies in His Car

Stricken with a heart seizure said to have resulted from over-exertion Dr. Albert T. Ford, 851 Main Street West, Hamilton, collapsed behind the wheel of his automobile shortly after ten o'clock today and died before he could be removed from the vehicle.

The death occurred near the Moynes Tourist Home, West Bridge Street, where Dr. Ford and his wife had stayed Sunday night.

Leaving the house early today Dr. Ford discovered his car had "froze up" during the night. He called members of the Holway Service Station staff and assisted them in pushing the car from the deep snow near Denton's grocery.

A few minutes later he drove the car to the front of the Moynes house and Mrs. Ford got in. Dr. Ford suddenly slumped in his seat and expired a minute later. It is believed the exertion while pushing the car was the cause of the seizure.

DON'T WAIT
Used Car prices are lower now than they will be next Spring. There is a better selection now. New model announcements are bringing in choice ones, and you need a good car to stand safely and economically for Winter driving. Drop in now, don't wait, get satisfaction and value here.
'39 CHEVROLET SEDAN
'38 CHEVROLET COACH
'36 FORD COACH
'33 OLDSMOBILE SEDAN
'37 CHEVROLET COACH
'36 STUDEBAKER SEDAN
'38 CHEVROLET PICK-UP
'39 PONTIAC SEDAN
'36 PLYMOUTH COUPE
J. B. BOYCE
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE SALES — SERVICE
SUNOCO SERVICE STATION
Front St. Phone 794

Police Blotter

Following altercations at Bean's restaurant, 331 Front Street, over the weekend, charges of assault and battery were preferred against Arthur Culloden, a relative of the proprietor. Charges of common assault were also preferred against Valma Culloden and Edward Culloden and laid by John W. Bean. Arthur Culloden is also charged with causing property damage to the premises to the extent of $10.00.

Not one of the trio could be found when Monday's session of police court was opened before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., the three Culloden's being summoned to appear. Police and relatives are quite concerned about the disappearance and efforts to locate the trio were immediately ordered by Chief Kidd. The trouble is of a family nature and started as the result of altercations, which developed into physical contact in Mr. Bean's store.

Inebriates, apprehended over the weekend, found it less costly to appear on drunk charges in Belleville than heretofore. Two men, who admitted to charges of intoxication in Monday's court, were assessed $13.00 instead of the previous amount of $16.35. Magistrate Butler was in receipt of a letter from the Attorney General's department recently which included instructions that "drunk costs" were not to exceed $3.00 in the ordinary course of events.

An influx of transients sought shelter at the police station Sunday night when an even dozen tired and weary knights of the road were harboured, as against six of the previous night.

Fine Program at Commencement Exercises of Marmora High School

Marmora — (Special) — Despite unfavorable road conditions Marmora town hall was well filled on Friday evening for Marmora High School Commencement exercises. A. W. Fulton, B.A., principal, acted as chairman.

Before the rise of the curtain Mr. Fulton paid tribute to the fine cooperation between the board and staff and again that of the pupils. He also thanked various residents who had lent assistance whereby the program was enhanced. With Miss Mary A Murray, B.A., of the staff at the piano the school rendered "O Canada." Girls of the 1st and 2nd forms then artistically executed a winter dance. Peggy Ethier provoked laughter with her recitation, "The Report Card."

Interesting Number

A pretty drill was then performed by a group of girls for whom Mrs. T. Dickson played piano accompaniment. A group of girls appeared next on the stage to lead in the singing of "There'll Always be an England" and to render two French songs with "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," as a fourth number. Miss Lillian Turner, B.A., of the staff was accompanist. A clever and mirth provoking display of gymnastics was then given by a group of boys trained by R. Hamilton, B.A. A hit was also scored by Cecile Black in her recital of "And So Was I." Eight girls then gave a good portrayal of a Swedish Schottische.

Owing to the absence of J. E Dunlay, chairman of the High School Board, H. W. Sabine, member of the board, assisted by Messrs. Fulton and Hamilton, made the presentation of diplomas to intermediate pupils of 1939 and 1940 and to graduates. Mr. Sabine in a short speech instanced the fact that though Marmora High School was one of the youngest in Old Ontario and was carried on under some handicaps not to be encountered in other towns, the results attained at the school compared favorably with the rest.

Receive Diplomas

Those to whom diplomas were awarded were:

Intermediate 1940:

Clara H. Davidson, C. Milford Gordinier, Roy E. Booth, Roy S. Cheeseman, Isabel M. Hickey, Marguerite M. Hulsman, Leta M. Kelly, Grace J. L. Loveless, Lila E. M. Mumby, William Nayler, Ruth M. Richardson, John A. Shannon, Joseph Warren.

Intermediate 1939:

Miriam Nobes, Annie McInroy, Irene Kilpatrick, Jean Johnston, Mary Hawara, Marjorie Cook, Robert Barlow, Marjorie Wells, Earl Trumble, Doris Stockdale, George Rice, Phyllis Mumby, Mae Smith, Peggy Ethier.

Graduation Diplomas:

Dorothy Airhart, Mary Elliott, Gertrude Gray, Joyce Howard, Dorothy Henry, Isabel McNally, Maurice Moloney, Carmelita Meyers, William Prentice, Donald Prentice, Josephine Paquet, Frances Quinn, Enid Rogers, Ross Rogers, Marjorie Stephens, Murray McInroy, Isabel McGregor, Reginald McCormack.

The next number on the program was "The Passing of Mr. Peal," in which six pupils took part. Those taking part were Margaret Kerr, Josephine Paquet, Dorothy Airhart, Joyce Howard, William Prentice and Reg. McCormack. After the singing of the National Anthem, announcement was made that dancing would follow until the midnight hour. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Davis and Harold Auger furnished the music.

THE Parker Vacumatic with a LIFETIME GUARANTEE.
A Pen to Suit Everyone.
SCHRYVER'S PHARMACY
PHONE 49

Prep and Junior Classes of "Y" Enjoy Gymnastics

The Prep and Junior classes of the local "Y" are now in the midst of their winter club competitions in which points for gym attendance, participation in athletic events, increased ability in swimming classes and for special participation are given. After five weeks' competition, the "Tanks" of the Junior group, headed by R. Moorman, are away in the lead with 148 points as compared to the 126 points scored by the "Artillery" team who are in second position. The "Anti-Aircrafts" with 103 points are running third with the "Machine Guns" in last place with 87 points.

Much closer competition is seen in the Prep group with the "Clippers," captained by Colin Cameron, leading with 152 points, a margin of only two and a half points over the "Defiants" with 149 1-2 points. The Hurricanes and Spitfires are running close at the bottom of the ladder with 96 and 91 points respectively.

Attendance is the main factor in building up points as a team with perfect attendance receives double count. The contest will carry on until May 3rd when crests will be awarded to the members of the winning teams.

Twenty-six young boys passed their beginner's swimming tests during the month of November in which there were 13 periods of instruction. There were 163 tests in the Intermediate levels advancing a total of twenty-six in grades. Sufficient numbers of boys have passed their 5th grade swimming tests to begin a life saving instruction program after Christmas, it was revealed by swimming instructor Mr. Shortt, this morning.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN POUND,
(Thurlow Township)

Saturday afternoon, Dec. 7th, the funeral of Mrs. John Pound took place from her late residence in the 3rd Concession of Thurlow Township to the United Church at Cannifton where an impressive service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. W. J. Davis.

Interment was made in Elmwood Cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. T. Peacock, T. McAvoy, Edward Brenton, Harry Brenton, Charles Mills and Harford Tweedy.

MRS. EDWARD W. McMASTERS,
(Trenton).

Mrs. Edward W. McMasters, aged 59 years, residence 504 Front St., Trenton, died in the Belleville General Hospital early this Monday Morning, Dec. 9th.

MRS. WILLIAM SMITH
(Melrose)

Mrs. Lottie Smith, daughter of the late James Houston, died Sunday morning, Dec. 8th at her home in Melrose, after a prolonged illness. She was a member of the Melrose United Church and highly esteemed.

Surviving are her husband, Mr. William Smith; one son David at home; two daughters, Marion of Belleville; Bertha at home; also a sister, Bertha in Detroit, Mich., and a brother, David G. Houston, of Shannonville from whose home the funeral will be held.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

MRS. E. J. GOODFELLOW,
(Tyendinaga Township).

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Goodfellow, widow of William Goodfellow, Sr., took place on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 8th, from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Alford, 8th Concession of Tyendinaga Township to St. Paul's Anglican Church at Roslin where the burial office was conducted by the rector, the Rev. F. C. Beazer, who said also the committal service at the graveside in St. Paul's cemetery.

The bearers were Messrs. Stanley Carter, Wilbert Cross, Fred Coulter, Wesley Crawford, John Collins and Newton Wilson.

MORE AIRMEN ARRIVE

London, Nov. 9.—(CP Cable)— A further contingent of airmen from Canada— graduates of the Empire Air Training scheme —arrived at a British port today.

Recruited from various parts of the Dominion, they consisted of pilots and craftsmen who are joining Royal Air Force units in various parts of the United Kingdom.

Most of them left good jobs in the Dominion to play an active role in the defence of the British Empire and a majority of them are making their first visit to Britain.

SCOTT'S EMULSION
CONTAINS VITAMINS A and D
The Best Way to take COD LIVER OIL
59¢ AND 98¢
GEORGE PAULEY
DRUGGIST Phone 105

AIR CONDITIONED McCARTHY THE SHOW PLACE OF BELLEVILLE
Tonight — Tuesday — Wednesday
DAILY .... 2.30: 7.10: 9.10 p.m. REGULAR PRICES.

Daily Telegraph says—
"A TELLING INDICTMENT OF GERMAN PERFIDY AND BRUTALITY"
"MEIN KAMPF MY CRIMES"
STARTLING EXPOSÉ OF HITLER—THAT DARED NOT BE SHOWN BEFORE!
BECAUSE OF THIS MAN— MILLIONS MOURN
SEE THINGS YOU NEVER DREAMED POSSIBLE THIS SIDE OF HELL!
Extra
LATEST FOX NEWS EVENTS
"VARSITY VANITIES" — Musical Revue.
"ADVENTURES OF TOM THUMB" — Cartoon Hit

A. R. P. STATION KEY TO ORDER AFTER RAIDS

Steel-Helmeted Men and Women Soon on Job After Bombing and Order Soon Restored

WORKINGS DETAILED

London, Dec. 9 (CP)—The key to order that comes out of apparently overwhelming chaos and hopelessness after a bombing of the capital is found in the Air Raid Precautions Headquarters of London Boroughs.

People are injured and trapped under debris, gas and water mains are broken, fire threatens. For a time it is a hopeless scene but soon steel-helmeted men and women are on the job and before long a degree of order is restored.

Each Borough has its A.R.P. Headquarters and from here directions go out, bringing firemen, police, ambulances and other rescue and repair services to the site of the bombing.

Head of the organization centre is the A.R.P. Controller, one of London's "plain clothes Generals." From his desk he gives orders quickly and quietly. He has no emblem of authority other than his white tin hat.

Wait For Reports

Near at hand are his "staff officers" and their girl telephonists, waiting to receive reports from Wardens scattered throughout the district, and to send out the necessary instructions.

Here are the "inner workings" of the G.H.Q. in one of London's most populous Boroughs:-

As the messages come in to a bomb-proof room in the city hall, details are entered on duplicate forms, showing at a glance everything requiring immediate attention. These forms are rushed to the staff officers, each of whom has a "pin board" showing the exact A.R.P. personnel available at each depot.

Work From Maps

In a moment the officer is able to give a telephone girl orders sending rescue parties, ambulances or other forms of assistance speeding through the night to the scene of the bombing.

Two huge maps of the borough, drawn to a scale of 25 inches to the mile and detailing houses and buildings as well as streets, hung in the controller's office.

As reports of bombings are received, special pins, indicating types of bomb, are placed on one of the maps to show exactly where each bomb fell. Twenty-four hours later the pins are transferred to the other map and, after a week, replaced by small dots. As a result of complete record the location and nature of every bomb is at the disposal of the controller.

Each Incident Recorded

Each incident is recorded on the map and on paper and even on the heaviest night there is no overlapping or confusion. Later the details are recorded on a card index.

Fire, police and other authorities can be notified a few seconds after the wardens' reports are received, one man and a telephonist being detailed for each service. Spotters on the roof, in direct touch with headquarters below often report incidents even before the warden's message comes through.

The telephonists deal sometimes with incidents on their own streets and one girl, glancing at a report as it came through, learned that her own home had been bombed. She calmly put through her message and carried on with her work.

300 Danish Nazis Arrested for Parading

Copenhagen, (Via Berlin), Dec. 9 (AP)—Nearly 300 Danish Nazis were arrested in the North Schleswig town of Headerslev last night when they tried to parade illegally in uniforms.

In rioting that accompanied the arrests, 10 policemen and Nazis were wounded.

Ten officers tried vainly to prevent the Nazi march to the town's largest hall. Some of the party members, armed with clubs, shut themselves in the hall, disregarding demands for their surrender.

Wearing gas masks, the constables and police reinforcements from nearby towns rushed into the hall throwing tear gas bombs, wielding night sticks and finally turning on fire hose to capture the Nazis. They were transported by automobiles to neighboring town jails amid boos from the Headerslev population.

A gift of £1,000 ($4,450) for the purchase of aircraft has been received from the Sultan of Trengganu, Malaya, on behalf of the state.

Two A.R.P. workers were sentenced to twelve months in Manchester for stealing £12 ($53.40) in notes left exposed by enemy action.

Tomorrow & Wednesday
The Greatest Role of a Great Career!
EDWARD G. ROBINSON in A DISPATCH FROM REUTERS
EDNA BEST · EDDIE ALBERT
Albert Basserman · Gene Lockhart · Otto Kruger
Nigel Bruce · Montagu Love · James Stephenson
THE THRILL and LAUGH HIT

Robert Montgomery
HAUNTED HONEYMOON
Constance Cummings
A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE
BELLE NEWS OF THE DAY
BELLE
—HOME OF FINE PICTURES—
Closing T-O-N-I-G-H-T
Fun and Romance
Myrna LOY, Melvyn DOUGLAS in
'3rd. FINGER, LEFT HAND'
Color Cartoon, Comedy, News
7.10 — TWO SHOWS — 9.10
THE IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFT! THEATRE TICKETS In Gift Envelopes Now on Sale!!
SANTA CLAUS will be at the B-E-L-L-E SATURDAY AFTERNOON
BELLE Theatre Joy Month.

Stirling and District

Commencement Exercises At Stirling High School Held

Fine Plays and Choruses Given by the Students Before Large Crowd

PRESENTATION MADE

Stirling, Dec. 9—(Special)—Nearly five hundred citizens of Stirling district, friends and parents of pupils attended the annual commencement exercises held in the Stirling community theatre on Thursday evening, Dec. 5th. Great interest was taken in the review of the past year's work in the school as given by Principal J. L. Good who acted as chairman and Mr. Ewart Bailey, chairman of the Stirling Board of Education who assisted in the presentation of the awards and personally congratulated the successful students. In his presentation of the valedictory address, Morley Clarke, winner of the first Carter Scholarship for the County of Hastings (value $100) and also the Hon. J. R. Cooke Scholarship (value $50) displayed the brilliance of study that had carried him to such heights in academic training. He paid tribute to those of former years who had been so honoured, Ralph Campbell, John Chard, Wendel Thompson and to his fellow student, Garland McKeown, who this year shared scholarship for the county and also the Dickson Scholarship, Toronto University where he is now continuing his study. These former students as well as those now attending, know the true value of the teaching staff, who under Principal J. L. Good, are responsible for the tuition of the long list of successful candidates who have brought honor to Stirling High School.

Stirling village and district are justly proud of the school and the success attained reflects upon the farsightedness of a capable Board of Education. The addition of the new wing to the school was a display of thoroughness on the part of the board who saw the value of additional courses in home economics and shop work as well as the need for an adequate assembly hall and gymnasium.

Awards Given in War Savings Stamps

The long list of awards presented to the pupils on the stage by Mr. Bailey were appropriately given with the twofold purpose of rewarding students for their efforts in study and aid in the war effort by having most awards in the form of War Savings Stamps.

Scholarships donated by the Literary Society for the highest average in their respective grades ($5. each): Grade XII. Norma Detlor; Grade XI. Perla Pidgeon; Grade X. Edna Farrell; Grade IX. (a) Marion Rose; Grade IX. (b), Mary Lanigan.

Shields for proficiency in respective forms, Grade XIII., Alger Sheild, Morley Clarke; Grade XII., Morton Shield, Norma Detlor; Grade XI., Bastedo Shield, Perla Pidgeon; Grade X., Wright Shield, Edna Farrell; Grade IX., Duffin Shield, Mary Lannigan, Marion Rose.

Prizes for the two best students passing the High School entrance examination from Stirling Public School: 1st prize, value $2.50, donated by the Public School staff, won by Betty Lucas, 2nd prize, value $1.50, donated by C. A. Wells, won by Freddie Eggleton.

Proficiency Prizes

Grade XII., Agriculture II., Edison Sine; Grade XI, Agriculture, I., Phillys Vance; Grade XI., Algebra, Clarke Pidgeon; Grade XII., Ancient History, Billy McGee; Grade XI., Canadian History, Dorothy Pidgeon; Grade XI., English, Betty Finkle; Grade XII., French, Marion Symons; Grade XII., Geometry, Edith Cranston; Grade XII., Latin, Lillian Matthews; Grade X., Mathematics, Russell Sills; Grade IX., British History, George Reid; Grade IX., Agriculture I., Douglas Patterson; Grade X., English, Malcolm Richardson; Grade X., French Eileen Tanner; Grade IX., Mathematics, Robt. Bateman; Grade X., Agriculture, Gordon Reid; Grade IX., Shop, Douglas Stocker; Grade IX., Home Economics, Marjorie Bush; Grade IX., English, Donald Barton; Grade X., Shop, Bert Bastedo; Grade X., Latin, Jean Salisbury.

Rugby Team Honored

An interesting item on the program was the introduction of the rugby team, champions of Central Hastings High School League for 1940. The team along with their coach were presented with tokens appearing as follows: Captain Bill McGee, Bert Bastedo, F. Eggleton, Don Francis, Don Hulin, Don McIntosh, Norman Murray, Douglas Patterson, Clarke Pidgeon, Russell Pyear, Edison Sine, Ray Tanner, Jack Thompson, Ralph Vandervort, Rowan Walker, E. R. Mundy, coach.

Winners of intermediate certificates were Albert Bastedo, Jean Campbell, Mabel Chapman, Edna Farrell, Dorothy Gay, Iris Hannah, Madeline McGee, Donald McIntosh, Hugh McMullen, Greta Nicholson, Charles Pedley, Perla Pidgeon, Gordon Reid, Morton Reid, Malcolm Richardson, Jean Salisbury, Russell Sills, Eileen Tanner, Ray Tanner, Margaret Vanderwater, Rowan Walker, James Watson, Donald Watson.

Winners of Diplomas

John Chard, Edith Cranston, Norma Detlor, Edna Hubble, William McGee; Maurieta McKee; Lillian Matthews, Russell Pyear, Edison Sine, Marion Symons, Allison Vanderwater, Russell West.

Betty Lucas was awarded the Hastings County Council Gold Medal for the leading Public School pupil for 1940. Miss Lucas now attends Stirling High School.

Carter Scholarships for the County of Hastings, best ten paper in Upper School including English, Geometry and Algebra, first Carter, value $100, Morley Clarke; third Carter, value $40, Garland McKeown; Dickson Scholarship, University of Toronto, value $750, won by Garland McKeown.

At this point in the program Dr. E. A. Carleton was called on and presented his class, who recently completed examinations in St. John's Ambulance First Aid. The entire group were successful and included Bruce Bell, Leira Detlor, Jean Duffin, Dorothy Eggleton, Madeline Gray, Phyllis Mitchell, Eileen Mitts, E. R. Mundy, Doris Sharpe, Josephine Sine, Rosa Spry, Allison Vanderwater, Lillian Wood.

Musical and Dramatical Numbers

From this point forward the pupil's were responsible for the entertainment of their parents and friends and their efforts, under the capable direction of Miss Gladys Kippen and other teachers of the staff, were heartily appreciated. Under the title "Toast to England," was a splendid reading. "This England," Shakespeare; "Richard II." by Raymond Dafoe; a group of old English airs exceptionally well sung by a full chorus and included "Country Gardens," "Drink to Me Only," and a health unto His Majesty. This fine sketch climaxed with the dramatic and inspiring toast from Noel Coward's Cavalcade and the singing of "There'll Always Be An England."

The Chorus

Sopranos, D. West, M. Vanderwater, G. Nicholson, J. Salisbury, M. Belshaw, M. Tulloch, S. Ormiston, D. Lummiss, S. Robson, A. Robson, J. Sine; altos, B. Conley, M. Hick, M. Rodgers, E. West, M. Bush, M. L. Lanigan, E. Tanner, M. Phillips; basses, R. Tanner, B. Bastedo, R. Walker, D. McIntosh, C. Maybee, B. Bateman, M. Bateman, D. Stocker, Ross Jeffs, G. Reid, K. Baker, L. Sills, D. Patterson, D. Hulin, Ralph Jeffs.

Accompanists, Marie McKee and Katherine Wright.

Two Plays Given

The dramatic ability of students accepting the responsibility of the two plays given during the evening was truly appreciated by the large audience. In the first play, "My Son," they depict the overwhelming desire of English women to have a part in the war. The scene for this clever play was set in the basement apartment of old London tenement in lower East London. Those enacting the parts of Cockney scrub-women entered their characters with marked reality and the part of Private Hugh Lowerie was taken by James Watson and Rev. Willis was enacted by Peter Simmons.

Cast of Characters

Mrs. Nan Lowerie, "charwoman," Marion Symons; Mrs. Martha Cunningham, charwoman, Ada Bateman; Mrs. Phebe Twinkle, Edna Hubble; Mrs. Wiggins, Dorothy West; Rev. Willis, Peter Simmons; Pte. Hugh Lowerie, James Watson.

Mystery and suspense were added to the program with the presentation of a one-act mystery story, "The Jewelled Hand," clever and exciting and well enacted by the following cast: Ann Andrews, Marion Rose; Claire Collins, Allison Vanderwater; Ware Waring, Ray Tanner; Blair Burns, Malcolm Richardson; Molly (the maid), Betty Lucas; Alice Ambrose, Phyllis David; Police Officer, Ralph Vandervoort.

Officers Elected

St. Paul's Women's Association met at the home of Mrs. C. I. Hatton on Tuesday afternoon December 3rd. The meeting opened under the direction of Mrs. F. N. McKee president with the singing of the theme song and prayer in unison. Mrs. Nora Wescott presented the secretary's report and read the communications and reported cards sent out during the months to shutins etc., numbering ten. The attendance recording system revealed a splendid representation of the ladies of the church. Also during the business part of the meeting a fine report was presented by the visiting committee and it was decided that the entire membership of the association be active as visiting committee for this month. Mrs. C. Macklin and Mrs. J. L. Good were appointed auditors and the previously adopted plan of sending greeting cards to the sick at Christmas will continue. At this point in the program Mrs. F. N. McKee retiring president expressed sincere gratitude for the co-operation and help given her during the year by the executive committee and all members.

Fine Program

Mrs. E. G. Bailey convener of the program committee presided over the entertainment part of the program and devotional period planned to follow the seasonal Christmas theme. Luke Chapter 3 was read as the scripture lesson "the story of Christmas" and was interspersed with the singing of Christmas Carols. Mrs. Bailey led in prayer.

The program continuing with the presentation of a fine group of readings given in the following order: "Get the best out of your Pastor", given by Mrs. J. L. Good; "The Custom of sending Christmas Greeting Cards," by Mrs. G. L. Clute; "The Yule verse writer," by Mrs. Geo. White. These fine numbers were particularly appropriate and very much appreciated.

Election of Officers

The election of officers for the coming year was conducted by Rev. A. M. Laverty with the following ladies appointed to direct activities for 1941: Past President, Mrs. F. N. McKee; President, Mrs. R. B. Duffin; 1st Vice President, Mrs. L. Fair; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Gordon Bailey, 3rd Vice President, Mrs. Roy Finkle; Treasurer, Mrs. M. Hick; Secretary, Mrs. Nora Wescott; Pianist, Mrs. Don Williams—Assistant, Mrs. J. J. Wilson; Parsonage Committee, Mrs. C. F. Linn, Mrs. Macklin and Mrs. Pitman.

The meeting climaxed with the singing of another hymn and prayer by the minister. A dainty luncheon was served by the ladies of the committee and a social period thoroughly enjoyed. Expressions of gratitude were extended to Mrs. Hatton for her hospitality and to the following committee workers—Mrs. E. G. Bailey, Mrs. F. Elgie, Mrs. J. L. Good, Mrs. W. H. Patterson, Mrs. Geo. White, Mrs. G. L. Clute, Mrs Earl Luery.

Trenton and District

TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENTS

Aircraftman - of Trenton Airport Knocked Down While Walking Near Highway

Trenton, Dec. 9 (Special)—Two persons were injured in accidents near Trenton over the week-end and both were admitted to hospitals. They are Aircraftman Allison Collier, R.C.A.F., Trenton and Everett St. Helarie, of the Second Concession of Sidney Township.

Aircraftman Collier suffered a possible fracture of the skull, concussion and leg injuries. He was taken to the Airport Hospital where his condition is reported as favourable.

He was injured when he was struck by a westbound automobile driven by Keith Young of Carrying Place. According to Traffic Officer J. Hatch, who investigated the accident, Young was proceeding west of Highway 2. About half a mile west of the Airport entrance, Aircraftman Collier and Aircraftman Frank Wiley were walking on the highway. The driver of the car claimed that he failed to see the two pedestrians due to the lights of an approaching transport and his car collided with Collier, knocking him into the ditch. Aircraftman Wiley was not injured.

Car Collides with Tree

Everett St. Helarie was injured when his automobile collided with a tree near the Village of Glen Miller, on Highway 33, early yesterday morning. The injured man was unconscious for nearly four hours. He suffered concussion, severe shock and lacerations of the face.

The accident occurred as St. Helarie was driving north from Trenton towards Frankford. He had picked up four passengers near Trenton according to Traffic Officer Hatch. Near Glen Miller one of the passengers offered him a cigarette, which he accepted. While he was lighting the cigarette the car went out of control, colliding with the tree. The car was badly damaged. Charges are pending.

Crews of workmen are working with trucks in an effort to clear the ice from the main streets in the Town of Trenton. The lumpy condition of the ice left by the recent snows and rain has caused a number of minor accidents.

The Trent River and the Bay of Quinte have frozen over and the ice is being tried out by a number of the more venturesome skaters.

Arena officials hope to have a good sheet of ice in the near future so that hockey will be able to have an early start.

Mrs. Lily Mae McMaster of 504 Front Street, died this morning in the Belleville General Hospital following a short illness.

Born in Wooler she has been a lifelong resident of this district, having lived in Trenton for the past 25 years. She was in her 60th year. She leaves to mourn her passing her husband, Edward McMaster. The funeral will take place on Wednesday from the North Trenton Church.

Picton and District

TOWNSHIP ROADS STILL BLOCKED

Fishermen Bring Product to Market and Receive Goods in Exchange

Picton — Though most of the roads in Prince Edward County are open for traffic there are some which are still blocked, especially those which are looked after by the townships. Many sideroads will be filled for some days yet.

Interest has been centred on the plight of fishermen at Point Traverse twenty miles from Picton. There are quite a number of them at the colony there and they have been unable to reach the outside for a week. This resulted in a shortage of food but not a serious one. When the men had a large supply of fish on hand they decided that if the roads would not permit them to reach Picton by road they would come as far as possible by boat. After loading the fish a gang of men accompanied it in the boat to South Bay. They were met there by Cecil Bongard of South Bay who took their cargo and in turn supplied them with necessities. The trip was made despite high seas and rain.

Fishermen at Indian Point faced similar conditions during the past week. Their supply of food was running low and they also had tons of fish ready for market. Saturday morning they set out in two big fishing boats for Picton. Arriving at Glenora they stopped there due to ice in the bay and were met by a truck, which brought them to town. They purchased a huge quantity of food for themselves and friends.

Among those who came from Indian Point by boat was George Storms, who is mail courier from Picton to Cressy on the Bayside. He had not been able to reach town all last week. Housewives are doing their own baking, he said and though they were doing without some things there were no serious difficulties of any kind. The road had been opened Friday but drifted full again that night and the thaw and rain Saturday made it impassable.

The road to Cressy on the lakeside is also blocked and the mail courier Orville Storms has not been able to reach town since Tuesday.

Several other rural routes out of Picton could not be covered by couriers yesterday and some who did get into town received their mail at the post office here.

The highway from Trenton to Picton is again passable and the mail is being received regularly though later than usual. The Picton to Belleville highway is open and much used.

Deep ruts and slush made driving on Saturday difficult and a freeze up will make them worse. An early storm of such severe proportion cannot be recalled by old time residents.

Farewell Service Preached

Farewell services were preached at the Baptist Church here on Sunday by Rev. G. H. Tranter who leaves this week for a new pastorate in Toronto.

The new mess hall at the Bombing and Gunnery School has been opened here and modernly equipped. It will seat 320 men at one sitting. All fixtures are of stainless metal.

Collectors are making their rounds collecting the contents of the Red Cross boxes which were placed in all homes in town. Those collected show that there has been a generous response. They will be collected from time to time.

Myrna Loy and Melvyn Douglas battle their way through some of the oddest and funniest marital complications ever seen on the screen in "Third Finger, Left Hand," which heads the program now at the Belle Theatre.

BANCROFT MAN HIT ON HEAD BY PIECE OF ICE

Alex Jenkins, 65, Sustains Fractured Skull and Dies in Bancroft Hospital

ICE FALLS FROM ROOF

Bancroft, Dec. 9. — (Special)—Struck on the head by a section of ice that fell from the roof of a building, 65-year-old Alex Jenkins, of this village, was knocked unconscious on Saturday afternoon and died a few hours later in the Red Cross hospital here. He had sustained a fractured skull as the result of being struck on the head. Dr. O. W. Anderson, village coroner stated as he added no inquest would be necessary.

Mr. Jenkins was assisting Robert Kelly to unload some wood which the latter was delivering. Kelly was busied in an alleyway between Kelusky's store and the home of Miss Haafe. Jenkins had approached Kelly regarding the delivery of some wood to his own home and was assisting Kelly unload the wood into Miss Haafe's cellar, when suddenly a large section of ice fell from off the roof striking Mr. Jenkins with full force.

The injured man was removed to the Red Cross hospital by Clifford Broad and George McGowan, where Drs. Anderson and S. S. Lumb attended. Mr. Jenkins never rallied and died about 9.45 p.m.

Film Depicts Tale Of Nazi Terrorism

Scenes of mad, unbelievable terror that depict the atrocious crime of Nazidom, bring the public face to face with the grim horror of gangster government in the film "Mein Kampf—My Crimes," now playing at the McCarthy Theatre.

The world is well acquainted with Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf," that avowed to the world his purposes, but in the film "Mein Kampf—My Crimes" the public is faced with the realization of the horrors and atrocities in which the Nazi movement glorified itself in an effort to dominate the world.

Followers of "The Brute of Berlin" are shown in actual films, which were smuggled out of Germany at the risk of lives, to show the world the hate, cruelty, oppression and domination that was practised by the Nazis and ultimately threw the world into the greatest turmoil of its history.

The murders of Dollfus, Chancellor of Austria, and of Roehm are only two small examples of the sober facts which terrorized not only Germany and central Europe and today can be seen for the first time in this gripping unforgettable film. The story is based upon the truthful facts of atrocities in startling realism when the unbelievable persecutions of those who dared stand in the way of the Nazi regime were slaughtered by the hundreds with no regard for life or property. The teachings of the Nazi youth movement in the persecution of the Jews and the obliteration of the Church are all graphically told in this film. The stark revelations in this film leave little for the imagination as no effort to cloak or mask the rape of such countries as Poland, Austria and others to fall victims of the Nazi heel are attempted.

Solve Your Gift Problems By Making Selections from the Christmas Shopping Guide in Thursday's Ontario Intelligencer

Dear Santa—
Everybody in our family hopes you'll bring Electrical Gifts
this Christmas
FOR MOTHER ✓
FOR SIS ✓
FOR DAD ✓
FOR JUNIOR ✓
THE Hydro -ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO
HN-11X

Especially this Christmas, everybody will be happy to receive Electrical Gifts. They are always smart—always appreciated—and at low Hydro cost for current, Electrical Gifts not only give pleasure... but give better living, at lower living costs... 365 days every year, year after year!

A beautiful Electric Range ... or a modern Electric Refrigerator. A work-saving Electric Washer or Cleaner. A handy Electric Roaster. An Electric Ironer ... Food Mixer ... Grille ... Coffee Maker. Or a handy Portable Heater for her comfort.

A smart Electric Clock for her dressing table. An Electric "Hospitality Set" for late snacks when her friends drop in. An Electric Curling Iron. Or an Electric Sunlamp to help her keep that "Florida" tan all winter.

An up-to-date Electric Shaver. A convenient plug-in Electric Heater for the car, to assure quick, easy starting every morning. A small Radio for the den. A modern Electric Tool for the basement workshop, if he's a hobbyist.

That Electric Train he's always wanted. Or a real Electric Motor he can "hook up" to those models he builds. An Electrical Set for his home workshop ... or an Electric Tool that will help him turn out woodwork with cabinet-maker's artistry.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

It may be the cause of YOUR troubles Buck it up the RIGHT way. Feel grand

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "rotten"—headachy, backachy, dizzy, dragged out all the time.

